

List of language abbreviations in the IED

Abbreviation Language name

Aeq.	Aequian
Akk.	Akkadian
Alan.	Alanian (=Old Ossetic)
Alb.	Albanian
Anat.	Anatolian
Ang.	Anglian
AngN	Anglo-Norman
Aram.-Iran	Aramaeo-Iranian
Ash.	Ashkun
Ass.	Assyrian
Auk.	Aukshtaitian
Bactr.	Bactrian
Bel.	Belorussian
Br.	British
Bret.	Breton
BVan.	Bas-Vannetais
CCl.	Continental Celtic
Chak.	Chakavian
Chor.	Chorasmian
Clb.	Celtiberian
Class. Skt.	Classical Sanskrit
Co.	Cornish
Corn.	Cornouillais
Dac.	Dacian
Dan.	Danish
Dard.	Dardic
Dzuk.	Dzukian
EBI.	East Baltic
EGm.	East Germanic
EGmRun.	East-Germanic Runic
El.	Elymian
Elam.	Elamite
Elam.-Iran.	Elamo-Iranian

EMoBret.	Early Modern Breton
EMolr.	Early Modern Irish
EMoW	Early Modern Welsh
ESl.	East Slavic
Faer.	Faeroese
FriRun.	Frisian Runic
Gal.	Galindian
Gallo-Gk.	Gallo-Gk. (in Gk. authors)
Gallo-Lat.	Gallo-Latin (in Lat. authors)
Gaul.	Gaulish
GaulG	Gaulish in Greek letters
GaulL	Gaulish in Lat. letters
Go.	Gothic
Gr.	Greek
Hebr.	Hebrew
Hell.	Hellenistic
Hi.	Hindi
HVan.	Haut-Vannetais
IE	Indo-European
Ilr.	Indo-Iranian
InsCl.	Insular Celtic
Iran.	Iranian
It.-Cl.	Italo-Celtic
Kajk.	Kajkavian
Ken.	Kentish
Khot.	Khotanese (=Saka)
Lak.	Lakonian
Lang.	Langobardian
Latg.	Latgalian
LAv.	Late Avestan
LCo.	Late Cornish
Lep.	Lepontic
Liv.	Livonian
LPBr.	Late Proto-British
Lus.	Lusitanian
Mac.	Macedonian
MArm.	Middle Armenian

Mars.	Marsian
Maz.	Mazanderani
Mcd.	Macedonian
MCo.	Middle Cornish
Med.	Median
Merc.	Mercian
MFr.	Middle French
MIA	Middle Indo-Aryan
MIA	Middle Indo-Aryan
MIc.	Middle Icelandic
Mit.	Mitanni
MnLE	Restsprachen east
MnLW	Restsprachen west
MoArm.	Modern Armenian
MoBret.	Modern Bret.
MoCo.	Modern Cornish
MoE	Modern English
MoIA	Modern Indo-Aryan
Molc.	Modern Icelandic
Molr.	Modern Irish
MoP	Modern Persian
MoW	Modern Welsh
MP	Middle Persian
Mun.	Munji
MW	Middle Welsh
Myc.	Mycenaean
NEIran.	Northeast Iranian
NGm.	North Germanic
NIA	New Indo-Aryan
non-IE	Non-IE languages
Nth.	Northumbrian
Nur.	Nuristani
NWGk.	Northwestern Greek
NWIran.	Northwest Iranian
OBr.	Old British (i.e. names in Latin sources and inscriptions of the Dark Ages)
OBret.	Old Breton
OCo.	Old Cornish (Voc. Corn.)

OCS	Old Church Slavonic
ODan.	Old Danish
OERun.	Old English Runic
OFri.	Old Frisian
OFriRun.	Old Frisian Runic
Og.	Ogam Irish
OGt.	Old Gutnish
OIA	Old Indo-Aryan
OIran.	Old Iranian (names in var. sources)
ONRun.	Old Norse Runic
OP	Old Persian
OPhr.	Old Phrygian
Orm.	Ormuri
ORu.	Old Russian
ORun.	Old Runic
Oss.	Ossetic
OssD	Digor
Ossl	Iron
OSWBr.	Old South-West British
OW	Old Welsh
P	Proto- (can be prefixed to any language)
Pa.	Pali
Paeon.	Paeonic
Pal.	Palaic
Pam.	Pamir
Par.	Parachi
Parth.	Parthian
Pash.	Pashto (=Afghan)
PFU	Proto-Fenno-Ugric
Pis.	Pisidic
Pkt.	Prakrit
Plb.	Polabian
Pol.	Polish
PrIr.	Primitive Irish
PRom.	Proto-Romance
PSab.	(Proto-)Sabellian ( = Osco-Umbrian)
PSamn.	Presamnitic

PU	Proto-Uralic
qlE	quasi-Indo-European
Rosh.	Roshani
Ru.	Russian
RuCS	Russian Church Slavonic
Sar.	Sarikoli
Sarmat.	Sarmatian
Sbn.	Sabinian
SCr.	Serbo-Croatian
SCS	Serbian Church Slavonic
Scyth.	Scythian
SEIran.	Southeast Iranian
Sel.	Selian
Sh.	Shughni
Shtok.	Shtokavian
Sic.	Sicilian
Sid.	Sidetic
Skt.	Sanskrit
Slc.	Slovincian
Slk.	Slovak
Sln.	Slovene
Sogd.	Sogdian
Sp.	Spanish
SPic.	South Picenian
SSI.	South Slavic
Sum.	Sumerian (non-IE)
SwG	Swiss German (Schweizerdeutsch)
SWIran.	Southwest Iranian
Taj.	Tajik
Thrac.	Thracian
Treg.	Tregorrois
Ukr.	Ukrainian
Van.	Vannetais
Vand.	Vandal
Ved.	Vedic
W	Welsh
Wa.	Wakhi

WBl.	West Baltic
WS	West-Saxon
WSl.	West Slavic
Yagh.	Yaghnobi
Yaz.	Yazgulami
Yi.	Yidgha
Zhem.	Zhemaitian

The database represents the updated text of J. Pokorny's "Indogermanisches Etymologisches Wörterbuch", scanned and recognized by George Starostin (Moscow), who has also added the meanings. The database was further refurnished and corrected by A. Lubotsky. Pokorny's text is given practically unchanged (only a few obvious typos were corrected), except for some rearrangement of the material. The numbers in the lemmata are given after the root (e.g. Pokorny's 1. b<sup>h</sup>er- appears as b<sup>h</sup>er-1) because automatic alphabetization would otherwise too much affect the order of the lemmata.

Laryngeals

Laryngeals are sounds that occurred in the Proto-Indo-European language, caused changes to neighbouring sounds, and disappeared. They were postulated to explain anomalies in the verb system, and they proved useful for explaining other phenomena. It was many decades before confirmation of their existence was found, in the newly deciphered Hittite language. Linguists are still not agreed on how many there were or how they were pronounced.

'Laryngeal' is also an ordinary phonetic term meaning made in the larynx; but it is preferable to call this glottal or laryngal, to avoid confusion with the still unknown values of the Indo-European consonants.

The problem

The verbs were central to the reconstruction of the ancestor of Indo-European languages, which was going well in the 1870s, and explanations had been found for the vowels i and u, and unaccented o. This postulated an earlier stage in which the only vowel was e. Most verbs had a stem of the form consonant - e - consonant-, the base vowel -e- surrounded by consonants. Other vowels were derived from them.

The anomalous verb stems were those that had no consonant preceding, such as *ed-, 'eat', or a long vowel and no following consonant, such as *d<sup>h</sup>ee- 'put', and those that had the vowels a and o. Those with other vowels also lacked consonants, and had the same pattern as the e-stems: *ag- 'drive', *okw- 'look', *staa- 'stand', and *doo- 'give'.

If a and o had been normal vowels, why were there no normal-shaped stems CaC- and CoC-? Why were these two vowels also associated with lack of consonant? If long vowels were normal, why were there no stems of the shape ee consonant - or consonant ee consonant -?

The proposed solution

Ferdinand de Saussure proposed the existence of elements he called coefficients sonantiques in 1879, an abstract term not committing himself to any definite phonetic form. These stood in the place normally occupied by consonants, and caused one or both of two changes: shifting the neighbouring vowel; and lengthening it if they followed. Then they disappeared, leaving their mark on the altered vowels.

Later the same year Hermann Möller, seeking to make a connexion between the Indo-European and Semitic families, introduced the name laryngeal, suggesting that the hypothetical coefficients were pronounced like the Semitic laryngeals. The term strictly means pronounced within the larynx, and is synonymous with glottal: Semitic languages contain h and the glottal stop. But in Indo-European the "laryngeals" might have been those, or might have been other guttural sounds such as pharyngeals or velars. We still have no clear evidence.

At least three laryngeals are usually postulated. A more abstract notation is to use schwa with a subscript number. An alternative, much more common these days, is to use some kind of H with subscript. h<sub>1</sub> is e-coloured, h<sub>2</sub> is a-coloured, and h<sub>3</sub> is o-coloured. So the six roots given above come from earlier forms with laryngeals:

*ed- from h<sub>1</sub>ed-

*d<sup>h</sup>ee- from d<sup>h</sup>e d<sup>h</sup>e h<sub>1</sub>-

*ag- from h<sub>2</sub>æg-

*staa- from ste h<sub>2</sub>-

*okw- from h<sub>3</sub>ekw-

*doo- from de h<sub>3</sub>-

Sometimes evidence shows a laryngeal, but the vowel colouring has been lost so we can't tell which one it was: this is annotated without subscript, as H.

Proof in Hittite

The regularity of the ablaut grades, described above, was the initial motivation for postulating laryngeals, but many other niggling exceptions in other parts of the grammar and vocabulary became simpler to explain if laryngeals were invoked. Each phenomenon could however have a different explanation. There was no direct evidence for fifty years. But in 1927 Jerzy Kuryłowicz announced that Hittite contained consonants in just those positions where laryngeals were predicted. This had been overlooked when Hittite was first deciphered in 1915.

Hittite was written in a cuneiform script, borrowed from the Semitic language Akkadian. By comparison with surviving Semitic languages, it is clear that Akkadian and therefore Hittite had some kind of guttural sounds, close enough to those predicted for the Indo-European laryngeals. The exact value of the Hittite sounds is unclear. There was only one letter, now transcribed h or h, but it was sometimes written doubled, as in pahhur, corresponding to Greek pyr and English fire. In some Hittite consonants, the use of doubling indicated a voicing contrast, such as p versus b, but it is not known whether this is true of h. That is, though the laryngeals were found, we're not sure how many of them Hittite preserved as distinct sounds, or what exactly they were.

It also appears to imply a fourth laryngeal, because in some cases where an a-coloured laryngeal is postulated, there is no h in Hittite, though the vowel did become a. Other instances of h<sub>2</sub>e do however show up as ha.

Sanskrit evidence

In Sanskrit the Proto-Indo-European (PIE) vowels e and o both became a, wiping out the basic evidence for vowel-colouring; but laryngeals are convincing as explanation of at least three disparate phenomena restricted to the Sanskrit branch. They are the difference between set and anít stems; the exceptions to Brugmann's Law; and the existence of voiceless aspirated stops.

Set and anít are ancient Indian grammatical terms, from sa-i 'with i' and an-i 'without i', referring to the infinitive. Some are like b<sup>h</sup>avitum 'to become', from the root b<sup>h</sup>u, and others are like kartum 'to do', from kr. Those with i come from roots extended by a laryngeal: b<sup>h</sup>eweH-. When the unaccented vowel was reduced to zero grade between consonants, giving **b<sup>h</sup>éwHtum*, the laryngeal found itself between consonants, so turned into a vowel, in order to remain pronounceable. In most IE languages this so-called schwa indogermanicum became a, but it is characteristic of Sanskrit that it became i.

The presumed laryngeal also triggered vowel lengthening. With the past participle suffix -tós the accent is removed from the stem, and both stem vowels are reduced to zero, giving *b<sup>h</sup>whHtós. In this position the w then turns into a vowel, *b<sup>h</sup>uHtós, and then lengthening and loss of the laryngeal (as in the original ablaut pattern laryngeals were invented for) give the actual Sanskrit b<sup>h</sup>uutás.

In later (Classical) Sanskrit the range of set roots was extended by analogy, so not all set roots mark laryngeals. All languages undergo extensive ploughing-over and early patterns are often obscured.

Normally PIE o became Sanskrit a. Brugmann's Law says that when this happened in an open syllable before a resonant (a liquid or nasal), it was also lengthened. So **kekore* 'she/he made' regularly becomes cakaara. Comparison with Greek shows that the first person 'I made' should have been **kekora*, which should have also become cakaara, but the actual form is cakara. Something prevented Brugmann's Law operating. It might have been an analogy with some other 'I' form, in order to keep the two persons distinct; but the unusual thing about the perfect tense ending -a'I is that, while the vowel a is common in PIE stems, it's very rare in inflections. This suggests it only occurred where created by a laryngeal. Then the PIE form **kekorh<sub>2</sub>e* would contain a closed syllable -kor-, not open -ko-, so Brugmann doesn't apply.

The third major strand from Sanskrit evidence is the voiceless aspirates ph th ch kh. They were long regarded as part of the original PIE consonant set, but actually evidence for them outside the Indo-Iranian branch including Sanskrit is slim. Kurylowicz proposed that they developed from a plain stop p t c k that had come to be next to a laryngeal when the intervening vowel dropped out. So the Sanskrit root stha- 'stand' came from steH<sub>2</sub>- and the new consonant th was then generalized to all forms of the word.

Greek and Armenian evidence

Armenian is a solitary branch of the Indo-European family, markedly different from all others, but in several respects it and Greek share unusual features. Some words, particularly in front of n l r, have an extra (prothetic) vowel compared to other branches.

Greek ónoma, Armenian anun, cf. English name, Latin nomen, Sanskrit naaman.

Greek odoús, Armenian atamn, cf. English tooth, Latin dens, Sanskrit dantah.

Greek astêr, Armenian astł, English star, Latin stella.

Greek eleútheros, Latin liber 'free'.

From the vowel preserved in Greek we can see which laryngeal was originally there:

H1leud<sup>h</sup>- 'free', H2ster- 'star', H3nom- 'name'.

Greek and Sanskrit share the augment, an initial vowel e- (becoming a- in Sanskrit) on some past tenses. Armenian also has this, though only on the third personal singular of monosyllables. They also have reduplication in the perfect tense. The pluperfect is formed with both augment then reduplication. Where there was a laryngeal, this sometimes causes lengthening. So H1leud<sup>h</sup>- 'free' gives eleeluutha 'I loosened', from e-H1le-H1leud<sup>h</sup>-H2e. In a few cases the vowel-colouring effect of the laryngeal is also preserved.

The lengthening effect seems to explain the two Greek words ikhthuus 'fish' and muus 'mouse'. We can suspect that there was a laryngeal here, because the Armenian words are jukn and mukn. This also shows that it's not strictly true that the laryngeals disappeared from all modern languages.

There are more direct survivals in Armenian:

Latin anus = Hittite hannas = Armenian han

Latin avus = Hittite huhhas = Armenian haw

Latin ventus = Hittite huwantsa = Armenian hogi

Other branches

Albanian is another unique and distant branch of Indo-European, and also preserves some actual descendants of the laryngeals, in words like hidhur 'bitter', hidhë 'nettle', hut 'empty', and herdhe 'testicle'.

Some Latin perfect tenses are formed by reduplication, but others are formed by lengthening the vowel: these may be in places where laryngeals are predicted. So edō 'I eat', ēdī 'I ate', from originally reduplicated hε-hid-.

Etruscan is not an Indo-European language, but might be distantly related to the family as a whole. The word for 'before' is hant, whereas Latin has ante.

The attempt to link Indo-European to other families, called the Nostratic theory, has a problem with laryngeals. Although Nostratic would connect Indo-European to Semitic, the connexion is not very close even within Nostratic. All the other groups that would belong somewhere in the superfamily - such as Kartvelian, Uralic, Altaic, and Dravidian - show little or no evidence of ever having had laryngeals.

Pronunciation

The Nostraticist Allen Bomhard writes that we can now state with complete confidence the values of the laryngeals. This of course means we can't do anything of the kind. They could be almost anything.

One good idea is that  $h_1$ ,  $h_2$ , and  $h_3$  were respectively palatal, velar, and rounded velar fricatives, that is [ç], [x], and [xw]. This fits the pattern of stops [kj k kw] that we already know about, and also makes them quite easy for us to pronounce. None of those awkward pharyngeals.

But  $h_1$  was more easily lost, so perhaps it was something weaker, like a glottal stop.  $h_4$  if it existed could have been [h].  $h_2$  and  $h_3$  might have been pharyngeal.  $h_3$  might have been voiced (because of the Hittite writing); as it caused o-colouring it was very likely rounded (labialized).

L.R. Palmer, 1980, The Greek Language, Faber & Faber

Winfred Lehmann, 1993, Theoretical Bases of Indo-European Linguistics, Routledge

Gender category in Indo-European.

§ 1. Origin of gender in Proto-Indo-European.

It is proved that it would be wrong to mix the categories of gender and sex in Proto-Indo-European noun system. Modern Indo-European languages which have gender at all, usually make these two categories the same: what is female in sex, is female in gender. What has no sex, is neuter - for those languages which use neuter, like Slavic and German.

Proto-Indo-European shows a completely different system of gender. And though linguistic schools argue about the more likely structure of noun genders in the Proto-language, some facts can be stated for sure.

First, Proto-Indo-European had no gender. At that time the language consisted not of morphological items, like nouns, verbs and adjectives, but just of words which acted independently in the sentence. The main grammar means of the language was not the declension and conjugation, but the combination of words, and the word order. Nouns lacked any endings, case suffixes, formants of gender of number.

Later, when the language acquired the ergative structure, where all words should be clearly distinguished between active and inactive (or animate and inanimate) classes. Here, on this stage, nouns first get the declension. Most scientists believe there were two or three noun cases at that time in Proto-Indo-European: ergative case, which denoted the subject and indirect objects, absolutive case, which meant subject and direct objects, and maybe genitive, which could exist in the stage of forming. We must stress that only active, animate nouns could be declined, and nouns denoting things did not have cases at all.

There was still no gender, but it was already shaping. The ergative structure was slowly transforming into another type of the language. When a special case was invented for the direct object (accusative), the language could be already named nominative. Words were already divided into nominal and verbal parts of speech - nominal including modern nouns, adjectives, pronouns, numerals, and verbal uniting verbs and perfect verbs - two quite different sorts of words at that time. While the ergative structure was declining, the nominal part of speech was divided into two ones: nouns, which marked the subject and object, and the adjective marking the attribute of a noun.

This division was logical: people were going to separate attributive and subjective words, those which determine and those which state. Adjectives, nevertheless, could not completely avoid the influence of nouns, and since then they had to follow the noun in case and number.

This was the time for the gender to appear. And here the opinions of leading world linguists do not agree. Some of them try to prove, rather successfully, that there was two genders in Early Proto-Indo-European, and then one of them divided into two. Other argue there were three genders originally. Let us see the arguments of each of the sides, just in order to seem objective.

The first version means the following. Two genders which appeared in the Proto-Indo-European language were invented to separate active and inactive nouns from each other, to divide nouns meaning animate objects (people, sacred animals, deities) from simple inanimate things (trees, ground, weapons). The active gender, or active class of nouns, acquired the ending -s / -os in nominative singular and could be declined according to case and number. The plural number denoted several animate nouns, their real plurality. The inactive class, vice versa, could not be declined, its characteristic ending was -m / -om, and even though it had plural number, it did not mean plurality, but just collectiveness. Later processes of the language development generated a-stems of nouns, stems in long i and u. These three kinds of noun stems sooner or later started to denote feminine nouns - now they were equal to the sex. That is how the active class was divided into masculine and feminine.

There are several solid proofs of such a point of view. In most Indo-European languages many noun stems include both masculine and feminine nouns: like short i-stems (Latin hostis masc, ossis fem). Such nouns, though different in gender, have absolutely the same declension and only adjectives, attributes next to them, can distinct their gender. Even a-stems (Latin femina, Lithuanian motina, Greek gunh), made specially for feminine, include many masculine nouns (Latin nauta, poeta). Such a situation of mixture cannot exist with neuter nouns which do not mix in declension with masculine or feminine. While masculine and feminine nouns in most of stems (except a) still use -s ending in all classical Indo-European tongues, neuter nouns have -m. This very -m is always repeated in accusative singular together with nominative singular: this never happens to other genders.

Greek and Latin, being typical Indo-European languages, show one more interesting feature, called "two ending adjectives". Ordinary adjectives use all three genders: Latin bonus, bona, bonum; but this happens only to adjectives of o- and a-stems which cooperate, and with all other stems adjectives use only two forms: the same for masculine and feminine, and another for neuter. Such adjectives as Latin fortis, fortis, forte, are called two ending adjectives and also show the main thesis of all who state 2 original genders of Proto-Indo-European: differences between masculine and feminine in Indo-European are not as big, as those between masculine-feminine and neuter.

The other argument in favour of this theory is the situation in Anatolian languages. It was proved that the Anatolian branch, later consisting of Hittite, Luwian and Palaic languages, was the first to move away from the Proto-Indo-European community, and did it even before the Proto-language acquired some of its significant morphological and phonetic traits. So Anatolian preserved some interesting archaic moments which we cannot find in other Indo-European languages. Anatolian languages show no feminine or masculine languages, and even no a-stems, and genders are two - exactly for animate and inanimate nouns. The animate gender used -s' ending (as's'us - good), and the other one either had -n (derived from Indo-European -m), or no ending at all, subsequently did not decline (as's'u - good (neut.)). This makes us believe that such a system is the Early Indo-European one: Anatolian languages were the only group to preserve the 2-gender structure.

The third proof concerns the plural number. Masculine and feminine nouns and adjective in Indo-European use the ending -es in nominative plural, and -ns in accusative plural. All other cases also have their inflections. As for neuter words, their ending -a is used both in nominative and in accusative. Plural neuter nouns denoted collective unity in Proto-Indo-European, like modern Russian nebesa "skies" which does not mean "several skies" but "sky in a collective meaning". Such nouns in the Proto-language included many words which later will be included into the feminine a-stems - their endings in nominative were the same. For example, Latin aqua (water) is originally a collective neuter noun in plural: "waters". In Greek, ancient Indo-Iranian languages and in Hittite the subject in neuter plural form always use their predicate in singular. This is maybe the most important evidence of the special position of neuter in Proto-Indo-European: it was inactive.

Besides a-stems, Indo-European formed the feminine gender, different from masculine, with one more type of noun stems: long i-stems. Obviously, the suffix -i meant the possession on archaic stages of the language (Sanskrit rathah "a chariot", rathih "something belonging to a chariot"). Later this meaning could go in two ways: it might begin to mean the possessive genitive case (remember -i in Latin, Venetic and Celtic) and to form the feminine gender, if Indo-Europeans looked at the woman as a possession of the man. That is how long i-stems turned out to be all feminine.

So from that moment, when Anatolian languages already migrated to Asia Minor, when a-stems and i-stems appeared, and the opposition emerged between masculine and feminine nouns, we can speak about three genders in Indo-European: masculine, feminine, neuter.

There are linguistic schools which do not agree to the fact that the Proto-language used two genders, and not three. They say that Anatolian just united masculine and neuter, for its a-stems phonetically coincided with masculine o-stems, so the genders coincided as well. Other explain this unification by the substratum influence. But anyway, the 2-gender version seems much better proven.

§ 2. Genders in ancient and modern Indo-European languages.

When the Proto-language disappeared, transforming into different groups, the gender system chose its own way in each of them. But the general trend in every Indo-European language was quite clear: the number of genders was going to reduce.

Hellenic languages in their ancient varieties (Ancient Greek dialects) preserves the three-gender structure, and its peculiarities often show the closer connections between masculine and feminine, than between them both and neuter (2-ending adjectives, etc., see above). Ancient Greek represents the classical neuter endings in *-n < *-m*. In Greek neuter plural subjects have usually a singular predicate: plōia plei (ships move). The New Greek language also shows three genders, and their opposition is strengthened by the extensive use of articles, also declined in three genders.

Italic can be called classical in this meaning as well. Latin shows no sign of reduction of genders, and its neuter plays an important role in the language. The reduction of some final consonants in Umbrian influenced the so-called Popular Latin, which was quickly moving towards the analytism in morphology, lost many endings and so many gender forms coincided with each other, which could not but lead new Romance languages in their majority to the 2-gender opposition with the loss of neuter. In many modern Romance tongues the function of differentiating genders passed from the inflection to the article usage: French has no other signs of genders, but un, une, le, la, some prepositional forms like du - de, and adjective endings gros - grosse. In some languages, however, the process of secondary morphologisation of genders is going on nowadays: Spanish generated new endings for masculine and feminine: hermano - hermana, cabron - cabra. This interesting feature seems to make us think that the gender development history goes the same way as the case system development.

Germanic languages are called the most analytic among all modern Indo-European tongues. While all ancient varieties of Germanic (Gothic, Old Norse, Old English) used three cases, the modern languages reduced their number. English and Afrikaans removed genders at all from their morphology: English preserved them only as a "hidden category", which can be seen in personal pronouns he, she, it (for example, ships are always she). German uses both some inflections and first of all the article, definite and indefinite (der - die - das, ein - eine). An interesting thing happened in Scandinavian languages: they lost the opposition between masculine and feminine and returned to the ancient system of two noun classes for animate - inanimate nouns. This proves once more that feminine and masculine in fact are similar in the language.

Iranian languages used to have all three genders in ancient tongues (Avestan, Old Persian), but under the influence of analytic trend the system was destroyed or reduced, and many modern Iranian languages do not have genders at all. It can be also connected with the adstratum and substratum languages, which influenced Indo-European structural features. Genders are completely lost also in Armenian.

Baltic linguistics shows that Old Prussian had neuter which was not about to disappear at all. But Lithuanian lost it somehow, not very long ago. Some relics take place, however, in adjectives and in pronouns, but in fact now Lithuanian knows only feminine and masculine (see Historical Grammar of Lithuanian).

The most complicated system exists in Slavic languages, where genders were not only preserved, but also developed. For example, in Russian the category of gender united with that of animateness, forming the common system of classes: at all there are 6 classes, three genders with animate - inanimate subgenders in each. See the forms of nominative and accusative plural in Russian: novye doma ("new houses", nom., masc., inanimate), novye doma (acc.); novye direktory ("new directors", nom., masc., animate), novyyh direktorov (acc.). The same for feminine and neuter.

In Polish even further complication of gender structure happened: masculine has animate and inanimate forms, and animate has in its turn personal and impersonal forms in plural. So:

dom (nom. sg. inanimate), dom (acc. sg.) "a house" pies (nom. sg. animate), psa (acc. sg.), psy (nom. pl.), psy (acc. pl.) "a dog"

chłop (nom. sg. animate personal), chłop (acc. sg.), chłop (nom. pl.), chłopów (acc. pl.) "a peasant"

According to these processes which independently move on in different groups of the Indo-European family we can make a conclusion that genders do not behave exactly the way noun cases do, i.e. the reduction process is sometimes substituted by the complex changes (Slavic, Spanish). But in general we can state that genders are nowadays less synthetic and less spread, than they used to be in the Proto-Indo-European language.

Root / lemma:  $ab^{h}ro-$  ( $*h_{2}ab^{h}ro-$ )

English meaning: strong, mighty

Note:

Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>ro-*): 'strong, mighty' derived from Root / lemma: iēg<sup>w</sup>ā: force extended in -r formant (see gr. ἄβρός 'tender, fine, luscious')

Material:

(ἄβρός 'tender, fine, luscious')

Middle Irish Prefix abor-, cymr. af- 'very much'; Gothic abrs 'get strong, violent', adv. abraba 'very much', bi-abrjan 'before were astonished beside oneself', Old Icelandic Prefix afar- 'very much'; Illyrian VN Αῖβοι, thrak. PN Αῖβο-.

Here maybe Gothic aba (n-stem) 'husband'.

Note:

The root ab<sup>h</sup>ro-: 'strong, mighty': Root / lemma: abō(n): (ape, aquatic demon): Root / lemma: ab-: (water, river): Root / lemma: (enē<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, em<sup>h</sup>-, ṛ<sup>h</sup>-: (wet, damp; water; clouds) Old Indic abhrá- m. (**ṛ<sup>h</sup>ros*), Avestan awra- n.

References: WP. I 177, Feist 1 b f., 579 a., W. Schulze KZ. 52, 311 = Kl. Schr. 398.

See also: ab<sup>h</sup>-

Page(s): 2

Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>-*)

English meaning: quick, abrupt

Note:

Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>-*): 'quick, abrupt' derived from Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>ro-*): 'strong, mighty' which derived from root ṛ<sup>h</sup>-(ro): < with *r*formant (ne<sup>h</sup>elā): < Root / lemma: (enē<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, em<sup>h</sup>-, ṛ<sup>h</sup>-: 'wet, damp; water; clouds'.

Note: alter r/n-stem

Material: Gr. ἄφρα 'straightway, forthwith, at once, quickly, presently' (old abstract noun 'quickness'), for what, nevertheless, probably at first ἄφνω, ἄφνωσ 'suddenly'.

Here at most Old Church Slavic abъje 'straight away, directly', but uncertainly Old Indic ahnāya 'directly, straight away, instantly, speedily' (rather to áhar, áhan- 'day' p. 7).

References: WP. I 177, Feist 1 b f., 579 a., W. Schulze KZ. 52, 311 = Kl. Schr. 398.

See also: ab<sup>h</sup>ro-

Page(s): 2

Root / lemma: abō(n) (**h<sub>2</sub>abō-*)

English meaning: ape, *water demon

Note:

Root / lemma: abō(n) (**h<sub>2</sub>abō-*): 'ape, *water demon' derived from Root / lemma: ab- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab-*): 'quick, abrupt' < Root / lemma: ab-ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab-ro-*): 'strong, mighty' < root ṛb- (ro-): < with /formant (ne<sup>h</sup>elā): < Root / lemma: (ene<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, em<sup>h</sup>-, ṛb<sup>h</sup>-: 'wet, damp; water; clouds'.

Note: (Celtic neologism). The animal introduced by traveling merchants can have been named by the Celts with the name of her aquatic demon (see above ab-).

Material: Hes. ἄβράνας Κελτοὶ τοὺς κερκοπιθήκους is maybe ἄββάνας (Akk. Pl.) to read and still before the consonatic mutation in Germanic stubby; hence, in. api m. 'monkey, gate', Old Saxon apo, Old High German affo m., affa, affin f., Old English apa m.

'monkey', Old Czech opice comes Old Russian opica from the Germanic

References: WP. I 51 f.

See also: compare ab- 'water' and Schrader Reallex., Hoops Reallex. s. v. ape.

Page(s): 2-3

Root / lemma: ab-

English meaning: water, river

Note:

Root / lemma: ab-: 'water, river' derived from Root / lemma: abō(n) (**h<sub>2</sub>abō-*): 'ape, *water demon' < Root / lemma: ab- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab-*): 'quick, abrupt' < Root / lemma: ab-ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab-ro-*): 'strong, mighty' < root ṛb- (ro-): < with /formant (ne<sup>h</sup>elā): < Root / lemma: (ene<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, em<sup>h</sup>-, ṛb<sup>h</sup>-: 'wet, damp; water; clouds'.

Material: Latin amnis f., late m. c (**abnis*); Old Irish ab (**aba*) Gen. abae 'river', besides abann, (common Celtic -ns- > -nn-), cymr. afon, orn. bret. auon, gall. brit. FIN Abona, derived cymr. afanc 'beaver, water demon, dwarf', to Middle Irish abac (**abankos*) 'beaver, dwarf', Swiss -French avañ 'pasture' (**abanko-*); Latvian FIN Abava.

The West Germanic FIN in -apa, Modern High German -affa, probably go back partly to usually lost West Germanic **ap-* (Indo Germanic **ab-*), partly in Venetic-Illyrian ap- (Indo Germanic **ap-*).

References: WP. I 46 f., WH. I 40, Feist 19a, 579a, GIPatSR. II 134.

See also: compare also āp-2 'water, river' and abō(n) 'ape'.

Page(s): 1

Root / lemma: ades-, ados- (**heǵh-*)

English meaning: sort of cereal

Grammatical information: n.

Material: Latin ador, -ōris n. 'a kind of grain, spelt', maybe in Gothic atisk (**ades-ko-*) 'sowing field', probably m. as Old High German ezzisca Pl. 'sowing', Middle High German dial. Esch, Swiss dial. Aesch, 'field entrance of a village'; Tocharian AB āti 'grass' [B atiyo (f.pl.) 'grass' (Adams 9)] (differently Pedersen Tocharian 641). about gr. ἄθῆρ 'an ear of corn' see below and<sup>h</sup>-.

Perhaps Armenian: hat 'grain', Hittite: hattar n. 'cereal'

Note:

It seems Root / lemma: ades-, ados-: 'sort of cereal' evolved from an older root **heġh-* 'a kind of grain'. This root was suffixed with common -ska formant in Germanic branch

Germanic: **at-isk-a-*, while in Anatolian branch the root was suffixed with common PIE -tar formant. The old laryngeal (centum h- > a-, e-: satem h- > s-) was lost except in Hittite and Armenian. Clearly Germanic tongues borrowed the cognate from a reduced Latin (**hattar-*) adōris > Germanic: **at-isk-a-*.

Finally zero grade in alb. (**adōris*) **dris*, drizë 'thorny plant', (**dris*) drithë 'grain' where the Latin -is ending has been solidified.

The surprise is the -ġh- > -d- found only in Avestan - Illyrian - Baltic languages.

References: WP. I 45, Feist 61 a, anders WH. I 14.

Page(s): 3

---

Root / lemma: ad-1 (**hed-*)

English meaning: to, by, at

Material: Phrygian ἄδ-ῥακετ 'he does'; maked. ἄδ-ῥαι ῥύποι (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 69); Latin ad 'to, with, in', preverb and preposition m. Akk., also Gen. atque, ac 'and in addition, and also, and' (**ad-que*; not at+ que; also Umbrian ap 'in which place, in what place, where, when, after, since, although' chronologically, with extended -ī in ape), Umbrian ař- preverb, -āř postposition m. Akk., Oscan adpúd 'as far as', otherwise with s- extension Oscan az 'to, toward' preposition m. Akk.; Old Irish ad- preverb (e.g., ad-glādur 'call upon, appeal to'), cymr. add-, gall. ad- prefix (e.g., MN Ad-iantū; cymr. addiant 'longing', Admārus; Old Irish már 'large'); cymr. â, with vowel ag 'with' (ad + ġhe, Old Indic ha, not = Latin atque 'and, as well as, together with'); Germanic **at* preverb and preposition mostly with 'dative' = Lok., rare m. Akk. (Gothic West Germanic from the time, Old English also from the place), Old Icelandic also with Gen.: Gothic at 'to, by', Old Icelandic at 'to, by, against, after', Old English æt, Old Saxon at, Old High German az 'to, by, in'.

zero grade: ved. t-sáriti `creeps, creeps up ', Old High German zagēn (: Gothic \-agan* `fear'), Old High German z-ougen, Middle High German zōugen, Old Saxon t-ōgian compared with Gothic at-augjan `with raised up eyes, point, show '.

References: WP.I 44 f., WH.I 11 f.

See also: Perhaps to ad-2.

Page(s): 3

---

Root / lemma: ad-2

English meaning: to establish, put in order

Material: Umbrian arsie (**adio-*) `venerable, august, divine, sacred, pure, holy (very freq. and class.); of a divinity, and of things in any way belonging to one ', arsmor (**admon*) `a form of religious observance, religious usage, ceremony, rite ', arsmatiam (**admatio-*) `relating to religious rites or ceremonies, ritual ', armamu `you shall be ordered, set in order, arranged, adjusted, disposed, regulated ', Ařmune epithet of Jupiter, to **ad-* `settle, order '; Old Irish ad n. `law', Pl. ada `ceremonious customs ', from it Adj. `lawful', adas `proper', cymr. addas `suitable', eddyf (**adilo-*) `duty, purpose '; probably also Germanic **tila-* `suitable opportunity ' in Gothic til n., ga-tils `suitably ', Old English til `suitable, useful ' as n. `goodness, suitability ' = Old High German zil `purpose ', preposition Old English Old Icelandic til `to, for '.

References: WE. I 12, Devoto Měl. Pedersen 224.

Page(s): 3

---

Root / lemma: ad(u)-, ad-ro- (**heǵhero*)

English meaning: water current

Note:

From Root / lemma: angʷ(h)i- : `snake, worm' derived Root / lemma: akʷā- (more properly əḱʷā): əḱʷ-

: `water, river'; Root / lemma: eǵhero- : `lake, inner sea'; Root / lemma: ad(u)-, ad-ro- :

`water current': Illyrian Pannonian VN 'Οσειρᾱτες [common alb.- Illyrian-Baltic -ǵh- > -d-, -z-].

From Root / lemma: akʷā- `water, river' nasalized in **akʷent-* (suffixed in -er, -or) derived

Root / lemma: ay(e)-9, ayed-, ayer- : `to flow, to wet; water, etc.'

Material: Avestan aδu `water run, brook, canal ', Venetic-Illyrian FIN Ad(d)ua (for Po), **Adulja* > Attel (to Danube in Bavaria), Mons of Adula `St. Gotthard ' (probably named after the rivers streaming there), oberösterr. FIN **Adra* > Attersee, Attergau, FIN Adrana > Eder (Hessen), maybe also PN Adria in Venetien (afterwards mare Adriaticum), sizil. FIN A'δρανός and Venetic-Illyrian name of Oder Oúi-αδοúας; further Latvian FIN Adula.

Note:

The name of the primordial hill in Egyptian mythology, the first mountain that raised from the ocean. The mountain god was borrowed by Hitties who called the dreaming god Upelluri. Greeks received Atlas from Hittites.

Atlas `*mountain probably named after the rivers streaming there ': A'τλας, -αντος m. `Atlas' (Od., Hes., Hdt., A. etc.), name of a God who carries the columns of the sky; originally probably name of Arcadian mountains which were spread then by the epic in general and especially (by Ionic seafarers?) was transferred to the Atlas Mountains in West Africa, see Solmsen Wortforsch. 24; about Atlas as a personification of the world axis Tièche Mus. Helv. 2, 65ff. Berber ádrār `mountain '.

Derivatives: Of it 'Ατλαντίς f. (Hes. etc.), name of a mythical island, according to Brandenstein Atlantis (Wien 1951, = Arb. Inst. Sprachw. 3) = Crete; further 'Ατλαντικός (E., Pl., Arist. etc.) and 'Ατλάντειος (Kritias).

References: Vasmer ZsIPh. 8, 114 f., Pokorny Urill. 4, 70, 93, 109, 124.

Page(s): 4

---

Root / lemma: agh-(lo-)

English meaning: disgusting

Note:

Root / lemma: agh-(lo-): `disgusting' derived from an extended Root / lemma: agos-: `fault, sin' produced.

Material: Gothic agls `opprobrious, ignominious', agliba, aglō `hardship', us-agljan `press', Old English eg(e)le `offensive, unwieldy, unfortunate', eglan add `pain' (engl. ail `hurt; indisposed his'), eglian `to be felt painfully', Middle Low German egelen `cause grief', Gothic aglus Adv. agluba `δύσκολος, difficult'; also (with puzzling suffix) Gothic aglaitei f. -in. `licentiousness, wanton violence, insolence, sexual offense', Old High German agaleizi f., -in. `discomfort; zeal', agaleizo, Old Saxon aglēto, agalēto Adv. `sedulous, keen'.

Possibly here ow. aghá (=Avestan ayō-) `nasty', n. `horrible, damage', aghalá- `bad'.

Here maybe to Middle Irish ālad n. `wound' (**agloton*), mcymr. aele(u) `painful', aeleu m. `pain' (**aglou-*).

References: WP. I 41, Feist 15 a, Specht Dekl. 136, Loth RC. 38, 56.

Page(s): 8

---

Root / lemma: aghl(u)- (**heghel-*)

English meaning: rainy weather

Material: Gr. ἀγλῦς ` fog, darkness '

Maybe alb. agull `bad vision', agu `dawn '

Old Prussian aglo n. `rain' (u- stem), Armenian **alj-* in atjatj, atjamutjkh `darkness' (Meillet MSL. 10, 279).

References: WP. I 41. compare Petersen Aryan and Armenian Stud. 126.

Page(s): 8

---

Root / lemma: agh- (**hegh-*)

English meaning: to fear

Material: Gr. ἄχος n. `fear, pain, grief ', ἄχνυμαι, ἄχομαι `grieving, sorrowing, mourning ' (Aor. ἤκαχε, ἠκαχόμην, Perf. ἀκάχημαι), ἀχεύων, ἀχέων `mourning, groaning ', ἀκαχίζω `sadden'; here probably ἄχθος `load, grief ' (* ἄχτος), thereof ἀχθεσθαι `to be loaded, be depressed '.

Maybe nasalized alb. (**aghos*) ankth `fear' [common alb. -s > -th].

Old English ege m. `fear', egisi-grima gl. `ghost, spectre, evil spirit ', n. es- stem **agiz* = gr. ἄχος `get a fright';

Note: common gr. -gh- > -χ- compare Old High German egis-līh `dreadful ', egisōn `get a fright ' and to o- and en stems extended Gothic agis n. `fear, anxiety, fright ', Old High German agiso, egiso m., egisa f. `fear, fright figure ', Old English egesa m. `fear '; Old Norse agi m. (-en- stem) `Fear', Old High German egī, Middle High German ege f. `fear, fright, punishment '; Gothic -agan in *un-agan*ds `are not afraid ', af-agan `frighten', us-agan `frighten somebody ', `in-agan' `snub somebody '; preterit present Gothic ōg (ōgum) `fears me ', ni ōgs `fear nothing ' (old short vocal subjunctive **ōgiz*), Old Norse ōa-sk `be afraid '; Gothic ōgjan `snub somebody ' = Old Norse ægja `get a fright'; Old Norse ōgn f. `fright ', ōtti m. `fear ', Old English ōga f. `fright '.

Old Irish ad-agor, -agur `fear ' (because of the ablaut equality with Gothic ōg supposes Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 3, 484 origins from older Perf.), verbal noun āigthiunder

References: WP. I 40, Feist 14, 380.

See also: hereupon belongs probably also: agh-(lo-)

Page(s): 7-8

---

Root / lemma: agos- (**hege-*)

English meaning: fault, sin, *blood guilt

Material: Old Indic āgas- n. 'offence, injury, sin, fault', change by ablaut with gr. ἄγος 'heavy guilt, blood guilt'; Old Indic ánāgas-, gr. ἀναγής 'innocent, guiltless'; ἀγής, ἐναγής 'curses', ἄγιος μισός.

Old English acan, ōc 'hurt' (engl. ache), nnd. äken 'hurt, fester, dent, blow', Middle Dutch akel 'grief, wrong, pity', Modern Frisian akelig, aeklig 'wretched, vehement'.

References: WP. I 38.

Page(s): 8

---

Root / lemma: agro- (egro-?) (**ḥekrḥ<sub>3</sub>uo*)

English meaning: top, first, beginning

Material: Old Indic āgra- n. 'point, foremost point or part, tip, front', agrē (Lok.) 'at the top, in front, ahead of', also timewise 'in the beginning, first', agrimā- 'first, preceding, foremost', Avestan ayra- 'first, uppermost after time space etc.', n. 'beginning; the uppermost, point'; Latvian agrs (Adj.) 'early', agri Adv. 'early, early on', agrums 'the early morning'.

Whether here Latin MN Agrippa from **agri-p(e)d-* 'breach birth (one who causes great pain at his birth', W. Schulze KZ. 32, 172<sup>1</sup>, in 1721, doubting Latin Eig. 230<sup>5</sup>?

If Old Indic āgra on **ogro-* or **egro-* retrograde, one could compare Hittite ḫé-kur, ḫé-gur 'cliff summit, rock, crag'.

Maybe Agrianes Illyrian TN, Agron 'Illyrian king'.

References: WP. I 38 f., Pedersen Hittite 183.

Page(s): 8-9

---

Root / lemma: agu(e)sī, aksī

English meaning: axe

Material: Gothic aqizī, Old Norse øx, Old English acus, æx, Old Saxon acus, accus, Old High German achhus, accus, aches, Modern High German Axt (Germanic forms **aqwizi* and **akusi* have maybe derived according to Zupitza GG. 89 from a gradating **aguésī*: **agušiās*), gr. ἄξος 'ax, hatchet'

Note: common gr. -gh- > -ξ-

Latin ascia 'ax of the carpenters' (from **acsiā* like viscus: ἰξός, vespa from **vepsā*).

Maybe alb. (**asca*) ashka 'shavings, wood splinter', (**viscus*) vishk, fishk 'make thin, wither'.

References: WP. I 39, WH. I 71, Feist 54 b, Specht Dekl. 150, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 465<sup>4</sup>.

Page(s): 9

---

Root / lemma: aġh-

English meaning: plough animal

Material: Old Indic ahī 'cow', Avestan azīf. Adj. 'pregnant' (from cows and mares), Middle Irish ag (s- stem) m., f. 'bovine animal, cow', ag allaid 'deer' (actually, 'wild ox'), ál 'brood, throw' (**aglo-*), cymr. ael ds., mcymr. aelaw 'abundance, fertility', eillion (**agliones*) 'fallow deer, horses'; here with ə- vocalism Armenian ezn 'bovine animal'?

References: WP. I 38, Loth RC. 38, 55.

Page(s): 7

---

Root / lemma: aġro-s

See also: s. aġ-

Page(s): 9

---

Root / lemma: aġ-

English meaning: to lead, *drive cattle

Grammatical information: originally limited to the present stem.

Material: aġō. Old Indic ájati 'drive', ajā- m. 'a drove, troop; a driver'; ājí- m./f. 'running match, combat', Avestan azaiti 'drive, lead away', Armenian acem 'lead, bring'; Maybe alb. Geg (**ǎγw*), ago 'leader, chief';

gr. ǎγw 'lead' (Aor. Aor. ἡγαγον, ἡξα are new), Latin agō 'to set in motion, drive, lead, negotiate' (Pf. ēg ī with ablaut innovation), Oscan Imper. actud = Umbrian aitu 'to set in violent motion, drive onward, move, impel, urge', Oscan acum 'drive, urge', Old Irish ad-aig (**aget*) 'to drive, bring, or take a person or thing to a place, of cattle', acymr. agít, hegit, more recently ěyt (**agīti*), besides the strong inflection in cymr. corn. bret. a (**aget*) 'goes'; t- Preterit Old Irish ro-da-acht 'driven away', cymr. aeth (**ag-t*) 'to put in motion' etc., see Pedersen KG. II 451 following, Old Irish āin 'activity, play' (from **agnis*), gallo-rom. **and-agnis* 'big step', French andain 'swath, scythe slash', Old French 'wide step', Old Norse aka 'driving' (Preterit ōk like Old Indic Gram. ājā); Old English ac 'however, but, yet' (wörtl. 'go!' like Latin age); Tocharian B ak-, AB āk- 'travel, lead'; ë to- participle: ἄκτος, Latin āctus 'put in motion, moved, driven, tended, conducted', **amb(i)-aktos*, actually, 'sent around' (: Old Irish imm-aig) messenger, servant 'in gall. (-Latin) ambactus 'vassal, slave', cymr. amaeth 'servus arans' (from Celtic derives Gothic andbahts, Old High German ambaht 'servant', from which the kinship with Modern High German Amŕ).

As Indo Germanic Instrumental noun in -trā here Old Indic aṣṭrā 'goad to drive the livestock', Avestan aštrā 'whip, scourge'.

Maybe Tokharian: B āk n. 'zeal' (Adams 35), AB āk- 'lead, guide, drive' (36).

lengthened grade formations: Old Indic ājī-ḥ m. f. 'race, fight', Middle Irish āg (Gen. āga, u- stem) 'fight', āga, āige 'leaders' (cf also gall. PN Ago-mārus = Old Irish ágmar 'warlike'; Com-āgius), Latin only in compounds: ambāgēs, around 'a roundabout way, winding. Hence, in speech, etc., either circumlocution or obscurity' (conservative stem like Old Indic āj-ē 'to lead' = Latin agī Inf. Pass., and like Old Indic aj- in pṛtanāj- 'in the fight pulling', however, with stretch in the composition), indāgēs and indāgo, -inis 'surrounding and driving of game', co-āgulum 'a means of coagulation, a coagulum or coagulator (the curdled milk in the stomach of a sucking animal, the stomach itself, etc.), rennet or runnet; the curdled milk; that which holds or binds together, a bond, tie', Old Indic samāja-ḥ 'meeting, society', gr. ἄγωγός 'leading, leadingly', ἄγωγή 'guidance, management, freight', Hes. ὤγανα 'spokes', στρατ-ηγός (see below). about Doric ἄγον (Old Indic ājam) 'I lead' see, nevertheless, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 654, 4.

o- stem: ved. ajā-ḥ 'activity, train; driver', gr. ἄγός 'leader, military leader', στρατ-ἄγός, Attic Ionian στρατ-ηγός 'military leader', λοχᾶγός (originally Doric) 'leader', Latin prōdigo -igere -egi -actum 'to drive forth; to spend, waste', prōd-igus 'profuse, extravagant; rich, abounding in. Adv. prodige' (from prōd-igere), abiga 'plant which has the power of producing abortion; ground-pine' ('close to miscarriage' from ab-igere = ἄπάγω, Old Indic apa-ājati 'to drive away, drive off').

io- stem: Irish aige 'race', Old Indic in pṛtanājyam 'competition'.

āgm̐, āgmos. Old Indic ājman- n. 'road, train', ājma-ḥ ds. (however, about jman, pari-jman-, pṛthu-jman-, jma-yā- s. gh̐bem- 'earth'): Latin agmen 'a driving movement or a mass in (orderly) movement, a stream, band, train; esp. milit., an army on the march' (to neologism agō for **ammen*), exāmen 'a swarm; a throng, crowd, shoal. (2) the tongue of a balance; testing, consideration'; then 'to check, to weigh; to consider' (from **agsmen*), ammentum (**agmen-to-m*) 'in loop form - possibly in the middle of the spear - fixed with throw straps ' ; maybe (Schw. Gr. Gr. I 492<sup>10</sup>) with o-graduation gr. ὄγμος ` field furrow, road of heavenly bodies; swath by mowing '.

lo- stem: Old Indic ajirá- ` quick, nimble ' (however, Latin agilis ` flexible, nimble ' is a neologism); gr. ἀγέλη ` herd, crowd ', Latin agolum ` shepherd's stick '.

Gr. ἀγών ` race, competition ' ; ἄγυια 'street' (part. Perf.), from which about newer *ἄγεια Latin agēa ' a gangway in a ship'; lak. Cretan ätol. ἀγνέω ` leads, brings ', ep. Ionian ἀγνέμεναι, ἀγνέω ds. (:ἀγνέω and ἄγω, like ὀπῖ-vw towards ὀρ-vu-μι and ὠρ-όμην, also from an ṭ-ending root form; cf Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 694, 696). about ἡγεμῶν see Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 522<sup>7</sup> and under sāg-.

Latin rēmex, rēmigāre, rēmigium, lītīgāre ` a rower, oarsman ' and other verbs in - (i)gāre. - Presumably Latin indigitēs ` the local divinities and heroes ' (indigitāre ` a divinity call ', indigitāmenta 'invocation formulae'), as **end(o)-aget*- ` the indigenous, native '.

formation development to 'to weigh' (from ` bring in oscillation ') in Latin exagium ` a weighing, weight; a balance ', exigere [ex + ago] 'to drive out, push forth, thrust out, take out, expel: -- To weigh, try, prove, measure, examine, adjust, estimate, consider': among other things ` weigh, measure ', exāctus ` precise, accurate, exact ', exiguus ` strict, exact, scanty, small, little, petty, short, poor, mean, inadequate, inconsiderable, paltry ', exilis (**ex-ag-slis*) ` strict, narrow, thin, slender, lank, small, meagre, poor ', exāmen (see above), agīna ` the opening in the upper part of a balance, in which the tongue moves ' (formation as for example coquīna), gr. ἄγειν also ` weigh' (with Akk. of the weight), ἄξιος ` weighing as much, of like value, worth as much as' (from *ἄκτιος, on the grounds of **ag-ti-s* ` weight', actually:) ` from suitable weight ', hence, ` worth, solemnly ', ἀντάξιος 'worth just as much as, equally'.

still cf WH. I 9, 10, 24 about acnua, āctus quadrātus ` a field measure of 120 feet in the square ', and actūtum 'straight away, immediately, forthwith ', agāsō `footman, driver, hostler ', agō, -ōnis `of the priests killing the sacrificial animal' (from agere in meaning ` sacrifice'), agōnium ` a victim, beast for sacrifice ' below likewise

Here maybe gall. exacum ` the herb centauray ' if prescribed for **exagum* (= **exago*- ` pure-craving '). But better to **ak*- ` sharp ', see there.

Further belong here:

āges-, aks . . . ` (fulcrum, pivot:) axis - shoulder ':

Old Indic ákṣa-ḥ 'axis', gr. ἄξων ds., ἄμ-αξα 'carriage, wagon' Gl. 12, 217; KZ. 40, 217 f.);

Note: common gr. -ḡh- > -ξ-

Latin axis 'axis' = Lithuanian ašis, Old Prussian assis, Old Church Slavic osъ f. ds. ; Old High German ahsa, Modern High German Achse, Old English eax ds. ; in. qxull (from Proto German **ahsulaz*) 'axis'; Middle Irish ais 'axis' (**aksī-lā* in cymr. echel f. 'axis', bret. ahel).

Latin āla 'shoulder', from which the usual meaning 'wing', from **agslā* (cf. Demin. axilla 'armpit') = in. qxī, Old English eaxī, Old High German ahsala, Modern High German Achsel, where near lengthened grade Dutch oksel ds., and without l-formant: Old High German uochisa, Middle High German uohse, üehse and Old High German uochsana, Old English ōxn 'armpit', in. ōst f., ōstr m. 'Cervical pit', Old English ōcusta, ōxta m., engl. oxter 'armpit'; av ašayā Gen. Du. 'of both shoulders', Armenian anut 'shoulder pit' (at first from **asnūt*).

Maybe German Achsel: Latin axilla; ala; ascilla; ascella: Italian ascella: Spanish axial: French aisselle: Calabrese ma-scidda; sciddra; titiddra; titilla: Albanian Geg sqetlla, Tosc sqetull 'armpit'.

common Calabrese -ll->-dd-: Sardinian -ll->-dd-.

aḡ-rā 'rush, hunt', aḡ-ro-s 'driving, rushing':

Old Indic in ghasē-ajra- 'to drive consuming, exciting appetite', Avestan (vehr-kām) azrō-daiḍīm 'doing the hunt, outgoing on prey (she-wolf)'; gr. ἄγρᾱ, Ionian ἄγρη 'hunt, catch', πᾶναγρος 'catching everything, catching', κρεάγρᾱ 'meat tongs', πυράγρᾱ 'tongs', ποδάγρᾱ 'prostration, enuflection', Μελέαγρος originally name of a 'demon which as a quick-tempered fever seizes the limbs' (?), ἄγρεύς 'hunter', ἄγρεύω 'catch'; but ἄγρέω 'take' according to Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 727<sup>1</sup> from **ά-γρο-*; Irish ār n. 'defeat' (**agron*) 'battle, fight' (**agrā*), actually, 'rush', acorn. hair 'destruction, injury, mischief, harm, misfortune, disaster, loss, detriment, calamity', abret. airou Pl. 'an overthrow, destruction, ruin, defeat, slaughter, massacre, butchery, carnage', gall. VN Veragri 'the immense combatants'.

Maybe Illyrian Agron PN.

aḡ-ro-s 'field, camp' (to **agō* as herd to drive wie, also originally 'place where the cattle is being driven, pasture').

Old Indic ájra-h 'surface, camp, fields' (without respect on agriculture), gr. ἄγρος 'field, land' (in contrast to town), Latin Umbrian ager 'field', Gothic (etc.) akrs, Old High German ackar, ahhar, Modern High German Acker (Acker and Old English æcer also a certain land measure, 'so much a bottom plate can oxen plow during one day'), Armenian art 'field' (with puzzling t about **atgr-*, **atr-*, see Pedersen KZ. 39, 352; thereof artak's 'out', prefix arta- 'from').

Old Indic ajríya 'located in the plain' = gr. ἄγριος 'on the field, outside growing or living, wildly'; ἄγρότερος 'wildly living', Latin agrestis 'a countryman, peasant, rustic, rural, crude'. (about Gothic akran, German Eckern 'beechnut', however, see below **ōg-* 'grow'.)

Maybe alb. egër 'wild, rural, crude', Illyrian TN Agrianes.

References: WP. I 35 f., WH. I 22 f., 89, H. Reichelt WuS. 12, 112.

Page(s): 4-6

Root / lemma: ag<sup>w</sup>h-no-s (**jag<sup>w</sup>h-no-s*)

Meaning: 'lamb'

Note: (z. T. also **ag<sup>w</sup>nos?*)

It seems that from Root / lemma: ag- 'to lead, *drive cattle' derived Root / lemma: ag<sup>w</sup>h-no-s 'lamb'.

Material:

alb. Geg kinxhi, Tosc (**hēngh-*) qengji 'lamb' [common alb. gh- > gl- > gj-: lith. gh- > dz-].

English                      lamb

Latin agnus > Italian agnello, French agneau, Bolognese agnèl, Bresciano agnìlì, (desonorized ((e)knedd Albanian Geg kinxh, Tosc qengj

Calabrese	gneddu ; agnellu ; agneddu ; agniellu
Catalan	anyell ; xai, Ladin agnel, Corsican agnellu, Ferrarese agnèl, Furlan agnel,
Galician	año, Greek αρví, Griko Salentino arnì, Lithuanian èriukas,
Maltese	haruf
Mantuan	agnèl
Manx	eayn

Maori	reeme
Mapunzugun		ufisha
Marathi	कोंकळू
Maasai	olbaalo
Mokshan	veruz
Mongolian	xypra
Mudnés	agnèl
Napulitano	pecuriéllo
Occitan	anhèl
Old Greek	αμνός ; ἀρήν
Paduan	agnèò
Parmigiano	agnel
Persian	پړه
Piemontese	agnel
Polish	jagnię
Portuguese	cordeiro
Provençal	agnèu
Pugliese	pecherusce
Punjabi	ਮੇਮਣਾ
Quechua	chita uña
Rapanui	mamoe
Reggiano	agnèl
Romagnolo	agnèl
Romanian	miel
Romansh	agnè
Saami	láppis
Samoan	tama'i māmoe
Sanskrit	छागशावः
Sardinian (Limba Sarda Unificada)		anzone
Sardinian Campidanese	anjoni
Sardinian Logudoresu	anzone ; saccayu
Serbian	јагње
Setswana	kwana; kwanyana
Shona	hwayana
Sicilian	agniddu
Slovak	jahňa
Slovenian	jágnje

Somali	nayl
Swahili	mwana kondoo
Swedish	lamm
Swiss German	Lämmli
Tagalog	kordero
Thai	ลูกแกะ
Tigrinya	siemà
Traditional Chinese	羔羊
Triestino	agnel
Turkish	kuzu
Turkmen	токлы
Ukrainian	ягня
Urdu	انيميم
Valencian	corder
Venetian	agnelo
Viestano	ajn'
Wallon	agnea
Welsh	oen
Wolof	kharre
Zeneize	bæ

gr. ἀμνός m. f., ἀμνή f. 'lamb';

Gr. (**ag<sup>w</sup>nos*, abnos) ἀμνός derived from an earlier **abnos* 'lamb' [common gr. k<sup>w</sup> > p, g<sup>w</sup> > b, later b > mb > m common Illyrian -gr.]

Latin agnus, -ī, fem. -a 'lamb' (agnīle 'sheep stable', lacking suffix affinity with Old Church Slavic jagnīlo 'place where the sheep lamb', a derivative of the verb jagnīti 'to lamb'); [common Slavic old laryngeal h- > j-]

Old Irish ūan cymr. oen, acorn. oīn, bret. oan 'lamb' (Proto Celtic **ognos* with -gn- would have derived from \-g<sup>w</sup>hn-*, not \-g<sup>w</sup>n-*, in spite of Pedersen KG. I 109-bn-;

o- probably influence from **ouīs* 'sheep'); Old English ēanian, engl. to yeane 'to lamb',

Dutch oonen ds. (from **aunōn* from **auna-* = Indo Germanic **ag<sup>w</sup>hno-*); Old Church Slavic (j)agne 'lamb' (with formants -eť broadened around popular names of young animals), (j)agnьсь 'lambkins' contain full gradation. Or is placed Indo Germanic **ōgʷ(h)no-* : to **əgʷ(h)no-*?

Through the Germanic and Celtic presumed voiced-aspirated also would underlie the basis of Latin and Slavic forms, so that gr. ἀμνός (at first from *ἀβνός) remains the only dependable indication in voiced-nonaspirated gʷ. If Umbrian habina(f) 'of a lamb' could be explained from intersection from **hēdīno-* = Latin haedīnus 'of a kid' and **abnīno-* = Latin agninus 'of a lamb; f. as subst., lamb's flesh', however, it would point Umbrian b to voiced-nonaspirated. But maybe it has become gʷh in Oscan-Umbrian to b.

Note:

The old laryngeal in centum languages h- > a-, e- : Slavic j- : Albanian k- : Italic h-.

Celtic Illyrian concordances: common Illyrian -gʷ- > -b-, -d- : alb. -gʷ- > -d-.

Latin avillus 'lambkin' because of the suffix formation not to ovis, but from **agʷhnelos*.

Note:

[common Latin - Italic gw- > v-] Latin avillus (**abillus*) 'lambkin' : Rumanian (**agʷenus*) ageamiu 'lamb'.

References: WP. I 39, WH. I. 23.

Page(s): 9

---

Root / lemma: ai-dʰ-, i-dʰ-, nasalized i-n-dʰ- (**avi-dʰ-*)

English meaning: to burn

Note:

Common Illyrian -ǵh- > -dh-

Material: Old Indic inddhé 'inflamed, is aroused' (pass. idhyáte, Perf. īdhé, part. Perf. Pass iddhá-h), indhana-m 'lighting'.

Gr. αἶθω 'lights, burns' (αἰθόμενος), αἶθων, αἶθωψ 'igneous, sparkling', ἰθαίνεσθαι θερμαίνεσθαι Hes., hylleisch αἰδῶσσα αἶθουσα 'to light up, kindle'; changing by ablaut κακ-ιθής Hes. 'ravenously' (W. Schulze KZ. 29, 269 = Kl. Schr. 329). common gr.- Illyrian -ks- > -ss-

Maybe alb. (**δῶσσα*) ndez 'to light up, kindle'.

o-Grade: gr. αἶθος m. 'fire' (αἰθός 'burntly') = Old Indic ēdha-h m. 'Firewood' = Old English ād, Old High German Middle High German eit m. 'glow, pyre': zero grade probably Norwegian Swedish id 'leuciscus idus' (a bright carp kind), cf Modern High German dial. aitel 'leuciscus cephalus' as the 'shining'; besides u-stem **ad<sup>h</sup>u-* in gall. VN Aedui, Old Irish áed 'fire', also as MN; Latin aedēs 'a dwelling of the gods, a sanctuary, a temple', ursprüngl. 'the domestic stove', also aedis = maked. ἄδις ἐσχάρα Hes.

From the verbal adjective in -to- derived probably Latin aestās, - ātis 'warm season, summer' (from **aisto-tāt-*, Indo Germanic **ad<sup>h</sup>-to-*); aestus, - ūs (from **ad<sup>h</sup>-tu-*) 'heat, glow, surf', aestuāre 'cook, surge, roar';

Old Germanic MN Aistomōdīus ('with quick-tempered courage'), Old English āst f. 'dried stove', engl. oast 'drying room, drying loft'.

r-formants: gr. αἰθήρ 'the upper air' (maked. ἄδη), αἶθρα 'the cheerful sky' (maked. ἄθραιά), αἶθριος 'brightly, cheerfully (from the weather)', for what changing by ablaut ἰθαρός 'cheerfully', Old Indic vīdhrá- (= vi-idh-rá-) ds.

l-formants: gr. αἰθάλη, αἶθαλος 'soot', maked. ἄδαλος; under acceptance of a development from 'shining, appearing' 'too apparently' 'one puts a little bit constrainedly' here Old English īdel 'vain, pointless, trifling', Old High German ītal, Modern High German eitel.

In Indo Germanic **ad<sup>h</sup>-lo-* is based Germanic ail- in Old English ælan 'burn' to āl n. 'flame', and in Old English æled m., Old Icelandic eldr (Gen. elds) 'fire, flame'. From different development-grading Old English æled are borrowed cymr. aelwyd, bret. oaled 'from fire, stove' (M. Förster Themse 487<sup>2</sup>). Middle Irish āel 'lime' could have originated from **ad<sup>h</sup>-lo-*. However, Germanic and Celtic words could also be formed directly by the root 4. 4. āi- with -lo- suffix.

s-formants: es-stem gr. αἶθος n. 'Glow, fire' = Old Indic ēdhas- n. 'firewood'.

Continuing formation: Old Icelandic eisa f. (**ad<sup>h</sup>-s-ōn*) 'fire', Norwegian 'Hearth', Middle Low German ēse f. 'chimney, fire stove' (however, Old High German essa 'chimney, hearth' see below ās- 'burn'); Avestan aēsma m. 'Firewood' (**ad<sup>h</sup>-s-mo-*, cf without s Old Indic idhmá-h m. ds.); in addition Baltic **aismiā* in Lithuanian iesmė 'firewood'; Lithuanian aistrā f. 'passion'; Old Czech niestějě (fem. Pl.) 'stove', later nístěj (with n- suggestion by wrong decomposition of the connections **v̥n-ěstějě*, v̥n-ěstějachъ, Berneker 275) from **ad<sup>h</sup>-s-to*; in addition zero grades **d<sup>h</sup>-s-to-* in slov. istéje, stéje Pl. 'stove hole'; to Johansson IF. 19, 136 also Old Indic iṣṭakā 'of burnt bricks', Avestan ištya- n. 'brick, (baked brick)'.

Maybe alb. (**iska*) hith 'blight, burning nettle', (**iskra*) hithra 'nettle' common alb. -k > -th.

In **ind<sup>h</sup>-* goes back: alb. Geg idhunε, Tosc idhētē 'bitter', Tosc idherím 'bitterness, anger, irritation', hīdhitē, hithra Pl. 'nettle' (Jokl studies 29).

Note:

Alb. and gr. are the only IE languages to preserve the old laryngeal h-.

References: WP. I 5, WH. 15, 20, 843, Trautmann 3, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 347.

Probably to āi-4.

Here also belongs aisk-, if originated from ad<sup>h</sup>-s-k-.

Page(s): 11-12

---

Root / lemma: aid- (**avid-*)

English Meaning: 'swell'

See also: s. oid-.

Page(s): 11

---

Root / lemma: aig-1, nasalized ing- (**avig-1*)

English meaning: dispirited, sick, ill

Material: Alb. kë-ék, keq 'nasty, bad, evil' (from **haigio-*); [common alb. old laryngeal h- > k-].

Latin aeger, aegra, -um, aegrotus 'unwell, ill, sick, diseased, suffering, feeble'; Old Norse eikenn 'dismays', 'wild, furious', (influenced by common Celtic -ns- > -nn-), Old English ācol 'excited, dismayed', New Norwegian eikja, eikla 'continually with attacks, contradictions, assertions torment', eikjen 'argumentative'; Tocharian B aik(a)re (= Latin **aegro-*), A ekro 'ill';

nasalized: **ing-*: Lithuanian ingis 'lounger, idler', ingas and angūs 'idle, sluggish';

Latvian īgstu, īgt 'have internal pain, be sullen, morose', īgnēt 'have disgust', īgnis 'sullen person' (Lithuanian éngti 'choke, torment' probably stays away); Old Church

Slavic jědza 'illness', nslov. jeza 'rage', poln. jędza 'fury, witch' ('gruff, sullen'), Czech jezinka 'forest woman' (etc., see Berneker 268 f. ; in **jęga*, not **aigā*, is consequently to be led back also:) russ. bába jagá 'witch' (s. Brückner KZ. 45, 318);

Old Icelandic ekki 'pain, grief' = Old English inca 'pain, suspicion, quarrel', Old Frisian inc (d. i. jinc) 'angry', also nengl. inkle 'anticipate, foresee', inkling 'whispering, notion, indication, sign'.

References: WP. I 9, WH. I 16, 843, Trautmann 70.

Page(s): 13

---

Root / lemma: aig-2

English meaning: oak

Material: Gr. αἰγίλωψ 'an oaken kind' (see below), presumably also κράτ-αιγος, κρατ-αιγών 'an uncertain type of tree' (possibly 'hard oak').

The outcome from αἰγίλωψ appears λώψ λώψ χλαμύς Hes., cf. λωπίον, λώπη, λοπός 'bowl, bark' and Plin. n. h. 16, 6, 13 aegilops fert pannos arentes ...non in cortice modo, verum et e ramis dependentes, Kretschmer Gl. 3, 335.

Old Norse eik (conservative stem) f. 'oak', Old Saxon ēk, Old English āc (engl. oak), Old High German eih, Middle High German eich, eiche, Modern High German Eiche;

All other cognates are dubious: gr. αἰγίρος (more properly than αἰγειρος, s. Fick BB. 30, 273) possibly 'aspen' could be created as 'tree trembler, (*oak shaker)' also derivative like οἰκτῖρω from *αἰγίρω 'swing, tremble' (: **aig-* 'move violently');

Latin aesculus '(mountain oak), the winter or Italian oak' (**aig-sklos?*) is still unclear after its formation, maybe Mediterranean word.

Maybe alb. Geg (**asì*) ahi, ahu 'beech' [the common alb. s > h in the middle of the word (See Root / lemma: sɥekrũ- Meaning: 'mother-in law or father-in-law' shift s > h in alb. (**śváśura*-) vjehërr 'father-in-law').

Root / lemma: **ōs*, ōs-i-s, ōs-en-, os-k-: 'ash tree (alb. ahi 'beech')' must have derived from Root / lemma: aig-2: 'oak (alb. ahu 'oak')'.

References: WP. 110, WH. I 20, 844, Specht KZ. 68, 195 f. S. unten S. 18 Z. 1/2.

Page(s): 13

---

Root / lemma: aig-3

English meaning: to move swiftly, swing, vibrate

Material: Old Indic ējati `stirs, moves, trembles', ējathu-h `the quake of the earth', viçvamējaya- `making everything shake', nasal present inḡati, inḡate `stirs, moves', Kaus. inḡáyati `sets in motion, touches, shakes', udinḡayati `swings', saminḡayati `sets in shaking movement' (form relation like between αἶθω: Old Indic indhate); from Gr. here very probably αἶγες τα κύματα. Δωριεῖς Hes. (also Artemidor Oneirokrit. 2, 12: και γὰρ τὰ μεγάλα κύματα αἶγας ἐν τῇ συνηθείᾳ λέγομεν), αἰγιαλός 'strands' (probably from arise the connection ἐν αἰγί ἁλός `in the surf of the sea'; differently Bechtel Lexil. 16), αἰγίς `gale, storm cloud; the shield of Zeus' (probably originally understood as the storm cloud shaken by Zeus, 'thunderstorm shield'), καταιγίς `gust of wind moving down suddenly' from καταιγίζειν `storm, attack down, drive off' (from πνοαί Ἄρεος, ἄνεμοι, θάλασσα), ἐπαιγίζειν `attack near, thrust near'; probably also αἰγανέη 'lance' (on the grounds of *αἰγανον `the catapults' or 'projectile'); presumably also αἰγλή 'shine', from the flicker of the light and the warm air to the south; common gr.- Illyrian -ks- > -ss-

The very name of the root lemma for goat derived from the shield of Zeus which after the crash with clouds created thunderstorm. Since the shield of Zeus was covered with goat's skin the very name of the goat was stamped with the name of the cloud shaker.

Hence Root / lemma: aiḡ- (goat) is identical with Root / lemma: aiḡ-3: (to move swiftly, move violently, swing, vibrate).

in addition Germanic name of the squirrel: Old High German eihhurno, eihhorn, Middle High German eichorn (Modern High German Eichhorn with support of Eiche `oak' and Horn `horn', Old English ācweorna, -wern, Middle Low German ēkeren, ēkhorn, Old Norse īkorne (īk old ablaut or impairment from aik- in addition?), New Norwegian also eikorne, Old Swedish ēkorne (was based on the concept `flexible, swinging itself from branch to branch'; in earliest with one to **uer-*, uēuer- `squirrel, weasel' the belonging second limb: **aik-werna*); Old Church Slavic igrъ, igra `play', igrati, perfective vъzigrati `σκιρτᾶν, hop, jump, dance' (from **ḡra*; Lithuanian with Berneker 422).

References: WP. I 11, Trautmann 103.

Page(s): 13-14

---

Root / lemma: aiḡ- (**aviḡ-*)

English meaning: goat

Note:

From the older root Root / lemma: aiġ- (**h<sub>2</sub>eviġ-*): 'goat', derived Root / lemma: ag<sup>w</sup>h-no-s (**heg<sup>w</sup>h-no-s*): 'lamb' and Root / lemma: āġ- : 'goat' : Root / lemma: kaġo- or koġo-, -ā- : 'goat'.*****

Material: Gr. αἶξ, - γός 'nanny goat', Armenian aic 'nanny goat'; zero grade Avestan izaēna- 'from leather ' (actually, 'from goatskin ' as gr. αἶγαιος, cf the same importance relations with **aġo-* 'goat ').

References: WP. I 8, Specht KZ. 66, 13.

Page(s): 13

---

Root / lemma: *aig<sup>w</sup>h-

English meaning: to be ashamed

Material: Directly from the root word: Old English æwan 'despise', 'be disgusted' also Middle Low German eichelen, ēchelen, ēgelen (from **aiwilōn*) (from it borrows Middle High German ekeln 'be disgusted').

Gr. αἶσχος n. 'disgrace' (from **aig<sup>w</sup>h-s-kos*, k- derivative of a s- stem **aig<sup>w</sup>hes-*, as:) Gothic aiwiski n. 'disgrace, embarrassment'; cf further αἰσχύνη 'shame, sense of honor, disgrace', αἰσχύνω 'dishonors, violates, disfigures', med. 'avoids me, is ashamed of me', αἰσχρός 'ignominious, full of disgrace; rebarbative'; Gothic unaiwisks 'unharmful', aiwiskōn act 'shameful', Old English æwisc(e) n. 'disgrace, offense', Adj. 'shameless', Middle Low German eisch 'nasty, hideous', nnd. eisk, aisch 'revolting, rebarbative'.

References: WP. I 7, Feist 30.

Page(s): 14

---

Root / lemma: *aik-

English meaning: to call (?)

Material: Gr. αἰκάζει καλεῖ Hes., Latvian aīcināt 'load, shout '.

But καλεῖ can be prescribed for αἰκάλλει 'flatters', and aīcināt a derivative from aĩ 'hears!' explain (cf vaicāt 'ask' to vaĩ).

References: WP. I 8, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 12.

Page(s): 15

---

Root / lemma: ai-2 (**avi-2*)

English meaning: to drive, to overwhelm, harm

Material: present \(a)ḥ-neu-mi*: Old Indic inóti, ínvati, Imper. inuhí, participle -inīta- (úpenīta- 'pushed, cut into'), 'penetrate into something, master', Avestan inaoiti, Inf. aēnaṇhe 'violate, hurt', ainīta (from **an-inīta* by haplology) 'not violated, not painedly' (from Old Indic énaś- n. 'Crime, sin, misfortune' = Avestan aēnah- 'act of violence, crime', in addition m. 'evildoer?'), Avestan intay- 'rape, injury; torture', Old Indic iná- 'strong; m. master', maybe also īti-ḥ f. 'plague, need'; gr. αἰώος 'tremendous';

maybe here -in- in Gothic faír-ina 'guilt, reproach', Old High German firinōn 'sin', Old Icelandic firn n. Pl. 'the extraordinary' (cf Weisweiler IF. 41, 29 f.), if original meaning 'act of violence'.

References: WP. I 1, Feist 139/140.

Page(s): 10

---

Root / lemma: ai-3, (**hei-*, heiyā)

English meaning: to give

Note:

Root / lemma: ap-1 (exact əp-): ēp-: 'to take, grab, reach, *give' > Root / lemma: ēpi-: 'comrade' > Root / lemma: ai-3: 'to give'.

Material: Gr. (**avinumai*) αἰνῦμαι 'take, pack, touch', only present and imperfect tense.

Venetic MN (**avi-mos*) Aimos, Illyrian MN (**ave-tar*) Aetor.

Latin (**ave-mulus*) ae-mulus 'emulous, rivalling; in bad sense, jealous. M. or f. as subst., a rival, esp. in love', probably as 'reaches for something' (Frisk Eranos 41, 53).

Tocharian B (**avi*) ai-, A e-, infinitive B (**avi-tsi*) aitsi, A essi 'give'; Hittite pa-a-i 'he gives', 3. Pl. pi(-ia)-an-zi with preverb pe- 'there'.

Note:

common Hittite pḫ<sub>1</sub>e-: Slavic pḫ<sub>3</sub>o-: Albanian pḫ<sub>2</sub>a- > pë- prefix.

References: Pedersen Groupement 20, Hittitisch 115, Tocharisch 227; Frisk Indo-Germanic 10 f.

See also: Here belongs certainly: ai-ti-, ai-to-

Page(s): 10-11

---

Root / lemma: ai-5: oi-

English meaning: important speech

Material: Gr. αἰνῆμι, αἰνέω 'praises', αἶνος m., αἶνη f. 'significant speech, praise'; αἰνίσσομαι 'talks in riddles', common gr.- Illyrian -ks- > -ss-; αἰνῖγμα n. 'dark speech' (however, ἀν-αίνομαι 'says no, deny' -/io- appears derivative of the negation ἀν-); ablaut, Middle Irish ōeth m. 'oath' (acymr. anutonou Pl., gl. 'the perjured, the perfidious', ncymr. anudon 'perjury, act of lying under oath') = Gothic aiþs m., Old Icelandic eiðr, Old English āþ, Old Saxon ēð, Old High German eid m. 'oath' (probably Celtic loanword).

References: WP. I 2, 103, Osthoff BB. 24, 208 f.

Page(s): 11

---

Root / lemma: ai-rā

English meaning: a k. of grass

Note:

Root / lemma: ai-rā : 'a k. of grass' is a reduced root **ai-tra* from which derived also Root / lemma: ai-tro- : 'bitter, sharp'.

Material: Old Indic ērakā 'a grass kind', gr. αἶψα 'weed in the wheat, ryegrass, darnel' αἰπικός, αἰπινός 'from ryegrass, darnel'), Latvian aīres, aīrenes 'ryegrass, darnel'.

maybe through metathesis alb. (**aīres > ēser*) egjēr 'Lolium temulentum, ryegrass, darnel' [common alb. -s- > -gj- shift].

References: WP. I 12, Specht Dekl. 206<sup>1</sup>.

Page(s): 16

---

Root / lemma: aisk- (**avisk-*)

English meaning: bright, shining

Material: Awnord. eiskra 'rage before hot excitement', nisl. iskra also from burning pain.

Lithuanian áiškus, where beside zero grade Old Lithuanian iškùs 'clear, bright'.

Russ. dial. jáska, demin. jásočka 'bright star', beside it Old Bulgarian jasno Adv. 'clear, bright, distinct', russ. jásnyj 'light, clear, bright' from **aiskno-*; poln. jaskry, jaskrawy 'blinding, dazzling, brilliant' from **aiskro-*; Old Bulgarian iskra 'spark' etc. from **iskrā*.

Also alb. zero grade (**jaskry*), shkrinj 'melt, burn', participle **scrum > shkrumb* 'ashes' [common alb. m > mb shift] loaned in Rumanian scrum 'ashes'.

Russ. dial. jáska, demin. jásočka 'bright star', besides Old Bulgarian jasno Adv. 'clear, distinct', russ. jásnyj 'bright, clear' from **aiskno*; poln. jaskry, jaskrawy 'brilliant, sparkling' from **aiskro*; Old Bulgarian iskra 'spark' etc. from **iskrā*.

Here the FIN Modern High German Aisch (Bavaria), Eysch(en) (Luxembourg), nengl. Axe from Celtic or Venetic-Illyrian **Aiskā*.

References: WP. I 2, Trautmann 4, Pokorny Urill. 70, 113, M. Förster Themse 839.

See also: perhaps originated from **aidh-sk-*, or from **ai-sk-* in āi-4.

Page(s): 16-17

---

Root / lemma: ais-1

English meaning: to wish for, search for

Note:

The Root / lemma: ais-1: 'to wish for, search for' is a truncated root of ai-ska. The formant -ska is a common Germanic suffix added to Root / lemma: ai-2: 'to drive, to overwhelm, harm'

Material: Old Indic éśati 'seeks, searches', ēśá-ḥ m. 'wish, choice', anv-iṣáti 'looks for' = Avestan iṣaiti 'wishes', Old Indic iccháti (**is-skō*) 'looks, wishes, strives, seeks for, desires' = Avestan isaiti ds., Old Indic icchā 'wish', iṣ (2. compound part) 'searching, striving after' = Avestan iṣ ds., f. 'wish, the object of the wish', Old Indic iṣta- 'desiredly' īṣmá- m. 'name of Kāmadeva, god of love';

Armenian aic (**ais-skā*) 'investigation'; Umbrian eiscurent (Bugge KZ. 30, 40) 'they will have caused to come, called, sent for, invited, summoned, fetched' (probably as **eh-iscurent* 'they will have driven out, pushed forth, thrust out, taken out, expelled'); Latin aeruscāre 'to beg, to get money by going about and exhibiting tricks of legerdemain, to play the juggler' as **aisos-ko-* 'demanding' to Avestan Imp. iśasā 'longs for' (-esko- besides -sko-: isaiti 'wishes'); Old High German eiscōn 'research, ask, demand, (Modern High German heischen 'demand' with h after heissen 'hot'), Old Saxon ēscōn, ēscian 'demand', Old English āscian, āxian 'try, demand, ask', Old High German eisca 'demand', Old English æsce f. 'investigation'; in Balto-Slavic with non-palatal k of the present suffix-skō (towards Aryan Armenian -sk-), what is not to be explained by borrowing from Germanic; Lithuanian ieškau, ieškóti 'look', Latvian iēskāt 'to delouse', Old Church Slavic iskq (and ištq), iskati 'look', iska 'wish'.

References: WP. I 12, WH. 19, Trautmann 67.

Page(s): 16

---

Root / lemma: ais-2

English meaning: to be in awe, to worship

Note:

The Root / lemma: *ais-2: 'to be in awe, to worship' is a truncated root of ai-ska. The formant -ska is a common Germanic suffix added to Root / lemma: *ai-3: 'to give'

Material: Old High German ēra, Modern High German Ehre, Old English ār 'Relief, considerate treatment, honour, luck ', Old Norse eir 'considerate treatment, peace, also name of the medicine goddess '; of it Old High German ērēn, ērōn 'honor, spare, betake ', Old English ārian 'honor, spare, betake ', Old Norse eira 'spare'.

Oscan aisusis Abl. Pl. 'sacrifices', Marrucinian aisos D. Pl. 'gods', Paelignian aisis 'gods ', Volscan esaristrom 'sacrifice ', Umbrian esono- 'divine, sacred ', come from Etruscan. Differently Devoto St. Etr. 5, 299 f.

d- extension: gr. αἰδομαι (from **aiz-d-) 'shies, reveres ', αἰδώς, -οῦς 'reverence, shyness, shame ', αἰδέομαι (*αιδέσ-ομαι*) 'αἰδομαι'; Gothic aistan, -aida 'avoid, pay attention '; zero grade Old Indic īḍé 'reveres, praises, implores '.

References: WP. I 13, WH. I 20, 419, 844; Feist 28 a, Kretschmer Gl. 30, 88<sup>2</sup>.

Page(s): 16

---

Root / lemma: ai-ti-, ai-to-: *oi-to-

English meaning: part, share, allotment, quantity, quota, portion, stake, stock, proportion, cut, contribution

Comments:

Root / lemma: ai-ti-, ai-to-: *oi-to-: 'part, share, allotment, quantity, quota, portion, stake, stock, proportion, cut, contribution' is a truncated root **ai-tra* into the suffixed Root / lemma: *ai-2: 'to drive, to overwhelm, harm' with the formant -tra.

Material: Avestan aēta- 'the proper part ('punishment '; dual 'guilt and punishment ').

Gr. αἶσα (**αἰτῐα*) 'interest, destiny ', hom. ἴσα, better ἴσσα 'the proper interest ', common gr.- Illyrian -ks-* > *-ss-; ἰσασθαι κληροῦσθαι. Λέσβιοι Hes.; αἴσιος 'promising good talent, favorable ', αἴσιος 'certain from the destiny, proper ', ἀναισιμῶ 'apply, use, consume ', αἰσυρνάω 'dispenses justice, it rules ';

δαιτῐάω (maybe dissimilated from **δαιτῐάω*) 'be a referee, leads; divide (the way of) life = leads a certain way of life; prescribe a certain measure in food and drinking ', hence, δῐαῐτῐα 'referee's office ' and 'life-style, life arrangement ', ἔξαιτῐος 'well-chosen, particular '.

Oscan Gen. aeteis 'partis', aíttíum 'portionum'.

From Gr. here probably also αἷτιος ` responsible, guilty ' (τ after αἰτέω), from which later αἰτία ` guilt, cause ' ; also αἰτέω, αἰρίζω 'demands' as ` requires his interest ' ; ablaut. οἶτος m. 'Destiny'.

Old Irish āes n., cymr. oes f. ` period, age ' from **ait-to-*, Old Irish āes m. 'People' from **ait-tu-*, cymr. oed m. 'Age' from **aito*.

References: WP. I 2, Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II, 82 f. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. 1 421<sup>3</sup>, 696<sup>9</sup>, 705<sup>7</sup>.

Page(s): 11

---

Root / lemma: ai-tro-

English meaning: [bitter, sharp]

Comments:

Root / lemma: ai-tro- : `bitter, sharp' is a truncated root **ai-tra* into the suffixed Root / lemma: ai-2 : `to drive, to overwhelm, harm' with the formant -tra.

Material: Lithuanian aitrūs `bitterly, harsh', aitrà f. `sharpness' (also figurative); the nasal formation **intro-* perhaps in Old Bulgarian ob-ętriti `set on fire', wru. zajátřič `anger', klr. roz-jatřýti ša `fester'.

References: WP. I 3, Berneker 269.

See also: perhaps in āi-4.

Page(s): 17

---

Root / lemma: aiu-, aiu-

Meaning: `vital energy, vitality'

Note:

Root / lemma: aiu-, aiu- : `vital energy, vitality' derived from reduced Root / lemma: *g*ej-3* and *g*ejə-* : *g*(i)jē-* : *g*(i)jō-* : *g*f-*, frequent, often with -u- extended: to live

Material: Old Indic āyu- n., a nominalized adjective to āyú- `flexible, active'; āyú-h m. `Genius of the vitality', thereof derived s-stem āyuh n., Gen. āyuśah `vitality' (**āiūs*, Gen. **aius-és*); n-stem in the locative. āyuni, Instr. āyunā, yúh `vitality';

Avestan āyū n. 'Life span', Gen. yaoš, dat. yavōi, Instr. yavā, of it yavaētāt- `duration', yavaējī- `living always'; yuš m. 'Life span';

Gr. s-stem: Cypriot υFαις ζαν (= διὰ βίου); locative without suffix. Iakón. αἰές 'always'; hom. αἰεί, Attic ἀεί (**αιFεσι*), Akk. Attic αἰῶ (**αιFoσα*); Dat.-Lok. without extension in Ionian αἰί, Lesbian ἄι (**αιFi*) (afterwards ἄϊδιος 'forever', δην-αἰός 'long-living'); n-stem: αἰών m. (and f. after αἰώς) `vitality, life span', αἰέν 'always';

alb. eshë `period of time; span; space; stretch; lapse ' from **aiuesiā* (Jokl L.-k. U. 34);

Latin o-stem aevus m. and aevum n. `eternity, age, time, lifetime, or time of life, a period of life ' ; however, are based aetas f. 'age: of human life, either a lifetime or time of life, age, a period of time, epoch', old aevitas (from it Oscan Gen. aitateis, Akk. aitatúm, Paelignian Abl. aetatu) `age, time of life ', aeternus `of an age, lasting, enduring, permanent, endless, forever' in adverbial **aiui*.

Gothic o-stem aiws m. `time, eternity, world ' ; i-stem adverbial aiw (**aiui*) = Old Icelandic æ, ei (also in ei-gi 'not'), Old English ā, ō, Old High German io `ever, always ', Gothic ni aiw 'never', Old High German neo, nio, Modern High German nie, Old English n-ā, engl. no `not, no ' ;

Maybe alb. (**ō*) jo `not, no' (common alb. -slav. j- prefix).

Old Icelandic *lang-æ*r = Latin longaevus `of great age, aged, ancient ' ; i-stem also in Old Icelandic æfi, ævi f. (**aiui*) `life, age ' ; ā-stem in Old High German ēwa f. `time, eternity ', thereof Old High German ēwidō 'eternity', ēwīg 'forever'; Gothic aju-k-dūps f. `eternity' from **ajuki-* (= Old English ēce `forever'), with Indo Germanic g-suffix + Indo Germanic-tūtī;

Tocharian A āym- `mind, life' which m attributed to āñm- `life '.

References: WP. I 6, WH. I 21, EM. 21, Feist 30, 32, Benveniste BSL 38, 103 ff, Dumézil BSL 39, 193, Specht KZ. 68, 196, Dekl. 88 ff., Van Windekens 15.

See also: From this derived **iuien-* (ieu-3) 'young'; Specht also wants very much risquély be put in addition **aig-*, oak ' (= `vitality '?).

Page(s): 17-18

---

Root / lemma: ai 1

Meaning: `exclamation'

Material: Old Indic ē exclamation of remembering, address, compassion;

Old Indic ai the same; ayi interjection with the vocative;

Avestan āi interjection of the phone call (before the vocative);

gr. αἶ, αἶ, αἶαἶ exclamation of the surprise, of astonishment or pain (thereof αἶαζω `sighs, deplores ', αἶαγμα 'sigh');

Lithuanian aĩ and ái `oh! blows! ' and before vocatives.

References: WP. I 1, WH. I 396, Benveniste Origines 130 f.

See also: see also **aik-*.

Page(s): 10

---

Root / lemma: aios- (**avios-*)

Meaning: 'metal (copper; iron)'

Note:

Root / lemma: aios- : 'metal (copper; iron)' derived from Root / lemma: eis-1 : 'to move rapidly, *weapon, iron'.

Material:

Old Indic áyas- n., Avestan ayaṇh- n. 'metal, iron';

Latin aes, g. aeris; Gothic aiz (proto Germanic **a(ɪ)iz-* = Indo Germanic **aies-*) 'copper ore, and the alloy of copper, bronze. Transf., anything made of bronze; a vessel, statue, trumpet, kettle ', Old High German ēr 'ore', Old Norse eir n. 'ore, copper'.

Maybe zero grade in Tocharian B (**aēnsuwan*, **anśuwan*) B eñcuwo ~ iñcuwo 'iron' : alb. (**heñcus*) hekur 'iron' : Latin aēnus : Umbrian ahesnes. Tocharian A **añcu* (id.) (attested in the derived adjective añcwāš) and B eñcuwo (iñcuwo is variant on the same order as inte is to ente, q.v.) reflect PTch **eñcuwo*. Further connections are uncertain. Schwarz (1974:409) compares Ossetic āndon 'steel' or Chorasmian hnčw 'id.' and suggests that the Iranian and Tocharian words might be borrowings from some adstratum language in the shape +_ **anśuwan*.

thereof Avestan ayaṇhaēna- 'metallic, iron ', Latin aēnus (**aies-no-* = Umbrian ahesnes 'of copper, of bronze '), aēneus, Old English æren, Old Saxon Old High German Middle High German ērīn, Modern High German ēren (ehern). despite Pokorny KZ. 46, 292 f. is not Indo Germanic aios old borrowing from Ajasja, older Aṭas(ja), the old name of Cyprus, as Latin cuprum : Κύπρος, there according to D. Davis (BSA. 30, 74-86, 1932) the copper pits were tackled in Cyprus only in late Mycenaean time.

Here Latin aestimō, old aestumō 'to appraise, rate, estimate the value of; to assess the damages in a lawsuit; in a wider sense, to value a thing or person; hence, in gen., to judge ', Denomin. from **ais-temos* 'he cuts the ore ' (to temnō).

References: WP. I 4, WH. I, 19, 20, Feist 31.

See also: To āi-4 'burn '?

Page(s): 15-16

---

Root / lemma: akkā

Meaning: 'mother (children's speech)'

Material: Old Indic akkā 'mother' (gram.), gr. 'Ακκώ 'nurse of Demeter', ἄκκω 'ghost', ἄκκίζεσθαι 'be coy, position oneself stupidly', Latin Acca Lārentia 'Laren mother, Roman hall goddess' (probably Etruscan); also into Small-Asian languages; compare lapp. Madder-akka 'earth mother'.

Maybe alb. Ajkuna 'great mother' in alb. epos.

References: WP. I 34, WH. I 5. about Tocharian ammaki see below am(m)a.

Page(s): 23

---

Root / lemma: *ak-, ok- (*heḱ-)*

Meaning: 'sharp; stone'

Material: 1. e/o- and *ā-*St:

Npers. ās (lengthened-grade form) 'millstone, grindstone'; gr. ἀκή 'point', lengthened-grade form Ionian ἡκή ἄκωκή, ἐπιδοπατίς, ἡκμή Hes., redupl. ἄκωκή 'point, edge' (as ἀγωγή : ἄγω); after Kretschmer KZ. 33, 567 and Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 348 belongs ἀκούω 'hears' as *ἄκ-ους- 'having sharp ear' here, see, however, 1. keu-; alb. athëtë 'sharp, sour', [common alb. -k > -th].

Latin acēre 'sharp, cutting, keen. Hence, to taste, biting; to touch, sharp; of sounds, shrill; of smells, penetrating; of sight, keen; of emotions, painful; of understanding, quick, vigorous, energetic', acidus 'sour, acid, tart', acētum 'vinegar'; with o: mbr. convoc ar vilin 'sharpen the millstone', cymr. hogi 'sharpen', acymr. ocoluin, ncymr. hogalen, Middle Breton hygo(u)len, nbret. higolenn 'whetstone' (with the unclear second component; to explain bret. vocalism of the initial sound by the pretone); (common Celtic -ns > -nn-), mc. cyfogi 'vomit, fight', with secondary -jo-suffix acymr. cemecid, ncymr. cyfegydd (**kom-okjjo-*) 'pickaxe'; with zero grade: acymr. diauc, ncymr. diog, mbr. dieuc (**dē-āko-*) 'decayed, spoiled', mcymr. ym-am-ogawr (\-ākā-ŕ*) 'one stirs, is active' (Loth RC. 45, 191) and mbr. eaug, nbret. eok 'ripe, made soft' (**eks-āko-*), to gall. exācum 'centaurion lepton' (Ernault Gloss. MBret. 201); compare also above S. 5;

Maybe alb. acar 'frost, sharp steel': Romanian acar 'signalman, pointman, switchman, pin cushion'.

Swedish ag m. 'marsh grass, Cladium mariscus, edge, blade' (**aġo-*), Middle High German ag 'perch', egle, eglin ds., Modern High German Swiss egel, Demin. egli, Old Swedish agh-borre ds., maybe also Swedish agg 'rancor, hatred', agga 'sting, torment', Norwegian dial. agge 'tooth, point' (**aġuko-* or expressive Gemination?), as well as (with secondary Germanic vowel gradation a : u or from **aġuko-* with assimilation a in u?) Norwegian dial. ugg 'sting, frightening', Swedish dial. ugg 'point, tooth', Old Norse uggr 'fear', Norwegian dial. ugge 'fin'; Lithuanian akúotas 'awn', āšaka (**aġo-kā*) 'fish bone, bran' = wruss. osoka 'sedge', Old Prussian ackons (**aġōno-*) ds.

Maybe alb. (**egel*), egjër 'Lolium temulentum, ryegrass, darnel' [common alb. -s- > -gj-].

-----

* Balto-Slavic forms with k prove none Indo Germanic beside the form ak-, but is partially loanword from Veneto-Illyrian, whose area would be occupied by people from the Baltic and Slavs (Kretschmer Gl. 21, 115). Also g in Church Slavic igla explains itself on top S. 15.

-----

2. i- and j- stems:

Armenian asetn 'needle' (from **asitn*, Meillet Esquisse 43); gr. ἄκίς, -ίδος 'point, sting'; Latin aciēs 'keenness, edge; of the mind, penetration, insight; of the eye, a piercing look or keen vision; sometimes the pupil of the eye, or the eye itself. Milit., battle line; hence battle, battlefield'; Old Saxon eggja f., Old High German etc ekka 'point, sword edge', Modern High German Ecke (proto Germanic **aġiō*, Old Norse egg 'edge, cliff backs', eggja 'sharpen, spur on', Old English ecg 'edge, blade, sword' (from it borrows Middle Irish ecg 'edge', nbret. ek 'point'), egle Pl. 'awns', engl. ails; Old Church Slavic osla (**osġla*), russ. osġtok m. 'whetstone', Czech osina f. 'awn'.

about Old English ēher 'ear' see below s- formant.

3. u- stem:

Gr. ἄχυρον 'chaff' see below s- formant; Latin acus, - ūs f. 'needle; fish name', acuere 'sharpen', acūmen 'sharp point; hence the point of remarks, etc.; sharpness of intellect; cunning, trickery', acia (**acu-iā*) 'thread to the sewed', aquifolium (beside ācrifolium) 'holly', aculeus 'sting', accipiter 'hawk, falcon' (**acu-peter* 'quick-flying');

Maybe alb. zero grade (**ccipiter*) skifter `hawk', shqiptar `eagle-man, Albanian ', shqiponjë `eagle', Shqipëri `land of the eagles, Albania', shqip `language of the eagle-men, Albanian language'.

Spanish aguijón : French aiguillon : Catalan agulló : Portuguese aguilhão : Romagnolo agucìon da tésta : Romanian (*(a)ghimpe) ghimpe : Albanian glemb, gjëmb `sting ' from Vulgar Latin aquileo, -onis < aquileus < acus `needle '.

English	needle
Italian	ago
Spanish	aguja
French	aiguille
Albanian Geg	gjyl-panë, Tosc gjil-përë
Aragones	agulla
Bergamasco	gogia
Bresciano	ocia ; ucia
Calabrese	acu ; saccurale ; zaccurafa
Catalan	aculla
Furlan	gusiele
Galician	agulla
Griko Salentino	velòni
Irish	snáthaid
Latin	acus
Mudnés	gàccia
Napulitano	aco
Nissart	agùlha
Paduan	ago
Piemontese	gucia
Portuguese	agulha
Romagnolo	agòccia
Romanian	ac
Sardinian Campidanesu	acu ; spigoni
Sardinian Logudoresu	acu ; agu
Sicilian	ugghia ; ugliola ; zaccurafa
Trentino	uza
Valencian	agulla
Venetian	ago ; ucia ; gucia

gall. acaunum (**akounon*) 'rock'; Illyrian ON Acumincum today Szlankamen 'salt stone' (Banat);

Modern High German Achel/f. 'ear point, awn' from ndd. aggel (with spirant. g) from Indo Germanic **aku-lā*; Old English āwe/m. 'fork', Old Norse soð-āl 'meat fork' (Germanic **ahwala-*, Indo Germanic **áku-olo-*); if here gallo-Latin opulus 'common maple' (Marstrander, Corr. Germanic-celt. 18), would be placed Indo Germanic **oku-olo-*; about Old Norse uggr etc. see el/o-stem, about Old English éar see s-formant; cymr. ebill 'drill', mbr. ebil 'peg, nail' (**áku-īlio-*);

Note:

The mutation kw > p, b in Celtic tongues, Latin and gr.

Baltic **ašus* in Latvian ass 'sharp, pointed', Lithuanian ašutā m. Pl. 'coarse horse hair' = Slavic **ošuta* m. 'thistle' in Church Slavic osъtъ, russ. osót. On account of here Tocharian A āçāwe 'rough' (Van Windekens Lexique 15)?

see below **ōku-s* 'fast (sharp in the movement)'.

4. With m-formant:

akmo-/ā

Gr. ἀκμή 'point, edge, sharpness; the highest point, climax, decisive point' (ἀκμήν Adv., ἀκμαῖος, ἀκμάζω); Swedish dial. ām 'marsh grass, Cladium mariscus' (Germanic **ahma-*, compare Finnish loanword ahma 'equisetum').

ak-men-/mer-

Old Indic aśman- n. 'stone, sky' (as a stone vault, Reichelt IF. 32, 23 ff.), aśmará- 'stone', Avestan asman- 'stone, sky' (Old Indic Gen. ásnaḥ, Instr. ásnā, Avestan Gen. ašnō, Abl. ašnāaī with -n- from -mn-; Instr. Pl. Old Indic aśnāih after o-stem); Phrygian PN Ἀκμονία; gr. ἄκμων 'anvil, meteor, heaven', ἄκμων ὁ οὐρανός; Lithuanian āšmens m. Pl. 'edge', akmuō, -eñs m. 'stone'.

5. With n-formant:

aken-

Old Indic aśáni-h 'head of the arrow, missile'; Avestan asəŋga-, Old pers. aθanga- 'stone' (**ak-en-go*, Benveniste Orig. 28); gr. ἄκαινα 'point, sting; longitudinal dimension' (however, about Latin acuna 'a cavity, hollow, dip; esp. a pool, pond. Transf., gap, deficiency, loss' see WH. I 9), ἀκόνη 'whetstone', ἄκων, -οντος 'spear' (for older ἄκων, *-ονος after the participles), ἀκοντίζω 'throw the spear', ἄκανος 'thistle kind, prickly head plant', ἀκανίζειν 'fruit carry prickly heads', ἄκανθος 'thistle' (from *ἀκαν-ανθος 'sting flower'), ἄκανθα 'thistle, sting, thorn, spine, esp. of the fish', ἀκαλανθίς 'goldfinch' (from *ἀκανθαλίς), ἄκαθος 'barque', ἀκάτη, ἀκάτιον 'woman's shoe' (**akn̥to-*, probably from the pointed form); Latin agna 'ear of grain' (from **aknā*); Gothic ahana f. 'chaff', Old Norse oŋn, Old English egenu f. and æegnan Pl., Old High German agana ds., Modern High German Ahne, dial. Agen 'stalk splinter of the flax or hemp' (Germanic **ag-*, **ahanō*, Indo Germanic **akənā*); Lithuanian žem. ašnis 'edge, sprouting, germinating, sowing', Latvian asns m. 'germ bursting out'.

6. With r-formant:

aker-, oker-

Note:

Many Germanic cognates prove that the real roots were the labiovelars: ak<sup>w</sup>er-, ok<sup>w</sup>er-

Old Irish a(i)cher 'sharp (from the hoist)', because of the Gen. Sg. Akeras (PN in the Ogham) not Latin Lw .; abret. acer-uission 'with sharp fingers' (biss), ocerou Pl. 'sharpened', acymr. ar-ocrion gl. atrocia; Lithuanian ašerỹs, ešerỹs 'river perch'; pol. dial. jesiora (from **aserā*); Old Norse oŋr ds. (from proto Germanic **agura-*, Indo Germanic **ok<sup>r</sup>-o-*), west-Norwegian augur (from **oŋgurr*, new development from oŋr), influenced by auga 'eye',

From the extension of Root / lemma: *ak-, ok- (**hek<sup>w</sup>-*): 'sharp; stone' with r-formant derived the labiovelars: ak<sup>w</sup>er-, ok<sup>w</sup>er- whose zero grade produced alb. (**k<sup>w</sup>erna*), gurrē 'stream' [common alb. m > rr shift], (**k<sup>w</sup>er-*) gur 'stone';

Here also maybe the name of the maple (due to the pointed leaf sections):

Latin acer, -eris n. 'the maple tree or maple wood' (from acer arbor became Vulgar Latin acerabulus, Meyer-Lübke REW. 93), Danish ær ds. (Germanic **ahira-*); Modern High German dial. Acher ds. (Germanic **ahura-*);

gr. ἄκαστος ἢ σφένδαμνος Hes. (*ἄκαρστος, meaning as πλατάνιστος beside πλάτανος; to stem compare also ἄκαρνα δάφνη Hes.); gallo Rome. **akaros*, **akarnos* `maple' (Hubschmied RC. 50, 263 f.); Old High German ahorn `maple'

(from Swiss and other oral kinds would develop certainly ā -, however, ā - would have arisen also of people's etymological distortion, like Middle Low German ānhorn, ālhorn; ahorn (Indo Germanic **akrno-*) is up to the declension class = ἄκαρνα, while Latin acernus `of maple' is syncopated from **acer-inos*; however, that n has probably also arisen from the former adjective material developing formants -no- and not from r/n-stem by accumulation of both elements.

Rather that counts for gr. ἄκορνα (*-ια) `yellow thistle kind' ἄκανος ds., maybe here also ἄκορος `Kalmus', ἄκορον `his spicy root', compare with other forms still ἄκινος f. `odoriferous flower', ὠκίμον `basil' (if here suitably, named after the sharp smell?).

akri-, akro-

Old Indic ásriḥ `corner, edge, border', catur-aśra-ḥ `square'; gr. ἄκρος `sharply', ἄκρον, ἄκρα, ἄκρις `point, mountaintops' (also in ἀκροάομαι as `have sharp hearing, sharpen the ear', and ἀκρίς, -ίδος `grasshopper', short form for ἀκροβατοῦσα `tiptoe', ἀκρίζουσα; ἀκρεμῶν `point of the boughs', see to the formation Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 1, 241);

Latin (to ā see Frisk IF. 56, 113 f.) ācer, ācris, -e (Old Latin ācra, -um) `sharp, piercing, penetrating, cutting, irritating, pungent', Oscan akrid `sharply, fiercely, keenly', Umbrian peracri- `fat, plump, corpulent' (= Latin perācer `very sharp', compare to meaning gr. ἄκρος, also `uppermost, excellent', and ἀκραιῶς), Latin acerbus `acidic, sad, harsh, bitter, unripe' (from **ācri-bʰo-s*); compare gall. AXPOTALVS `with high forehead', Old Irish ēr `high' (from **akros*); Lithuanian ašrūs, aštrūs, Old Lithuanian aštras, Old Church Slavonic ostrъ `sharp' (t - interpolated wording).

okri-, okro-

With shading o-: gr. ὄκρις f. `sharp' mountain point, corner, edge', Old Latin ocris m. `rough mountain', Latin mediocris `average, mediocre, of middling size, medium, middling, moderate, ordinary', actually `to be found halfway up' (here ablaut could be displayed in the compound like in extorris: terra, meditullium: tellūs), Ocriculum, Interocrea, ocrea `splint, a greave, legging', Umbrian ocar, ukar, Gen. ocrer `mountain, castle mountain', marr. ocres ` a mountain, mount, range of mountains ', Middle Irish och(a)ir ` corner, edge ', from it borrows cymr. ochr `edge'.

To the heteroclite paradigm **ak-r(g)*, **ak-n-es* (also the i-stem **aki-* can have combined with it) compare above akmen/mer-, Pedersen KZ. 32, 247, Johansson Beitr. 9, Petersson IF. 24, 269 ff.; as notable the apposition appears thereof from gr. Κράγος ` name of different mountains ', Ἀκράγ-ας the 'Agrigentum' which might have signified originally ` rocks, stones'.

7. With s-formant:

akes-* : *aks-

Gr. ἄχνη `chaff' from **ak-s-nā*, afterwards reshuffled ἄχυρον ds. instead of **ἄκυρον*; gr. ἄκοσ-τή 'Barley' (`awned, bristly ', formation like lat onus-tus, venus-tus); gr. ῥέξ ὀξύ, Hes. πυρι-ῥέκης ` with igneous point ', ἀμφήκης `two-edged', τανύηκης `with long point ' (maybe only with stretch in the compound, after which the length also in simple ῥέξ; however, lies lengthened grade **āk-* also before in Ionian ῥκή ἄκωκή, ἐπιδορατίς, ἀκμή Hes., ῥκάδα ῥνδρωμένην γυναῖκα Hes., compare to meaning ἀκμή `climax of life').

maybe zero grade in alb. (**ἄκοσ-τή*) kash-tē `chaff (**barley*)' where -tē is the neuter ending, (**ἄχνη*), sanē `chaff'.

additional formations in gr. ὀξύς `sharp', compare to formation Lithuanian tamsùs to Old Indic tāmas-, Lithuanian tamsa ` (in addition ὀξίνη `harrow' Hes.), ὄξος `wine vinegar'. - Also **ἀκαχμένος* `sharpened' seems to be **ἀκ-ακσ-μένος*, Hirt IF. 12, 225.

Note: common gr. -gh- > -ξ-

Latin acus, -eris ` a needle ' acervus (**aces-vo-s*) ` a heap, mass; in logic, argument by accumulation ' ; Gothic ahs Gen. **ahsis* n., Old Icelandic ax n., Old High German ahir, ehir n. (Germanic **ahiz*), from the Pl. Modern High German ` ear of corn ' f., but Old English ear (**ahuz*), dat. Sg. North Umbrian æhher, eher ds. (about the coexistence from í, u- and s-stems, partly already Indo Germanic, but esp. in Germanic, compare Brugmann compare Gr. II 1, 522, under Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 152. On account of originally Indo Germanic -es- or -is-, or *-us-*stem display, is difficult in the isolated case to decide. compare also Sievers-Brunner Aengl. Gr. pp. 128, 2 under 288 f.)

ak-sti-

Cymr. eithin m. Pl. 'gorse, furze' (**akstīno-*), from it borrows Middle Irish aittenn ds. (with unclear sound gradation); (common Celtic -ns- > -nn-), Lithuanian akstis following 'smoked spit' (= russ. ostʹ 'point, ear, spike'), ākstinas m. 'Sting, spur' = Old Church Slavic ostъnъ m. 'Sting', Czech osten ds.

Maybe alb. (**osten*) hosten 'stick for driving cattle' Slavic loanword.

8. With t formant:

Old Indic apāṣṭhā m. (from **apa-aś-ṭha*) 'barb in the arrow'; gr. ἀκτὴ 'gruff coast with breaker; headland, elevation'; Tocharian B āç-, āççe- 'head, beginning' (from **aĕ-t*).

oketā 'harrow, device with points':

Latin occa 'harrow' from **otika* by metathesis from **okitā* (Hirt IF. 37, 230)? compare different formations gr. ὀξίην 'harrow';

Note: common gr. -gh- > -ξ- acymr. ocet, corn. ocet, bret. oguet: Old High German egida, Middle High German eg(e)de, Old English eg(e)de f. (Modern High German Egge renewed from the verb eggen from Old High German egen, ecken, proto Germanic **agjan*, on its part only from the Subst. **agidō* revert formation);

Lithuanian akėčios, ekėčios 'harrow', Old Prussian aketes 'harrows', ē instead of e derives from the verb **akējō* in Lithuanian akėju, akėti, besides akėju, ekėti, the anlaut (initial sound) a- frequently has become e in an unstressed position a before palatal vowel (Endzelin Lett. Gr. 36).

References: WP. I 28 ff., WH. I 6 ff., Specht Dekl. 24, 69, 125, 271, 331. Specht KZ. 62, 210 ff. (un glaubhaft).

See also: S. under **ok-tōu* 'eight', actually 'both points of the hands (without thumb)'.

zero grades k̑- stuck probably in stems k̑emen-, k̑emel-, k̑ōmen- 'stone, skies', k̑omor- 'stone hammer', k̑ēi-, k̑ōi-, k̑əi- 'sharpen, whet', k̑ū- 'sharp, spit, spear'.

Page(s): 18-22

Meaning: `to eat'

Note:

From Root / lemma: aṛ-, oṛ- (**hekʷ-*): `sharp; stone' derived Root / lemma: aṛ-1, aṛō- (**hek-*): `to eat'

Material: Old Indic aśnāti (inserted Inf. aśi-tum etc.) `eats, consumes', áśanam n. `food', áśna-ḥ `greedy', lengthened grade āśayati `allows to dine', prātar-āśa-ḥ `breakfast'; Avestan kahrk-āsa `chicken eater = vulture' etc.;

gr. ἄκυλος f. `acorn' (as `food', compare formally Old Indic aśú-ṣa-ḥ `greedy'), ἄκυλος `bite';

Old Norse agn n. `bait for fish' (**aḱə-nó-*), æja `allow to graze' (**ahjan*).

References: WP. I 112 f., WH. I 210 f.

Page(s): 18

---

Root / lemma: aṛu

Meaning: `tear'

Material: Ved. áśru n., later also áśram `tear', Avestan asrū- n., Lithuanian ašara and āšara f., Tocharian A ākār Pl. ākrun ds., compare Old Indic aśrāyāmi, Lithuanian āšaroju `cries'. The relationship to Indo Germanic **daṛu* `tear' is unsettled. compare Meillet BSL. 32, 141.

Note:

Root / lemma: aṛu: `tear' derived from Root / lemma: daṛu-: `tears'. The phonetic shift da- > a-, zero is a common Baltic Illyrian. Compare Root / lemma: del-5: `long': Baltic with unexplained d-loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. `long': Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) `long', da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugastī) n. `length'. This is a sound proof of Aryan migration from the Baltic region to North India.

References: WP. I 33, WH. I 746.

Page(s): 23

---

Root / lemma: aṛā- (more properly aḱā-): ēḱā-

Meaning: `water, river'

Note:

From Root / lemma: angʷ(h)i-: `snake, worm' derived Root / lemma: aṛā- (more properly aḱā-): ēḱā-

: 'water, river'; Root / lemma: eǵhero- : 'lake, inner sea'; Root / lemma: ad(u)-, ad-ro- :

'water current': Illyrian Pannonian VN 'Οσεριᾶτες [common alb.- Illyrian -Baltic -ǵh- > -d-, -z-].

From Root / lemma: akʷā- 'water, river' nasalized in **akuent-* (suffixed in -er, -or) derived Root / lemma: au(e)-9, aʷed-, aʷer- : 'to flow, to wet; water, etc.'

Material:

Latin aqua 'water, water pipe' (thereof aquilus 'dark', aquila 'eagle', actually 'the swarthy', aquilō 'north wind', actually 'the darkening sky') = Gothic ahva f. 'river, body of water', Old Icelandic ó, Old English ēa, Old Saxon Old High German aha, Modern High German Ache ds. (Germanic **ahwō*, thereof derived **ahwjō*, **awjō* 'surrounded by the water' in Old Icelandic eyf. 'island, pasture, grassland', Old English íeg, Old High German -ouwa, -awa, Middle High German ouwe f. 'water, peninsula in the river, grassland rich in water';

Maybe alb. (**aquilō*) akull 'frozen water, ice'

It seems that Root / lemma: akʷā- (more properly ekʷā): ēkʷ- : (water, river) derived from Root / lemma: ak-, ok- : (sharp; stone).

Modern High German Aue, compare Old Frisian ei-land 'island', Sca(n)din-avia

Kretschmer Gl. 17, 148 ff.), russ. FIN Oká, Pannonian PN Aquincum 'stove (*cooking stove where water boils making bubbles)', apul. FIN Aquilō, Venetic PN Aquileia (also in South Germany); with ablaut (Indo Germanic ē) in addition Old Icelandic ægir (**ēkʷjós*) 'God of the sea', Old English æg-weard 'watch at the sea', éagor 'sea, flood' (the initial sound after ēa); maybe here Old Indic kām 'water', dak. plant N κοαδάμα ποταμογείτων 'water colonist' (**kʷa-dʰēm̥*), poln. (North Illyrian) FIN Kwa.

The affiliation from Hittite e-ku-uz-zi (ekuzi) 'drinks', 3. Pl. a-ku-wa-an-zi, seems not unlikely. Moreover also Tocharian AB yok-tsi 'drink'. Old Irish oiche 'water' does not exist; cymr. aig 'sea' is neologism to eigion from Latin oceanus.

From PIE the root for water, ocean, passed to Altaic:

Protoform: **ōkʰe* (~ -k-)

Meaning: 'deep place, place far from the shore'

Turkic protoform: **ōkü*

Tungus protoform: \(x)uK-*

Japanese protoform: **əki*

Note: The parallel seems plausible; the common meaning here may be formulated as "a place (in the sea or river) distant from the shore".

References: WP. I 34 f., WH. I 60, 848, Feist 18 f., Pedersen Hittitisch 128, Tocharisch 190.

Page(s): 23

---

Root / lemma: ak<sup>w</sup>-

Meaning: 'to hurt'

Material: Old Indic áka m 'grief, pain', Avestan akō 'nasty, bad', axtis 'grief, pain, illness'; gr. noun **ἄπαρ*, **ἄπνός*, thereof ἡπανεῖ ἀπορεῖ, ἡπανία ἀπορία, ἡπεροπεύς 'swindler'; Verbalst. ἀπ- in ἀπάτη 'deception' (**ap<sup>h</sup>tā*), redupl. Present ιάπτω 'damage'.

Note: common gr. -k<sup>w</sup>- > -p-, -g<sup>w</sup>- > -b-

References: Kuiper Gl. 21, 282 f.

Page(s): 23

---

Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>i-

Meaning: 'barley'

Note:

Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>i- : 'barley' derived from a truncated Root / lemma: ereg<sup>w</sup>(h)o-, erog<sup>w</sup>(h)o- : 'pea' [common gr. -k<sup>w</sup>- > -p-, -g<sup>w</sup>- > -b-].

Material: Gr. ἄλφι, ἄλφιτον 'barley, pearl barley, barley flour', lakon. ἀλίφατα ἄλφιτα ἡ ἄλευρα Hes. (with gradual growth vowel i; Ehrlich KZ. 38, 55, in ἄλφι : ἄλφατα from which by intersection with ἄλφι then ἄλφιτ-α, -ov - sees a relation as between Old Indic ást<sup>h</sup>-i : ast<sup>h</sup>-n-áh, what would guarantee older proto Indo Germanic of the word); alb. el<sup>p</sup> (elbi) 'barley' (N. Pl. **ab<sup>h</sup>i-*). Iran. **ab<sup>h</sup>i-* conclusions Vasmer Stud. z. alb.Wortf. I (Dorpat 1921) S. 16 ff. from turko-tatar. etc arba 'barley'.

relationship to **ab<sup>h</sup>-* 'white' assumes Specht Dekl. 68 Old Norse

From Iranian branch the name for barley passed to Altaic family:

Protoform: **àp<sup>h</sup>á*

Meaning: 'barley, millet'

Turkic protoform: **arpa*

Mongolian protoform: **arbaj*

Tungus protoform: **arpa*

Japanese protoform: **àpá*

Note: EAS 90, KW 15, Poppe 87. АПиПЯЯ 67. The Mong. form cannot be explained as a Turkism (despite TMN 2, 24, Щербак 1997, 100). The Turkic form is sometimes compared with Proto-Iran. *arba- (corresponding to Gr. alphi), cf. East Iranian forms going back to *arpasyā- (or *arbasyā) (Стеблин-Каменский 1982, 23), but it is not identical (loss of the final syllable is hard to explain); on the other hand, the Jpn. parallel is a strong argument in favour of the Altaic origin of the Turkic form.

References: WP. I 92, Jokl Festschrift Kretschmer 78 f., Kieckers IE. 41, 184, Wahrmann Gl. 17, 253.

Page(s): 29

---

Root / lemma: alb<sup>h</sup>o- (**hel<sup>h</sup>o-*)

Meaning: 'white'

Note:

Root / lemma: alb<sup>h</sup>o- (**hel<sup>h</sup>o-*): 'white' derived from Root / lemma: el-1, ol-, el-: red, brown (in names of trees and animals) extended in -b<sup>h</sup>o- formant, see gr. ἔλαφος m. f. 'stag (white spotted) '.

Material:

Gr. ἀλφός 'white rash', ἀλφούς λευκούς Hes. (also ἀλωφός λευκός Hes., s. below), FIN Ἀλφειός;

Latin albus 'white, dead white; hence pale or bright; sometimes making bright; fig., fortunate', Umbrian alfu 'white', Oscan Alafaternum Alafaternum 'Alfaternorum', prälig. Alafis 'Albius' (and many other names partly Etruscan coinage due to Oscan-Umbrian root alf-, as Latin alb-, s. Schulze Latin Eig. 119 f.; etr. Pronunciation from Latin albus also must be that of Paul. Diac. 4 L. as Sabine called alpum); in addition albula, alburnus 'whitefish', albarus 'white poplar', albūcus 'asphodel plant' etc.;

cymr. elfydd m. 'earth, world' from **albījo-* (compare Old Church Slavic svěť 'light, world');

Old High German albiz, elbiz, Old English aelbitu, ielfetu, Old Norse elptr, elpt f. (Germanic **alb-it-*, -ut-) 'swan', (forms -d- in animal names: s. Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 1, 467, Charpentier KZ. 40, 433 f., Specht Dekl. 229; also:) Old Church Slavic lebedь, russ. lebedь lebjadь, in the ablaut to poln. tabędź, serb. lābud, Czech labud 'swan' (proto Slavic **olb-edь*, -edь, -odь, compare to the latter suffix form Lithuanian bal-añdis 'pigeon, dove', actually 'white'; see Meillet Et. 322, MSL. 14, 377, Schulze SBprAk. 1910, 800 = Kl. Schr. 122 f.; named after the color russ. lebedá, poln. lebioda, toboda 'atriplex, goosefoot', Lidén Stud. 97); Dutch alft, elft 'whitefish' (formally = Old High German etc albiz 'swan'; to loanword from Latin albula 'whitish' in contrast to it Falk-Torp 189 f. are against, Middle High German albel 'whitefish', Modern High German Albe, Low German alf, albe 'whitefish'), compare Latin alburnus 'a white fish, bleak' ds. ;

Modern High German Dialectal Albums 'hard sand under the fertile earth', Swedish Dialectal alf ds. ; probably also Old Norse alfr, Old English ælf, engl. elf (from which Modern High German Elfm., Elfe f. borrowed), Middle Low German alf 'Alp, grand, evil spirit', Middle High German Modern High German Alp, Pl. the Alben (originally probably 'whitish nebulous figures'), as well as Old High German alba 'insect larva, locusta quae nondum volavit', Dutch elften f. Pl. 'cock chafer grubs', Norwegian alma ds. (m from the Gen. Pl. **albna*, from which **almna*).

Note:

The Illyrian TN Albanoi is the plural form Middle High German Modern High German Alp, Pl. the Alben (originally probably 'whitish nebulous figures') a primitive Indo European people who believed in evil spirits before an elaborate mythology developed later.

Arbën 'name of alb. during Middle Ages' see to these Germanic words esp. Falk-Torp under aame (4, 1428), al (19, 1431), alv (22, 1431), elvi (188 f., 1454), emd (189, 1454); as 'white water' also the name of Elbe (Latin Albis, Albia, from Germanic **Albī*, Gen. Albiōz =), Old Norse elfr 'river' and river name (in addition probably also Middle Low German elve 'riverbed'), compare gall. FIN Albis, Albā (now Aube; contrast Dubis, Dubā, i.e. 'black, deep water'), Latin Albula, gr. Ἀλφειός (see esp. Schulze SBprAk.1910, 797 = Kl. Schr. 120).

Note: common gr. -k<sup>w</sup>- > -p-, -g<sup>w</sup>- > -b-

In contrast to this assumption, it is doubtful from or in which circumference names like gall.-Latin Albiōn, Middle Irish Albbu, Gen. Albban (stem **Alb<sub>2</sub>-ien-*) 'Britain' (to cymr. elfydd or from the white chalk rocks), Latin Alpēs, Ἀλπεις (high mountains?) and in Italian, Ligurian and Celtic areas frequent local name like Alba, Albium likewise below go back or, however, are not Indo Germanic derivation of the concept 'white' (Bertoldi BSL. 32, 148, ZrP. 56, 179 f.).

Armenian atauni 'pigeon, dove', barely for **alab<sup>h</sup>-n-* (Bugge KZ. 32, 1, Pedersen KZ. 38, 313), see below. About the affiliation of **alb<sup>h</sup>-i-* **alb<sup>h</sup>-i-* 'barley' s. d.

Maybe here belongs Hittite al-pa-áš (alpas) 'cloud' in spite of Cuvreur (H 106, 149) here.

To the ablaut: beside **ab<sup>h</sup>o-s* seems to be two-syllable root form in gr. ἄλωφός (also ἑλεφρίτις?) and Armenian aṭauni, and in addition tuned Slavic intonation (serb. lǎbūd), s. Osthoff IF. 8, 64 f., Pedersen aaO.

This additional -b<sup>h</sup>o- one syllable is in color names frequent suffix (e.g. Latin galbus Lithuanian raĩbas 'in different colors, multicolored, dappled' beside raĩnas; Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 1, 388 f), **ab<sup>h</sup>os* is obtainable in monosyllabic root **al-* and on the other hand ἄλωφός is possible according to Brugmann aaO.

to Lithuanian aĩvas 'tin' ('white metal'), Old Prussian alwis 'lead, plumbum', russ. ólovo 'tin' (from Indo Germanic **aləyo-*? Baltic correspondences are borrowed according to Niedermann from the Slavic) stand in a similar relation, as gr. κορῶ-νός to Latin curv-us 'crooked, curved, bent', Old Indic palā-la-ḥ (: palāv-aḥ) to Old Prussian pelwo, also go back to a word root **alǵu-*: **aləu-*: **alu-* (in Armenian aṭawni and Slavic words);

Note:

From Baltic - Slavic the notion for 'white metals, white color, sick white' passed to Altaic family:

Protoform: **ñiālpá*

Meaning: 'tin, lead'

Tungus protoform: **ñāľban*

Japanese protoform: **nāmári*

Note: An interesting TM-Jpn. isogloss; cf. also Old Koguryo **naimul* (see Miller 1979, 8). Jpn. **nāmá-ri* < **nāpan-(r)i*, with usual regressive nasalization.

Earlier:

Protoform: **ǎľpa*

Meaning: 'unable, sick; being at service, man-at-arms'

Turkic protoform: **ǎľp-*

Mongolian protoform: **alba-n*

Tungus protoform: **alba-*

Korean protoform: **ārphǎ-*

Japanese protoform: **apar-*

Note: Poppe 85, 121 (Turk-Mong.); TMN 2, 110-111.

gr. ἐλεφίτις is sufficient by the reshuffle to which animal names and plant names are exposed everywhere, in order to ensure in addition still **alē-b<sup>h</sup>-*; here as ` the shining one ' gall. alause ` European shad, twaite shad ' (French alose, span. alosa), compare also gall. GN Alaunos, Alounae, brit. FIN Alaunos (nengl. Aln), cymr. PN Alun as well as Armenian atauni ` pigeon, dove ' from **alēu-n-*.

A stem form ali- ` white ' is not provable, in spite of Specht Dekl. 114, because Hittite ali- ` white ' appears very uncertain (Couvreur H 149 f., Friedrich IF. 58, 94) and gr. ἀλίφαλος, ἀλίφατα, ἄλιξ are to be explained differently.

Here, however, probably (as a ` pale yellow plant ') hisp.-Latin ala ` elecampane ' (Isid.), span.-portug. ala ds., furthermore with -nt-suffix Old High German alant ds., with it etymological identical the fish name Old High German alunt (newer alant), Old Saxon alund ` whitefish, Alant' = (with gramm. alteration) Old Icelandic - qlunn ` a fish', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns- > -nn-), Indo Germanic basic form **al-nt-/*al-ont-*. The original meaning of al- is probably `white, shining', hence, then also `pale yellow' etc.

A precise separation of the meanings of al- and el- is not always possible, which is why Specht (Indo Germanic Dekl. 59, 160) explained both stems as originally identical, thus al- as el- leads back to el-, with which he associates further (aaO. 114) the color root ar- (see below areġ-), er-.

References: WP. I 92 ff., WH. I 26 f.

Page(s): 30-31

---

Root / lemma: al<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: `trough'

Material: Old Norse alda f. `wave, upsurge, hostility, warfare'; Norwegian dial. olda f. `trough'; Swedish dial. ålla `deep cavity'. compare Old English ealdob, aldot, aldaht `trough, tub, container', Modern High German Bavarian alden `field furrow'.

In addition Balto-Slavic **aldijā* in Church Slavic ladiji, al̨dijj f. `small boat', Lithuanian aldijà, eldijà f. `river small boat', also Lithuanian eldijėlė `smoking frying pan'.

Norwegian lodje `Russian vessel, boat', Swedish lodja, Middle Low German lod(d)ie, loddige are borrowed from russ. lodbjá (= asl. ladiji). Falk-Torp 652 (see also 789 under `olde').

References: WP. I 92, WH. I 35, Trautmann 6.

Page(s): 31-32

---

Root / lemma: aleq-

Meaning: `to hit back, shoot'

Material: Old Indic rākṣati `defended, protected, preserved', Armenian aracel `graze, protect, watch, guard' (Pisani KZ. 68, 157), gr. ἀλέξω `prevent, protect, fight off' (so-present; rākṣati because of this correspondence not more probably to equally meaning root areq-), Ἀλέκτωρ, Ἀλεκτρυών the epic proper names, after becoming known as the cock were used for the name of this contentious bird (Fick Cstem 9, 169, Kretschmer KZ. 33, 559 ff., Boisacq 1091 f.); ἀλακεῖν `defend, refuse, fend', ἀλκάθω `defends, helps', ἄλκαρ `Protection, defense, help', ἑπαλις `Protection, parapet, (esp.) battlement of the walls; help' (*αλκ-τι-ς), ἀλκή `defense, help' and `thickness, strength' (latter meaning, although in itself from `vigorous defense' understandable, maybe by flowing together with another, Middle Persian ark `work, effort, trouble' to suitable words, see Bartholomae Heidelbg. SB. 1916, IX 10); ἀλκι πεποιθώς Hom.; ἄλκιμος `strong, hard, potent; from weapons: `resistable, suited to the fight';

Old English ealgian `protect, defend' (**algōjan*); Gothic alhs (f., conservative stem) `temple', Old English ealh, Old Saxon alah m. ds., Proto Norse-Runic aluh `amulet' (?), Old Lithuanian elkas, ālkas m. `holy grove, place on a hill where one has made of early victims', Latvian ēlks m. 'Idol, god' (Germanic and Baltic words originally `holier, seclusive or the usufruct deprived grove');

Tocharian B alāsk `remove'.

References: WP. I 89 f.

See also: S. similar root areq- `close, protect'.

Page(s): 32

---

Root / lemma: algh- (**helgh-*)

Meaning: `frost, cold'

Material:

Latin algor `frost, cold', algeō, -ēre `freeze, to be cold', belong algidus `cold' according to Lidén, studies z. Old Indic and compare Sprachgesch. 66, to Old Icelandic Gen. Sg. elgiar, nisl. elgur m. `snow flurry with strong frost, half-molten snow'. Germanic s-stem **alziz-* disguised itself with Latin algor, Indo Germanic **alghes-*.

References: WP. I 91, WH. I 29. compare Petersson Aryan under Arm. Stud. 126.

---

Root / lemma: alg<sup>w</sup>h-

Meaning: 'to earn, price, value, *precious bright metal'

Material: Old Indic árhati 'is worth, earns, is obliged, debit, ', arghá-h 'value, validity, price' (=osset. ary 'price, value'), Avestan arəjaiti 'is worth, amounts for value' (npers. arzīdan 'earn'), arəjah- (es- stem) n. 'value, price'.

maybe alb. (**árhati*) argat 'worker, serf', argëtoj 'entertain, reward, please, become lazy', argomë 'barren, unproductive'.

Gr. ἀλφή 'acquisition, purchase' = Lithuanian algà, Old Prussian Gen. Sg. ālgas 'wage', gr. ἀλφάνω, ἀλφεῖν 'profit, earn' (ἀλφεῖν = Old Indic árhati, but by the more complete present ἀλφάνω in the validity embedded as an Aorist), ἀλφεσίβοιος 'cattle earned'. Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

An additional form on voiced-nonaspirated is Old Indic arjati 'acquires, earns, fetches'.

References: WP. I 91.

Page(s): 32-33

---

Root / lemma: al-1, ol-

Meaning: 'besides; other'

Note:

Root / lemma: al-1, ol-: 'besides; other' derived from Root / lemma: alā: interjection.

Material: Latin uls 'beyond', **ulter*, -tra, -trum 'ulterior, situated beyond' (ultrō, ultra), compounds ulterior, Sup. ultimus = Oscan últiumam 'the utmost, extreme, the highest, first, greatest, lowest, meanest';

Maybe alb. ultë, ulët 'low', ul 'to low, sit below': Latin ulterior -ius 'compar. as from ulter, farther, more distant, more advanced, more remote'.

Old Latin ollus 'that, that yonder, that one; emphatically, that well-known; in contrast with hic, the former, (sometimes the latter)' (**ol-no-s*, compare below Irish ind-oll and Slavic **olnŭ*), newer olle, ollī 'then, next', ollīc 'he, she, that, in that place, yonder, there'; lengthened grade ōlim 'in the distant past, once' (probably after im, exim reshaped and with Old Indic par-āri 'third-last year' [compare πέρ-υσι] to be equated **ōlī*, Lok. adverb, also the glosses olitana 'the aged, old, ancient, of long standing', olitinata 'old, inveterate, ancient, former, of old times' can reject - ō or ō? - ), Umbrian ulo, ulu 'that, that yonder, that one; emphatically, that well-known; in contrast with hic, the former, he, she, it yonder, that ' ; influenced by is, iste etc. the cognates ollus, olle would be uncolored to ille 'that, that yonder, that one; emphatically, that well-known; in contrast with hic, the former, (sometimes the latter) '.

Slavic **olnī* (Indo Germanic **oln-e*) = Old Church Slavic lanī, Czech lonī, poln. loni 'in the last summer, last year ' ( ' that year ', compare Latin ollī 'at that time, then').

The meaning from Irish alltar, allaid (see below) also allows that the relationship of Old Indic āraṇa- 'far, strange ' (= Avestan auruna- 'wild?'), ārād 'from a distance', ārē 'far ' seems possible. Moreover also maybe Old Indic arī 'of strangers, stranger ', ar(ī)yá- 'suitable, proper to the stranger ' (compare Old High German eli-lenti 'foreign land '), then Subst. 'hospitable, lord, master, ruler, man ', in addition ār(ī)ya- to ar(ī)yá-, suitable, hospitable ', hence, VN 'Arier = Aryan', āryaka- 'venerable man ', aryamān- n. 'Hospitality ', m. 'Guest's friend ';

maybe Arrianes Illyrian TN.

Avestan airyō (= ārya), Old pers. āriya (= ariya), 'Aryan ', Avestan airyaman 'guest, friend ', npers. ērmān 'guest ', in addition sarmat. VN 'Αλανοί (osset. **alan*), osset. ir 'Ossete', iron 'Ossetic' 'Ossetic ' (P. Thieme*), the stranger in the Rigveda, fig. f. d. client d. Morgenl. XXIII 2, 1938; Specht KZ. 68, 42 ff.);

Old Irish aire (**arios*) and airech 'nobleman, of noble people, suitor ' can belong to preposition air- 'in front of ', thus 'standing in the first place ', (Thurneysen ZCP. 20, 354); mythical Irish ancestor Eremón is scholar neologism to Ériu 'Ireland '. see below arīo- 'lord, god, master '.

-----

*) Thus Thieme (aaO. 159 f.) properly puts here reinforcing prefix gr. ἐπι- (reduced grade ἄπι-), e.g. ἄπι-γνωτος 'easily (the stranger) recognizable ', Old Indic arī- etc surely must lead back to Indo Germanic **er-*. Thieme puts further here Old Indic sūrī- 'master, ruler, lord' as su-ri- 'hospitable ' and ri-śādas 'worry for sustaining the stranger '.

-----

Old Irish oll Adj. 'honorable, large, extensive ', actually 'above (the ordinary) going out ' (formally = Latin ollus, Indo Germanic **olnos*), compounds (h)uilliu 'farther, more ', Adv. ind-oll 'ultra, extreme ', from which maybe also innonn, innunn 'over, beyond ' (with assimilation in collaboration with inn 'the same, identical'; (common Celtic -ns- > -nn-), Thurneysen KZ. 43, 55 f.; Pedersen KG. II 195), ol-chen(a)e 'in addition, but', actually 'on the other side (and) therefrom on this side'; ol-foirbthe 'pluperfect, past perfect', oldāu, oldaas 'when I, when he', actually 'about (the) outside, what I am, what he is', inaill 'certain, sure', actually 'situated on the other side' (of it inoillus 'confidence, security'; inuilligud 'protection, safety'; with ol(l) 'ultra, beyond' maybe corresponds ol 'says' as 'ultra, beyond, further', originally in the report in a continuous speech). The conjunction ol 'because, since' keeps Thurneysen Grammar 559 against it for related with cymr. ol 'footprint'.

Besides with a: Old Irish a/ (with Akk.) 'on the other side, over - beyond' (simplification from **all* in the pretone), Adv. tall (**to-al-nā*) 'on the other side, there', anall 'from on the other side, from there, over here', with suffixed Pron. of the 3rd person all, allae, newer alla 'beyond, on the other side' (proves original dissyllabic old formation also of the prepositional form is not provided with pronominal suffix, see Thurneysen KZ. 48, 55 f., thus not from without ending Indo Germanic **ol* or **al*); derivatives: alltar 'the world of the dead, the other world, hereafter', also from 'to savage areas situated on the other side', alltarach 'otherworld, ulterior, thithertho'.

Gall. alla 'another, other, different', allos 'second' (Thurneysen ZCP. 16, 299), VN Allo-broges = mcymr. all-fro 'exiled, ostracized, banished' (to bro 'land'), all-tud 'foreigner', acymr. allann, (common Celtic -ns- > -nn-), ncymr. allan 'outdoors, outside'; Old Irish all-slige 'the second cutting out'.

Gothic alls, Old Icelandic allr, Old English eall, Old High German all 'all', besides in the compound Germanic ala- (without -no- suffix) in Old Germanic matron's names Ala-teivia, Ala-gabiae etc, Gothic ala-mans 'all people, humanity', Old High German ala-wāri 'totally true' (Modern High German albern); compare Old Irish oll-athair (epithet of Irish God's father Dagdae 'the good God') = Old Norse al-fǫðr (epithet of Odin), 'all father'.

Latin alers, allers 'taught; learned, instructed, well-informed; experienced, clever, shrewd, skilful' according to Landgraf ALL. 9, 362, Ernout ÉI. dial. Latin 104 from **ad-ers*, **allers* (contrast to iners).

From an adverb **ali* 'there, in a specific place, in each case' (differently Debrunner RETIE. 3, 10 f.) have derived:

alios 'other':

Armenian ail 'other';

gr. ἄλλος 'other' (Cypriot αἶλος), n. ἄλλο, compare ἄλλοδ-απὸς 'from elsewhere, from another place, strange' (= Latin aliud, forms as in Latin longinquus 'far removed, far off, remote, distant'), in addition ἀλλήλων etc 'each other', ἀλλάπτω 'makes different, changes', ἀλλαγή 'variation, change, exchange, trade': ἀλλότριος 'becoming another, strange', from Old Indic anyátra 'somewhere else' corresponding adverb;

Maybe zero grade in alb. (**nyátra*) tjetër 'other' [common alb. n > nt > t]: Old Indic anyátra 'somewhere else'.

Latin alius = Oscan allo 'other things', n. aliud = gr. ἄλλο, in addition from the adverb ali: aliēnus 'strange' (from **ali-jes-nos*), ali-quis, ali-cubi etc; Comparative alter, -era, -erum 'one from two' = Oscan alttram 'alteram' (from **aliteros-*), by Plautus also altro-; in altrinsecus, altrōvorsum the syncope is caused by the length of the whole word; here also alterāre, adulter, alternus, altercāri; gall. alios (Loth RC. 41, 35), Old Irish aile (**alios*), n. aill (from adverbial all from **a-l-nā*, palat. / comes from aile), cymr. ail, bret. eil (from **eliūs*, Comparative **alijōs*), doubled Old Irish alaile, araile, n. alaill, arail, mcymr. etc arall, Pl. ereill (// from the adverb all);

Gothic aljīs 'other', but only in compositions, as Old Saxon eli-lendi n. 'foreign land', Old High German eli-lenti ds. = Modern High German 'woefulness', Gothic alja-leikō 'other, different', Old Icelandic elligar, ellar, Old English ellicor, elcor 'other, otherwise', Old High German elichōr 'further', and in adverbs, like Old English elles, engl. else 'other, different', Old Norse alla 'otherwise' etc.; a comparative formation **alira* is Old English elra 'other';

Tocharian A ālya-kə, B alye-kə 'ἄλλος τις' (**alje-kə*, Pedersen Groupement 26, Tocharisch 117); unclear is the absence of palatalization in A ālakə 'other', ālamə 'each other', B ālām 'somewhere else', aletste 'strangers'; ostiran. etc hal-ci 'any (thing) available, etc'.

References: WP. I 84 ff., WH. I 30, 32 f., Feist 33 b, 39 a, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 614.

About the sound change from **anjos* to **aljos* see Debrunner REtIE. 3, 1 ff., about angebl. pejorative character of a see Specht KZ. 68, 52, Die alten Sprachen 5, 115.

See also: About anjos s. under S. 37 (an2).

Root / lemma: *al-2

Meaning: `to grow; to bear'

Material: Old Indic an-ala- `fire ' (' the glutton ', W. Schulze KZ. 45, 306 = Kl. Schr. 216);

gr. νεᾶλής `cheerful, strong ' (νέος + al-; about φυταλιή see below);

Latin alō, -ere, -ul, -itum `to nourish, support, rear, feed, bring up ' ; alēscere `grow up, prosper ', coalēscere 'grow together', adolēscere 'grow up' (adultus 'grown up, adult, mature '), abolēscere 'to perish ' (in addition appears aboleō, -ēre `destroy, exterminate ' as a Transitive to be newly shaped, partly after (ad)augēscō: (ad)augeō, esp., however, after synonymous dēlēvī, dēleō;

the reminiscence in ὄλλυμι, ἀπόλλυμι would be then deceptive; (differently WH. I 4), Latin indolēs `native constitution or quality; nature, disposition, character, talents ', subolēs `a sprout, shoot, offspring, progeny ', prōles (**pro-olēs*) `offspring, descendants, posterity; the young men of a race; of plants, fruit ' (of it prōlētārius `a citizen of the lowest class, serving the state only by begetting children'; these three with o from a before dark l, not with Indo Germanic o- ablaut, wie Hirt Abl. 162 accepts); alimentum `food, nourishment', alimōnia, -ium `food, maintenance ';

Old Irish alim `be nourishing'; here probably also cymr. alu, Middle Breton halaff, nbret. ala `bear, give birth to', cymr. al f. `act of giving birth, progeny, people', alaf m. `wealth' = Old Irish alam f. `herd', of it almae ds .;

Gothic Old English alan (ōl) `grow up ' (intr. like Latin adoleō), Old Icelandic ala (ōl) `be nourishing, produce ', Gothic aliþs `fattened ' (participle of a Kaus. **aljan* = Norwegian dial. elja); Old Icelandic elskr `inspired by love ', elska `love' (see to the meaning-development Falk-Torp below elske).

With t-formant:

Gr. ἄν-αλτος `insatiable, gluttonous'; ἄλτις, ἄλσος (**αλτι-ος*) n. `holy grove ', Latin altus `high' (i.e. `large-scale grown'), Middle Irish old `height; shores, coast', cymr. allt `side of a hill, wooded hills', acorn. as, bret. aot, aod `coast', Old Saxon ald, Old High German (etc.) alt `old' (actually 'grown tall '), Old High German altōn `put off, delay' (`make old');

maybe alb. geg (**n'alt*) nalt `high' > alb. Tosc (**nalt*, lant) lart `high' [n/l allophones].

**alti* also in Gothic alds f. 'period, lifetime', Old English ield 'period, lifetime, age, old age' (Pl. ielde, Old Saxon eldi 'people, humans'), Old Norse ǫld f. 'time, age, Pl. people'; **altio* in Oscan altinúm, thus 'food, provisions, aliment' = Latin **altiōnum*; Old Irish comaltae 'foster brother' = mcymr. cyfeillt 'serf, slave', ncymr. cyfaill 'friend' (**komal-tios*), mcymr. eillt (**altios*) 'pupil, hero', Old Irish inailt (**eni-alti*) 'servant', Gothic alþeis (**altios*) 'old' = Old Irish alt(a)e 'brought up';

**altro-* in Old Irish altram 'food', altru 'nursing father' (cymr. athraw 'teacher' etc., see Pedersen KG. I 137); Old Norse aldr m. (Gen. aldrs) 'age, lifetime, old age', Old English ealdor 'life', Old Saxon aldar, Old High German altar 'old age, age'.

With m- formant:

Gr. ἄλμα n. 'grove', φυτάλμιος epithet of Zeus and Poseidon (also Φυτάλιος, name of Poseidon in isthmian Troy, Φύταλος, for what hom. φυταλιή 'tree nursery' as an abstract noun, see Bechtel Lexil. 331); Latin almus 'nourishing, feeding (ager), blessing-donating, sweet, kind, sublime'. Maybe here FIN thrak. Almus, Illyrian (?) Almō (Rom), Almā (Etruria), abrit. **Almā*, engl. Yealm.

maybe alb. helm 'healing drug, posion, medicine, herb' similar to Sanskrit āla- 'poison'. obviously alb. and gr. have preserved the old laryngeal h-.

clearly alb. shows that from Root / lemma: *al-2: 'to grow; to bear; grove' derived Root / lemma: *al-3: ol-: 'to rot, poison'.

Maybe Illyrian Amalthea 'the goat that nourished Zeus'.

Tocharian A ālym- 'life, mind'.

d- extensions: Old Indic íd-, ídā- 'refreshment, donation, oblation, gift'; gr. ἀλδαίνω 'allows to grow, strengthens', ἀλδήσκω 'grows', ἀναλδής 'not thriving; growth restraining', ἄλδομαι 'brings forth, produce, create' (καρπούς).

Maybe alb. Geg ardh- [dh- extension as in satem languages] 'come, (*climax), be born', ardhuna Pl. 'yields, profits'.

dh- extensions: Old Indic rdhnóti, rnáddhi, rdhāti, rdhyati 'prosper, succeeds, does succeed, manages', Avestan arədaŋ- 'he allows to prosper', ərədāt- 'cause prospering', Old Indic árdhuka- 'thriving' (Specht KZ. 64, 64 f.);

gr. ἀλθαίνω, ἄλθω `heals', ἄλθομαι `grows, heals'; Old Swedish alda `fruit-carrying oak', Old Icelandic aldin `tree fruit, esp. eatable (fruit or seed of the oak tree, acorn) '.

References: WP. I 86 f., WH. I 4, 31 f.

Page(s): 26-27

---

Root / lemma: al-4

Meaning: `to burn'

Material: Old Indic alātam n. `fire, blaze, coal' (also úlmukam `fire'); Latin adoleō `to worship, offer sacrifice, burn a sacrifice; to sacrifice on an altar; in gen., to burn; to smell', adolēscō, -ere `flare up (from altars), to grow up, come to maturity, to be heaped up, or perhaps to burn' (o from a as in etymological-different adolēscere `to grow up, come to maturity, to be heaped up, or perhaps to burn' to alō, see below **al-2* `grow'), altāre `fire altar' (with difficult o ablaut Umbrian urētu `toward turning to vapor');

New Swedish ala `blaze, flame' (Johannsson ZfdtPh. 31, 285 following ms. Lithuanian); but in question gr. ἀλάβη ἄνθρακες Hes.; view also from Latin alacer `quick, lively, animated', Gothic aljan n. `zeal' etc. was possible as `igneous, quick-tempered' (Johannsson aaO.); about Old English ælan `burn' see **ald<sup>h</sup>*-.

Maybe belongs here gall. MS Alatus, Middle Irish alad `multicolored, dappled, striped' (if originally 'burnt') = nir. aladh `trout' (alāto-).

Maybe alb. alle `red color'.

References: WP. I 88, WH. I 13, EM. 88.

Page(s): 28

---

Root / lemma: al-5 (**hel-*)

Meaning: `to grind'

Material: Old Indic ánu- `fine, thin, very small' (**al-nu-*), Hindi and Bengali āṭā `flour' (below likewise; Kuhn KZ. 30, 355; different Specht Dekl. 125).

Avestan aša (**arta-*) `crushed, ground' (Hübschmann ZdMG. 38, 428, Spiegel BB. 9, 178 A. 1).

Armenian atam `grinds', atauri (**alatrio-*) `mill', aleur- `flour' (in spite of l instead of t not borrowed from ἄλευρον, Hübschmann Arm. Gr. I 414), ataxin `servant', atij `young girl' (Meillet BSL. 37, 72).

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur- : Armenian ałauri (**alatrio-*) `mill' : Ἰλλυριοί, οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία, ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς, ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός, ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία:--hence Adv. Ἰλλυριστί.

Gr. ἄλε: ἄλέω `grinds, crushes' *, ἄλέται λίθοι `millstone, grindstone', ἄλετος and ἄλετός `the milling, the grinding', ἄλετών `mill', ἄλετρεύω `grind', ἄλε[F]αρ, Pl. ἀλείατα (stretched from ἀλέατα; Schulze Qunder ep. 225) `flour' (from it contracted *ἀλήτα called out of the new sg. ἄλητον ἄλευρον Hes.; ἀλητο-ειδής Hippokr., ἀλήτων ἀλεύρων Rhinthon), ἄλευρον (**ἄλε-Fρ-ον*) `wheat flour', ἀλινός `flimsy' ( `pulverized, crushed, ground'), ἄλιξ `miller who grinds the spelt, wheat' (from it Latin alica `spelt, or a drink prepared from spelt' ds).

-----

*) Also ἔλυμος `millet', ὄλυρα `spelt', οὐλαί, Attic ὀλαί `ground coarse grain' (**ολF-*, not after J. Schmidt KZ. 32, 382 from **αλF-*) would be compatible, perhaps, phonetically (then word root would be **e/-*, **o/-*, **e/-*).

References: WP. I 89.

Page(s): 28-29

---

Root / lemma: alp-

Meaning: `small, weak'

Material: Old Indic ápa-, alpaka- small, slight, flimsy' (alpēna, alpāt `light, fast'); to unite heavily in the definition with Lithuanian alpstù, alpaũ, āpti `become unconscious', alpus `weak', Latvian eļpe `taking air, breath', alpa `one time, time, moment in time'.

apposition also from hom. ἀλαπαδνός (from Aeschylus λαπαδνός) 'weak', ἀλαπάζω `exhaust, make tired, weaken; drain, empty'.

Zero grade in (under the influence of Illyrian) Attic λαπάζω `despoil, pillage', λαπάπτω `empty (the body)' is doubtful because of their two-syllables root words compared with the light ones Old Indic and Lithuanian words; also they suit, as well as to them, added to λαπαρός `slender, thin, having hollow body', λαπάρα `flank, swell of the body in the hip', λάπαθος `cavity, pit', λάπαθος `sorrel, rumex' in the meaning colouring (`empty, sunken, shrunken'). Quite dubious also alb. (Jokl SBAk. Wien 168, I 48) laps `be tired of, sick of, bored with'.

Maybe in ~~e~~ grade alb. lëpjetë `sorrel, rumex ' : gr. λάπαθος `sorrel, rumex '.

Maybe Latin lapso -are `to slip, stumble'.

On account of here Hittite al-pa-an-da- (alpant-) `ill, weak, small, flimsy'?

Proto-Altaic: *älpa

Meaning: unable, sick; being at service, man-at-arms

Turkic: *älp-

Mongolian: *alba-n

Tungus-Manchu: *alba-

Korean: *ärphǎ-

Japanese: *apar-

Comments: Poppe 85, 121 (Turk-Mong.); TMN 2, 110-111.

Proto-Kartvelian: *yalp-

English meaning: weak

Georgian: Gur. yalp-

References: WP. I 92, Couvreur H 106 f., WH. I 786, Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II, 158.

Page(s): 33

---

Root / lemma: alu- (-d-, -t-)

Meaning: `bitter; beer'

Material: Gr. ἀλύδ(ο)ιμον πικρὸν παρὰ Σώφρονι Hes., ἀλυδμαίνειν [πικραίνειν?] Hes. (see, however, to meaning Herwerden Lex. Graec. suppl. 45); Latin alūta `soft leather; a shoe, purse or patch, beauty patch ' and alūmen `alum ' are simply extensions from **alu-*.

The root appears in Northern Europe with the definition `beer, mead ' (compared to the meaning difference Church Slavic kvasъ `alum, beer '); in. q/n. `Beer, carousal ', q/dr n. 'Carousal ' (**aluPra-*), Old English ealu(ǣ) n. `beer', Old Saxon in alo-fat, Middle High German in al-schaf `drinking vessel'; maybe alb. alle 'red (color of beer?)'

hence from Root / lemma: *al-2: (to grow; to bear) could have derived Root / lemma: alu- (-d-, -t-): (bitter; beer).

From it borrows Old Prussian alu n. 'Mead', Lithuanian alus (m. become as medūs = Prussian meddo n.; J. Schmidt Pluralbild. 180), Church Slavic olъ (m. become like medъ) 'beer'. is also borrowed by Finnish olut 'Beer' from Germanic

References: WP. I 91, WH. I 34.

Page(s): 33-34

---

Root / lemma: amb<sup>h</sup>i, ṛb<sup>h</sup>i

Meaning: 'around, from both sides'

Material: Armenian ambofj 'entirely, unscathed' (to ofj 'healthy'), gr. ἀμφί 'around' (ἀμφί-ς 'to both sides', with the same adverbial -s as z. B. ἄψ, λικριφίς, s.Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 737);

Latin amb- (before vowel, e.g. ambigō), am-, an- (before consonant, e.g. amputō, amiciō from **am[b]jaciō*) inseparable prefix 'round about, around, all around', Old Latin also preposition am 'around' m. Akk. (ambi- for the purposes of 'both' also anceps which is against late formation it points to ambō), Umbrian amb- (amboltu), a- (a-ferum 'to carry round, take round; esp. of the eyes, to turn all round; in religion, to lustrate, purify, by carrying round consecrated objects. Transf., to spread, esp. to spread news'), an- (an-ferener 'bearing round'), Oscan amvīannud 'a going round, circling, revolving, revolution, detour', amnúd 'a going round, circling, revolving, revolution, a cause, reason, motive, inducement, occasion, opportunity' (barely **amb-beno-*: veniō, however no- derivation, s. v. Planta II 32, 623); with -er- extension after praeter-eō, intereō (see v. Planta II 455, WH. I 36); Umbrian ampretu, ambretuto 'ambit, circuit', maybe also Oscan amfret 'flanked' (rather to Schulze KZ. 45, 182 = Kl. Schr. 468 to disassemble in **am-ferent* 'they bear round, περιάγουσι'; not Latin trails of the same -er- extension in amfrāctus 'a turning, a bend. Transf., legal intricacies, circumlocution, digression', rather from am-frāctus; about PN Amiternum s. Schulze Latin Eig. 541; with tī- extension (after pos-t, per-t, Buck Elementarbuch 65) Oscan ampt 'around' (as Umbrian ambr- at first due to from amf before consonant simplified am-); alb. mbi, mbε 'over, by, on, in' (G. Meyer Alb. Wb. 265).

ṛbh̥i: Old Indic abhí-taḥ, Avestan aiwito` 'to both sides, ringed' (about Avestan aibiš, Old pers. abiš more debatably meaning see Pedersen KZ. 40, 127, Bartholomae IF. 19, Beiheft S. 106; the ending -s in in historical connection with that of gr. ἀμφίς?);

Old Indic abhí is possible the meaning 'around, circum', Old pers. abiy, Avestan aibī, aiwi in the meaning 'about, in regard to, from' from derived **ṛbh̥i* or Indo Germanic **ḡbh̥i* or continuing in **eb̥h̥i*; gall. ambi- 'around, circum' (e.g. Ἀμβί-δραυοί 'living on river Dravos'), cymr. am- (through i umlaut em-, ym-), corn. bret. am-, em-, Old Irish imb-, imm- 'around'; Old High German Old Saxon umbi, Old Icelandic umb, Old English ymb, ymbe 'around' (absorbed in Gothic from bi).

b̥h̥i: Gothic bi in meaning 'around', with final sound extension in stressed position Old Saxon Old English bē, bī, Old High German bī, bī, Modern High German bei (about dubious derivatives see Falk-Torp 37 and 1437 under bi/II 'space, period', 73 and 1437 under billede 'image').

Maybe zero grade in alb. (**amb̥h̥e*) mbë 'at, in', (**amb̥h̥i*) mbi 'on upon'.

Falk-Torp 37 and 1437 under bi/II 'space, period', 73 and 1,437 under billede 'picture').

amb̥h̥ō(u) 'both':

Gr. ἀμφω 'both' (derivative ἀμφοτέρω 'each or both of two'); Latin ambō, -ae, -ō 'both';

Maybe gr. ἀμφιφορεύς 'a large jar with two handles' maybe Illyrian shortened ἀμφορεύς [shortened for ἀμφιφορεύς,] l. an amphora, jar, urn, Hdt., etc.

Proto-IE: **ab-*, **amb-*

Meaning: a k. of vessel

Old Indic: ambañṣa- m.n. 'frying-pan'

Lithuanian: ābrina-s, dial. ābrė 'butter can, butter pot'

Lettish: abra, abris 'kneading trough'

Old Prussian: aboros 'laceration' Voc. 228

Latin: obba, -ae f. 'a vessel large at the bottom'

Celtic: Ir uibne 'small drinking vessel'

References: Fraenkel s.v. ābrinas

Old Indic ubhāu 'both', Avestan uwa- ds.; Lithuanian abù, Old Church Slavic oba ds.; Gothic bai m., ba n., Gen. **baddjē* (bajōps, see to the formation Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 77; different - in the outcome to Latin nostrātes - 'of our country, native' Fick III<sup>4</sup> 255), Old Saxon bē thie, Old English bā, pā, engl. both, Old High German beide, bēde, Old Norse bāðer, Gen. beggja 'both' (: Gothic **baddjē* < bajjē); Tocharian A āmpi, āmpe, B ant-āpi.

From these would be regarded Old Indic ubhāu, Avestan uwa yet as composition with u- 'two' (Latin uīginti); Sommer IF. 30, 404 denies such u- and regards the Aryan forms as caused by the labial evaporation **ab<sup>h</sup>āu* = **mb<sup>h</sup>ōu* with reference to Old Indic Kubera-h from **Kabērah* (compare patronymic Kāberaka-h; Wackernagel KZ. 41, 314 ff). Lithuanian abù, Old Church Slavic oba are probably based on reorganization from **amb-o* at a time, as preposition **amb<sup>h</sup>i* 'around' was given up in favour of **ab<sup>h</sup>i* (ab. obъ, s. Latin ob 'with acc., in front of, before; in return for; because of, on account of').

The relation **amb<sup>h</sup>ō* (u), **amb<sup>h</sup>i*: Gothic etc. bai, bi lets it be dubious barely that am- (maybe from an-4) is the first composition part, the second part is Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>ōu* 'both'.

References: WP. I 54 f., WH. I 36 f., Feist 74 a, 88, Pedersen Tocharisch 82.

Page(s): 34-35

Root / lemma: ames- or omes-

Meaning: 'blackbird'

Note: (: mes- : ams- or **oms-*)?

Material: Full grade would be located just before the first syllable in Old High German amusla, amsala, Old English ōsle 'blackbird', full grade the second syllable in Latin (**meisula*) merula 'a blackbird; a fish, the sea-carp' (Kluge EWb.<sup>12</sup> s. v.) and cymr. mwyalch, acorn. moelh, bret. moualc'h 'blackbird' (possible basic form **mesalkā* or **misalkā* after Pedersen KG. I 73, where difficult suppositions about Irish smōl, smōlach 'thrush').

Maybe through metathesis Welsh mwyalchen 'blackbird', Irish smōl, smōlach 'thrush' : alb. mëllenjë 'blackbird'.

Differently - because of Indo Germanic meis-, mois-, mis- - Schrader Sprcompare<sup>2</sup> 367, <sup>3</sup>II 140, Fick II<sup>4</sup> 205: merula from **misula*, cymr. mwyalch etc from meisalkā, finally, with - oi- Old High German **meisa*, Old English māse, Old Icelandic meisingr 'titmouse'.

However, it will be covered latter in the meaning divergent group of Wood KZ. 45, 70 probably more properly in the Adj. **maisa-* 'small, tiny' because of Norwegian Dialectal meis `thin, frail person ', meiseleg `thin and weak ', West Flemish mijzen `crumble ', mejzel `a little bit, tiny bits '. The comparison of Latin with British words is most reliable.

References: WP. I 53 f., WH. II 77 f.

Page(s): 35-36

---

Root / lemma: amə-

Meaning: `move forward energetically '

See also: see below omə-.

Page(s): 36

---

Root / lemma: am-1, mē-

Meaning: `to grab'

Material: Old Indic ámatram n. `vessel, jug, big drinking bowl ', Armenian aman `vessel', maybe to Latin ampla (**am-lā*) `handle, handhold ', amplus (**am-los*) `extensive, far, spacious, considerable '.

References: WP. I 52 f., WH. I 41 f.

See also: S. under mē-1.

Page(s): 35

---

Root / lemma: am-2, mē-

Meaning: `mow '

See also: see below mē-2 ds.

Page(s): 35

---

Root / lemma: and<sup>h</sup>er-, ɾd<sup>h</sup>er-

Meaning: `stem, spike'

Material: Nur griechisch: ἄθήρ `an ear of corn ', ἀνθέριξ `stalk point, stalk ', ἀνθέρικος `Stalk, stem of a plant ', ἀνθερέων `chin ' as `bearded, shaggy place ', ἀνθρίσκος `the common chervil ', named after his prickly fruit, ἀνθρήνη, ἀνθρηδών `wasp, forest bee ', word outcome after τενθρήνη `corneous '; τανθρηδών `wasp ' (here maybe ἄνθρωπος from *ἄνθο-ωπος `with bearded face = man ', then `man, person ', Güntert Heidelberg. SB. 1915, Abh. X?; compare also Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 426<sup>4</sup>).

After Kretschmer Gl. 28, 246 from *ανδρ-ώπρος, the rough breathing of ὀπάω etc figurative?); from also ἄθαρῃ (*ἄθαρFā), ἄθήρᾱ `wheat gruel, Spelt miller' (von Plin. n. h. 22, 121 however identified as ägypt. word)?

References: WP. I 45.

Page(s): 41

---

Root / lemma: and<sup>h</sup>-, aned<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: `to grow, bloom, blossom, young woman, young cow'

Material: Old Indic ándhaḥ n. `Soma plants'; Armenian and `field'; gr. ἄνθος n. `flower, bloom', ἀνθέω `blossoms', ἄνθηρός (*-es-ro-) `blossoming' etc; alb. ënde (*and<sup>h</sup>ōn) `blossom, flower', ëndem `blossoms' (ë from present *ē from *and<sup>h</sup>ō); Tocharian A ānt, B ānte `open space, area'.

Middle Irish ainder, aindir `young woman', cymr. anner `young cow', Pl. anneirod, (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), acymr. enderic `a bull-calf; also of the young of other animals', cymr. enderig `bull, ox', bret. ounner (Trég. annouar, Vannes añnoér) `heifer, young cow'; moreover French (l)andier m. `fire goat, Aries', also `poppy' (= `young girl', compare Italian madona, fantina `poppy'), further to Basque andere `woman', iber. FN Andere, Anderca, MN Anderus; maybe Celtic Origin? (*andero- `blossoming, young'?).

According to Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 339 here gr. ἀν-ήνοθε `came out, bubbled out'; ἐπεν-ήνοθε `reside on top of', κατεν-ήνοθε `canopied, covered', etc.

In spite of the a little bit divergent meaning probably also here with zero grade **nd<sup>h</sup>-*:

Old Indic ádhan m. = Avestan advan m. `way, road', for what Old Indic adhvará-ḥ `religious action (*Soma-) sacrifice, ceremony' (originally `course of action, way' - `ceremonious way') from **nd<sup>h</sup>uero-*, and probably also with suffix ablaut (**nd<sup>h</sup>uro-*) isl. ḡndurr m. `a kind of snow shoe'.

References: WP. I 45, 67, P. Benoit ZrPh. 44, 3 ff., 69 ff.

See also: Here belongs probably: and<sup>h</sup>er-, nd<sup>h</sup>er-.

Page(s): 40-41

---

Root / lemma: and<sup>h</sup>o-

Meaning: `blind, dark'

Material: Old Indic andhá-, Avestan anda- 'blind, dark', gall. andabata m. 'a gladiator who fought with a helmet without openings' (to Celtic loanword Latin battuō 'to beat, knock').

References: WP. I 182, WH. I 46.

Page(s): 41

---

Root / lemma: an(ə)-3 (**henah-*)

Meaning: 'to breathe'

Note:

Root / lemma: an(ə)-3: 'to breathe' derived from a reduction of Root / lemma: anġhen-: 'smell, odour; person' as in Armenian anjn (for older **anj*), Gen. anjn 'soul, being, person': Old Norse angí m. 'odour, smell': alb. anj 'swell, puff' [common alb. ng > nj].

Material: Old Indic ániti 'breathes' (also thematically ánati), ánila-h 'breath, breeze, wind', āná-h (maybe 'breath' or 'mouth, nose', āna-nam 'mouth, muzzle, face' with Indic Vṛddhi; 'mouth' as 'breath, the breathing'); prāṇiti 'breathes';

Avestan āntya, parāntya 'of the inhaling and exhaling' (**anti-* 'breathing' with ā and parā; see Bartholomae IF. 7, 59; about ainiti 'mildness' see, however, Airan. Wb. 125 f.).

Gr. ἄνεμος 'breath, wind', ἀνήνεμος (with stretch in the compound), νήνεμος 'windless, calm', ῥνεμόεις 'rich in wind' (ῥ- metrical stretch), ἀνεμώλιος ('windy', i.e.): 'trifling, in vain' (dissimilated from ἀνεμώνιος, see last Bechtel Lexil. 44, also 226, about that probably from **μετ-ἀνεμώνιος* by extreme dissimilation abbreviated ones μεταμώνιος 'in vain, without success'); different Risch 113;

compare Frisk Indog. 15; ἄνται ἄνεμοι ἀντάς πνοιᾶς Hes. are to change in ἀήται, ἀήτας. Maybe here νεᾷνιᾶς 'youth' as νεFo-av- 'new wheeze', after Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 426<sup>3</sup>; also ἄσθμα 'breathlessness, suffocation', aaO. 337.

Latin animus 'mind, soul', anima 'wind, breath, soul, lives' (Oscan anamúm 'air, a current of air, breeze, breath, wind'), of it animal 'living being, animal', hālō, - āre 'breathe, smell' (Denominative **an-slo-*; with phoney h, the sound value described here attained and also penetrated in an(h)-ēlāre; about latter see **an 4*).

Old Irish anā, cymr. anadl 'breath', Middle Breton alazn (metathesis), nbret. holan (**anə-tlo-*); mcymr. eneit, ncymr. enaid 'soul' (**anə-tī-*), abrit. PN Anate-mōros 'warmhearted, bighearted';

Old Irish anim, nir. anam 'soul', Gen. anman (stem **ana-mon*; the i color of the Nom. sg. after neutr. -men-stem s. Pedersen KG. II 61; to the intersection with Latin anima f. 'breath, wind, Old Irish Transf., the breath of life, vital principle, soul' see Pokorny ZfcPh. 10 69 f.), corn. eneff, Middle Breton eneff (Pl. anaffon) nbret. anaoun 'soul' (umlauted corn. and bret. forms probably loanword from Latin, see Vendryès De hib. voc. 112 f., Pedersen KG. I 170, II 111); in addition Old Irish osnad 'sighs' (uss-anad), further ('catch one's breath = rest, relax ') anaid 'remains, rests, stops ', con-osna 'desist, cease ' (com-uss-an-) etc. (see Pedersen KG. II 455 f., 672); mcymr. anant Pl. 'bards, poets ', cyn-an in 'word, praise ';

Gothic uz-anan (preterit uzōn) 'exhale'; with t-formant: Old Norse qnd, g. andar f. 'breath, breath of life, life, soul ' (= gr. ἄνται), anda, -aða 'breathe, gasp ' = Old English ōðian 'puff strongly', Old Norse andi m. 'breath, mind, soul', Old Frisian omma (**an-ma*) 'breath', Old English oroð (**ǔz-anþ-*) 'breath' *; maybe here Old High German unst, Old Icelandic Old English yst f. 'storm' from **ŋ-sti-*;

maybe alb. anda 'taste, smell' [common alb. n > nd] : Old Norse anda, -aða 'breathe, gasp'.

-----

*) In addition also Old Saxon ando, Old English andā, anoða 'excitement, rage, sorrow', Old High German anado, ando, anto 'annoyance, rage', Middle High German ande 'feeling of insult', Old High German anadōn, antōn, Middle High German anden 'let out one's rage', Modern High German avenge under a mid definition 'gasp before excitement' (Kluge s. v., -Falk-Torp 5 and 1428 under aand; Schröder Abl. 9). About second a from Old High German anado, Old English anoða see Specht Phil. Stud. Voretzsch 36.

-----

Old Church Slavic vonja (**anĭā*) 'smell' (vonjati 'scent, smell '), **qchatī* 'smell' in Old Russian uchati etc. (-ch- perhaps imitation from duchati, thus without historical connection with s from Latin hālāre 'breathe, emit vapor, be fragrant' from **an-slo-*);

Maybe nasalized alb. (**unhati*) nuhat, nuhas 'scent, smell', huna, hunda 'nose'.

alb. Geg âj, Tosc ēnj 'I swell, impregnate ', Geg âjun 'conceited, puffed' kënjem, gnem 'incense' (**kε-(a)nemo-* Jokl Stud. 37); (Clearly the initial meaning in alb. Geg âj, Tosc ēnj 'I swell, impregnate' was 'puff with air'.)

Note:

From Root / lemma: an(ə)-3: 'to breathe' derived in zero grade Root / lemma: nas- (**andas*): 'nose'.

Tocharian AB āñm- 'life, mind', B āñme 'intention', A āñcām (**āntemo-*) 'existence, living, mind' (K. Schneider IF. 57, 203, Pedersen Tocharian 48); also B onolme, wnolme 'living being'?

Armenian holm 'wind' (Bugge IF. 1, 442) abides (in spite of Meillet Lithuanian 6, 3) (see Lidén Arm. stem 38 f., Peterson KZ. 47, 246). - Old Indic ātmán 'soul' rather to Old High German ātum 'breath', see ēt-men.

Root points beside to two-syllable forms, like Old Indic ani-ti, ani-laḥ, Celtic **ana-tlo-* etc, and such like ἄνε-μος, also forms of the monosyllabic word roots, thus Latin **an-slo-* > hālō, Old Norse qnd (etc).

References: WP. I 56 ff., WH. I 49 f., Feist 538.

See also: ansu-, antro-.

Page(s): 38-39

---

Root / lemma: anət- (**angʰh-at-*)

Meaning: 'duck'

Material: Old Indic ātí-ḥ ātīf. 'water bird' (or to Old Icelandic æðr, New Swedish åda f. 'eider duck' from Germanic **ādī-* ?);

Other Iranian: Sak āce, āci 'water fowl', Osset occ 'wild duck', Pamir Wakh. yōč 'duck'

Greek: ὠτίς, ἰδοῖς, ἦ, ([oûs]) A. bustard, Otis tarda, X.An.1.5.2sq., Arist.HA 509a4, al., Ael.NA5.24, Opp.C.2.407; cf. οὐτίς, ὀτίς.

Germanic: **ēd-í-* c.

Old Norse: æð-r f. 'eider duck'

Old Swedish: äd, ä(r)-fugl

Swedish: oda

see Root / lemma: ētī-: diver, a k. of bird (of waterfowl?)

gr. νήσσα, Boeotian vāσσα (**vāṭiā* Old Indic ātí-ḥ) 'duck';

common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-

Note:

The abbreviated Greek form proves the Illyrian origin of the Greek cognates similar to alb. medicus > mjek 'doctor' hence Illyrian vāσσα; alb. rosa: Rumanian rapă 'duck'. Albanian -a feminine ending proves the Illyrian origin.

Latin anas f. (Akk. anatem and anitem: G. Pl. also -tium) 'duck', Germanic **anud-* and **anid* in Old High German enit, anut, NPl. enti, Old Saxon anad, Old English æned, Old Icelandic qnd, Modern High German 'Duck'; Balto-Slavic **ānt-* from **anət-* in Lithuanian ántis, Old Prussian antis, proto Slavic **q̃ty*, serb. ūtva, Old Russian utovъ (Akk.), klr. utjá 'duck'.

Latin anatīna (scil. caro) 'duck's meat': Lithuanian antiena ds.

In occidental Romance languages and Illyrian the old laryngeal h₂- became initial k-:

French canard, Wallon canard, Wolof kanara, Romagnolo zàcval 'duck'.

The initial k- of occidental Romance languages is present in some Slavic languages as well:

Czech (**kant-ska*) kachna : Slovak kaèica; kaèka : Ukrainian качка kachka : Yiddish katshke : Polish kaczka 'duck'.

Celtic cognates correspond to Basque one:

Venetian arna; anara, Paduan ànara; arna, Italian anatra; anitra, Calabrese anitra, Catalan ànec, Galician ánade, Spanish ánade, Basque ahate, Breton (**angʰ-at-*) houad, Cornish hos, Welsh (**houad-en*) hwyaden; chwadan; hwyad, Valencian anet, Bergamasco nèdra, Bresciano nedra, Reggiano nader; nadra, Greek gr. νῆσσα, Boeotian νᾶσσα, Albanian (**ratsa*) rosa, Furlan (**anrata*) raze, Hungarian (**anrata*) réce, Irish (**anracha*) lacha, Romanian (**anracha*) rapă.

Maybe rhotacism n/r of alb. (**anracha*) rosa 'duck': Rumanian (**anracha*) rață 'duck'

Swedish anka < Finnish ankka 'duck' are related to:

Proto-Turkic: **Āŋ(k)it*

Meaning: wild duck

Old Turkic: an̄it (OUygh.)

Karakhanid: an̄it (MK)

Turkish: angut 'орарь', ankit (dial.)

Middle Turkic: anqud (Sngl)

Uzbek: an̄irt 'red duck'

Sary-Yughur: an̄it

Azerbaidzhan: anGut-boGaz 'длинношеий'

Turkmen: an̄k 'red duck'

Khakassian: āt

Karaim: anq̄it, ankit 'ostrich, vulture, dragon'

Kumyk: hanqut

References: WP. I 60, WH. I 44, Trautmann 10.

Page(s): 41-42

---

Root / lemma: anġhen-

Meaning: 'smell, odour; person'

Material: Armenian anjn (for older **anġ*), Gen. anjn 'soul, being, person' = Old Norse angi m. 'odour, smell'.

maybe alb. anj 'swell, puff' [common alb. ng > nj].

References: Lidén Arm. Stud. 38 f., WP. I 58, Meillet Esquisse 77 ff.

Page(s): 43

---

Root / lemma: anġh- (**ġenġh-*)

Meaning: 'narrow, *press'

Material: Verbal: Avestan qzanġhē 'to press', lengthened grade Avestan ny-āzata 'she squeezes herself into her corset', ny-āzayan 'to wedge oneself in' (with ā = ǣ; ved. ahēma possibly 'let us arm = gird on the sword' is remote to the meaning; anāha RV. 8, 46, 5 is unclear);

Maybe zero grade alb. Geg (**anza-*) zanē 'to capture, grasp, press', Tosc zē: Avestan qzanġhē 'to press' [common alb. -ġh- > -z-].

gr. ἄγγω 'ties up, strangles', Latin angō 'to press tightly; of the throat, to strangle, throttle; in gen., to hurt, distress; of the mind, to torment, make anxious';

Old Church Slavic as ġ verb qžq, qziti 'restrain'; in addition with zero grade very probable Old Church Slavic vęžq, vęzati 'bind' (suggestion that v- is filling hiatus, see Meillet MSL. 14, 369, maybe becomes steady through influence from viti 'coil, bind, wind' which may also have influenced meaning?).

anġhú-s 'narrow': Old Indic only in amġhu-bhēdī f. 'narrow lacuna' and in the Abl. Sg. n. amġhōġ 'crowdedness, quality of tightly packed together, affliction' (derivative amġhurá- 'pressed, unhappy'); gr. in ἀμφήν (see below); Latin in angiportus (**angu-portus*) 'narrow alley, a narrow street';

Gothic aggwus 'narrow' (at first from **aggus*, as manwus from **manus*; w comes from the oblique cases), Old Norse qngr, øngr, Old English enge, Old Saxon engi, Old High German angi, engi 'narrow', Middle High German bange Adv. (bi + Adv. ango), Modern High German bange, further derivatives with g. Armenian anjuk 'narrow', mit k Old Church Slavic qzъ-kъ 'narrow'.

Cymr. e(h)ang (**eks-angu-*, Indo Germanic **ŋghu-*) `far, wide, extensive', mcymr. eingyaw `be restricted, be contained in ...', Old Irish cumcae (**kom-ingiā*) gl. `compression of the throat, suffocation; of the mind, distress, anguish, trouble', fairsing `far, wide' (**for-eks-ingi-*), cumung (**kom-ingu-*, Indo Germanic **ŋghu-*) `narrow', ing f. (**ŋghī*) `crowdedness, affliction', from **kom-angio-* cymr. cyfyng, in this way ying (also ing, Morris-Jones, Welsh Gr. 110) `narrow', Middle Breton encq (**angio-*) `narrow'.

Maybe alb. eng `deaf and dumb' (**narrowed*)'

anghos-, anghes `oppression, affliction, crowdedness': Old Indic ánhas- n. `Fear, distress, need' (as well as anhatī-ḥ f.), Avestan azah- `badgering, need, captivity', azō-jata `killed by strangulation': Latin angor m. `compression of the throat, suffocation; of the mind, distress, anguish, trouble', angus-tus `narrow' (from **anghos-to-s*); angustiae `narrowness; hence, of space, a strait, narrow place; 'spiritus', shortness of breath; of time, shortness; of supplies, shortness, poverty; of circumstances, difficulty, distress; of disposition, narrow-mindedness; of reasoning, subtlety'; maybe zero grade in alb. (**angus-tus*) ngushtë `narrow'.

about Celtic see above; Old Norse angr m. (maybe originally more neutrally es-stem, Fick<sup>4</sup> III 12) `Annoyance, loss, pity, affliction, frustration', Old Frisian angost, Old High German angust, Modern High German Angst (from **anghos-ti-* changing the vowel after **anghu-*); Old Church Slavic ꙗzostъ `restriction, constriction, limitation, narrowing';

Lithuanian aĩkštas `narrow' (k- insertion, not guttural change) cannot stand for **anž[a]s-tas* or **anž-tas*.

Words for `nape' as `the narrowest place between head and trunk' (the idea also plays a role `where one strangles one' in light of this?): gr. Aeolic ἄμφην and αὔφην `nape' (after Schulze GGA. 1897, 909 A. 1, as *αγχF-ήν substantivization of u-Adj. **anghú-*s by means of forms -en-; about αὐχὴν see also Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 296), Gothic hals-agga `nape', klr. vjazy Pl. `Neck', Czech vaz `neck, nape' (to vězati see above), Old Prussian (as Slavic loanword) winsus `neck' (also Armenian viz `neck, throat, cervix' with preposition ւ-?), see Pedersen KZ.38, 311; 39, 402, Vondrák Sl. Gr. I 184, Adontz Mél. Boisacq I 10, as well as below under augh-, ugh.

Other formations: gr. ἄγχώνη `cord, choking, strangling' (from it Latin angina `the quinsy, as suffocating'), ἄγκτιρ m. `braces, bandage', ἄγχι, ἄγχου, ἄγχόθι `close to' bret. concoez 'geode' (**kōm-angeid-*; compare also dial. añcoe 'uvula in the throat'; Ernault RC. 7, 314; 19, 314 ff.); Old Church Slavic qzota 'narrowness'.

(compare French près 'close to, near': Latin pressus 'a pressing, pressure'), compounds ἄσσον 'nearer, very near' (*ἄγχιον; ἄσσον hence has changed after μάσσων = *μακίων, Osthoff MU. 6, 60 ff.); common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-;

Gall. PN Octodurus absents, because Irish ochte 'narrowness, straitness' does not exist.

Van Windekens (Lexique 5) puts here Tocharian A aṃčär 'weak, flimsy (?)'.

References: WP. I. 62 f., WH. I 47.

Page(s): 42-43

---

Root / lemma: ang<sup>w</sup>(h)i- (**eg<sup>w</sup>hi-*, og<sup>w</sup>hi- and eġhi-)

Meaning: 'snake, worm, *fish (*hedgehog = snake eater)'

Note: eg<sup>w</sup>hi-, og<sup>w</sup>hi- and eġhi- ds.; at least two etymological different, but early the crossed kinship whose relations still are often unclear.

Note:

Root / lemma: ang<sup>w</sup>(h)i-: 'snake, worm, *fish' derived from an extended Root / lemma: anġh- (**henġh-*): 'narrow, *press'

Material: Latin anguis = Lithuanian angis (f.), Old Prussian angis 'serpent, snake' (Latvian ūodze f. 'snake'), Old Church Slavic **qžb*, russ. už, poln. wąż 'snake', Armenian auj (Gen. -i) 'snake' (Meillet Esquisse 154, Dumézil BSL. 39, 100); Middle Irish esc-ung 'eel' (*'water snake', esc 'water' + **ang<sup>w</sup>hō*), cymr. llys-yw-en, Pl. - yw-od ds. (Fick II<sup>4</sup> 15; to brit. zero grade from ng before u see Pedersen KG. I 107).

In addition with zero grade and voiced-nonaspirated (the latter could be in itself also in the Latin and Balto-Slavic) Old High German unc 'snake, adder', gr. (illyr). ἄβεις ἔχεις Hes. (**ng<sup>w</sup>i-*). Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

To these forms with voiced-nonaspirated at first is ἰμβηρις ἔγγελυς, Μεθυμναῖοι Hes. (**eng<sup>w</sup>-ērī-*: to I compare Solmsen Beitr. 1215), where because of r- suffixes are to be connected Balto-Slavic **anguria-* in Slavic **qgorь* m. russ. ug(o)rь, poln. węgorz, Czech úhř, serb. ügor, sloven. ogór 'eel', Lithuanian ungurys ds.

(assim. from **angurys*, compare Finnish ankerias), Old Prussian angurgis 'eel' (Church Slavic agulja, jegulja 'eel' probably from Latin). Hirt IF. 22, 67 connects these gr. and Balto-Slavic eel names to an independent equation (nevertheless, compare the r-suffix of Old High German angar etc, see below).

Another Indo Germanic equation for 'eel' is perhaps gr. ἔγγελος f., Latin anguilla (see esp. W. Meyer KZ. 28, 163, Johansson KZ. 30, 425, J. Schmidt KZ. 32, 369, Osthoff IF. 4, 270, 292, Hirt IF. 22, 67, Indo Germanic 619 f.), although the details are still unclear (in the Gr. *ἄγγελος assimilated etc. to ἐγγέλος, or ε and the pure guttural through the influence from ἔχιδνα; in Latin -illa instead of -ella after the fluctuation in real diminutive under determining influence i of anguis?).

With r suffix:

Gr. ἰμβηρίς 'eel'

Maybe in -dz > gj ending stem:

Maybe from Greek Illyrian ἔγγελος 'eel' > alb. ngjalë 'eel' [common Albanian Slavic γχ- > dz-] Illyrian TN Encheleae 'snake men?': Hungarian angolna 'eel' [from native Illyrian TN Paeones].

In the meaning 'worm, maggot' and with r-suffix (compare above ἰμβηρίς etc) : Old High German angar 'grain maggot' engirinc 'larva', Modern High German Engerling, Lithuanian ankštiraĩ 'maggots, cock chafer grubs, grubs' (and similar forms, see Trautmann Old Prussian 301), Latvian anksteri 'maggots, cock chafer grubs', Old Prussian anxdris (i.e. anxtris), however, 'adder' (about the -st- these Baltic forms compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin Lett.-D. Wb. I 71), russ. ug(o)rb 'blister, raised bubble on the skin that is filled with pus, fin' (also 'eel', see above), poln. wagry 'blister, raised bubble on the skin' (Bezzenger GGA. 1874, 1236, BB. 2, 154; not better about angar, úgorb ders. GGA. 1898, 554 f.).

Nasalized forms:

Gr. ἔχιδνα m. (f.) 'snake', ἔχιδνα ds. (for *ἔχιδνια, Specht Dekl. 377), Old High German egala 'leech, bloodsucking worm', Danish Norwegian igle 'a parasite sheet worm in the viscera of the animals and in the skin and the branchia of the fish'.

Moreover gr. ἐχίνοσ, Old High German Old English igil (Indo Germanic **eĝhinos*), Modern High German Igel, actually 'snake eater', W. Schulze Gnomon 11, 407, Lithuanian ežys, Church Slavic ježb 'hedgehog (snake eater)'.

Armenian iž 'snake, viper' can be put as **ēgʷhis* to ὄφις (Meillet Esquisse 75);

gr. ὄφις 'snake' (**ogʷhis*); cymr. euod (**ogʷh-*) 'sheep worms': Old Indic áhi-, Avestan aži- 'snake'.

It is uncertain apposition from Old Saxon egithassa, Middle Low German egidesse, Old English (corrupted) āpexe, Old High German egidehsa, Modern High German Eidechse mit ewi-, egi-, Indo Germanic **ogʷhi-* = ὄφις (Zupitza gutturals 99 after Kluge; Falk-Torp under øgle) + Germanic **pahsiō*, Old High German **dehsa* 'spindle, newel'.

Whether in this variety so order is to be brought that **angʷhi-* and **eghi-*, **oghi-* (gh) an intersection form would have caused **egʷhi-*, **ogʷhi-*, remains undecided. Taboo images have also probably helped in it.

References: WP. I 63 ff.. WH. I 48, Specht KZ. 64, 13; 66, 56 f., Havers Sprachtabu 44 f.

Page(s): 43-45

---

Root / lemma: ank-1

Meaning: 'need, necessity'

Material:

In ε grade:

Brugmann Grdr. I2382) wherewith Irish écht (**anktu-* or **ḡktu-*, **enktu-*) 'manslaughter' at first is to be connected (see Falk-Torp 17, 1430), root-like with ank- 'compulsion' (: 'press, kill '? ) originally is same, or connected to **enek-* 'kill', as well as Hittite ḫi-in-kán, ḫé-en-kán (ḫenkan) 'death, epidemic, plague'.

Maybe alb. Geg hekë 'agony'.

Old Irish écen (éc- from **ank-* or **ḡk-*), mcymr. anghen, cymr. angen, corn. bret. anken 'need, necessity', in Irish also 'spoliation, act of violence'.

In α grade:

Gr. ἀνάγκη 'necessity, compulsion' (normally as reduplicated respectably), Ionian ἀναγκαῖη ds. (from ἀναγκαῖος 'indispensable, necessary', ἀναγκάζω 'compelled, forced, obliged');

Although 'compulsion' from 'hostile distress, pursuit' were comprehensible, it makes does gr.-Celtic meaning - concordance, nevertheless, doubtful, whether phonetically correspondent Old High German āhta 'hostile pursuit', Modern High German Acht, Old English ōht (proto Germanic **anχtō*), Germanic EN Āctumērus (i.e. n. Āχtumēraz, 1. year A.D.;

References: WP. I 60. Pedersen Hittitisch 183 f., Hendriksen Unders. 28, Benveniste Origines 155.

Page(s): 45

---

Root / lemma: ank-2, ang-

Meaning: 'to bend, bow, *flex; wangle; turn; curve, snake coil, anchor'

Material:

Old Indic añcati (Middle Persian ancītan) and (zero grade) ácati 'bent, crooked', participle -akna- (with ā-, ny-, sam-), -akta- (with ud-, ny-) 'crooked, bent'; anḱá-h m. 'bend, hook, bend between breast and hip', ánkas- n. 'Bend, inflection, curve, crook' (= gr. τὸ ἄγκος 'valley, gulch, canyon, gorge'), anḱasám 'side, points'; anḱu- in anḱūyánt- 'curvatures, bends, searching side ways';

Avestan anku-pəsəmna- 'with hooks, adorning themselves with clasps';

Old Indic ankuṣá-h 'hook, fishhook, elephant's sting', anḱurá-h 'young shoot, scion (originally germ point, crooked germ), hump, tumefaction, a heavy swell' (= gr. ἄγκύλος 'crooked', German Angel 'fishing rod', Old Norse ōll, āll 'cotyledon, germ, sprout, bud' see below);

Avestan Aka m. 'hook, bait', axnah (Bartholomae Stud. 2, 101, Airan. Wb. 359) 'rein';

gr. ἄγκών 'bow, elbow' (D. Pl. ἀγκάσι to ἀγκή = ἀγκάλη), ἐπ-ηγκεν-ίδες 'fixed planks in the ribs of the ship' (Döderlein, Bechtel Lexil. 129), ἄγκοινα 'all writhed, humped, curved, stooped', ἄγκιστρον 'fishhook'; ἄγκύλος 'crooked', ἄγκύλη 'strap, thong, brace' (= Old Norse ōl, āl ds.), ἄγκυρα 'anchor'; ἀγκάλη 'elbow, bay, all stooped'; τὸ ἄγκος (see above).

maybe Ancyra -ae f. capital of Galatia, in Asia Minor. (ancient district in central Anatolia - a Celtic, (Illyrian?) settlement).

With o: ὄγκος 'barbed hook' = Latin uncus 'hooked, curved; Subst. hook' (ὄγκῖνος = uncīnus 'hook, barbed hook'); ungulus 'a finger-ring, a ring' Pacuvius, from Festus 514 L. as Oscan called, ungustus 'hook-shaped stuff' Paulus ex Fest. 519, see below under ang-; ὄγκη γωνία Hes.;

Maybe from also Latin unguiculus -i m. 'a finger or toe-nail', unguis -is m. 'a finger or toe-nail; of animals, claw, hoof', ungula -ae f. 'a hoof, claw, talon' : Rumanian unghie 'nail' and in zero grade alb. (**nguillist*), glisht 'finger, toe' : Latin ungulus 'a finger-ring, a ring' [common alb. -s > -st shift].

Latin ancus 'somebody having a crooked arm', ancrae 'an enclosed valley, valley, gorge' ('curve, canyon, a bay; an inlet' as τό ἄγκος = Germanic **angra*);

Old Irish ēcath 'fish hook' = cymr. anghad 'clutch, hand' (to craf-anc 'claw') from **anhkato-* = Old Church Slavic okotъ 'hook'; gallorom. ancorago, ancora(v)us from **anko-rākos* 'Rhine salmon, hook salmon' schwd. Anke 'Lake of Constance trout' (gall. **anko-* 'curved, hooky' and **rāko-* 'in front' from **prōko-*, cymr. rhag 'before');

Maybe zero grade alb. (**ncus*) thua 'nail, claw'.

Old High German ango, angul 'fish hook, sting', Old Icelandic angi, Old English onga 'point, sting' (**anhkón-*; about Gothic halsagga 'cervical bend, nape' see rather anġh-); **angra* (up to gender = Latin **ancrae*) in Old Norse angr 'bay, curve' (in local names like Harðangr),

Maybe zero grade alb. (**angul*) ngul 'jab, stick, hook'

Old High German angar, Modern High German Anger (Germanic VN Angrivarii); synonymous Old Icelandic eng (**angiō-*) 'grassland, meadow'; Old High German awgul (= gr. ἄγκύ-λος, see above), Middle High German angel 'the part of a blade that is connected to the handle (of a sword) by a tang', Old Norse ǣngoll 'fishhook', Old English ongel 'a fishing-hook. Also, a rod and line'.

Maybe zero grade in alb. (**ngelos*) ngec, ngel 'be stuck, be hooked' : ngul 'to jab, claw'.

Much puts here Latin-Germanic VN Anglii, Old English Angel, Ongel as 'resident of the Holsteiner bay' to Old Icelandic PN Ǣngull, which did not cover meaning 'angle, bay' (Hoops Reallex. I 61); with original initial stress Old Norse ōll, āll 'cotyledon, germ, bud' (**anhla-*, Noreen Ltl. 25; to meaning compare except Old Indic anhkurá-h yet Norwegian dial. ange 'germ, point, prong' from **anhkón-*), Old Norse ōl, āl f. 'long strips, thongs, riems' (basic form **ánhulō*, compare ἄγκύλη, or at most **anhlō*, standing near gr. ἄγκάλη);

Slavic jěčьmy 'barley' as 'thistly, thorny, spiky' (Berneker 268), compare the above words for 'point, sting, cusp';

Lithuanian anka f. 'noose, snare, loop' (= gr. ὄγκη γωνία Hes.); Old Church Slavic ꙗkotъ 'hook' (see above);

Tocharian A añcäl 'bow, arch, curve', āñkar- 'fangs, bulwark'; also A orikaläm, B orikolmo 'elephant'? Van Windekens Lexique 6, 13, 82.

ang-, esp. to the name of extremities (compare Gothic libus 'limb, member': *lei- 'bend'):

Old Indic áṅgam 'limb, member', aṅgúli-ḥ, aṅgúri-ḥ f. 'finger, toe' (thereof aṅgulīyam 'a finger-ring, a ring'), aṅguṣṭhā-ḥ 'big toe, thumb' = Avestan angušta- m. 'toe', Armenian ankiun, angiun 'angle' and añjalí-ḥ m. 'two cupped hands held together';

gr. ἄγγος n. 'Bucket, bowl', ἄγγειον (*ἄγγεσ-ιον) 'vessel', actually 'twisted vessel';

Middle Irish aigen 'frying pan' is dial. additional form of **aingen* ds.;

Old High German ancha, enka f. 'neck' and 'thigh, osseous tube, bone tube' (**ankiōn-*), Old Norse ekkja 'ankle, heel'; Demin. Old High German anchal, enchil (reinterpreted anklāo m., anchala, enchila f., Middle High German Middle Low German enkel, Old Frisian onkel, onklēu, Modern High German Enkel, Maybe in -e grade Illyrian TN Encheleae (Enchelleae) Illyrian TN associated with the coils of the snake, Ilirus and Kadmos.

Old English (reinterpreted) ancléow, engl. ankle, Old Norse ꝥkkla (**ankulan-*) 'ankle on the foot'; also Latin angulus (which is unrelated to Old Church Slavic ꙗꙗ(ъ)ъ 'angle, nook') 'm. a corner, angle; nook, esp. either a quiet corner, retired spot or fig., an awkward corner, strait' (besides with o- grade Latin ungulus, ungustus see above).

References: WP. I 60 f., WH. I 46, 49 f., Meringer WuS. 7, 9 ff.

Page(s): 45-47

---

Root / lemma: an-1 (**han-1*)

Meaning: 'male or female ancestor'

Note: babble-word

Root / lemma: an-1 (**han-*) : 'male or female ancestor' derived from zero grade of Root / lemma: ġen-1, ġenə-, ġnē-, ġnō- : 'to bear (mother, father)' [origin of the old laryngeal ġ- > h-]

Material: Armenian han 'grandmother', gr. ἀννίς μητρός ἢ πατρός μήτηρ Hes., compare Inschr. ἀνώ; Latin anna f. 'nursing mother'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Illyrian EN Ἀνα, Ἀννύλα, Annaeus etc, as well as Messapic Illyrian ana = πόντια Illyrian origin (W. Schulze KZ. 43, 276 = Kl. Schr. 214, Krahe IF. 46, 183 f.); compare furthermore Latin anus, -ūs 'an old woman; also used like adj., old', also Anna -ae f. sister of Dido; 'Anna Perenna', an Italian goddess.

Note:

Armenian, gr. and Illyrian have preserved old laryngeal h-;

Illyrian and Latin display common -ila diminutive suffix, suggesting the same origin.

Maybe alb. Tosc aneja 'mother', alb. anë 'side, bloodline' similar to Germanic Ahnenreihe 'genealogy, line of descent from an ancestor', alb. anoj 'to incline, like'.

Old High German ano, Middle High German ane, an, ene, Modern High German Ahn 'grandfather, great-grandfather, forefather'; Old High German ana, Middle High German ane 'grandmother, great-grandmother, ancestress'. diminutive formations are: Old Norse Āli (**anilo*), Old English Anela, Old High German Anelo family names; Middle High German enel 'grandfather, grandson'. Further Old High German eninchil, Middle High German enichlīn, Modern High German Enkel ('the young ancestor'). The grandson was looked by Indo Aryans as an effigy or substitute of the grandfather; compare gr. Ἀντίπατρος. Against this represented view of W. Schulze KZ. 40, 409 f. = Kl. Schr. 67 f. endorsed Hermann, Nachr. d. Ges. d. Wiss. to Göttingen, Phil.-hist. Klasse 1918, 215 f., the bayr. enl, änl, österr. ænl, ānl etc the meaning 'of grandfathers' and 'grandson' carry and the one here with same occurrence has to do like with Modern High German Vetter (originally 'of the father's brother', then also 'of the brother's son'); the salutation is returned by the grandfather to the grandson. This older view is notable (compare the literature by Hermann aaO.).

Prussian ane 'old mother'; Lithuanian anyta 'mother-in-law'.

Hittite an-na-aš 'mother'; ha-an-na-aš (hannaš) 'grandmother', Lycian χῆνα ds. (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Probably rightly puts M. E. Schmidt KZ. 47, 189 Armenian aner 'father of the woman' moreover. It is similar formation like in Latin matertera 'mother's sister, maternal aunt', cymr. ewythr 'uncle', acorn. euitor, bret. eontr (proto Celtic **aentro-*, see Pedersen Celtic Gr. I 55). **anero-* had the original meaning 'anything like the forefather'.

It is unsafe Old High German hevianna from which reshuffled Middle High German hebamme. Because Old High German **anna* 'woman' is not to be covered, Kluge<sup>11</sup> 238 origin from **hafjan* (d) jō accepts 'the lifting' from which the later close interpretations have originated. However, compare PBB. 30, 250.

References: WP. I 55 f., WH. I 50, Pedersen Lycian under Hittite 26, 66.

Page(s): 36-37

---

Root / lemma: an-2

Meaning: there, on the other side

Material: Gr. ἄν 'probably, possibly, in any other trap' (ἔάν from εἰ ἄν, Ionian ἦν from **ἦ ἄν*, ἄν from αἰ ἄν); Latin an 'conj.: in direct questions, or; in indirect questions, or whether', secondarily interrogative particle, extended anne, Old Irish an-d 'here', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Gothic an 'then, now'; Lithuanian an-gu 'or', Old Prussian anga-anga 'whether = or whether'.

maybe alb. (**ane*) andej 'there': Old Irish an-d 'here' [rather common alb. shift n > nd].

Thereof derived:

anjos 'other' in:

Old Indic anyá- 'other', Avestan anya-, ainya-, Old pers. aniya- ds. compare above S. 26.

anteros 'other' (from second) in:

maybe zero grade in alb. (**anteros*) ndërroj 'change, alter', ndërresë 'change, the other thing';

Old Indic ántara-, oss. ändär 'other', Gothic anþar ds., Old Icelandic annarr 'other, second', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German andar, Old English ōþer 'other', Old Prussian anters, antars (**antras*) 'other, second', Lithuanian añtras, Latvian ūotrs beside Lithuanian añtaras, East Latvian ūtors ds., Slavic **qterъ*, **qtorъ* in Czech úterým. 'Tuesday', Upper Sorbian wutory 'other, second'. About Old Church Slavic въторъ 'second' s. уи- 'asunder, apart'.

Note:

It seems Root / lemma: *an-2: 'there, on the other side' is a zero grade of the extended Root / lemma: *al-1, ol-: 'besides; other' into **alny-*, **any-*.

Maybe zero grade in alb. (**nyátra*) tjetër 'other' [common alb. n > nt > t̥]: Old Indic anyátra 'somewhere else'.

Perhaps alb. dial. (**hetër*) jatër, jetër, alb. [attribute të 'of' + ante], tjetër 'other, second'; similar to formation in alb. Geg (**të mel* = of milk) tamli 'milk' where të is the alb. attribute particle. Initial alb. j seems to have substituted the old laryngeal form h.

References: WP. I 56, 67, II 337, WH. I 44, Trautmann 10/11, Debrunner REtIE. 3, 1 ff.

Page(s): 37-38

---

Root / lemma: *an4, anu, anō, nō

Meaning: a preposition ("along a slanted surface, etc.")

Note: (compare the summary by Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 798 f., also about the syntactic).

Material: Avestan ana, Old pers. anā (Proto Aryan **ana* or **anā*) 'about there' (m. Akk. or Instr.), 'along, on' (m. Akk.), Avestan anu, Old pers. anuv 'after, according to; up there' (m. Akk.), 'lengthwise, along' (m. Lok.), also preverb;

maybe alb. anēs 'along'

Old Indic ānu 'after (timewise m. Akk., Abl., Gen.), after (order), after there, along, behind, according to, with regard to, against' (m. Akk.), Adv. 'on it (auslaut-u appears to be comparable in Lesbian Thessalian ἀπύ beside Attic ἄπρό. Against Wackernagels explanation from Indo Germanic **enu* 'along, according to' see WH. I 677; to-u see below ap-u); Armenian am- in am-bainam ham-barnam 'I raise, uplift', ham-berem 'I endure' maybe from -an (the h by mixture with a borrowed sound from the Pers. ham- 'together');

Ionic-Attic ἄνα, ἀνά 'on, upwards, along', Doric Boeotian Arcadian Cypriot ἄν, Lesbian Thessalian Arcadian, z. Part Cypriot ὀν, isolates Arcadian Cypriot ὕν (from ὀν) ds. (the monosyllabic form appears the original and to be extended ἄνά only after κατά; compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 622; it is likely according to Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 275 ὀν originated from ἄν; Adv. ἄνω 'upward, up');

A Latin remainder appears an-hēlō 'breathes strongly and with difficulty' (an + **anslō*); Umbrian an-, (with en 'in' become synonymous and with it alternately, hence, en-tentu beside:) an-tentu 'intendito', anseriato 'observatum', anglar 'oscines' (**an-klā* to clamo) etc

Maybe here Old Irish an-dess ' from the south ' etc;

Gothic ana (m. dat. mid Akk.) ' on, in, against, because of, about ', Old Norse ā Adv. and preposition m. dat. and Akk. ' on, in ', m. dat. ' on, in, up, by ', m. Akk. ' after, up, on, against ', Old Saxon an, Old English on, Old High German aua, an, Modern High German an (**ana* or **anō*, **anē*) preposition m. dat. and Akk. and Instr. ' on, up, in, to, against ';

maybe zero grade in alb. (**ana*) nē ' on, in '.

Lithuanian anóte, anót m. Gen. ' accordingly, according to '; about the first on proto Slavic **on* going back to Slavic ъ(n)- ' in, on ' see Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 828 and **en* ' in '.

With zero grade of the first syllable, thus initial sound n:

Lithuanian nuõ m. Gen. ' from down, from away ' (these where from meaning only from the connection with the ablative originated anew), as a Nominal präf. nuo-, as a Verbal präf. nu- (proklit. abbreviation as in pri- beside priē), let. nũo m. Gen. ' from ', as prefix nuo-;

Old Prussian no, na m. Akk. ' on (where), against, about there ', as prefix ' after; from away ' (see also Bezzenberger KZ. 44, 304); Old Church Slavic na m. Akk. and Lok. ' on there; up, on, in ' (in addition after prě: prě-dъ neologism na-dъ ' upside, above, about ' m. Akk. and Instr. and preverb); Old Indic nā perhaps in nādhitá ' pressed ', see below nā- ' help '.

Here presumably Lithuanian -na, -n ' in (direction where) ', postal position with verbs of the movement, Avestan na-zdyah-, Old Indic nédīyas- ' closer ' (' * moved near '); root sed- ' sit '; presumably similarly Gothic nēhu, Old High German nāh Adv. ' near ' as ' looking near, turned near ' (with root oq *- as 2nd part); see Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 798 f., where also about the ambiguous Old Indic ádhi ' about, on ', ap. adiy ' in ' (*-ṛdʰi or **edʰi*, **odʰi*?).

maybe alb. (**nāh*) nga ' from ' [common alb. n > ng shift]

About Gothic anaks adv. ' suddenly, straight away ', supposedly to Old Bulgarian naġъ ' suddenly, abruptly ' (?), s. Feist 42.

References: WP. I 58 f., WH. I 43 f., 49, 677, Feist 41 a, 373, Trautmann 200.

Page(s): 39-40

---

Root / lemma: ansā, ansi-

Meaning: noose, snare

Material: Latin ānsa `clutch, handle, a handle; (hence), occasion, opportunity ', ānsae crepidae `the eyelets on the straps of the shoe soles through which the shoelaces were pulled ' = Lithuanian ąsà f. (Akk. āsa) `pot handle, loop with the knot apron ' (compare also Latin ansatus = Lithuanian ąsotas ` (furnished with or having a handle) with a handle '), Latvian uosa `handle, loop, eyelet ', next to which stem Old Prussian ansis `hook, pot hanger, kettle hanger ', Latvian ūoss (Akk. ūs) `handle ';

Maybe alb. (**ues*) vesh `handle, ear '

Old Icelandic æsf. (**ansjō*) `hole in the upper edge of the shoe leather for pulling through of the straps ' = Middle Low German ōse f. `ring-shaped handle, loop' (out of it Late Middle High German Modern High German Öse; or West Germanic word to Ohr according to Kluge and Weigand-Hirt s. v. ?); Middle Irish ē(i)si Pl. `rein ', gr. ῥήνις, Doric ἄνις ds. (**ānsiā*).

Maybe truncated alb. (**enha*) ena `pot (*pot handle)' [common alb. -s- > -h-].

References: WP. I 68, WH. I 51, Trautmann 10.

Page(s): 48

Root / lemma: ansu-, ŋsu- (**henku-r* in centum languages)

Meaning: ghost, demon

Note:

Root / lemma: ansu-, ŋsu- (**henku-r*): ghost, demon, derived from Root / lemma: ank-2, ang-: `to bend, bow, *flex; wangle; turn; curve, snake coil, anchor'.

Material:

In e-grade:

Lycian eśa- 'grandchild, grandson'; Lycian B qzze, qezmīmi, xzzātā (Shevoroshkin), Lycian A qehñ 'offspring, descendants, progeny' (Tischler 191 ff)

In a-grade:

Hittite: has- (II, I) 'testify, bear', hassa- 'grandson, granddaughter', hassu- c. 'king, ruler, sovereign'; h.l. has(a)- 'create, engender, breed', hasmi- 'offspring, descendants, progeny', hasusara- 'queen'; (Tischler 191 ff).

Comments: 'grandchild, grandson' in Hittite may be a result of contamination: cf. Hittite hammasa- 'small child', Luvian hamsa-, h.l. hamasa- 'grandchild, grandson' (see Tischler ibid. and 141-142).

Old Indic ásu-, Avestan aṇhu- `breath of life, breath, life, spirit, world', ásu-ra-, Avestan ahura- `ruler, lord' (**ŋsu-*); Venetic ahsu- (= āsu-) `cult effigy, cult figure' = Germanic **ansuz* ` god, ace ' in Old Icelandic áss, Runic a[n]suR, Old English ōs ` ace ', Gothic-Latin anses ` demigods '.

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur- : Old Indic ásu-ra-, Avestan ahura- ` ruler, lord ' : Ἰλλυριοί , οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία , ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς , ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός , ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω , speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία:--hence Adv. Ἰλλυριστί.

References: H. Güntert Der Aryan Weltkönig 102, Feist 52 b.

See also: Perhaps to an(ə)- ` breathe '.

Page(s): 48

---

Root / lemma: ans-

Meaning: favourable

Material: Gothic anst f., Old High German anst and (zero grade) unst, Middle High German gunst from **ge-unst*, Old English ēst ` favour, mercy ', Old Norse ōst, ǫst ` favour, love ', Old High German abanst, abunst, Old Saxon avunst, Old English æfest ` distrust, resentment, disfavor '; Middle High German gund m. ` favour ', Old Norse ǫf-und f. ` disfavor '; preterit present Old High German an, unnum (Inf. unnan, preterit onsta, onda) ` grant ' (gi-unnan), Old Saxon Old English unnan ` grant, concede, wish ', Old Norse unna (ann, unnom, preterit unnan from **unþa*) ` love, grant, concede '. un-nu-m (from **unz-nu-m*) is an old present the neu-, nu- class, wherefore the new Sg. ann. (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Which root beginning as Germanic an-, un-, has in anst the suffix compound -s-ti- to see (see Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 437), while Middle High German gund, Old Norse ǫfund the easier one contained -ti-.

However, is because of basic Germanic **anst(s)* root probably as Germanic ans-, uns- to begin (Kluge ZfdtWtf. 9, 317, Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 3, 332), unnum consequently originated from **unz-num* (Indo Germanic **ṛns-nu-me*), whereupon then Sg. ann, and new weak preterit **un-þa* (Old High German onda, Old Norse unna) beside Old High German onsta, Old Saxon gi-onsta, then also Middle High German gund, Old Norse ǫfund (suffix -ti-) new creations have become after s- part to unnum, unnan.

Also gr. προσ-ηνής `friendly', ἀπ-ηνής `unkind, hard ' (: ab-unst) is the most likely = *προσ-, ἀπ-ανσής (see Brugmann aaO.).

In divergent formal judgement Bechtel Lexil covers. 49 gr. - ἀνής on neutr. Subst.
*ānos whose suffixale zero grade lies as a basis Germanic *an-s-tī.

References: WP. I 68, Feist 53.

Page(s): 47

---

Root / lemma: antro-m

Meaning: cave, hole

Material: Armenian ayr, Gen. Pl. ayric `cave, hole ', gr. ἄντρον ds.

References: WP. I 56<sup>1</sup>, Schwyzer Mel. Boisacq II 234<sup>1</sup>, KZ. 68, 222, Gr. Gr. I 532, Pisani KZ. 68, 161 f.

See also: Perhaps to an(ə)- `breathe ', as originally `vent, air vent '.

Page(s): 50

---

Root / lemma: ant-s

Meaning: forward, before, outer side

Material: Old Indic ánta-h `end, border, edge ' (therefrom antya-h `the last ');

Alb. (**ánta*) ana `side, end'.

gr. Gen. Sg. κάταντες (= κατ' ἄντες) `down the forefront ', Dat.-Lok. ἀντί (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 548<sup>6</sup>, 622<sup>5</sup>), Akk. εισ-άντα `in the face ' (**ant-m*), ἔν-αντα, ἄν-αντα, κάτ-αντα etc (W. Schulze, Kl. Schr. 669, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 632under), adverbial ἄντα `towards, opposite ', thereafter ἀντῶν `meets '; about ἄντομαι see Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 722 under.; about ἀντην s. Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 687;

Old Irish étan (**antono-*) `forehead '; perhaps here mcymr. enhyt, cymr. ennyd `time, moment ' (**ant-iti-* to Old Indic ití- `gait, way '), mcymr. anhaw `old ' (**ant-ayo-*), nir. éata `old; age ' (**ant-odio-?*), compare Loth Rc. 48, 32; 50, 63; (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Hittite ha-an-za (hant-s) `forefront ', therefrom ha-an-te-iz-zi-iš (hantezziš)= **ant-eṭios*;

Lycian χñtawata `leader ' (Pedersen Lycian under Hittite 17);

Tocharian A antule `outside, to ... before ', antus `also'.

Hittite: hant- c. 'forehead', hanta 'towards', handai- (I) 'order, lead '; Luvian hantili- 'former, previous, prior, first ', handa(i)- 'decide, order ', Lycian χñtawata 'leader, king ', Lycian ānTē- 'prescribe, determine ' (Tischler 149ff)

Tokharian: A ānt, B ānte 'forehead, front ' (PT **ānte*) (Adams 43)

Maybe alb. hunda 'nose' : Hittite: ḫant- c. 'forehead'.

see also under antios.

In addition as pristine cases:

anti 'in the face of' > 'towards, opposite, against', etc.

Old Indic anti Adv. 'opposite itself, before itself, near', from what antiká-h 'near', n. 'nearness'.

Armenian and 'there', ənd preposition 'for, instead of' m. Gen. and 'along, about (in, on) somewhere there' m. Akk. (compare Gothic and), in meaning 'aside' m. Abl. and 'with, by' m. Lok. (which has dwindled vowel in the final sound is not determinable; anl. ə- from a-), as preverb 'on'; in addition andranik 'firstborn, the first (earliest)' (Bugge KZ. 32, 2; compare to meaning Latin ante 'before, of place or time' and the above mentioned words for 'forehead' as a 'front'), probably also ančanem 'to go past' (Pedersen KZ. 39, 425, compare gr. ἀντομαι; ç from t + the aoristic s, compare the Aor. ē-anç).

Maybe alb. andej 'there, in the other side, opposite'.

Gr. ἀντί 'in view of, towards, opposite, before; for, instead of' m. Gen., also preverb, e.g. ἀνθίστημι; hom. κατ' ἀντηστίην 'in the opposite point of view, against' is fine to Bechtel Lexil. 46 from *ἀντι-στι-ς reshuffled after ἀντην ἴσθημι; ἀντικρύ, Attic ἀντικρυς 'almost, against' (ambiguous ending), ἀντιάω, ἀντιάζω 'meets'.

Latin ante (from **anti*, compare antistō, as well as antīcus, antiquus) preposition m. Akk. spatially 'against, before', timewise 'before', also preverb (e.g. antecedō, antid-eā, -hāc 'before', antid-īre 'lead the way' (-d after prōd); in addition anterior 'earlier', antārium bellum 'war before the town', antīcus 'the front' (c after posticus 'behind'), antīquus 'old' (the ending and the contraction in temporal meaning after novus; Indo Germanic **anti* + **okʷ-* 'looking'), antēs, -ium 'rows or ranks (from soldiers, vines)', originally possibly 'fronts' (about antae see, however, under **anētā* 'door post').

Hittite ḫa-an-ti (ḫantī) 'in front, esp., in particular'.

anta 'against there' (direction); to -a see Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 622 f.

Gothic and preposition m. Akk. 'up there, about there, along'. With therefrom more divergently meaning the nominal prefix and verbal prefix Germanic anda-, and 'against, opposite', also in verbs normally 'from - away': Gothic anda-, and (e.g. andniman 'accept compounds Old Norse endr, enn `earlier, formerly, again, after' (endr= Gothic andiz-uh `either'), Old English end `before' (**andis*), Old High German enti `earlier, yore' (Germanic **andiaz*), Middle High German ent, end Konj. `previous, before' (e.g. Falk-Torp 192, 1455).

', andanēms `agreeable, pleasant', andbindan `unbind, untie, be confined'), Old Norse Old Saxon Old English and, Old High German ant-, int-, Middle High German Modern High German ant-, (e.g. create Antlitz, Antwort).

Lithuanian añt, older anta m. Gen. `after-there, up, on'.

About gr. ἄντα see above.

nti

A weaker ablaut form (**nt-*) shows Gothic and m. dat. `ἀντί, for, around', unþa- (**nto-*) in unþa-þliuhan `escape', Old English oð- (**unþ-*) in oðgangan `escape', ūðgegne `fleeting' = Old Norse unningi, undingi (**unþ-*, **and-gangia-*) `escaped slave' (Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup>, 803).

Other meaning points Gothic und m. Akk. `until, to', Old High German unt in unt-az `until, to' and unzi (= untzi) `until, to', Old Saxon und `until, to', unti, unt (and + te `to'), unto (and + tō), engl. unto `to, until', Old Norse unz (and es) `until, till that', Old English (with grammatical change) oð- in addition, besides, until, to', Oscan ant m. Akk. `up to' (likewise from **nti*, see Walde Kelten and Italiker 54; because of Germanic and not to place exactly attuning meaning = Latin ante `before', e.g. v. Planta II 443), Lithuanian iñt `after' (rather contamination from in and ant).

The fact that these forms show an extension preposition **en*, **n* `in' (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 629 f., where also about gr. dial. ἔντε), is possible as then Lithuanian iñt with ĩ `after' corresponds in the application. However, could be of this one additional use adjustment as a result of the sound resemblance and Indo Germanic **nt* (-i, -a?) `until, to' belong as `up against there, on the opposite side over' to anti, also the words for the `end' (see below) are originally the purpose waving on the opposite side, and with Old Saxon unt is also ant (and + te) preposition m. Akk. `wholly, completely' synonymous what, even if only new intersection are from unt with and-, however, the concept relationship of both explained.

antios `against, recumbent before' (formed from the adverb anti):

**antjío-* (Germanic **andja-*) in Gothic andeis, Old Norse endir, Old Saxon endi, Old English ende m., Old High German anti, enti m. and n., Modern High German Ende; also gr. ἀντίος 'against' (in addition ἐναντίον ds., ἐναντίος 'situated against; opponent ') probably goes back (compare Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 379) to **ἀντιός*.

Against it is from **anto-* (see above) derived ántjio- in Old Norse enni n., Old High German andi, endi n. 'forehead' = Latin antiae 'the hair growing upon the forehead, forelock'.

A quite different word is Modern High German and, Old High German unti, anti, enti, Old Saxon endi, Old English engl. and 'and', Old Norse en(n) 'and, but', with Old Indic áthā 'thereupon, thereon, then, ditto', Avestan aθā 'also', Oscan ant m. Akk. 'all the way to, up to, towards', Lithuanian iĩt m. Akk. 'after' (however, see above), Tocharian B entwe 'also' belongs to **en*, η 'in'.

Maybe alb. in (**ende*) edhe 'and, also', zero grade (**ende*) dhe 'and, but'.

References: WP. I. 65 ff., WH. I 53 f., Feist 46, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 619, 621, 629 f., 632 f., 722, 726, II (B V 2 b d 3).

Page(s): 48-50

---

Root / lemma: apelo-

Meaning: strength

Material: Gr. ἀν-απελάσας ἀναρρωσθεῖς Hes., Ionian εὐηπελής 'strong', hom. ὀλιγηπελίη 'swoon, Ionian ἀνηπελίη ἀσθένεια Hes., Elis: MN Τευτί-απλος (after Prellwitz BB. 24, 214 ff., Kretschmer Gl. 18, 205 here 'Ἀπέλλων, 'Ἀπόλλων, with vocal gradation Thessalian Ἔαπλου; after Sommer IF. 55, 176<sup>2</sup> rather pregreek); Illyrian MN Mag-aplinus, Aplus, Aplo, Aplis, -inis, FN Aplo, -onis; gall. VN Dī-ablintes 'the powerless, the weak' (from \-aplentes*); Germanic GN Matronis Aflims, Afliabus 'effective magic', Old Icelandic afi n., Old English afo, aba / n. 'strength'.

Note:

The Root / lemma: apelo- : 'strength' seems related to Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>ro- : 'strong, mighty' [the shift / > r].

References: WP. I 176, Feist Ia, Kretschmer Gl. 24, 250.

Page(s): 52

---

Root / lemma: ap-1 (proper ep-) : ēp-

Meaning: to take, grab, reach

Note:

From the reduced Root / lemma: *ghab-: 'to grab, take', derived Root / lemma: *ap-1 (exact ep-): ēp-: 'to take, grab, reach, *give' > Root / lemma: *ēpi-: 'comrade' > Root / lemma: *ai-3: 'to give'.

Maybe alb. Tosc (**h<sub>2</sub>e-ip-mi*) ep, jap, Geg nep (**na* 'us' + ep 'give') 'give us (*take)': Hittite e-ip-mi (ēpmi) 'take', 3. Pl. ap-pa-an-zi (apanzi): gr. ἄπτω 'give a hand'.

Material:

In e grade:

Hittite e-ip-mi (ēpmi) 'takes', 3. Pl. ap-pa-an-zi (apanzi).

hom. ἥπαφον 'cheat'.

Maybe alb. Tosc (**h<sub>2</sub>ap*) jap, nasalized alb. Geg (**h<sub>1</sub>enp*) nep 'give' common h > j-Slavic Albanian.

In a grade:

Old Indic āpnōti 'achieved, attained', more recently āptá-h 'clever, suitable, trusted'; Avestan apayeiti 'achieved, reached', 3. Pl. āpənte from **āp<sub>u</sub>antai*,

About Old Indic āp<sub>u</sub>-h 'friend', gr. ἥπιος 'friendly' see below ēpi-.

Armenian unim 'own' (**ōp-n-*?), ənd-unim 'attain'; (common arm. Celtic alb. abbreviation).

gr. ἄπτω 'give a hand, attach, pick a quarrel, light, kindle', ἄπτεσθαι 'touch', ἀφή 'touch, adherence etc.' will be delivered in spite of the spirit here. Kretschmer Gl. 7, 352 assumes influenced by ἔπω; hom. ἀφάω (ἀφάω) 'touch, palpate, feel, finger', Ionian ἀφάσσω ds., common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-;

hom. ἀπαφίσκω, ἥπαφον (with Aeolic o: ἀποφεῖν ἀπατήσαι Hes.) 'cheat, barter, exchange', ἀποφώλιος 'phantasmic, delusive, fallacious', κατηφής 'low-spirited' (actually 'got down').

Pedersen KZ. 39, 428 puts with gr. ἄπτω Armenian ap 'the hollow hand' (o-stem, however, Lok. γ-ap 'as -i-stem, thus probably older neutr. -os-stem) together, which word should correspond to gr. ἄψος 'joint, hinge'; because of p (= Indo Germanic ph) nevertheless, uncertain (compare Meillet BSL. 36, 110);

Latin apīscor `touch, reach, attain, come to, come by', adipīscor `to come up to, overtake; hence to obtain. Perf. partic. adeptus, used passively, = obtained', coēpi `has begun, commenced', later coepī.

The connection with Latin **apiō*, **apere* `to bind together, unite, joint, connect, link, tie round' (imper. ape `hinder, prevent, restrain'), aptus `as partic. fitted, fastened, connected. Transf., depending on; also prepared, fitted out; fitted up with, equipped with, with abl. (2) as adj. suitable, appropriate, fitting. Adv. apte', cōpula (co-apula) `a link, bond, tie, connection; a rope, a leash; plur. grapnels' is probably certain. Maybe is derived from a common primary meaning `touch, summarize'.

Also Latin apud `at, near, by, with, in' will be best of all suit here. The primary meaning would be `in close connection' (compare juxtā). One has derived from the part. Perf. neutr. **ap̥uod* (from **ap̥uot* `having reached'). Additional form apor, apur (mars.-Latin apur finem) points on originally -d̥.

Latin apex, -icis `cusp', esp. `the top of the conical cap of the Roman 'flamines', or the cap itself; hence any crown, tiara, helmet; fig., highest honor, crown; gram., the long mark over a vowel', maybe belongs to **apiō*; compare also EM. 60;

In o- grade:

Tocharian A oppäççi `clever' (Van Windekens Lexique 82);

References: WP. I 45 f., WH. I 57 f., 60, 847, Pedersen Hittite 128, Couvreur H 93.

Page(s): 50-51

---

Root / lemma: ap-3, āp-

Meaning: old; damage

Material: Old Indic apvā `illness, failure', Avestan (from an -es-stem) afša- m. `damage, evil'; Lithuanian opūs `weak, sore, frail' (Charpentier KZ. 40, 442 f.), presumably gr. ἡπεδανός `frail, weak' (Bezzenberger BB. 1, 164; to the ending see Risch 98; differently Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 530).

References: WP. I 47, Specht Dekl. 345.

Page(s): 52

---

Root / lemma: apo- (pō, ap-u, pu) (**h<sub>2</sub>aph<sub>3</sub>o-*)

Meaning: from, out, of

Note:

Root / lemma: apo- (pō, ap-u, pu) (**h<sub>2</sub>ap<sub>h</sub>o-*): 'from, out, of' derived from Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>-*): 'quick, abrupt' < Root / lemma: ar<sup>h</sup>- (**h<sub>2</sub>ar<sup>h</sup>-*): 'strong, mighty' < root ar<sup>h</sup>- (ro-): < with h-formant (ne<sup>h</sup>elā): < Root / lemma: (en<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, em<sup>h</sup>-, m<sup>h</sup>-: 'wet, damp; water; clouds'.

Gradually Root / lemma: apo- (pō, ap-u, pu) (**h<sub>2</sub>ap<sub>h</sub>o-*): 'from, out, of' became the prefix ph<sub>1</sub>e-, ph<sub>1</sub>i-, ph<sub>2</sub>a-, ph<sub>3</sub>o-.

Material:

In a- grade:

Hittite: happarnuwasha- c. 'sunbeam, rays of sunshine', happin(a)- 'open flame'.

References: Tischler 162, 165.

Old Indic āpa 'off, away, back' as adnominal Präp. m. Abl. 'away from', Avestan apa 'away from'; about privatives **ap-* in Iran, and Gr. see Schwyzler ZII. 6, 230 ff.; gr. ἀπτο, ἀπό m. Gen. (= *ablative) 'away from, ex, from'; maked. ἀπ-, ἀβ-; alb. prapë 'again, back' (**per-apë*); Latin ab m. Abl., 'prep. with abl. (1) of motion or measurement in space, from, away from. (2) of time, from, after. (3) of separation, difference, change, from; so of position or number, counting from; and of the relation of part to whole, out of, of. (4) of origin and agency; esp. with passive verbs, by, at the hands of, because of. (5) viewed from, on the side of: 'a tergo', in the rear; hence in connection with, as regards' (before voiced consonant from ap, still in aperiō from **ap-ueriō*, perhaps also in apricus, s. WH. I 59; about Latin *af*s. just there 1; abs = gr. ἄψ 'back, again'; out of it as- before p-, as-portō; ā before voiced consonants), Umbrian ap-eh<sub>1</sub>tre 'from without, from the outside; on the outside, outwardly' (about other, unsafe Oscan-Umbrian Belege s. v. Planta I 209, 426, II 454 f.); compare also Lithuanian apačią 'the lower part' (as 'turned away part', **apotiā*, to Old Indic āpatya- n. 'progeny' and Hittite ap-pé-iz-zi-ia-aš (appezijas) 'back'.

Gothic af prefix and preposition m. dat. 'from, away from, from here', Old Norse af Adv. and preposition m. dat., Old English æf, of, Old Saxon af, Old High German aba, ab- 'from, away from', Modern High German ab-.

As Celtic derivatives are taken up from **apo* acymr. ncymr. o 'ex-, from, of', a.-mcorn., a.-nbret. a ds. However, comes for this poor in sound brit. form rather affiliation to Old Irish ō, ua in consideration (Thurneysen Gr. 524), so that of all Brit. it remains quite unsafe.

In Hittite a-ap-pa (apa) 'behind, back' (compare gr. ἀπο-δίδωμι 'give back, return') have maybe collapsed Indo Germanic apo and epi (Pedersen Hittite 188, Couvreur H 94 f., Lohmann IF. 51, 324 f.).

Derivatives: apo-tero-, ap-ero-, ap-io-, ap-ōko- and above apo<sub>ti</sub>ā, ape<sub>ti</sub>o-.

Old Indic apataram Adv. 'farther away', ap. apataram Adv. 'apart, somewhere else', gr. ἀπωτέρω 'farther distant' (ἀπωτάτω 'very far away'); maybe Gothic aftarō 'from the back, backward', aftuma, aftumists 'the last', Old English æftermest ds. and Gothic afta 'back, again', Old High German Old Saxon aftar Adv. 'behind, after' and Präp. m. Dat. 'after, behind, according to', Old English æfter ds..

In e-grade:

Old Norse eptir Adv. and Präp. m. Dat. and Akk. 'after', aptr Adv. 'back, backward'.

For this Germanic However, words relationship also stands with gr. ὀπίθεν, Indo Germanic **epi*, **opi* to the consideration (Schulze KZ. 40, 414 Anm. 3), compare still Gothic afta 'behind', Old English æft 'behind, later', Gothic aftana 'from the back', Old Norse aptan, Old English æftan, Old Saxon aftan, Middle High German aftern 'afterwards'.

Old Indic ápara- 'back, later, following, other', Adv. -ám 'after, later', Avestan ap. apara- 'back, later, following', Adv. -əm, -am, Sup. Old Indic apamá-, Avestan apəma- 'the one farthest away, the most distant, the last';

Gothic afar Adv. and preposition with dat. and Akk. 'after, afterward', Old High German avar, abur (latter from **apu-ró-m*, as Old Norse aur- 'bottom, lower, nether, back' in compound, see Falk-Torp, 11 f.) 'again, once more, against it' (Modern High German aber), Old Norse afar 'esp., very much' (compare to meaning Old Indic ápara- also 'outlandish, peculiar, extreme, extraordinary', Lidén Stud. 74 ff.; Old English eafora, Old Saxon a<sub>h</sub>baro 'descendant'). see still **āpero-* 'shore'.

maybe alb. (**apa<sub>h</sub>*) parë 'first, top', afër '*away, close', afërm 'relative, descendant', (**āper-*) prej 'from'.

Gr. ἄπιος 'remote, far'

In e-grade:

(probably also Old Norse efja f. 'bay in a river in which the current runs back', Old English ebba m. 'low tide', Old Saxon ebbia f., mndd. ebbe, where borrows from Modern High German Ebbe, as 'ebb, the outward movement of the tide; the return of tidewater towards the sea').

Old Indic ápāka- 'recumbent apart, distant, coming from the front', Armenian haka- as 1. composition part 'against', hakem 'piegare ad una parte, inclinare', Old Church Slavic opaky 'again', Church Slavic opako, opaky, opače 'back, inverted', in which, admittedly, forms can be partly also related to **opi*, gr. ὀπιθεν (compare Latin opācus 'shaded, shady; dark, shadowy, obscure' = 'turned away from the sun');

Literary formation by (Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 1, 482). Besides Old Norse ɔfugr 'after, turned backward', Old Saxon ābuh, avuh, Old High German abuh, abah 'turned away, inverted, wicked' (Modern High German äbig, äbicht), Old English **afoc* in engl. awkward, from **apu-ko-s* (or from **opu-ko-s*: ὀπιθεν, so that in the ablaut to Gothic ibuks 'being on the decline', Old High German ippihhōn 'roll back'? Johansson PBrB. 15, 230, in the consonant relegating to πυ-γή, see also Falk-Torp under aveŋ).

pō.

Avestan pa-zdayeiti 'let to move away, scare off'; Latin po-situs, pōnō 'to put down, set down, put, place, set, fix, lay, deposit' from **po-s[i]nō, po-liō, po-lūbrum, pōrcet* 'to keep off, keep back, to hinder, restrain' from **po-arcet*, alb. pa m. Akk. 'without', pa- 'un-' (Gl. Meyer Alb. Wb. 317); Old Frisian fān 'from, of', Old Saxon fana, fan, Old High German fona, fon m. Dat. (= **Abl.*) 'from, of' (Old High German -o- is after Persson IF. 2, 215 to derive from Indo Germanic **pu* beside **po*).

A similar form pursues Trautmann Old Prussian 389 in Old Prussian pan-s-dau 'thereafter'. Is totally unsafe whether Armenian otork 'polished, slippery, smooth' contains according to Lidén Arm. stem 60 ff. o- from **po-*.

Maybe suffixed alb. pas 'behind, back' pastaj 'later, thereafter'.

Against it here in spite of often divergent meaning (Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 808 considers absorption from Indo Germanic **upo*, and for Slavic po in meaning 'behind, after' m. Lok. probably properly origin from **pos*): Old Church Slavic po 'after, in, with, about a little bit there' (Lithuanian pō with Gen. under dat. 'after', with Instr. 'under'), as essential only more perfective verbal prefixes Lithuanian pa-, Old Church Slavic po- (as nominal prefix Old Church Slavic pa-, Lithuanian pa and pó-, compare e.g. Old Church Slavic памѣнѣти 'remember', памѣть 'memory');

Maybe alb. nominal prefix pa- in ph<sub>2</sub>ě-lor, plor 'ploughshare', ph<sub>2</sub>ě-rrua 'stream'.

Old Prussian pa- essential in nominal, pō- in verbal compound, compare Trautmann 203, Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 505.

About Slavic po-dъ 'below, under' see Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 733 f. - S. still Indo Germanic **po-ti* and **po-s*.

Maybe alb. (**po-s*) poshtë 'below, under' from the same root as Slavic languages Slavic po-dъ 'below, under' from Root / lemma: apo- (pō, ap-u, pu): (from, out, of) not from Root / lemma: pēd-2, pōd-: (foot, *genitalia).

ap-u stands beside **apo* (Lithuanian see below **pu*) in Arcadian Cypriot Lesbian Thessalian ἀπύ, in Old High German abo = aba, Old Norse au-virdīn 'contemptuous person' (Falk-Torp 11 f.), compare also above **apu-ro-* beside **apero-*, **apu-ko-*, and **pu* beside **po*. That -u maybe enclitic Particle 'and, also' (Feist 3a, 508a, WH. I 87). compare also Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 182.

pu (see above **apu*) mostly in meaning ('turned away' =) 'behind, back':

Old High German fona (see above), Old Indic punar 'again back', gr. πύματος 'the last'; quite uncertain Latin puppis 'the poop or stern of a vessel; poet. the whole ship'.

maybe alb. pupa 'the poop or stern of a vessel': poln. pupa 'bottom'.

References: WP. I 47 ff., WH. I If., 842, Feist 3a, Trautmann 11.

Page(s): 53-55

---

Root / lemma: appa

Meaning: father

Material: compare gr. ἄππα, ἀπφά, ἄπφα, ἀπφῦς (Theokrit) 'dad'; Tocharian B appakke 'father' (this -(a)kke from ammakki 'Mutter').

References: WP. I 47.

See also: compare also pap(p)a.

Page(s): 52

---

Root / lemma: apsā

Meaning: asp

Material: Old High German aspa, Modern High German Espe, Old English æspe, Old Norse ǫsp f. ds., Latvian apse (from **apuse*), Old Prussian abse ds., North Lithuanian apušis f., Lithuanian apušė, epušė f. 'aspens, trembling poplar' (after Bezenberger BB. 23, 298 supposedly free diminutive-formation from **apsā*), russ. osína (**opsīna*) 'aspens', poln. osa, osika, osina 'aspens'.

The fact that in this aspen name the sound result -ps-, is not the original -sp-, confirm among others türk.-osm. apsak `poplar`, tschuw. éwēs `aspen` as a loanword from the proto Armenian to Pedersen KZ. 30, 462. Specht places because of gr. ἀπελλόν αἰγείρος, ὃ ἐστὶ εἶδος δένδρον Hes. a root noun ap-.

References: WP. I 50, Specht Dekl. 60.

Page(s): 55

---

Root / lemma: ar 4 (er, or?), r

Meaning: now, also, interrogative particle

Material: Gr. ἄρα, ἄρ, ῥα (from r) `now, thus, consequently`, Cypriot ερ, ἄρα interrogative particle (*ῥ ἄρα; γάρ, maybe from γ' ἄρ); likewise zero grade Lithuanian ĩr `and, also`, Latvian ir `also`, Old Prussian ir `and, also` (= gr. ῥα, zero grade Lithuanian āĩr, Latvian ar as an introduction of an interrogative sentence, Old Lithuanian also er with the same Baltic vacillate from a- and e- as between Latvian ar `with, in` and Old Prussian er `to`; Tocharian B ra- emphat. particle.

References: WP. I 77, Trautmann 12, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 342, 622.

Page(s): 62

---

Root / lemma: ard<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: pole

Material: Armenian ardn `lance, spear`; Lithuanian āĩdas m. `pole scaffold for drying flax`, old ardamas `a (light) pole or spar, a sprit, which crosses the sail diagonally (and serves to make it taut)` (see to meaning Bezenberger GGA. 1885, 920)? Petersson KZ. 47, 245 (Lithuanian words not better according to Leskien Abl. 329 to ardýti `split, distinguish`, see below er- `rare, loose, crumbly`).

References: WP. I 84.

Page(s): 63

---

Root / lemma: ardi-, rdi-

Meaning: point, edge

Material: Old Indic ali `bee, scorpion` (from **adī*, Indo Germanic **rdī*) = gr. ἄρδις `head of the arrow, sting`; Old Irish aird (**ardi-*) `sharp, peak, point of the compass`, Old Norse erta (**artjan*) `stir up, stimulate, tease` (another interpretation from erta under er-, er-d- `set in motion`).

References: WP. I 83 f., Lüders Schriften 429.

Page(s): 63

---

Root / lemma: areg-

Meaning: to lock

Material: Old Indic argala-h, argalā `latch, bolt ', maked. ἄργελλα `bathing hut, bath hut ', from which borrows alb. ragál/f. `cottage, hut '; kimmer. ἄργιλλα (**arg-el-jā*) `subterranean dwelling '; Old Saxon racud, Old English reced m. `building, house '.

References: WP. I 81, WH. I 63, Jokl IF. 44, 22.

See also: compare **areq-* `protect, close '.

Page(s): 64

---

Root / lemma: ar(e)-ĝ- (arĝ-?), rĝi- (**her-(e)-ĝ-*)

Meaning: glittering, white, fast

Note:

Old Indic rĝi-pyá `darting along ' epithet of the bird śyená (`eagle, falcon'), Avestan ərəzi-fya- (cf. gr. ἄρξιφος αἰετὸς παρὰ Πέρσαις H., αἰγίπποψ), Armenian arcui (< **arci-wi*) `eagle' prove that from Root / lemma: er-1, or- : `eagle, *fast' derived extended Root / lemma: ar(e)-ĝ- (arĝ-?), rĝi- : `glittering, white, fast' and its subsequent zero grade Root / lemma: (**a*)reĝ-1 : `right, just, to make right; king'.

Material:

In e- grade:

e-vocalism shown by those of Osthoff MU. V, S. V, and MU. VI 33 considered for Gothic unaírkns `impure, unclean ', aírkniba `cleanness, genuineness ', Old High German erchan `right, just, real, true, genuine ', Old Norse jarknasteinn, (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old English eorcnanstān `precious stone, jewel ' (in addition also Old Norse jarteikn n. `emblems ' from **jar[kn]-teikn*, Lidén by Noreen Old Icelandic Gr.<sup>3</sup>p. 281, 6); compare also Feist 25b.

Maybe alb. (**herg-*) jargë `white saliva' Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

As securely one cannot consider the affiliation of Germanic words, however, was concerning the vocalism intersection from Germanic **ark-* = Indo Germanic **arĝ-* with **erk-* = Old Indic árcatī, Indo Germanic **erk-* at least conceivable.

In a- grade:

Hittite ḫar-ki-iš (ḫarkis) 'white'.

Tocharian A ārki, B ārkwī 'white' (**arǵuio-*), ārcune 'epithet of the royal title', A ārki-śoši 'white world' (compare cymr. elfydd S. 30);

Maybe alb. harc, harca Pl. 'rocky landscape'; alb. has preserved the old laryngeal ḫ-.

Old Indic árju-na-ḥ 'bright, white'; rajatá- 'whitish', rajatám hīraṇyam 'whitish gold, i.e. silver', rajatám 'silver' with flashy, in spite of Osthoff MU. VI 33 not from zero grade r (or likewise) deducible vocalism compared with Avestan ərəzata- n., Old pers. ardata- 'silver' (r-): TN Illyrian Ardiaei common alb. - Illyrian -ḡ- > -d-.

Maybe Albanian argjend: Bresciano arzent: Romagnolo arzent: Zeneize arzent 'silver' (common Avestan Slavic g- > dz-, z- = common alb. dz- > gj-).

Latin argentum, Oscan aragetud 'silver', Old Irish arggat, Middle Irish airget, cymr. arian(ḡ), corn. Middle Breton argant, nbret. arc'hant 'silver', gall. PN Arganto-magus; arcanto-dan 'coin minter, mint-master, the master or superintendent of a mint', Armenian arcat 'silver', Tocharian A ārkyant N. Pl. f.; with other formation gr. ἄργυρος 'silver' (in spite of these equations the knowledge of the silver for the primeval times stands not sure, see about that point and about the borrowing question Schrader RL.II<sup>2</sup> 394, G. Ipsen IF. 39, 235 f., Festschr. Streitberg 228), Messapic argorian (: ἄργύριον) ds., argora-pandes (**arguro-pondios*) 'quaestor, state treasurer'.

Thrak. ἄργιλος '(*white) mouse', FIN Ἄρζος (**Argios*).

Gr. ἄργός 'white, fast', in compounds ἄργι- : ἄργι-κέραυνος 'with shining thunderbolt', ἄργι-όδων 'with brilliantly white teeth' (thereafter also *ἄργινός for ἄργεννός, further formation to ἄργινόεις, epithet of towns situated on white lime or chalk mountains); ἄργαίνω 'is white'.

ἄργός probably after Wackernagel Verm. Beitr. 8 f. from *ἄργρός dissimilated, wherefore i-stem ἄργι- of compounds behaves as Avestan dərəzi-raθa- 'possessing steady chariot' to dərəzra- 'solid'. With ἄργός phonetically same Old Indic ṛjrá- connotes also 'shining', is in this meaning with ἄργός 'white' etymological identical (in addition also Old Indic ṛjṛtī-, ṛjṛka- 'radiating'). Old Indic ṛjrá- 'fast', Ṛjī-śvan- 'the allied Indras ordering about fast dogs' = gr. ἄργός 'fast' (likewise of dogs, also already proto linguistic epithet, see Schulze Kl. Schr. 124), ἄργι-πους 'fleet-footed', horses Πλόδ-αργός, upholds Persson Beitr. 828 from ἄργός (ṛjrá-) 'white' different word (to the root reǵ- 'straight, right, directly ' in Old Indic ṛjīśá- 'rushing straight for', ṛjī-pyá- 'darting along', etc), against Bechtel Lexil. 57, the concept of the lights allows to have flowed from that of the quick movement (compare 'as quick as a flash, at lightning speed') as well as Schulze aaO. Sides of the same observation considered as to try illuminating power, brightness of the color, and quickness of the movement (compare Latin micāre 'move rapidly to and fro, vibrate, flicker; to shine, glitter, sparkle').

ἄργεμον, ἄργεμα n. 'the whiteness (in the eye, nail)', ἀργήεις, Doric ἀργᾶς (*ἀργᾶFεντις 'shining'; es-stem in ἐναργής 'perspicuous, clear', ἀργεσ-τής epithet of νότος, 'elucidative, brightening' (see lastly Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 500<sup>1</sup>), ἀργεννός 'white sheen, white luster, white-gleaming' (*ἀργεσ-νός); maybe also in ἀργειφόντης epithet of Hermes ('in slaying brilliance?').

On account of es-stem Avestan arəzah- 'afternoon and evening' so that belongs together etymologically, at least half the meaning is quite doubtful, see. Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 202, Bechtel aaO.

Maybe alb. (**arəz-*) errēt 'dark', err 'darken': Avestan arəzah- 'afternoon and evening' ἀργής, -ήτος, -έτι, -έτα 'white-gleaming'; ἄργιλλος and ἄργιλος 'white clay' (Latin loanword argilla, argīla): ἄργυ-ρος see above, ἄργυ-φος, ἀργύ-φεος 'shining white' (in the word ending probably to root b<sup>h</sup>ā- 'shine', Prellwitz BB. 22, 90, Bechtel Lexil. 57 f.).

Maybe Galician arxila: alb. argjilë 'white clay, mud' 'white clay' (common Avestan Slavic g- > dz-, z- = common alb. dz- > gj-).

Latin argentum see above; arguō 'to put in clear light; to declare, prove; to accuse, blame, expose, convict', argūtus 'to the eye, expressive, lively; talkative to the ear, piercing, shrill, noisy; of omens, clear, significant; of persons, sagacious, cunning; (since Cicero also:) beaming, shimmering' and 'shrewd'.

About that of Uhlenbeck KZ. 40, 552, 560 considered for Lithuanian áržuolas, ažuolas, dial. áužuolas, East Lithuanian dial. úžolas 'oak', see rather Bezzenberger KZ. 42, 263, Trautmann Old Prussian 301, whereupon anž- (compare Old Prussian ansonis) the original form is (different Zupitza KZ. 36, 66, Germanic gutturals 214).

By Hirts (Abl. 124) basic **ar(e)ǵ-* cause Germanic words difficulty, however, see above. The basis of a 2th root vowel (areǵ-) is given only by Old Indic rajatám 'whitish', thus dubious.

References: WP. I 82 f., II 362 f., WH. I 66, 848, Feist 25, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 260, 447, 481, Frisk Nominalbildg. 4.

Specht (Dekl. 114<sup>1</sup>) places because of gr. ἄρμη λευκή Hes. a color root in ar-, he equates with al- (see above S. 31).

Page(s): 64-65

---

Root / lemma: arenko-

Meaning: a kind of cereal, type of grain

Material:

Latin arinca ` variety of grain, olyra (which resembles spelt) ' ( `Galliarum propria' Plin. n. h. 18, 81; foreign, presumably gall. word, despite Niedermann ẽ and ʔ30 not genuinely Latin), gr. ἄρακος ` leguminous plant growing as a weed among lentil plants ', ἄρακοι ὄσπριόν τι. τὸ δε αὐτὸ καὶ λάθυρον Hes.

Because of the meaning difference quite doubtful equation; no objection offers sure enough the not sufficing confirmation from ἄρακος in ὄροβος ἐρέβινθος. Non-related in spite of Fick II<sup>4</sup> 16, 17 are gr. ἄρτος ` bread ' (to dark origin, see Boisacq 84), Middle Irish arbar ` grain ' (see **ar-* ` to plough, plow '), arān ` bread '.

References: WP. I 84, WH. I 67.

Page(s): 66-67

---

Root / lemma: areq-

Meaning: to guard, lock

Material: In detail Osthoff IF. 8, 54 ff. m. Lithuanian

Armenian argel ` hump, block, check, fence, hurdle, barrier, drawback, obstacle, hindrance, balk, impediment ', denomin. argelum ` resist, hold from, hold back '; maybe with o- gradation orm ` wall, mural ' ( **ork-mo-ʔ*);

gr. ἀρκέω ` resist, reproach, protects, helps; express disappointment, be sufficient, be enough ' (ἀρκέσω, ἤρκεσα) probably from *ἀρκέω; ἄρκος n. ` protection, cover, shelter ' (Alkman); ἄρκιος ` sufficing, enough ', αὐτ-ἀρκης ` oneself enough ', ποδ-ἀρκης ` with sufficing feet, fast ' (see also Bechtel Lexil. 279 f.);

Maybe alb. (*ἄρκος) argësh ` crude craft supported by skin bladders, crude bridge of crossbars, harrow', zero grade in alb. (**argo-*) rrogë ` alpine meadow (to be guarded)'.

Latin arceō, -ēre `to shut in; to keep at a distance, hinder, prevent, keep away', arca `a chest, box; esp. a money-box or coffin; also a cell' (actually `fastener, shutter', compare arcānus `shut, closed; hence silent, secret, confidential'; from Latin derives Gothic etc arka `boxes, money boxes, ark');

maybe alb. arkē `box, money boxes, ark'.

Old High German arahha, archa `ark' and from Germanic again Old Church Slavic raka `burial cave', Old Prussian arkan Akk. Sg. `ark'), arx `fortified hill, castle, fort', arcera `canopied chariot' (suffix after cumera, compare WH. I 63) Oscan trībarakavúm `to build, erect, establish; to create, frame' (constitutes beforehand **trēbark-* `to enclose a house, to put up a fence around a house');

Old High German rigil, Middle High German rigel `latch, bolt', Middle English rail (Old English **reogo*), Güntert Kalypso 136;

Lithuanian rāktas `key', rakinti `to lock, shut';

Hittite ḫar(k)- `hold, clamp, to hang (kill s.o. by hanging them)', Götze and Pedersen Muršili 50.

Note:

Maybe alb. (**ḫark-*) varg `row, chain, ring'; common prothetic alb. v- before bare initial vowels.

Through the meaning little is recommended to citation of cymr. archen `clothes, shoe', bret. arc'henna `wear shoes' (Middle Irish acrann `shoe, clothes' probably reconverted with metathesis from arc-, Stokes KZ. 41, 381). (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-),

About that of W. Foy KZ. 35, 62 as `castle hill' interpreted Old pers. mountain names arkadri- see Justi IA. 17, 106 (supposedly (H)ara-kadriš `mountain ravine, mountain gorge'), but in addition again Bartholomae Z. altiran. Wb. 105 Anm. 1, 116.

Against apposition (Bruckner KZ. 45, 108 Anm.) recommends meaning from Slavic račiti `want, grant'.

As form mit o-gradation (or at most with or = ɔ) covers Latin Orcus `Orcus, the infernal regions. Transf. the god of the lower world; death, realm of the dead' (uncertain `lock, seal, shut, trap, close, lock up, shut up, close up '?).

References: WP. I 80 f., WH. 62 f., 848.

See also: Similarly aleq- 'refuse, protect' and areg- (see d.).

Page(s): 65-66

---

Root / lemma: ar(ə)-

Meaning: to plough

Material: Armenian araur 'plow' (**arātrom*; Hübschmann Arm. stem I 21);

gr. ἀρόω (ἡροσα, ἄροτος) 'plough, till', ἀρότης, ἀροτήρ 'plowman', ἄροτρον 'plow'; with original vocalization of the 2nd syllable herakl. αρᾱζοντι, gortyn. ἄρατρον. ἀρόω etc placed after Persson Beitr. 669 an Indo Germanic **aro-* besides **arə-* ahead (compare Tocharian āre), or appeared instead of ἀράω at the same time with the reshuffle many denominative causatives in -άω to such in -όω after in addition basic o- formation, under special influence from νεόω 'plow up the land anew'.

Latin arō, -āre 'to till, plow, farm, cultivate. Transf., to furrow, wrinkle; of ships, to plow the sea' (for the older **arə-mī*), arātor 'ploughman, husbandman', arātrum 'plow' (-ā- for *-ā- after arāre);

Middle Irish airim 'to plough', cymr. arddu (from **arj-*) 'to plough', arddwr 'plowman', Middle Irish ar n. 'arable land', cymr. arf ds., Middle Irish ar-án 'bread', arathar (**arətrom*), cymr. aradr, corn. aradar, Middle Breton arazr, nbret. arar 'plow'; Middle Irish airem (**arjomō*), Gen. aireman 'plowman', also PN Airem-ón;

Gothic arjan, Old Norse erja, Old English Old Saxon erian, Old High German erran, Middle High German ern 'to plough, till', Old Norse arðr 'plow', Old High German art 'furrowed land', Old English earð, ierðf. 'furrowed land, yield' (see also under **ar-* 'yield, acquiesce' about Modern High German Art), Middle High German arl, Modern High German Arl, Arling 'plow' (from loanword from Slavic **ordlo*? genuinely Germanic after Meringer IF. 17, 121);

Lithuanian ariù, árti 'to plough', árklas (**arə-tlom*) 'plow', arklỹs 'horse' (as 'a plow animal'); artójas 'tiller, plowman' (**arə-tāja-*), Old Prussian artoys 'tiller' (with secondary zero grade Lithuanian orẽ 'ploughing time', compare gr. πολύηρος πολυάρουρος Hes.), Latvian ar'u 'to plough', ara, āre 'arable land'; Lithuanian armenà 'superficially furrowed layer of earth';

Maybe alb. ara 'arable land'.

Old Church Slavic orjō, orati 'to plough'; ralo (serb. rälo, poln. radło) 'plow' (**ar(ə)*-dʰlom; Lithuanian árklas), ratajǫ 'plowman'; about Slavic **ora*- s. Trautmann 13;

toch AB āre 'plow'. concerning this pertains:

ar(ə)u-

Armenian haravunk 'arable land' (Scheftelowitz BB. 29, 58), Latin arvus, -a, -um 'plowed, plowed land', esp. arvum 'plowed land, a field; in gen., a region', Umbrian arvam-en 'in plowed land' (= Latin fem. arvas A. Pl.), ar(u)via 'crops, field crops';

Middle Irish arbor (**arur*) 'grain', Dat. arbaim, Gen. (already Old Irish) arbe (**arrens*), Pl. N. A. arbanna (rn-stem: Stokes KZ. 37, 254, Pedersen KG. I 63, II 106; therefrom airmnech 'the man who owns a lot of grain', Corrae's Gl., with -mn- = -vn-, Stokes KZ. 38, 458); (common alb. Celtic -v- > -b-), gr. ἄρουρα 'arable land' (formally not yet clearly; probably after Benveniste Noms 113 from *ἄρο-Fpā, extension of ἄρο-Fap from **aro-ur*, compare Middle Irish arbor. Unglauhhaft Otrębski KZ. 66, 78).

Through its old e-divergence cymr. erwf. 'field', Pl. erwi, er-wydd, corn. erw, ereu ds., abret. Middle Breton eru, nbret. ero 'furrow' belong against it to Old High German ero 'earth', gr. ἔρα, Armenian erkir 'earth' (for the latter supposes Pedersen KZ. 38, 197 likewise **eru*- as a basis), however, have taken over like the use for farmed field of one **ar(ə)uo-*.

From the lack of Aryan correspondences may not be closed against the acquaintance with the plow in indo Germanic primeval times.

References: WP. I 78 f., WH. I 69, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 362, 683.

After Specht KZ. 68, 42<sup>2</sup> furthermore to root **erə-* (er-5) 'disjoint, sever' as 'tear the ground open'?

Page(s): 62-63

---

Root / lemma: ario-?

Meaning: master, lord

Note:

Root / lemma: ario-?: master, lord, derived from Root / lemma: *ar-1**, themat. (a)re-, schwere Basis arə-, rē- und i-Basis (a)ri-, rēi-: to move, pass: gr. ἀριστος 'best in birth and rank, noblest'.

Material: Old Indic ar(i)yá- 'mister, convivial', ār(i)ya- 'Aryan', āryaka 'venerable man'; Avestan airyō, Old pers. ariya- 'Aryan'; gall. PN. Ario-mānus (GIL, III 4594); Irish aire (gl. primas) besides airech, where is to be formed **arjo-* and **arjako-*, which to Old Indic āryaka behaves as gr. μῆπαξ 'youth' to Old Indic maryaká- 'male' (Pedersen Celtic Gr. II 100). Against it belongs Middle Irish ruire not here, but from ro + rī 'king of kings'.

About Old Indic aryamán n. 'hospitality', m. 'guest's friend', Avestan airyaman-, npers. ērmān 'guest', see above under al-1.

W. Krause (rune inscriptions 539) should read properly Proto Norse arjostēRN. Pl. 'the most distinguished, the noblest', thus would have to be attached indeed an Proto Norse **arjaR* 'posh, lofty, noble, plush, gentle, kingly, polite, courtly, elegant, genteel, stately, highbred, exclusive' and an Indo Germanic **arjo-*, in the Old Indic phonetically with a derivative from arí- 'alien, stranger' would have collapsed.

Celto-Germanic PN Ario-vistus however, proves nothing, because Ario- could stand for **Hario-*. Also Old Irish aire, airech 'suitor' are ambiguous, see above under al-1.

Maybe Arrianes Illyrian TN.

References: WP. I 80.

Page(s): 67

Root / lemma: *ar-1**, themat. (a)re-, heavy basis arə-, rē- and *í*basis (a)rī-, rēi-

Meaning: to move, pass

Note:

Root / lemma: *ar-1**, themat. (a)re-, heavy basis arə-, rē- and *í*Basis (a)rī-, rēi-: 'to move, pass' and Root / lemma: er-3: or-: r-: 'to move *stir, animate, fight, struggle, rise; to spring up, be born' derived from the same root Root / lemma: er-1, or-: 'eagle'.

Material:

In e- grade:

*) E.-M. 74 determine because of Armenian eri 'horse's hock or point of shoulder, shoulder of animals', y-eriurel 'fit; blend in; fit on; suit; adapt; key; tune; adjust; accommodate; readjust; bring into line; mate' posit a basic form **er-*. But Armenian eri derives after Liden Mél. Pedersen 88 f. back to Indo Germanic **rēito-*, **rēiti*! compare Trautmann 242.

In a- grade:

Hittite: ara- n. 'wealth, welfare, well-being, happiness, prosperity, fortune, right, propriety', c. 'friend' (Tischler 50).

Avestan arānte 'they settle, get stuck', Old Indic ará-ḥ 'wheel spoke', aram, álam Adv. (áramkar-, alamkar 'prepare; get ready; make up; get up; dress; trim; prink' and 'be in service; serve; do one's service; accommodate; be of service; be of help; be of use', for what probably ara-tí- 'servant; manservant; valet; servitor; follower' and rā-tí- 'willing; eager; prompt; ungrudging; unhesitating', Avestan rāiti 'compliant, servant') 'suitable, enough'; Avestan arəm 'suitable, accordingly' (arēm-piθwā 'midday' = 'the time suitable for the meal', next to which ra-piθwā ds. With zero grade ra- besides **ara-*, from what arəm Adv., Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 189, 1509), ratu- m., 'judge, arbitrator' and 'period (of time)' (common primary meaning possibly 'the act of arranging something (neatly)', from which 'the act of arranging the law' and 'right time'); Old Indic ar-p-áyati 'puts, fixed, clamps, cleats, affixes, appends, fastens, fixates, fortifies'; about Hittite ḫar-ap- (ḫarp-) 'to arrange, situate, put down' ? compare Cuvreur H 114 f.;

Armenian ainem 'produce; do; make; cook; render; cause; proffer; offer; hold out; volunteer; give; contract; fix; put; matter; get; have; take; win; pull down; put down', γ-ar 'I consent, conjoin, continue, press so' (arar 'has done, has made' = gr. ἄραρε), whereof yarem 'add, subjoin, splice' (Bugge KZ. 32, 21), čar 'bad; poor; unsavory; unsavoury; poorly; inferior; unsatisfactory; low; stale; foul; hard; lamentable; decayed; wrong; faulty; amiss; maladjusted; uneasy; evil; unkind; wicked; corrupt; off; unhealthy; chronic; ill; sick' with negative č [= oč] 'not suitable' (Bugge aaO. 23);

gr. ἀραρίσκω, Perf. ἄραρα 'join together', ἄρμενος 'annexed, appended, attached, appendaged, suitable', ὄρα 'wife' (probably after Brugmann IF. 28, 293, Schwyzler Gr. I 434 here with prefix **o-*, barely to root **ser-* or root **γερ-*, ἄ-Feίρω); in addition ὀαρίζω 'have close relations with'; also 'chats confidentially'; χαλκο-άρας 'ironclad, armoured', also χειρ-άρας τέκτων Pind., ἄρ-θρον 'limb, member, joint (wrist, ankle)', ἄρθμός 'connection; connexion; contact; touch; liaison; tie; splice; affiliation; junction; conjunction; coupling; communication; link-up; interconnection; link; line; combination; association; incorporation; compound; relation; relationship; marriage; wedding; society; union; juncture, friendship', ἄρθμιος 'joins, unites, unifies, combines, conjunct, collective'; with -t suffixes homer. δάμ-αρ-τ- 'housewife' ('the woman in charge of the house '), Aeolic δόμορτις Hes.; πυλάρτης ` Hades as the one who locks the gate(s) to the underworld ' (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 451, 5); ἀρε- in ἀρέσκω ` even out, ease, reconcile, settle, redress, compensate for, equalize, balance, make up for, make good, give satisfaction ', ἀρέσκει μοι ` It suits me, I like it ', ἀρέσκεσθαι, ἀρέσσασθαι ` come to an agreement, come to an agreement with somebody; make oneself inclined, reconcile ', common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-; ἀρετή ` ability; competence; efficiency ', ἀρείων ` better ' (in respect probably stands ἀρι- ` very much, very ' in compounds, wherewith Reuter KZ. 31, 594a 1 also Old Indic ari-gūrtá-, -ṣtutá- as ` keenly praised ' would like to compare; uncertain because of gr. ἔρι- ` very much, very ' see Boisacq s. v., above S. 24 Anm.); ἄριστος ` better, best ', ἀριστερός ` left, on the left '.

With lengthening θυμ-ήρης ` appealing well, complacent ', ὄμηρος ` husband; hostage, pledge ', ὀμηρέω ` to meet '; after Birt Philol. 87, 376 f. was Ὀμηρος actually ` companion, the blind person who goes with his leader '.

From Slavic perhaps poln. ko-jarzyć ` attach, connect, combine, remember ' (e.g. Miklosich EWb. 100, Berneker 31, 532).

Maybe alb. kujtoj ` attach, remind, remember ' an early Slavic loanword.

About maybe related gr. ἄρα, Lithuanian ĩr s. 4. ar ` now, thus '.

Tocharian A ārwar, B ārwer, ārwar ` ready ', A arām, B ere ` face ' (compare Latin figura ` a form, shape, figure'). Van Windekens BSL. 41, 56, Duchesne-Guillemin in the same place 173.

t-formations: rt-*, *art- ` joint together '.

Old Indic rtá- n. ` suitable, right ', rtám n. ` well attached, holy order ' (to meaning see Oldenberg GGN. 1915, 167-180; not ` sacrifice; victim; oblation; offering '), rtēna ` rite ', Avestan arəta-, əṛəta- n., Old pers. arta- (in compound) ` law, right, holy right '; Avestan aša- under, ` what is sure, true ', Old Indic rtāvan(t)- ` proper, fair ', Avestan ašāvan/t-; Old Indic rtú-ḥ ` certain time, order, rule ', rtí-ḥ f. ` kind, way ' (to ours root after Kluge PBrB. 9, 193; see also Meringer IF. 17, 125, B. Geiger WZKM. 41, 107), Avestan aipi-əṛəta- ` appoints, destines, firmly assigned ';

Armenian ard, Gen. -u (= gr. ἀρτύς, Latin artus, -ūs, compare also on top Old Indic rtú-ḥ) ` structure, construction, ornament ' (Hübschmann Arm. Gr. I 423, Bugge KZ. 32, 3), z-ard ` apparatus, ornament '; ard ` just now, now, currently ' (= gr. ἄρτι) (Bartholomae Stud. II 23, Bugge aaO., Meillet Esquisse 36), ardar ` fair, just, right ' (Hübschmann Arm. stem I 21, Arm. Gr. I 423; Persson Beitr. 636 a 2 considers for it also Indo Germanic d<sup>h</sup>; compare Avestan arədra- 'faithful, reliably, loyal to belief, pious, godly' and the other undermentioned d<sup>h</sup>- derivatives), ardiun 'struttura (Pedersen KZ. 40, 210);

gr. ἀμαρτή (at the same time) simultaneous' (Instr. *ἀμ-απτός 'joint together, concurring, coincidental'), ὁμ-απτέω 'connect oneself to somebody, accompany' (due to *ὅμ-απτος); tī-stem in ἀρτι-ἑπής ('well versed in word structure'), ἀρτί-πο(υ)ς 'with healthy feet', ἀρτί-φρων 'able-minded, with sharp mind, with a sturdy mind' (presumably also in ἄρταμος 'butcher, slaughterer; murderer', whereof ἀρταμέω 'slaughter, cut up, divide', after J. Schmidt Krit. 83 f. from *ἀρτι- or at most *ἀρτοταμος 'workmanlike cutting', compare Old Indic ṛta-nī- 'justly leading', ṛta-yuj 'properly harnessed'); probably also ἀρτεμής 'fresh and healthy', probably dissimilated from *ἀρτι-δεμής to δέμας 'with a well-built body'; ἄρτι 'just' of the present and the most recent past (compare above Armenian ard 'just now, now' and ard-a-cin 'newborn' as gr. ἀρτι-γενής; morphologically not yet quite clear, perhaps Locative); ἀπ-αρτί 'exact, just', ἄρτιος 'adequate, just, complete', ἀρτιάζω 'plays rightly or oddly', ἀρτίζω 'finishes, prepares', ἄρσιον δίκαιον Hes., ἀνάρσιος 'hostile', ἐπαρτής 'prepares';

ἀρτύν φιλίαν καὶ σύμβασιν, ἀρτύς σύνταξις (= Latin artus 'narrow, tight') Hes., ἀρτύω, ἀρτύνω 'joins, prepares', ἀρτῦνας, ἀρτῦνος, ἀρτῦτήρ title of a public servant or official of Argos, Epidauros, Thera.

Latin artus 'narrow, tight (in space and time), close; 'somnus', fast, sound; of supplies, small, meager; of circumstances, difficult, distressing' (Adv. artē, originally instrumental as ἀμαρτή); ars, -tis 'skill, method, technique; 'ex arte', according to the rules of art. (2) an occupation, profession. (3) concrete, in plur., works of art. (4) conduct, character, method of acting; 'bonae artes', good qualities' (actually 'articulation, assemblage, pack a gift properly' = Middle High German art), in addition the compounds in-ers 'unsophisticated, sluggish, untrained, unskillful; inactive, lazy, idle, calm; cowardly; ineffective, dull, insipid', soll-ers 'clever, skilful', allers, alers 'taught, learned'; artiō, -ire 'insert tightly, wedge, crowd, join fast, press together' (more recently artāre); artus, -ūs 'the joints; 'dolor artuum', gout; poet., limbs', articulus 'in the body, a small joint; in plants, a knob, knot; of time, a moment, crisis; in gen., a part, division, point';

Lithuanian arti 'near' (Lok. tī-stem);

Middle High German art f. 'kind, manner and way', Old Norse ein-arðr 'simple, sincere', einǫrd 'reliability; dependability; trustworthiness; sureness; steadiness';

Tocharian B ar(t)kye `rich, valuable' (?).

m-formations:

A. From the light basis ar-.

Armenian y-armor `suitable, adequate' (Bugge KZ. 32, 21);

gr. ἄρμός `seam, assemblage, joint', ἄρμῳ `just, recently' (ἄρμόζω `connect, join, adapts, orders', ἄρμυνία `connection, alliance, regularity, harmony'), ἄρμα `chariot' (about these words see Sommer Gr. Lautst. 133, Meillet BSL. 28, c.-r. 21 f. [**ar-smo-*?], Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 306; farther Lithuanian by Boisacq 79), ἄρμαλιά `assigned food, provisions';

Latin arma, -ōrum `defensive arms, armor, weapons of war; hence war, soldiers, military power; protection, defense; in gen. tools, equipment', amentum `herd of horses or cattle, cattle for plowing'.

Hence sounds in Old Norse jǫrmuni `bovine animal, horse' and the PN Gothic **Aírmana-reiks*, Old English Eormenrīc, Old Icelandic Jǫrmunrekr, Middle High German Ermenrīch; the same first part to the name from a little bit big also e.g. in Ermunduri `great Thuringia', Old Norse jǫrmungrund `the wide earth' = Old English eormengrund, Old High German irmindeot, Old Saxon Irmin-sūl, and in the short form Herminones.

However, Brückner KZ. 45, 107 rightly challenges, that `cattle, horses' is the original and `large' out of it derived meaning and decides vice versa for `large, serene' a starting point because of Slavic raměň `immense, strong, violent, sudden' (from here Lithuanian eĩmas `immense, monstrous', Latvian eĩms `monkey, clown, strange appearance'?), as `shot up' to **er-*, **or-* (orior etc; compare formal ὄρμενος), not as `sturdy, stout, well built, massive' belongs to **ar-* `to join, connect'.

Old Church Slavic jarъmъ `yoke' (e.g. Miklosich EWb. 100, Berneker 31), sloven. jérmén `yoke strap, strap'; with zero grade initial sound and themat. vowel: Old Church Slavic reměň, serb. řěmēn etc `strap'; Specht Dekl. 149 f.

Tocharian B yarm, AB yārm `measure'.

B. From the heavy base arə-mo-: ĵ-mo- `arm'.

Old Indic īrmá-h 'arm, shoulder' (originally 'shoulder joint', compare ἄρθρον, Latin artus 'joints') = Avestan arəma- 'arm', osset. ärm 'cupped hand', älm-ärin, ärm-ärin 'elbow',

Latin armus 'shoulder or shoulder-blade; also, of an animal, the side, the uppermost part of the upper arm, scapula' (from **ar/ə/mos*), gall. aramō 'bifurcation, point of separation', (Wartburg I 119, Jud by Howald-Meyer Röm. Schweiz 374 ff.), Old Prussian irmo f. 'arm', Lithuanian irmédė ('gout', i.e.): 'gout in the joints', irm-liga 'gout, arthritis' (see Trautmann Old Prussian 347); zero grade Lithuanian žem. Pl. tant. armaĩ 'Vorderarm am Wagen' (ibd.), Old Church Slavic ramo, ramę, serb. rāme 'shoulder', Gothic arms, Old High German etc arm 'arm', arm. armukn 'elbow' (Hübschmann Arm. Stud. I 21).

Root form rē-, rə-:

Latin reor, rēri 'to think, suppose, judge' (the most primitive metering and counting is accompanied by the putting on top of each other or layers of the pieces to be counted), participle ratus 'in the opinion, sense', but also 'determined, settled; calculated, certain, valid, legal', ratio 'a reckoning, account, consideration, calculation; a reason, motive, ground; a plan, scheme, system; reasonableness, method, order; a theory, doctrine, science; the reasoning faculty'; after EM. 793 here (prō)portiō from portiōne = *prō ratio*ne;

Gothic **garabjan* (only participle garabana) 'to count', Old Norse hundrað, Modern High German Hundert (**raða* n. 'number' = Latin rātum 'to ratify, confirm, make valid'; s. Fick III<sup>4</sup> 336); Old High German girad 'even (only from numbers)', Modern High German gerad (only from numbers divisible by 2; different from gerad = straight ahead), with new ablaut Old Norse tí-rǫðr actually 'count after tens' (Fick III<sup>4</sup> 336); Gothic rabjō 'number, bill, account', Old Saxon rethia 'account', Old High German radja, redea 'account, speech and answer, story', Old Frisian birethia 'accuse', Old Saxon rethiōn, Old High German red(i)ōn 'talk' (determines the precise correspondence from rabjō with Latin ratio 'a reckoning, numbering, casting up, account, calculation, computation' e.g. Kluge<sup>11</sup> s. v. 'speech' to the assumption of borrowing Germanic words under influence from garabjan; more properly Falk-Torp 886 rabjō to determine as primary -iōn-derivative from Germanic root **raP-[garabjan]*).

Whether here also Old Norse rǫð 'row, line, series, chain, range, string, tier, battery, file, turn, run, procession, rank, order, progression, number, set, bank, esp. increment lining along the shore', Middle Low German rat f. 'row, line, series, chain, range, string, tier, battery, file, turn, run, procession, rank, order, progression, number, set, bank '?' (Fick III<sup>4</sup> 337; `row; line; series; chain; range; string; tier; battery; file; turn; run; procession; rank; order; progression; number; set; bank ' as ` added on each other, stratified '?).

Old High German rāmen `strive for something, strive, aim ', Old Saxon rōmon `strive ', Middle High German Middle Low German rām `aim, purpose, target ' our **rē*-maybe suit as `to arrange in one's mind, calculate ', if, besides, this (the previous newer proves) Subst. rām must have been as formation with formants-mo- starting point.

d<sup>h</sup>-extension rē-d<sup>h</sup>-, rō-d<sup>h</sup>-, rə-d<sup>h</sup>-:

Old Indic rādhnōti, rādhyati `prepares (suitably), manages; gets, succeeds, with which has luck; contents, wins somebody ', rādhayati `manages, gives satisfaction ', rādha-ḥ m., *rādha*ḥ n. `blessing, success, relief, gift, generosity ';

Maybe alb. radha `row', radhit `count'.

Avestan rāḍaiti `makes ready ', rāḍa- m. `social welfare worker ', rādah- n. `appropriate for oneself, making oneself available, willingness (in religious regard) ', Old pers. rādiy (Lok. Sg.) `weigh ' (compare Old Church Slavic radi see below), npers. ārāyad, ārāstan `decorate; adorn; bedeck; trim; attire; array; drape; gild; emblazon; embellish '; Old Irish imm-rādim `considers, thinks over ', acymr. amraud `suppose, think, mean ', ncymr. amrawdd `conversation ' with ders. meaning as Old Irish no-rāidiu, no-rādim `says, tells ', mcymr. adrawd `tell ' and Gothic rōdjan, Old Norse rēḍa `talk ' (compare further also placed above Modern High German Rede, reden; no-rāidiu and rōdjan, like Slavic raditi, kaus.-iter. **rōd<sup>h</sup>ejō*); Gothic garēdan `whereupon be judicious, take precautions ', urrēdan `judge, determine ' (compare to meaning esp. Latin rērī), undrēdan `procure, grant ', Old High German rātan `advise, confer, contemplate, plan, incite, indicate (riddle), request, to look after something, procure, provide, get ', Old Saxon rādan, Old Norse rāḍa, Old English rædan (latter also `read ', engl. read), Subst. Old High German rāt m. `available means, council, piece of advice, advisement, decision, intention, precaution, stock, supply ', similarly Old Saxon rād, Old Norse rād, Old English ræd, Old Church Slavic raditi `take care; be accustomed; look after; care for; be in the habit; tend; provide; supply; cater; fend; ensure; insure ' (serb. rādīm, raditi `work, strive ', rad `business, work '; see Uhlenbeck KZ. 40, 558 f.), radi `weigh ', next to which **rə*-d<sup>h</sup>- in Old Church Slavic nerodъ `neglect (of duty?) ', sloven. rōdim, rōditi `provide, take care '.

Maybe (**rad*) alb. Geg randë `heavy (weight)', randonj `weigh'. aor. ra `fall, strike' [nasalized form], , re `care, attention', roje `guard', ruanj `to guard'.

Root form (a)r̥-, rēi- (see Person root extension 102, 162, 232; Beitr. 741):

Gr. ἀραρίσκω (if not neologism, see above S. 56), ἀριθμός 'number', νήριτος 'countless', Arcadian ἐπάριτος 'ἐπίλεκτος, select; choice; exquisite', ἀριμάζει ἀρμόζει Hes.;

Latin rītus, -ūs 'conventional kind of the religion practise, usage, ceremony, rite, manner', rīte 'in due form, after the right religious use, with proper ceremonies, properly, fitly, rightly' (Lok. one beside rī-tu-s lying conservative stem **rī-t-*);

Old Irish rīm 'number', āram (**ad-ri-mā*) ds., do-rīmu 'counts', cymr. rhif 'number', Old Norse rīm n. 'reckoning, calculation', Old Saxon unrīm 'immense number', Old English rīm n. 'number', Old High German rīm m. 'row, order, number' (the meaning 'verse, rhyme' from Old Norse and Middle High German rīm probably after Kluge<sup>10</sup> s. v. Reim from French rime, which has derived from rythmus).

Maybe also **rēi-* 'thing' (Latin rēs 'a thing, object, matter, affair, circumstance' etc) after Wood ax 226 must be added as root noun meaning 'stacked up goods, piled-up possessions'.

Maybe is to be added also **rēi-* 'thing' (Latin rēs etc.) to Wood ax 226 as a root noun meaning 'having stacked up property'.

In addition probably as d<sup>h</sup>-extension rēi-d<sup>h</sup>- (compare above rē-d<sup>h</sup>- besides rē-):

Gothic garaiþs 'arranged, certain', raidjan, garaidjan 'prescribe, determine', Old Norse g-reiðr 'ready, easy, clear', greiða 'disentangle, order, arrange, manage, pay, disburse, remit', Middle High German reiten 'get everything set up, prepare, arrange, count, calculate, pay', reite, gereite, bereite, Old High German bireiti 'ready', antreitī 'series, ordo', Latvian riedu, rizt 'order', raids 'raring, ready', ridi, ridas 'device, clamp'.

Quite doubtfully is not borrowed by Persson aaO. considered affiliation from Old Church Slavic orādije 'apparatus, instrumentum' (from Old High German ārunti 'message', see Pedersen concentration camp. 38, 310), rēdъ 'order', Lithuanian rinda 'row', Latvian riņda 'row, number'. On condition of that these continue Indo Germanic d, not d<sup>h</sup> (**re-n-d-*), one adds (e.g. Fick I<sup>4</sup> 527, Pedersen aaO., see also EM. 711) thus the following kin in: ὀρδέω 'put on a fabric', ὀρδικόν τὸν χιτωνίσκον. Πάριοι, ὀρδημα ἡ τολύπη τῶν ἐρίων Hes.,

Latin ōrdior, -īrī, ōrsus sum (from weaver's language, Bréal MSL. 5, 440) `to begin a web, lay the warp, begin, commence, make a beginning, set about, undertake', exōrdior `to begin a web, lay the warp, prepare to weave', redōrdior `to take apart, unweave, unravel', ōrdo, -īnis `a series, line, row, order' (also Umbrian urnasier seems to be = ordinariis `of order, usual, regular, ordinary', Linde Glotta 3, 170 f.; differently Gl. 5, 316), the connection agrees with ar- `put; place; fix; formulate; ordain; decree', which would have been needed then also by the weaving mill, to (Persson root extension 26, Thurneysen Thes. under artus, -ūs), so would be justified vowel from **or-d-ejō* as a causative iterative vocalism.

Is even more doubtful, from after Reichelt KZ. 46, 318 as k-extensions of the bases arə-, ar- with the same application to the weaving mill are to be added:

Maybe alb. (**arānea*) arnoj `to repair, mend, sew, weave', arnē `patch, piece of fabric' from Latin arānea, -eus `spider'?

Gr. ἀράχνη `spider', Latin arāneus `of a spider; n. as subst. a cobweb', arānea, -eus `spider' (**arə-k-snā*, the word ending to **snē-* `to spin; weave, interweave, produce by spinning' as `a net spinner, a woman, a girl (or a spider) that spins a net'?); supposedly in addition (Walter KZ. 12, 377, Curtius KZ. 13, 398) gr. ἄρκυς `net', ἀρκάνη τὸ ράμμα ὡ τὸν στήμονα ἐγκαταπλέκουσιν αἱ διαζόμεναι Hes. (see also Boisacq 79), wherefore after Bezzenberger BB. 21, 295 Latvian er'kuls `spindle; a bunch of oakum, a wad of oakum (for spinning)' (which can stand for **arkuls*). Lidén IF. 18, 507 f. puts it better ἄρκυς to Slavic **orkyta*, serb. rākita `red pasture' and Latvian ērcis, gr. ἄρκευθος `juniper' as shrubs with branches usable against lichen.

References: WP. I 69 ff., WH. I 69, 70, Trautmann 13 f.

See also: S. unten arqu- and erk-.

Page(s): 55-61

Root / lemma: ar-2 or er-

Meaning: to distribute

Grammatical information: with Indo Germanic nu-present

Material: Avestan ar- (present əṛənav-, əṛənv-, preterit Pass. əṛənāvī) `grant, allow to be given; do guarantee', with us- and frā- (as an allotment) suspend and assign', frāṛeta- n. `allotment (of sacrifices), offering' (Bartholomae Altiran. Wb. 184 f.);

Armenian ar-num ` I take ', Aor. ar (Hübschmann Arm. Gr. I 420; meaning from medial ` I allot to myself, I assign to myself, I allocate to myself, I appropriate to myself ' compare Old Indic dālāmi ` give ': ā datē ` to take something, to accept something '; also in:)

gr. ἀρνύμαι ` acquires, tries to reach, conceives, acquire esp. as a price or wage ', durative compared with ἀρέσθαι ` acquire, win ', Aor. ἀρόμην, ἠρόμην; μισθάρνης, μίσθαρος ` potboiler, day laborer, wageworker ', ἄρος n. ` usefulness, profit, use ' (Aesch.);

Hittite ar-nu-mi ` I bring ' (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 696) belongs probably rather than a causative to 3. er- ` start to move '.

Hittite: (ar-nu-zi) arnuzi ` take there, bring here'.

The full grade vocalisms of the root guaranteeing forms are absent.

References: WP. I 76 f.

Page(s): 61

---

Root / lemma: ar-3

Meaning: nut

Note: (extends by -ēi-, -ōi-, -u-)

Material:

In a- grade:

G. Meyer Alb. Wb. 17 combines gr. ἄρνα τὰ ὨΗρακλεωτικὰ κάρνα Hes., alb. arrë f. ` walnut-tree ', For the relation to Lithuanian riešutas, ruošutys ` hazelnut ', Latvian rieksts ` nut, hazelnut ', Old Prussian buccareisis ` beechnut ' (see Trautmann Old Prussian 314) accepts Specht Dekl. 62.

In o- grade:

Old Church Slavic orěchъ ` nut '.

References: WP. I 77.

Page(s): 61

---

Root / lemma: ar-5

Meaning: to refuse; to lie

Note: (with n-formant)

Material: Gr. ἀρνέομαι (*ἀρνε-F-ομαι) ` refuses ', ἄπαρνος, ἔξαρνος ` refusing, denying everything ', ἀρύει ἀντιλέγει βοᾷ Hes.;

alb. rrêm `false`, rrêmë, rrênë `lie`, nërrój (from **rrënój*) `denies everything` (rr from rn; Pedersen KZ. 33, 542 Anm. 2). Is even more doubtful whether Armenian uranam `denies everything, refuses`, urast `denial` would be used (with ur- from ōr-).

References: WP. I 78, Meillet BSL. 26, 19, Esquisse 111, 142.

See also: see also ōr-, ər- `reden, rufen`.

Page(s): 62

---

Root / lemma: aro-m (**gher-*, ghel-)

Meaning: reed

Material: Gr. ἄριον n. `bistort, kind of reed`, ἀρί-σarov `therefrom a small kind`;

Latin harundō `a reed; meton., for an object made of reed, a fishing rod; limed twigs for catching birds; a pen; the shaft of an arrow, or the arrow itself; a shepherd's pipe; a flute; a weaver's comb; a plaything for children, a hobby-horse`; to formation compare hirundō `a swallow` and nebrundines: νεφροί `the kidneys`.

Note:

Maybe alb. (**ghalandus*) dalëndyshe `a swallow`: Latin harundo -inis f. `a reed; meton., for an object made of reed, a fishing rod; limed twigs for catching birds`: hirundo -inis, f. `swallow`.

Common Latin gh- > h-: alb. gh- > d-.

Similar phonetic setting alb. dimën `winter`: Latin hiemo -are `to winter, spend the winter` [see Root / lemma: ghel-2: ghi-: `winter; snow`]

Latin and alb. prove that the original Root / lemma: aro-m: `reed` was (**gher-*, ghel-). Only Latin, alb. and gr. have preserved the old laryngeal h-.

There is no doubt that from Illyrian-alb.- Latin (**harundinis*) dalëndyshe `a swallow` [common alb. gh- > d-] derived gr. χελιδών `swallow`, therefore from Root / lemma: ghel-: `to call, cry` derived Root / lemma: aro-m: `reed` (**gher-*) where r// allophones.

From Persson De orig. gerundii 59 added Latin arista `the beard of an ear of grain; hence the ear itself; also a harvest`, aristis `holcus, a green vegetable` is defeated because of his suggesting to genista f. `the broom-plant` suffix strongly to the suspicion to be Etruscan (see Herbig IF. 37, 171, 178).

From Mediterranean language?

References: WP. I 79, WH. I 635 f.

Page(s): 68

---

Root / lemma: arōd-, arəd-

Meaning: a kind of waterbird

Material: Gr. ῥωδιός, ἑρωδιός `heron' (ἑρωδιός folk etymology in ending after -ιδίος), Latin ardea `a heron' ds. (**arəd-*), Old Norse arta, Old Swedish ārta `teal', Demin. Old Norse ertla, Norwegian erle `wagtail', serb. róda `stork' (**rādā*).

Maybe truncated alb. (*ῥωδιός) rosa, rosë `duck', rika `duckling, duck', Rumanian (**rada*) raṭă `duck'.

Note:

Alb. and Rumanian prove that from Root / lemma: anət- : (duck) derived Root / lemma: arōd-, arəd- : (a kind of waterbird) [common rhotacism n > r]

References: WP. I 146 f., WH. I 64.

Page(s): 68

Root / lemma: arqu-

Meaning: smth. bent

Material: Latin arcus, -ūs (stem is in -qu- from, compare Old Latin Gen. arquī, further argues, arquitenēns) `a bow, arch, arc; esp. the rainbow', arquātus, arcuātus (morbus) `icteric, yellowed as if from jaundice, jaundice, relating to jaundice; m. as subst., a sufferer from jaundice', probably actually `rainbow-colored, green and yellow looking' (compare Thes.); arcuātus also `arched-shaped, bow-shaped, supported by arches, covered (carriage)'; Umbrian arclataf `a round cake; acc.pl.', wherefore v. Planta I 341, Götze IF. 41, 91 (**arkelo-* with loss of the labialisation); Gothic arhazna f. `dart, arrow' (arhua-zna, compare hlaiwazna), Old Norse qr (Gen. qrvar) f. `dart, arrow', Old English earh f. ds. (engl. arrow), Germanic **arhvō*.

Maybe alb. hark `bow' [alb. is the only IE tongue that has preserved the old laryngeal h-]

For the basic approach arqu- (and not arqu-) would speak russ. rakíta, Czech rokyta, serb. rokita etc `a kind of willow tree', where **arqūta* (Miklosich EWb. 226, Torbjörnsson BB. 20, 140) forms the basis, and gr. ἄρκυθος `juniper', which word with all likelihood concerning this is to be drawn Lidén IF. 18, 507; in addition ἄρκυθίς `juniper berry'.

Indeed, Lidén takes relationship with gr. ἄρκυς `net' (see Bezzenger BB. 21, 285) in for what one compares under ar-1, S. 61.

Another connection for gr. ἄρκυθος and russ. rakíta etc seeks Endzelin KZ. 44, 59 ff., which more properly compares Latvian ērcis, ēcis (**ērcis*) `juniper'; further ērcēties 'torment oneself, grieve, straiten', ērceša 'a very quarrelsome person'; Latvian ērķš(k')is 'thorn shrub' would be to Endzelin mixture from **erkīs* and Lithuanian erškėtis 'a thorn plant' corresponding as regards the root of the word form; gr. ἄρ- then would have to contain zero grade from **er-*. S. under erk-.

References: WP. I 81, WH. I 64, EM. 69.

Page(s): 67-68

---

Root / lemma: arṷā (**herṷā*)

Meaning: intestines

Material: Gr. ὀρύα f. 'bowel', Latin arvīna f. 'grease, fat, lard, bacon', originally 'intestinal fat' (compare Old High German mitta-garni 'recumbent fat in the middle of the bowels'); ἄρβιννη κρέας. Σικελοί Hes. is Latin loanword

Note:

Gr. (**horua*) ὀρύα, alb. (**ghorna*) zorrë 'bowel' [common alb. gh- > z-] prove that Root / lemma: arṷā (**herṷā*): 'intestines' derived from Root / lemma: gher-5, ghor-nā: 'bowels'. This discovery might shed light on the origin of the old larygeals in PIE.

References: WP. I 182, II 353, WH. I 71.

Page(s): 68

---

Root / lemma: ast(h)-

Meaning: 'bones'

See also: s. ost(h)-.

Page(s): 69

---

Root / lemma: ati, ato-

Meaning: over, etc.

Note: compare to the meaning question esp. Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup>, 844 f. the colouring of the beginning vowel stands firm through Latin-Celtic (Greek) as Indo Germanic a-, and it gives no good reason before, Balto-Slavic, Germanic (and Aryan) forms can be attributed to Indo Germanic **o-*, by the book - following rules in a (very) strict way just because it would be a textbook example of ablaut to e- formed from **eti* bildete. With eti (see there) at least equality meaning and exchange existed in the use. Is ati reduction grade to eti?

Material: Old Indic āti 'about- onto (adnominal m. Akk.), exceedingly, very much' (Adv. and preverb), Avestan aiti-, Old pers. atij- ds. Adv. (as 1. compound part and preverb (before i- 'go' as 'go by, pass by' and bar- 'carry, bear' as 'bring over again, to carry')); Aryan ati can also represent Indo Germanic **eti*.

Gr. presumably in ἄτ-ᾱπ ` however ' (compare αὐτάπ from αὐτ ᾱπ; Brugmann-Thumb 623, KVG. 616; by connection with ἄτερ, Gothic sundrō, the Attic it remained kind of unexplained). Latin at ` but, yet, moreover; sometimes introducing an imaginary objection, but, you may say ' from increasing - to opposing ` beyond it ', what latter meaning in at-avus, at-nepos (not in apprīmē , see Skutsch AfIL. 12, 213).

Gall. ate- (from **atī-*) in Ategnātus (= Middle Breton (h)aznat, nbret. anat ` acquainted, known ') , abrit. Ate-cotti ` the very old ', Old Irish aith-, preceding ad- ` against, un- ', mcymr. at-, ncymr. ad-, ed- (Belege e.g. by Fick II<sup>4</sup> 8, Pedersen KG. II 292); here as **ate-ko-n* probably Middle Irish athach n. ` a certain time ', cymr. adeg m. ds., compare gall. ATENOVX (name of 2th half month), Thurneysen ZcP. 20, 358?

Gothic ab-pan ` but, however ' (very doubtful is against it derivation from Gothic Old Saxon ak, Old English ac ` however ', Old High German oh ` but, however ' from **ab-* + ke = gr. γε; differently, but barely appropriate Holthausen IF. 17, 458: = gr. ἄγε, Latin age ` go! well! ').

Lithuanian at-, ata-, more recently also atī-, in nominal compound atō- ` back, off, away, from, up ' (see Brugmann Grundr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 844 f.), Old Prussian et-, at- (probably only from Baltic at-, Trautmann 46);

Old Church Slavic ot-, otъ ` away, since, ex, from ', adnominal m. d. Gen.-Abl., introduces Meillet Ét. 155 f. back to gen.-ablativ **atos* (in front of, before; in return for; because of, from = Old Indic atah ` thenceforth '? rather Pron.-stem **e-* with ablat. Adv.-forms -tos); Indo Germanic **atī* (and **eti*) would be in addition Lok.; both remain very unsafe.

The double aspect Lithuanian ata-: atō- reminds in pa-: pō (see **apo*), (see **apo*), and it is doubtful about whether one may see in ablativ **atōd* a kind of o-stem formation. In the Slavic the form on long vowel is formed further in russ. etc. otáva ` grommet ', as Old Prussian attolis, Lithuanian atólas, Latvian atāls, atals ` grommet ' speaking for Indo Germanic older short vocalized form Lithuanian atā- = Indo Germanic **ato-* (compare to ending **apo*, **upo*):

Old Irish do-, to- prefix `to' with (Indo Germanic?) zero grade of anl. vowels (Meillet aaO., Stokes BB. 29, 171, Pedersen KG. II 74), probably also Illyrian to-, alb. te ` to, by ' (Skok by Pokorny Urill. 50).

References: WP. I 42 f., WH. I 75, 421 f., 863.

---

Root / lemma: at-, **atno-*

Meaning: to go; year

Note:

Gr. ἔτος `year' : Latin annus `year' (**atnos*) `year' : Old Indic hāyana- `yearly', hāyaná- m. n. `year' prove that Root / lemma: en-2 : `year' : Root / lemma: at-, **atno-* : `to go; year' : Root / lemma: uet- : `year' [prothetic u- before bare initial vowels] derived from Root / lemma: ġhei-2, ġhi-, ġhei-men-, **ġheimn-* : `winter; snow'.

Material: Old Indic átatī `goes, walks, wanders'. Moreover Latin annus `year' from **atnos* (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-) = Gothic Dat. Pl. apnam `year'. compare Fick I<sup>2</sup> 338, W. Meyer KZ. 28, 164, Froehde BB. 16, 196 f. (meaning development like with Germanic **jēram* `year' to jē- `go').

Maybe alb. Geg (**ant*) vajt, Tosc vete, vajti aor. `to go', (**it*) viti `go around, year, all year around' [common alb. prothetic v- before initial bare vowels - proof of ancient laryngeal h. Latin has followed alb.s t > nt > n, clearly Latin annus `year' derived from Old Indic (**antantī*) átatī]

Note:

Etruscan follows alb.s Etruscan Avil : year, Avilxva : yearly // derived from Avil, by adding a adjectival suffix -xva.

Oscan-Umbrian corresponds akno- `year, festival time, sacrificial time' (with -tn- to -kn-, Brugmann IF. 17, 492). Received the word is durable in compounds Latin perennis `the whole year; continuously' [perennis -e `lasting throughout the year; durable, perennial', perennitas -atis f. `duration, perpetuity', perenno -are `to last many years'.], sollennis `festive, annual, customary, returning or celebrated annually, solemn, ceremonial, ritualistic; usual' (additional form sollemnis absolutely analogical results; Thurneysen AfIL. 13, 23 ff., after omnis?); Umbrian sev-acni-, per-acni- `sollennis', Subst. `victim, sacrifice, sacrificial offering'.

References: WP. I 42 f., WH. I 51, 847.

Page(s): 69

---

Root / lemma: augh-, ugh-

Meaning: nape

Material: Charpentier KZ. 46, 42 places together Old Indic uṣṇīhā f. 'neck' (only Pl.) and gr. αὐχὴν 'nape, throat, straits'.

In uṣṇīhā before lies diminutive suffix -ihā-, gr. -ιχα-. The beginning is **ugh-s-n-íghā* the first gh is reduced being produced by dissimilation. To **ugh-s-no* stands **augh-en-* in gr. αὐχὴν compared with here Armenian awj 'throat', awji-k 'cervical collar'; Aeolic ἄμφην 'nape, neck', Aeolic αὔφεν ds. must be separated therefrom, in spite of Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 296; about gr. δάφνη: Cypriot δαύχνα 'laurel' better WH. I 775 f. (compare above S. 43 and Hoffmann Gr. Dial. II 500, Meister Gr. Dial. I 120).

References: WP. I 25, Adontz Mél. Boisacq 10.

Page(s): 87

---

Root / lemma: aug-

Meaning: to glance, see, dawn

Note:

Probably Root / lemma: aug- : 'to glance, see, dawn' derived from Root / lemma: ayes- : 'to shine; gold, dawn, aurora etc.'.

Material: Gr. αὐγή 'shine, ray, daylight; eye', αὐγάζω 'shines, illuminates; sees', ἐπὶ-αυγής 'shining very much';

alb. agó 'dawns', agume 'aurora, morning, dawn' (see Persson Beitr. 369);

It seems Albanian cognate has wrong etymology.

Maybe Basque N egunsenti: Estonian : N agu: Albanian : N agu, agim: Turkish : N ağarma 'dawn, daybreak'.

Turkish V gün ağarmak: alb. agon : 'to dawn'

Estonian N aeg: Turkish N gün, gündüz, dönem, zaman: Basque egun 'day' from also Slavic iugъ 'south' (Fick KZ. 20, 168), russ. užinъ, užina?

Turkish N güneş: Basque eguzki N 'sun'.

Probably wrong etymology since Slavic iugъ 'south': alb. jug 'south' must have derived from Latin iugum -i n. 'a yoke' - a constellation in the southern night skies. see Root / lemma: ieu-2, ieuθ-, ieu-g-: to tie together, yoke

References: WP. I 25.

Page(s): 87

---

Root / lemma: au1

Meaning: interjection of pain

Material: Old Indic o, Latin au 'Oh! ', Old English ēa, Middle High German ou(wē), Modern High German au, Latvian aũ, àu (disyllabic au, avu with displeasure, refusal, astonishment, surprise), poln. au, Czech ouder

References: WH. I 78.

Page(s): 71

---

Root / lemma: au-2, au-es-, au-s-

Meaning: to spend the night, sleep

Material: Armenian aganim 'spends the night ', vair-ag ' living in the country ', aut ' spend the night, night's rest, station '.

Gr. ιαύω ' sleeps ' from redupl. **i-ausō*, Aor. ι-αῦσαι, next to which unredupl. Aor. ἄεσα, Inf. ἀφέσ(σ)αι; αὔλις, -ιδος ' place of residence, camp, stable, night's lodging ', αὐλίζομαι ' is in the court, spends the night ', ἄγραιλος ' spending the night outside ', αὐλή ' court, courtyard, dwelling ' (originally probably ' the fenced in space around the house in which the cattle is rounded up for the nighttime '); from ιαύω comes except ιαυθμός ' Night's lodging ', μηλιαυθμός ' sheep stable ', ἐνιαυθμός ' place of residence ' (: hom. ἐνιαύειν ' have his rest accommodation ') also gr. ἐνιαυτός actually ' rest, rest station ', therefore the solstices as resting places in the course of the sun (solstitium), then ' year, solstice, anniversary ' (different Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 15, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I, 424<sup>5</sup>, s. also en- ' year ').

A heavy base **amē-, *amō-* probably to be added hom. ἄωτεις ὕπνον (from Schulze Qunder ep. 72 directly to ιαύω put under formal comparison from ἐρ(F)ωτάω : εἶρομαι from **ἐρφομαι*) and ἄωρος (Sappho), ῶρος (Kallimachos) ' ὕπνος ' (Benfey Wzl.-Lex. I 298), wherefore Old English wērig, engl. weary, Old Saxon wōrag, wōrig ' tired, weary ', Old High German wuorag ' inebriates '; about Old Indic vāyati ' gets tired '; see however, root amē- ' strive oneself, exert '.

References: WP. I 19 f. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 690.

See also: Über ues- 'verweilen' see below besonderem Artikel.

Page(s): 72

---

Root / lemma: au-lo-s (: ēu-l-) [**heu-l-*]

Meaning: tube, hole, **street*

Material: Gr. αὐλός m. ` pipe flute, long cavity ', ἔν-αυλος m. ` riverbed ', αὐλὼν m. f. ` mountain valley, gulch, ditch, canal, strait ';

Old Church Slavic ulъjъ, Lithuanian aulỹs and secondarily avilỹs ` beehive ', originally the cavity in the tree in which the swarm settles;

Note:

[probably Old Church Slavic avilỹs ` beehive ' < vaulỹs; but prothetic v- before bare initial vowels has been attested in Illyrian, alb. and Slavic tongues; maybe through metathesis au > ua alb. Tosc (**hau-lo-*) huall, Geg huell, hoje Pl. ` beehive, cavity ' = Latin alvus ` beehive, cavity' [common alb. shift / > j], alb. hollë ` narrow, thin', alb. is the only language to have preserved the old laryngeal h-. Clearly the Latin cognate derived from Illyrian and Slavic cognates.

From (**halvus*, alhwus) Latin alvus `beehive, cavity' derived Rumanian albină `bee', Portuguese abelha `bee', Spanish abeja `bee', French abeille `bee' [common Italic and Greek -hw- > -b-].

Old Church Slavic ulica f. ` street, - in a built-up area - hollow, ravine, gorge, narrow pass ', Lithuanian aũlas f., Old Prussian aulinis ` bootleg ', Old Prussian aulis ` shinbone '.

Maybe zero grade in alb. Tosc udhë ullë 'road, street' [the common alb.-Illyrian-Latin -dh- > -ll-, -d- > -l- shift]

Maybe Root / lemma: au-lo-s (: ēu-l-) : `tube, hole, *street' derived from Root / lemma: *uegh- : `to move, carry, drive' [common alb. -gh- > -d-]

Armenian ut, uti ` way ' and (compare the meaning ` belly ' from Latin alvus) yti ` pregnant ' (with ablaut ū, Pedersen KZ. 39, 459; derivatives utarkem and ylem ` send in ')*); *) Armenian word with the ablaut grade Indo Germanic ũ. from with the same Latvian ula, ulā ` wheel hub '? (would be the ` tubularly hole ' in which the axis is inserted; Lidén IF. 19, 321).

-----

-----

New Norwegian aul, aule and (with Indo Germanic ēu- as a high step to au-) jōl ` angelica silvestris ', Old Norse (huann-) jōli ` the hollow stems of angelica archangelica ', both plants call in Norway also sløke, whose basic meaning likewise ` tube, pipe ' is (Falk-Torp 474 and 1492 under jol and from Schroeder to Germanic ablaut 58 f. likewise boat name jolle ` dinghy').

Here with Latin metathesis of au- to al- also alvus m. f. 'belly, womb, stomach; hold of a ship, beehive', alveus 'a hollow, cavity, trough; hence boat; also the hold of a ship; bathtub; bed of a stream; beehive; gaming-table', although time and limitation of the metathesis are still totally unclear (see Thurneysen IF. 21, 177, Sommer Hdb.<sup>2</sup> 78).

References: WP. I 25 f., WH. I 34 f., different Banateanu REtIE 1, 122.

Page(s): 88-89

---

Root / lemma: au-3 (auē); uē-

Meaning: from, away, of Material: Old Indic áva- 'from, down', mostly prefix from verbs and Subst., rarely preposition m. Abl., Avestan ap. ava prefix 'down' and (while more the purpose than the starting point of the movement came to the consciousness) 'whereupon to, to what, near' (e.g. avabar- 'to take there, carry away' and 'to take there, procure, supply, get'), also preposition m. Akk. 'there, there in'; therefrom Old Indic ávāra- 'inferior' and Avestan aorā- 'after, below, down' (after parā extended from avarə); Avestan avarə Adv. 'below, down' = Old Indic avár RV. I 133, 7; Old Indic aváh (avás) 'down', whereof avastād- 'under'; without auslaut vowel (compare Avestan ao-rā) Old Indic ō- e.g. in ō-gaṇá-ḥ 'single, pathetic' (: gaṇá-ḥ 'troop, multitude'; Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 54);

gr. αὐ- probably in αὐχάπτειν ἀναχωρεῖν, ἀναχάζεσθαι Hes. (Schulze Qunder ep. 60);

Illyrian au- ' (of motion), towards, to (a person or place), at' in proper names? (Krahe IF. 49, 273);

Latin au- 'away, off, gone' in auferō 'to take away, bear off, carry off, withdraw, remove' (= Avestan áva-bharati, Avestan ava-bar-), aufugiō 'to flee away, run away, escape';

gall. au-tagis 'διάρταξις?' (Vendryes BSL. 25, 36);

Old Irish perhaps ō, ūa 'from, with, by', as a preposition m. dat., acymr. hou, more recently o 'if', o preposition 'from';

Old Prussian Lithuanian Latvian au- 'away, from' (e.g. Latvian au-manis 'not-sensical, nonsensical'), Old Church Slavic u prefix 'away, from', e.g. u-myti 'to give a wash, wash away' (u-běžati 'flee from'), as preposition m. Gen. 'from' (with verbs of the desire, receive, take) and, with fading of the concept of the starting point, 'by, from';

maybe alb. particle of passive u 'by, from' used before verbs in passive voice.

Hittite preverb u- (we-, wa-) 'here', a-wa-an 'away' (Sturtevant Lg. 7, 1 ff.).

thereof with t-forms aut(i)o-: gr. αὐτως 'unavailing, in vain', αὔσιος ds. and Gothic auþja- (N. Sg. **auþeis* or **auþs*) 'desolate, leave' (*'remote'), auþida 'desert', Old High German ōdi, Modern High German öde, Old Norse auðr 'desolate'; Old Irish ūathad 'item, particular, sort'. - goes to the frightening wilderness, wilderness also Middle Irish ūath 'fright, terrible' (are to be kept away cymr. uthr 'terrible', corn. uth, euth, bret. euz 'fright')? At least is their connection with Latin pavēre 'to quake with fear, panic; transit. to quake at, tremble' everything rather than sure, see pou- 'fear'.

Beside aut(i)o- steht perhaps changing through ablaut u-to- in alb. hut 'in vain, blank, vainly', ue-to- (see unten *uē-) in gr. οὐκ ἐτός 'not free of charge, not without reason', ἐτώσιος (F by Homer) 'in vain, without success, pointless'.

Maybe truncated alb. (**hot*) kot 'in vain, without success, pointless'; alb. is the only IE language to preserve the old laryngeal h- > k-.

to combine *uē- with *au- probably under *auē-:

Latin **vē-* in vēscor 'to eat, feed on; to use, enjoy' originally 'whereof to eat up' (: esca), from which back formation vēscus 'greedy; fastidiously in food (*merely nibbling off); underfed'; again alb. eshkë 'fungus': Latin esca 'food, victuals, esp. as bait'. Prothetic u- added to bare initial vowels is an alb.-Illyrian.

vē- to indication faulty too much or too little, vē-cors 'senseless, mad, moves, treacherous', vē-grandis 'diminutive, not large, tiny', vēsānus 'mad, insane; of things, furious, wild', Vē-jovis, Umbrian ve-purus (Abl. Pl.), wheather '(iepa) ἄπυρα'.

Note:

Also in alb. vē- to indication faulty too much or too little: alb. vēshtirë 'difficult, hard' from (vē- shtirë (participle of alb. shtynj 'push with difficulty') see Root / lemma: (s)teu-1: 'to push, hit'.

uo-: Gr. Fo- in Arcadian Fo-φληκόσι, Attic ὀ-φλισκάνω, ὀφείλω, Lesbian ὀ-εἰγην 'open', Attic οἶγω, more recently οἶγνυμι (Prellwitz<sup>2</sup> 345, Brugmann IF. 29, 241, BSGW. 1913, 159).

wes-: With Old Indic avás 'down' attached together formant Germanic wes- in Modern High German West, Old High German westar 'westwards', Old Norse vestr n. 'westen', Adv. 'in the west, against west' (**wes-t(e)ro-*, compare Old Norse nor-ðr), Old High German westana 'from west' etc (Brugmann IF. 13, 157 ff.; about the explanation of the Wisigothae as 'West-Goths, Visigoths' s. Kretschmer Gl. 27, 232).

Here (after Brugmann aaO.) the initial sound of the word for evening, Indo Germanic wesperos and wegeros, see there.

Relationship from Indo Germanic **au-*, uē- with the Pron.-stem au-, u- 'yonder, over there' as 'on the other side, from there' is conceivable.

References: WP. I 13 f., WH. I 79, 850, Trautmann 16.

Page(s): 72-73

---

Root / lemma: au-4, u- (: uē-, uo-)

Meaning: that; other

Material: ayo: Old Indic Avestan Old pers. ava- 'that'; Old Church Slavic Old Russian овѣ- - овѣ- 'on the one hand - on the other hand which appears - other', ovogda - ovogda 'one time - the other time' (from this correlative use only poln. ów corresponds to English deictic "I" and serb. ovaj a deictic word meaning "that", also New Bulgarian -v [**uo-s*] developed).

u-: Old Indic amú- (Akk. Sg. amúm etc) 'that, yonder', arise from Akk. Sg. m. **am* (= Indo Germanic **e-m* 'eum') + **um* (Akk. Sg. of ours stem u); s. Wackernagel-Debrunner III 550 f.

Tocharian A ok, B uk 'still', A okí 'as, and', A okāk 'up to', perhaps only **u-g* (zero grade to Gothic auk); from in addition B om(p)ne, omte 'there'?

Particle Old Indic u 'thus, also, on the other hand, there again, against it', emphasizing esp. after verbal forms, Pron. and particles (nō 'and not, not' = ná u, athō = atha u), gr. -u in πᾶν-u 'even very much',

Gothic -u interrogative particle (also the enclitic -uh from -u-qwe, s. Brugmann IF. 33, 173); this u also in Old Indic a-sāú m. f. 'that, yonder', Avestan hāu m. f., ap. hauv m. 'that, yonder', Wackernagel-Debrunner III 529, 541.

Particle Old Indic u-tā, in both parts ` on the one hand - on the other hand, soon - soon, - as ', or only in the second part, a little bit opposing ` and, thus ' (nachved. in ity-uta, kim-uta, praty-uta),

Avestan uta, ap. utā `and, and also'; gr. ἤυτε `just as ' from *ḥF(ε) + υτε (originally ` as on the other hand ', ` as, also '), but hom. εὔτε `ὅτε' from εὔ + τε after Debrunner IF. 45, 185 ff.; δεὔτε is formed in addition to δεῦπο; also οὔτος, αὕτη, τοῦτο most probably from ó, á, to + υτε with additional final inflection;

West Germanic -od in Old Saxon thar-od, Old High German thar-ot `thither, there ', Old Saxon her-od, Old High German her-ot `here ', whereupon also Old Saxon hwarod `whither, where ', Old High German warot `whither, where ' (from **ute*? or from **utā*? Also **aute*, **auti*, see below, would be possible basic form).

Here Avestan uiti, Gatha-Avestan ūitī `so ', but not Latin ut and utī, Old Latin utei.

Beside u, utā etc. stands with the ablaut grade Indo Germanic au-:

gr. αὔ `on the other hand, again ', *αὔτι `again' (extended to Ionian αὔτις, gort. αὔτιν, after antique grammarians for `right away, there ', where from αὐτίκα `at the moment, straight away ', αὔ-θι `on the spot, here, there ', αὔτε `again, thus, further '; Latin aut (**auti*) `or', autem `however ' (to the form see WH. I 87), Oscan aut, auti `or ' and `but, on the other hand, on the contrary, however ' (to meaning see v. Planta II 465);

maybe alb. Geg o `or' from Italian o `or'

Umbrian ute, ote `aut'; perhaps Gothic auk `then, but ', Old Norse auk `also, and', Old English ēac, Old Saxon ōk, Old High German ouh `and, thus, but ', Modern High German also = gr. αὔ-γε `again '.

Pedersen Pron. dém. 315 supposes gr. αὔ suitable form in the initial sound of from alb. a-që `so much'. - Brugmann BSGW. 60, 23 a 2 lines up in gr. αὐ-τός as ` (he) himself - (he) of his own, self '; other interpretations see with Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 613 f.

Maybe alb. (**aut-*) vetë `self' [common alb. prothetic v- before bare initial vowels].

With r-forms airan. avar `here', Lithuanian aurė `see there! ', zero grade Umbrian uru `that, that yonder, that one; emphatically, that well-known; in contrast with hic, the former ', ura-ku `ad illam', ures `illis' (orer ose rather with ō = ũ as = Lithuanian au); perhaps δεῦπο `here, well, all right, well then (an obsolete interjection meaning "come now") '

(δεύρω after ὀπίσσω, inschr. δεῦρε after ἄγε) from *δέ-υρο (δε ` here ' + αὔρο ` here '), Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 612, 632.

ये, यो- meaning `or' (= `on the other hand') esp. in Old Indic vā `or' (also `even, yet; meanwhile; probably, possibly'; also confirming vā), Avestan ap. vā `or' (particle of the emphasis and assurance),

Old Indic Avestan vā - vā `either - or', gr. ἢ-(F)έ, ἢ (with proclitic emphasis, proclitic stress for ἢ-(F)ε, as yet in the second part of the double question), Latin -ve `or' (also in ceu, sīve, seu, nēve, neu), also probably Irish nó, abret. nou `or' (if from **ne-ye* `or not' with fading the negative meaning originally in negative sentences, Thurneysen Grammar 551; not more probably after Pedersen KG. I 441 a grown stiff imperative **neye* of the verb Irish at-nói `he entrusts with him', gr. νεύω); Tocharian B wa-t `where'.

compare also Old Indic i-vá (: va = i-δέ: δέ) `just as, exactly the same way', ē-vá in such a way, exactly the same way, just, only', ēvám `so, thus' (behaves to be confirmed vāi and vā - vā as ē-na `this' to nā - nā `in different way', originally `thus and thus'; with ē-vá corresponds gr. οἶ(F)ος `only' (= *just only'), Avestan aēva-, Old pers. aiva- `an, one' (compare with no- demonstrative Indo Germanic **oí-no-s* `an, one').

References: S. esp. Brugmann Dem. 96 f., Grundr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 341-343, 350, 731 f. m.

Lithuanian II<sup>2</sup> 3, 987,

Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 629, 632, 804, Boisacq s. v. αὔ, etc

WP. I 187 f., WH. I 87, 209, Van Windekens Lexique 78, 80.

Page(s): 73-75

---

Root / lemma: auq<sup>u</sup>(h)- : uq<sup>u</sup>(h)- and beside it probably as andere lengthened grade ueq<sup>u</sup>(h)-

Meaning: cooking pot

Material: Latin aulla, aula, vulg. ōlla `jar, pot' from **auxlā*, Demin. auxilla (Faliscan olna in ending after urna); probably alb. anë f. `vessel' (from **auq<sup>u</sup>nā*? Jokl. Stud. 3); Old Indic ukhá-h m., ukhā `pot, saucepan'; Gothic auhns m. (**uk<sup>u</sup>nós*) `oven, stove', with gramm. variation Old Norwegian ogn, Old Swedish oghn ds.

Maybe alb. (**ahna*) ena `dish': Indic AnvA `oven, furnace'.

Besides forms with probably only to single-linguistic labial: gr. gr. ἰπνός, older ἰπνός 'stove' (after Fick III<sup>4</sup> 29 between, Oštir WuS. 5, 217, Güntert Abl. 25 from **u<sub>e</sub>q<sup>w</sup>-nós*; not **uq<sup>w</sup>-nós*, s. Boisacq m. Lithuanian), after E. Fraenkel KZ. 63, 202 from **úkFvós* through dissimilatorischen sound change?? (W. Schulze GGA. In 1897, 908); bret. offen f. 'stone trough' in spite of Loth RC. 43, 410 barely from **uppā*, Old English ofnet 'small vessel', ofen, Old High German ovan, Old Norse ofn 'stove, oven' (likewise leadable back in **u<sub>e</sub>q<sup>w</sup>-nos*; beginning u- caused as in wulfa- 'wolf' the development from -lv- to -f-, during Gothic etc auhns goes back to Indo Germanic **uq<sup>w</sup>-nós*; then the loss of w- in Ofen then must be explained indeed from influence of this sister's form **uhna*-).

Note:

Common gr. - celt. -k<sup>w</sup>- > -p-, -g<sup>w</sup>- > -b-.

From the assimilated form Old Swedish omn, mundartl. umn 'stove' is probably borrowed Old Prussian wumpnis 'oven', umnode 'bakehouse, oven, kiln, stove'. S. Meillet MSL. 9, 137, Meringer IF. 21, 292 ff., Senn Germanic loanword studies, Falk-Torp under ovn, weigand herdsman and clever under Ofen.

To the objective see Meringer aaO., Schrader Reallex. 592 f.

References: WP. I 24, WH. I 84, 850, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 258.

See also: (compare S. 84 f. aug-: u<sub>e</sub>g-, oldest au<sub>e</sub>g-)

Page(s): 88

---

Root / lemma: aus-

Meaning: to draw (water), ladle, *shed blood

Root / lemma: aus-: 'to draw (water), ladle' derived from the stem: au<sub>e</sub>/e/-, au<sub>e</sub>nt-: of Root / lemma: au<sub>e</sub>(e)-9, au<sub>e</sub>ed-, au<sub>e</sub>er-: 'to flow, to wet; water, etc.'.

Material: Gr ἐξάω 'scoops, extracts, takes from' (simple αὔω), ἐξαστήρ μέτρου ὄνομα, καταῦσαι ἐξαντλήσαι, καταδῦσαι, καθαῦσαι ἀφανίσαι (Spiritus asper after the former present tense *αὔω from *αὔσω, Sommer Gr. Lautst. 2 f.)

with zero grade **us-* ἀφ-ύω, ἀφ-ύσσω (latter from Aor. ἀφύσσαι) 'scoops', common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-; ἀφυσμός ἀπάντλησις Suidas and ἀρύω 'scoops', originally *Fāp (: Old Indic vār 'water') **ū[σ]w* 'scoops water', ἀρυστήρ 'vessel for ladling'.

Old Norse ausa ` to scoop ', austr ` scoop, backwash, the shocks, wake ', nnd. ūtoesen ` to draw (water), ladle, scoop ', schwäb. Öse ` vessel for ladling '.

Lat hauriō, -īre, hausī, haustum ` to draw up, draw out or in; to drink up, absorb, swallow; to shed blood; to drain, empty a receptacle; in gen., to derive, take in; also to exhaust, weaken, waste ', then also ` slurp, tie, suffers ', poet. ` wounds ', with secondary h as casual in humerus.

References: WP. I 27 f., WH. I 637, 869, W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 190 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 644<sup>4</sup>.

Page(s): 90

---

Root / lemma: ayeg-, uōg-, aug-, ug-

Meaning: to magnify, increase

Note: with s-forms ayek-s-, auk-s-, uek-s-, uk-s-

Material: Old Indic ugrá- `immense' (compounds Sup. ōjīyas-, ōjīṣṭha- ` the stronger one, strongest ') = Avestan ugra- ` strong, hard ' (compounds Sup. aojyah-, aojišta-).

Latin augeō, -ēre ` to increase, augment, enlarge, spread, extend ', auctor (= Umbrian uhtur) ` a promoter, producer, father, progenitor, author etc', auctiō ` an increasing; hence, from the bidding, an auction ', augmen(tum) ` an increase, growth, a kind of sacrificial cake ' (= Lithuanian augmuō ` increase, growth ', Old Indic ōjman- m. ` strength '), augur ` a seer, soothsayer, diviner, augur ' from **augos* ` aggrandizement ' (WH. I 83);

Gothic aukan (preterit ai auk), auknan ` increase ', ana-, bi-aukan ` to append, subjoin, add on ', Old High German ouhhōn, Old Saxon ōkian ` increase ', Old English ēacian ` increase ', īecan ` increase ', Old Norse auka (preterit jōk and aukaða) ` increase ', stem participle Old English ēacen, Old Saxon ōkan ` increased, pregnant ';

Lithuanian áugu, áugti (lengthened grade) ` increase, grow ', auginù, -inti ` allow to grow, educate, bring up ', changing through ablaut pa-ūgėti ` grow up ', ūgis ` growth, annual growth ', Latvian aūdzēt, aūdzināt ` gather ', Old Prussian auginnons participle Perf. Akt. ` drawn, pulled ', Old Latvian aukts ` high ' = Latin auctus ` to increase, augment, enlarge, spread, extend ', Latvian aūgt ` grow ', as also thrak. Aùθi-παρος ` high ford ', Old Prussian Aucti-garbin, auktai-rikijskan ` authority ', auktimmien ` chief ', next to which with s of -es-stem (see below) Lithuanian áukštas, Latvian aūksts ` high ' (: Latin augustus ` consecrated, holy; majestic, dignified '), Old Prussian auk-timmiskan f.

(Akk.) ` authority ', Old Prussian aūgus ` costive, constipated ' (as ` increasing '), Lithuanian áugumas, Latvian aūgums ` increase, growth ';

es-stem Old Indic ójas- n. ` vigorousness, strength ', Avestan aojah-, aogah- (also r-stem aogarə) ` vigorousness, strength ', Latin augustus see above (also Lithuanian etc áukštas); in addition with s in the verb:

Common Satem Slavic Illyrian hau- > va- phonetic mutation in:

Old Indic vákṣaṇa-m ` strengthening ', vakṣáyati ` allows to grow ', Avestan vaxšaiti ` allows to grow ', next to which with the weakest root grade Old Indic úkṣati ` gains strength ' (Perf. vavákṣa), Avestan uxšyeiti ` grows ';

common Old Indic ḡh- > kṣ-

Gothic wahsjan `grow' (= Old Indic vakṣayati, Indo Germanic Iter.-Kaus. **uokséjō*, with it that combined ō-gradation Perf. wōhs to the paradigm; see Brugmann IF. 32, 180, 189);

gr. ἀ(F)έξω ` grow, increase ', ἀέξομαι ` grows ';

αὔξω, αὐξάνω ` grow, increase ', Latin auxilium ` help, aid, assistance, support, succor ' (originally Pl. -ia ` strengthening, reinforcements ', N. Pl. auxilis ` auxiliary troops, or in gen., military power ');

Old Norse vaxa, vexa `grow', Old High German wahsan, Modern High German wachsen, wuchs, wherefore e.g. Gothic wahstus ` accretion, growth, body size ', Old High German wa(h)smo ` growth ';

Tocharian A oksiš ` grows ', A okšu, B aukšu ` old ';

after Van Windekens Lexique 79 also here AB oko ` fruit ', A okar ` plant '; against it Pedersen Tochar. 227.

Here with zero grade uōg-: Gothic wōkrs m. ` interest ', Old English wōcorf. ` progeny, interest ' (compare gr. τόκος in the same meaning), Old High German wuohhar m. ` yield of the ground, fetus, progeny, profit, interest, usury ' (in addition steir. wiech ` extensive, excessive, rich in leaves ' as umlaut?)

A little bit differently Schroeder Abl. 57 f.), there in not with s expanded root form ayeg- the grade ueg- is covered in Old Irish fēir, cymr. gwair ` grass, herbage ';

probably with the same ablaut Old Indic vāja-h ` strength, property, wealth, the prize (won in a contest) [The Greeks gave a wreath of laurels to winners in the Pythian games], race ', originally ` quick, successful, energy ', Oldenberg ZdMG. 50, 443 ff.

References: WP. I 22 f., WH. I 82 f., 850, Feist 67, 541, 572, Pedersen Tochar. 227.

Page(s): 84-85

---

Root / lemma: au(ei)- (əu(ei)-?) (**h<sub>2</sub>ek<sup>w</sup>ei-*)

Meaning: bird, *water bird

Note:

Both Root / lemma: au(ei)- (əu(ei)-?) (**h<sub>2</sub>ek<sup>w</sup>ei-*): bird, *water bird : Root / lemma: ak<sup>w</sup>ā- (**ek<sup>w</sup>ā-*): ēk<sup>w</sup>- : water, river, derived from zero grade of Root / lemma: ghāg<sup>w</sup>h- : young of an animal or bird; common gr. gh- > h-.

Material: Old Indic vīh, vēh m. 'bird' (Gen. vēh, Akk. vim), Avestan vīš ds. (G. Pl. vayam, also with themat. case from stem vaya-), Middle Persian vāi, vāyandak 'bird', Old Indic vayas- n. 'fowl, bird', vāyasa-h 'bird, crow'; verbal Avestan ā-vayeiti 'flies up' (from divinities), Old Indic vēvīyatē 'flutters'.

Gr. αἰετός 'eagle', Attic αἰετός, αἰβετός, αἰετός Περγαῖοι Hes. (*α<sub>F</sub>ι-ετός);

alb. vi-do, vito, vidheze 'dove';

Latin avis f. 'bird' (therefrom auca 'bird, esp. goose'; Back-formation from Demin. aucella from **avicella*; false by WH. I 79) = Umbrian avif Akk. Pl. 'birds' (aviekate D. Sg. 'the taken auspices', aviekla 'relating to an augur or augury'); cymr. hwyad, acorn. hoet, bret. houad 'duck' from **auietos*? (Pedersen KG. I 55).

Armenian hav 'bird, cock, hen' can have indeed suggestion -h, but also as **pəu-* belong to **pōu-* 'the young, boy' (Slavic pъta 'bird' etc).

References: WP. I 21, WH. 84, 850.

See also: In connection with it stand most probably the words for 'egg', see below ōu-.

Page(s): 86

---

Root / lemma: *au(e)-*10, auē(o)-, uē-

Meaning: to blow

Grammatical information: participle uē-nt-

Note: in Slavic languages often from the 'throw dice', i.e. to the cleaning of the grain of the chaff by throwing of the grains against the wind.

Material: I. belong to light root form au(e)-:

a. Gr. ἄος (if not late neologism), -ᾰής (see below II a).

b. Mcymr. awyð 'violent gust of wind', acorn. awit 'air' (**auēido-*);

c. ue-d<sup>h</sup>ro- presumably in Old Norse veðr n. 'wind, air, weather', Old Saxon wedar n. 'weather, bad weather', Old High German wetar 'weather, scent, free air, wind (of animals)' and Old Church Slavic vedro 'cheerful weather', vedrъ 'jovial, merry (from the weather)';

ue-d- perhaps in gr. ἔδανός 'fragrant'; in ue-d<sup>h</sup>- correlates Persson Beitr. 664 doubting still ἐθμή ἀτμός, καπνός λεπτός, ἀτμή Hes.).

d. r-, l- derivatives: gr. αὔρα 'aerial breath, draft' (places light root form auē- ahead, as ἄελλα, ἀετμόν, Wetter, see below); but ἀήρ, Gen. ἥερος 'smoke, fog, air' stays away, see below uer- 'bind, hang up'.

Also Albanian ajër: Furlan ajar: Latvian ārija: Maltese arja: Sardinian Campidanese àiri; aria 'air'.

Gr. ἄελλα, Aeolic αὔελλα 'storm' (*ǎFελ-ǎ); cymr. awen 'inspiration', awe/f. 'wind, breath', acorn. auhel 'aura, heaven, breeze', mcor. awel 'weather', brit. loanword Middle Irish ahél (h hiatus sign), aial 'wind, breath'. According to Thurneysen Grammar 125 Old Irish oal 'mouth' from **auelā*.

e. au-et- in gr. ἀετμόν τὸ πνεῦμα Hes., ἀετμα φλόξ Et. M., ἀτμός (contracted from ἀετμός) 'vapour, smoke, smoke', with zero grade, but analogical absorption of ǎ-: ἀυτμή 'breath, draft of the bellows, the wind, smell, hot aura of the fire', ἀυτμήν ds.

II. belong to heavy root form:

a. ue-, ue-: Old Indic vāti, Avestan vāiti 'blows', gr. ἄησι ds., Cypriot ζάει (read ζάη with ζ from **dj-*) Hes. (that α in ἄησι perhaps prothetic; from light root form come gr. ἄος πνεῦμα Hes.;

maybe alb. (**ue-nts*) vesh 'strike, blow, hit'.

ἀκρᾱής 'sharp blowing', δυσᾱής 'adverse blowing', ὑπερᾱής 'excessive blowing' with stretch in compound); besides the participle **ue-nt-* 'blowing' (Old Indic vānt-, gr. Akk. ἄεντα) stand **ue-nto-s* 'wind' in Latin ventus, Gothic etc winds, Old High German wint, cymr. gwynt 'wind', wherefore Latin ventilāre (*'expose to a draught, brandish, fan), oscillate, vibrate', ventilābrum 'throw shovel', Gothic diswinþjan 'separate the grain (the wheat) from the chaff', winþiskaúrō 'throw shovel' (Germanic þ, next to which with gramm. variation d in:) Old High German wintōn 'winnow, fan', winta, wintscūvala 'winnowing shovel', Old English windwian 'to expose to the hoist, winnow, fan' (engl.

winnow); Tocharian A want, B yente `wind'. (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

About Hittite hu-u-wa-an-te-eš (h(u)uanteš) `hoist' (?) see Forrer by Feist 565, places the word as ` (hurrying) clouds ' to hu-wa-a-i `runs, flees', which also belongs here; see Couvreur H 119 f., Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 680<sup>4</sup>.

n- present: gr. αίνω from *ǵǵá-v-ω (compare to the formation Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 694) and ἀνέω from *ǵǵanéw `clean the grains by shaking up of the chaff, sieves', Fāvai περιπτύσαι Hes. (delivers γάναι περιπτύσαι; see also Bechtel KZ. 46, 374); is based on such zero grade n- present, but in meaning `blow', thus Old Prussian wins `air', Akk. winnen `weather'? (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

*jo-*present (or from root form *ǵǵē-?): Old Indic vāyati `blows', Avestan fravāyeiti `goes out', Gothic waían waíwō, Old English wāwan, Old High German wājan, wāen `blow', Old Church Slavic vějō, vějetъ `blow' and `winnow, fan' (therefrom russ. vějalo, sloven. vévnica, poln. wiejaczka `winnowing shovel, a winnowing-fan'); nominal: Lithuanian vėjas `blow'; Old Indic vāyít-h, Avestan vāyuš `blow, wind, air'.

For root-like value of -j- leads the sound grade *ǵǵj- to the following words in which give space, however, partly to other views: Old Church Slavic vijalb, vijalica `storm, weather', russ. vbjálica `snow flurry' (also vějálica!), vbjuga `blizzard, snowstorm', zavbjátъ `snow-covered, covered with snow', Czech vátí (**vbjati*) `blow' (only Slavic developments from vortonigem věj-?);

r.-Church Slavic vichъръ (*ǵǵēisuro-) `whirlwind' (in any case, at first to russ. vichatъ `shake, move', vichljatъ `toss, fling', s. Brugmann Grundr. II<sup>1</sup> 1049, Pedersen IF. 5, 70, and probably as `whirl, swing in the circle' to *ǵǵeis- `turn');

Lithuanian výdra, vidras `gale' (see Leskien Bild. 438; in Lithuanian very rare forms -dra- compare really Lithuanian vėtra `storm' - urges to caution);

hom. αἶον ἦτορ, θυμὸν αἰσθε, αἰσθων from breathing out or letting out the vitality (to last meaning Bechtel Lexil 21 f.), gr. root ἄFισ-; mcymr. awyðs. 82 above.

b. aǵē-d-: Old High German wāzan, wiaz, Middle High German wāzen `blow, exhale, inflate', wāz `gust of wind', Lithuanian vėdinti `ventilate, cool'; at most gr. ἀάζω `breathes' from *ǵǵáð-ω (rather, however, gr. neologism of after other verbs in -άζω); presumably also (from **au̯ə-d-ro-*) Lithuanian áudra m. 'storm', n. 'thunderstorm', Old Prussian wydra 'blow'. About Old Indic ūdharn 'chillness, cold', Avestan aoḍarə, aota ds. compare Persson Beitr. 11.

c. uē-lo- perhaps in Latin ēvēlātus 'scattered, dissipated, fan away, winnow thoroughly', whence vēlābra 'something winnowing the grain' (Paul. Fest. 68, 3) and in Old High German wāla m. n. 'fans' (if not from **wē-pla*, see below)?

d. uē-s-: Old Indic vāsa-h, vāsaka-h 'fragrance', vāsayati 'fills with fragrance', saṃvāsita-h 'makes stinking'; isl. vās 'frigid aura', væsa 'exhale, blow, breathe', Dutch waas 'white frost, ripe, smell, fragrance', Lithuanian vėstu, vėsti 'cool off, become chill or become aerial', vėsà 'chill air, coolness', vėsus 'chilly, aerial'.

e. t further formations: Old Indic vāta-h, Avestan vātō 'blow', Old Indic vātula-h (see below), gr. ἀήτης 'blowing, wind', ἀήσυρος 'windy, aerial' = Old Indic vātula 'windy' (also 'mad; crack-brained; demented; mind-boggling; insane; crazy; unbalanced'; in addition also perhaps gr. ἀήσυλος 'sacrilegious, outrageous, wanton, wicked' after Brugmann BSGW. 1901, 94; in spite of αἴσυλος ds. not after Bechtel Lexil. 15 to Old Indic yātu-h 'spook, ghost');

Latin vannus 'winnowing-fan' (from **uat-nó-s*, compare the Demin. vatillum originally 'a small winnowing shovel'; from Latin comes Old High German wanna, Old English fann 'winnowing-fan', also Modern High German Wanne); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Old Norse vēl, vēli 'whisk, tail' (about syncopated **vepla-* from **vaþila-*), Old High German wedil ds.; Old High German wadal 'tail, fan', Adj. 'wandering, fickle, beggar', wadalōn 'sweep in a curve, rove' (proto Germanic **waþla-*, Indo Germanic **u̯ə-tlo-*), Old English waþol 'wandering', wædla 'beggar, poor', wædl 'poverty', wædlian 'beg, be poor' (proto Germanic **wēþla-*), next to which Old High German wallōn 'wander, gad about, pilgrimages', Old English weallian 'wander; roam; travel; journey; drift; float; rove; stray; migrate; hike; walk; ramble; tramp' (from **wādġlō-ja-n*); Old High German wāla 'fans' (from **wē-pla-* or **wē-la-*, see above); Lithuanian vėtra 'storm', thunder-storm', Old Church Slavic větrъ 'air, blow', Old Prussian wetro 'blow'; Lithuanian vėtyti 'winnow, fan'.

About Old Indic úpa-vājayati 'make (fire / embers) blaze by blowing air onto (it / them)' (composed from Pāṇini as Kaus. to vā-) see Wackernagel KZ. 43, 292.

Maybe alb. vatra, vatër 'hearth, (place where one blows the fire)'

Maybe here gr. ἄεθλος (see ayē-11 'strive oneself') as 'gasp, pant, wheeze'?

References: WP. I 220 f., Feist 565 a, Trautmann 345, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 680.

Page(s): 81-84

---

Root / lemma: ay(e)-9, ayed-, ayer- (*h<sub>2</sub>ah<sub>1</sub>ye > aye-)

Meaning: to flow, to wet; water, etc.

Note:

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic *h<sub>2</sub>ye- > gw- > g-.

Material: a) (*h<sub>2</sub>ayent-) ay/e/-, ayent-:

Note:

The following mutations have taken place: Root: ak<sup>w</sup>ā- > ak<sub>y</sub>e/-, ak<sub>y</sub>ent- > ay/e/-, ayent-:

Hisp. FIN (*h<sub>2</sub>avo-) Avo[s] > span. Ave, PN A[v]jo-briga; gall. FIN Aveda > prov. Avèze (Gard), Avisio portus (Alpes-mar.);

Old Indic (*h<sub>2</sub>avo-) avatā-h m. 'fountains, wells' (*ay<sub>ṇ</sub>tos), avaṭā-h 'cistern, tank' (with prakrit. ṭ from ṭ), Italian FIN Avēns in Sabine land (therefrom Aventīnus m. hill of Rome?), Aventia (Etrurian), gall. Aventia, spring nymph of Aventicum > French Avenches (Schweiz), numerous FIN Avantia (*ay<sub>ṇ</sub>tīā) > French Avance, La Vence, abrit. **Avantīsā* > cymr. Ewenni; (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Lithuanian FIN Avantā, Latvian avuōts (*ay<sub>ṇ</sub>tos) 'sources, wellspring, spring'.

b) (*h<sub>2</sub>ayed-) ayed-, aud-, ūd-:

Note:

The zero grade of Root / lemma: ak<sup>w</sup>ā- 'water, river' has been suffixed in nasalized -(n)dor, -(n)tor. *(a)k<sub>y</sub>e/-, *(a)k<sub>y</sub>entor, *(a)h<sub>y</sub>entor > *(a)h<sub>y</sub>ed-, (a)yed-, (a)ud-, ūd-:

heteroklit. r/n-stem yédōr, yódōr (Nom. Sg.), udén(i) (Lok.Sg.), udnés (Gen. Sg.) 'water', compare J. Schmidt Pl. 172 ff., Pedersen KZ. 32, 240 ff., Bartholomae PBrB. 41, 273.

Old Indic ōdatī 'the soaking, the flowing', ōdman-n. 'the waves, floods', ōda-ná-m 'mash boiled in milk', Avestan (*h<sub>2</sub>ayod-) aoḍa m. 'wellspring, fount'.

Old Indic (**h<sub>2</sub>ayunatti-*) unátti (**u-n-ed-ti*), 3. Pl. undáti `soaked, moistened`; Avestan vaiði- f. `water run, irrigation canal`.

Old Indic udán(i) Lok., udnáḥ Gen., udā Nom. Akk. Pl. `water` (Nom. Akk. Sg. udaká-m); from r-stem derived samudra-ḥ `sea`, anudra-ḥ `waterless` (= gr. ἄνυδρος);

(**h<sub>2</sub>aydro-*) udro-s `water animal`: Old Indic udrá-ḥ `a water animal` = Avestan udra- m. `otter` (= gr. ὕδρος, Old High German etc ottar, compare also Latin lutra and with ū Lithuanian údra, Old Church Slavic vydra ds.);

Maybe nasalized alb. (**lutra*) lundra `otter` a Latin loanword from -(e)s-stem Old Indic (**hutsa-*) utsa-ḥ `spring, well`, compare Old Irish (**hudesḱio-*) uisce (**udesḱio-*) `water`;

Note:

The followings have taken place: zero grade in arm: (a)k<sub>u</sub>ent- > g<sub>u</sub>et, zero grade in Slavic (a)h<sub>u</sub>eda- > voda, zero grade in Phrygian (a)k<sub>u</sub>edu > βεδυ [common Greek g<sup>w</sup> > b, k<sup>w</sup> > p]:

Armenian (**g<sub>w</sub>et*) get `river` (basic form **ḡedō*, Sandhi form to ḡedōr, compare under Slavic voda, it corresponds also Phrygian βεδυ `water`, i.e. **vedū* from **ḡedō*, Kretschmer Einl. 225).

Maybe alb. (**g<sub>u</sub>et*) det `sea`: Armenian get `river` common alb. g<sub>u</sub>- > d-.

Note:

Maybe Phrygian βεδυ `water`: nasalized Illyrian Bindus `water god` [common Illyrian g<sub>u</sub>- > b-].

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-; gw- > b- Illyrian Greek.

Gr. ὕδωρ, ὕδατος (**uδ-ḡ-τος*) `water` (with metr. elongation ὕδωρ); from r-stem derived ἄνυδρος `waterless`, ὕδρος, ὕδρᾱ `water snake`, ἐνυδρίς f. `otter`, ὑδαρίς, ὑδαρός `watery` (ὑδαλέος ds. with suffix exchange; similarly ὕλλος `water snake, ichneumon`: ὕδρος = lak. ἐλλᾱ: ἔδρα), ὕδρερος `dropsy`, ὕδρία `water bucket` (: Latin utē); from n-stem (compare ὕδνης `watery`) derived Ὠλοσύδνη actually `sea wave, wave, the billow` (?), epithet of Amphitrite and Thetis (Johansson Beitr. 117; from also ὕδ<sup>v</sup>ov `truffle' as `juicy'??), as well as probably Καλ-υδών, -ύδ<sup>v</sup>α (-ύμνā), Καλύδ<sup>v</sup>νιοι, -ύμ<sup>v</sup>νιοι (see Boisacq 998 a)?

es-stem τὸ ὕδoς `water' is only late poet. Nom. Akk. to Dat. ὕδει.

Maked. PN Ἐδεσσ<sup>a</sup> from **vedesjā*, Kretschmer RIEt Balc. 1, 383. common gr.-Illyrian - ks- > -ss-.

Alb. ujë `water' (after Pedersen KZ. 34, 286; 36, 339 not from **ud-njā*, but from **ud-*; or, nevertheless, from **udō*?).

The shift -dn- > nj > j of possibly alb. (**udna-h*) ujë, ujna Pl. `water' has also been attested in alb. shtynj, shtyj `poke, push' (**stud<sup>nj</sup>iō*); see Root / lemma: (s)teu-1: `to push, hit'

Luwian wida- `watery'

D-LPI ú-i-da-an-za. 45 ii 6.

See Watkins, Flex. u. Wortbild. 376. Cf. perh. witam[ ] at KBo XXIX 37,4. Contra Starke, StBoT 31.567f, witi, °witaš and witaz are Hittite!

Latin unda, f. `water, fluid, esp. a wave; fig. a stream of people' (with n- infix from the present; compare Old Prussian (**gwundan*) wundan n., unds m. `water' and Old Indic unátti, undáti as well as Lithuanian (**gwanduō*) vanduō, -eñs, vánderi, žem. unduo, Latvian ūde<sup>ns</sup> m. f. `water', and in addition Schulze EN. 243, Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 3, 281, 283, Trautmann 337); uter, utris `hose, tube' (**udri-s* `water hose', compare gr. ὕδpια), lutra `otter' (l- after lutum `mud, mire, dirt; clay, puddle').

Umbrian utur n. `water' (= ὕδωp), Abl. une (**ud<sup>n</sup>*).

Old Irish u(i)sce `water' (**udes<sup>kjo</sup>-*), odar `brown' (**udaros*), coin fodorne `otters' (`water dogs').

Note:

Old Irish u(i)sce: alb. (**u-i*) uj-ë, uj-i `water': Luwian ú-i-ta-an-ta-al-li-an `of the water(s)' genitive intervocalic -l- vowel.

Gothic watō (n-stem), Dat. Pl. watnam `water'; Old Swedish vætur (æ = Indo Germanic e? rather umlaut from Germanic a in the -in- case, see Bartolomae aaO.), Old Icelandic vatn n. (takes o-stem, compare Gothic Dat. Pl. watnam), vatr, nord. sea name Vättern; Old High German wazzar, Old Saxon watar, Old English wæter (**uodōn*) 'water';

Old Icelandic otr, Old English otor, Old High German ottar m. 'otter, water snake', in addition FIN Otter, old Uterna, with nasalization within the word (compare above to Latin unda) probably Gothic wintrus, Old Icelandic vetr, Old English winter, Old High German Old Saxon wintar 'winter' as 'wet season' (Lidén PBrB. 15, 522, Falk-Torp under vinter, not better to Irish find 'white', see below syeid 'shine'); perhaps to Wasser also Old High German Old English wascan, Old Icelandic vaska, Modern High German waschen, wusch (**wat-sk-*); with lengthened grade ē of the root shaped from Old Icelandic vātr, Old English wæ̃t, engl. wet 'wet, soaked'.

In Germanic also with þ Old English waðum m. 'wave', zero grade Old Icelandic unnr, uðr, Pl. unnir 'wave', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Saxon ūthia, ūđia, Old English ȝð, Old High German undea 'wave, billow, flood', like from a root variant **uet-*, however, it is found nowhere else; Johansson Beitr. 117 f. sees therein the t of the type Old Indic yakṛ-t.

Lithuanian vanduõ etc (see above); Lithuanian údra, Old Prussian udro f., East Lithuanian údras, Latvian ūdri m. 'otter'; Old Church Slavic vydra, Serbo-Croatian vīdra (Balto Slavic ūd-: Lithuanian vánd-eni; see finally Trautmann 334 m. Lithuanian; to ū compare Pedersen Ét. Lithuanian 54 f.);

Maybe alb. vidra 'sea otter' Slavic loanword.

Old Church Slavic voda 'water' (become Fem. because of the ending -a, here for Indo Germanic -ǵ[ʰ]); lengthened grade Old Church Slavic vědro 'κάδος, σταμνος' (with ύδρια attuning well in the meaning, s. Meillet MSL. 14, 342, Trautmann 337);

Hittite wa-a-tar (**wātar*) 'water', Gen. úe-te-na-aś (e-grade as Phrygian βεδυ, a of Nom. from e?). Nom. Pl. ú-wi-ta-ar, with unsettled vocalism in spite of Pedersen Hittite 167.

Note:

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals as in: Hittite huek-, huk- 'adjure': Tocharian A wak f., B wek 'voice' common Armenian Celtic Illyrian **hue-* > gw- > g- [see Root / lemma: uekʷ-: to speak].

Therefore the original Hittite root was as in Genitive Gen. úe-te-na-aś 'of water' (**h<sub>2</sub>ue-te-na-aś*) which became the zero grade wa-a-tar (**hwātar*) 'water'.

c) (**h<sub>2</sub>auer-*) auer- 'water, rain, river' (uēr- : ūr-; to the ablaut Persson Beitr. 604, Anm. 2).

1. uēr-, uer-: Old Indic vār, vārī n. 'water', Avestan vār n. 'rain' (with themat. inflection iran. Avestan vār 'to rain', med. 'allow to rain, let rain'), Old Indic vārī f. 'water', Avestan vairi- m. 'sea';

Truncated Tocharian (**hwātar*) A wār, B war 'water';

Armenian gayr 'marsh, mud' (**u<sub>2</sub>erjo-*);

Note:

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic Illyrian **hue-* > gw- > g-.

gr. perhaps in ἀρύω 'scoops', if *Fāp ũ[σ]ω (see **aus-* 'scoop, draw water, ladle');

alb. (after Jokl SBAk. Wien 168 I 30, 89, 97) (**gvrëndē*) vrëndē 'light rain' (nt- participle);

Note:

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic Illyrian **hue-* > gw- > g-.

alb. hur-dë, hurdhë 'pond, tank, marsh' (**ūr-*), shurë 'urine', shurrë (**suma*) (postverbal) f. 'urine' (prefix sh from Latin ex or Indo Germanic **sm̥* + ūr-në; or + gr. οὐρέω?);

Note:

Albanian preserved the old laryngeal h- > s- like satem languages alb. (**sūrīna*) shurra 'urine': Hittite šehur 'urine': Latin ūrīna 'urine'. But in alb. hur-dë 'pond, tank, marsh' alb. preserved h- laryngeal like centum languages.

cymr. gwer m. 'suet, sebaceous, tallow';

Note:

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic Illyrian **h<sub>2</sub>ue-* > gw- > g-.

Maybe zero grade (**h<sub>2</sub>auer-* > **h<sub>2</sub>uer-*) in cymr. gwer m. 'suet, sebaceous, tallow':
Armenian ջուր (ğour) 'water': alb. (**ur*) ujë 'water'.

Old Norse vari m. 'liquid, water'.

2. (**h<sub>2</sub>auer-*) ūr-, auer-: Latin ūrīna 'urine' (in which meaning influenced by οὐρ?), ūrīnor, -ārī 'to dive', ūrīnātor 'a diver';

Maybe alb. urela 'water-pit': Basque ura 'water'.

Old Norse ūr 'fine rain', ȳra 'to rain subtly', ūrigr 'dew-covered', Old English ūrig ds.;

perhaps Old Norse ūr, Gen. ūrar (u-stem), Old English ūr, Old High German ūro, ūrohso, Latin loanword ūrus 'a kind of wild ox', Swedish Dialectal ure 'randy bull, a bull in heat' ('one that scatters, drops, one that inseminates' as Old Indic vr̥ṣan- etc, see below);

root form (**h<sub>2</sub>auer-*) auer- in thrak. FIN Αὔραç, gr. (Persson IF. 35, 199) *αὔρα 'water, spring' in ἄνραπος 'without water, of brooks' (about gr. θησαυρός and Κένταυρος compare Schwyzler Gr.Gr. I 267, 444);

in FIN: Italian Met-aurus (Bruttium), Pisaurus (Umbrien), gall. Avara > French Avre, Aura
> French Eure, Aurana > Modern High German Ohm (Württemberg.), Ar-auris > French
Hérault, Vi-aurus > French Le Viaur, Old Prussian Aure, Lithuanian Aur-ytė, Old Norse aurigr 'wet', aurr 'wet, water', FIN Aura, Old English ēar 'sea';

Old Prussian wurs (**ūras*) 'pond, pool', iūrin Akk. Sg., iuriay Pl. fem. 'sea', Old Latvian jūri- m., Latvian jūra, Lithuanian jūrės, jūrios Pl. fem. 'sea, esp. the Baltic Sea' (see above to Latin ūrīna; j- presumably suggestion after J. Schmidt PL 204);

Lithuanian jaurūs 'swampy, marshy', jaura, jauras 'marshy place, marshy ground, swamp bottom' from **e<sub>2</sub>ur-* (see Berneker IF. 10, 162, Trautmann 335 m. Lithuanian).

3. Verbum: Lithuanian vérdū, virti 'bubble, surge, cook', versmė 'wellspring', vỹrius 'whirlpools', atvyrs 'counterstream on the shore', Latvian veŗdu, vĩŗt 'soak, bubble, boil, cook', atvars 'whirl',

Old Church Slavic vbŕjŕ, vbŕěti 'stream, bubble, surge, boil, cook', virb 'whirlpool', izvorb 'wellspring (bubbling water)', wherefore with from 'cook' developed meaning 'heat', Latvian wersme 'glow', Old Church Slavic varb 'heat'.

About possible affiliation of **uer/nā* 'alder' see there.

4. extension (**h<sub>2</sub>auer-*) uer-s- 'rain, dew': Old Indic varśá- n. 'rain, rainy season, year' (varśati 'it is raining'), gr. οὐρον 'urine'; ἔρση, ἔέρση 'dew', Ionian Attic οὐρέω 'urinates' (kausativ **uorseiō*, F- proved by the augmentation εούρησα), οὐρία 'a water bird';

Middle Irish (**gwrass*) frass 'rain' is older fross (uros-tā, in spite of Pedersen KG. I 44); Hittite wa-ar-ša-aš 'rain(?)' seems an Old Indic loanword.

Maybe alb. (**varśá-*) vesa 'dew': (**heverse*) ἔέρση 'dew'.

(**h<sub>2</sub>aursen-*) ursen- 'discharging semen = virile', Old Indic vrśán- 'virile', m. 'manikin, man, stallion'.

thereof derived Avestan varəšna- 'virile', Old Indic vrśa-, vrśabhá- 'bull', vrśni- 'virile', m. 'Aries, ram' (= Avestan varəšni- ds.), vrśana- m. 'testicles';

Specht (Dekl. 156) places here (from Germanic **gwrai-njan-*) without s-extension Old High German reineo 'stallion', Old Saxon wrēnio ds., Old English wræne 'horny, lustful'; Old High German wrenno 'stallion' is back-borrowed from Middle Latin (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

uersē/i-: Latin (**gverrēs*) verrēs, -is 'boar', Lithuanian veřšis 'calf', Latvian versis 'ox, rother, cattle'.

References: compare in general Persson root extension 47, 85 f., Johansson KZ. 30, 418, IF. 2, 60 ff., Persson Beitr. 604 f., 845 (also against connection of uers- with ers-). About Finnish vesi, stem vete 'water' s. Mikkola Mél. van Ginneken 137.

WP. I 252 f., 268 f., WH. I 81 f., Pokorny Urillyrier 93, 105, 159, 169, Specht Dekl. 18 f., Trautmann 20, 334, 337, Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 519, 548, 838.

Page(s): 78-81

---

Root / lemma: auer- (**h<sub>2</sub>auh<sub>1</sub>es-*)

Meaning: to shine; gold, dawn, aurora etc.

Note:

Root / lemma: ayes- : to shine; gold, dawn, aurora etc. derived from Root / lemma: aug- : to glance, see.

Material:

Old Indic uṣāḥ f. Akk. uṣāsam, Gen. uṣāsah 'aurora', Avestan uṣā, Akk. uṣāḥam, Gen. uṣāḥō ds. (uṣas-tara- 'eastern'), next to which Old Indic Gen. Sg., Akk. Pl. uṣāḥ, Avestan Lok. Sg. uši-ḥā, s. **demā-* 'to build'] either from a root noun **us-*, or as **us-s-* to s-stem; Old Indic ucchāti = Avestan usaiti (**us-skéti*) 'shines in (from the morning)', Perf. Old Indic uvāsa, Aor. avasran 'they shone'; uṣar-, usr- 'dawn, aurora, early morning, prime of the day, red sky', uṣar-búdh- 'early awake', usrá- 'early morning, reddish', also figurative 'cow', m. 'bull' (Frisk, nominal formation 3);

yes-, yōs- in Old Indic vasar-hán- 'striking in the morning, early morning', vāsará- 'early morning', m. 'day' (compare in addition also the related root under particular catchword ṛn-stem **yes-r-*, **yes-n-* 'springtide, spring');

gr. hom. ἠώς (āusōs), Gen. ἠοῦς (ḥóos), Attic (with accent innovation) ἔως, Doric ἄως, ἁFώρ, changing through ablaut Aeolic αὔως 'aurora' (proto gr. αὔ[σ]ώς), Boeotian ἄα and Αἰαίη (**āaiē*);

ἄγχαυρος 'near the morning', αὔριον 'tomorrow' (**ausp-); hom. ἦε Φοῖβε 'radiative morning'; ἦι-κάνος 'rooster, cock' (*āusí-* 'singing in the morning early morning');

Latin aurōra f. 'aurora, the morning, dawn, daybreak' (for **āusōsā*); auster (**aus-t(e)ro-* = Germanic **austra-*) 'souther, southerly wind', austrālis 'southern'; presumably also aurum, sabin. ausom 'gold' as '*reddish'; to Lithuanian áuksas (k- unexplained), Old Lithuanian ausas, Old Prussian ausis 'gold';

Maybe Italian oro : Spanish oro : French or : Bresciano or : Breton aour : Calabrese oru : Catalan or : Corsican oru : alb. (**oru*) ari 'gold' [similar to alb. ahu, ahi 'beech'] : Papiamentu oro : Reggiano or : Irish ór : Lombardo Occidentale òr : Sardinian Campidanese oru : Sardinian Logudoresu oro : Scots Gaelic òr : Valencian or : Venetian : oro : Galician ouro : [Hungarian arany : Basque urre loanwords] : Ligurian ouru : Manx oar : Occitan aur : Portuguese ouro : Romagnolo àur : Romanian aur : Romansh aur : Welsh aur 'gold'.

perhaps Tocharian A (**gwäs*) wäs 'gold', but compare Armenian os-ki 'gold', Finnish vas-ki 'copper'; perhaps Vesuvius (differently under eus- 'burn');

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-; Tocharian gw- > w-.

(**gwawr*) Middle Irish fāir `sunrise', cymr. gwawr `aurora', bret. gwere laouen `morning star' (**uōsri-*, Pedersen KG. I 82);

Germanic **austrō* in Old English ēastre `spring goddess', ēastron Pl. `Easter' = Old High German ōst(a)ra, ōstarūn, against it with Indo Germanic -(e)ro-, Old High German ōstar `eastern' and Adv. `the after east', Modern High German Öster-reich, Old Norse austr n. `East' and Adv. `eastwards',

Old English compounds ēasterra `more to the east', in addition Ostrogothae, older Austrogoti as `the eastern Goths'; Old High German ōstan `from the east', Old English ēaste f. `East', Old Norse austan `from the east'; **āusōs* in Old English ēarendel `morning star', Old High German MN Orendil, Lithuanian aušrà f. `aurora', aūšta `day is breaking', Latvian āust ds.; Lithuanian auštrinis (vėjas) `north-east wind', Latvian āustra f. `daybreak', āustrums m. `East'; in ablaut žem. apýūšriai m. `daybreak';

Old Church Slavic za ustra `τὸ πρωῒ' (about utro, jutro `morning' from **aus(t)ro-* compare Trautmann 19, Mikkola Ursl. Gr. 179 and Berneker 462 f. m. Lithuanian, wherefore Brückner KZ. 46, 212, auspoln. ūšcić `shine' reconstructs Slavic **usto* `lustre, shine'), ustrъ `relating to summer' (see Pedersen IF. 5, 69).

compare to ablaut J. Schmidt KZ. 25, 23 f., Hirt Abl. 134, 147, Reichelt KZ. 39, 69.

References: WP. I 26 f., WH. I 86, 87 f., Trautmann 19, Specht Dekl. 10, Wackernagel-Debrunner Old Indic Gr. III 213 and 281 f., Kretschmer Gl. 27, 231; Leumann IF. 58, 121 ff., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 349, 514, 557.

Page(s): 86-87

---

Root / lemma: auē-11 (ue-d(h)-?)

Meaning: to try, force

Material: Solmsen Unters. 267 f. connects Old Indic vāyati, -tē `gets tired, is exhausted, tires' with gr. ἄεθλος `drudgery, contest' (*ἄFε-θλος), ἄεθλον, ἄθλον `fight, cut-throat price, battlefield', whereby ἄ- assumes either suggestion vowel is or a more full root form **auē-* besides **uē-*. With it at most compatibly is Zupitzas KZ. 37, 405 comparing the gr. words with Middle Irish feidm` 'effort', fedil` 'persistent, persevering', Old Irish ni fedligedar` '(he, she) does not stay' (whereby formal measure relationship would be comparable as **mē-* ' (apportion by measure), allot, (*cut) ' : **med-*, **uē-* 'blow' : Old Norse veðr, Modern High German Wetter), wherefore Pedersen KG. I 110, cymr. gweddil` 'remnant, leavings' (out of it Middle Irish fuidell) places; here Tocharian B waimene` 'difficult, hard'?

However, the arrangement is quite unsafe in all its parts. For vāyati` 'exert itself' as basic meaning in would put the question through the meaning 'dry up' from vāna` 'dry', upa-vāyati` 'be extinguished by drying up, dry up', upavāta- 'become dry'; and in ἄεθλος takes turns most of course - ἄλο-as suffixal, while the dental Irish words root-like d or d<sup>h</sup> is, thus at best surely exists distant relationship.

References: WP. I 223, Van Windekens Lexique 149.

Page(s): 84

Root / lemma: auig-

Meaning: a kind of grass, oat

Material: Latin avēna` 'oats or wild oats, made only as a cattle feed; hence oaten pipe, shepherd's pipe; in gen., any stalk, straw' (presumably after arēna, terrēnus to occurred suffix exchange for **avīna* from **auig-snā*);

Lithuanian avīžā, Latvian (Pl. f.) āuzas, Old Prussian wyse` 'oat', Old Church Slavic овѣсѣ, russ. овѣсѣ` 'oat' (s from z probably because it occurs at the end of the word in conservative Nom. **овѣзѣ*), but αἰγίλωψ `a wild grass kind, straw, stalk or likewise' barely as *αἰγίλωψ here.

After Specht Dekl. 298 would be assumed rather Indo Germanic **au-* besides **aues-* (**auesnā* > avēna).

References: WP. I 24, WH. I 81, Trautmann 21.

Page(s): 88

Root / lemma: au-5, auē-

Meaning: to weave

Material: Unextended in: Old Indic ótum, ótavē (from der set-basis vātavē) 'to weave', Perf. ūvuḥ, participle ūtá-, vý-uta- (also das present váyati` 'weaves' can be after Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 94 an -ēio-present v-áyati, so that Fut. vayišyati, vāya- `weaver' only in addition one would be new-created), ótu- m. `woof of fabric', vāna- n. `the weaving'.

To the existence of a heavy base is to be stuck against Wackernagel because of vātave `weave, twist', vānam (W. must understand ūtá- as neologism to váyate after hūtá- : hváyate).

d<sup>h</sup>-extension 1. *au-*d<sup>h</sup>-, 2. *(a)u-ē*d<sup>h</sup>-, *u-*d<sup>h</sup>-:

1. Armenian z-aud `strap' (z-audem `connects, ties together'), y-aud `strap, limb, joint' (y-audem `join together'), aud `shoe';

Lithuanian áudžiaus, áudžiu, áusti `to weave', ataudaĩ Pl. `woof', ūdis `a unique fabric, the weaving', ūdas `eel line' (vowel as with áugu `increase, sprout': ūgỹs `annual growth');

russ. uslo `fabric' (uzda `bridle'?), see below eu- `pull'. It goes back to the image of the weaving or spinning and that of her assigned fate goddess:

aud<sup>h</sup>- `luck, possession, wealth': Illyrian PN Audarus, Audata (: Germanic Audo-berht), paion. PN Audō-leōn (Krahe IF. 58, 132), cymr. udd (**audos*) `master, mister' (different Lewis-Pedersen 14), bret. ozac'h `landlord' (**udakkos*), Loth RC. 41, 234; Old Saxon ōdan, Old English ēaden, Old Norse auðinn `granted from the destiny, grants', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Norse auðna `destiny, luck', auðr `wealth', Old English ēad `possession, wealth, luck', Old Saxon ōd `possession, prosperity', Old High German al-ōd `full and free possession' (Middle Latin allodium), Middle High German klein-ōt `jewel', Gothic audahafts `makes happy', audags `blessed, fortunate', Old High German ōtac `happy, rich'.

2. Old Norse vāðf. `fabric, piece, stuff, as comes ready of the loom, drag net', Pl. vāðir `gowns, clothes', Old English wæð (**wēðī-*) f. `clothes, rope', Old Saxon wād `clothes', Old High German wāt, Gen.-i `clothes, armament';

Old Norse vaðr m. `rope, string, fishing line', Swedish Norwegian vað n. `drag net' (Old Norse vǫztf. `spot for fishing at sea from **waða-stō*), Middle High German wate, wade f. `drag net, trawl net', Middle High German spinne-wet `spinning web'.

References: WP. I 16 f., WH. I 88.

See also: Maybe here ueb<sup>h</sup>- `to weave', ued<sup>h</sup>- `bind, connect' (wherefore as nasal form probably uend<sup>h</sup>-), see there; also perhaps uei- `twist, spin', (a)ueg- `to weave etc' (uer- `twist, spin'?), yes- `wrap'.

---

Root / lemma: ay-6, ayed-

Meaning: to speak

Material: Gr. hom. αὔε Imperf. ` (he, she) called (out), shouted ', ἄβα τροχὸς ἢ βοή Hes.

Old Indic vádati ` lets the voice resound, talks ' (Perf. ūdīmá, participle uditá), vádanam ` the sounds, talking, mouth ', úditī-h f. `speech', vādayati ` allows to sound, plays (a music instrument), allows to speak ', vāditram ` musical instrument, music ', vāda- ` sound letting, m. sound, call, sound, statement, battle of words '; in the lengthened grade and the meaning compares itself in next Old Church Slavic vada ` calumny ', vaditi ` accuse '; nasalized Old Indic vandate, -tī ` praises, praises, greets with respect ', vandanam ` praise, price, reverential greeting ', vandāru- ` appreciative, praising ' ; see still Uhlenbeck Old Indic Wb. under vallakī ` a kind of sounds ', vallabha-h ` minion, favourite '.

Gr. γοῶν [i.e. Foḍān] κλαίειν Hes., Ὠσι(F)οδος `qui ἱησι Fόδαν, i. e. αἰοδήν`, γοδόν [i.e. Foḍón] γόητα Hes.;

zero grade údēw, ūdō (brought out somewhere from the Alexandrines) ` sings, glorifies ', ūdē φήμη, ūdē (Theognostos καν. 19, 26) (ūdē ` ballad, song ' rather to the wedding call ūdē: other interpretations verz. Walde LEWb.<sup>2</sup> under suō, Boisacq s. v., again different Risch 50).

Lithuanian vadinù, vadinti ` shout, call '.

ay-ē-d- in ā(F)hḍwān ` nightingale ' (ābhḍōna āhḍōna Hes., Aeolic āhḍwān and āhḍw, the zero grade āhḍ- in āhḍh ` sound, voice, language ' (Aeolic āhḍw Sappho), āhḍāw ` shouts, speaks ', āhḍhēis, Doric āhḍāēis ` speaking with human voice '.

ay-ei-d- in ā(F)hḍw (Attic hḍw) ` sings ', ā(F)hḍh (Attic hḍh) ` song ', āhḍōs ` singer ', āhḍimos ` singer '. Differently Wackernagel KZ. 29, 151 f.

Tocharian B watk-, AB wātk-, B yaitk- ` command, order '.

References: WP. I 251 f., Specht KZ. 59, 119 f., Van Windekens Lexique 155.

Page(s): 76-77

---

Root / lemma: au-7, auē-, auēi-

Meaning: to like; to help, *desire

Material: Old Indic ávati ` desires, favors above others, promotes, patronizes ' = Avestan avaiti ` provides, helps ' = Old Irish con-ōi ` protects '; Messapic αFivaμi ` I bid (s.o.) farewell? (to wish s.o. to be strong to be healthy) ';

Old Indic avas- n. ` satisfaction, favour, assistance ' = Avestan avaḥ- n. `help' (in addition probably Old Indic avasá- n. `nourishment'), compare gr. ἐν-ηής `favorable' (**εν-ᾱFής*); Old Indic ōman- ` favorable, helping ' = Avestan aoman- ` supporting, helping ', Old Indic ōmán- m. ` favour, assistance, protection ', ōma-ḥ ` comrade '; Old Indic avitár- m. ` patron, sponsor, patronizer ' (from which 2-syllable root form as Fut. avišyati, Perf. 2. Sg. āvitha, as well as participle ūtá- and:) ūtí-ḥ ` delivery, help';

Armenian aviun ` violent desire, longing; esp. irrational whim, caprice, or immoderate passion, lust ' (Petersson Et. Misz. 8);

gr. -ᾱFovες in 2. part of Greek family names ( Ίάονες)? compare Kretschmer Gl. 18, 232 f., different Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 487, 3; 521; ᾱrās (Theokrit) ` friend, lover ';

Latin aveō, -ēre (basis auē[ɪ]- as in preceding) ` be eager, have a wild desire, long for, desire ', avidus ` desiring, longing for; esp. greedy for money, avaricious ' (therefrom audeō, -ēre ` to be daring; to dare, venture, bring oneself to '), avārus ` covetous, greedy ';

Old Irish con ōi ` protects', cymr. ewylllys ` favor, wish desire', corn. awell ` desire', abr. a-iul `unaided, wantonly, voluntarily', Middle Breton eoull, youll ` favor, wish desire ', as a name component in gall. Avi-cantus (=abret. Eucant), acymr. Euilaun, also in Old High German names as Awileib, Awo; compare Gothic awi-liuþ `χαρίς, εὐχαριστία'; mcymr. ri-m-aw ` he grants to me ', cymr. ad-aw (with negat. at-) ` leave ', abret. dí-eteguetic `abandoned, forsaken, deserted, destitute' (**di-at-aw-etic*).

Falk-Torp 1407 adds also an: Old High German ōdi, Old Saxon ōthi, Old English Adj. īeþe, Adv. ēaþe ` easy, comfortable ', Old High German ōdmuoti, Old Saxon ōthmōdi `modest', Old English ēaþmōd `modest', Old Norse auðmjūkr ` to move easily, willing, modest ', auðkendr ` to recognize easily '; basic meaning is ` willing ', from which ` to make easy '; formal Germanic to-participle-formation to awi- (example Germanic auþia- ` deserted; flat; waste; empty; abandoned; blasted; desolate; bleak; grey; gray; barren; stuffy; dull; tedious '?). Rather uncertainly.

If also Old Lithuanian auštis 'refresh oneself', ataušimas 'refreshment', Latvian ataust 'recover, refresh', ataūsēt 'invigorate, refresh' are used, the zero grade lies to them **aus* - of in Old Indic avas-, gr. ἐν-ήρης present as a basis es-stem. Or = Lithuanian áušti 'get cold', áušyti 'cool'?

Tocharian B au-lāre, A olar 'comrade'; as dubious B omaute 'longing', w-ār(īn)- 'crave, long for', A w-aste 'protection' with angebl. zero grade the root rather here wa- 'give', A 1.Sg. wsā (Pedersen Tochar. 186).

References: WP. I 19, WH. I 81, 850, Van Windekens Lexique 9, 79, 153, 157.

Page(s): 77-78

---

Root / lemma: ayo-s (**oḥuḥḥaš*)

Meaning: grandfather

Note:

The original root was Hittite ḥu-uḥ-ḥa-aš (ḥuḥḥaš) 'grandfather' branched into Root / lemma: ayo-s: grandfather in centum languages and Root / lemma: sūs-: parent : alb. (**ḥuḥḥaš*) gijsh 'grandfather' in satem languages; old laryngeal centum ḥ- > a-, e-: satem ḥ- > s-;

Material:

Armenian hav 'grandfather' could go back also to **pap-*, would be ayos only north - west Indo Germanic On account of here Hittite (**houḥḥaš*) ḥu-uḥ-ḥa-aš (ḥuḥḥaš) 'grandfather'? Lycian **χuga* 'grandfather on the maternal side' appears to speak rather of Asia Minor origin.

Note: common Hittite ḥou- > ḥu- (vowel -o was absent in Hittite).

Armenian hav, Gen. havu 'grandfather', Latin avus 'grandfather; poet., in gen., an ancestor'; fem. Latin avia 'grandmother' (see finally Leumann-Stolz<sup>5</sup> 204), dubious gr. αἰα as 'primordial mother earth' (compare Brugmann IF. 29, 206 ff., Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 473; Latin also -ḥu- > -v-.

different Jacobsohn Phil. 67, 484 f., Kretschmer Glotta 5. 307); avitus 'of a grandfather, ancestral' is probably shaped after maritus, older i-stem in Lithuanian avýnas 'brother of the mother'; differently Jacobsohn Phil. 67, 484 f., innkeepers Glotta 5. 307); avitus 'large-scale fatherly, angestammt' is formed probably after maritus, old i-stem in Lithuanian avýnas 'brother of the mother';

*-jo-*derivative Old Prussian awis 'uncle', Old Church Slavic **ujь ds.* (ujka 'aunt'), Old Irish (h)áue 'a grandson, a nephew', Middle Irish ó(a), úa ds.; *en-*stem: Gothic awō 'grandmother', Old Norse afi 'grandfather', āi 'great-grandfather', Old English ēam, Old Frisian ēm, Old High German ōheim, Modern High German Oheim, Ohm (after Osthoff PBrB. 13, 447 **awun-haimaz* 'the one who lived in grandfather's home'), after R. Much Germanic 205 from **auhaim* < Indo Germanic **ayos koimos* 'dear grandfather', compare cymr. tad cu [**tatos koimos*] 'grandfather'), Latin avunculus 'brother of the mother' (probably caressing diminutive an **avō, -ōnis*); cymr. ewythr, acorn. eutor, bret. eontr 'uncle' (**ayen-tro-*).

The stem called originally the grandparents on the maternal side, become through the words for 'uncle or aunt on the maternal side' probably, s. Hermann GGN. 1918, 214 f.

Note:

Latin avus; avos > Italian avolo, Galician avó, Catalan avi, Portuguese avô; vovô, Spanish abuelo, French aïeul, Albanian (**güelus*) gjysh, Asturian güelu, Caló tesquelo, Judeo-Spanish agüelo, Leonese guelu; güelu, Sardinian (Limba Sarda Unificada) (**yayu*) giaggiu, Sardinian Campidanese abu; avu; ayayu, Sardinian Logudoresu avu; abu; yayu, Valencian yayo 'grandfather'

Clear influence of a substrate Anatolian Hittite (**houḫḫaš*) ḫu-uḫ-ḫa-aš (ḫuḫḫaš) 'grandfather'? Lycian **χuga* 'grandfather on the maternal side'.

A early borrowing from Estonian (**avana-isa*) vana-isa > Finnish iso-isä, Hungarian (**vana-gy-papa*) nagy-apa; nagy-papa 'grandfather'.

References: WP. I 20 f., WH. 88 f., 851, Pedersen Lycian under Hittite 25 f., Risch Mus. Helv. 1, 118 ff.

Page(s): 89

Root / lemma: ābel-, ābōl-, abel-

Meaning: apple

Note:

Root / lemma: ābel-, ābōl-, abel-: 'apple' derived from Root / lemma: om- (**ḫamel*): 'raw, bitter, *sweet'.

Material:

Maybe Old Indic: abalá- m. 'the plant Tapia Crataeva' { 'Crataegus roxburghii' (H. Ebel KZ VI, 1957:216)} [It is a proof of the European origin of the cognate].

Latin Abella (Oscan town, city in Campanien) malifera 'apple-bearing', after Verg. Aen. 7, 740, might have received her name after of the apple breeding and reject on the basic form **ablonā*. The apple is not named possibly only after the town.

In the Celtic the names are to be distinguished for 'apple' (**ablu*) and 'apple tree' (**abaln-*). Gall. avallo 'fruit', Aballō (n-stem) PN, French Avallon, abrit. PN Aballāva, gallo-rom. **aballinca* 'Alpine mistletoe' (Wartburg);

Maybe Illyrian PN Aulona

Old Irish ubull (**ablu*) n. 'apple', ncymr. afal, Pl. afalau, corn. bret. aval m. 'apple', but Middle Irish aball (**abalnā*) f. 'apple tree', acymr. aball, mcymr. avall Pl. euyill (analogical) f., acymr. aballen, ncymr. afallen 'apple tree' (with singulative ending).

The same ablaut forms in the Germanic:

Crimean Gothic apel (Gothic **apls?*), Old High German apful, afful, Middle High German apfel, Old English æppel (engl. apple), Old Norse epli n. (apal-grār 'apple-gray') 'apple'. Germanic probably **ap(a)la-*, **aplu-*. Further Old Norse apaldr 'apple tree', Old English apuldor, æppuldre, Old High German apholtra (compare Modern High German Affoltern PN), Middle High German apfalter 'apple tree' (**apaldra-*).

The Baltic shows clear tracks in Indo Germanic completely isolated l declension **ābōl*, G. Sg. **ābeles*.

lengthened grade of the suffix appears mostly in the word for 'apple': East Lithuanian obuolỹs, Latvian ābuolis (-jīo-stem), West Lithuanian óbuolas, Latvian ābuols (o-stem) from Indo Germanic **ābōl-*;

Normal grade mostly in the word for 'apple tree'; Lithuanian obelis (fem. ī-stem), Latvian ābels (ī-stem), ābele (ē-stem) from Indo Germanic **ābel-*; but Old Prussian woble f. (**ābl-*) 'apple', wobalne (**ābolu-*) f. 'apple tree'.

Old Bulgarian ablъko, jablъko, poln. jabłko, slov. jábolko, russ. jábloko 'apple' (**ablъko* from **āblu-*) etc; Old Bulgarian (j)ablanъ, sloven. jáblan, Old Czech jablan, jablon, russ. jáblonъ 'apple tree', from Indo Germanic **āboln-* (influences the sound form of **ablo* 'apple').

Although a uniform basic form is not attachable, it becomes both Latin Celtic Germanic Balto Slavic forms only around ancient relationship and barely around borrowing act. With respect to Latin abies 'fir' etc. very uncertain.

Note:

The oldest IE cognate is Luvian: **šamlu(wa)-* 'apple-(tree)'; Attestations: [HittErgSg] ša-ma-lu-wa-an-za: 145 iii 18. <sup>GIŠ</sup>H<sub>A</sub>ŠHUR-an-za: XLIV 4+ Vo 26. <sup>GIŠ</sup>H<sub>A</sub>ŠHUR-lu-wa-an-za: XLIV 4+ Vo 28.

Commentary: Above analysis most likely, but textual tradition is corrupt. Luvian nt. nom.-acc. sg. šamluwan=za also possible. Cf. Starke, KZ 95.153f, and Soysal, Or 58.174ff.

From the common IE shift m > mb > b derived **šamlu(wa)-* > Root / lemma: ābel-, ābōl-, abel-: 'apple' in Germanic languages while in Romance languages took place the common Illyrian alb. sa > zero, Luvian **šamlu(wa)-* 'apple-(tree)' > Latin malum -i n. 'an apple, or other similar fruit'; alb. Geg mollë 'apple'.

Also Proto-Slavic form: jemela; jemelo; jemelъ; ǰemela; ǰemelo {2} [Page in Trubačev: VI 26-27]: Russ. oméla 'mistletoe' [f ā], Old Russ. imela 'mistletoe' [f ā], Czech omela (dial.) 'mistletoe' [f ā]; omelo (dial.) 'mistletoe' [n o]; jmelí, melí (dial.) 'mistletoe' [f iā], Slovak jemelo (dial.), hemelo (dial.) 'mistletoe' [n o]; ímelo, jmelo (dial.) 'mistletoe' [n o], Poln. jemiota, jamiota 'mistletoe' [f ā]; imiota (dial.) 'mistletoe' [f ā], Upper Sorbian jemjel 'mistletoe' [m o], Lower Sorbian jemjoŭ, hemjoŭ 'mistletoe' [m o], Serbo-Croatian òmela (dial.) 'mistletoe' [f ā]; imela, mèla 'mistletoe' [f ā], Slovene jeméla (dial.), oméla (dial.) 'mistletoe' [f ā]; imēla, mēla 'mistletoe' [f ā], Proto-Balto-Slavic reconstruction: emel-; Lith. āmalas, ēmalas 'mistletoe' [m o] 3<sup>b</sup>, Latv. amuols; ēmuols (BW); amuls; āmals; āmuls 'mistletoe, clover' [m o] {1}, Old Pruss. emelno (EV) 'mistletoe'.

Bibliography: Anikin 1998: 334-336, Andersen 1996: 133-135

Notes: {1} The forms with ā- may show the influence of ābuōls 'apple, clover'. {2} This plant name is probably a borrowing from the Illyrian Venetian substratum language. The Slavic forms with **ǰm-* must be due to popular etymology (the mistletoe's sap is used to produce bird-lime), cf. OCS imati 'to take'. An etymological connection with PIE **h<sub>1</sub>m-* 'to take' is doubtful, as is the connection with **H<sub>3</sub>eHm-* 'raw'.

maybe gr. Compounds: ἀμάμηλις plant growing in the same time as the apple-tree, 'medlar', = ἐπιμηλις.

Probably Tocharian B: māla* 'a kind of intoxicating drink'; Paradigm: [-, -, māla//]

Examples: se ša[māne] mot māla trikelyesa śakse yokām pāyti 'whatever monk drinks alcohol or intoxicating beverage through befuddlement or brandy, pāyti [māla = BHS maireya] (H-149.X.3b1/2 [Couvreur, 1954b: 48]), tumem pārwettsai mālasa yokalle 'then it [is] to be drunk with an aged drink' (W-33a5).

Derivatives: mālatstse* `drunken': arāñcacu epreta Mārā[nts]= ādañc mālatsai ... spyarkatai-me `O courageous and brave one, thou hast destroyed Māra's drunken bite' (241a2/3).

References: WP. I 50, WH. I 3, E. Fraenkel KZ. 63, 172 ff., Trautmann 2.

Page(s): 1-2

---

Root / lemma: āgher-, āghen-, āghes- (or ōgher etc) (**dāghen*)

Meaning: day

Grammatical information: Heteroklit. Neutrum.

Material: Old Indic áhar, áhaḥ, Gen. áhn-as, Avestan Gen. Pl. asn-am `day'. In Germanic is found anlaut. d- by influence from proto Germanic **dǎzwas* (Indo Germanic **dhǵʰho-*, s. **dhǵʰh-* `burn ') `warm season ' (: Lithuanian dāgas `summer heat '): the o-stem Gothic dags, Old Icelandic dagr, Old High German tac m. `day' is from neutr. es-stem reshaped (Gothic PN Δαγιο-θεος = **Dagis-pius*, Old High German Dagi-bert etc), also in ablaut, Old English dæg (**dōziz*), Pl. dōgorn. `day' (Gothic fidur-dōgs `fourth day '), Old Icelandic døgr n. `day or night ' besides there is n-stem Old Danish døgn n. `day and night'.

Note:

From Root / lemma: dhǵʰh- `to burn, *day' derived Root / lemma: āgher-, āghen-, āghes- (or ōgher etc): `day' the same as Root / lemma: akru- `tear' derived from Root / lemma: dakru- `tears'. The phonetic shift da- > a-, zero is a common Baltic. Compare Root / lemma: del-5: `long': Baltic with unexplained d-loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. `long' : Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) `long', da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugasti) n. `length'. This is a sound proof of Aryan migration from the Baltic region to North India.

References: WP. I 849 f., WH. I 467, Feist 113 f., Sievers-Brunner 121, 243, Wackernagel-Debrunner III 310 f.

Page(s): 7

---

Root / lemma: āg-

Meaning: goat

Note:

Root / lemma: digh- : `goat' derived from a zero grade of Root / lemma: deiḡh- : `to prick; tick'. From the older root Root / lemma: deiḡh- : `to prick; tick' derived Root / lemma: aiḡ- : `goat' and Root / lemma: āg- : `goat' [common Baltic - Illyrian - alb. de-, da- > zero]. Hence the gr. cognate derived from proto Illyrian

Material: Old Indic ajā-h 'he-goat', ajā 'she-goat', Middle Persian azak 'goat', npers. azg ds.;

alb. dhī 'goat' (G. Meyer BB. 8, 186, Pedersen KZ. 36, 320, 335; probably from **adhi*, as sii 'eye' from asi);

Note:

Maybe a zero grade in alb. (**āghī*) dhī 'goat' [the common alb. shift -gh- > -d-], older alb. Geg (**āghī*) edha 'goats, sheep'.

Lithuanian ožỹs (**āghios*) 'he-goat', ožkà 'goat', Old Prussian wosee 'goat', wosux 'he-goat';

Old Indic ajīna-m 'fur, fleece';

Lithuanian ožinis 'belonging to he-goat', ožiena 'billy goat's meat';

Church Slavic (j)azno (**azъno*) 'skin, leather'.

References: WP. I 38, Trautmann 22. compare also aiġ.

Page(s): 6-7

---

Root / lemma: āier-, āien-

Meaning: day, morning

Grammatical information: n.

Note:

Root / lemma: āier-, āien-: 'day, morning' derived from a reduced Root / lemma: āgher-, āghen-, āghes- (oder ōgher etc.): 'day'.

Material: Avestan ayarə, Gen. ayən n. 'day'.

Gr. Lok. **ἄ(ι)ερι-* in ἄριστον (from **āieri-d-tom*, to ed- 'eat') 'breakfast' (uncontracted ἄριστον still produceable Hom. Ω 124, π 2); lengthened grades **ἄ(ι)ερι* in the derivative ἡέριος 'early morning', contracts in ἦρι 'in the morning'. Different Risch 105.

Gothic air, Old Icelandic ār, Adv. 'early' (likewise Lok. **āieri*), in addition Kompar. Gothic airiza 'earlier', Adv. airis = Old English æar, Old High German ēr, Modern High German ehar, ehe, Superl. Old English ærest, Old High German ērist, Modern High German erst.

References: WP. I 3, Feist 24b.

Maybe to āi-4.

Page(s): 12

---

Root / lemma: ā(i)ġh- : īġh-

Meaning: to need

Material: Avestan āzi-š m. 'desire', np. az ds., Avestan āza-š m. 'striving, eagerness, zeal'; changing through ablaut Avestan īzyati 'strives, striving for' and īžā 'striving, zeal, success, prosperousness' Old Indic īhā 'desire', īhatē 'strives whereupon';

gr. ἄχην 'poor' = ἡχῆνες κενοί, πτωχοί Hes. (by support of words, with ἄ- privative out of it ἀεχῆνες πένητες Hes., and ἀχενία 'lack, poverty'), κτεανηχῆς πένης Hes., changing through ablaut ἰχανάω 'longs for', ἰχαρ 'desire';

Tocharian A ākāl, B akālk 'wish, longing'. Different Pedersen Tocharian 42.

References: WP. I 40, Van Windekens BSL. 41, 55; unwahrscheinlich Bartholomae IF. 5, 215.

Page(s): 14-15

---

Root / lemma: āik- : īk-

Meaning: spear, pike

Note:

Both Root / lemma: ak-, ok- : 'sharp; stone' and Root / lemma: āik- : īk- : 'spear, pike' are reduced roots of an older root **heġ<sup>w</sup>-el* created through metathesis from Root/ lemma \*heġ<sup>w</sup>a*. This older root was solidified by Church Slavic: (**heġ<sup>w</sup>-el*) igla 'needle' [f ā] Slavic languages inherited the common da- > zero from the older Baltic-Germanic languages. The phonetic shift da- > zero is a common Baltic. Compare Root / lemma: del- 5 : 'long': Baltic with unexplained d-loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. 'long' : Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) 'long', da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugasti) n. 'length'.

Hence from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>elg- : 'to stick; needle' derived the alleged Baltic Root/ lemma \*heġ<sup>w</sup>a* from which Church Slavic: (**heġ<sup>w</sup>-el*) igla 'needle' [f ā], then Both Root / lemma: ak-, ok- : 'sharp; stone' and Root / lemma: āik- : īk- : 'spear, pike'.

Material: Gr. αἰκλοι αἱ γωνίαι τοῦ βέλους Hes., gr. ἰκτέα ἀκόντιον Hes., Cypriot ἰκμαμένος or ἰχμαμένος (in the latter pitfall from *ἰκσmaμένος) 'wounds', gr. αἰχμή 'spear, spit' (**aik-smā*), Old Prussian aysmīs 'spit, broach', Lithuanian iēšmas, jiēšmas 'spit, broach', (basic form **aikmos* or Gr. exact congruent **aik-smos*); from moreover Old Prussian ayculo, Church Slavic igla etc 'needle', with g instead of ž (compare S.181)?

Maybe a borrowing in alb. halë 'needle, fishbone, awn' from Ukrainian: hólka 'needle' [f ā]; ihlá (dial.) 'needle' [f ā]

Proto-Slavic form: jьgъlā

Accent paradigm: c

Page in Trubačev: VIII 213-214

Church Slavic: igla 'needle' [f ā]

Russian: iglá 'needle' [f ā]

Ukrainian: hólka 'needle' [f ā]; ihlá (dial.) 'needle' [f ā]

Czech: jehla 'needle' [f ā]; ihťa (dial.) 'needle' [f ā]

Slovak: ihla 'needle' [f ā]

Polish: igła 'needle, pin' [f ā]; jegła (dial.) 'needle, pin' [f ā]

Slovincian: jìeglǎ 'needle' [f ā]

Lower Sorbian: gta 'needle' [f ā]

Polabian: jǎglǎ 'needle' [f ā]

Serbo-Croatian: igla 'needle' [f ā], ìglu [Accs]; jigla (dial.) 'needle' [f ā]; jàgla (dial.) 'needle' [f ā]; Čak. iglǎ (Vrgada) 'needle' [f ā], ìglu [Accs]; Čak. iglǎ (Novi) 'needle' [f ā]; Čak. ìgla (Vrgada) 'needle' [f ā], ìglo [Accs]

Slovene: ígla 'needle, kingpin' [f ā]; jègla (dial.) 'needle, kingpin' [f ā]

Old Prussian: ayculo 'needle' [f ā]

also alb. Geg gjilpanë n. f. 'needle' is a compound of (Nominative) **gjil-* 'needle' + (Genitive) peni 'thread'; alb. common zero grade **ilga* > **gil-* 'needle' corresponds to zero grade in Serbo-Croatian: igla 'needle' [f ā].

Latin īcō (analogical īciō), -ēre 'hit, wound, strike, smite; esp., to strike a bargain', ictus 'slash, blow, stroke; in music, beat', probably also Avestan išarə 'instant, (very short space of time)' = gr. ἵκταρ 'near' (as 'adjoining, adjacent') and ἰγδῆ, ἰγδῖς 'mortar' (also ἰξ, ἰκες 'worms damaging the vine', from which ἵπτες ds. could be reshuffled after the related to meaning κνίπτες, σκνίπτες, θρίπτες; different Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 299.

Here possibly Old Norse eigin n. 'a sprout that has just emerged from a seed' ('point, cusp'), Swedish Dialectal äje/m.ds. (Fick4 III 2) and Low German īne 'awn, ear of corn' (Bezenberger Federal Railway. 27, 166).

References: WP. I 7, WH. I 670, Trautmann 3, 4.

Page(s): 15

---

Root / lemma: āi-4

Meaning: to burn

Material: from Old English āfor `sharp, violent ', Old High German eibar, eivar `harsh, bitter, pungent, rough, shaggy, bristly; shivering with cold. Transf., wild, savage; unpolished, uncouth; frightful, horrible ' derived from **ab<sup>h</sup>ro-* not is to be connected certainly.

Maybe but here gr. ἰαίνω `warms up ' from **ἰ(λ)-anīō*; see below eis-1 `move, shake violently '.

See also: S. under ai-d<sup>h</sup>-, āier-, aios-, aisk-, ai-tro-.

Page(s): 11

---

Root / lemma: āl-3

Meaning: to wander, roam

Material: Gr. ἄλη `the vagrancy, the wandering about ', ἀλάομαι (horn. Pf. ἀάλημαι), ἀλαίνω `wanders about ', ἀλήτης `beggar ', ἀλητεύω `wander, begging around ', ἄλιος `in vain ' (Spiritus asper admittedly, still unexplained, s. Boisacq 44, also against the assumption of anl. F-); from a basis alu-, aleu- gr. ἀλύω `to be deeply stirred, excited, from grief, to be distraught, beside oneself, from perplexity or despair, to be at a loss, perplexed, wander, roam about ', ἀλύσσω ds. (Hom.; Fut. ἀλύξει Hippokr.), ἀλύκη `restiveness, worry, concern, fear, alarm ', ἄλυσις (from ἀλύω) `angst ', ἄλυσ, -υος (Plut.) `idly hanging around, boredom '; common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-; with the concept `wander around, not to come near to, around a dangerous place or thing ', also ἀλεύομαι, ἀλέομαι `avoid ', ἀλύσκω (**αλυκ-σκω*, compare Aor. ἤλυξα) `escape ', ἀλυσκάζω `avoid, flee ', ἀλεείνω ds., ἀλεωλή `defense ' (**ἀλεFωλή* formation as φειδωλή).

Hittite: halluwai- c. 'squabble, quarrel ', Luvian halwat- 'protest?'.
-----

*) ἀλαζών `fibber, boaster, bragger ' (actually dragging around juggler, mountebank), derives after Bonfante (BSL. 37, 77) from thrak. VN Ἀλαζόνες.

**) ἀλῶω, ἀλυίω from **ἀλυζιω* compare Schulze Qunder ep. 310 f., Lagercrantz Z. gr. Lautg. 89 with Old Indic roṣati, ruṣyati `be cross with, be angry ', but from Uhlenbeck Old Indic Wb. 256 is placed more right to Lithuanian rústas `unfriendly, unkind '.

-----

Mit ā-: ἡλάσκω `wanders around', ἡλαίνω `be demented', Med. `wander around', ἡλέματος (Doric ἁλέματος Theokr.) `foolish, futile, vain', ἡλίθιος `trifling, in vain, brainless', ἡλεός `confuses, beguiles; bewildering', (besides Aeolic equivalent ἄλλος an *ἄλιος in:) hom. ἄλλα φρονέων `φρένας ἡλεός' `dazed, unconscious' (from Doric *ἄλεός derives Latin ālea `a game of dice, game of hazard; hence chance, risk, uncertainty, blind luck').

Latin ambulō `to walk, go for a walk, travel, march' (Umbrian amboltu `a walk, a stroll'); (Latin alūcinor `to wander in mind, dream, talk idly' is probably borrowed from ἀλύω under formal support in vāticinor).

In addition Latvian aluôt, aluôtiês `wander around, get lost', with ā Latvian āla `half-mad person', āl'uôtiês `behave foolish, gestures clownish'.

Tocharian AB āl- `distinguish, remove'.

References: WP. I 87 f., WH. I 33, 38, EM. 43 (places ambulō to gr. ἐλαύνω, stem el-).

Page(s): 27-28

---

Root / lemma: ālu-, ālo- (**hālu-*)

Meaning: a bitter plant

Material: Old Indic ālú-ḥ, ālukám- `bulb, onion, round esculent radix'; Latin ālum, ālium `garlic', Oscan **allō* from **aliā* probably as foundation of gr. ἄλλᾱς `sausage (*stuffed tubular casing)'; Latin ālum or ālus `Symphytum officinale L., comfrey, blackwort' a plant appreciated for its roots (perhaps gall. word? s. Thesaurus).

Maybe alb. helm `bitter; poison'

Note: alb. is the only IE lang. that preserved the old laryngeal h-.

References: WP. I 90 f., WH. I 30, 33.

See also: Probably to alu-.

Page(s): 33

---

Root / lemma: āmer- (āmōr, āmṛ)

Meaning: day

Material: Gr. horn. ἡμαρ, -ατος, Attic ἡμέρᾱ (Asper probably after ἐσπέρα, Sommer Gr. Ltst. 123), otherwise ἄμέρα `day' (with Lenis, hence not to Indo Germanic **sem-* `summer'; Lithuanian bei Boisacq s. v., wherefore Fick KZ. 43, 147); Armenian aur `day' (from **āmōr* about **amur, *aumr*, Meillet Esquisse 55). To the stem formation s. still J. Schmidt Pl. 195 f., to Ionian μεσῆμβρίη `midday' Boisacq under μεσημβρίᾱ. Van Windekens (Lexique 80) places here Tocharian A omäl, B emalle `hot', from Indo Germanic **āmel-*.

References: WP. I 53, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 305, 481, 518.

Page(s): 35

---

Root / lemma: āno-

Meaning: ring

Material: Armenian anur `neckband, ring', Latin ānus `circle, ring', Old Irish āinne (**ānīñio-*) m. `ring, anus'. (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Latin annulus > Bolognese anèl : Bresciano anèl : Furlan anel : Galician anel : Portuguese anel : Paduan anèò : Provençal anèu : Wallon anea : Reggiano : anél : Romagnolo anèl : Romansh anè : Romanian : inel : Italian anello : Spanish anillo ; anilla : Catalan anell : French anneau : Aragones aniello : Asturian aniellu : Corsican anellu : Leonese aniellu : Lombardo Occidentale anell : Napulitano aniéllo : Calabrese 'neddu ; aniellu ; aneddu ; aniaddru : Pugliese aniadd : Sardinian Campidanesu aneddu : Sardinian Logudoresu aneddu : Sicilian aneddu : Viestano nidd' `circle, ring' [common Calabrese, Pugliese, Sardinian, Sicilian, Viestano -lt- > -dd-] > through metathesis Albanian (**aneddu*) unazë `circle, ring' common alb. d- > z- similar to alb. gaz `joy' < Latin gaudium `joy'.

References: WP. I 61, WH. I 55, Pedersen Litt. 2, 80.

Page(s): 47

---

Root / lemma: āpero-

Meaning: shore

Note:

Root / lemma: āpero- : `shore' derived from Root / lemma: apo- (pō, ap-u, pu) (**h<sub>2</sub>aph<sub>3</sub>o-*): `from, out, of' < Root / lemma: āp-2- : `water, river' < Root / lemma: ab- : `water, river' < Root / lemma: abō(n) (**h<sub>2</sub>abō-*): `ape, *water demon' < Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>-*): `quick, abrupt' < Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>ro-*): `strong, mighty' < root ab<sup>h</sup>-(ro-): < with l-formant (ne<sup>h</sup>elā): < Root / lemma: (ene<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, emb<sup>h</sup>-, ṛ<sup>h</sup>- : `wet, damp; water; clouds'.

Material: Gr. ἡπειρος, Doric ἄπειρος f. `shore; mainland'; Old English ōfer, Middle Low German ōver, Middle High German (md.) uover, Modern High German Ufer, but Armenian ap`n `shore' requires Indo Germanic ph and hence, stays away.

relationship to **apo* `since, from, ex', Old Indic āpara- `back, later' as lengthened grade formation becomes adopted by Specht Dekl. 23.

References: WP. I 48.

Root / lemma: āp-2 (**hāp-2*)

Meaning: water, river

Note:

Root / lemma: āp-2 (**hāp-2*): 'water, river' derived from Root / lemma: ab- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>-*): 'water, river' < Root / lemma: abō(n) (**h<sub>2</sub>abō-*): 'ape, *water demon' < Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>-*): 'quick, abrupt' < Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>ro-*): 'strong, mighty' < root ṛ<sup>h</sup>- (ro-): < with h-formant (ne<sup>h</sup>elā): < Root / lemma: (ene<sup>h</sup>-2): ne<sup>h</sup>-, emo<sup>h</sup>-, ṛ<sup>h</sup>-: 'wet, damp; water; clouds'.

Material:

Hittite: hap(a)- 'river', Pal. hapnas, Luvian hapinni- (Tischler 159-160)

Tokharian: A, B āp 'water, river' (Adams 44)

Old Indic āp- f. 'water', e.g. Pl. Norn. āpah, Akk. apāh, Gen. apām, Avestan Nom. Sg. āfš, Akk. Sg. āpam, Instr. Sg. apā(-ca), Old Indic āpavant- 'watery', in older contraction with reduplication-stem in -i, -u auslaut prefixes (Kretschmer KZ. 31, 385, Johansson IF. 4, 137 f.) pratipā- 'directed against the stream', nīpā- 'low lying, deep-recumbent', anūpā- 'situated, lying in water', dvīpā- 'island, sand bank in the river', antarīpa- 'island'; the same contraction with in -o ending 1. part in gr. river names Ἰωπός 'name of a stream on Delos', Ἀσωπός (: ἰνώω, ἄσις; Fick BB. 22, 61, 62); gr. Ἀπία 'Peloponnes', Μεσσο-απία ds., lokr. Μεσσο-άπιοι, Illyrian Μεσσοᾶπιοι (different Krahe ZONF. 13, 20 f.) common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss- and Āpuli of Lower Italy, river names Ἀπιδών (Arcadia), Ἀπιδανός (Thessaly), thrak. (**h<sub>2</sub>āpos*) Ἄπος (Dacia), Illyrian (**h<sub>2</sub>āpsos*) Ἄψος, Apsus, apul. PN Salapia ('saltwater'); here as vestiges Venetic-Illyrian immigration part of the West German apa- names, as Erft (**Arnapia*), and all FIN with -up-, as Modern High German Uppia-Bach (Tirol), French Sinope (Manche), brit. harbour Rutupiae, sizil. Κακύπαρις (compare Lithuanian Kakupis), compare the thrak. FIN Ὑπιος, Ὑπανις; Old Prussian ape 'river', apus 'spring, fountain, stream, brook', Lithuanian ūpė, Latvian upe 'water' (u is perhaps reduplication-stem from Indo Germanic o, a, Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 11; or belongs up- rather to Old Church Slavic vapa 'sea?'). Here Ach- (**aps-*) in cymr. FIN, gall. Axona?

Besides Celtic-Latin ab-, see below ab-.

Johansson IF. 4. 137 f. goes to explanation the b-form from through Ἀπιδών, Ἀπιδανός as well as by Old Indic ābda-h m. 'cloud' and with āpah paradigmatic welded together Instr. Dat. Pl. Old Indic adbhiḥ, adbhyaḥ, presumed stem **ap(ə)d-* (perhaps 'giving water', with dō- 'give' belonging to the 2nd part) from: **abdō(n)*, Gen. **abdnés*, from which **abnés*; from obl. case arose from Latin amnis, was compensated during in Celtic **abdō(n)* : **abnés* to **abā* (Middle Irish ab), **abonā* (hence Middle Irish abann). (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

References: WP. I 46 f., WH. I 40, 846, Krahe Gl. 20, 188 ff., Pokorny Urillyrier 110 ff., 130 f., Krahe Würzburg. Jahrb. 1, 86 ff.

Page(s): 51-52

---

Root / lemma: ās-, therefrom azd-, azg(h)-

Meaning: to burn

Material:

In e- grade:

Old High German essa f., Modern High German Esse (**ašjōn*), Proto Norse aRina, Old Icelandic arinn `exaltation, elevation, hearth, fireplace ', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German erin `floorboard, ground, bottom ' (**azena*);

In a- grade:

Hittite ḫa-aš-ši-i (ḫaš) Lok. `on the hearth ' (ḫašaš).

Tocharian AB as- present, ās- Perf. and causative `dry up ', A āsar `to dry ';

Hittite: ḫassa- c. 'hearth, stove, fireplace ', Luvian ḫassaniti 'hearth' (Tischler 196-197)

Old Indic āsa-ḥ `cinder, dust ' (about āsita-ḥ `black ' s. **ḡsi-* `dirt-color, dark color '); Latin āra `altar; hence refuge, protection; 'arae', plur., name of certain rocks at sea ' (= Oscan aasaí `in the altar', Umbrian are `altars ' etc), āreō, -ēre `to be dry', āridus `dry, arid, dry, parched, thirsty' (therefrom ardeō `to burn, glow, be on fire; of bright objects, to gleam; of feeling (esp. of love), to burn, smart; of political disorder, to be ablaze ', participle Pass. assus `dried, roasted; n. pl. as subst. a sweating bath '), ārea `a level or open space, site, courtyard, threshing floor; esp. a playground; hence, in gen., play ' (actually `burnt-out, dry place ');

Perhaps here Middle Irish ān `igneous, radiant, noble ' (**ās-no-*). About gr. δῖψᾰω, πεινᾰω s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 1, 724.

Because r in Hittite a-a-ri (ār) `becomes hot ' does not belong to the stem, it must be distinguished Latin āreō `to be dry, be parched' not from āra `a structure for sacrifice, altar'.

Formant extensions:

azd- in gr. ἄζω (**az-d̥iō*) ` parch, dry ', ἄζα f. ` dehumidifier, dirt ', ἄζαλέος ` dry, inflaming ', ἄδδαυον ξηρόν. Λάκωνες Hes. (-δδ from -zd-); Czech apoln. ozd ` a device for drying malt or a room for drying malt ', Czech slov. ozditi ` to dry malt '.

azg- Armenian ačjun `ash' (Meillet Esquisse 29), gr. ἄσβολος (*ἄσγ-βολος) `soot' (`ash - throw ').

Maybe truncated alb. (*ἄσγ-βολος) blozë ` soot' a Greek loanword.

Germanic **askōn* in Old Icelandic aska, Old English asce, æsce, Old High German asca, Modern High German Asche.

Maybe zero grade Latin cinis -eris m. f. `ashes' < Armenian ačjun `ash'; alb. (*(a)ski) hi `ash' [common alb. ski- > hi-].

Note:

Root / lemma: ken-2, kenə-, kenī-, kenu- : `to rub, scrape off; ashes' must have come from zero grade of an extended Root / lemma: ās-, therefrom azd-, azg(h)- : `to burn' into āsk-en with the suffix -en. This assumption is proved by alb. Geg (**askini*) hini `ash' [common alb. ski- > hi-].

azgh-? in Armenian azazim `dries' (Meillet Esquisse 33, EM. 70), Gothic azgo `ash' (**azgōn*). About the difficult relation from Germanic **askōn* : **az-gōn* s. Feist 72b; again different Specht Dekl. 201, 219. Also the conclusiveness Armenian examples are not quite flawless.

References: WH. I 61, 65, 848, Feist 72, Trautmann 22, Pedersen Hittitisch 27, 164.

Page(s): 68-69

Root / lemma: āt(e)r-

Meaning: fire, *blow the fire

Note:

Root / lemma: āt(e)r- : `fire, *blow the fire' derived from a suffixed Root / lemma: au(e)-10, auē(o)-, uē- : `to blow' with common IE formant -ter.

Material:

In a- grade:

Hittite: ḫat- (II,I) ' wither, wilt, become shriveled, dry out' (Tischler 213)

Avestan ātarš (Gen. āθrō) m. `fire', wherefore Old Indic ātharvan- ` fire priest ', loanword from Avestan aθaurvan-, aθaurun (das θ from āθrō) ds.;

Armenian airem `burns, lights' (due to from **air* from **ātēh*); serb. vătra `fire', klr. vátra `fire, stove', poln. vatra `straw cinder' are borrowed after Jokl WZKM. 34, 37 ff. from Rumanian vatră `stove', these again from Alb. (Geg votrë, votër with v-suggestion before alb. ot- from **āt-*, viell. iran. loanword).

Perhaps as `burnt' also Latin āter `dead black, dark; poet. clothed in black. Transf., dark, gloomy, sad; malicious, poisonous' = Umbrian atru, adro `black, coal-black, gloomy, dark'; but Latin Ātella = Oscan Ader[ā] (**Ātrolā*, e.g. v. Planta I 551), Latin Ātrius = Oscan Aadiriis (v. Planta II 768, Thurneysen 1A. 4, 38, Schulze Latin Eig. 269, 578) are suspectly Etruscan origin.

Maybe Illyrian Adria `deep, dark water, sea'.

Possibly affiliation from Irish áith (Gen. átho) f., cymr. odyn f. `oven, stove', s. Fick II<sup>4</sup> 9.

References: WP. I 42, WH. I 75 f., 849 f.

Page(s): 69

---

Root / lemma: ātos, atta (hatta)

Meaning: father, mother

Material:

In a-grade:

Hittite at-ta-aš (attaš) `father'.

Old Indic attā `mother, older sister', atti-h `older sister', osset. āda, gr. ἄττα `old man, old fellow, father', dial. Akk. ἄτειν, ἄπειν `grandfather', Latin atta m. `father; term of endearment of the children towards the father', Gothic atta `father' (Demin. Attila), Old Frisian aththa ds., Old High German atto `father, forefather, ancestor' (tt by running always besides unpostponed neologism), alb. (**h<sub>2</sub>at*) at, Pl. etër `father'.

In e-grade:

Demin. Old High German Ezzilo `father'.

In o-grade:

Old Church Slavic отѣць `father'; alb. (**h<sub>3</sub>ot-siā*) joshë (on the maternal side) grandmother'.

Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

In a-grade:

A similar **āto-s* in Germanic **aþala*, **ōþela* appears the basis from Old High German adal 'sex, gender', Modern High German Adel, Old Saxon athali, Old English æðelu N. PL 'noble parentage', Old Icelandic aðal (the rudimentary basis of an organ or other part, esp. in an embryo) anlage, sex', Tocharian A ātāl 'man'; here also Avestan āθwya- 'name of the fathers Θraētaona's as 'from noble parentage'?

The affiliation from gr. ἀπαλός 'in a juvenile manner, childish', ἀπάλλω 'gathers, waits and is in habit' and 'jumps cheerfully like a child', Redupl. ἀπιτάλλω 'draws up (Redupl. under influence from πιθήνη 'nurse'?), is denied by Leumann Gl. 15, 154.

In æ-grade:

Adj. Old High German edili, Old Saxon ethili, Old English æðele 'noble, aristocratic'

In o-grade:

lengthened grade Old High German uodal, Old Saxon ōthil, here Gothic haimōþli n. 'genotype', compare with the same vocal length Old High German Uota (actually 'great-grandmother'), Old Norse ōðal (fatherly) genotype' (compare also Old High German fater-uodal, Old Saxon fader-ōðil 'property inherited from a father, patrimony');

In æ-grade:

Old English ēðel, Old Frisian ēdila 'great-grandfather';

One on the most different linguistic areas to itself always newly pedagogic babble-word (e.g. elam. atta, magy. atya 'father', türk. ata, Basque aita ds.). Similarly tata.

References: WP. I 44, WH. I 77, 850, Feist 62, 233, Trautmann 16.

Page(s): 71

---

Root / lemma: ā

Meaning: interjection

Note: often new-created

Material: Old Indic ā exclamation of the meditation;

gr. ᾗ exclamation of the displeasure, pain, astonishment; ᾗ, ᾗᾗ exclamation of the surprise and complaint; in addition ᾗζειν 'groan';

Latin ā, āh exclamation of pain, the displeasure;

Lithuanian à, aà exclamation of the surprise, the reprimand or mockery, ā exclamation of the astonished question (of loud new creations);

Gothic ō exclamation of the displeasure, the admiration; Old High German ō exclamation of pain; Middle High German ō exclamation of pain, the admiration, suspended thus to the vocative.

References: WP. I 1, WH. I 1, Loewe KZ. 54, 143.

Page(s): 1

---

Root / lemma: baba-, (**bal-bal-*)

Meaning: barbaric speech

Note: also bal-bal-, bar-bar- with multiple dissimilations, onomatopoeic words

Material: Old Indic bababā-karōti from the crackle of the fire; gr. βαβαῖ, παπαῖ `upon my soul, damn it all! ' (out of it Latin babae, papae ds., as babaecalus perhaps `fop, dandy ' from *βαβαίκαλος), βαβάζω `chats, talks indistinctly ' (different is the sound conceivability from βαβράζω `chirps ');

Latin babit (gloss.) `he/ she shall make happy, gladden, bless', babiger (gloss.) `stupid'; Italian babbo `father' (cymr. baban `kid, child' is engl. loanword);

Maybe alb. baba `father' : bebe `child'

alb. bebë `the newborn kid, child'; engl. baby `kid, child', Swedish Dialectal babbe `kid, child, small boy ' (see also unter bāmb- `swell '), Middle High German bābe, bōbe `missis; old woman, mother' (about buobe `boy ' see below b<sup>h</sup>rātēr `brother'); Lithuanian bóba, Old Church Slavic baba `old woman ' ; serb.-Church Slavic bъbl'u, bъbati `stammer ', serb. bòboćem, bobòtati `clatter with the teeth ' etc; Latvian bibināt `babble, murmur ', Old Prussian bebbint `mock '.

balbal- (babal-, bambal-, from which bam-b-, bal-b- ):

Old Indic balbalā-karōti `stammers'; Bulgarian blaból'ъ, bъlból'ъ `chats ', Lithuanian balbāsyti `babble ', serbokr. blàbositi `stammer ', russ. bolobólitъ `chat, drivel ', Czech beblati `stammer'; Latin babulus `chatterbox, a babbler, fool ' ; Modern High German babbeln, pappeln, engl. babble, Norwegian bable, Swedish babbla, Old Icelandic babba `chat';

Latin balbus `stammering, babbling ', balbūtīō `to stammer, stutter; hence in gen.to speak obscurely ', Old Indic balbūthá-ḥ name (actually `stammerer ');

Mayne alb. (**balbus*) belbëzoj `babble'

Czech blb ` gannet, gawk ', blblati, bleptati `stammer, stutter'; serb. blebèti, Lithuanian blebènti `babble'; gr. βαμβαλύζω (out of it Latin bambalō), βαμβακύζω ` my teeth are chattering', βαμβαίνω ` stammers '.

Mit -r-: Old Indic barbara-h ` stammering ', Pl. name of non-Aryan people (provided that here r on Indo Germanic r and Old Indic l in balbalā goes back to Indo Germanic l), gr. βάρβαρος ` not Greek, speaking an unintelligible / incomprehensible language ' (from which Latin barbarus) `βαρβαρόφωνος ` from incomprehensible language ' (barely after Weidner Gl. 4, 303 f. from babylon. barbaru ` stranger, foreign, alien '), serb. brboljiti, brbljati `babble' (see also under b<sup>h</sup>er- ` to drone, buzz, hum '), Latin baburrus ` foolish, silly ', gr. βαβύρτας ὁ παράμωρος Hes. (about Latin burrae `trifles, nonsense' s. WH. I 124).

Here perhaps also Old Indic bāla-h ` young, childish, simple ', possibly also Slavic relationship from russ. balákatʹ ` twaddle ', balamútʹ ` babbler, stunner, head turner '. - Unredupl. presumably also gr. βάζω ` talks, patters ', βάξις `speech', βάσκειν λέγειν, κακολογεῖν Hes.; but gr. βάσκανος ` invoking, imploring, exorcising; bewitching, casting a spell; spreading malicious gossip, speaking badly of; slanderous; envious, jealous ', βασκαίνω ` bewitches, envies ' has derived as magic word through borrowing from nördl. language, perhaps Thrak. or Illyrian, from to b<sup>h</sup>ā- ` speak ' belonging to present **b<sup>h</sup>a-skō* ` speaks, discusses ' (φάσκω; this also in Hesychs βάσκω?) (Kretschmer Einl. 248 f.);

Latin fascinum ` giving it the evil eye, spell casting, invocation (exorcism (?)); the male member; initially (at first) as a preventative against being bewitched ', fascināre ` enchant, bewitch, envy ' are borrowed from gr. and are adapted only in f-folk etymology in fāri etc.

After Specht Dekl. 133 here Latin Oscan bl-ae-sus ` lisping, babbling '; different WH. I 107 f.

Maybe alb. (**phlas*) flas `speak' not from Latin fābula `a narration, narrative'.

References: WP. II 105 f., WH. I 90, 94, Trautmann 24 f.

Page(s): 91-92

---

Root / lemma: badios

Meaning: gold, brown

Note: (only Latin and Irish; maybe from one, at most not Indo Germanic, language of ancient Europe?).

Material: Latin badius `brown, chestnutcolored, bay'; Old Irish buide `gold, yellow' (compare to Lautl. Old Irish mag `field', Gen. muige; gall. Bodiocasses because of o rather for boduo-, about which under **b<sup>h</sup>aut-* `hit'). Gr. βάδιος, βάδεος derives from Latin

References: WP. II 105, WH. I 92.

Page(s): 92

---

Root / lemma: baitā or paitā?

Meaning: goatskin

Material: the relation from gr. βάρη `tent or skirt from (nanny goats) fur' to Gothic paida f. `body skirt, petticoat', Old Saxon pēda `skirt', Old English pād `mantle', Old High German pfeit `shirt, shirtlike vestment, shirtlike piece of apparel' is decided there, that Germanic word is borrowed from gr. words; from Germanic again Finnish paita and perhaps alb. petkë, petëk `clothes'; gr. βάρη is probably thrak. loanword or goes back to alb. forms in Illyrian **paitā*?

References: WP. II 104, Feist 381 f., Bonfante BSL. 36, 141 f.

Page(s): 92-93

---

Root / lemma: bak-

Meaning: stick, to hit

Material: Latin baculum `a staff, walking stick' from **bac-(c)lom*, older **bak-tlom*, vestiges of -cc- in Demin. bacillum, for which repeatedly delivers baccillum, compare also imbēcillus `(without support) weak, frail' from -baccillos. Pisani (REtIE. 3, 53) places baculum as **bat-lo-m* to battuō, that he considers as Oscan- Umbrian loanword (from **bakt-*).

Maybe Latin baca (bacca) -ae f. `a berry, fruit; a pearl', bacalis, bacale `berry-bearing (designation of the female laurel), MFr. (**bacale*) Bacoule, n.f. Belette `weasel': alb. buklë `weasel', bukur, bukurosh `good, pleasing, beautiful, slender (like a weasel)': Rumanian bucuros `glad': Gr. βάκλα `club': Sardinian Campidanese buccameli; bucchimeli `weasel, slender animal'.

Similar to Slavic Polish formation las `forest, rod': laska `slender, pretty girl'.

Note: In many lang. the name of weasel and good come from the same root.

Gr. βάκτρον, βακτηρία, βακτήριον `a staff, walking stick', βάκται ισχυροί Hes. (Contrast from imbēcillus), probably also βακόν πεισόν Hes.

Gr. βάκλα τύμπανα (i.e. `club') Hes., otherwise `club, shillelagh, stick', is probably borrowed from Latin Middle English pegge, engl. peg 'pin, peg', Modern High German pegel 'pole'; but Middle Low German pegel 'mark in a vessel for liquids (from a ring or small existing plugs)', Old English pægel m. 'wine pot', engl. pail 'bucket' from Middle Latin pagella 'col, column, yardstick'.

Lithuanian bàkstelėti 'bump, puff', Latvian bakstīt 'poke' (or to onomatopoeic word Lithuanian bàkst?).

Against it Old Irish bacc (nir. bac) 'stick, a crook', cymr. bach 'corner, hook', bret. bac'h 'heel, stick' (from 'clutch, crutch of the stick'), are in the Island-Celtic or already in the occurred through Latin back-formations from baculum.

References: WP. II 104 f., WH. I 92.

Page(s): 93

---

Root / lemma: bal-bal-

See also: see below baba-

Page(s): 93

---

Root / lemma: bal-, balbal-

Meaning: to shake, dance

Note:

It seems Root / lemma: bal-, balbal-: 'to shake, dance' derived from Root / lemma: baba-, (**bal-bal-*): 'barbaric speech' through an Old Indic intermediary (see above).

Material: Old Indic balbalīti 'whirls', balvá- 'crooked'; gr. (in Sicily) βαλλίζω 'dances', out of it borrows Latin ballāre 'dance'.

Maybe alb. (**bal-*) valle 'dance' [common alb. b > v shift]

References: WP. II 109, WH. I, 95, Wackernagel Old Indic-Gr. I 181.

Page(s): 93

---

Root / lemma: band- (**bḥend-*)

Meaning: drop

Note:

Considering Phrygian βεδου 'water': nasalized Illyrian Bindus 'water god' Root / lemma: band- (**bḥend-*): 'drop' derived from a zero grade of Root / lemma: ay(e)-9, ayed-, ayer- (**ak̑uent-*): 'to flow, to wet; water, etc.'

Material: Old Indic bindū-ḥ 'drop' (probably for **bandū-ḥ* under influence of īndu-ḥ 'drop'), related to corn. banne, banna, bret. banne 'drop' (from which is borrowed Middle Irish banna, bainne ` drop, milk '), really Irish buinne ` to gush forth, spring up, flood ' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-); Illyrian FIG Bindus (**Bendus*), apul. fons Bandusiae?

Note:

Old Indic (**bḥind-*) bindū-ḥ `drop': Illyrian FIG Bindus prove that Illyrian- Phrygian were the intermediaries of satem and centum languages.

In Greek, between consonants and initially  $h_1 > e$ ,  $h_2 > a$ , and  $h_3 > o$ . In Indo-Iranian languages such as Sanskrit, each laryngeal becomes i,

References: WP. II 110, Petersson Heterokl. 204 f., A. Mayer Gl. 29, 69 ff.

Page(s): 95

---

Root / lemma: bar-bar-

See also: see below ba-ba-

Page(s): 95

---

Root / lemma: bata-

Meaning: murmur, babble

Material: Old Indic bata interjection of the astonishment `oh, blow ', batá-ḥ `weakling? '; abret. bat, nbret. bad `numbing, dizziness ', bada, badaoui `talk thoughtlessly ', bader, badaouer `mouth monkey', acorn. badus `moonstruck ', gr. βατταρίζω `stammers ', βαπτολογέω `chats pointless stuff ' (compare Blaß-Debrunner<sup>7</sup> p. 40 appendices).

References: WP. II 105.

Page(s): 95

---

Root / lemma: bau

Meaning: sound of barking

Material: Gr. βαῦ βαῦ `dog barking ', βαῦζω `barks, blasphemes ', Βαυβώ `bugbear, Hecate ', Latin baubor, -ārī `to bark gently or moderately '; a little bit differently uses Lithuanian baũbti `bawl, bellow ' from ox, baũbis cattle God as `bawler ', serb. bau bau `fright word ', baũkati `get a fright ' etc

Maybe alb. (**baubi*) bubi `dog'.

Gr. βαυβάω `sleep' is, like βαυβών `penis', folklike code word.

References: WP. II 104, WH. I 99, W. Oehl IF. 56, 119.

Page(s): 95

---

Root / lemma: ba<sup>x</sup>b-, b<sup>h</sup>a<sup>x</sup>b<sup>h</sup>-, pa<sup>x</sup>p-

Meaning: to swell

Note: (as ba<sup>x</sup>mb-, s.d.)

Material: Old Indic pippala-h ` berry, paradise fig tree ', pippalaka-h ` breast nipple '. piplu-h ` pimple, mole, mark on the body ("witch's tits" - any kind of mark on the body that a witch could use to suckle a demon) ' (probably actually ` blister, vesicle '); Latin papula ` a pimple, vesicle ', papilla ds. ` nipple, teat, breast '; Lithuanian pãpas ` nipple, teat, breast, tit ', popà ` ulcer ', pu puolo ` thick bud ' (u can be Redukt.-stem to a, or assimilated in following uo, but also the root derived form pu- ).

Unchanged or neologism Swedish-Norwegian Dialectal pappe ` women's breast ', Middle English pappe, engl. pap ` nipple, teat, breast '; besides u- forms see below p(h)ũ- ` inflate, swell '.

Also besides under baba- combined babble and child words, like engl. baby, stand Middle High German buoben Pl. ` feminine breasts ', West Flemish babbe ` growth, swelling, lump ' (Indo Germanic b<sup>h</sup> or in the onomatopoeic word unpostponed b) which will belong from the image of the inflated cheeks in our circle.

References: WP. II 107.

Page(s): 91

---

Root / lemma: ba<sup>x</sup>mb-

Meaning: a kind of noise

Material: Gr βόμβος m. (out of it Latin bombus) ` a boom, deep hollow noise ', βόμβυξ, - ὕκος ` fleas ', βομβύκια ` humming insects ', βομβύλη ` narrow-necked vessel ' (as ` gurgling '), βομβυλιός or -ύλιος ` bumblebee ' (and ` narrow necked vessel '); about βαμβαίνω ` clatters with the teeth; stammer, lisp ' see below baba-;

Maybe Italian bombo : Spanish abejorro; bombo : French bourdon : Aragones bombolón : Asturian babarón : Catalan borinot : Galician abellón : Latin Bombus terrestris : Valencian borinòt ` bumble bee; humblebee ' : Lithuanian biñbalas, biñbilas Albanian : bumballa ` gadfly, horsefly '.

alb. bumbulit ` it thunders ';

Germanic with by neologism prevented sound movement Old Icelandic bumba ` drum ', Danish old bomme, bambe ` drum ', holl. bommen ` to drone ' (compare auch Modern High German bum bum, a little bit similarly Modern High German bammeln, bimmeln ` ring, sound ');

Lithuanian bambėti 'hum', in ablaut biṃpti ds., biṃbalas, biṃbilas 'gadfly, horsefly'; russ.-Church Slavic búbenъ, bubonъ 'drum', russ. bubnítъ 'chat, babble', poln. bęben 'drum'.

References: WP. II 107, Trautmann 26, WH. I 111.

Page(s): 93-94

---

Root / lemma: bde/-

Meaning: to suck

Material: Gr. βδάλλω 'sucks', βδέλλα 'leech'; Modern High German zullen 'suck in a sucking sac', zulp 'piece of cloth used for soaking up liquid', Dutch tullen 'drink, booze, sup', Modern High German tulken 'suck, drink with large gulps, quaff'? Kretschmer KZ. 31, 423; very uncertain because of more similar Germanic words like Norwegian tūna 'drink a lot' (see Falk-Torp under ty/de). If the connection applies, was Indo Germanic initial sound bḍ-, or it is gr. β - perhaps in child language? - from πττ- = ἐπττ shortened prefix (bē- 'suck'?).

References: WP. II 119.

Page(s): 95

---

Root / lemma: bed-

Meaning: to swell?

Material: Old Indic badva-m 'troop, heap; a certain high number'; Old Church Slavic (etc) bedro 'thigh'; Armenian port (**bodro-*) 'navel, belly, center'.

Wrong etymology, probably it derived from Root / lemma: bhedh-1: 'to pierce, dig see there'.

Maybe here Swedish Dialectal patte 'woman's breast, nipple', isl. patti 'small child', engl. pat 'small lump (from butter)'; the forms standing besides with Germanic b-, Old Danish arsbatte 'buttock', Swedish Dialectal batt 'of small heaps' then showed the same auslaut fluctuation as b(h)eu-, b(h)ũ- 'inflate, swell', wherewith root b(h)ed- (: b(h)u-d-, -t) had the origin from the image of the inflated cheeks together.

Latin bassus 'stout, fertile, fat', roman 'low, menial', stays away.

References: WP. II 109, WH. I 98, 477, 851, Kretschmer Gl. 22, 258 f.

Page(s): 96

---

Root / lemma: *bel-1Meaning: to cut offMaterial: Perhaps Armenian pelem `excavates, digs ', at most also Middle Irish belach `cleft, gap, pass, way ' and Celtic **bolko-*, -ā in cymr. bwlch m. `fissure ', bret. boulc'h ds., Middle Irish bolg f. (das g after tolg ds.)?References: WP. II 110; about not existierendes Old Indic bāra `Öffnung' s. Wackernagel under Debrunner KZ. 67, 171 f.Page(s): 96Root / lemma: *bel-2Meaning: strongMaterial: Old Indic bāla-m n. `force, strength, power ', bālīyān `stronger ', bālīṣṭha-ḥ `the strongest '; gr. βελτίων, βέλτερος `better ', βέλτιστος, βέλτατος `best ' (this -τ- by reorganization from *βελίων, *βέλτιστος after φέρτερος etc);Latin dēbilis `feeble, weak '; Old Church Slavic (**bol-(i)is-ios*) bolъjъ `greater', bolje Adv. `more, rather, to a greater extent, plus ' and `very, more '. Uncertain Dutch-ndd.-Frisian pal `motionless, steadfast '.With lengthened grade Old Indic bālā-ḥ `young, childish ', m. `boy, kid, child', f. `girl '.Maybe in i-grade alb. (**bālā*) bila `girl ', bir'son, boy' : Old Indic bālā-ḥ, where l/r are allophones.References: WP. II 110 f., WH. I 326 f.Page(s): 96Root / lemma: *bend-, bṇd-no-Meaning: spike, needle, penis, nail, horn etc.Note: perhaps in following Celtic and Germanic words:Material: Middle Irish benn `horn, summit ' (**bṇd-no-* or **bend-no-?*), bennach `pointed ', cymr. bann m. `hill, summit, horn (**bṇd-no-*)', Middle Breton ban `eminence, overhang, haughtiness, pride ', gall. **ande-banno-* > French auvent `(*protection roof) canopy, shield, shelter ' (actually `big horn '), Jud Rom. 49, 389 f., gall. dial. lacus Bēnācus, if for Bennācus, `the horned ' (Sirmione), from **benno-* (Indo Germanic **bend-no-* or **bṇd-no-*); (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), West-Flemish pint `cusp, point ', Middle Low German pint `penis', Middle High German (Middle Low German) pinz `awl ', Old English pintel `penis' (engl. pintle also still `peg '), Norwegian pintol `penis', wherefore probably with ablaut Modern High German-Bavarian pfouzer, pfunzer 'sharpened cudgel, club'; with Celtic forms to suitable n-suffix (**penn-* from **bend-n-*) Old Low German pin 'wooden pin, peg, small stake', Middle Low German pin, pinne 'pin, point, nail, peg', Middle High German pfinne f. 'nail', Old English pinn 'peg, staff, stick', Late Old Icelandic pinni m. ds., ablaut. **pann-* in East Frisian penne = pinne, nld. pennen 'latch a door (with a bolt)', Old English on-pennian 'open (*the pen)', engl. pen 'enclose so as to prevent from escaping; shut in, confine (shut in a pen)', Old English penn m. 'pen, fold'.

Maybe alb. pendë 'pair of oxen tied together' [common alb. n > nd shift] homonym to alb. pendë 'feather': Latin penna 'feather'.

References: Johansson KZ. 36, 347 f. (also against borrowing of Pinne from Latin pinna, in which Kluge<sup>11</sup> sticks).

WP. II 109 f.

Page(s): 96-97

Root / lemma: b(e)u-1, b<sup>h</sup>(e)u- (**b<sup>h</sup>eHu-* > b<sup>h</sup>Hu-iH-t)

Meaning: expr. sound of hitting

Material: Npers. būm 'owl'; Armenian bu, buēč 'owl' (without consonant shift in onomatopoeic word), gr. βῦᾱς m., βῦζα f. 'eagle owl', βύζειν 'cry like an 'eagle owl', Latin būbō 'eagle owl', Bulgarian buh 'eagle owl', russ. búchatʹ 'shout vaguely and persistently long';

Maybe alb. (**buph*) buf 'owl': Rumanian bufniță; buhă 'owl'

Lithuanian baublỹs 'great bittern', baũbti 'roar, bellow', bubenù 'drones vaguely'; Latin būtio 'great bittern', būteo 'a falcon's kind'; gr. βοή 'call, cry, shout', βοᾶω 'shouts, cries' (out of it Latin boāre 'shout, cry'), βοστρέω 'call, cry for help' (*βοφοαστρέω), seem to be shaped from such bū- as rhyme words to γοή, γοᾶω (see root gōu-).

With ending in a guttural sound: Old Indic búk-kāra-h 'roar of the lion', bukkati 'barks' (Avestan bučahin- 'he who is prone to howling and snarling / hissing', buxti- 'howl, hissing'), gr. βύκτης 'howling'.

Maybe Hungarian bagoly 'owl' (*'horned bird?')

Perhaps Middle Irish bōchna 'sea' ('*roaring breaker'; basic form **boukaniā*); Lithuanian būkčius 'stammerers', Latvian būksķēt 'resound vaguely'; Slavic buk- (from zero grade of **bouk-*) in russ.-Church Slavic bučati 'drone, roar', serb. bûčēm, búkati 'roar', búčīm, búčati 'roar (from the sea)';

Maybe alb. (**bučati*) bučas `roar (from the sea) '

**būk-* in russ. etc byk `bull (*roar of the bull)'; about angebl. **bŭk-* in Old Church Slavic бѣčela, бѣčela `bee' (compare russ. byčáť `hum, from bees ') see below b<sup>h</sup>e- and WH. I 555; nasalized poln. bąkać `talk in a low voice, murmur ', bąk `great bittern ', old `cry like a great bittern (bird that booms/ roars like an ox during mating '); in the application to vague blow push russ. búkatъ, búchatъ (**bouk-s-*) `bump, hit that resounds ', buch `fall! ', serb. búhnuti `break out', bušiti `hit, throw, fall, fall with noise ', Lithuanian bukùoti, Latvian baũkš `description of sound produced by a strong blow ', presumably also buka `punch' (also Lithuanian bukùs `dull' here as `become dull through hitting '?); Middle High German buc `blow, push ' (without sound movement by continual running beside neologism), puchen, buchen, Modern High German pochen, Dutch beuken `hit, bump ', Swedish boka, bauka, buka ds. (however, also `dig, spade, thrash about ', as Old Icelandic bauka; this versch. word? see also WH. I under faux), engl. to poke `bump, sting ', Norwegian pok, pauk `crude cudgel, club ', perhaps Middle Irish bŭalaim `hit' (**bougl* ..., or to b<sup>h</sup>āu-d- `hit').

Maybe from the extended Root / lemma: *b(e)u-1, b<sup>h</sup>(e)u- : `expr. sound of hitting' derived

Root / lemma: *b<sup>h</sup>eg-, b<sup>h</sup>eng- : `to break' in: alb. (**beuka*) buka `bread' : Phrygian βεκόσ `bread', actually `crumb'.

References: WP. II 112 f., WH. I 111, 119, 124, 470.

Page(s): 97-98

---

Root / lemma: *b(e)u-2, b<sup>h</sup>(e)ũ- (**b<sup>h</sup>eHu-* > b<sup>h</sup>Hu-iH-t)

Meaning: to swell, puff

Note: Explosive sound of the inflated cheek, like pu-, phu see d .; running beside primeval creation crosses the sound-lawful development, so that e.g. Germanic forms with pu- from Indo Germanic bu-, but from unpostponed Indo Germanic or new pu- are explainable. From the concept of the inflated cheek the meaning `swell, plump bloated (then convex) of the most different kind ', also `make bulge, stuff, darn ' and `blow, cough '. Originally differently the onomatopoetic words b(e)u-1 for vague onomatopoetic sounds and bu- `lip, kiss '.

Material: Gr. βῦ ἐπὶ τοῦ μεγάλου ἐλέγετο καὶ Σώφρων βύβα, ἀντὶ τοῦ μεστὰ καὶ πλήρη καὶ μεγάλα EM; presumably here also βουνός `hill ' (dialect), βουνιάς `a turnip kind ', βουνίζω `piles up ', βούνιον `any plant of the Umbelliferae family '; redupl. βουβών `the groin, glands near the genitals, part. in morbidly swollen state '; nisl. pŭa `blow, breathe '.

Reduplicates as βύβα, βουβών also Lithuanian bubsù, bubsėti 'throw up bubbles' (from water or fermenting dough), Middle Low German bubbeln 'throw up bubbles, surge', Swedish bobba 'bombast, grandiloquence, fin, insect', bubba 'louse' and 'Trollius europaeus' (with Indo Germanic b<sup>h</sup> or with consonant shift prevented by new creation of b), Old Norse býfa (**b<sup>h</sup>ūb<sup>h</sup>iōn-*) 'big, lumpy foot', Norwegian dial. būve, būva 'thicker, uncouth, clumsy person, scarecrow, also a word for male member'.

With certain b<sup>h</sup>:- Old Indic bhū-ri-ḥ 'rich, a lot, immense', compounds bhūyas-, bhāvīyas-, Superl. bhūyiṣṭha-ḥ, Avestan būiri- 'plentiful, full, complete', compounds-Adv. baiyō 'more, timewise =) longer, on longer than', Superl. bōištəm 'most, greatest number of things, very much, most possible'; Armenian bavel, bovel 'suffice'; Lithuanian būrỹs 'heap (houses), amount (sheep, birds, also rain)', Latvian būra 'heap (people)'; without r-suffix: Old Church Slavic bujь (**b<sup>h</sup>ouio-*) 'wild, cruel, brainless', russ. bújnyj 'growing vehemently, wildly, excessively'; from here nld. bō, böje, Dutch bui 'gust, gust of wind, shower'?

Maybe alb. bujë 'fuss' a Slavic loanword.

gr. φόα ἐξανθήματα ἐν τῷ σώματι Hes.; with lengthened grade **b<sup>h</sup>ōu-* gr.-Ionian φωϊδες, Attic φῶδες 'blisters'; gr. φαίσιγξ, φαῦστιγξ 'blister, bubble' (with Abl. θου besides ōu).

Also the root b<sup>h</sup>eu- 'become, originate' is probably developed from 'swell', compare the meaning of Old Indic prábhūta-ḥ 'rich, numerous' (: bhávati) with that of bhūri-ḥ.

extensions with / are perhaps: Old Indic buri-ḥ, buli-ḥ (unbel.) 'buttock, vulva' = Lithuanian bulis (also bùlé, bulē) 'buttocks', gr. βυλλά βεβυσμένα Hes., Middle Low German poll 'head, point, treetop' (**bulno-*), Middle Low German pull, poll '(bloated) shell, pod', engl. pulse 'legume'; changing through ablaut Middle Low German puył 'bag', puyła 'swelling, lump, growth'; with b<sup>h</sup>:- Gothic ufbauljan, only in participle ufbaulidai (*inflated), conceited, haughty', Old High German paula f. 'a pimple, bubble', Old English byle, Old High German pūlla, Middle High German biule 'swelling, blister', Old Norse beyla 'hump, outgrowth', Old Swedish bolin, bulin 'swollen'; Old Irish bolach 'swelling, blister' (**b<sup>h</sup>ulāk-*, at most b<sup>h</sup>ol- to b<sup>h</sup>el- 'to swell'); Armenian boil, Gen. Pl. buliç 'crowd, amount, herd', serb. búljiti 'open the eyes wide in a stare, to goggle'.

Dental extensions: gr. βύτανα κόνδυλοι, οἱ δε βρύτανα Hes. (but βυτινή λάγυνος ἢ ἀμῖς. Ταραντινοῖ Hes., origin Germanic-rom. kinship of Modern High German Bütte, Latin buttis barrel, cask, keg, cask', corresponds gr. πῦτινῆ `demijohn, wickerbottle, carboy ', see pŭ- 'inflate, bloat '); here probably poln. buta `pride ', bucić się `brag, boast '.

Old Indic budbuda-ḥ `blister, bubble ', gr. βυζόν πυκνόν, συνετόν, γαῦρον δε καὶ μέγα Hes. ( **budio-*, perhaps `distended, bloats '? Yet see below βύζην S. 101); Norwegian pŭte `pillow, cushion ', pŭta `bulky woman ', Swedish puta `be inflated ', puta `pillow, cushion' (dial. `female pudenda '; with the same application perhaps gr. βύπτος γυναικὸς αἰδοῖον Hes.), engl. to pout `push the lips forward, usu. as an expression of displeasure, sullenness, or flirtatiousness; show displeasure, sulk ' ( **to swell* ), pout `a young domestic fowl, a chicken, a young turkey, pheasant, pigeon, guinea-fowl ', Old English æle-pŭte ds. (capitō, actually `big-head '), Dutch puit `frog '; with Germanic -d- (-b-): ndd. puddig `swollen ', Old English puduc `swelling, lump, growth, wart ', Middle English ndd. podde `toad ' with not yet cleared meaning development Old English pudd `water ditch ', Middle English podel, engl. puddle, Modern High German Dialectal Pfudel `a small pool of muddy water, esp. one formed on a road or path after rain ', as also (with Germanic t) Norwegian Dialectal pøyta, westf. pōt ( **pauta* ) `slop, puddle, pool '; as a convex curvature in addition perhaps Old English pott, Old Frisian Middle Low German pot `pot, pan ' (different Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Pott); compare Armenian poytn, Gen. putan `pot, soup pot, jug ' from **beud-n-* or **boud-n-*.

With Germanic b-: Old High German būtil, Middle High German biutel `sac, bag, pocket'; isl. budda `sac, bag, purse', Old English budda `dung beetle ', Middle English budde `bud ' and `beetle, chafer ', budden `redound ' ( **to swell* ), engl. bud `bud', to bud `redound', Middle Low German buddich `thickly inflated ', nndd. budde `louse, cock chafer grub; fright picture '; Middle Low German buddelen, bod(d)elen `throw bubbles, foam ', Norwegian Dialectal boda `roar, bubble, from the water '; Old Norse boði `breaker, surge, breakers, surf '; Middle High German butte, Modern High German Hagebutte;

besides with Germanic -tt-: Middle Low German botte, Dutch bot `bud', Middle High German butze `lump, mucus; goblin, fright figure ', Modern High German Butze(n), Butz `fright figure; lumps, mucus, crowd; cores ', etc, ndd. butt `clumsy, dull, coarse ', Middle High German butzen `to swell'; besides with -t- after long vowel or diphthong Middle High German buzen `swell, jut out, bulge (from the belly, the eyes) ', Old High German bōzo `a bundle of flax ', Middle High German bōze ds.; ridiculous person, knave, boy ';

perhaps Lithuanian budėlė 'a kind of mushroom', Slavic **bъdъla* in Czech bedla 'a saprophytic fungus of the order Agaricales having an umbrella-like cap with gills on the underside', bedly Pl. 'oral fungi, funguettes in oral or nasal cavity'; from Armenian here besides poytn (see above) also ptut, Gen. pttoy 'fruit' and ptuk, Gen. ptkan 'green branch, young shoot' and 'breast, nipple, teat'.

Old Irish buiden 'troop, multitude, crowd', cymr. byddin, abret. bodin ds. has root-like u and belongs likewise here.

Labial extension: Old English pyffan 'blow out, puff out', engl. puff 'puff, blow, be inflated', Norwegian puffa, nnd. puffen.

guttural extensions:

Latin bucca 'the cheek, esp. when puffed out. Transf., a declaimer, bawler; a parasite; a mouthful'; Middle High German pfūchen, Modern High German (p)fauchen (can contain unpostponed Indo Germanic p, compare Lithuanian pūkšti 'pant, gasp, wheeze'); Swedish puk 'swelling, lump, growth, tubers', Old Norse poki m. 'sac, bag, sack, bag', engl. poke ds., Modern High German dial. Pfoch 'sac, bag', Old English pohha, pocca 'sack, bag, sac, bag', engl. pocket 'pocket', mndd. nndd. pogge, pugge 'frog, toad; swelling, lump, growth in the abdomen with cows and mares', Old English pocc 'blister', Modern High German (actually nnd.) Pocke, dial. Pfoche 'blister'; Old Norse pūki m. 'devil', Old English pūca, pūcel, engl. puck 'fairy demon, ghost' (from Germanic derived Irish pūca 'ghost', perhaps also Latvian pūk'is 'dragon'); zero grade nnd. pōk 'subnormal person in growth', Norwegian Dialectal pauk 'small, weak person, knave, boy' (about Gothic puggs 'sac, bag, purse', Old Norse pungr, Old English pung ds. and scaz-(p)fung 'purse' s. though Feist 385).

With Germanic b: Middle English nengl. big (**bugja-*) 'thick, big, large, conceited'; Norwegian Dialectal bugge 'mighty man', Middle English bugge (engl. bug) 'a lump of (semi-)dried nasal mucus, booger; chafer, bedbug; bugbear, spectre, bogeyman', Modern High German Dialectal bogg(e) 'booger, the core in fruit or the carpels of an apple or a pear, bugbear, spectre, bogeyman'.

Here presumably Germanic **buh-* (Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>uk-*) in Old High German buhil 'foreland, hill', Old Icelandic bōla f. 'swelling, blister, shield boss' (**buhlōn-*) and **būk-* (Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>ūg-*) in Swiss Bücki 'keg', engl. buck 'bucket, pale' and Old Icelandic būkr 'belly, body'; Old English būc 'belly, crock, pitcher', Old High German būh, Modern High German Bauch, in addition Latvian bugarains 'tubercular', buga 'hornless cow',

budzis `swelling, blister, unripe Fruit'; but Lithuanian baũžas `hornless', buzỹš `scarecrow, bogie, spectre', būžỹs `bedbug, louse', búože `club, mace, joint, pinhead' (úo probably from ōu, compare above S. 99 φωῖδες) can contain Baltic ž as single-linguistic forms and are based on the unextended root.

s-extension:

Gr. βῦνέω > (*βῦνέσω, to u: s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 692), βύω (*βυσω), βεβυσμένος, βυστός `to cram, fill, chock, stuff, ram up', βύστρον, βύσμα `bung, clot, thrombus', βύζην (βυσ-δην) `crushed, thrust, thronged, full'; alb. mbush `fill'; Middle Irish būas `sac, bag, pocket, belly' (*b<sup>h</sup>ousto-, compare Old Icelandic beysti `ham'),

Note:

alb. mbush `fill' [common alb. shift b- > mb-].

Old Norse pūss `pocket, sac, bag', isl. pose, Old English pusa, posa, Old High German pfoso `sac, bag'; with the more originary meaning `blow, inflate, bloat, to swell', Old Swedish pȳsa `pant, sniff, snort', Middle High German pfūsen `pant, sniff, snort, sneeze', sich pfūsen `self inflating, inflated', Modern High German Dialectal pfausen, Old English pos `catarrh, waterfall', engl. pose `a cold in the head, catarrh', mndd. pūsten `pant, sniff, snort', pūster `bellows', Modern High German pusten (actually ndd.) Dialectal pfauten, Old Norse pūstr `slap in the face, box on the ear' (as French soufflet to souffler); Norwegian pūs `swelling, lump, growth', peysa, pūsna `to bloat, bulge, swell', Swiss pfūsige `swollen', Modern High German Pfausback, with ndd. anlaut Pausback (besides Bausback with Germanic b-, see below); Norwegian Dialectal pusling `toddler, fairy demon, ghost, goblin', Swiss Pfosi `toddler, clumsy, stupid person' (`short and thick'); Norwegian pūs, pøysa `mud puddle', Old Norse pyss ds. (in place names).

Mit Germanic b (= Indo Germanic b<sup>h</sup>, partly perhaps unpostponed or the new b): Old English bōsom (Germanic **būs-mo(n)-*), Old High German buosam, Middle High German buosem, buosen, Modern High German Busen, Middle High German būs `vanity, arrogance, pomposity, flatulence, bloatedness, inflatedness, bumptiousness, conceitedness, vaingloriousness, swelling fullness', būsen `indulge oneself', Modern High German bausen `to booze, bouse, quaff, tipple, carouse, swell', Baus `abundance, tumor, inflation', Bausback, Bausch `swelling, turgescence, bulgy cushion, stuffed breast', Middle High German būsch `bulge; bead; lip; torus; wreath; roll; bulb, wad, plumper', Old Norse busilkinna `woman (with chubby cheeks)', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), a chubby-cheeked woman', Norwegian baus `proud, rollicking, wanton, violent, quick-tempered ', Old High German bōsi `stonyhearted, bad ', Modern High German böse, Middle English bōsten, nengl. to boast `brag, boast ' (*`blow up '), Modern High German beysinn `thick, wide and large (from clothes)', būstinn ds., (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Icelandic beysti `ham', Modern High German Dialectal Baust `bulge; bead; lip; torus; wreath; roll; bulb ', bauste(r)n `to swell', Old High German biost, Modern High German Biest-milch (actually `fat milk '), Old English bēost, bȳsting, engl. beastings, biestings ds., Norwegian Dialectal budda (**buzdōn-*) ds. (insecure is, whether Swedish Dialectal buska `fresh, fermenting beer ' and associated with it as **beuza-* is to be added Old High German bior, Old English bēor `beer ' as `frothing at the mouth, foaming, bubble-throwing, blistering '; about other interpretations of beer see Kluge<sup>11</sup> and Weigand-Hirt).

Russ. búchnutʹ `to bloat, bulge, swell, gush, well up', sloven. būhnem, búhniti `to bloat, bulge, swell, sich inflate, bloat', búhor `vesicle, blister ', kasch. bucha `pride, hauteur ' (**baṣā*).

There is used probably the following group which meaning `blasting forth, sallying forth ' from `swell' can be developed: Old Icelandic bysia `stream out with big power '; Norwegian Dialectal bøysa `storm forth '; Swedish busa `dismay, hurtle out '; East Frisian būsen `be violent, roar, make a noise, attack ' (and `live the high life, high on the hog / or high off the hog, have a luxurious lifestyle ', compare above Middle High German būsen `indulge oneself'), būsterig `stormy ', Old Church Slavic bystřь `board up; strand; take away; bring; mishit; wallop; thrash ', russ. býstryj `fast, sharp sighted, rapid from the current ' (**b<sup>h</sup>ūs-ro-*).

References: WP. II 114 f., Trautmann 28, 39.

Page(s): 98-102

Root / lemma: bē, bā

Meaning: sheep's bleating

Material: Gr. βῆ, Latin bēbō, -āre `bleat, shout, from a young deer', bālāre and Vulgar Latin bēlāre `bleat ', Modern High German bāh, Slavic (e.g. klr.) békatī `bleat ', Latvian bē, bēku, biku Interj. `bleating, grousing, blatant ', Old Icelandic bekri `Aries, ram ', Swiss bäckeln (*from the alpine chamois); similarly Old Irish béiccíthir `bellow, roar ', cymr. beichio `bellow', perhaps also Old Indic bēkurā `voice, sound, tone', all single-linguistic neologisms. Similarly Old Irish béiccíthir `roars', cymr. beichio `mugire', perhaps Old Indic bēkurā `voice, tone ', all single-linguistic new formations.

References: WP. II 121, WH. I 95, 99.

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ab<sup>h</sup>ā

Meaning: bean

Note: compare to Sachlichen Hoops Waldb. 350, 400 f., 464 f., Hehn Kltpfl.<sup>8</sup> 221, 570, Schrader RL.<sup>2</sup> 159 f.

Material: Latin faba (Faliscan haba) 'the broad bean' (in addition the PN Fabius, Fabidius etc and the island Fabāria),

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift

russ. etc bobъ, Old Prussian babo ds. Probably reduplicated babble-word and as 'inflated, bulged pod, tumescence' related to gr. φακός m. 'lentil': alb. bathë f. 'broad bean' (*b<sup>h</sup>akā).

Note: common alb. shift -kh > -th also -gh > -dh

Also Old Icelandic baun, Old English bēan, Old High German bōna 'bean' (Baunonia Frisian island by Plinius) have originated probably through dissimilation from *baḥnā to *ḥaunā.

Note:

The assumption of a duplicated Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ab<sup>h</sup>ā (b<sup>h</sup>a-b<sup>h</sup>ā) seems to be wrong. Common Latin k<sup>w</sup> > p corresponds to common gr. g<sup>w</sup> > b: gr. φοῖβος 'clean, gleaming', φοιβάω, φοιβάζω 'clean', ἀφοίβαντος 'smudges' (*b<sup>h</sup>oig<sup>w</sup>-o-), ἀφικτός, ἀφικτρός (*b<sup>h</sup>ig<sup>w</sup>-) 'impure, unclean'. That means gr. φακός m. 'lentil' and alb. bathë f. 'broad bean' derived from an intermediary root (*b<sup>h</sup>ak<sup>w</sup>ā) and that one from Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eig<sup>w</sup>-: 'to shine'. Obviously Germanic forms *baḥnā derived from Illyrian *bathna (alb. bathë f. 'broad bean'); common alb. nasalization t > nt > n.

References: WP. II 131, WH. I 436.

Page(s): 106

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ag-1

Meaning: to divide

Material: Old Indic bhajati 'allocates, apportions, divides' = Avestan bag- (bažāt) 'be determined as an interest', Old Indic bhaga-ḥ 'property, luck', Avestan baga-, baya- n. 'favorable interest, attractive lot'; Old Indic bhaga-ḥ 'allocator, master, mister, epithet of Savitar and another Āditya' = Avestan baya- 'master, mister, god', npers. bay 'god': Old Church Slavic bogъ 'god' (formal also = gr. -φάγος);

Maybe suffixed alb. (*bay-) bagëti 'sheep (animal god)'

Proto Indian (Mitanni) PN Bagarriti (= *b<sup>h</sup>aga-rīti-` blessing stream '), GN Bagbartu (= *b<sup>h</sup>aga-b<sup>h</sup>rt-` blessing donator '), klein Old Saxon VN Βαγαδά(F)ονες (= *b<sup>h</sup>aga-dā-uon-` making a donation '), Kretschmer KZ. 55, 95, Gl. 18, 232;

Old Indic bhaktá-m `repast, meal' = Avestan baxta- participle `as allotted lot '. n. ` assigned lot, fate determination, esp. bad luck '; Old Indic bhakṣati ` enjoys, consumes ' = Avestan baxšaiti ` has or gives lot ', Desid. Old Indic bhikṣate ` requests ';

Phrygian Βαγαῖος Ζεὺς Φρύγιος Hes. (perhaps of Iranian origin); or from to gr. φηγός ` oak '? S. under b<sup>h</sup>āgós;

gr. φαγεῖν `eat', στο-φάγος ` eating grain ', etc; because of gr. φαγόνες σιαγόνες, γνάθοι Hes. perhaps here (Much Zfdt Wtf. 2, 283) Old Saxon (kinni-) bako, Modern High German Backe;

Slavic **bogъ* `lot' in Old Church Slavic ubogъ, nebogъ ` poor ', bogatъ `rich', Old Church Slavic bogъ `god' (proto extension or iran. loanword); GN Daždi-bogъ ` bestowing wealth ';

Tocharian A pāk, B pāke `deal, portion', A pāciṃ `treasure, tribute'.

References: WP. II 127 f., W. Schulze KZ. 60, 138 = Kl. Schr. 469.

Page(s): 107

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ag-2

Meaning: sharp

Material: Cretan φάγρος ` whetstone ', ἀκόνη, φοξός ` pointy heads, pointedheads, pointheads ' (from *φαξός after λοξός ` crooked *(with a pointed angle'?) would compare from Lidén Arm.-stem 57 ff. with Armenian bark (could be = φάγρος) ` bitter, sharp from taste; violent, angry ' compared, yet bark could belong also to Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>org<sup>h</sup>o-s .

References: WP. II 128.

Page(s): 107

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ard<sup>h</sup>ā (*b<sup>h</sup>arġ<sup>h</sup>eh<sub>2</sub> > b<sup>h</sup>ard<sup>h</sup>eh<sub>2</sub>)

Meaning: beard

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ard<sup>h</sup>ā : `beard' derived from the fusion of suffixed Root / lemma: g<sup>h</sup>er-1, g<sup>h</sup>erə- : `to devour; throat' + zero grade g<sup>h</sup>(h)i- `snake, worm, fish' Root / lemma: ang<sup>h</sup>(h)i- : snake, worm, *fish'.

Material:

Maybe alb. Geg (**g<sup>w</sup>er- g<sup>w</sup>ha*) verza ` (*throat), gill of fish' Latvian bārda `gill of fish' : Latvian: bārda `beard' [f ā]; bārzda (dial.) `beard' [f ā] : Greek βράγχια, βραγγία `gill of fish' = Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>er-1, g<sup>w</sup>erə- : `to devour; throat ' + zero grade of Root / lemma: ang<sup>w</sup>(h)i- (**eg<sup>w</sup>hi-*, og<sup>w</sup>hi- and eġhi-): `snake, worm, *fish (*hedgehog = snake eater)' Latin barba `beard' (assimil. from **far-ba*);

Old High German bart, Old English beard `beard' m., therefrom Old High German barta, Old Saxon barda, Old Icelandic barða `hatchet, beards ', because the iron stands like a beard in the handle; from the Germanic Old Church Slavic brady `axe, hatchet ';

Old Church Slavic brada `beard', russ. borodá ds., also `chin', Serbo-Croatian bráda, Akk. brādu `beard' etc;

Old Prussian bordus `beard' (unclear after Trautmann 27);

Latvian bārda and (see to zd under) bārzda, Lithuanian barzdà, Akk. bařzda `beard';

Latin (**b<sup>h</sup>arġ<sup>hw</sup>eh<sub>2</sub>-to-*) barbātus, Old Church Slavic bradatъ, Lithuanian barzdótas `having a beard, bearded'. [common Latin-Illyrian ġ<sup>hw</sup> > b-, Balitic ġ<sup>hw</sup>- > dz-].

Maybe Rumanian bărbat `man, jack, male, husband, spouse (bearded man?)'.

Lithuanian and partly Latvian -zd- is probably through the analogy the Baltic correlation (**barzdā*) caused from Old Church Slavic brazda, russ. boroždá `furrow '.

Maybe alb. brazda `furrow ' a Slavic loanword.

just as Slavic **бръ* `millet, sorghum ' (see below b<sup>h</sup>ar- `bristle ear ') will be based also Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>ar-d<sup>h</sup>ā* `beard' on **b<sup>h</sup>ar-* `bristle, stand up ', next to which extension **b<sup>h</sup>ares-* ds.

References: WP. II 135, WH. I 96, Specht Dekl. 87.

Page(s): 110

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>arek<sup>w</sup>- or b<sup>h</sup>erek<sup>w</sup>-

Meaning: to stuff

Material: Gr. φράσσω, φράττω (**φρακίω* from **b<sup>h</sup>r<sup>k</sup>-*) `encloses, crams into, crowds together ', common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-;

φρακτός `locked in ', with secondary γ: Aor. ἐφράγην (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 760), φραγμός etc, epid. φάρχμα from *φάρκσμα, δρύ-φ[ρ]ακτος `wooden shack, shed ', in addition φύρκος τεῖχος Hes.;

Latin farcio, -ire `to fill full, stuff full, cram ', fartus `stuff, fill up, gorge oneself, cram into ', perhaps frequ-ēns, -tis `crowded, numerous, full; of places, full, frequented, populous; of time, repeated, frequent, constant; of persons, often doing a thing; of things, often done or used ';

Note: common Latin ph > f shift

Middle Irish barc f. `onrush (esp. the waves, billows)'; whereas derives Middle Irish barc f. `fortress ' probably from gallo-rom. **bar(i)ca* `framehouse, a wooden house ' (compare Bollelli L'It. dial. 17, 147 f.);

Tocharian A prākār, B prākre `firmly fixed in place; not easily moved; physically stable ' (Van Windekens Lexique 100).

References: WP. II 134 f., WH. I 456 f., Loth RC. 38, 303 f. Zweifel by EM 332.

Page(s): 110-111

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ares- : b<sup>h</sup>ores-

Meaning: point, stubble (with formants)

Note: With s-extension

Material: b<sup>h</sup>ars-

Latin fastigium (*b<sup>h</sup>arstī-) `the gable end, pediment of a roof; hence a slope, either up or down; of measurements looking up, height; looking down, depth; abstract, high rank, dignity; principal point in a subject ', here perhaps fastus, -ūs m. `pride, haughtiness, arrogance ' (tu-stem), in addition fastidium `loathing, squeamishness, disgust, dislike; hence scorn, haughtiness, disdain ' (from **fasti-tidium*, to taedium); s. also Pisani Rc. R. Ist. Lomb. 76, 2, 17 f.;

Old Irish barr `top, point, summit, foliage ', cymr. corn. bar, bret. barr ds., abrit. PN Cuno-barros `fierce, furious like a battle dog ', gall. **barros* `bush, treetop ' (M.-L. 964).

b<sup>h</sup>ors-

Middle Irish borr `stout, proud, swollen', mcymr. bwrr ds., corn. bor `fat';

Old High German parrēn 'stand up stiffly', parrunga 'pride', Old Icelandic barr 'needle, conifer', Old English bærs, bears, Middle High German bars, Modern High German Barsch, Old High German bersich 'barse, perch'; ablaut. Swedish agh-borre (**borzan*, Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>rs-*) ds.;

ndd. (out of it Modern High German) barsch (**b<sup>h</sup>ors-ko-*) 'coarse, stern, rough'; Middle English burre, borre 'burdock, roughness in the throat', engl. bur(r) ds., Danish-Swedish borre 'burdock', Swedish sjö-borre 'hedgehog', Norwegian dial. borren, byrren 'stout, proud'.

Maybe alb. Geg burrë 'man, valiant man, proud man', burrni 'pride, bravery' mburr 'be proud, boast' [common alb. b > mb].

Note:

Maybe alb. Geg burrë 'man, valiant man, proud man', burrni 'pride, bravery' mburr 'be proud, boast' [common alb. b > mb] proves that Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ares- : b<sup>h</sup>ores- : 'point, stubble' derived from an extended Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-1 : 'to bear, carry' (see below).

b<sup>h</sup>rsti-, b<sup>h</sup>orsti-

Old Indic bhr̥stī-h f. 'prong, spike, cusp, peak, edge, point' = Germanic **bursti-* in Old Icelandic burst f. 'bristle, ridge of the roof', Old English byrst f. 'bristle', Old High German burst, borst m. n., bursta f. 'bristle', Middle High German burste 'bristle brush' (from Pl. from burst 'bristle mass'); Slavic **bъrstjo-* in russ. boršč 'acanthus', boršč 'red turnip soup', etc

With formants -d<sup>h</sup>o-, -d<sup>h</sup>ā-:

b<sup>h</sup>rezd<sup>h</sup>-

Old English breord, breard m. 'edge, bank, border, shore, surface, plain, area' (**brerdaz*), besides briord (**brendia*), Old Swedish brædder ds., New Swedish brädd, etc

b<sup>h</sup>rozd<sup>h</sup>-

Alb. breth, bredhi 'fir';

Maybe alb. (**b<sup>h</sup>rez*) brez 'belt, edge, border'.

Old Irish brof `sting, prick ', acorn. bros, bret. broud ds., compare Middle Irish brostaim `spur on, drive on, goad, incite, arouse ' from *b<sup>h</sup>ros-t (Loth RC. 42, 70), mistakenly O'Rahilly Ériu 13, 169 f.; Old High German brart `edge, border, stem, stem bar, stem post ', Swedish dial. bradd.

b<sup>h</sup>r<sub>o</sub>zd<sup>h</sup>-, b<sup>h</sup>r<sub>o</sub>zd<sup>h</sup>-

Middle Irish brataim `loots, robs ' (in addition bratán `salmon ') = cymr. brathu `sting, bite, drill through '; *b<sup>h</sup>r<sub>o</sub>zd<sup>h</sup>- or *b<sup>h</sup>r<sub>z</sub>zd<sup>h</sup>- to Germanic **bruzd-* in Old High German brort `edge, border', Old English brord m. `cusp, peak, germ, sprout, leaf ', wsächs. breord (**brozd-*),

Old English bryrdan `sting, goad, stir, tease, irritate ', Old Icelandic broddr `cusp, peak, grain germ, cutting edge ', Old High German gibrortōn `to hem, gird, border '; = Balto-Slavic **bruzdā-* in Old Church Slavic brъzda, russ. brozdé `bridle, rein', Lithuanian bruzdùklis, old `bridle, rein', currently `peg, plug, toggle '. Whereas is Lithuanian brizgilas, Old Prussian bisgelan `bridle, rein' probably borrows from proto Germanic brizdila- (Old English brigdels `bridle, rein', bregdan `flax, wattle, braid '). Different Specht Dekl. 142.

References: WP. II 131 ff., WH. I 461 f., 546.

Page(s): 109-110

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ares-

Meaning: barley

Material: Latin far (actually farr), farris n. `spelt, grain, meal ' from **far(o)s*, **far(e)zes* (respectively **fars*, **fars-es*) = Oscan far, Umbrian far, Latin farīna `meal, flour ' (from **farrīna*), farreus = Umbrian farsio, fasiu `made of spelt or wheat, meal ';

Note: common alb. ph- > f- shift

maybe alb. farë `seed, barley seed'

Gothic bariz-eins (= Latin farīna) `from barley', Old Icelandic barr m. `corn, grain, barley', Old English bere `barley' (**bar(a)z-*, respectively **bar(i)z-*); but Slavic **barsina-* in Old Church Slavic brašbno `nourishment, food ', Serbo-Croatian brāšno `meal, flour', russ. bórošno `rye flour ', after Jokl Miletich-Festschr. (1933) 119 ff. rather to b<sup>h</sup>er-1 `bear, carry '.

Maybe alb. bar `grass, pasture, fodder' : Old Icelandic barr m. `corn, grain, barley'.

References: WP. I 134, WH. I 455 f., 864.

See also: compare also b<sup>h</sup>ares- S. 109.

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>aru-, -yo-

Meaning: fir-tree, tree, forest

Material: Old Icelandic bǫrr m. 'tree', Old English bearu, Gen. bearwes m. 'wood, forest, shrubbery, bush', Old High German bara-wāri 'forest ranger...a keeper of a park, forest, or area of countryside, priest'; Slavic **borъ* in russ.-Church Slavic borъ, Pl. borove 'fir, spruce, spruce forest', Serbo-Croatian bör, Gen. böra 'pine tree', Czech borm. 'pinewood'.

References: WP. II 164, Trautmann 26 f., Hoops Waldbäume 362.

Page(s): 109

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ar- : b<sup>h</sup>or- : b<sup>h</sup>r-

Meaning: bristle, stubble, sharp point

Material: Mit vok. formant:

Gothic baíra-bagms 'mulberry tree', engl. black bear-berry 'uva ursi', Norwegian bjørneber 'rubus caesius' are reinterpreted after the bear's name **bara-* 'shrub, bush' = 'briar';

from proto Slavic. **bъrъ* (**b<sup>h</sup>or-*) derive russ. dial. borъ, kir. bor, Gen. bru 'kind of millet, sorghum', Serbo-Croatian bär ds.

Other formations with g are:

Old Irish baíngen f. 'bread' (**barigenā* or **barigonā*), cymr. etc bara m. ds. (**barag-*, compare Latin farrāgō 'mixed fodder for cattle, mash; a medley, mixture').

With formants -ko-:

Middle Irish barc 'spear shaft', cymr. barch f. 'spear, javelin', Slavic bъrkъ in Serbo-Croatian brk 'cusp, peak, germ, sprout, whisker, moustache', Czech brk 'keel, pinion of birds, primary feather, quill-feather', also probably russ. bérce, bérco 'shinbone', dial. 'pole' (Berneker 119).

Perhaps here (with consonant increase) **brokko-* 'badger', Middle Irish brocc, cymr. mbr. broch ds., whether originally 'pointy or sharp snouted, rat faced, incisive looking, spiky' to Latin (Celtic) broccus 'to with protruding teeth', gall. **broccos* 'cusp, peak, spiky', French broche 'spear' etc Unclear is, to what extent Middle Irish brocc 'smut', Gaelic brocach `mottled, speckled, *tabby', cymr. broch `rage, fury, din, fuss, noise, scum, froth, foam', nbr. broc'hed `mad, wicked, evil (= stung, bitten)' are to be owed to secondary semantic change or belong to different stems.

It is striking poln. (Venetic-ill). FIN Brok, perhaps signifies `river badger'.

References: WP. II 134, 163, 164, WH. I 455 f.

Page(s): 108-109

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>asko- (**b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-sko*)

Meaning: bundle, heap

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>asko-: `bundle, heap' is a truncated formation of an older root **b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-sko* from which derived both Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-2: `to bow, bend' and Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>asko-: `bundle, heap' (see below). The alledged root **b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-sko* derived from b<sup>h</sup>egh- [common Illyrian -gh- > -dh-].

Material: Maked. βάσκιοι δεσμοί φρυγάνων and βασκευταί φασκίδες (these genuine gr. vowel form), ἀγκάλαι Hes.; perhaps here gr. φάσκωλος `leather sack';

Latin fascia `bandage, band, girdle, girth, strap, land stripe', fascis `alliance, bundle, parcel; the fasces with excellent hatchet as a token of the imperious power';

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift

Maybe alb. bashkë `together, bound', bashkonj `put together, unite', bashkë `fleece (a bundle of wool)'.

Note:

Alb. proves that from an early root **b<sup>h</sup>egh-* [common Illyrian -gh- > -dh-] derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-2: `to bow, bend' and Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>asko-: `bundle, heap' (see below).

Middle Irish basc `collar, neckband', abrit. bascauda `brazen rinsing boiler' (perhaps originally an earthen and burnt vessel formed about a twisted skeleton good as basket), cymr. baich `burden, load', Middle Breton bech, nbret. beac'h ds.; gallo-rom. **ambi-bascia* `load', alyonn. ambaissi `kneader for the sheaves' (Jud Rom. 47, 481 ff.).

References: WP. II 135 f., WH. I 97, 459 f.

Page(s): 111

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup> āḍ-

Meaning: good

Material: Old Indic bhadrá-ḥ `joyful, gratifying, lucky, good ', n. `luck, salvation', sú-bhadra-ḥ `lovely, superb, pretty, splendid ' = Avestan hu-baōra- `lucky ';

Gothic batiza `better', batista `best', Old Icelandic betre, betstr, Old English bet(e)ra, betst, Old High German bezzir(o), bezzist, Modern High German besser, best, in addition das Adv. of Kompar. Old Icelandic betr, Old English bet (**batiz*), Old High German baz (**bataz*, congealed Neutr. `benefit ');

Old Icelandic batí m. `improvement, salvation', Old Frisian bata m. `benefit, advantage ', Middle High German bazze ds.; Gothic gabatnan `acquire benefit ', Old Icelandic batna `become better ', Old English batian, Old High German bazzen ds.;

with ablaut Gothic bōta f. `benefit', Old Icelandic Old English bōt `improvement, replacement ', Old High German buoz(a) f. `improvement, penance, atonement '.

References: WP. II 151 f., Feist 83, 103, 174, J. Weisweiler Buße (1930).

Page(s): 106

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup> āghú-s

Meaning: elbow, arm

Material: Old Indic bāhú-ḥ m. `arm, esp. forearm; with animals forefoot ', Avestan bāzāu-š `arm', Gen. bāzvō (Armenian bazuk from dem Iran.);

gr. πῆχυς, Aeolic-Doric πᾶχυς `elbow, forearm ', Old Icelandic bōgr, Akk. PL bōgu `arm, shoulder', Old English bōg `shoulder, arm; twig, branch', Old High German buog (Modern High German Bug) `shoulder, hip, haunch, point of shoulder of animals ';

Tocharian A B poke, B pauke `arm'.

References: WP. II 130.

Page(s): 108

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup> āgh-

Meaning: `mud, marsh '

See also: s. b<sup>h</sup> ōgh-.

Page(s): 108

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup> āgó-s

Meaning: beech

Grammatical information: f.

Material: Gr. φηγός, Doric φᾱγός f. 'oak' (compare Specht KZ. 66, 59); Latin fāgus f. 'beech';

Maybe alb. ahu 'beech': Spanish haya, French hêtre, fayard, foyaux, fau, fagette, faye, Fayette, Italian faggio, Aragones fau, Bresciano fò, Breton favenn, Calabrese fagu, Catalan faig, Furlan fajâr, Galician faia, Irish feá, Manx faih, Piemontese fò, Portuguese faia, Romagnolo fâz, Sardinian Campidanese fau, Valencian faig, Venetian fagaro, fagher, Welsh ffawydd 'beech'.

gall. bāgos in PN Bāgācon, Bāgono; Old High German buohha 'beech' (bōkōn-, compare silva Bācenis 'resin' by Caesar and Middle Latin Bōcōnia 'Rhön -an area in Germany'), Old Icelandic bōk f., Old English bōc, bēce (bōkjōn-), in addition Gothic bōka f. 'alphabetic letter', Old Icelandic bōk, Old English bōc, Old High German buoh f. n. 'book (as the wood of rune-tablets)', Old High German buohstap 'alphabetic letter', actually 'beech stick for scratching'.

Nisl. beyki n. 'beech forest' is (because of bæki ds.) writing variant from **bōki*, a late collective to bōk, also is to define perhaps nisl. beykir 'cooper'. Unclear is mir Old Icelandic budkr, baudkr 'first aid kit, medicine box', after Cleasby-Vigfusson 85b a loanword from Middle Latin apotheka 'bin, box, case, crib, tank, bucket' is soil?

Slavic **buza* : **bъzъ* 'elder' in russ. buz m. : slov. bɛz, russ. dial. boz stay away probably; also Kurdish būz 'a kind of elm', goes back to older vūz (from Indo Germanic **uigós*).

Middle High German būche, biuche 'lye', biuchen, būchen 'boil or wash in lye' belongs rather to root b<sup>h</sup> eug(h)- 'clean, sweep'.

Indo Germanic side by side from b<sup>h</sup> āug- (:b<sup>h</sup> əug-: b<sup>h</sup> ūg-) and b<sup>h</sup> āg- is extremely unlikely; compare W. Schulze KZ. 27, 428 = Kl. Schr. 55.

Perhaps after E. Leumann (KZ. 57, 190) to Avestan baga 'interest, portion, lot, fate', also 'fortune cookie tree', because marks were scratched into it by pilgrims.

References: WP. II 128 f., WH. I 445 f., 863 f., E. Passler in 'Frühgesch. unter Sprachw.' (Wien 1948).

Page(s): 107-108

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ā-1, b<sup>h</sup>ō-, b<sup>h</sup>ə- (*b<sup>h</sup>eh<sub>2</sub>-1)

Meaning: to shine

Material: Old Indic bhā (in compound) ` shine, light, lustre ', bhāti ` shines, (he) appears ', bhāti-ḥ `light', bhāna-m n. ` the shiners, apparition ' (compare Old Irish bān `white', Old English bōnian `polish'), bhānū-ḥ `light, ray, sun' (: Old Saxon banu-ṭ), bhāma-ḥ `light, shine';

Avestan bā `shine, appear, seem' only with ā- (avāntəm `the resembling, the similar'), frā (fra-vāiti `shines out') and vi- (vi-bā `gleam, shine', Benveniste BSL. 32, 86 f.), vīspō-bām(y)a- `all gleaming', bāmya- `light, gleaming', bānu- m. `light, ray';

Armenian banam (*b<sup>h</sup>ā-n-) `open, reveal, divulge, uncover, expose' (if actually `point, allow to become visible'), Aor. ba-t'si, compare gr. φαίνω and alb. bâj;

gr. πεφύσεται `will appear', *b<sup>h</sup>ə-n- in present φαίνω (*φανῖω instead of *φά-vω Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 694) `makes visible, points', φαίνομαι `appear, seem, shine, gleam' (ἐφάνην, Aor. ἔφηνα);

φανερὸς `obvious, apparent, clear', φανή `torch'; φάσις `rising of a star' (see also under b<sup>h</sup>ā-2), φάσμα, -ατος `apparition, face, omen, sign' (compare πεφασμένος);

ἀμφαδόν, ἀμφάδιος `apparent, manifest, obvious' (ἀνα-φ-); φάντα λάμποντα Hes. (to *φᾱμι = Old Indic bhāti); compare ἀργύ-φεος, ἄργυφος `glossy white';

alb. Geg bâj, Tosc bënj (= φαίνω) `make, seem' (originally probably `bring to an apparition');

Note:

Alb. uses a taboo explanation which reflects the religious aspect of the cognate.

Old Irish bān `white', oíb f. (**opi-b<sup>h</sup>ā*) `apparition, beauty';

Old Saxon banut `touchwood, tinder'; Old English bōnian `polish' (i.e. `make gleaming'), nnd. (and out of it Modern High German) bōnen `scour, rub, clean, beans', Middle High German büenen `beans' (\*white)' (from Gothic bandwa, -wō `mark, token, sign', bandwjan, Old Icelandic benda `give a mark, token, sign' here belong - perhaps as  $\mu$ -derivative of participle b<sup>h</sup>ā-nt- `shining, seeming' -, is doubtful. Lithuanian by Feist 79 f.); s-extension b<sup>h</sup>ā-s-: Old Indic bhāś- n. (ved. also disyllabic), Instr. bhāsā `light, shine, glory, magnificence, power', subhās- `having beautiful shininess', bhā-sati `glares, gleams', bhāsant- `gleaming', bhāsaḥ n. `light';

Upper Sorbian baju, bać so `burn indiscernibly, gleam', Lower Sorbian bajom, bajaś se `gleam, flicker';

Tocharian A paṃ `clear, bright' (*b<sup>h</sup>əno-), pañi `beauty', B peñijo ds. (Duchesne-Guillemin BSL. 41, 164); A pākär, B pākri, a-pākärtse `open, distinct'; A pā-tsänk, B pa-tsärik `window' (-tsänk etc `gleam, shine'), Van Windekens Lexique 78 f.; B pate, A pāt (in compound) `apparition' (*b<sup>h</sup>ā-ti-), Pisani Re. R. 1st. Lornb. 78, 2, 28.

gr. φώσκει διαφάνει Hes., διαφώσκω `begins to shine' are perhaps (from πι-φαύσκω) reshaped after φῶς, also φωστήρ `lustre, shine, shiner'

Doubtful is, whether Middle Irish basc `red', Old English basu, baso `purple' (*b<sup>h</sup>əs-ko-, -γο-) are to be connected, to Gothic weina-basi `grape', Old High German beri `berry', actually `red berry'? In addition the full grades MN Old High German Buoso, Old Icelandic Bōsi etc?

μ-extension b<sup>h</sup>ā-u-: Old Indic vi-bhāva-h, vi-bhāvan- `radiating, shining, seeming';

gr. hom. φάε (*φαFe) `gleamed, appeared', φαέθων, -οντος `gleaming', φαεσί-μβροτος, Pind. φαυσί-μβροτος `for the bright people shining', φάος (Aeolic φάυος, pamph. φάβος) Attic kontr. φῶς, Gen. φωτός, φάους, `light, salvation', whereof *φαFes-νός in Lesbian φάεννος, Ionian φαινός, Attic φᾶνός `gleaming', hom. φαείνω `gleams'; πιφαύσκω `allows to shine; points, shows, evinces; make known'. Different Specht KZ. 59, 58 f.

Is Germanic **baukna-*, in Old Frisian bāken `emblem, landmark, mark, fire signal', Old Saxon bōkan `mark, token, sign, emblem, landmark', Old English bēacen `mark, token, sign, banner, ensign, flag', Old High German bouhhan `mark, token, sign' from such Germanic **bau-* shaped after **taikna-* `mark, token, sign'?

References: WP. II 122 f., WH. I 454 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 694, 709.

Page(s): 104-105

Meaning: to speak

Material: Old Indic probably in sabhā ` congregation, meeting ' (*`conversation, discussion'; bhā- in Old Indic indeed otherwise - up to bhānati, see below - only in the meaning `shine, appear, seem, shine');

Armenian ban (**b<sup>h</sup>ā-nis*), Gen. -i `word, speech, reason, judgement, thing', bay, Gen. bayi `word, verbalism ' (**b<sup>h</sup>ə-ti-s* = gr. φάτις); bay particle ` (he, she) says ' (= φησί, also bam = φημί, bas = Lesbian φαι from **b<sup>h</sup>ās*);

gr. φημί, Doric φᾱμί `say', φήμη, Doric φάμᾱ `knowledge, shout, call, revelation ' (= Latin fāma `a report, rumor, saying, talk, tradition'; ἀφήμονες ἄρρητοι, οὐκ ὀνομαζόμενοι Hes. and only with Apuleius meeting affāmen `harangue, speech ' needs to be no old equation);

φάσκω `say, believe ' (also βάσκανος, Latin fascinum, see below **baba* onomatopoeic word), φάτις f. `rumor ', φάσις `language, speech, assertion, announcement ' ; with ablaut φωνή `voice';

Latin for, fārī (from **fā-īō(r)* = Church Slavic baju, Old English bōian) `speak';

Latin fācundus `eloquent, fluent, ready of speech ', fātum `an utterance, esp. a divine utterance; hence destiny, fate, the will of a god ', fāma `a report, rumor, saying, talk, tradition ' (Denom. Oscan faamat perhaps `calls '), fābula `talk, conversation; a tale, story, fable, drama, myth ' (**b<sup>h</sup>ā-d<sup>h</sup>lā*), fās actually `divine command or law; sometimes fate, destiny; in gen. right, that which is allowed, lawful', probably from (ne)fās is with infinitive fās (s-stem) `it is (not) to be pronounced ' (different EM 333);

in addition diēs fāstus `day on which the praetor could administer justice, court-days. Transf. a list of these days, with festivals, etc., the Roman calendar; a register, record; a list of magistrates ', fāsti `the list of these days, calendars ' ; as derivative of a participle **b<sup>h</sup>ə-tó-s*, Latin fateor, -ērī, fassus `to confess, admit, allow; to reveal, make known ' = Oscan fatium `speak ', Latin Fātuus `speaking by inspiration', epithet of `foretelling Faunus';

Maybe alb. (**fateor*) fajtor `guilty (*confess, admit guilt)', then truncated alb. faj `guilt'.

Old Icelandic bōn, bøn `request, prayer ', Old English bāen `request, soccage ' (**b<sup>h</sup>ā-ni-s*, or with ō-gradation as gr. φωνή?); Old English bōian `brag, boast' (as Latin fōr from **fāiōr*, Slavic bajō); russ.-serb.-Church Slavic baju, bajati 'tell, discuss, heal, cure', Church Slavic basnъ 'fable, spell, charm', Old Church Slavic balbji, Gen. -bję 'physician, medicine man, magician'.

At a present *b<sup>h</sup>-en- based on Old Indic bhánati 'speaks'; from *b<sup>h</sup>en-u- (or in Germanic reshuffling after spannan) Old High German bannan redupl. verb. 'summon by proclamation (esp. to arms); curse or damn; pronounce an ecclesiastical curse upon', Old English bannan redupl. verb 'summon, order', Old Icelandic banna schw. Verb. 'forbid', whereof Old High German ban, PL banna 'order under penal threat' (Modern High German Bann, Bannwald), Old English gebann, Old Icelandic bann n. 'forbid, ban'.
(under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Tocharian A pā-, pā-ç- 'beg' (Van Windekens Lexique 87 f.).

After Kuiper (AO. XII 262) here (*b<sup>h</sup>ə-s-) Old Indic bhiṣákti 'heals', bhiṣáj- 'physician, medicine man, magician', jav. -bĩs- 'healing'; about Avestan bišazjā compare Kuiper Nasalpras. 44 f.

References: WP. II 123 f., WH. I 437 f., 450, 458 f., 525 f., Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 674 f.

Page(s): 105-106

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āso- or b<sup>h</sup>ēso-

Meaning: a kind of a large bird of prey

Material: Old Indic bhāsa-h- 'a certain bird of prey'; gr. hom. Attic φήνη 'an eagle kind, probably Vultur monachus', was possible from *b<sup>h</sup>ās-nā or *b<sup>h</sup>ēs-nā, also *b<sup>h</sup>ānā (to b<sup>h</sup>ā- 1).

References: WP. II 135.

Page(s): 111

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āt- : b<sup>h</sup>et-

Meaning: to hit

Material: Latin fatuus 'foolish, idiotic, silly, awful, tasteless from taste' (*from beaten the head, dull); gall. loanword Latin battuō, -ere, more recently battō 'to beat, knock', out of it back-borrowed cymr. bathu 'strike coins, mint',

Illyrian Batto 'appellation for rebellion leaders', alb. batoj 'rock the boat' compare also gall. anda-bata 'blind combatant, gladiator fights with a helmet without openings' with ā: russ. batъ 'oaken stick, cudgel, club', Serbo-Croatian bátati 'hit, knock', perhaps also (with ǣ) russ. bótatъ 'trample, swing' etc; perhaps Old Danish bad` 'fight, struggle, damage, pity', Middle Low German bat` 'damage, pity, misfortune', Modern High German Blutbad.

Unclear is the relationship to **b<sup>h</sup>āu-t-* (see below); it must be assumed instead of **b<sup>h</sup>āt-* is perhaps **b<sup>h</sup>uāt-*, or lies a root **b<sup>h</sup>ā-* with variant formant the basic, which is perhaps present in Latin fāmex, -icis` 'a bruise, contusion, bloodshot' (**haematoma*, 'effusion of blood resulted from blow')?

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift

References: WP. II 126 f., WH. I 46, 99, 452, 464.

Page(s): 111-112

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āu-1 : b<sup>h</sup>ū-

Meaning: to hit

Material: a) With present formation -d-:

Latin fūstis (**b<sup>h</sup>ūd-sti-s*) `a knobbed stick, cudgel, staff, club' (= gall. būstis in aprov. bust` 'tree stump' etc), fūsterna` 'knot, burl, burr, stump, snag';

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift, maybe alb. fut, fus` 'hit, insert, copulate'

Old Irish bibdu` 'culpable, fiend' (**b<sup>h</sup>e-b<sup>h</sup>ud-uōts*), Middle Irish búalaim` 'hit' from **b<sup>h</sup>āud-* / ... (or **boug-/* ... to Modern High German pochen above S. 98); probably also Old Irish bodar` 'deaf, stuns, dazes, deafens, baffles', cymr. byddar` 'deaf' (**budaro-*);

Old Icelandic bauta (-aða)` 'hit, bump, poke', Old English bēatan (bēoŋ), Old High German boz(z)an (biez or schw. Verb) ds., Middle High German boz, bōz, būz m. 'blow, knock', Modern High German Amboß, Old English býtel` 'hammer', Middle Low German botel/ds., Middle High German bæzel` 'beetle, hammer', Old Icelandic bøytill` 'penis of horses'; Old Icelandic butr` 'short piece of a tree trunk'; with expressivem tt. nnd. butt` 'dull, clumsy' (in addition the fish name Butte), Middle High German butze` 'truncated piece, clump', Old English buttuc` 'bottom, piece land', Norwegian dial. butt` 'stump, clot, chunk' (also wood skid). But Old English bytt` 'flask, a large cask or barrel, used esp. for wine, ale, or beer' derives from Latin buttis` 'barrel, vat, cask', also cymr. both` 'flask';

Old Icelandic beysta 'knock, hit' (*b<sup>h</sup>aud-sti, compare Latin fūstis); with -sk-suffix perhaps Middle High German būsch 'cudgel, club, blow, knock' (*b<sup>h</sup>ūd-sko-), perhaps different from būsch 'wad, bulge; bead; lip; torus; wreath; roll; bulb', see above S. 101.

b) with ~~f~~-formants:

Alb. mbüt, mbüs 'suffocate, drown', skut. müs 'slay, kill', compare përmismë 'downfallen';

Note:

Common alb. b > mb

Alb. mbüt, mbüs 'suffocate, drown': Old Irish bā(ī)dim 'go under, dive, submerge; sink, drown', cymr. boddi 'drown, flood', corn. bedhy, Middle Breton beuziff 'drown'; cymr. diffoddi 'extinguish, annihilate, erase' from **dī-spād-* (**dī-eks-bad-*).

From Root / lemma: g<sup>h</sup>ādh- : to sink, submerge, derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āu-1 : b<sup>h</sup>ū- : to hit.

Latin confūtō, -āre 'to check, repress; by speech, to put down, silence', refūtō, -āre 'to drive back, check, repress; to refute, disprove' (mit ū from previously au), probably also fūtuō, -ere 'have sexual relations with (a woman), to sleep with';

maybe alb. (**fūtuō*) fut 'have sexual relations with (a woman), penetrate, insert, cheat'

Old Irish fō-botha (**butāt*) 'threatens', verbal noun fubthad, Gothic baup̃s 'deaf, dumb, mute'.

References: WP. II 125 ff., WH. I 259 f., 573 f.

Page(s): 112

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āu-2

See also: s. b<sup>h</sup>ā-1

Page(s): 112

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>ru-, b<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>ro-

See also: s. b<sup>h</sup>ēr- 'braun'

Page(s): 113

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-1 (b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-1 > *b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-r)

Meaning: to pierce, dig

Material: Latin fodiō, -ere, fōdī `to dig; also to dig out; to excavate. Transf. to prick, prod, jog ', fossa `ditch, trench, channel', fodicāre `sting repeatedly, dig, jog '; gall. bedo `canal, ditch, trench, channel' (Wartburg I 313), cymr. bedd, corn. bedh, bret. béz `grave ' ; gall. **bodīca* `fallow field ' (M.-L. 1184);

Gothic badī n. `bed', Old English bedd ds., Old High German etc beti `bed, a garden-plot (to be) filled with plants; a place where osiers, willows, etc., are grown ', Old Norse bedr m. `bedspread, eiderdown ' (Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>io-), originally `a bed burrowed in the ground ', compare Modern High German Flußbett, Beet, engl. bed also `garden bed, garden plot ';

Maybe The connection with Ukr. dial. bedrá `large pit, valley, swamp', Pl. ubiedrze `slope, steep bank' and Lith. bėdrė `swamp, valley', Latv. bedre `pit' > Armenian port (**bodro*-) `navel, belly, center ' > Old Church Slavic (etc) bedro `thigh ' (taboo Slavic cognate) [Root / lemma: bed- : to swell?].

Lithuanian bedù, bedžiaũ, bèsti `prick, bore, dig', badaũ, badýti `prick, bump, poke', bādas `hunger', bėdrė f. `pit, pothole ', Old Prussian boadīs `prick, sting ', em-badusisi `he/she sticks ';

Old Church Slavic bodq, bosti (s-Aor. basъ) `prick', bodl' m. `thorn, backbone ' (**bod-lb*);

Alb. boshti `spindle' a Slavic loanword.

Tocharian A pat-, pāt- `to plough';

perhaps also Hittite píd-da-i (can also be read pádd-da-i) `makes a hole into the earth ', compare Pedersen Hittite 77.

Perhaps here gr. βόθρος, βόθῦνος m. `pit, pothole', Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 262, Zus. 2. Different Petersson Heterokl. 128 ff.

Probably in addition Celto-Germanic boduo-, -ā `fight, struggle' in gall. PN Ate-boduus, -uā, Boduo-gnātus, Old Irish bodb f. `crow, battle goddess in the form of a crow ';

Old Icelandic boðf. (**badwō*), Gen. bqðvar, Old English beadu f., Old Saxon Badu-, Old High German Batu- (in PN) `fight, struggle'.

References: WP. I 126 ff., 188, WP. I 99, 521 f., 866, Trautmann 29.

Page(s): 113-114

---

Root / lemma: bh<sup>h</sup>edh-2

Meaning: to bow, bend

Material: Old Indic bādhātē 'throngs, presses, plagues', Desid. bībhatsatē 'is shy of something, feels disgust', jñu-bādh- 'bending knee';

alb. bint, med. bindem 'be bent (*be convinced, pressured)', bashkr 'together', bashkonj 'unite, assemble';

Note:

Alb. proves that from an early root *bh<sup>h</sup>egh- [common Illyrian -gh- > -dh-] derived Root / lemma: bh<sup>h</sup>edh-2: 'to bow, bend' and Root / lemma: bh<sup>h</sup>adh-sko-: 'bundle, heap' (see above).

Gothic bida 'prayer', Old High German beta f. 'request', Gothic bidjan (sek. -bidan) 'bid, beg, ask, pray', Old Icelandic biðja, Old English biddan, Old High German bitten, Old Icelandic knē-beðr m. 'knee pad', Old English cnēow-gebed n. 'prayer' (compare Old Indic jñu-bādh-);

Maybe alb. Geg me u betu 'to vow', Tosc betohem 'I vow, swear'

Lithuanian bodūs 'unsavory, distasteful', bodėtis 'nauseate before';

Tocharian B peti, A poto 'worship, veneration'.

References: WP. II 130 f., 140, 185, WH. I 461, 495, Feist 89 b; different Kluge<sup>12</sup> 60.

Page(s): 114

---

Root / lemma: bh<sup>h</sup>eg-, bh<sup>h</sup>eng-

Meaning: to break

Material: Old Indic bhanákti, Perf. babhāñja 'break, rupture' (only afterwards after reshuffled the 7th class), bhanga-ḥ 'break; billow' (compare Lithuanian bangà 'billow'), bhañji-ḥ 'diffraction, declension, crooked way, sale, step, wave';

Armenian bekanem 'break', bek 'broke';

but Phrygian βεκός 'bread', actually 'crumb' (?) has unexplained k;

With -u- grade: also alb. (**beuka*) buka 'bread' : Phrygian βεκός 'bread', actually 'crumb'

Note:

From an extended Root / lemma: b(e)u-1, b<sup>h</sup>(e)u- : 'expr. sound of hitting' derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eg-, b<sup>h</sup>eng- : 'to break', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>enġh-, b<sup>h</sup>ġġh- (Adj. b<sup>h</sup>ġġhú-s) : 'thick, fat', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-1 : 'to flee, *be frightened', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-2, b<sup>h</sup>eugh- : 'to clear away, free', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-3, b<sup>h</sup>eugh- : 'to bow', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-4 : 'to enjoy, *consume, bite' as taboo words.

Old Irish bongid, -boing 'breaks, reaps, harvests, wins (*gains)' verbal noun búain (**b<sup>h</sup>og-ni-*), enclitic -bach, -bech (**b<sup>h</sup>ogo-m*), Thurneysen Grammar 447, 461; Pass. preterit -bocht, perhaps = bocht 'poor'; dropping the nasal the preterit buich has probably secondary u (compare Old Irish mag 'field', Dat. muig < **mages*), so that it is not necessary, to go back in **b<sup>h</sup>eug(h)-* 'bend';

mcymr. di-vwng 'inflexible'; to meaning 'defeat, conquer' compare Old Irish maidid 'break out' = 'defeat'. Too grade point at also Middle Irish boimm 'morsel, bite, mouthful' from **b<sup>h</sup>og-smġ*;

Lithuanian bangà 'billow, heap, lashings, pelting rains', prabangà 'excess', Latvian buogs 'a dense crowd', in addition Lithuanian bangùs 'rash, hasty, violent' (from brooks and downpours), bingùs 'gamy' (of horses), bengiù, bengiaũ, beĩgti 'finish', pabangà f. 'termination'; Prussian pobanginnons 'moves, weighs'; in the meaning 'finish, end' come into being through ablaut derailment forms with ei, ai (compare Endzelin Latvian Gr. 60) in Latvian beĩgas Pl. 'end, inclination, slope', Lithuanian pabaigà ds., beigiù and baigiù 'end', Latvian bèidzu ds.;

here Latvian buoga also stands for 'stony place', here belongs probably also russ. búga 'flooded tract of forest'; different about beig- (to b<sup>h</sup>ei- 'hit') Kuiper Nasalprä. 184.

The following forms are to be kept away because of the auslauts and because of meaning and to indicate probably as onomatopoeic words:

Germanic **bang-* 'hit' in Old Icelandic banga 'hit', bang 'din, fuss, noise', engl. bang 'knock, hit', with ablaut Middle High German Middle Low German bungen 'drum'; nld. bengel 'club, cudgel, boor' = Modern High German Bengel, engl. dial. bangle 'gnarled stick', Old Norse epithet bǫngull.

In addition with intensive consonant increase:

Germanic **bank-* in Old Swedish banka, abl. bunka 'hit, knock', obd. bunken 'knock, bump, poke', Middle Low German bunken, Dutch bonken 'hit, thrash'.

Latvian bungā 'drum', bunga 'blow, knock' derive probably from Middle Low German Maybe alb. bungë, bunga Pl. 'kind of oak, Quercus sessiflora (stick for beating?)'

References: WP. II 149 f., WH. I 503, 541, Trautmann 26.

Page(s): 114-115

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eg<sup>w</sup>-

Meaning: to run

Material: Hindi bhāg- 'flee';

Maybe alb. mbath (bag-) 'flee' common alb. k- > th-.

gr. φέβομαι, φοβέομαι 'flee, be afraid', φόβος 'escape, fear', φοβέω 'startles', φοβερός 'frightening, timorous'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

lengthened grade Lithuanian bėgu, bėgau, bėgti 'run, flee', bėgas, bėgis m. 'escape, run', Latvian bēgu, bēgt 'flee', with ablaut kausat. boginù, boginti 'flee something, to get there quickly';

Slavic **běgō* in russ. běgu (Inf. běžátʹ), klr. bihú (Inf. bíčy) 'run', in addition as neologism Old Church Slavic priběgnō, priběgnōti etc 'flee', as well as Old Church Slavic běžō, bežati 'flee' etc;

Tocharian A pkānt (pkāt) 'remote, distant, apart, separated' (Van Windekens Lexique 96).

References: WP. II 184 f., Trautmann 29, Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 220, 235, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 717.

Page(s): 116

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eī<sup>h</sup>-1 (*b<sup>h</sup>eid<sup>h</sup>- > b<sup>h</sup>oid<sup>h</sup>-eh<sup>2</sup>)

Meaning: to advise, force

Material: Gr. πείθομαι 'lets me persuade, follow' (Aor. ἐπιθόμην, hom. πεπιθεῖν, πιθέσθαι; Perf. πέποιθα 'trust'), Akt. (sek.) πείθω, Aor. ἔπεισα 'persuade, convince', πειθώ, -οῦς ' persuasion ', πιστός (for *φιστος) `reliable, loyal, faithful, relying', πίστις, -ιος, -εως `loyalty, reliance', hom. ἐν πείσῃ `in reassurance ' (*πειθ-σ-);

θ grade in:

alb. (*b<sub>h</sub>eid<sub>h</sub>1e) bē f. `oath, vow, pledge' (*b<sup>h</sup>oid<sup>h</sup>ā = Old Church Slavic běda `need'), East Geg per-bej `curse, hex' (in addition neologism (*b<sub>h</sub>eid<sub>h</sub>3a) besa f. `faith, belief, pact, covenant, loyalty');

Phonetically Old Church Slavic běda `need' = alb. besa `faith, belief, pact, covenant, loyalty'.

Maybe TN Illyrian Besoi: alb. besoj `believe, have faith'.

Latin fīdō, -ere, fīsus sum `to trust, believe, confide in ' (fīsus is to- participle), fīdus `reliable'; foedus (*b<sup>h</sup>oid<sup>h</sup>os), by Ennius fīdus (*b<sup>h</sup>eid<sup>h</sup>os) n. `trusty, true, faithful, sure ', fidēs `trust, confidence, reliance, belief, faith ', Dius Fidius `the god of faith, a surname of Jupiter '; Umbrian combifiatu (*b<sup>h</sup>id<sup>h</sup>iā-) `you shall trust, confide, rely upon, believe, be assured'; about Oscan Fiisiais, Umbrian Fise, Fiso, Fisovio- s. WH. I 494;

Note:

Alb. alb. fē, fēja `religion', fejonj `perform engagement ceremony (marriage vows?)' : Reggiano fèid `religion' : AN fed, OFr. feid, feit : Latin fides `to trust, believe, confide in '.

Gothic baidjan `constrain, oblige', Old Icelandic beiða, Old English bædan, Old High German beitten `urge, press, push, arrogate' = Old Bulgarian causative běždq, běditi `constrain, oblige', poběditi `defeat, conquer', běda f. `need'; here probably also Gothic beidan `wait, hold on', Old Icelandic bīða, Old English bīdan, Old High German bītan ds., Swiss beite = Old High German beitten, but in the meaning `wait, hold on'. basic meaning `await' from `trust' or `oneself constrain, oblige'.

References: WP. II 139 f., 185 f., WH. I 493 f.

Page(s): 117

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ēd<sup>h</sup>-2

Meaning: `bind, twist '

See also: s. b<sup>h</sup>/d<sup>h</sup>-.

Page(s): 117

---

Root / lemma: bh eid-

Meaning: to prick, pierce

Material: Old Indic bhinádmī (participle bhindánt- = Latin findēns, bhinná-ḥ besides bhittá-ḥ = Latin fissus), bhédāmi 'split, carve, rupture etc', bhidýātē 'is split'; (Old Indic under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

probably gr. φείδομαι (redupl. Aor. hom. πεφιδέσθαι) 'with which are stingy, avoid sparingly; spare; avoid a thing' (basic meaning partly perhaps 'separate myself from something = take myself away', above all but 'pinch off, stingy, from what cut off oneself only a little');

Latin findō, -ere, fidī (probably Aor. as Old Indic Opt. bhidēyam, Old English bite, Old High German bizzi 'to split, cleave, divide, halve'), fissum 'split, cloven', fissum n., fissūra f. 'cleft, fissure'; changing through ablaut Old Icelandic bitr 'biting, sharp, painful', Old English biter, bitter, Old Saxon Old High German bittar 'biting, sharp, bitter'; Old Icelandic beiskr 'sharp, bitter' (**bait-skaz*); Gothic beist 'sourdough' (**b<sup>h</sup>e[d]-sto-*); Old English bitela 'biting', bitel 'beetle, chafer', engl. beetle;

Gothic beitan 'bite', Old Icelandic bīta 'bite; penetrate (from sword)', Old Saxon Old English bītan, Old High German bīzzan 'bite' (= Old Indic bhédati, gr. φείδομαι); Kaus. Old Icelandic beita 'allow to bite, allow to graze', Old English bætan 'rein, curb, restrain, hunt, chase', Old High German Middle High German beizen 'ds., corrode', Old Icelandic beizl 'set of teeth, bridle, rein' (**baitislan*), Old English gebætu N. Pl., gebætel n. 'set of teeth'; Old Icelandic bíti m., Old English bīta m. 'morsel, mouthful', Old High German bizzo m., bizza f. 'morsel, mouthful, nip'; Gothic baitrs 'bitter' ('bitting from taste');

Maybe alb. bisk 'branch, twig' (**beam?*).

Old Icelandic beit n. 'ship' (originally 'hollow dugout canoe' to Old Icelandic bite 'balk, beam'), Old English bāt m. 'boat', Middle English bōt, out of it borrows Modern High German Boot and perhaps Old Icelandic bātr ds.; Middle Low German beitel, bētel 'chisel', Middle High German beizel 'sting, prick' (: Old Indic bhēdurá-ḥ, bhēdirá-ḥ 'thunderbolt').

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur-: Old Indic bhēdurá-ḥ, bhēdirá-ḥ 'thunderbolt': Ἰλλυριοί, οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία, ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς, ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός, ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία:--hence Adv. Ἰλλυριστί.

The fact is that b<sup>h</sup>eid- extension to **b<sup>h</sup>ei(ə)-* 'hit' seems possible.

References: WP. II 138 f., WH. I 500 f.

Page(s): 116-117

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ei(ə)-, b<sup>h</sup>ī- (**b<sup>h</sup>eiH- > b<sup>h</sup>iH-tjo- > b<sup>h</sup>iH-tueh<sub>2</sub>*)

Meaning: to hit

Material: Avestan byente 'they fight, hit' (H. Lommel KZ. 67, 11);

Armenian bir 'big stick, club, mace, joint' (**b<sup>h</sup>ī-ro-*);

gr. φῆτρος m. 'tree trunk, wooden log', φῆμος m. 'toggle, muzzle';

Maybe alb. (**b<sup>h</sup>eiH*) bie 'hit, strike', bie 'fall, die', causative, subjunctive bjeri 'strike' = bjer 'bring': [Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > ǵ-, y- Old Indic Tocharian].

Alb. and Armenian prove that Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ei(ə)-, b<sup>h</sup>ī-: 'to hit' derived from Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-1: 'to bear, carry' through an Illyrian -r > -j.

In o- grade:

Venetic PN φohiio-s-, Illyrian VN Βοιοί 'the combatants, fighters' (: russ. boj), gr.-Illyrian PN Βοῖον ὄρος, VN Βοιωτοί, Celtic-Illyrian VN Boii, Messapic βίσβην δρέπανον ἀμπελοτόμων, βισβαῖα κλαδευτήρια Hes.;

Latin perfinēs 'break through, break in pieces, shiver, shatter' Hes.;

Old Irish ben(a)id 'hits, knocks' (**bi-na-ti*), ro-bīth 'was hit', bīthe 'beaten', fo bīth 'wheel' (= 'under the blow'), Middle Breton benaff 'cut, bite', acymr. etbinam 'to mangle', without n-Infix abret. bitat 'cut loose, cut off', cymr. bidio 'cut a hedge', bid 'thorn hedge', Middle Irish fid(h)b(h)a 'sickle' = acymr. uiddimm 'lignite', ncymr. gwyddyf 'scythe, pruning knife' = gallo-Latin vidubium 'hack, mattock, hoe' (**vidu-bion* 'wood hoe'), compare Middle Irish PN Faíl-be '(*weapon, magic wand for killing wolves) wolf killer' (**vailu-bios*); Old Irish binitf. 'rennet, cleaver' ('incisive', **bi-n-antī*), Middle Irish bian 'skin, fell, fur', Old Irish bīáil 'hatchet', acymr. bahell, ncymr. bwyell, bwyall ds., Middle Breton bouhazl ds. (**b<sup>h</sup>ijāli-*), Old Irish bēimm n. 'blow, knock' (**b<sup>h</sup>ei-smī*), corn. bommen ds., gall. **biliā* 'tree stump', French bille;

Old Icelandic bīldr 'head of the arrow, bloodletting iron' (*b<sup>h</sup>ei-tlo-); Old High German bī(h)al 'hatchet' (*b<sup>h</sup>eiθ-lo-), hence probably Germanic **bilja-* and not **biPla-* in Old High German Old English bill n., Old Saxon bil 'sword', Middle High German bil, billes 'stone mattock', Modern High German Bille f. 'hack, mattock, hoe', Middle High German billen 'to hoe, chip, trim', Old High German bilōthi, bilidi, Modern High German Bild, Old High German billa f. 'sourdough'; with formants -li- Old English bile m. 'bill, beak, neb', additional form to engl. bill, Old Church Slavic bijŕ (bъjŕ) biti 'hit', Serbo-Croatian bijēm biti, russ. bъju bitъ ds., Alb. bije, bie 'strike, hit' therefrom with formants -d<sup>h</sup>lo-: russ.-Church Slavic bilo n. 'a louse rake or comb', Serbo-Croatian bīlo 'the transverse piece of wood at the front of a wooden rake (to rake leaves with)', Czech bidlo 'shaft, pole', russ. bīto 'beetle, hammer'; (*b<sup>h</sup>iH-tueh<sub>2</sub>) bítva 'fight, struggle, blow, knock' (: Messapic βίσβη), Old Church Slavic bičb 'whip, scourge' (from Slavic Modern High German Peitsche); in ablaut Old Church Slavic (*b<sup>h</sup>oiH-o-) u-bojъ m. 'murder', Serbo-Croatian bôj, Gen. bôja 'battle', russ. Czech boj ds. (: Illyrian Boi).

References: WP. II 137 f., WH. I 503 f., 506, Trautmann 33, Lidén KZ. 61, 12, Karstien KZ. 65, 154 f.

See also: S. above under b<sup>h</sup>eid-.

Page(s): 117-118

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eig<sup>w</sup>-

Meaning: to shine (?)

Note:

From Root / lemma: gh<sub>u</sub>oig<sup>w</sup>-: 'to shine; star' derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eig<sup>w</sup>-: 'to shine' (sse above) common gh<sub>u</sub>- > Greek ph- > Old Indic bh-.

Material: Apers. **bigna-* 'lustre, shine'? in PN Bagā-bigna-, Ἀρια-βιγνης;

gr. φοῖβος 'clean, gleaming', φοιβάω, φοιβάζω 'clean', ἀφοίβαντος 'smudges' (*b<sup>h</sup>oig<sup>w</sup>-o-), ἀφικτός, ἀφικτρός (*b<sup>h</sup>ig<sup>w</sup>-) 'impure, unclean'. Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

About Φοῖβος Ἀπόλλων compare Kretschmer Gl. 15, 199.

References: WP. II 138, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 299.

Page(s): 118

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ei-

Meaning: bee

Note: with n-, k- or t-extension

Material: The short form still in Old Icelandic bȳ-fluga, Alemannian bī, Bavarian beij, besides forms with n (barely extracted only the weak Dekl.), as Old High German bini n. 'bee', ablaut. bīa f. (**bī-ōn-* = Old English béo, engl. bee), bīna (Modern High German dial. Bein); Old Church Slavic bъčela, bъčela ds. (**b<sup>h</sup>ikelā*); cymr. bydaf 'beehive', Old Prussian bitte, Lithuanian bitė, bitis, Latvian bite 'bee'.

Gall. **bekos* 'bee' (M.-L. 1014), Old Irish bech m. 'bee', Gaelic speach 'prick, sting', cymr. beg-eg(y)r 'drone' deviate of vowel (taboo causing distortion?).

References: WP. II 184 f., WH. I 555 f., Specht Dekl. 46.

Page(s): 116

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>(h)</sup>e1 and b<sup>(h)</sup>eġh (**b<sup>h</sup>e- ġ<sup>h</sup>*)

Meaning: outside, without

Material: Old Indic bahiḥ (-ś) 'outdoor, outward, outside from' (m. Abl.);

Maybe alb. (**b<sup>h</sup>e-*) pa 'without'.

Old Prussian bhe 'without' (preposition m. Akk.), Lithuanian bė 'without' (preposition m. Gen., and nominal prefix), Latvian bez 'without' (preposition m. Gen., and nominal prefix);

Old Church Slavic bez etc (dial. also be) 'without' (preposition m. Gen., and nominal prefix). Here also Lithuanian be 'still, yet' ('in addition'), bėt 'however, but' (formation as ne-t 'but'), bės, Latvian bēst 'possibly, perhaps' (**b<sup>h</sup>e + est*, Endzelin Stud. Baltic 7, 32 f.).

On account of here Old Irish bés 'perhaps', vorton. from **béis* < **b<sup>h</sup>e-estí*?

References: WP. II 137, Trautmann 28, Endzelin Latvian Gr. 497 f.

Page(s): 112-113

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>(e)lāg-

Meaning: weak, ridiculous

Material: **b<sup>h</sup>lāg-* or **b<sup>h</sup>lōg-* in wruss. bláhyj 'evil, bad, nasty' (hence borrowed Latvian blāgs, Lithuanian blōgas 'feeble, weak'), blažić 'romp', gr., russ. blagój 'obstinate, nasty', dial. blažnój 'stupid', poln. blagi 'bad, nothing worth'; barely to gr. φεργύνει ἄσυνετεί, ληπεῖ Hes., because in heavy Slavic word, which points gr. light basis; see below (s)p(h)elg-.

Here (apparently with expressive Geminatio), however, Latin flaccus `flabby; of men, flap-eared '.

References: WP. II 183 f., 680, WH. I 507 f.

Page(s): 124

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eld-

Meaning: to knock, hit

Note: perhaps originally d-present of the onomatopoeic word b<sup>h</sup>e/-

Material: From Germanic probably in addition Middle Low German bolte(n) `bolt for a door, dart, arrow', Old High German bolz, Modern High German Bolz, Bolzen, Old English bolt `bolt for a door, dart, arrow', Swedish bult `bolt for a door ' (*b<sup>h</sup><sub>o</sub>/d-), perhaps also Modern High German Balz, Vb. balzen and bolzen, Norwegian Dialectal bolt m. `male forest bird; tomcat, male-cat', Modern High German Bolze `tomcat, male-cat'; Norwegian Dialectal bolta `rumble, storm ahead', Old Danish bolte `curl up, roll oneself ', Swedish bulta `knock', Swedish Dialectal bultra `wallow, romp', Norwegian Dialectal bultra `rant, roister, romp', abl. Norwegian Dialectal baltra `wallow, romp';

Lithuanian beldù, -ėti and béldžiu, bélsti `hit, knock', ablaut. bildu, bildėti `din, drone, rumble', báldau, -yti `knock, stark rumble', baldas `pestle'; Latvian beļzt `hit' (perhaps contamination from **belžu* = Lithuanian béldžiu with telz- `hit', Mühlenbach-Endzelin Latvian-German Wb. 278).

References: WP. II 184, WH. I 560 f.

Page(s): 124

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eleg-

Meaning: to shine

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>e/- ds.

Material: b<sup>h</sup>elg-: Old Indic bhargas- n. `radiative lustre, shine' (*b<sup>h</sup>elgos); Bhṛgavaḥ, Pl. `mythical priests of the flash fire '; Latvian bālgans `whitish';

Maybe alb. bardhë `white'.

perhaps here Old Church Slavic blagъ `good', russ. (old and mtdarl.) bólogo Adv. `good', actually `light' (contrast `dark': `mad, wicked, evil'); Tocharian AB pālk- `burn, gleam, shine, get hot ', A pālk, B pilko `look', A polkānts `stars' (: Lithuanian bālgans), B empalkaitte `careless, neglectful' (Negation + **palk-* `gleam, shine' besides pālk-);

b<sup>h</sup>leg-: gr. φλέγω `burn, singe, ignite ', φλεγεῖθω `singe, to set on fire; intr. burn, be in flames', φλέγμα n. `blaze; inflammation; mucus', φλεγμονή f. `inflammation, ignition; ferventness, passion; rutting', φλεγύας ἀετός ξανθός Hes. (Adj. `fiery red') φλόξ, φλογμός `flame';

Latin flagrō, -āre `to blaze, burn, glow, flame, also to glitter. Transf., to glow or burn with passion; to suffer from ', wherefore probably flamma `a flame, blazing fire; Transf. a source of light, torch, star, lightning; luster, glitter; the fire or glow of passion; devouring flame, destruction ' as **flagmā*, Oscan Flagiuí perhaps `an interpreter of lightning ';

Maybe alb. (**flagrō*) flegra `(*ardent, passionate breathing) nostrils', flakëroj `I shine', flakë `fire';

besides flǣg- (reduced- grades **b<sup>h</sup>legró-*, **b<sup>h</sup>legmā* or because of φλογμός, φλόξ rather **b<sup>h</sup>logmā*) stand zero grades b<sup>h</sup>lg-, Latin fulg- in Latin fulgō and fulgeō, -ēre, fulsī `to flash, to lighten; in gen., to shine, glitter gleam; fig., to be distinguished, to shine ', fulgor, -ōris `lightning; in gen., glitter, brightness; fig., brightness, glory, lustre, shine', fulgus, -uris `a flash or stroke of lightning; sometimes an object struck by lightning; in gen., brightness ', fulmen (**fulgmen*) ds.;

Middle Irish imblissiu `pupil (of the eye); orb ' (**m̥b<sup>h</sup>l̥b<sup>h</sup>lg-s-*, Vendryes RC. 40, 431 f);

Old High German blecchen (**blakjan*), Middle High German blecken `become visible, allow to see ', Modern High German blecken `show the teeth '; Old High German blecchazzen, Middle High German blecken `flash ', Middle Dutch Modern Dutch blaken `flame, burn, glow', Old English blæcern, blacern `candlestick, flambeaux ', Old Icelandic blakra `blink, glitter, flash'; here probably as `burnt (compare Low German blaken from blackening lamp flame), sooty ', Old English blæc `black', n. `ink', Old High German blah ds.;

nasalized Germanic **blenk-*, **blank-* in Middle High German Modern High German blinken, Middle High German blinzen (**blinkatjan*), Modern High German blinzeln (besides with Germanic g older Danish blinge `blink, glitter, flash ', s. Falk-Torp under blingse); Old High German blanch, Middle High German blank `blinking, gleaming, gleaming, white', Modern High German blank, Old English blanca m. `steed' (actually from bright color, compare:) Old Icelandic blakkr `sallow, paled', poet. `steed' (`dun horse, grey, *white horse '), Old Swedish blakker `sallow, paled, dun (horse)', but also `black, dark' (from Germanic borrows French blanc, Italian bianco). From this nasal form also Prussian blingis `pallid '; Lithuanian blágnytis `sober oneself up; lighten up', Old Lithuanian blinginti `shine'.

A variant on -ĝ- perhaps in Latvian blāzt `shimmer', blāzma (blāĝ-ma) `reflection of moonlight on the water'.

References: WP II 214 f., WH. I 510 f. 865, Pedersen Tocharian 162, 218, Van Windekens Lexique 17, 98, EM. 398.

See also: Beside b<sup>h</sup>e/eg- stands synonymous to b<sup>h</sup>ereĝ-, see there.

Page(s): 124-125

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>e/leu-

Meaning: to hit; weak, ill

Material: Acorn. bal f., pl. -ow `disease, malady', mbr. baluent,

Gothic balwa-wēsei `wickedness, malice, cowardice', balwjan `torment, smite', Old English bealo `evil, mad, wicked, evil', Old Icelandic bǫl, Dat. bǫlve `misfortune', Old High German balo, Gen. balawes `ruin'; Gothic bligġwan (**bleuġan*) `hit', Old High German bliuwan, Modern High German bleuen ds., Middle English blowe `blow, knock', Old Icelandic blegðe m. (**blauġiðan-*) `wedge';

Old Bulgarian bolъ `sicker', bolěti `be ill'.

Proto-Slavic form: bolěti

See also: bōľь

Page in Trubačev: II 187-189

Old Church Slavic: bolěti `be ill, be in pain' [verb]

Russian: bolét' `be ill' [verb], boléet [3sg]; bolét'' `ache' [verb], bolít [3sg]

Ukrainian: bolíty `suffer pain, be ill' [verb], bolíje [3sg]; bolíty `ache' [verb], bolít' [3sg]

Czech: boleti `ache' [verb]

Slovak: boliet'' `ache' [verb]

Polish: boleć `ache' [verb]

Slovincian: bùolěć `ache' [verb]

Upper Sorbian: boleć `ache' [verb]

Lower Sorbian: bóles `ache' [verb]

Bulgarian: boljá `be ill' [verb]; bolí `ache' [3sg]

Serbo-Croatian: bòljeti `ache' [verb]

Slovene: bolěti `ache' [verb]

Indo-European reconstruction: b<sup>h</sup>ol(H)-eh<sub>1</sub>-tei

Page in Pokorny: 125

Other cognates: Go. balwjan 'martyr' [verb]; Olc. bǫlva 'curse' [verb]

Notes: {1} The possibility exists that we had **b<sup>h</sup>el(H)u-* (Gk. φλαῦρος 'inferior, bad', Olc. blauðr 'timid'?) alongside **b<sup>h</sup>el(H)-* (cf. Pokorny 125, 159).

About Modern High German Block etc see below b<sup>h</sup>el-5.

References: WP. II 189, Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II 150, Feist 79, 100, Specht Dekl. 133.

See also: Besides a root form b<sup>h</sup>elū-: b<sup>h</sup>elū- : b<sup>h</sup>ilū-, see there.

Page(s): 125

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>elǵh-

Meaning: to swell

Note: (extension of b<sup>h</sup>el- 'inflate, bloat' etc)

Material: Old Indic barhiṣ- n. 'sacrificial grass, (*sacrificial bed of straw)' = Avestan barəziṣ- n. 'cushion, pillow, cushion', npers. bālīṣ 'pillow, cushion'; Old Indic upa-bārhaṇa- m, upa-bārhaṇīf. 'cover, cushion';

Note:

Clearly alb. bar 'grass, straw' derived from Indian languages. Hence alb. is a direct descendant of Sanskrit. Clearly alb. belongs to satem family.

Whether with Asp.-Diss. against forms -ha- here Old Indic bārjaha-ḥ 'udder'?

Irish bolgaim 'swell', bolgf. 'bubble', bolg m. 'sack, bag, belly, husk, trouser', Middle Irish bolgach f. 'swelling, blister, bubble, blister; pox', bolgamm 'gulp', cymr. bol, bola, boly 'belly, sack, bag', bul 'seed capsule, seminal shell' (PL. of boly), bret. bolc'h 'linen pod', vann. pehl-en (from **pehl-*) ds., gall. bulga 'leather sack' (out of it Old High German bulga 'water container made of leather'); gall. Belgae 'the angry' (*a warlike people in the north of Gaul) ';

Gothic balgs m. 'hose', Old Icelandic belgr m. 'stripped animal skin, bag, belly', Old High German Middle High German balg 'bag, hose, bellows, sword scabbard', Old English bielg, byl(i)g 'sac, bag', engl. belly 'belly', bellows 'bellows' (Germanic **ǵalzi-* m., compare Old Prussian balsinis, perhaps hat also Old Indic barhiṣ-, Avestan barəziṣ- Indo Germanic -i-s- as extension dieses ǵ-stem);

Old Icelandic participle bolginn 'swollen', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Kaus. belgja 'make swell up', Old Saxon Old English belgan stem-V. 'be angry', Old High German belgan 'swell up', refl. 'be angry with', Old Frisian participle ovirbulgen 'angers';

Old Icelandic bylgja 'wave', Middle Low German bulge ds.; **bul(h)stra-* in Old Icelandic bolstr m. 'pillow, cushion', Old English bolster n. 'pillow, cushion', Old High German bolstar ds., Dutch bolster 'fruit skin, husk';

Old Prussian balsinis 'pillow, cushion' (**b<sup>h</sup>olġhi-nos*), pobalso 'feather bed', Latvian pabāsts m. 'pillow' (and 'pad', see above S. 123); slov. blazína 'pillow, cushion, mattress, a downy or feather bed; pad, ball of the foot or ball of the thumb, heel of hand [anat.]' (and 'roof beam, crossbeam of the sledge, stake, stanchion', see above S. 123), Serbo-Croatian blázina 'pillow, cushion, feather-bed'; russ. bólozenʹ m. 'weal, callus, swelling, blister, clavus, corn' (but russ. dial. bólozno 'thick board').

Here probably as Venetic-Illyrian loanword Old Prussian balgnan n., Old Lithuanian balgnas, Lithuanian bālnas 'saddle' (probably from 'pillow, cushion'). Further Balto-Slavic forms see above S. 123.

References: WP. II 182 f., WH. I 122. compare about gr. μολγός 'leather sack' Vendryes BSL. 41, 134 f.

Page(s): 125-126

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>el-1, Balto-Slavic also b<sup>h</sup>elē- (**b<sup>h</sup>ēl-1 > b<sup>h</sup>ēlH-o-*)

Meaning: shining, white

Note: to b<sup>h</sup>ā-1 standing in the same relationship, as steł- to stā- 'stand', deł- 'split' to **dā(i)-* 'divide'

Material: Old Indic bhālam n. 'lustre, shine, forehead', sam-bhālayati 'glances' (lengthened grade); balākā 'a crane's kind' with b- after baká-h 'a heron's kind';

Armenian bał 'pallidness, paleness';

Maybe alb. balë 'badger (animal with white spots in the snout)', balo 'a dog with white spot on the forehead'.

compare Skt. bhālam 'brightness, forehead', Welsh bał 'having a white spot on the forehead'

gr. φαλός 'white' Hes., φαλύνει λαμπρύνει Hes., φαλι(F)ός 'gleaming, white, white-fronted', φαληρός, Doric -āρός ds., φαληρίς, Doric -āρίς 'coot (**bald-headed*)', φαλακρός 'bald-headed'

Note: Doric φαληρός -āρίς 'coot (**bald-headed*)', φαλακρός 'bald-headed' related to alb. alb. balë 'forehead, (**shining forehead, *bold as a coot*)'.

Doric παμφαλάω 'look shyly around'; βαλιός 'white, it is white-mottled' is probably Illyrian loanword;

Illyrian **balta* 'swamp, marsh, white clay', out of it Latin blatea f., 'excrement lump', adalm. balta 'sea swamp'; Ligurian **bolā* 'swamp, marsh' (M.-L. 1191b), FIN Duria Bautica (from **Baltica*), perhaps here mare Balticum (Venetic-Illyrian?) 'Baltic Sea' (Einhard, 9. Jh), compare Bonfante BSL. 37, 7 f.;

Maybe Spanish barro : French boue : Albanian baltë : Czech bláto : Polish bloto : Venetian paltan : Zeneize bratta 'mud' : Romanian baltă 'bog, marsh' : Lithuanian balta 'white' : alb. (balāgā) bardhë 'white' common alb. -g > -dh.

Notes: Cf. also the Rythabalt meadow and the placename Namuynbalt is the equivalent of Namoyumpelk (pelk 'swamp'). For the semantics cf. Pol. dial. biel, bielaw, Bel. bel 'swampy meadow' (Trubačëv II: 180). PSI. **bolto* is sometimes considered an "Illyrian" substratum word. In this connection not only the above-mentioned forms from the Balkan Peninsula are adduced, but also Romance forms such as Lomb. palta, Piém. pauta.

alb. balë, ballë 'forehead, (**bold as a coot?*)' (= Old Prussian ballo ds.), balásh 'white horse or ox', baltë f., balt m. 'slime, mud, swamp, marsh, white clay';

Maybe alb. (**balakha*) balluke 'hair fringe'.

Latin fulica (compare Old High German belihha) and fulix f. 'coot' (**b<sup>h</sup>olik-* with dial. u); but whether fēlēs, -is f. 'a polecat, cat, marten; hence a thief' here belongs, is dubious because of mēlēs, -is f. 'marten, badger';

Celtic belo- 'luminous, white' in cymr. beieu (**b<sup>h</sup>eleuo-*) 'marten', Old Irish oíbell m. 'blaze, glow, heat' (f. 'spark, glowing coal') = cymr. ufel m. 'spark, fire' (**op<sup>i</sup>-b<sup>h</sup>elo-*), Middle Irish Bel-tene 'festival of 1st May' (= beacon), gall. GN (Apollo) Belenos, (Minerva) Belisama (Super Latin), FIN Belenā > French Bienna, (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Swiss Biet, Old French baille 'paleness' (out of it Middle Breton baill ds.) could on ablaut. gall. **baljo-* go back, compare frz PN Bailleuil < **Baljo-jalon*; gall. belsa 'field' from **belisā*;

Gothic bala m. 'bald horse, horse with a blaze' (from Belisar's steed [Belisar was a Byzantine commander]), engl. dial. ball 'horse with white paleness' (out of it cymr. bal ds), Middle English balled, engl. bald, Danish bældet 'naked, bald, bleak', Old High German belihha (compare Latin fulica), Modern High German Belche 'coot', BergN

Belchen (to suffix s. Brugmann Grundriß II 1, 511, Specht Dekl. 213 f.), lengthened grade Old Icelandic bāl 'flame', Old English bæġ 'pyres, funeral piles' (*b<sup>h</sup>ēġ-).

Whereas are Germanic **pōl-* in Old English pōl, engl. pool, Old High German pfuol 'pool', ablaut. Dutch peel (**pali-*) 'morass', Old English pyll, engl. pill (**puġia-*, older **bġio-*) probably from Venetic-IH. borrows (see above **bolā*); different Petersson Heterokl. 205;

Lithuanian bālas 'white' and 'snowdrop', balà f. 'white anemone' and m. 'swamp, marsh, moor, fen, pool', balù, balaũ, bálti 'become white'; Latvian lengthened grade bāls 'pallid, pale, wan'; Old Prussian ballo f. 'forehead' and **balō* 'swamp, marsh' in PN;

Maybe alb. balash 'white cow': Lithuanian: bālas 'white'.

Old Church Slavic lengthened grade bělb 'white' (*b<sup>h</sup>ēġo-), f. 'splint in wood', poln. dial. biel f. 'marshy wood, forest', russ. dial. bil 'swamp, marsh'; ablaut. bala (*b<sup>h</sup>ōġā) in russ. bala-ružina 'puddle, slop', klr. balka 'marsh';

Lithuanian báltas (*b<sup>h</sup>olətos), Latvian bāġts 'white', North Sea Baltiņa ezers;

Slavic substant. neutr. Adj. **bolto-* (*b<sup>h</sup>oləto-) 'swamp, marsh, pond, pool, sea' in Old Church Slavic blato 'sea', Serbo-Croatian blāto 'sea, ordure', russ. boťoto 'swamp, marsh';

Lithuanian bá'lnas 'white' (with glottal stop, Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>olənos), balañdis 'baptism', balánda 'orache', russ. lebedá, serb. lobòda ds.;

Slavic (*b<sup>h</sup>olH-neh<sub>2</sub>) **bolna* f. (with trail tone, Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>olnā) in Czech slov. blána 'membrane, skin, cutaneously', russ. boťoná 'sickly outgrowth on trees, sap-wood, (dial.) lump', bóťonb f., 'splint in wood', originally identical with Czech blana 'meadow, grassland', poln. błón f., błonie n. ds., russ. boťonbje n. 'deeply situated meadows';

perhaps Tocharian B palsk-, pālsk, A pāl(t)sk 'cogitate' (*see, compare Old Indic sambhālayati); whether here gr. φελλός (*b<sup>h</sup>el-so-), 'cork, oak cork', φελλεύς 'rocky ground', ἀφελής 'even' (*of land, ground, etc.: level, flat, not hilly or sloping; of uniform height), φολίς 'scale, flake (ones of reptile)'?

References: WP. II 175 f., WH. I 108 f., 559 f., W. Schulze Berl. Sbb. 1910, 787 = Kl. Schr. 111, Trautmann 25, 29 f., Specht Dekl. 116 f.

See also: Here further b<sup>h</sup>el-2; b<sup>h</sup>eleg-; b<sup>h</sup>lei-, -g-, -k-; b<sup>h</sup>lend<sup>h</sup>-; b<sup>h</sup>es-; b<sup>h</sup>eu-, -k-, -s-; b<sup>h</sup>ēġo-; b<sup>h</sup>/nd<sup>h</sup>o-; b<sup>h</sup>/eido-.

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>el-2 (> *b<sup>h</sup>el-(e)-n-)

Meaning: in names of henbane

Note: probably with b<sup>h</sup>el-1 identical

Material: Gall. (Illyrian ?) belinuntia f., βελένιον n. 'hyoscyamus', to names of Apollo Belenos (see above b<sup>h</sup>el-1);

Old English beolone (*b<sup>h</sup>elunā), Old Saxon bilene, zero grade Old Danish bylne (Germanic **buł-n-*), bølme, Swedish bolmört, Modern High German dial. bilme; but Old High German bi(λ)sa is probably Celtic loanword (compare aprov. belsa);

Slavic **belena-*, **belenā* in r.-Church Slavic belenъ m., russ. belená f., Slavic **belnъ* m. in slov. blèn, Old Czech blén, zero grade Slavic **bylnъ* in Serbo-Croatian bûn.

References: WP. II 180, WH. I 99 f., Trautmann 30, Kretschmer Gl. 14, 97, Specht Dekl. 140.

Page(s): 120

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>el-3, b<sup>h</sup>lē-

Meaning: to grow, spread, swell

Material: Old Indic bhāṇḍa- n. 'pot, pan, vessel' (*b<sup>h</sup>āln-da?); after Thieme (ZDMG. 92, 47 f.) here Avestan barə-s-man- 'bundle of branches', Old Indic bársva m. Pl. 'bulge; bead; lip; torus; wreath; roll; bulb, gums' (loanword from Avestan **barsman* 'cushion'); compare under Old High German bilorn.

Armenian betun 'fertile' (: gr. φάλης), betn-awords. (: gr. φαλλός), Adontz, Mél. Boisacq 9.

Gr. φαλλός, φάλης 'penis' (φαλλός from *b<sup>h</sup>línós or *b<sup>h</sup>elínós; compare Old Irish ball, Modern High German Bulle);

Maybe alb. Geg pallosh 'penis' : gr. φαλλός 'penis' in addition φάλλαινα (formation as λύκαινα), φάλλη 'whale' (compare that probably borrowed through Illyrian mediation Latin ballaena; also Middle High German bullich calls big fish kinds; identical is φάλλαινα 'moth', about ἀφελής and supplementary see above Z. 1; about ὄφελος see below pheL; after Persson Beitr. 299 also φλόμος (φλόνος) Great mullein, plant with thick woolly leaves, as *b<sup>h</sup> (e)/o-mo-s?

Probably Phrygian βάμ-βαλον, βά-βαλον 'αἰδοῖον' Hes., also βαλλιόν 'penis'; thrak. VN Τρι-βαλλοί.

Latin follis 'a leather bag; a pair of bellows; a purse; a puffed-out cheek' (*b<sup>h</sup>/n<sup>is</sup> or *b<sup>h</sup>oln<sup>is</sup>, compare the Germanic words with -l- from -l<sup>n</sup>-);

cymr. bâ/f. 'elevation, rise, mountaintop' (*b<sup>h</sup>/ā);

Maybe alb. mal [common alb. mb- > m-].

zero grade Old Irish ball m. 'limb, member, part, body part', then 'deal, portion, place, spot, mark' (also in the body), hence perhaps also cymr. ball 'epidemic', balleg 'sack, bag'; changing through ablaut bol, boll in cymr. dym-fol 'glove', arfolli 'become pregnant', ffroen-foll 'with swollen nostrils' (: φαλλός);

Maybe alb. bole 'testicle' zero grade with formants -ko- and meaning as Old High German bald (see below): nir. bale 'strong', cymr. balch, bret. balc'h 'stout, proud, hubristic, overbearing'.

b<sup>h</sup>l- (b<sup>h</sup>ₑl) in Old Swedish bulin, bolin 'swollen', bulde, bolde, byld 'hump, ulcer'; Old Icelandic bulr, bolr m. 'tree trunk, trunk', Middle Low German Middle High German bole f. 'plank' (Modern High German Bohle); Old Icelandic boli 'bull', Old English bula ds., bulluc 'young bull', engl. bull, Middle Low German Modern High German Bulle (as **bull-ōn* = gr. *φάλλων from a stem **bullo-* = φαλλό-ς); Hessian bulle 'vulva'; Old Icelandic bolli m. drinking bowl ' (*spherical vessel'; Middle Irish ballán 'drinking vessel' probably from Nord.), Old English bolla m. 'bowl', hēafodbolla 'brain box, cranium', Old Frisian strotbolla 'larynx', Old Saxon bollo 'drinking bowl', Old High German bolla f. 'vesicle, blister, fruit skin or knot of the flax', Middle High German bolle f. 'bud, spherical vessel', Old High German hirnibolla 'cranium', Modern High German Bolle, Roßbollen, Middle High German bullich, bolch 'big fish among others cod' (compare φάλλαινα), compare also Old High German bolōn, Middle High German boln 'roll, throw, toss, fling' and with the meaning swollen = 'thick, big, large', Swedish Dialectal bål, bol 'thick and large, strong, very daring', Old Icelandic poet. bolmr 'bear'; here probably Old Icelandic bulki 'ship load', Swedish Danish bulk 'hump, nodules, tubers'; in heterokl. paradigm (?) *b<sup>h</sup>elr, Gen. *b<sup>h</sup>el/nés interprets Old High German bilorn m. f. 'gums' (**bilurnō* 'swelling, bulge; bead; lip; torus; wreath; roll; bulb'), whether not from **beluznō*,

Germanic **beł-n-* also in Hessian bille 'penis' (: bulle), Middle Low German (ars-)bille, Dutch bil 'buttock', Swedish fotabjälle 'ball of the foot';

also alb. bili 'penis', bole 'testicle' changing through ablaut Old High German ballo, balla, Modern High German Ball, Ballen, Old High German arsbelli m. Pl. 'buttocks', Old English bealluc m. 'testicles' (*b<sup>h</sup>ol-n-), Old Icelandic bollr 'ball, sphere, testicle'; Old Icelandic bali 'elevation along the edge of the lake bank; small rise on ground level'; with formants -to- and the meaning 'swollen, inflated' = 'arrogant, bold', Gothic bal-paba Adv. 'boldly', balþeif 'boldness', Old Icelandic ballr 'dreadful, dangerous', baldinn 'defiant', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old English beald 'bold, audacious', Old High German bald 'bold, audacious, quick, fast', Modern High German bald Adv.; in addition Old English bealdor 'prince, lord, master, mister', Old Icelandic GN Baldr.

With coloring gradation *b<sup>h</sup>ōł- probably Norwegian bøl 'in heat, rutting, of the sow' (changing through ablaut bala 'rutting, be in heat').

root form b<sup>h</sup>lē-:

Gr. φλῆναφος 'gossip, talkative', φλην-έω, -άω 'be talkative'; ἐκωφλαίνω as φαίνω from b<sup>h</sup>ā-, Aor. ἐκφλήναι 'bubble out';

Latin flō, flāre 'to blow; intransit., of winds, persons and instruments; transit., to blow, blow forth; to blow on an instrument; to cast metals, to coin' (probably from *b<sup>h</sup>l̥ē-iō), but flēmīna 'varicose' is probably loanword from gr. φλεγμονή; Norwegian dial. blæma 'bleb on the skin, skin vesicle'; Old Swedish blæmma ds.; Old High German blāt(t)ara, Old Saxon blādara 'blister, bubble', Old English blædre ds., reduplication-stem Old Icelandic blaðra 'vesicle, blister, bubble', Old High German etc blat 'leaf'; Old Icelandic blā- in Zs. 'excessive, very'; with prevalent meaning 'blow' Old High German īo-present blājan, blāen 'blow, swell, blow out', Old English blāwan 'blow' (here w from Perf.), Old High German blāt, Old English blæd 'blow, breath, breeze, gust of wind', Old Icelandic blær 'gust of wind'; with -s- Gothic ufblēsan 'inflate, bloat', Old Icelandic blāsa 'blow, pant, gasp, inflate, bloat; unpers.: 'swell up', Old High German blāsan 'blow', blāsa 'bubble', blāst 'blast, breath, breeze', Old English blæst, Old Icelandic blāstr (**blēstu-*) 'blast, breath, breeze, snort, rage, fury';

Maybe alb. plas 'blow'

Latvian blēnas 'prank' derives from russ. loanword blēdis 'confidence trickster, swindler'.

Maybe alb. Geg blenj 'I buy, bargain, strike a deal)' similar meaning shift as Latin īcō -ēre 'hit, wound, strike, smite; esp., to strike a bargain'

Here perhaps Gothic blōþ 'blood', s. b<sup>h</sup>el-4.

References: WP. II 177 f., WH. I 515, 524 f.

See also: In addition b<sup>h</sup>el-4 'bloom' etc and the extensions b<sup>h</sup>elġh-, b<sup>h</sup>lēd-, b<sup>h</sup>leg<sup>w</sup>-, b<sup>h</sup>lei-, b<sup>h</sup>eu- 'to swell' etc

Page(s): 120-122

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>el-4 and b<sup>h</sup>lē-, b<sup>h</sup>lō-, b<sup>h</sup>le-

Meaning: leaf; bloom

Note: probably from b<sup>h</sup>el- 'to swell' in sense of 'vegetable lushness' and 'swelling = bud'

Material: Gr. φύλλον 'leaf' (**b<sup>h</sup>u<sub>ll</sub>jom*), Latin folium ds.; Middle Irish bileóc 'leaf' (from **bile* < **b<sup>h</sup>el<sub>io</sub>-*); moreover probably Old Irish bile n. 'tree';

Maybe alb. (**φύλλον*) pyll 'forest' [common alb. shift u > y]

b<sup>h</sup>lē-, mostly b<sup>h</sup>lō- in: Latin flōs, -ris m. 'a flower, blossom. Transf., the prime, flower of anything, the best, the pride; on the face, first beard, down'; flōreō, -ēre 'to bloom, flower. Transf., to be in one's prime, to prosper, flourish, be in repute; with abl. to abound in, swarm with'; Oscan Fluusaí 'the goddess of flowers, whose festival was celebrated on the 28th of April, often with unbridled license', Fluusiasiaís 'of the festivals of Flora', sabin. Flusare 'of or belonging to the festival of Flora, of the Floralia'.

Middle Irish blāth m. 'bloom, blossom, flower', cymr. blawd, acorn. blodon 'bloom, blossom' (**b<sup>h</sup>lō-t-*), Middle Breton (with -men-suffix) bleuzven, nbret. bleuñ(v)enn ds., (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), with s-derivative Middle High German bluost 'bloom, blossom', Modern High German Blust, Old English blōstma, blōsma, blōstm 'flower, blossom', Old Norse blōmstr ds., Dutch blōsen 'bloom' (= Middle Low German blōsen 'blush', see below b<sup>h</sup>les- 'shine');

Gothic blōma m., Old High German bluomo m. 'flower, blossom', Old Icelandic blomi m. ds., blōm collective 'flower, blossom'; Old High German bluojen, bluowen, Old Saxon blōjan, Old English blōwan 'bloom'; Old High German bluot f. 'blossoming, bloom, blossom' = Old English blēd f. 'scion, shoot, twig, branch, flower, blossom, fruit'; but Gothic blōþ n., Old Icelandic blōð, Old Saxon Old English blōd, Old High German bluot 'blood' probably to **b<sup>h</sup>elē-* 'effervesce'.

With ē: Old English blæd m. 'breath, breeze', n. 'bubble', f. 'bloom, blossom', Old High German blāt 'bloom, blossom' (compare also Old English blæd, Old High German blāt 'life, breath, breeze' and b<sup>h</sup>el- 'inflate, bloat'); with æ: Old High German blat, Old Saxon blad, Old English blæd, Old Icelandic blað n. 'leaf'; Tocharian A. pālt ds.

References: WP. II 176 f., WH. I 518 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 351.

Page(s): 122

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>el-5, mostly with -ĝ- (-k-) suffix: b<sup>h</sup>eləĝ-, b<sup>h</sup>elə-n-ĝ-, b<sup>h</sup>eləĝ-; b<sup>h</sup>lṛ-

Meaning: balk

Material: Basic b<sup>h</sup>el- in Old Indic bhurijāu Du. 'arms, arms or shafts of the cart's pole'; gall. **balākon* '(wall) projection', cymr. balog 'pinnacle' (M.-L. 890).

With guttural extensions:

Gr. φάλαγξ, -γγος f. 'stem, balk, beam; battle row, array', φάλαγγαι 'planks, planking' (if only with secondary nasal rendering from other nouns in -γξ, so **φάλαγ-* = Old Indic bhurij-; yet perhaps with b<sup>h</sup>elə-ĝ- only parallel ĝ- extension from a n-stem **b<sup>h</sup>elə-n-* from); with -k-: φάλκῃς m. 'balk, beam plank in ship'.

Latin fulciō, -īre, fulsī, -tum (**b<sup>h</sup>lṛiō*) 'to prop up, support; to strengthen, secure; morally, to support, stay, uphold' (actually 'through balk, beam'); fulcrum (**fulc-lom?*) 'the post or foot of a couch (prop, rack, rest camp)'.

Perhaps also sufflāmen 'a brake, drag, hindrance' (**flāg-* = Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>eləĝ-smen*); zero grade Old English bolca m. 'gangplank'; but Old High German bloh(h), Middle High German bloch, Modern High German (nnd.) Block 'clot, chunk, balk, plank' contains Indo Germanic u, also from Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>luko-* or, whether with Germanic consonant increase, from **b<sup>h</sup>lugo-*, to Middle Irish blog 'piece, fragment', further perhaps to Gothic bliggwan, Old High German bliuwan, Modern High German bleuen 'hit', from Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>leu-ono-*; see below b<sup>h</sup>eleu-.

Old Icelandic bialki (**belkan-) 'balk, beam'; ablaut. (*balkan-*): Old English balca, bealca, Old High German Old Saxon balko 'balk, beam'; Old Icelandic balkr 'partition wall, dividing off, partitioning off', bqlkr 'dividing off, partitioning off';

Whereas belong probably to **b<sup>h</sup>elġh-* 'to swell' from a meaning mediation 'thick, tumescent' from:

Lithuanian balžiena 'long beam in the harrow', balžienas 'crossbar, crossbeam', Latvian bālziēns, bēlziēns m. 'prop', East Latvian bōlgzds m. 'props connected in the wood sledge level', Latvian pabāsts m. 'prop, handle, grasp, handle in the plow', bālzīt, pabālstīt 'prop, sustain'; russ. Dialectal (Gouv. Olonez) bólozno 'thick board', slov. blazína 'roof beam, crossbeam of the sledge, stake, stanchion'; kašub. blozno 'the runners connecting the sledge skids'.

References: WP. II 181 f., WH. I 559, Trautmann 25 f.

Page(s): 122-123

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>el-6

Meaning: to sound, speak, onomatopoeic words

Material: Old Indic bhaṣá-h 'barking, baying' (**b<sup>h</sup>el-s-*), bhāṣatē 'talks, speaks, prattles'; bhaṇḍatē (Dhatup.) 'speaks, jeers, rebukes' (**b<sup>h</sup>el-n-dō*), bhāṇati 'talks, speaks' (**b<sup>h</sup>el-nō*) are after Kuiper Proto-Munda 32 f. not Indo Germanic with Germanic // (consonant increase in the onomatopoeic words), Old High German bellan 'bark, bay', Old English bellan 'roar, bellow, bark, bay, grunt'; Old High German bullōn 'howl (from the wind), bark, bay, roar, bellow', isl.-Norwegian bulla 'babble, chat'; Old Icelandic bjalla, Old English belle, engl. bell, Middle Low German belle 'bell', Modern High German (actually nnd.) Bellhammel 'bellwether (with bell)'; with Germanic ld (probably from a present d<sup>h</sup>- and perhaps with Lithuanian bildu to compare, because latter contains most probably Indo Germanic d<sup>h</sup>) Danish baldre, Norwegian Dialectal baldra, schwed Dialectal ballra 'rant, roister' Middle Low German Dutch balderen ds., Danish buldre, Swedish bullsa, Middle Low German Dutch bulderen, bolderen, Middle High German buldern, Modern High German poltern; Old Prussian billit 'say, speak', Lithuanian bilstu, bilaũ, bilti 'to start to talk', bĩlu, biloti 'talk', bilóju, -óti 'say, talk', byl-aũ, -óti ds., bylà 'speech, pronunciation, conversation, entertainment', Latvian bĩlstu, bĩlžu, bĩlst (in Zs.) 'talk, address, speak to', bĩldēt 'address, speak to'; Latvian bĩllāt (from **bijl̥a*) 'weep, cry'; with formants -so- Lithuanian baĩsas 'voice, sound, tone';

Old Icelandic belja 'roar, bellow', Middle Dutch belen 'bark, bay'; Old Icelandic bylja, bulda 'threaten, drone, roar', bylr 'gust of wind', Old English bylgan 'roar, bellow', Middle High German boln 'cry, roar, bellow';

Tocharian AB pāl-, pāl- 'praise, laud' (Van Windekens Lexique 89).

References: WP. II 182, WH. I 516, Trautmann 25.

See also: From this derived **b<sup>h</sup>/ē-* 'bleat'.

Page(s): 123-124

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>end<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to bind

Material: Old Indic badhnāti, only later bandhati 'binds, fetters, captures, takes prisoner, put together', Avestan bandayaiti 'binds', participle Old Indic baddhá-, Avestan ap. basta-, Old Indic bándhana- n. 'ligation', bandhá-ḥ m. 'ligation, strap',

Note:

Probably from Avestan ap. basta- n. 'ligation' derived alb. besë 'pact, covenant, faith, belief, armistice', previously Illyrian TN Besoi [common alb. shift st > s]; clearly Illyrian displays simultaneous satem and centum characteristics since it was created before the split of Indo European family. Because the institution of besa is the most important pagan medium that surpasses monotheistic religions in alb. psyche, that means alb. are the descendants of Illyrian Only alb. and Indic languages relate to the fact of blood bond. The institution of besa marks the ancient code of blood revenge and the victory of patriarchy or the blood line of the father.

Avestan banda- m. 'band, manacle' (: Old Icelandic Old Saxon bant, Old High German bant n., Modern High German Band, Gothic bandi, Old English bend f. ds.; Lithuanian bandà 'cattle', see below); Old Indic bándhu-ḥ m. 'kinsman, relative' (as πενθερός).

Gr. πείσμα 'rope, hawser, rope, cable' (from *πενθσμα, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 287, compare Brugmann IF. 11, 104 f., also for πέσμα and πάσμα), πενθερός 'father-in-law' (*'linked by marriage');

here after Pedersen (REtIE. 1, 192) also πάσχω 'suffer' as 'is bound, is entrapped', as also Latin offendō 'to strike against, knock; to hit upon, fall in with; to shock, offend, displease; intransit. to knock, strike; to run aground; to stumble, make a mistake, to give offence (with dat.); also to take offence', dēfendō '(*b<sup>h</sup>nd<sup>h</sup>-nā, under a basic meaning 'twisted, woven basket' as Celtic benna 'carriage basket') (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-);

thrak. βενδ- 'bind' (compare Kretschmer Einl. 236); alb. besë 'pact, covenant, faith, belief, armistice';

Illyrian TN Besoi

Latin offendimentum, offendix 'the knot of a band, or the band itself, chin strap under priest's cap, apex (a Roman priest's cap), fastened with two strings or bands';

gall. benna 'kind of vehicle', Galatian Ζεύς Βέννιος, cymr. benn 'wagon, cart' (out of it Old English binn, and through roman. mediation Modern High German dial. benne 'carriage boxes', Dutch ben 'basket, trough'; basic form *b<sup>h</sup>end<sup>h</sup>-nā); Middle Irish buinne 'strap, bangle' (*b<sup>h</sup>ond<sup>h</sup>iā); (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Gothic Old English bindan, Old Icelandic binda, Old High German bintan 'bind', Gothic andbundnan 'is unfastened', Gothic bandi etc see above;

Lithuanian beñdras 'partner, comrade' (formant associated with gr. πενθερός), bandà 'herd of cattle' (actually 'the tied (down) cattle, the bound cattle').

Here also Gothic bansts m. 'barn' (*b<sup>h</sup>ond<sup>h</sup>-sti; compare in other meaning Old Frisian bōst 'matrimonial union' from *b<sup>h</sup>ond<sup>h</sup>-stu- 'bond');

ndd. banse 'silo, garner, barn', Old English **bōs*, engl. boose 'cattle shed', Old English bōsig 'crib', Old Icelandic bāss m. 'room for keeping, cattle stall' (*band-sa-);

jüt. bende 'divided off room in cattle shed' erases probably every doubt about the relationship of above group with binden.

References: WP. II 152, WH. I 102, Feist 79, 80 f., 93.

Page(s): 127

---

Root / lemma: bh end-

Meaning: to sing, rejoice

Material: Old Indic bhandatē 'receives cheering shout, is praised, glares, gleams', bhándiṣṭha-h 'in loudest cheering, shrilly, screaming, best of all praising', bhandána-h 'cheering', bhandánā 'merry tintinnabulation, cheer' (doubts the meaning partly); zero grade Old Irish Middle Irish bind 'melodic', abret. bann 'melodious, harmonious'. (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

References: WP. II 151 f.

Page(s): 126-127

---

Root / lemma: bh enġh-, bh ġġh- (Adj. bh ġġhú-s)

Meaning: thick, fat

Material: Old Indic bahú- 'dense, rich, much, a lot of' compounds Sup. baṁhīyas-, baṁhiṣṭha- (= gr. παχύς);
bahulá- 'thick, dense, vast, spacious, big, large, rich, much, a lot of' (= gr. παχυλῶς Adv. by Aristot., if these not newer formation); bámhatē (uncovered) 'increase, multiply', bháṁhayatē 'clamps, fastens, strengthens';

Avestan baṣah- n. 'height, depth', bašnu- m. ds., Baluchi bāz 'much, a lot of', baz 'dense'; gr. παχύς 'thick, dense, fat, obese' (compounds πᾶσσω), πάχος n. 'thickness, fatness' (occurs after παχύς for *πέγχος = Avestan baṣah-), πάχετος 'thick; thickness, fatness';

Old Icelandic bingr 'heap', Old Swedish binge ds., Old High German bungo 'tuber, bulb', Modern High German Bachbunge, in addition with intens. consonant-sharpening Old Icelandic bunki 'stowed away shipload', Norwegian bunka (and bunga) 'small heap, swelling, blister', Dutch bonk 'clump, lump';

Note:

Alb. bungë 'kind of edible oak fruit': with -u- grade alb. (**beuka*) buka 'bread': Phrygian βεκός 'bread', actually 'crumb' prove that from an extended Root / lemma: b(e)u-1, bh (e)u-: 'expr. sound of hitting' derived Root / lemma: bh eg-, bh eng-: 'to break', Root / lemma: bh enġh-, bh ġġh- (Adj. bh ġġhú-s): 'thick, fat', Root / lemma: bh eug-1: 'to flee, *be frightened', Root / lemma: bh eug-2, bh eugh-: 'to clear away, free', Root / lemma: bh eug-3, bh eugh-: 'to bow', Root / lemma: bh eug-4: 'to enjoy, *consume, bite' as taboo words.

Latvian biezs 'dense, thick', biezums 'thickness, fatness';

Latin pinguis 'fat; oily; rich, fertile; n. as subst. fatness, fat. Transf. thick, dense; heavy, stupid; easy, quiet' has perhaps originated through hybridization of **fingu-is* = παχύς, bahú- with that to opīmus, πῖον respective words;

Tocharian B pkante, pkatte 'greatness, bulk, extent' (Van Windekens Lexique 96);

Hittite pa-an-ku- (panku-) 'all, in general'.

References: WP. II 151, Couvreur H 177.

Page(s): 127-128

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>en-

Meaning: to hit, wound

Material: Avestan banayən 'it makes me sick', banta- 'sickens, waste away';

Gothic banja 'blow, knock, wound, ulcer', Old Icelandic ben, Old English benn f., (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Saxon beni-wunda 'wound'; Old Icelandic baní m. 'death; murderer', Old English bana, Old High German Old Saxon banō 'killer, murderer', Old High German banō, Middle High German bane, ban 'death, ruin'; perhaps also Middle High German bane, ban f. and m. 'pathway, way, alley' as '* by all means through an wood, forest' or '* a (well-) beaten track, a way used often'; Middle Irish epit f. 'scythe, pruning knife' from **eks-b<sup>h</sup>en-tī*, corn. bony 'axe'; but cymr. bon-clust 'slap in the face, box on the ear' contains bon 'stick'.

Avestan bata-, if 'ground coarsely, from the grain', could be related as **b<sup>h</sup>en-to-*, but because of the uncertain meaning is only to name with reservation.

References: WP. II 149, Feist 80.

Page(s): 126

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēdh-

Meaning: to cut; board

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēdh- : 'to cut; board' derived from Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēgh- : 'high; mountain, *sharp' [common Illyrian - balt -gh- > -dh-].

Material: Old Indic bardhaka-h 'cutting, clipping', m. 'carpenter', śata-bradh-na-h 'having 100 metal points'; perhaps gr. πέρθω 'destroy, smash', πορθέω 'destroy, smash, devastate';

b<sup>h</sup>red<sup>h</sup>os- in Old Saxon Old English bred 'board', Old High German bret n., therefrom Old High German britissa, Modern High German Pritsche;

b<sup>h</sup>rd<sup>h</sup>o- in Gothic fōtu-baurd n. 'splint', Old Icelandic bord n. 'board, table, desk', Old English bord n. ds., Old High German bort ds. = Umbrian forfo- ds. in furfant 'they lay on the board'; probably with it identical Old Icelandic borð 'edge, border, ship's rim', Old High German Middle High German bort ds. (Modern High German Bord from Ndd.), Old English bord 'board, edge, shield'; Old English borda m. 'edge, ornament, decoration', Old High German borto, Modern High German Borte;

b<sup>h</sup>ord<sup>h</sup>o- in Old Icelandic barð 'edge, border', Norwegian dial. bard ds.

From Germanic **burð-* derive Serbo-Croatian br̂do, russ. běrdo etc 'weaver's reed' and Latvian birde f. 'weaver's rack'.

References: WP. II 163, 174, Devoto Mél. Pedersen 227 f., Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 75.

Page(s): 138

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ereg-

Meaning: expr. to sound, roar, cry, etc., *sharp voice

Note: compare b<sup>h</sup>er- ds. as well as that by b<sup>h</sup>reg- 'break, rupture' and 'crack, creak' encountering onomatopoeic sounds

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ereg- : 'expr. to sound, roar, cry, etc., *sharp voice' derived from Root /

lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ereġh- : 'high; mountain, *sharp'.

Material: Old English beorcan stem-V., bearkian (**barkōn*), engl. bark 'bark, bay', Old Icelandic berkja 'bark, bay, rumble, rage, clamor';

Lithuanian (žem.) burgėti 'drone, grumble, quarrel, squabble, be unfriendly', burgėsus 'crosspatch, grouch'; presumably also Serbo-Croatian br̂gljati 'mumble, murmur, chat', br̂galica 'turtledove'.

Besides similar b<sup>h</sup>ereġh-: Latvian br̂ecu, br̂ekt 'cry', russ. brešú, brechátʹ 'yelp, cry, quarrel, squabble, lie', brechnjá 'empty gossip', Serbo-Croatian br̂ěšēm, br̂èhati 'pant, gasp, loud cough' (**b<sup>h</sup>req-s-*), br̂ěkcēm, br̂ektati 'pant, sniff, snort'.

Somewhat different because of the clear onomatopoeic words are the following words, which in their partial i- and u-vocalism in these by b<sup>h</sup>er(e)ġ- 'roast' remind present vocal differences, which are explained from different sound imitation:

gr. φρυγίλος 'a small bird' (metathesis from *φρυγύλος; Latin frig-);

Latin frigō, -ere 'squeak (of small children)', friguttiō, -īre 'chirp, twitter (from birds), lisp', later fringuliō, fringultiō ds., frigulō, -āre 'cry (from the jackdaw)', fring(u)illa 'finch, sparrow';

maybe alb. (**fringuilla*) fërgëlloj 'shiver, tremble (like a bird?)' russ. bergléz 'goldfinch', Serbo-Croatian biglijez 'Sitta syriaca', Czech brhel 'Eurasian golden oriole, golden oriole', mähr. 'woodpecker', poln. bargiel 'mountain titmouse'.

Similar ones, but indeed new onomatopoeic words are Latin merulus frindit, Lithuanian briz-gėti 'bleat, grouse, drone, hum, grumble'.

References: WP. II 171 f., WH. I 548.

Page(s): 138-139

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēġh- (**b<sup>h</sup>erġ<sup>h</sup>-o-*)

Meaning: high; mountain

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēġh- : 'high; mountain' derived from Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēġ-, b<sup>h</sup>rēġ- : 'to shine; white, *ash wood, ashen, birch tree, elm'

Material: Old Indic Kaus. barháyati 'increases', br̥m̐hāti 'makes fat, obese, strengthens, uplifts', presumably barha-s, -m 'tail feather, tail of a bird, esp. from a peacock'; br̥hánt- 'big, large, high, convex, elevated, noble, sublime', also 'high, loud (of the voice)', fern. br̥hatī (= Irish Brigit, Germanic Burgund), Avestan bərəzant- (npers. buland), f. bərəzaitī 'high', in compound bərəzi- (: **bərəzra-*), bərəz- 'high' and 'height, mountain' (= npers. burz ds., Irish brí; the Nom. Avestan barš Subst. could contain Aryan -ar-, but also Aryan -r-, Bartholomae IF. 9, 261), zero grade Avestan uz-bərəzayeni 'I shall allow to grow up' (in addition Σατι-βαρζάνης 'improve luck', iran. **barzana-*), bərəzan- m. bərəzah- n. 'height', bərəšnu- m. 'elevation, height, sky, heaven, head', bərəzyah- 'higher', bərəzišta- 'the highest, the most suitable'; npers. bāl-ā 'height' (**barz-*), burz (see above);

Old Indic bṛhánt- stands for also 'big, large, vast, grand, thick, massive' and bṛmhātī 'makes fat, obese, invigorates, strengthens, increases, furthers', bṛhánā Adv. 'dense, tight, firm, strong, proficient; very, absolutely', paribṛdha-ḥ 'standing firm, dense, solid'.

Armenian berj 'height' in erkna-, lerna-berj 'sky-, mountainous' (**b<sup>h</sup>erǵhos*), barjr 'high' (**b<sup>h</sup>rǵhú-*), (ham-)baṛnam (**barjnam*, Aor. barji) 'lift up' etc.

Berg- in PN the Mediterranean countries: thrak. Βεργούλη, maked. Βέργα, Illyrian Berginium (Bruttium: Bergae), Ligurian Bergomum, Celto-Ligurian Bergusia, hisp. Bergantia etc about p- in klein Old Saxon Πέργη, Πέργαμος, maked. Cretan Πέργαμος suppositions by Kretschmer Gl. 22, 100 f., Krahe ZNF. 19, 64.

Formations in i- grade:

Latin for(c)tis, Old Latin forctus, dial. horctus, horctis 'physically, strong, powerful, robust; morally, brave, courageous, steadfast, bold, audacious' (from **forg-tos*, Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>rǵh-tos* = Old Indic bṛdháh).

Cymr. bera 'heap' (= Modern High German Berg), acorn. bret. bern ds. (-rǵh-n-? s. Pedersen KG. I 105), gall. PN Bergusia, zero grade Middle Irish brí, Akk. brig 'hill' (see above), cymr. bry 'high, above', fem., cymr. corn. bret. bre 'hill', gall. Litano-briga among others PN; gall. Brigantes, Βρίγαντες people's name (either 'the sublime, noble' or 'troglodyte, cave dweller, cliff dweller'; Old Indic bṛhant-), Brigantia PN 'Bregenz (western Austria)' and name of a feminine divinity, Old Irish Brigit (**b<sup>h</sup>rǵhntī*) 'name of a famous saint and generally women's name' (also Old Indic bṛhātī is used as woman's name, also Old High German Purgunt), cymr. braint 'privilege, prerogative' (actually 'highness'), pl. breiniau, in addition mcymr. breenhin, ncymr. brenin 'king', corn. brentyn, bryntyn ds. (**brigantīnos*).

Gothic baírgahei 'mountain range, mountainous region', Old Icelandic bjarg and berg, Old High German Old Saxon berg 'mountain', Old English beorh, beorg 'height, burial mound', engl. barrow 'burial mound' (compare Armenian -berj, cymr. bera, Old Indic barha-);

Germanic **burgundī* (= Old Indic bṛhātī, Celtic **brigantī*, Irish Brigit) in Burgund, oldest name of Bornholm (Danish island) (actually 'the high-rising') and name Danish and Norwegian islands, Old High German Purgunt women's name, in addition Burgundiōnes, family name.

Gothic baurgs f. 'town, city, tower', Old High German burg etc 'castle' is genuine Germanic equivalent of Avestan bərəz-, Celtic brig- with the meaning 'fortified height as refuge'; With it is coincident though Latin burgus 'castle, fort', that is borrowed from gr. πύργος 'tower', an oriental loanword from urart. burgana 'palace, fortress' derives (820 v. Chr., s. Adontz REtIE 1, 465), whereof would have also derived Armenian burgn, aram. burgin, burgon 'tower' etc. after Kretschmer though πύργος Germanic loanword Maybe alb. burgu 'prison' a Latin loanword.

This contemplates **berghō* 'save, hide, shelter', originally ostensibly 'providing sancturay for someone at a refuge' as retrograde derivative to **b<sup>h</sup>ergh-* 'mountain' (Gl. 22, 113); s. above S. 145.

Old Church Slavic brěgъ 'bank, border, shore, slope', Serbo-Croatian brijeg 'hill, bank, border, shore', russ. bēreg ds., is probably not Germanic loanword, but rather Venetic-Illyrian origin; Brückner KZ. 46, 232, Persson Beitr. 927;

Maybe alb. breġu 'bank, border, shore, slope' is a Slavic loanword not from Illyrian Berginium.

from latter with brěgъ as genuine Slavic words related klr. o-bořih, Czech brah 'haystack' etc belongs rather to Old Church Slavic brěgъ 'care' (**preserve, save, hide, shelter*), as stogъ : στέγω.

Maybe alb. brengë 'care, sadness, sorrow', brengos 'sadden, worry' Slavic loanwords.

With other vowel gradation **b<sup>h</sup>reg-* perhaps in Old English brego, breogo 'master, mister, ruler, prince, lord', Old Icelandic bragr 'best, most exquisite, most distinguished, leader, chief, prince', Middle High German brogen 'rise, direct upwards, wanton brag'.

Tocharian AB pärk- 'arise, rise, come up', A pärkānt, B pirko 'the rising', A pärkär, B parkre, pärkre 'tall'; perhaps A prākär, B prākre 'tight, firm, solid' (compare Latin fortis); Hittite pär-ku-uš (parkus) 'high' (: Armenian barj̄).

Hittite: parku- 'high', parganu- (l) 'make high', pargatar n. (r/n) 'height', parkija-, park- (l) 'stand up' (Friedrich 160-161)

References: WP. II 173 f., WH. I 124, 535 f., 853, Feist 75 f., 85 f., Trautmann 30 f., Van Windekens Lexique 90, Couvreur H 178.

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erem-1

Meaning: to stick out; edge, hem

Material: b<sup>h</sup>orm-:

Old Icelandic barmr 'edge, hem', ey-barmr 'the edge of an island', Norwegian dial. barm 'extremity, border, brim, edge, rim' (e.g. in the sail), nnd. barm, berme 'a ledge at the bottom of a bank or cutting, to catch earth that may roll down the slope, or to strengthen the bank; a narrow shelf or path between the bottom of a parapet and the ditch'.

b<sup>h</sup>rem-: b<sup>h</sup>rom-:

Perhaps Latin frōns, frondis f. 'a leaf, foliage; meton., a chaplet or crown of leaves' (*b<sup>h</sup>rom-dī-, as glāns from **glan-dī-*);

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift

Old Norse brum n. 'leaf buds', Old High German brom, brum ds., Swiss brom 'flower bud, young twig, branch', ablaut. brāme ds.

In a basic meaning 'bristly, thorn' go back: Old English brōm m. 'broom' (*b<sup>h</sup>rēmo-), Middle Low German brām 'blackberry bush, broom', Old High German brāmo m., brāma f. 'briar, blackberry bush', brāmberei; Modern High German Brombeere, Old English brēmel, engl. bramble (proto Germanic **brāmil*), ablaut. mnl. bremme, Old High German brimma 'broom' and Middle Low German brēme, brumme ds.

With the meaning 'edge, border': Middle High German brēm n. 'border, edging, edge', Modern High German verbrämen, changing through ablaut Middle English brimme, engl. brim 'edge'.

References: WP. II 102.

Page(s): 142

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erem-2

Meaning: to buzz, drone

Material: Old Indic bhramarā-ḥ 'bee';

In -nt suffix:

Maybe nasalized alb. (**ble-tē*) ble-tē 'bee': gr. βροντή f. 'thunder' [common alb. r- > /].

gr. φόρμινξ, -γγος f. 'zither', because of suffixes loanword? Initial sound variant *brem- probably in βρέμω 'boom, blaster, sough, rustle, bawl, blaster', βρόμος m. 'noise, crackling', βροντή f. 'thunder' (*βρομ-τᾱ);

Latin fremō, -ere 'roar, murmur, growl; with acc. to murmur out something, grumble, complain'; frontēsia 'thunder and lightning' is loanword from gr. βροντήσιος (to βροντή);

Maybe alb. frymë 'breath, exhalation', frynj 'blow'.

cymr. brefu 'bleat, roar, bellow'; Old High German bremān 'drone, grumble, roar, bellow', Old English bremman 'roar, bellow', brymm n. 'flood, sea', Middle High German brimmen ds., ablaut. brummen 'drone, grumble' (in addition brunft 'heat, rut, rutting season'); Middle Low German brummen and brammen ds., Old High German Old Saxon brema 'gadfly, brake', Middle High German breme, Old Saxon bremmia, Old High German brimisse, Modern High German Breme and (from dem Ndd.) Bremse; poln. brzmieć 'sound, clink, buzz' (**br̥m-*), Bulgarian br̥mčǎ 'buzz, drone, hum', br̥mkam ds., br̥mb-al, -ar, -ьr 'bumblebee, beetle, chafer'.

Maybe alb. Geg diminutive (**brum-el*) brumull, Tosc brumbull 'bumblebee, beetle, bug' [common alb. m > mb]

As extensions *b<sup>h</sup>rem- perhaps here the onomatopoeic words: Old Indic bhr̥ṇga-h 'giant black bee'; poln. brzęk 'sound, tinkling, clinking; gadfly, brake', russ. brj́akaty 'clang, clink, clatter', Czech brouk 'beetle, chafer'; Lithuanian brj́nkterėti 'fall chinking' etc;

Lithuanian branzgu, brangsti 'clang, clink, knock', ablaut. branzgu, brangsti 'sound, clink'; Slavic bręzgy in russ. brj́azgi Pl. 'empty gossip'; russ.-Church Slavic brjazdati 'sound, clink'.

References: WP. II 202 f., WH. I 544 f., Trautmann 37.

Page(s): 142-143

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eres-

Meaning: quick

Material: Latin festīnō, -āre 'to hasten, hurry; transit., to hasten, accelerate', Denom. von **festiō(n)-*, -īn- 'haste, hurry', Erweit. to **festi-* (from **fersti-*) in cōnfestim 'immediately, without delay' (from **com festi-* 'with haste, hurry');

Middle Irish bras 'quick, fast, stormy' (*b<sup>h</sup><sub>r</sub>esto-), cymr. brys ds. (*b<sup>h</sup><sub>r</sub>sto-), Middle Breton bresic, brezec 'hasty';

Lithuanian bruz-g-ùs 'quick, fast', bruz-d-ùs 'movable, nimble', besides burz-d-ùlis ds., burz-dėti 'run to and fro';

Slavic *b<sub>rz</sub>ь in Old Church Slavic b<sub>ř</sub>zo Adv. 'quick, fast', Serbo-Croatian b<sub>ř</sub>z 'quick, fast', russ. borzój 'quick, fast, fiery', besides *b<sub>rz</sub>dь in wruss. b<sub>ó</sub>rzdo Adv. 'quick, fast', Serbo-Croatian brzdica f. 'rapids, speed in stream'.

Perhaps here Ligurian FIN Bersula, Swiss FIN Birsig (Krahe ZONF 9, 45).

Maybe alb. (**bersul*) vërsul, 'rush forward, attack', truncated (**vërsul*) sul 'rush, attack' [common alb. b- > v- shift].

References: WP. II 175, WH. I 259, 488 f., Trautmann 40, Specht Dekl. 192.

Page(s): 143

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>(e)reu- : b<sup>h</sup>(e)rũ-

Meaning: to boil, to be wild

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>er-2.

Material: A. ablaut b<sup>h</sup>eru- (b<sup>h</sup>eru-), b<sup>h</sup>rũ-:

Old Indic bhurváṇi-ḥ 'restless, wild', bhurván- 'uncontrollable movement of water'.

Armenian bark 'sharp, sour, cruel, savage' (barkanam 'I get angry'), which is very much ambiguous, it is constructed here from Dumézil BSL. 40, 52 as *b<sup>h</sup><sub>r</sub>-u-, likewise berkrim 'I am glad' as *b<sup>h</sup><sub>r</sub>-u-; very doubtful!

Gr. φαρυμός τολμηρός, θρασύς Hes. (*b<sup>h</sup><sub>r</sub>-u-) and φορυτός 'mixture, rubbish, chaff, crap, muck', φορῶνω, φορύσσω 'knead, jumble, mingle, sully, besmirch', probably also φρυάσσομαι 'gestures, behaves impatiently (esp. from wild horses); be rollicking, wanton' common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-.

Thrak. βρῦτος (see below).

Alb. brum m., brumë f. 'sourdough', mbruj, mbrünj 'knead'.

Latin ferveō, -ēre, fervō, -ēre 'to be boiling hot, to boil, seethe, glow. Transf., to be in quick movement, to seethe; to be excited by passion, rage' (about fermentum s. b<sup>h</sup>er-2); dēfrūtum 'leaven, yeast; a kind of beer. Transf. anger, passion' (: thrak. βρῦτος, βρῦτον, βροῦτος `a kind of barley beer'; from thrak. **brūtīā* (gr. βρύτια), derives Illyrian brīsa `skins of pressed grapes', proto extension alb. bërsí ds., from which serb. bersa, bīrsa, bīrza `mould on the wine'; Latin brīsa from dem Venet. or Messapic).

Note:

Not only alb. is the direct descendant of Illyrian but Albans in Alba Longa brought their beer formula from Illyricum (Albanoi Illyrian TN) to Italy. Slavic languages borrowed their cognates from Illyrian Middle Irish berbaim `cook, simmer, seethe', cymr. berwi, bret. bīrvī `simmer, seethe, boil', bero, berv `cooked, boiled', gall. GN Borvo (from spa, mineral spring), compare with other suffix Bormō above S. 133; perhaps also French bourbe `slime, mud' from gall. **borvā* `mineral water'; Old Irish bruth `blaze, glow, fury', Middle Irish bruith `cook', enbruith `broth, meat broth' (to en- `water', see below pen-2), acymr. brut `courage, spirit, vivacity; also pride, arrogance', ncymr. brwd `hot' (cymmrwd `mortar' from **kom-bru-to-*, compare Middle Irish combruith `simmer, seethe, boil'), brydio `seethe, froth', acorn. bredion `dealer, broker' (Umlaut), abret. brōt `jealousy', nbret. broud `hot, fermenting'.

About Germanic bru-forms see below B.

B. ablaut b<sup>h</sup>rēu- and (partially again) b<sup>h</sup>rū-:

At first in words for `wellspring' = `bubbling over' (r/n-stem, perhaps b<sup>h</sup>rēu, b<sup>h</sup>rēun-, b<sup>h</sup>run-); Armenian atbiur, atbeur (Gen. atber) `wellspring' (from **b<sup>h</sup>rēw(a)r=) gr. φρέαρ, -ᾱτος `stream, brook' (*φρηῖαρ-*, -ατος, hom. φρήατα, consigns φρείατα); Middle Irish tipra f. `wellspring' (maybe from Old Irish **tiprar* < **to-eks-b<sup>h</sup>rēu*), Gen. tiprat (**to-eks-b<sup>h</sup>rēuntos*); Old Irish -tiprai `streams against' (**to-eks-b<sup>h</sup>rēu-īt?*); from stem b<sup>h</sup>run- the case obliqui from as en-stem proto Germanic **brunō*, **brun(e)n-*, Gothic brunna, Old High German brunno, Old English brunna, burna `well, water hole, spring' (Old Icelandic brunn), (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), with metathesis Modern High German (nidd.) Born.

Maybe alb. buronj `spring, originate', burim `origin, source, spring, bubbling water (as if boiling)'; russ. brujá `current'; also alb. (**bruth*) burth `Cyclamen europaeum (burning of donkey's mouth)' where -th is a diminutive alb. ending.

Note:

Alb. shows that Root / lemma: <sup>bh</sup>(e)reu- : <sup>bh</sup>(e)rũ- : 'to boil, to be wild' is an extended Root / lemma: <sup>bh</sup>er-2 : 'to boil, swell; to get high' (see below) while the latter root evolved from Root / lemma: <sup>bh</sup>er-1 : 'to bear, carry'.

With similar meaning russ. bruĭá 'current', bruítb 'rapidly flowing, streaming in', wruss. brújjíc 'urinate, to make water' (this meaning also in Middle High German brunnen (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-) and in Modern High German dial. brunzen, Bavarian brunnlen 'urinate, to make water' from Brunnen), formal next to Lithuanian br(i)áujs, br(i)áutis 'push forward with brute force' (*<sup>bh</sup>rēu-), Latvian braulīgs 'horny, lustful'; also Old Prussian brewingi 'conductive, helpful'?

<sup>bh</sup>re-n-u- (present with nasal infix, compare Modern High German brennen) with respect on licking flames lies before in Gothic Old High German Old Saxon brinnan, ais. brinna, Old English beornan, birnan 'burn', Kaus. Gothic brannjan, Old Icelandic brenna, Old High German brennan, Old English bæman 'burn', wherefore among others Old High German brant 'blaze', brunst 'burn, blaze', Old Icelandic brunir, Old English bryne 'blaze', Old High German bronado, Old English brunaþa 'itchiness, heat in the body', Swedish brånad 'rutting';

<sup>bh</sup>rēu- : <sup>bh</sup>ruu- in: Old High German briuwan, Old English brēowan 'brew', Old Swedish bryggja (from **bryggwa*) ds.; Germanic **brudā-* in: Old Icelandic Old English broð, Old High German proð 'broth' (: defrūtum, Old Irish bruth, thrak. βρῦτος; Middle High German brodelen, Modern High German brodeln);

Germanic **braudā-* in: Old Icelandic brauð, Old English brēad, Old High German brōt 'bread' (from the ferment); about Old High German wintes prūt 'storm; tempest, whirlwind' s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> 692.

References: WP. II 167 f., WH. I 333 f., 487.

Page(s): 143-145

---

Root / lemma: <sup>bh</sup>erēġ-, <sup>bh</sup>rēġ-

Meaning: to shine; white, *ash wood, ashen, birch tree, elm

Note: equivalent with <sup>bh</sup>erēġ-, s. d. the groups <sup>bh</sup>ereġ-, <sup>bh</sup>ereġ- shine, appear, seem to be extensions to <sup>bh</sup>er- 'bright, brown'. Similar to extension <sup>bh</sup>e/eg- besides <sup>bh</sup>e/- 'shine'.

Material: Old Indic bhrājatē 'glares, gleams, shines'; Old pers. brāzaiti ds. (*<sup>bh</sup>rēġō), npers. barāzīdan 'shine', barāz 'jewellery';

Balto Slavic **brēsk-* from b<sup>h</sup>rēg-sk- in Lithuanian brékšta, bréško, brékšti 'break, (dawn), (from the day)', apybréškis 'time around daybreak'; slov. brěsk, Czech břesk, poln. brzask 'daybreak, dawn', poln. obrzasknąć 'become bright', brzeszczy się 'it dawns, the day breaks', with Assimil. of auslauts -sk- to the sounding word anlaut Old Church Slavic pobrězgъ 'dawn, twilight, daybreak', russ. brezg, poln. brzazg ds.

With gradation b<sup>h</sup>(e)rōĝ- probably Swedish brokig 'varicolored', Norwegian Dialectal brōk 'a young salmon with transverse bands' (', also as brōka f. 'large-scale mottled animal'.

With lengthened grade the 1. syllable: Gothic baírhts 'bright, gleaming, distinct', Old High German beraht, Middle High German berht 'gleaming' (also in names Old High German Bert-, -bert, -brecht), Old English beorht 'gleaming, radiating' (engl. bright), Old Icelandic biartr 'light, bright'; cymr. berth 'gleaming, beautiful', PN bret. Berth-walart, Irish Flaith-bertach, Lithuanian javaĩ béršt 'the grain becomes white'; probably also Norwegian Dialectal bjerck 'very bright' (compare noch berk 'white trout', Swedish björkna 'Abramis blicca').

reduction grade alb. barth (bard<sup>h</sup>-i) 'white' (**b<sup>h</sup>erāĝo-*).

In names of the birch (Slavic partly elm, Latin ash tree):

Old Indic bhūrjā-ḥ m. 'a kind of birch'; osset. bārz 'birch'; dak. PN Bersovia; Latin farnus 'ash tree' (**fár<sub>[a]</sub>g-s-no-s*, originally stuff adj. 'ashen', as well as:) frāxinus ds. (to begin probably with ā, **b<sup>h</sup>erāĝ-s-enós*); twofold development of -erā- in farnus and frāxinus would be caused by old accent difference as in palma = gr. **πάλαμᾱ, παλάμη* compared with lātus = τλητός;

Maybe alb. Geg frashën 'ash-tree': Latin frāxinus 'ash-tree';

Old High German birihha (**b<sup>h</sup>erāĝ-jā*), Old English beorc, birce, Old Icelandic björk (**b<sup>h</sup>erāĝā*) 'birch';

Lithuanian béržas m., Pl. béržai 'birch', ablaut. biržtva f. 'birch forest'; bīržliai 'birch twigs', Latvian bērzs m., Old Prussian berse 'birch'; russ. berēza, Serbo-Croatian brěza, ačech. břieza 'birch' (the old color meaning still in Bulgarian brěz 'white spotted' = Norwegian bjørk s. o., slov. brěza 'name of a white spotted cow or nanny goat'); with formants -to- (= Gothic baírhts) and intonation change Slavic **berstъ* in russ. bérest m. 'elm, framework', Serbo-Croatian brijest, Czech řest ds., but with the meaning 'birch' against russ. berěsta f., berěsto n. 'birch bark', Czech řesta 'upper birch bark'.

Maybe alb. brez 'strip, belt (white stripe?)': Romanian brâu, brână 'belt' Slavic loanword.

Old High German -brecht could, if this vocalization instead of -ber(h)t not a innovation is, are applied to b<sup>h</sup>ereċ-, as also in Gothic baírhts, cymr. berth, Hittite parkuiš.

References: WP. II 170 f., WH. I 458, 510 f., 544, Trautmann 32, 37 f., Specht Dekl. 57.

Page(s): 139-140

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erēċ-, b<sup>h</sup>rēċ-

Meaning: to shine

Note: equivalent with b<sup>h</sup>erāċ-, b<sup>h</sup>rēċ- ds. (see there, also because of ambiguous words)

Material: Old Indic bhrāśatē 'blazes, shines' (uncovered);

gr. φορκόν λευκόν, πολιόν, ρυσόν Hes., compare but S. 134;

perhaps here Old Irish brecc 'mottled, speckled, *tabby', cymr. brych ds., gall. PN Briccius (from **b<sup>h</sup>ġċ-*, with expressive consonant stretch); uncertain suppositions about the origin of cymr. breuddwyd 'dream', Middle Irish bruatar ds. by Pedersen Litteris 7, 18, Pokorny IF. Anzeiger 39, 12 f.; whether from **b<sup>h</sup>rog<sup>w</sup>hd<sup>h</sup>-eiti-*, -ro-?

Middle High German brehen 'sudden and strong flash', Old Icelandic brjā, brā (**brehōn*) 'flash', braga, bragða 'sparkle, glitter, flame, burn', bragð (**blink*) 'moment', with originally bare präs. -d<sup>h</sup>- also Old Icelandic bregða, preterit brā 'quick, fast move, swing, reproach', Old English bregdan, brēdan stem V. 'quick, fast move, swing', engl. braid 'flax, wattle, braid', upbraid 'reproach', Old High German brettan, Middle High German bretten 'pull, tear, twitch, weave' (in addition Old High German brīdel, Old English brīdel, older brīgdels 'bridle, rein');

with formants -yo- Gothic brahv in in brahva augins 'ἐν ῥίπτῃ ὀφθαλμοῦ, in a flash, at the moment' (compare Old Icelandic augnabragð n. 'blink, winking the eyes') and lengthened gradees **bréh<sup>w</sup>ā*, **brēz<sup>w</sup>ā* in Old Icelandic brā f. 'eyelash', Old English bræw, brēaw, brēg m. 'eyelid', Old Saxon brāha 'eyebrow', slegi-brāwa 'eyelid', Old High German brāwa f. 'brow', wint-prāwa 'eyelash' (the meaning 'brow' oriented from **brū-* 'brow', Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>rū-*); that in spite of Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I. 350, 463<sup>6</sup> and Specht Dekl. 83, 162

Old High German brāwa could go not back to **b<sup>h</sup>rēuā*, is proved through the grammat. variation in Old English, the form with -k<sub>u</sub> assumes (Sievers-Brunner 200).

Here probably a kind of fish Old High German brahs(i)a, brahsina, Old Saxon bressema 'bream, freshwater bream', Norwegian brasma, brasme ds., ablaut. Old Icelandic brosma 'a kind of codfish'.

Hittite pár-ku-iš (parkuiš) 'clean, pure', pár-ku-nu-uz-zi (parkunuzi) 'purified, clean'.

References: WP. II 169, Feist 76 f., 103 f., Couvreur H 327.

Page(s): 141-142

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erġh- (**b<sup>h</sup>erġh-*)

Meaning: to hide, keep

Material: Gothic baírgan 'save, store, keep', Old Icelandic bjarga, Old English beorgan, Old High German bergan, Old Saxon gibergan 'save, store'; changing through ablaut Old English byrgan 'bury', byrgen (**burgiznō*), byrgels, Old Saxon burgisli 'burial, funeral' and Old High German bor(a)gēn 'spare, look after, entrust, borrow', Old English borgian 'look after, watch over, keep, borrow'.

Note:

Alb.-Illyrian and celt.- Slavic languages prove that from a zero grade of Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erġh- : 'high; mountain' derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erġh- : 'to hide, keep'. Cognates deriving from those two roots mark of wave of IE people who introduced burial mounds in Europe.

Maybe alb. nasalized (**bergo*) brenġé 'concern, sadness (for a dead person?)', brenġos 'sadden' Slavic loanwords.

Slavic **bergo* in Old Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>erġh-tei*) brěgo, brěšti 'care, worry' in nebrěšti 'neglect', russ. beregú, beréčb 'beware, preserve, protect, spare, look after, spare', Serbo-Croatian older bržem, brijeći 'guard, watch, preserve, protect, care, worry; hold festivities'; changing through ablaut klr. oboříh, gen. oboróha 'haystack', Czech brah 'haystack, heap', poln. bróg 'barn, haystack' (out of it Lithuanian brāgas ds.); zero grade Czech brh 'cave, cottage, tent'; East Lithuanian bīrginti 'spare'.

Perhaps here gallo-rom. (rhät.-Illyrian) bargā 'covered thatched hut', whether from **borgā*, Tagliavini ZrP. 46, 48 f., Bonfante BSL. 36, 141 f.

References: WP. II 172, Trautmann 31, Feist 76.

See also: compare above S. 141.

Page(s): 145

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-1

Meaning: to bear, carry

Grammatical information: The root b<sup>h</sup>er-, forms the exceptional both themat. and athemat. present, because the durative recognizes neither Aor. nor Perf. in Indo Germanic

Note: Beside b<sup>h</sup>er-, with them. vowel b<sup>h</sup>ere-, sees a heavy basis b<sup>h</sup>erə : b<sup>h</sup>rē-.

Material: Old Indic bhāratī 'carries', Avestan baraiti ds. (and 'ride'), Old pers. barantiy 3. Pl. ds. (= Armenian berem, Phrygian αβ-βερετ, gr. φέρω, Latin ferō, Old Irish biru, alb. bie, Gothic baira, Old Church Slavic berǫ); Old Indic bhārtī (also as gr. φέρτε, Latin fert old unthem. form), bibhārtī, bíbharti, bibhṛmáh, bibhṛati (compare that probably with τίποραμεν = bibhṛme derived ἐσ-τιπόραμαι 'bring in, take in'), them. abibhṛan, bibhramāṇa-h and Avestan - bībarāmi;

Perf. babhāra and jabhāra (hybridization of babhāra with jahāra from hārtī); participle Old Indic bhṛtá-h, Avestan bəṛəte-; Supin. Old Indic bhārtum; Kaus. Old Indic bhāráyati = Iter. Avestan bāraya-;

Sup. Avestan bairišta- 'he cherishes best, cares, looks after' (= gr. φέριστος 'most superior, best', probably 'he carries the richest, most fertile');

Old Indic bhṛtí-h 'carrying, sustenance, livelihood, food, wage' = Avestan bəṛətis 'carrying' (= Latin fors, Gothic gabaúrps, Armenian bard); Old Indic bhṛtyā 'food, nourishment, care, cultivation' (compare Gothic baúrpe);

Maybe alb. bar 'fodder, grass'.

Old Indic bhārman- n. 'preservation, nourishment, care, cultivation; load' (= gr. φέρμα, Old Church Slavic brěmę), heavy basis in bharīman- n. ds.; bharitra-m 'arm' ('*wherewith one carries');

Old Indic bhāra-h 'acquiring, carrying off, profit, gain, booty; burden'

Maybe alb. barrë 'burden' : Old Indic bhārá-h 'bundle, work, load';

npers. bar 'fruit' (= gr. φόρος, Old Church Slavic sz-borъ); Old Indic -bhará-h 'bearing, carrying, bringing etc', Avestan -barō ds. (= Armenian -vor, gr. -φορος, e.g. δύσφορος = Old Indic durbhara-h);

maybe alb. bar 'grass, herb' related to npers. bar 'fruit'.

Old Indic bhāraṇa-m 'carrying, bringing, providing, support' (= Inf. Gothic baíran); Old Indic bhártar-, bhartár- 'bearer, provider', prábhartar- 'carrier (of the sacrifice)', Avestan fra-bərətar- 'carrier of things, secondary priest' (compare Latin fertōr-ius, Umbrian arsfertur), fem. Old Indic bhartṛī, Avestan barəθrī 'supporter, upholder, mother'; lengthened grade Old Indic bhārā-h 'bundle, work, load', bhārin- 'bearing, carrying', bhārman- (n.) 'bringing, attendance', bhārya-h 'to bear, carry, support, nourish' (== Old High German bāri or = **b<sup>h</sup>ōrio-* in gr. φωριμός); ba-bhrí-h 'bearing, carrying, borne'.

Armenian berem 'bear, bring' (Aor. eber = ἔφερε, ábharat), bein, Gen. berin 'burden, load' (compare gr. φερνή 'dowry'), ber 'yield, fruit, fertility' and 'movement, run', -ber 'bringing, bearing, carrying', e.g. in lusaber 'light-bringing, morning star', secondary instead of -vor, e.g. lusa-vor 'light-bringing' (compare Latin Lūci-fer, gr. λευκο-φόρος); bari 'good', barv-ok 'good, best'; bard 'heap; compound', lengthened grade **b<sup>h</sup>ōr-* in buin 'hand, fist; force, might';

Phrygian (κακουν) αββερετ (also αββερεται) '(injury, evil) cause, carry';

gr φέρω 'bear' (only present system, once participle φερτός; Ipn. φέρτε), med. φέρομαι 'moves me fast' (also Old Indic bharatē, Latin ferri, compare above Armenian ber and under Alb.), Iter. φορέω 'bear etc' (= alb. mbaj); about φέριστος 'the best, noble', Kompar. φέρτερος see above S. 128 and Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 300<sup>2</sup>, 535, 538; about ὄφρα s. Boisacq s. v. and S. 132;

Note:

common alb. b- > mb- > m- as in alb. Geg maj 'bear' φέρτρον, with them. Vok. φέρετρον 'bier, stretcher' (Latin feretrum 'a litter, bier' from Gr.); φέρμα 'fruit, field crop, agricultural crop, unborn child; fruit of one's womb, fetus'; φερνή 'dowry', Aeolic with them. vowel φέρενα f. ds.; φόρος 'yield, tax', -φόρος 'bearing, carrying', φορά: 'carrying, plentiful yield, fullness, wealth'; ἀμφ[ι]ορεύς 'means: container/vessel with two grips/handles'; φόρτος 'burden, load, cargo'; φαρέτρᾱ 'quiver'; δει-φορος 'the charioteer's and the combatants' holding part of the war chariot'; φώρ 'thief' (= Latin fūr), ἰσφωρες λησταί, κλέπται. Λάκωνες Hes.; from φώρ derived φωράω 'spy on the thief ', then generally 'spy on, track ', φωπά: 'house search '; φωριαμός 'box for the storage of clothes ' due to *b<sup>h</sup>ōrios 'wearable, bearable'.

From the heavy basis b<sup>h</sup>(e)rē- (?): Fut. -φρήσω, Aor. -έφρησα, -φρῆναι joined together (with δια- 'let pass', with εισ- 'let in, put in ', with εκ- 'bring out, let out, unburden '); paradigmatic with (έσ)-πι-φράναι (see above to Old Indic bibhṛmāḥ).

Ligurian FIN Porco-bera 'guiding fish ', Gando-bera 'guiding scree '.

Mess. ma-beran, beram etc, tabara 'priestess' (**to-b<sup>h</sup>erā*), Doric-Illyrian βερνώμεθα κληρωσώμεθα. Λάκωνες, Hes. (to gr. φέρνη 'dowry'), doubtful ἀβήρ οἶκημα στοὰς ἔχον, Hes.

[common Messapian Albanian b- > mb-, m(a)b-, the intervocalic -a- under the influence of Latin consonant + vowel + consonant order.]

Note:

Illyrian, Mess. and later alb. display satem characteristics the same as Old Indic and Avestan Not only Illyrian shares with Old Indic and Avestan the cognates for 'bear' but also the institution of priesthood and earth fertility: Mess. ma-beran, beram etc, tabara 'priestess': Avestan fra-bərətar- 'carrier of things, secondary priest' (compare Latin fertōrius, Umbrian arsfertur), fem. Old Indic bhartṛī, Avestan barəθrī 'supporter, upholder, mother';

Alb. [causative bjer] bie (**b<sup>h</sup>erō*), 2. Pl. birni 'bring, bear, lead, guide', also 'fall, fail, hit ', ber, beronje 'dart, arrow'; kompon. **dz-bier*, vdjer etc 'fall, lose, destroy', ndzjer 'bring out ', zbjer 'fall, lose'; also bie in the meaning 'fall' (compare φέρομαι etc), wherefore dzborë, dëborë, vdorë etc 'snow' (prefix dz(a)-, dë- and **b<sup>h</sup>ērā* actually 'the falling down, falling off ');

[Albanian prefix dz(a)-, dë-, z- is of Macedonian Slavic origin (as in Mac. **dz-ástra*, dzástra 'the day after tomorrow, tomorrow'), from Slavic za 'behind; for, after, because of, during, at, in, on' see Root / lemma: ḡhō: behind, towards].

Albanian dz(a)-bora f. 'snow' = Romanian f. ză-padă 'snow'.

o-grade Albanian dz(a)-bora f. 'snow, heap of snow ': Old Church Slavic sz-borъ 'congregation, meeting', alb. borica 'sleet ', suffix -ca of Slavic origin.

Breton ober erc'h : Kurdish Kurmanji berf barîn : Romagnolo bofè : Welsh bwrw eira :
Latvian birt : Albanian bie borë `to fall snow';

iterative alb. *b<sup>h</sup>orëjō in Tosc mbanj, mbaj, older mba, Geg mba, mbaj `keep, tend, look after, observe, bear', North East Geg also used from carrying pregnant animals, with restored r also mbar, bar `bear, drag'; [common alb. b- > mb-] Kaus. *b<sup>h</sup>ōrëjō in gr.-alb. bonj, pass. bonem from mating of the mares and cows, actually `make bear, make pregnant', and dzbonj (etc) `chase away, drive out, drive away' (*`make fall away, make flee');

[Albanian prefix dz(a)-, dë-, z- is of Macedonian Slavic origin (as in Mac. **dz-ástra*, dzástra `the day after tomorrow, tomorrow'), from Slavic za `behind; for, after, because of, during, at, in, on' see Root / lemma: ġhō: behind, towards].

alb. mbarë `good, lucky', barrë `load' (*b<sup>h</sup>ornā, compare Gothic barn n. `kid, child'); mberat `pregnant', bark `belly' etc, bar `grass, herb' (*b<sup>h</sup>oro- `yield');

bir `son' (*b<sup>h</sup>er-, compare Gothic baur `son'), bijë, gr. cal. bilë `daughter' (with diminutive suffix -ëjë, -ëjë) : Old English byre `son'; Maybe Kurdish bere `offspring'.

burrë (**baur*) `man, husband' (compare to meaning Old High German baro `man, husband'; alb. basic form *b<sup>h</sup>ornos, reduplication-stem besides Gothic barn); presumably also mburr `praise', mbuñem `boast, brag, be proud'.

Latin ferō, ferre `to bear, bring, carry; to bring forth, produce; to bring to a place or a person, fetch, offer; to bear away, carry off; to bear along, move forward, put in motion. Transf., to move, impel, carry away; without object, to lead, tend' (as gr. φέρω only present system), Umbrian fertu `you shall bear' etc, Volscan ferom `bear, carry', Marrucian ferenter `they are carried, they are born' (compare from compound ad-, afferō. Gothic atbaíra, effērō. ἐκφέρω, Old Irish as-biur); ferāx `fertile';

Latin ferculum `a frame, litter, bier, tray; of food, a course or dish', praefericulum `wide offering vessel'; **fertor* `the bearer', assumed from fertōrius `a sedan which serves for carrying' and = Umbrian ař-fertur, arsfertur `the priest of some particular god'; fertilis `fertile', Paelignian fertlid Abl. Sg.; -fer in compound secondary instead of -for `bearing, carrying, bringing'; forda f. `pregnant' (do- extension of Adj. *b<sup>h</sup>oró-s `bearing, carrying', s. WH. I 527); fūr `thief' (= gr. φύρ, s.o.; to Latin ūr s. WH. I 569);

fors Nom. (= Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>rtis), forte Abl. `chance, luck' = Paelignian forte Pl. `chance, hap, luck, fate, fortune';

fortūna ` chance, fate, lot, luck, fortune. Transf., lot, condition, state, mode of life; property, possessions ' (from tu-stem *b<sup>h</sup>r-tu-s).

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift.

Old Irish 1. Sg. biru, -biur, 3. Sg. berid `bear, carry', as-biur `tell', do-biur `give', cymr. cymeraf `take' etc; Middle Irish bert m. `bundle, load', f. `feat, dead, act, plan, birth' etc, birit `sow' = Old Indic bhārantī `bearing, carrying';

Old Irish Middle Irish breth and (actually Dat. Akk.) brith, breith (Gen. brithe `carrying, parturition (verbal noun to biru); birth; judgement' (*b<sup>h</sup>rtā); cymr. bryd `thought, notion' (rather *b<sup>h</sup>rtu- as *b<sup>h</sup>rti-, s. Lewis-Pedersen 345), corn. brys `thought, notion', brys `womb'; gall. uergo-bretus Office title, whether for *-britos;

Irish barn `judge', cymr. bret. barn `judgement' (probably *b<sup>h</sup>ornos, compare above alb. burre; Pedersen KG. I 51 nimmt -ř-, i.e. erə, an);

Old Irish brāth, gen. -o `court', cymr. brawd `judgement', corn. bres ds., bret. breut `address to the jury; summation; summing up; plea ', Pl. breujou `the assizes of justice, judgments of a court of law ', gall. Brātu-spantium PN, βρατουδε `from judgment ' (*b<sup>h</sup>erə-tu-); gall. **com-boros* `the amassed ', out of it Middle High German kumber `rubble, heap of rubble ', Modern High German Kummer.

Gothic baíran `bear, carry, bring, beget, spawn, to give birth to children ' (bērusjōs `parents');

Old Icelandic bera `bear, carry, bear, endure, bring, produce, give birth to children ', Old English Old High German beran `bear, carry, beget, spawn, to give birth to children ', Modern High German gebären;

Gothic Old Icelandic Old High German Old Saxon barn, Old English bearn `kid, child'; Gothic barms `breast', Swedish dan. barm `breast, lap', Old Icelandic baðmr `bosom', Old High German Old Saxon barm `lap', Old English bearm ds. (= gr. φορμός? s. S. 137); Old High German baro `man, husband';

Swedish Dialectal bjäre (**beron-*), bare (**baron-*) `(carrying, i.e.) luck-bringing magical creature '; Old Icelandic Pl. barar, barir, bqrur `barrow, bier', Old English bearwe, engl. barrow, East Frisian barwe, Dutch berrie `barrow, bier'; lengthened grade Old High German -bāri, Modern High German -bar (e.g. fruchtbar = bearing fruit, bearing, carrying), Old English bære (wæstmære 'fertile'), Old Icelandic bærr 'capable for carrying, bearable';

Old High German Old Saxon bāra, Old English bærf. 'barrow, bier' (also Old Icelandic bāra, Middle English Middle Low German bāre 'wave'? perhaps here as 'the lifting one', compare below the group from Old High German burian 'soar, rise');

zero grade Gothic baúr 'the born', Old Icelandic burr, Old English byre 'son'; Gothic gabaúr n. 'money collected from people, (φόρος), tax', gabaúr m. 'feast, festival' (to gabaíran 'collect, gather'), Middle High German urbor, urbarf. n. 'interest of a property', m. 'tax-payer'; Old High German borf. 'upper space, height', Old High German in bor(e) 'at the height, upwards', Middle High German enbor(e), Modern High German empor, Old High German burian, Middle High German bürn 'raise, uplift'; here obd. borzen 'overhang' = Old English boretan 'swing' (Germanic \-aſian*), in addition Modern High German Bürzel under purzeln, Old High German giburian, Middle High German gebürn 'occur, happen, close juridically, to be due', Old Saxon giburian, Old English gebyrian, Old Icelandic byrja 'be proper, befit, be suitable', Old Icelandic byrja also 'begin', actually \-lift, raise*;

Maybe alb. buron 'begins, springs, originates', burim 'spring'.

Old English byre, gebyre m. 'favorable occasion, opportunity', Gothic gabaúrjaba adv. 'willing, fain, yearning', gabaúrjōpus 'lust, desire'; from the concept of 'aroused, lifted, high' arose from the strengthening mode of Old High German bora-, e.g. in bora-tall 'very tall, very high', next to which o-grade Old Saxon bar- in barwirdig 'very solemn, honorable, noble'; presumably also Old Icelandic byrr m., Old English byre 'favorable wind', Middle Low German bore-los 'without wind' as '(the ship) bearing, carrying'.

Gothic gabaúrps f. 'birth, parentage, ancestry, gender, sex', Old Icelandic burðr m. 'carrying, parturition, birth', byrðf. 'birth', Old English gebyrd f., Old High German giburt, Old Saxon giburd 'birth', also 'fate, destiny' (=Old Indic bhṛtī-ḥ, Latin fors); Gothic baurpei 'burden, load', Old High German burdīf. 'burden', **bhṛtīōn-: -tīn*, Old Icelandic byrdr, Old English byrpen, byrden ds.

Old Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>erdieh<sub>2</sub>*) berq, bъrati (bъrati) 'gather, collect, take', Serbo-Croatian bērēm brāti ds., russ. berú bratъ ds. etc (Slavic **bъrati* derived from an older **bъrti* after the preterite stem Balto Slavic **birā-*), Old Church Slavic brēmę 'load, burden', Serbo-Croatian brēme, russ. Dialectal berémja, ač. břiemě (**b<sup>h</sup>erā-men-*), Old Church Slavic sъborъ 'congregation, meeting'; Church Slavic brěžda 'pregnant', russ. berěžaja 'pregnant

(of the mare)', Serbo-Croatian brěda ds. from cows (*b<sup>h</sup>erə-djā), in forms similarly Latin forda; Old Church Slavic brašbno 'dish, nourishment, food' see below bhares- 'barley'.

Lithuanian bėrnas 'youngling; farm laborer', Old Lithuanian 'kid, child', Latvian bērns 'kid, child'; probably Latvian bars 'heap, bulk, mass'.

Here with specialization on delivering the seminal grain: transitive Lithuanian beriu, bėriaũ, beĩti 'strew, distribute' (from grain, then also from flour, ash, cinder etc), Latvian beru, bērt ds., in ablaut intransitive Lithuanian byrũ, biraũ, birti 'strew, distribute, fall out', Latvian biĩstu, biru, biĩt 'fall out, fall off, drop', etc.

Tocharian A B pār- 'bear, carry, bring, get, fetch', perhaps also in A kos-preṃ 'how much?' ku-pre 'if', tāpreṃ 'if', tāpār(k) 'yet', whether to gr. ὅ-φρα ... τό-φρα 'as long as' (see 129).

About Hittite bar-aḫ-zi 'hunts, scuds, chases' s. Pedersen Hittite 185.

Specht will restore here also (Dekl. 148), with i- and u- forms, Old English brīd, bird 'young bird', Germanic brū-tis 'wife, woman, bride', Old Indic bhrūṇá- 'embryo', Latvian braũna, čech. brnka (*b<sup>h</sup>ru-nka) 'placenta, afterbirth'. S. but under b<sup>h</sup>(e)reu- 'gush, well up, soak'.

References: WP. II 153 f., WH. I 483 f., 527, 569, 865, 866, Trautmann 31, E. Hermann Stud. Bait. 3, 65 f.

Page(s): 128-132

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-2

Meaning: to boil, swell; to get high

Note: often with m- forms; also as heavy basis b<sup>h</sup>erə-: b<sup>h</sup>ĩ-, b<sup>h</sup>(e)rēi-, b<sup>h</sup>(e)ĩ-. compare b<sup>h</sup>er-6.

Material: Old Indic bhuráti (*b<sup>h</sup>ĩ-é-ti) 'moves, shrugs, jerks, flounces, flounders', Intens. jár-bhurĩti ds.; also: 'flickers, from fire'; bhuraṇyáti 'shrugs, jerks, is restless; sets in violent movement, stirs, stirs up' with m- forms Old Indic bhramati, bhrāmyati 'wanders around, turns round', bhramá-ḥ 'whirling flame, whirlpool', bhĩmi-ḥ 'movable, nimble; whirlwind' (see below Old Icelandic brimi etc); bhũrĩ-ḥ 'violent, angry, irate, wild, keen, eager', might be based as *b<sup>h</sup>ĩnĩ- likewise on the heavy basis;

here probably Avestan avabaraiti 'streams from', uzbarənte 'they stream forth (?)', barənti ayaṇ 'during one day, where it squalls, storms'.

From gr. πορφύρω (*πορφυρι(ω) 'boils up, surge up, be in restless stir' (: Old Indic jārbhurīt); presumably also φῦρω 'mix up, mix' (if originally from bubbling up from cooking; basic form *bʰ<sub>o</sub>ṛiō with u-colouring conditioned by the labial of the reduction vowel), wherefore φύρδην 'chaos, in a mess', φυρμός 'perplexity', φυράω 'mix, mingle, stir chaos, knead, bewilder'.

About Ligurian and Venetic names see below.

Alb. burmë 'fully ripe' (*fully cooked) from *bʰ<sub>o</sub>ṛmo-.

Maybe alb. burim 'spring, bubbling up', buronj 'to spring, bubble'

From Latin probably fretum -i 'n. a strait, sound, estuary, firth, channel; the sea in gen., usually plur.; fig., disturbance, turmoil', fretus, -ūs m. 'a strait; an interval, difference (surging of the sea, esp. strait, stream, foaming, heat)', fretāle 'frying pan';

fermentum 'leaven, sourdough, yeast; a kind of beer. Transf. anger, passion, ' (: Old English beorma, engl. barm, Low German barme, from which Modern High German Burme 'brewer's yeast'); also fervēre S. 144;

Old Irish topur, nir. tobar 'wellspring' (**to-uks-boro-*), Middle Irish commar = cymr. cymmer 'confluence' (**kom-bero-*); Ligurian FIN Comberanea; Middle Irish fobar 'wellspring, subterranean stream, brook' = cymr. gofer 'stream, brook', bret. gouver ds. (**u[p]jo-bero-*), cymr. beru 'drip, trickle', Middle Breton beraff 'flow', gall. FIN Voberā, French Woevre, Voivre etc; with m-forms Celto-Ligurian aquae Bormiae, GN Bormō, hisp. PN Bormāte, FIN Borma, dak. PN Βόρματτον, Venetic FIN Formiō (but gall. GN Borvō belongs to bʰ<sub>o</sub>ṛeu- 'boil'). Über Middle Irish brēo 'flame' see below.

Old English beorma m. etc (see above); from of a root form *bʰ(e)rē- : bʰ(e)rō-: Old High German brādam m. 'breath, breeze, heat', Middle High German brādem 'haze, mist', Modern High German Brodem, Old English bræð 'haze, mist, breath, breeze, blow' (engl. breath), Old Icelandic brāðr 'stormy, hot tempered, hasty', brāð 'tarred wood, creosoted', brāðna 'melt', intrans., Old High German brātan, Old English brædan 'fry'; ablaut. Middle Low German bröien 'sing, brood', Middle High German brüejēn, brüēn, Modern High German brühen, Old English brōd f., engl. brood 'brood, breed, breeding'; Middle High German bruot f. 'heat, Brut', Old High German bruoten 'brood'; unknown origin are Old High German brāto m. 'soft eatable meat' (Braten previously are reinterpreted Middle High German time to `roasted meat'), Modern High German Wildpret, Old Norse brādo `calf', late Latin borrows brādo `ham', Old English bræde m., Old Icelandic brāð `raw meat'.

Beside the very productive root form b<sup>h</sup>ereu- (see there) has to be recognized probably also b<sup>h</sup>(e)rēi-, b<sup>h</sup>(e)rī-. These are based on Old Indic jar-bhurī-ti, gr. *φουρι-ω, *πορφουρι-ω (see above); with m-formant presumably gr. φριμάω, φριμάσσομαι `makes me anxious, spring, snort'

common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-;

Old Icelandic brimi `fire'; Middle English brim `blaze, glow', probably also Old Icelandic brim n. `surf, surge, breakers', Old English brim n. `sea'; in brühen, Brodem, braten present meaning colouring turns again in Norwegian prim `a kind of cheese prepared from sour wheys under strong cooking' (also Modern High German Brimsenkäse), Dialectal also brīm `ds.; also crust, sediment of boiled down liquid' (Modern High German Bavarian Brimsen, Brinzen `what settles with the mush browned in the frying pan'); besides with formant -uo- very probably Old High German brīo, Middle High German brī(e), Old English brīw `porridge, mash' (as `*south, hot; cooked'), briwan `cook'; moreover also Middle Irish brēo `flame' (**b<sup>h</sup>ri-uo-*).

An s-extension perhaps in Old Indic bhréṣati `wavers, staggers, sways', Norwegian Dialectal brīsa `blaze, flare, shine, show off; set on fire', brīs `fire, flame', brisk `agile, lively, alert, awake, smart'.

Maybe alb. brisk `sharp, smart, keen; knife'

References: WP. II 157 f., WH. I 482 f., 546, 865.

See also: compare the related root forms b<sup>h</sup>ereg- `cook', b<sup>h</sup>ereu- `boil', b<sup>h</sup>reus- `to swell', b<sup>h</sup>rīg-, b<sup>h</sup>rūg- `cook, fry'

Page(s): 132-133

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-3

Meaning: to scrape, cut, etc.

Material: Old Indic (gramm.) bhṛnāti (?) `injures, hurts, disables' = npers. burrad `cuts, slices'; Avestan tiži-bāra- `with sharp edge' (= Armenian bir, compare also alb. boríg(ë); perhaps here Old Indic bhárvasi `chews, consumes' (Avestan baoirya- `what must be chewed', baourva- `chewing') from **b<sup>h</sup>aratī* is transfigured through influence of Old Indic cárvati `chews up'.

Armenian beran 'mouth' (originally 'cleft, fissure, orifice'), -bir- 'digging up' in getna-, erkra-, hota-bir 'digging up the ground, ransacking' (*b<sup>h</sup>ēro-), in addition brem (**birem*) 'digs out, hollows out, drills out', br-ič 'hack, mattock, hoe'; bah, Gen. -i 'spade' (*b<sup>h</sup>ṛ-ti-, perhaps *b<sup>h</sup>ṛti- = russ. bortb), bor, Gen. -oy 'scurf'.

Gr. *φάρω 'split, cut up, divide' (φάρσαιν σχίσαι EM), φάρω 'plow' = Old High German borōn), φάρος n. 'plough, plow (?)', m. = φάρυγξ (*b<sup>h</sup>eros), ἄφαρος 'plowed up', φάραγξ 'cliff with gaps, gorge, ravine, gulch' (in addition rom. barranca 'gorge, ravine, gulch', M.-L. 693a), jon. φάρσος n. 'ragged piece, deal, portion'; here perhaps φάσκος m. 'moss villus' as *φαρσ-κος. A k-extension in φαρκίς 'wrinkle', φορκός 'wrinkly' Hes.

Perhaps here (IJ. 13, 157 n. 100) mak. βίρροξ δασύ (compare βίρρωθῆναι ταπεινωθῆναι Hes.), basic meaning 'wool villus', gr. Lesbian Thessalian βερρόν δασύ, Doric βειρόν ds., βερβέριον 'shabby dress', Latin burra f. 'straggly garment', respectively 'wool', reburrus 'wool with bristling hair'.

Alb. bie (2. pl. birni, Imp. bierε) 'knocks, hits, plays an instrument; whether (hit there)'.

Alb. brimë 'hole' (*b<sup>h</sup>ṛ-mā), birë ds. (*b<sup>h</sup>ṛā), Geg brëj, Tosc brënj 'gnaw, argue'; britmë 'September and October' (if actually 'harvest, autumn', due to *b<sup>h</sup>ṛ-ti- 'the reaping'); bresë 'bitter root, chicory' ('bitter' = 'incisive'; -së from -tjā, boríg(ë) 'splinter, chip' (*b<sup>h</sup>ēr- m. form. -igë).

Maybe alb. mbresë 'print, shock' [common alb. b- > mb- shift]

Latin feriō, -īre 'to strike, knock, smite, hit; esp. to strike dead, slay, kill; colloq., to cheat' (see also WH. 1481 to ferentārius 'a light-armed soldier, skirmisher'). About forma 'form, figure' s. WH. I 530 f.

forō, -āre 'to bore, pierce' (meaning as Old High German borōn, but in ablaut different; denominative of *b<sup>h</sup>orā 'the drilling'), forāmen 'hole, opening, aperture'; forus, -ī 'the gangway of a ship; a block of seats in the theater; plur., tiers of cells in a beehive'; but forum (Old Latin also forus) 'an open square, marketplace' not as 'space surrounded by planks' here (Umbrian furo, furu 'forum'); see below d<sup>h</sup> uer-.

Middle Irish bern, berna f. 'cleft, gap, slit', bernach 'cleft'; probably also Middle Irish bairenn 'cliff piece' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (in addition bairnech 'mussel plate'); Old Irish barae, Middle Irish bara (Dat. barainn) 'rage, fury', bairnech 'angry, irate', cymr. bar, baran 'rage, fury'.

Old Icelandic berja (preterit barða) 'hit, bump, poke', berjask 'fight', bardage 'battle', Old High German berjan, Middle High German berjen, bern 'hit, knock, knead', Old English bered 'low-spirited' (Germanic **barjan* = Slavic borjǫ), Old Frisian ber 'attack'; Middle High German bārf. 'balk, beam, bar, gate, barrier, enclosed land' (: Latin forus, -um), engl. bar 'bar, gate, barrier', Old Icelandic berlings-áss 'balk, beam'; Germanic is probably (different Wartburg I 260) also Middle High German barre 'balk, beam, bar, bolt' and rom. family of French barre, barrière etc (-rr- from -rz-);

**baru-ha*, -ga- 'castrated pig' (perhaps with Slavic **borv-ъ* based on **b<sup>h</sup>oru-s* 'castrated animal' and ending in -ha-: -ga- after **farha-* 'pork, pig' extended) in: Old High German barug, barh, Modern High German Barg, Barch (Borg, Borch);

Maybe alb. bariu 'shepherd, herdsman (of pigs?)' phonetically equal to Latvian barū, bāru, bārt 'scold, chide' (see below) or maybe a truncated gr. βώτωρ 'herdsman, shepherd'.

Old English bearg, bearh, engl. barrow, Old Icelandic -bǫrg 'a castrated boar' (in addition also Old Icelandic val-bassi 'wild boar' as **barh-s-an?* s. Falk-Torp under basse N.); Old High German Old Saxon borōn, Old English borian, Old Icelandic bora, -aða 'bore' (see above); Old High German bora 'borer', Old English bor, byres ds.; Old Icelandic bora 'hole' (auga-, eyra-bora).

Lithuanian bāras, Latvian bars 'grain swath, strip of cut grain'; Lithuanian barù (and bariù), bárti 'scold, chide, vilify', refl. 'be quarrelsome', Latvian barū, bāru, bārt 'scold, chide' (== Slavic borjǫ);

Maybe alb. (**bárti*) bértas 'scold, yell, scream', mbaroj, 'extinguish, finish, end, make ashamed', alb. Geg (**bar-*) mbare, marre 'shame, sth to be scolded', [common alb. b- > mb- shift] : Latvian: bārti 'scold, blame' [verb]; bārtiēs 'quarrel' [verb].

Lithuanian barnis (Akk. bañi) 'quarrel' (=Old Church Slavic branъ); Lithuanian burnà 'mouth' = Bulgarian bǎrna 'lip' (basic form **b<sup>h</sup>ornā*, compare above Irish bern and to meaning Armenian beran).

Here with Baltic forms ž. Latvian beîzt 'rub, scour, rub, clean', intrans. bîrzt 'crumb, spall, crumble', birze 'sowing furrow', Lithuanian biržis f. 'field furrow'.

With of a basic meaning 'notch': Lithuanian bùrtai Pl. 'lot, fate, charm, spell' = Latvian burts 'mark, token, sign the magician, alphabetic letter', Lithuanian bùrti 'conjure, perform magic', Latvian buîrt 'conjure, perform magic', buîrtains 'perform wood-carving notch'; gr.

φάρμακον `remedy, magical cure, magic potion; philtre ' (probably not Indo Germanic) has nothing to do with it.

Old Church Slavic borjъ, bratī `fight' (frequent reflexive), russ. borjú, boróť `subjugate, prostrate', refl. `fight', poln. dial. bróć się `wrestle, struggle'; Old Church Slavic branъ `fight, struggle', Old Russian boronъ `fight, struggle', russ. bóronъ `forbid', Czech braň `weapon, armament, armor' , russ. za-bór `fence, plank fence ';

maybe alb. (**broñ*) mbronj `defend', mburojë `shield, armour' : poln. brońić `defend' [common alb. b- > mb- shift] Slavic loanword.

(as Latin forus on the concept `board' rejecting: compare russ. alt. zaborolo `wooden town wall, scaffold, trestle', Czech zábradlo `handrail, parapet' ); russ. boroná `harrow', and with Slavic -zda-forms Slavic **borzda* in Old Church Slavic brazda, russ. borozdá `furrow';

maybe alb. brazda `furrow' a Slavic loanword.

russ. bórov `hog, castrated boar, (dial.) boar, castrated bull ', Serbo-Croatian brâv `sheep, cattle ', Dialectal `castrated pig', slovak. brav `castrated pig', poln. Dialectal browek `fattened boar, porker ' (see above Germanic **baruha-*); **bъrtъ* `drilling, cavity' (**b<sup>h</sup>ortī-*) in russ. bortъ `the hollow of the tree in what bees have nested ' etc.

References: WP. II 159 f., WH. I 481 f., 537, 865, 866, Trautmann 27, Mühlenbach-Endzelin 354.

See also: compare the related root forms b<sup>h</sup>ered<sup>h</sup>-, b<sup>h</sup>rēi- (b<sup>h</sup>rēig-, -k-, see there also about b<sup>h</sup>erg<sup>h</sup>-), b<sup>h</sup>reu-, b<sup>h</sup>reu-q-, -k- `cut, clip', b<sup>h</sup>reus- `break, rupture', b<sup>h</sup>erug- `gullet'.

Page(s): 133-135

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-4

Meaning: to roar, buzz, onomatopoeic words

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-4: to roar, buzz, derived from a truncated Root / lemma: ba<sup>x</sup>mb- (ba<sup>x</sup>mbal): a k. of noise.

Note: An extension at most in **b<sup>h</sup>erem-* `drone, grumble' and treated onomatopoeic words under b<sup>h</sup>erg- `drone, grumble'.

Material: Armenian boř, -oy `bumblebee, hornet' [from truncated klr. bombâr `cockchafer'], to redupl. Old Indic bambhara-h (unbel.) `bee', bambharāliḥ (unbel.) `fly', bambhā-rava-h `the bellow of the cows';

gr. πεμφορηδών `kind of wasp' (formation as ἀνθρηδών, τενθρηδών); similarly also Serbo-Croatian būmbar `bumblebee', klr. bombâr `cockchafer'.

Maybe alb. (**bũmbar*) bumballa 'bumblebee' a Slavic loanword.

Here at least partly (with fractured reduplication) also the Balto Slavic group from Lithuanian barbėti 'clang, clink', birbiù, -iaũ, bĩrbti 'buzz', burbiù, burbėti 'drone, grumble, bubble, seethe' ;

Maybe Lithuanian (**boburužė*) boružė : Romanian buburuză : alb. burbuqe 'ladybug'.

klr. borborósy Pl. 'sullen talk', Serbo-Croatian bĩblati 'chat', in which indeed the meaning 'talk indistinctly, stammer' would go back to the group of Old Indic barbarāḥ etc (see **baba*).

References: WP. II 161 f., Trautmann 39 f.

Page(s): 135-136

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-5

Meaning: shining; brown

Note: extensions of b<sup>h</sup>er- 'shine, appear, seem', b<sup>h</sup>ereĝ-, b<sup>h</sup>ereġk- 'shine'.

Material: Old Indic bhallā-ḥ, bhallaka-ḥ bhallūka-ḥ 'bear' (-ll- from -rl-); Old High German bero, Old English bera 'bear' (*b<sup>h</sup>eron-), Old Icelandic biörn ds. (*b<sup>h</sup>ernu-, whose u as like ũ from Old Indic bhallūka-ḥ might have derived from the stem *b<sup>h</sup>eru-) = Old English beorn 'warrior, chieftain';

Old Icelandic bersi 'bear' (s as in Fuchs : Gothic fauhō Luchs 'lynx' : Swedish lo); ablaut. Lithuanian bėras, Latvian bērs 'brown (from horses)';

Belarusian рысь (rysʹ), Russian рысь (rysʹ), Ukrainian рись (rysʹ), Bulgarian рис (ris), Macedonian рис (ris), Serbian рис (ris), Croatian ris, Slovenian ris, Sorbian (lower) rys, Sorbian (upper) rys, Czech rys, Polish rysʹ, Slovak rys, Albanian rrëqebull (ras 'lynx') + buall 'bull', Romanian râs 'lynx'

Slavic cognates derived from Illyrian Romanian râs 'lynx' < Lithuanian bėras 'brown'.

gr. φάρη νεφέλαι Hes.? (*φαρε[σ]a or *φάρεFa? If finally exactly to:) φαρύνει λαμπρύνει Hes., φρῦνη, φρῦνος 'toad, frog' (* 'the brown one' = Old High German brūn); if φάρη as 'blanket of clouds' to 7. b<sup>h</sup>er-?

nep. bhuro 'brown' (*b<sup>h</sup>rūro-); Old High German Middle High German brūn 'gleaming, brown', Old English brūn, Old Icelandic brūnn ds.; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), russ. Dialectal bryněť 'white, gray shimmer', changing through ablaut bruněť ds. (*b<sup>h</sup>rou-no-?) and (from *b<sup>h</sup>r-ono-, -eno-) russ.-Church Slavic bronъ 'white; varicolored (from horses)', russ. bronъ (and Dialectal brynъ), klr. breńity 'become dun (of a dull or dingy brown colour, dull greyish-brown), ripen', Old Church Slavic brъnije (brenije) 'ordure, excrement', slov. bŕn 'river mud';

Old Indic babhrú-ḥ 'reddish brown; giant ichneumon kind', Avestan bawra-, bawri- 'beaver'; Latin fiber, fibrī 'beaver' (also feber s. WH. I 491; probably i has changed for e, as also) Celtic (only in names): **bibros*, **bibrus* in gall. PN and FIN Bibracte, abrit. VN Bibroci, Middle Irish VN Bibraige (**bibru-rīgion*), PN Bibar (**Bibrus*) besides **bebro*s in gall. FIN **Bebrā*, French Bièvre; Bebronnā, French Beuvronne, Brevenne etc; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German bibar, Old English beofor (oldest bebr), Middle Low German bever, Old Icelandic biōrr ds. (Proto German **bebru-*); compare also Modern High German FIN Bever, old Biverna;

Lithuanian bēbras, bābras, bēbrus ds. (dissimil. *debru*s), Old Prussian bebrus ds.; about Lithuanian brušis etc 'roach (Latin Leuciscus rutilus)', Old Prussian brun-se ds. s. Specht Dekl. 120;

Slavic **bebrъ* in poln. FIN Biebrza, russ. etc bobr (zur o-reduplication s. Berneker 47; besides perhaps **bъbrъ* in Serbo-Croatian dăbar 'beaver' and Old Russian bebrjanъ 'from beaver fur'). compare noch Latin fibrīnus 'of the beaver, beaver', Volscan Fibrēnus brook name, Avestan bawraini- 'of the beaver'; Old High German bibārīn, gall. bebrinus (Schol. Iuv.), Lithuanian bēbrinis ds.;

Tocharian B perne, A parno 'luminous', therefrom B perne, A parām 'majesty, grandeur'.

References: WP. II 166 f., WH. I 490 f., Van Windekens Lexique 93.

See also: compare further b<sup>h</sup>er-1 with similar meaning.

Page(s): 136-137

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-6

Meaning: to roast, cook

Note: with g-extensions, before partly i-, u- vowels; it derived from b<sup>h</sup>er-2 'move violently, surge, boil, cook'.

Material: 1. forms without -i- or -u-: b<sup>h</sup>ereg-:

Old Indic bhurájanta 'cooking' (**b<sup>h</sup>ereg-*); bhrjájati 'roasts', bhrṣṭa-ḥ 'roasted', bhrāṣṭra-ḥ 'frying pan', bharj(ḥ)ayati 'roasts, brät', bharjana-ḥ 'roasting', Middle Persian barštan ds.; presumably is *b<sup>h</sup>raž- (*b<sup>h</sup>o<sub>o</sub>raž- in bhurájanta), *b<sup>h</sup>arž- Aryan root form and Indic -jj only in present *b<sup>h</sup>ṛġ-skō, from which derived *b<sup>h</sup>ṛ(ġ)sġō, as gr. μίσγω from *μῑγ-σκω.

Latin fertum `a kind of sacrificial cake', Old Latin ferctum (firctum, s. Ernout ÉI. dial. Latin 165), participle **fergō* `bake', Oscan fertalis `the ceremonies where sacrificial cakes were needed'.

Note:

common Latin ph- > f- shift.

Maybe alb. (**fergō*) fērgonj `bake'; also truncated alb. (**fertalis*) fli `sacrifice'.

Lithuanian birgelas `basic, simple beer', Latvian biŗga `haze, mist, fume, smoke, coal smoke', Old Prussian aubirgo `cookshop', birgakarkis `a big soup ladle' (with Venetic-Illyrian g).

2. forms with i, ei.

Npers. biriš-tan `fry', b<sup>a</sup>rēzan `oven', Baluchi brējag, brijag `fry', npers. biryān (**brīgāna*-) `roasted', pam. (shifted) wirzam `roast' (Iran. **brīj-*, **braijj*-).

Latin frīgō, -ere `roast, dehydrate, desiccate', Umbrian frehtu `cooked, boiled'.

3. forms with ū: b<sup>h</sup>rūġ-:

gr. φρῡγω `roast, dry', φρῡκτός `roasted; fire brand', φρῡγανον `dry wood', φρῡγετρον `vessel for roasting barley'.

It is extraordinary that in the onomatopoeic words of gr. φρυγίλος `a bird', Latin frigō `(*roast, parch) squeak', poln. bargiel `mountain titmouse', russ. berglézь `goldfinch' the distribution of the forms with u, with i, and without either, is the same like in the words for cook.

References: WP. II 165 f., WH. I 486 f., 548 f.

Page(s): 137

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>er-7

Meaning: to weave

Material: Hom. φᾶρος = Attic φάρος n. (*φαρFος) `kerchief, cloth, canvas, fabric, velum, cover'; φάραι (?) ὑφαίνειν, πλέκειν Hes.; φορμός `pannier, mat';

Lithuanian burva `a kind of garment', Latvian burves Pl. `small sail' (-ur- suffix as in gr. *φαρFος), Latvian buras ds., Lithuanian būrė `sail'. S. to vocalism Walde Streitberg-Festschrift 176.

References: WP. II 164, Specht Dekl. 182.

Page(s): 137-138

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>es-1

Meaning: to smear, spread

Material: Old Indic bābhastī `chews up', 3. Pl. bāpsati; bhásma- n. `ash' resulted through verbal extensions of psā(i)-, psō/i/-, psə(i)-, psī- in Old Indic psāti `consumes', gr. ψάω, ψάιω `rub', ψαίρω ds., ψαύω `touch', ψηνός `baldheaded', ψῆφος f., Doric ψᾶφος `pebble', ψήχω `rub off', ψώχω `grind, pulverize'; with already Indo Germanic sporadic alteration of anlaut. b<sup>h</sup>s- to s-: gr. ἄμθος `sand' (= Middle High German samt); through various contaminations ἄμμος and ψάμθος ds., in addition ψιλός `naked, bald, bleak, bare', ψιάς `drop' etc;

Ψόλος, φέψαλος `soot, smoke'; ψάμμος f. `sand, beach, seaside' from *ψάφμος, compare ψαφαρός `frail, breakable' (*b<sup>h</sup>sə-b<sup>h</sup>-) and Latin sabulum `coarse sand, gravel' (*b<sup>h</sup>sə-b<sup>h</sup>/o-?);

alb. fšin, pšin, mëšin `sweep, thresh';

Maybe alb. fšeh, pšef, mšef `cover, hide, sweep away' [common alb. p- > mp- > m-].

Latin sabulum `sand' (see above), wherewith EM. 881 compares Armenian awaz ds.;

Middle High German samt (**samatho-*) besides Old High German sant `sand' (**samtho-*, Germanic sanda-, out of it Finnish santa);

Tocharian A päs- `diffuse, sprinkle' (?).

References: WP. II 189, Boisacq 48, 1074, Kluge<sup>11</sup> s. v. Sand, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 328 f., 676; Specht Dekl. 255, 325, Van Windekens Lexique 91.

Page(s): 145-146

---

Root / lemma: bhes-2

Meaning: to blow

Note: probably onomatopoeic words

Material: Old Indic bábhasti 'blows', bhástrā f. 'bellows, hose', bhasát f. 'rump', bháṁsas n. 'abdominal part';

gr. ψῦ-χῶ 'blow' (to suffix s. Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. 3, 256), ψῦχῆ 'breath, breeze, soul'.

Here probably ψῦ-χῶ 'cools off' (originally through blast), ψῦχος 'coldness', ψῦχρός 'cold' etc in spite of Benveniste BSL. 33, 165 ff.; after Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 329 onomatopoeic, as also ψίθυρος 'lispering'.

References: WP. II 69, WH. I 477, Boisacq 1075, Uhlenbeck Old Indic W. 186, 198.

Page(s): 146

---

Root / lemma: bheu<sup>dh-</sup>, nasal. bhu-n<sup>dh-</sup> (*b<sup>h</sup>eu<sup>dh-</sup>; b<sup>h</sup>ound<sup>dh-</sup>)

Meaning: to be awake, aware

Material: Themat. present in Old Indic bóḍhati, bóḍhate 'awakened, awakens, is awake, notices, becomes aware, observes, heeds', Avestan baodāiti 'perceives', with paīti 'whereupon direct one's attention' (= gr. πεύθομαι, Germanic **biuðan*, Old Bulgarian bljudǫ); Aor. Old Indic bhudánta (= ἐπύθοντο), Perf. bubóḍha, bubudhimá (: Germanic **bauð*, **buðum*), participle buddhá- 'awakened, wise; recognized' (== gr. ἄ-πιστος 'ignorant; unfamiliar'); maybe alb. (**bubudhimā*) bubullimë 'thunder (*hear?)' [common alb. : Latin dh > // shift].

Old Indic buddhí- f. 'understanding, mind, opinion, intention' (= Avestan paīti-busti- f. 'noticing', gr. πύστις 'investigating, questions; knowledge, tidings'); causative in Old Indic bōdháyati 'awakens; teaches, informs', Avestan baodāyeiti 'perceives, feels' (= Old Bulgarian bužǫ, buditi, Lithuanian pasibaudyti); of state verb in Old Indic budhyátē 'awakes, becomes aware; recognizes', Avestan buiḍyeiti 'becomes aware', frabuidyamnō 'awakening'; Old Indic boddhár- m. 'connoisseur, expert' (: gr. πειστήρ-ιος 'questioning'); Avestan baodah- n. 'awareness, perceptivity', Adj. 'perceiving' (: hom. ἄ-πειθής 'unexplored, unacquainted; ignorant'); Avestan zaēni-buḍra- 'watching keenly' (: Old Bulgarian бѣдрѣ, Lithuanian budrūs); Avestan baoidi- 'fragrancy' (= Old Indic bóḍhi- 'plenary cognition');

gr. πεύθομαι and πυνθάνομαι (: Lithuanian bundù, Old Irish ad-bond-) 'to learn; to find out, perceive, watch' (πεύσομαι, ἐπυθόμην, πέπυσμαι), πειθῶ 'knowledge, tidings'; πύστις, πειῦσις f. 'question'; maybe alb. (**peus*) pyes 'ask questions', pyetje 'question' : gr. πύστις, πεύσις f. 'question'.

Proto-Slavic form: pytati: Old Church Slavic: pytati 'examine, scrutinize' [verb], Russian: pytát' 'torture, torment, try for' [verb], Slovak: pytat' 'ask' [verb], Polish: pytać 'ask' [verb], Serbo-Croatian: pítati 'ask' [verb], Slovene: pítati 'ask' [verb], Other cognates: Latin putāre 'cut off branches, estimate, consider, think' [verb].

Note:

From Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eu<sup>dh</sup>-, nasal. b<sup>h</sup>u-n<sup>dh</sup>-: 'to be awake, aware' derived Root / lemma: peu-1, peuə-: pū-: 'to clean, sift', Root / lemma: peu-2: 'to research, to understand' (see below).

cymr. bodd (**b<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>ā*) 'free will, approval', corn. both 'volition' (: Old Icelandic boð), Old Irish buide 'contentedness, gratitude'; here also Old Irish ad-bond- 'announce, promulgate', uss-bond- 'call off, cancel, refuse' (e.g. verbal noun obbad); zero grade Old Irish robud 'admonishment', cymr. rhybudd 'warning', rhybuddio 'warn' (: russ. probudít'sya 'awaken');

Gothic anabiudan 'order, dispose', faúrbiudan 'forbid', Old Icelandic bjōða 'offer, bid, give recognition', Old English bēodan, Old Saxon biodan, Old High German biotān 'offer, bid, proffer', Modern High German bieten 'gebieten, verbieten, Gebiet' actually ' (area of) command'; Old Icelandic boð n., Old English gebod n., Middle High German bot n. 'commandment', Old High German etc boto 'summoner', Old High German butil (Modern High German Büttele), Old English bydel 'summoner, court servant'; Gothic biuþs, -dis 'table, desk'; Old Icelandic bjōðr, Old English bēod, Old High German beot, piot 'table, desk; dish', actually 'which is offered on tray' (in addition also Old High German biutta, Modern High German Beute 'kneading or dough trough; dough tray; hutch, beehive').

With ū (compare Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II 96): Gothic anabūsns f. 'commandment' (**b<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>-sni-*), Old Saxon ambūsan f. ds., Old English bȳsen f. 'model, example', Old Icelandic bȳsn n. 'wonder, miracle' (from '*warning'), bȳsna 'foretoken, warn';

Lithuanian bundù, bùsti 'wake up, arouse' and (without nasal infix) budù, budėti 'watch', bùdinu, -inti 'waken, arouse, revive', budrùs 'watchful, wakeful'; causative baudžiù, baūsti 'punish, curse, chastise, castigate'; refl. 'intend, mean, aim' (**b<sup>h</sup>oud<sup>h</sup>-iō*), baūdžiava 'socage, compulsory labour', to cheer up, liven up; ginger up, encourage, arouse, awaken one's lust ', Old Prussian etbaudints` to raise from the dead, reawaken '.

Lithuanian bauslỹs 'command, order', Latvian baūslis 'command', Latvian bauma, baūme 'rumor, defamation' (**b<sup>h</sup>oud<sup>h</sup>-m-*), Lithuanian pasibaudyti 'rise, stand up, sally', baudinti

Themat. present in Old Bulgarian bljudŭ, bljusti` look after; protect, beware, look out', russ. bljudú, bljusti` observe, notice' (about Slavic -ju from Indo Germanic eu s. Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 58).

causative in Old Bulgarian buždŭ, buditi` waken, arouse, revive', russ. bužú, budítb ds. (etc; also in russ. búdenb` workday', probably actually `working day' or `day for corvée'); stative verb with ē-suffix in Old Bulgarian bъždŭ, bъděti` watch', perfective (with ne-/no- suffix as in gr. πυνθ-άνο-μαι, wo -ανο- from -ηνο-, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 700) νъz-bъnŭ `awake' (*b<sup>h</sup>ud-no-, shaped from Aor. of type gr. ἐπύθετο, etc, s. Berneker 106 f.;

Maybe truncated alb. (**zbudzić*) zgjoj` awaken' : Old Church Slavic: ubuditi` awaken' [verb]; νъzbuditi` awaken' [verb]; phonetically equal alb. -gj- : poln. -dzi- sounds budzić` awaken, arouse' [verb], perf. zbudzić` awaken, arouse'.

also about Serbo-Croatian bădnjī dān` Christmas Eve ', bădnjāk` wooden log which one lays in the in the fire of Christmas Eve' etc), Old Bulgarian sъ-na-bъděti` φυλάττειν'; Old Bulgarian bъdrъ` πρόθυμος; willing, ready', bъždrъ ds., russ. bódryj` alert, awake, smart, strong, fresh', Serbo-Croatian bàdar` agile, lively'.

Tocharian B paut-, A pot` honour'? (Van Windekens Lexique 87).

References: WP. II 147 f., Feist 41, 97, Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 202 f.

Page(s): 150-152

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-1

Meaning: to flee, *be frightened

Note: after Kretschmer (Gl. 30, 138) to b<sup>h</sup>eug(h)-2 (Avestan baog- in the intransitive meaning `escape')

Material: Gr. φεύγω (Aor. ἔφυγον, Perf. πέφευγα) `flee', φυγή f. (= Latin fuga) `escape, a fleeing, flight, running away ', hom. φύζα (*φυγία) ds., Akk. φύγα-δε `to flight, to flee ' of consonant-stem *φυγ-; perhaps in Venetic PN Φεύγαρον (Westdeutschl.) `refuge, escape castle ';

Latin fugiō, fūgī, -ere` to take to flight, run away; to pass away, disappear. Transit., to flee from, run away from, avoid; with infin., 'fuge quaerere', do not seek; of things, to escape the notice of a person', fuga f. `flight, running away; esp. flight from one's country, exile, banishment. Transf., swift course, speed; avoiding (with genit.);

Note: common Latin ph- > f- shift

maybe alb. fugonj `run'

Lithuanian būgstu, būgau, būgti intr. `be frightened', kaus. bauginti `jemd. get a fright', baugùs `timorous'.

References: WP. II 144, 146, WH. I 556 f., Kretschmer Gl. 30, 138.

Page(s): 152

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-2, b<sup>h</sup>eugh-

Meaning: to clear away, free

Material: Avestan baog-, bunja- `loosen, escape, they escape before' (bunjainti `release, escape', būjayamnō `discarding', bunjayāt `he escapes'), būjim Akk. `cleaning, purification', qzō-buj- `from need of releasing', baoxtar- `liberator';

Maybe alb. (*b<sup>h</sup>ujissa) bujis, bujisa aor. `bloom', bujë `fuss': pāli bhujissa- `released, free'

Pahlavi paz. bōxtan `escape, release', South Baluchi bōjag `unbolt, loosen, unbind', as pers. loanword Armenian bužem `heal, save, relieve', boiž `healing, deliverance'; pāli paribhuñjati `purifies, cleans, sweeps from'; but pāli bhujissa- `released (from previously slave)' = Old Indic bhujisya- `free, independent' (Lex., in the Lithuanian as `exploitable', Subst. `maid; maidservant, servant'), to b<sup>h</sup>eug-4.

Illyrian PN Buctor, Venetic Fuctor (: Avestan baoxtar-), Fugonia, vhuxia, vhou-χontios, etc

Note:

Here Illyrian Buctor : Venetic Fuctor : Avestan baoxtar- `liberator' proves that Avestan a satem language can display centum characteristics. Alb. follows the same Illyrian - Venetic pattern in -tor, -tar suffixes. The tendency in Illyrian -g- > -ct- shows the intermediary phase from centum to satem in later alb.: common alb. -g(h)- > -th-, -k- > -t- in the middle of the word.

Gothic usbaugjan `sweep up, sweep out, sweep away', Modern High German dial. Bocht `rubbish, crap, muck'; moreover probably also Middle High German biuchen `cook in lye', originally `clean', būche f. `lye' (with secondary ablaut).

The doubleness Germanic gh : Aryan g- also by b<sup>h</sup>eugh- (Modern High German biegen): b<sup>h</sup>eug- (Old Indic bhujati etc) `bend'. Probably identical with it.

References: WP. II 145, WH. I 560, Kretschmer Gl. 30, 138.

Page(s): 152

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-3, b<sup>h</sup>eugh-

Meaning: to bow

Material: Old Indic bhujāti `bends, pushes away ', bhugná-h `bent, curved', bhúja-h `arm', bhujā `twist, arm', bhōgá-h `coil of a snake; ring' (: Old High German boug); niṣ-bhuj- `push', Pass. `flunk, escape; to get away '; perhaps bierher alb. butē `soft, flexible' from **b<sup>h</sup>ug(h)-to-* `pliable'; common alb. -g(h)- > -th-, -k- > -t- in the middle of the word.

Irish fid-bocc `wooden bow', probably also bocc `tender' (*`pliable'), nir. bog `soft' (from **buggo-*), KZ. 33, 77, Fick II<sup>4</sup>; for abret. buc `rotten, putrid; loose, crumbling, friable, flabby ', pl. bocion `rotten, decayed ', nbret. amsir poug `soft, mild weather ', allowed to expect brit. -ch- = Irish -gg-, Pedersen KG. I 161 considers borrowing from Irish

In Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>eugh-*: Gothic biugan, Old High German biogan `bend', Old Icelandic participle boginn `bent, curved'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), ablaut. Old English būgan `be bent ', with fram `flee'; Kaus. Old Icelandic beygja, Old Saxon bōgian, Old English bīegan, Old High German bougen, Modern High German beugen; Old Icelandic biūgr `bent, curved ', Old High German biugo `curve'; Old Icelandic bogi, Old English boga (engl. bow), Old High German bogo, Modern High German Bogen (Old High German swibogo `Christmas candle arcs (which literally means „an arched buttress“) ' from **swi/[bi-]bogo*); perhaps in addition Gothic bugjan `let out, lend, buy ', Old Icelandic byggja `obtain a wife', Old English bycgan, Old Saxon buggian `buy' (compare Modern High German dial. `be bent by something ' = `acquire, take'); in addition probably Latvian bauga and baūgurs `hill'.

Intensive (with intensification) Germanic **bukjan* in Middle High German bücken, Swiss bukche; Middle Low German bucken, Old Frisian buckia `to stoop, bend forward, bend down ' (Wissmann Nom. postverb. 171, 181).

References: WP. II 145 f., WH. I 556, Feist 96.

Page(s): 152-153

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-4

Meaning: to enjoy, *consume, bite

Material: Old Indic bhun̥kté (with Instr., newer Akk.) `enjoys', compare bhunákti, bhuñjati `grants pleasure, enjoys, consumes', bubhukṣā `hunger', bhóga-ḥ `enjoyment'; about Old Indic bhujiṣyá- see above under b<sup>h</sup>eug-2, common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

alb. bungë f., bunk, bungu m. `kind of edible oak fruit ' (as `nourishing or nutritious tree', post-verbal = `food granter');

Note:

Alb. bungë `kind of edible oak fruit ' : with -u-grade alb. (**beuka*) buka `bread' : Phrygian βεκός `bread', actually `crumb ' prove that from an extended Root / lemma: b(e)u-1, b<sup>h</sup>(e)u- : `expr. sound of hitting' derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eg-, b<sup>h</sup>eng- : `to break', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>engh-, b<sup>h</sup>ngh- (Adj. b<sup>h</sup>nghú-s) : `thick, fat', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-1 : `to flee, *be frightened', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-2, b<sup>h</sup>eugh- : `to clear away, free', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-3, b<sup>h</sup>eugh- : `to bow', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eug-4 : `to enjoy, *consume, bite' as taboo words.

Latin fungor `to occupy oneself with anything, to perform, execute, undergo, usually with abl.; absol. in special sense, to be affected, suffer ', with Akk., later Abl., dēfungor `to perform, discharge, have done with, bring to an end, survive ', perfungor `to perform fully, execute, discharge; to go through, endure '.

References: WH. I 565 f., Wackernagel Synt. I 68, Jokl L.-k. Unters. 179.

Page(s): 153

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eu-, b<sup>h</sup>eue- (b<sup>h</sup>uā-, b<sup>h</sup>uē-) : b<sup>h</sup>ōu- : b<sup>h</sup>ū- (*b<sup>h</sup>eue- > b<sup>h</sup>Hu-eh<sub>1</sub>-t)

Meaning: to be; to grow

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>eu-, b<sup>h</sup>eue- (b<sup>h</sup>uā-, b<sup>h</sup>uē-) : b<sup>h</sup>ōu- : b<sup>h</sup>ū- (*b<sup>h</sup>eue- > b<sup>h</sup>Hu-eh<sub>1</sub>-t): to be; to grow, derived from Root / lemma: b(e)u-2, b<sup>h</sup>(e)ū- (*b<sup>h</sup>eHu- > b<sup>h</sup>Hu-iH-t): to swell, puff.

Note: (probably = `to swell'), compare Old Indic prábhūta-ḥ with Old Indic bhūri-ḥ etc under *b(e)u-, bh(e)u- `inflate, bloat, to swell', from which `originate, become, be', farther `where usually one is, live ' ; ioṛ- present b<sup>h</sup>u-jiō, b<sup>h</sup>u-ḥiē-si, b<sup>h</sup>u-ī-si etc as verb `be' supplies often paradigm of es- `be'; extended root b<sup>h</sup>eui-, b<sup>h</sup>uei-

Material: Old Indic bhávati `is, there is, happens, prospers, becomes ' = Avestan bavaiti `becomes, originates; happens; will be ', Old pers. bavatiy `becomes'; Fut. Old Indic bhaviṣyáti, Avestan būšyeiti participle būšyant- 'will come into existence' (latter = Lithuanian būsiu, Church Slavic byšęšteje 'τὸ μέλλον', compare gr. φῦσω); Aor. Old Indic ábhūt (= gr. ἔφῡ) and bhúvat, Perf. babhūva, participle Perf. Akt. babhūvān, f. babhūvúṣī (: gr. πεφυώς, πεφουῖα, Lithuanian būvo, Old Church Slavic byvatī), Inf. bhávītum, Absol. bhūtvā (compare Lithuanian būty passive 'to be', Old Prussian būton Inf.);

Old Indic bhūtá-ḥ, Avestan būta- 'become, being, Old Indic bhūtá-m 'entity' (: Lithuanian búta 'been', Old Icelandic búð f. 'dwelling', russ. bytʹ 'entity, way of life, lifestyle'; with ū gr. φυτόν, Old Irish -both 'one was', both f. 'cottage', Lithuanian bútas 'house'); prá-bhūta-ḥ 'rich, numerous', npers. Inf. būdan 'be';

Old Indic bhūti-ḥ, bhūtí-ḥ f. 'being, well-being, good condition, prospering; flourishing' (Avestan būti- m. 'name of daēva'? = Old Church Slavic za-, po-, prě-bytʹ, russ. bytʹ, Inf. Old Church Slavic bytī, Lithuanian būti, with ū gr. φύσις).

Pass. Old Indic bhūyate, kaus. bhāvayati 'brings into existence; looks after and nurtures, refreshes', participle bhāvīta-ḥ also 'pleasantly excited, in good mood' (=Old Church Slavic iz-baviti 'free, release'), with ders. lengthened grade bhāvā-ḥ 'being, development, becoming, affection' (: russ. za-báva f. 'conversation, entertainment') besides bhavā-ḥ 'development, welfare, salvation';

Maybe alb. zbavit 'amuse, entertain' a Slavic loanword.

bhavītram 'world' (ablaut. with gr. φύτλᾱ 'nature, gender, sex' and Lithuanian būklà 'dwelling' etc, and with Germanic **buþla-* and **bōþla-*, next to which with formants -dʰ/o- Czech bydlo); bhavana-m 'the development, becoming; dwelling, house' (: alb. bane, but Middle Irish būan 'unwavering, steadfast' from **bʰou-no-*), ablaut. bhūvana-m 'entity';

Old Indic bhū- f. 'earth, world', bhūmī, bhūmīḥ, Avestan ap. būmī-, npers. būm 'earth', Old Indic bhūman- n. 'earth, world, being' (= gr. φύμα), bhūmán- m. 'fullness, wealth, bulk, mass, wealth'; pra-bhū-ḥ 'mighty, salient';

s-stem bhaviṣ-ṇu-ḥ 'becoming, thriving', bhūṣati 'makes thrive, strengthens', bhūṣayati 'bedecks, blazons', bhūṣana-m 'amulet, jewellery'.

The ḥ-basis **bʰ(e)uṛ-*, as it seems, in Old Indic bóbhavīti Intens. and bhāvī-tva-ḥ 'future'; about iran. bḥ-forms see below.

Armenian bois, Gen. busoy 'sprout, herb, plant', busanim 'burst forth, spring forth', further perhaps boin, Gen. bunoi 'nest' (**bʰeu-no-*), zero grade bun, Gen. bnoi 'stem'.

Thrak. PN Κασί-βουνον.

Gr. φύω (Lesbian φυίω as Oscan fuia, see below), `beget' (Aor. ἔφουσα), φύομαι `become, grow' (compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I, 686), probably neologisms to Aor. ἔφυν `was, became', besides (neologism?) ἐφύην; φυτόν `growth, plant, kid, child, ulcer', φυή `growth; nature, character', φύμα n. `plant, growth, ulcer', φύσις `nature', φύλον n. `stem, gender, sex, kind of', φύλή `municipality and from it located department ' (: Old Church Slavic byľь, l-participle byľje); lengthened grades **b<sup>h</sup>ō[ʷ]lo-* perhaps in φωλεός, φωλειός `hiding place, nook, bolt-hole, den of wild animals', φωλεύω `sleep in a cave', φωλίσ `a sea fish which is hidden in the mud';

Maybe alb. foleja `nest': gr. φωλ-εία, or φωλ-ία, ἡ, `life in a hole or cave, of the hibernation of bears, 2. of fishes, (pl.)', alb. (**fole*) flê `sleep': gr. φωλεύω `sleep in a cave'.

but Old Icelandic bōl/n. `a camp for animals and people', is not from bōl (probably from **bōþla*) `dwelling' miscellaneous word; in addition zero grade Swedish Dialectal bylja, bölja `small nest' from **bulja*.

As 2. compound-part in ὑπερφυής, ὑπερ-φ[*F]ιάλος. About φῖτυ see below.

Illyrian VN Buni, PN Βοῦννος (: alb. bunë).

Messapic βύριον οἶκημα, βαυρία οἰκία Hes. (:Old High German būh);

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur-: Illyrian Messapic βύριον οἶκημα, βαυρία : Ἰλλυριοί, οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία, ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς, ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός, ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία:--hence Adv. Ἰλλυρισί.

alb. buj, bûj (**bunjō*) `stay, stay overnight, spend the night', burr, burrë (**buro-*) `man, husband', banë `dwelling, abode, residence, half dilapidated house' (**b<sup>h</sup>oḡonā*: Old Indic bhavanam), banoj `stay, dwell'; bun(ë) `chalet' (**b<sup>h</sup>unā*); perhaps also bōtë `earth, bottom, world, people' (**b<sup>h</sup>uā-tā* or **b<sup>h</sup>uē-tā*).

Latin fuī (Old Latin fūī) `I have been' from **fū-ai*, metathesis of older Aor. **fūm* (= gr. ἔ-φυν, Old Indic á-bhūt `he was'), fu-tūrus `future, about to be', forem `would be', fore `will be', Old Latin Konj. fuam, fuat `be' (**b<sup>h</sup>uḡām*, compare Lithuanian būvo `was' from **b<sup>h</sup>u-ḡāt*), besides -bam (**b<sup>h</sup>uām*: Oscan fu-fans `they were', Old Irish -bā `I was') in legē- bam etc, compare Latin-Faliscan -bō (from *b<sup>h</sup>uō) in amā-bō, Old Latin venī-bō, Faliscan pipafP etc with Irish b- future (do-rīmiub ' I will enumerate ' from **to-rīm-ī-buō*), intensive futāvit ' he/she was ';

Oscan fu-fans ' they were ', fu-fens ' they were ', fusíd = Latin foret, fust (= Umbrian fust) ' he/she will be ' and ' he/she will have been ', fuid Konj.-Perf. ' he/she will have been '; but about futír ' daughter ' s. Vetter Gl. 29, 235, 242 ff. against WH. I 557, 867;

Umbrian fust ' he/she is going to be ', furent ' they are going to be ' (**fuset*, **fusent*), fefure ' they will have been ', futu ' you will be ' (fuuetōd or fu-tōd).

A io/ī present to root *b<sup>h</sup>ũ- : *b<sup>h</sup>u-jiō lies before in Latin fīō, fīerī ' of persons and things, to be made, come into existence; with predicate, to become, be appointed; with genit., to be valued at; of actions, to be done; of events, to happen ', the ī instead of ĩ is correlated to fīs, fīt (*b<sup>h</sup>u-ī-si, *b<sup>h</sup>u-ī-ti); Oscan fīiet (*b<sup>h</sup>u-jiient) ' they become, they are made ', Umbrian fīto ' good deeds, benefits?', fuia ' he/she will become, he/she will be made ', fuiest ' he/she will make ' (*b<sup>h</sup>u-jiō besides *b<sup>h</sup>u-jiō as in Lesbian φuíω, see above);

Latin nominal formation only in dubius ' doubtful; act., wavering; in opinion, doubting; uncertain; as to action, hesitating, irresolute; pass., uncertain, doubted, doubtful, dangerous, critical ' (**du-b<sup>h</sup>u-jiō-s* ' of double form, consisting of two parts ', compare Umbrian di-fue ' split into two parts ' < **dui-b<sup>h</sup>u-jiom*), probus ' good, excellent, fine; morally good, upright, virtuous, right ' (**pro-b<sup>h</sup>u-ōs* : Old Indic pra-bhū-ḥ ' salient, superb '), Oscan am-prufid ' dishonest, lacking probity ', prúfatted ' has shown, marked, indicated, manifested, proven ', Umbrian prufe ' upright, honest, proper '; Latin super-bus ' haughty, exalted, proud; arrogant, overbearing; brilliant, splendid '.

About Latin moribundus see Niedermann Mél. Meillet 104, Benveniste MSL. 34, 189.

Old Irish baē ' benefit ' (*b<sup>h</sup>u-ə-jiom), būan ' steadfast, good ' (*b<sup>h</sup>u-ono-, in addition cymr. bun ' queen, wife, woman '); Middle Irish baile ' home, place ' (*b<sup>h</sup>u-ə-ljiō);

Old Irish buith ' be ' (originally Dat. of ā- stem both < *b<sup>h</sup>utā = cymr. bod, corn. bos, bret. bout = Old Irish both f. ' cottage ', cymr. bod f. ' dwelling ': Lithuanian būtas ' house '); moreover also Middle Irish for-baid ' burial cloth, shroud, barrow, bier ', Fut. -bīa ' will be ' (= Latin fīat), preterit 1. Sg. bā (*b<sup>h</sup>u-ām), 3. Sg. boī (*b<sup>h</sup>u-ōe), Pass. preterit -both ' one was ' (*b<sup>h</sup>u-to-); the paradigm of the verb Subst. and the copula exists from forms von es- and b<sup>h</sup>eu-, e.g. hat 1. Sg. present Konj. Old Irish bēu (*b<sup>h</sup>-esō) the anlaut related to b<sup>h</sup>eu-;

Old Irish -bū 'I care to be', mcymr. bydaf, corn. bethaf, Middle Breton bezaff ds.
 (*b<sup>h</sup>uijō = Latin fīō, besides *b<sup>h</sup>uī- in Old Irish bīth, mcymr. bit '([Imperative Future Tense] you will be' = Latin fīt); gall. PN Vindo-bios (*b<sup>h</sup>uijos), compare cymr. gwyn-fyd 'luck' ('white world', byd), Old Irish su-b(a)e 'pleasure, joy' (**su-b<sup>h</sup>uijo-*), du-b(a)e (du = gr. δύς-) 'mourning, grief';

Gothic bauan 'stay, dwell, inhabit', ald bauan 'lead a life', gabauan 'erect a house' (*b<sup>h</sup>ōuō, vocalism as in Old Indic bhāvayati, bhāva-ḥ, Slavic baviti),

Old Icelandic būa (bjō, būinn) 'stay, dwell, bring in good condition, equip', Old English būan and buw(i)an (būde, gebūen) 'stay, dwell, farm' (besides Old English bōgian, Old Frisian bōgia 'stay, dwell', phonetic type based on Gothic stōja from **stōwijō* and ō as initial vowel), Old High German būan (būta, gibūan) 'stay, dwell, farm', Modern High German bauen, Old Icelandic byggja 'live at a place, farm, populate', later 'construct, build' (from **buwwjan*? **bewwjjan*?); Old Icelandic būn. 'domicile, household', Old English būn. 'dwelling' (Pl. byn. of i-stem **būwi-* = Old Icelandic býr m. 'dwelling, residential site, court'; similarly Lithuanian būvis 'permanent stay, residence'), Old High German bū, Middle High German bū, Gen. būwes m., seldom n. 'tilling of the field, dwelling, edifice', Modern High German Bau, Old Icelandic būð f. 'dwelling, tent, cottage'; Old Swedish bōþ, Middle Low German bōde, Middle High German buode and būde 'cottage, tent', Modern High German Bude (*b<sup>h</sup>ō[ū]-tā); Middle Low German bōdel 'fortune', bōl 'estate', Old English bold and botl n. 'dwelling, house', **byldan*, engl. to build 'to build', Old Frisian bold and bōdel 'house, household utensil, household appliance, property' (**bōþla-* from Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>ō[ū]tlo- and **buþla-*, compare Lithuanian būklà and westsl. bydlo), also Old Icelandic bōl n. 'dwelling' [(see above also to bōl 'den (of animals)'];

Old Icelandic būr n. 'pantry, zenana (part of a house for women in India)', Old English būr m. 'cottage, room', Old High German būr m. 'house, cage', Modern High German (Vogel-)Bauer, whereof Old High German nāhgibūr, Old English nēahgebūr, Modern High German Nachbar, engl. neighbour and Old High German gibūr(o), Middle High German gebūr(e), then būr, Modern High German Bauer 'farmer, peasant';

Old English bēo 'I am' (*b<sup>h</sup>uijō = Latin fīō, Old Irish -bū), besides bēom, Old High German bim etc after **im* from **es-* 'be', as Old High German bis(t), Old English bis after is.

Perhaps Gothic bagms, Old High German bōum, Old English bēam 'tree' from *b<sup>h</sup>ou(ə)mo- 'φυτόν' and Old Icelandic bygg n. 'barley', Old Saxon Gen. PL bewō 'sowing, seed, yield', Old English bēow n. 'barley' (**bewwa-*) as 'the tilled, the sown'.

Maybe alb. (**bēam*) bimë 'plant', alb. Geg ba 'ripen, become', bafsh sub. 'be!'

Lithuanian būti (Latvian būt, Old Prussian boūt) 'be', būty Supin. 'to be' (Old Prussian būton Inf.), participle būtas 'been', Fut. būsiu (Latvian būšu), preterit būvo 'he was' (compare also buvó-ju, -ti 'care to be' and Old Church Slav. byvati); Opt. Old Prussian bousai 'he is', preterit bēi, be 'he was' (from an expanded basis with -ēi-);

Lithuanian būvis m. 'being, life', būvinėti 'stay here and there a while', Old Prussian buwinait 'live!';

Latvian būšana 'being, entity, condition', Old Prussian bousennis 'state, condition'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Lithuanian būtas, Old Prussian (Akk.) buttan 'house';

Lithuanian būklas (**būtla-*) 'nest, den, hideout, lair of wild animals', pabūklas 'tool, utensil; apparition, ghost', būklà, būklė 'presence (of mind), dwelling', East Lithuanian búklė ds. (see above; in addition buklūs 'wise, sly, cunning');

Old Church Slav. byti 'become, be', lo- participle bylъ 'been' (therefrom bylъje 'herb; healthy herb', compare to meaning φυτόν), Aor. bě 'was' (*b<sup>h</sup>uē-t);

Imperf. běaše, Fut. participle Church Slav. byšęšteje, byšqšteje 'τὸ μέλλον', Kondiz. 3. Pl. bq (*b<sup>h</sup>uā-nā), participle za-bъvenъ 'forgotten', besides miscellaneous participle **byt* e.g. in russ. zabytyj 'forgotten', compare in addition also Subst. russ. bytъ 'entity, way of life, lifestyle', apoln. byto 'nourishment, food', Old Church Slav. iz-bytъkъ 'affluence, remnant', bytъje 'the existence';

maybe alb. mbetje 'residue, leftover', mbetet 'is left', mbeturinë 'trash' [common alb. b- > mb- shift]

Old Church Slav. zabytъ 'oblivion', pobyтъ 'victory', prěbytъ 'abode, residence', russ. bytъ 'entity, creature; facts (of the case), facts (of the matter), matter of fact'; present Old Church Slav. bqđq 'become, γίγνομαι', as Fut.: 'will become' (if Latin Adj. in -bundus?);

maybe reduced alb. (**bqđq*) do Future: 'will become'

Kaus. Old Church Slavic izbaviti 'free, release' (: Old Indic bhāva-yati, compare to vocalism also Gothic bauan and Old Church Slavic zabava 'stay, activity, pastime'); Czech bydlo 'whereabouts, dwelling', poln. bydło 'cattle' (from * state, prosperity, possessions ').

Maybe alb. (**zabava*) zbavit 'entertain, (*pastime) '

Perhaps here (Pedersen Tocharian 228<sup>1</sup>) Tocharian B pyautk-, A pyotk-, AB pyutk- 'come into being', med. 'bring about'.

From the basis b<sup>h</sup>(e)uī-:

npers. Imp. bīd 'be!'; Old pers. Opt. bī-yāh is placed by Wackernagel KZ. 46, 270 = Old Indic bhū-yā-h, -t, gr. φῑtu n. 'germ, sprout, scion, shoot' = φῑtūμα, φῑtúω 'produce, sow, plant';

Old Lithuanian bit(i) 'he was', also Kondit. 1. Pl. (sùktum-) bime; Latvian biju, bija 'I was, he was' (Latvian bijā- extended from athemat. *b<sup>h</sup>uī-); ablaut. Old Prussian bēi, see above;

maybe alb. bujis 'germ, sprout, scion, shoot, bloom'

Old Church Slavic Kondit. 2. 3. Sg. bi 'were, would be' (*b<sup>h</sup>uī-s, *b<sup>h</sup>uī-t), wherefore secondary 1. Sg. bi-mъ with primary ending.

References: WP. II 140 f., WH. I 375 f., 504 f., 557 f., 865, 867, EM. 812 f., 1004 f., Trautmann 40 f., Feist 83 f.

Specht will place (KZ. 59, 58 f.) under citation of gr. φάFoς 'light, salvation' = Old Indic bhava- 'blessing; benediction, boon, salvation', φαε-σί-μβροτος etc unsere root as *b<sup>h</sup>auē-, not as *b<sup>h</sup>euē-. see also above S. 91.

Page(s): 146-150

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ēgh-: b<sup>h</sup>ōgh-

Meaning: to resist

Material: Gall. bāgaudae 'insurgent guerilla' (suffix as in alauda, bascauda), Old Irish bāgaid 'fights, brags, threatens', bāg f. 'fight, struggle', mcymr. bwyo (**bāgi-*) 'hit', kymwy (: Middle Irish combāg ds.) 'fight', -boawc = Middle Irish bāgach 'warlike'; whether cymr. bai 'fault, error', beio 'rebuke' in addition belongs, it must contain Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>ēgh-;

Old High German bāgan, (bāgēn?) 'squabble, quarrel', Old Icelandic bāga, bægja 'oppose, resist', Old High German bāga 'quarrel, fight', Old Saxon bāg m. 'vainglory, boastfulness', Middle High German bāc, -ges m. 'loud yelling, quarrel', Old Icelandic bāge, bāgi 'adversary', bāgr 'difficult, hard, sullen, obstructive'; it is presumed whether Germanic family is not borrowed from Celtic, ablaut Germanic ē: Celtic ā (Indo Germanic ō);

Latvian buôztiēs 'be angry' (**b<sup>h</sup>ōgh-*), Endzelin KZ. 52, 118;

russ. bazel 'bawler, crier', bazgala 'malicious' (Scheftelowitz KZ. 54, 242);

perhaps Tocharian B pakwāre 'evil, bad' (Adverb), A pkänt 'hindrance' (**b<sup>h</sup>əgh-*), Van Windekens Lexique 85, 96.

References: WP. II 130.

Page(s): 115

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ē2, b<sup>h</sup>ō (**b<sup>h</sup>e*, b<sup>h</sup>o)

Meaning: a kind of particle

Material: Avestan bā, bāi, bē, bōi (the latter, as Lithuanian beĩ, probably with strengthening particle **id*) particles of the protestation and emphasis, bāda 'yea, in truth' ('if Old Indic baḍham?' Bartholomae Wb. 953);

Maybe emphasizing particle alb. bah 'absolutely not' [alb. preserved the old laryngeal -h]

Armenian ba, bay emphasizing particle;

Gothic ba conditional particle (here i-ba, i-bai 'if, because?' Konj. 'that not', ni-ba, ni-bai 'possibly not yet?', Konj. 'if not', ja-bai 'if', Old High German ibu, oba, Middle High German ob(e) 'if, whether' etc, s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> 422);

Lithuanian bà 'yes, of course; certainly; sure', ben 'at least, not only but also', East Lithuanian bè (= Old Prussian bhe), beĩ (see above) 'and', bè, bà, bès, baũ interrogative particle, Old Prussian beggi 'for'; Old Church Slavic (etc) bo 'for', i-bo 'kai yáp', u-bo 'also', ne-bo-nъ 'for indeed'; changing through ablaut klr. ba 'yes, of course; certainly; sure', Czech poln. ba 'trusted, yea, in truth'.

Maybe alb. po 'if, whether, yes': poln. ba 'yea, in truth'.

References: WP. II 136, Trautmann 22 f.

Page(s): 113

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ē- : b<sup>h</sup>ō-

Meaning: to warm, fry, *bath

Note:

From Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ē- : b<sup>h</sup>ō- : 'to warm, fry, *bath' : Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>oso-s : 'naked' derived from Ossetic: bægnæg [adj] 'naked' of Root / lemma: nog<sup>w</sup>, nog<sup>w</sup>od(h)o-, nog<sup>w</sup>-no- : 'naked' common Indo Iranian m-/n- > bh : gr.-Illyrian βαγαρόν χλιαρόν.

Material: Old High German bāen, bājan, Modern High German bāhen (*b<sup>h</sup>ēiō) 'warm with covers, bake bread', in addition with Indo Germanic-to-suffix Old Icelandic bað 'steam bath', Old Saxon bath, Old English bæþ, Old High German bad 'spa, bath'; in addition also Norwegian dial. bara 'clean with warm water', Swedish bara 'warm up'.

Note:

The cognates Old Icelandic bað 'steam bath', Old Saxon bath, Old English bæþ, Old High German bad 'spa, bath' are created according to alb. phonetic laws -g > -th, -d, maybe euphemistic alb. mbath 'get dressed, wear', zbath 'get naked, get undressed (to have a bath?)'

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ē- : b<sup>h</sup>ō- : 'to warm, fry, *bath' : Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>oso-s : 'naked' as in: Old High German bar 'naked, bare' (**baza-*), Modern High German bar, Old English bær, Old Icelandic berr 'naked, bare'; Lithuanian bāsas, Latvian bass, Old Church Slavic bosъ 'barefoot'; Armenian bok 'barefoot' (*b<sup>h</sup>oso-go-).

thereof with g-extension b<sup>h</sup>ōg-

in gr. φώγω 'roast, fry', Old English bacan, bōc, Old High German bahhan, Old Icelandic baka, -aða ds., Middle High German sich becheln 'bask, get warm, lounge in the sun'; besides with intensive consonant-sharpening Old High German backan, Modern High German backen, gr.-Illyrian βαγαρόν χλιαρόν; Λάκωνες Hes. (v. Blumental IF. 49, 175);

In addition perhaps (as 'burning desire, ardent wish') russ. bažíť, bažát 'wish, want, whereupon starve', Czech bažiti, perf. zabahnouti 'ask for something'.

References: WP. II 187.

Page(s): 113

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āh-

Meaning: vessel, cauldron

Note:

From an early root *b<sup>h</sup>egh- [common Illyrian -gh- > -dh-] derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>-2: 'to bow, bend', Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ad<sup>h</sup>-sko-: 'bundle, heap' and in -i grade Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>id<sup>h</sup>-: vessel, cauldron (see above).

Material: gr. πίθος n. 'barrel, vat, cask, wine cask', πιθάκη, Attic φιδάκη ds., Latin fidēlia (**fides-liā*) 'earthenware vessel, pot, pan'; presumably Old Icelandic biðā f. 'milk tub', Norwegian bide n. 'butter tub' (**bidjan-*), bidne n. 'vessel'.

There from Latin fiscus 'a basket; hence a money-bag, purse; the state treasury; under the empire, the emperor's privy purse', fiscina 'a small basket' (from *b<sup>h</sup>id<sup>h</sup>-sko-) may be reconstructed for its family a basic meaning 'twisted vessel', it belongs probably to a root b<sup>h</sup>ed<sup>h</sup>- 'bind, flax, wattle, braid'.

References: WP. II 185, WH. I 492 f., 506.

Page(s): 153

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ili-, b<sup>h</sup>ilo-

Meaning: harmonious, friendly

Material: Middle Irish bil (*b<sup>h</sup>i-l-) 'good', gall. Bili- in PN Bili-catus, Bilicius etc, Old High German bila 'kind, gracious', newer bil-, bi- in 1. part of people's name; Old English bile-wit 'simple, just, innocent' = Middle High German bilewiz, bilwiz 'fairy demon, ghost' (actually 'good ghost'); Old High German bil-līch 'proper'; abstract noun **biliPō* in Old Saxon unbilithunga 'unconventionality', Middle High German unbilde, unbiledē n. 'wrong; injustice, the incomprehensible', Modern High German Unbilde, to adjective Middle High German unbil 'unjust; unfair', substantivized Swiss Unbill. About Modern High German Bild see below b<sup>h</sup>ei(ə)- 'hit', wherefore R. Loewe (KZ. 51, 187 ff.) will place also Unbilde.

Gr. φίλος 'dear, friend' etc places Kretschmer (IF. 45, 267 f.) as pre Greek to Lydian bilis 'be'; against it Loewe aaO., which explains the stress of the first syllable from the vocative.

References: WP. II 185, Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Bild, billig, Unbill, Weichbild.

Page(s): 153-154

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lagh-men-

Meaning: priest

Note:

Root / lemma: bh lagh-men- : 'priest' derived from the extended Root / lemma: bh lag- : 'to hit', meaning Aryan priests assumed they would gain the grace of gods through immolation.

Material: Old Irish brahmán- m. 'magic priest', bráhma- n. 'spell, charm, devotion'; Messapic βλαμινι 'priest'; Latin flāmen, -inis m. 'the priest of some particular god, sacrificial priest' (not the old \-ēn*).

Because of the numerous congruities in the religious terminology between the Italic and Indic this is equation of the preferred explanation of flāmen from **bh-lād-(s)men*, angebl. 'sacrifice, immolation' (to Gothic blōtan 'worship', Old Norse blōta, Old English blōtan, Old High German bluozan 'sacrifice', Old Norse blōt n. 'sacrifice, oblation' [-es-stem, compare Finnish luote 'chant, incantation' from proto Germanic **blōtes*], Old High German bluostar n. ds., etc). compare also Dumézil REtIE. 1, 377, still compares Armenian batjal 'strive after'.

Maybe alb. lut 'chant, pray' : Finnish luote 'chant, incantation'

References: WP. II 209, WH. I 512 f., 865 f., Feist 100 f., 580 a.

Page(s): 154

---

Root / lemma: bh lag-

Meaning: to hit

Material: Latin flagrum 'whip, scourge', flagellum ds. 'a whip, scourge; the thong of a javelin; a young sprout, vine-shoot; plur. the arms of a polypus; fig. 'the sting of conscience', with lengthened grade probably flāgitō, -āre 'to entreat, ask, demand earnestly; to demand to know; to summon before a court of justice' (originally probably with blows and threats), flāgitium 'a disgraceful action, shameful crime; shame, disgrace; meton., scoundrel, rascal' (originally 'public castigation and suppression'; conflages 'places exposed to all the winds, place blown by the winds' Paul Fest. 35 a appears a spoil for conflūgēs);

Maybe alb. flak 'hurl'

Old Icelandic and New Norwegian dial. blaka, blakra 'strike back and forth, fan, flutter, flap', Old Icelandic blak 'blow, knock', Old Icelandic blekkja (**blakjan*) 'hit' (Norwegian 'flicker'), Swedish Dialectal bläkkta (**blakatjan*), Middle Dutch blaken 'fan, flutter, shiver' (in Germanic phonetic coincidence with the family of Old Icelandic blakra 'blink, glitter, flash' etc, see below **bh-e/eg-* 'shine'; so is e.g. Norwegian blakra 'fan' as well as 'shine').

Lithuanian blaškaũ and bloškiù (-š*k*- from -ĝ-sq-) `fling sidelong, travel here and there, run around here and there '.

References: WP. II 209, WH. I 511 f.

Page(s): 154

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/eg<sup>w</sup>-

Meaning: to swell

Note: extension v. `inflate, bloat'

Material: Gr. φλέψ, -βός f. `vein', φλεβάζοντες βρύοντες Phot.; Old High German bolca, bulchunna (*b<sup>h</sup><sub>g</sub><sup>w</sup>-) `a round swelling; in water, a bubble '.

References: WP. II 215, WH. I 519 f.

Page(s): 155

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/lei-2

Meaning: to swell

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>e/- ds.

Material: Norwegian dial. bleime, Old Swedish blēma `bleb on the skin ' (compare Norwegian bläema ds. under b<sup>h</sup>e/-, b<sup>h</sup>(e)/ē-); Danish blegn(e) `vesicle' (**blajjinōn*), Old English blegen f., engl. blain, Middle Low German bleine, Old Danish blen(e), Old Swedish blena `vesicle' (**blajinōn*).

That gr. φλῖα: `door pillar, door post ' actually `(* tumid =) thick balk, beam' is required only of foreign confirmation (Prellwitz<sup>2</sup> and Boisacq s. v.; basic form *b<sup>h</sup>/lī-μā or -sā); τὰ φλιμέλια `haematoma, effusion of blood' is corrupted from Latin flēmīna `a bloody swelling or congestion of blood about the ankles'.

b<sup>h</sup>leis-: Old Icelandic blīstra `blow, whistle'? (compare Gothic -blēsan under b<sup>h</sup>e/-, b<sup>h</sup>(e)/ē-; new variation with i to the imitation of the bright tone?); perhaps serb. blīhām, blīhati `flood; spit; have diarrhea'; blīhnēm, blīhnuti `splash, spray', Bulgarian bličǎ, blīknъ, blīkvam `pours out of me, flows out ' (if not as proto Slavic **blychajō* to u-variant from gr. φλύω etc).

b<sup>h</sup>leid- (presumably d-present *b<sup>h</sup>/lī-d-).

Gr. φλιδάω `overflow of humidity, thereof swell up ', ἐφλιδεν διέρρεεν Hes., διαπέφλοιδεν διακέχυται Hes., πεφλοιδέναι φλυκτανοῦσθαι Hes., φλοιδάω, -έω, -ιάω `ferment, seethe, boom, blaster', ἀφλοισμός `scum, froth, foam, slobber' (α- = η `έν'); presumably also φλοῖσβος `surging of the sea, the tumult of fighting', πολύφλοισβος θάλασσα (*φλοιδοσβος, forms after onomatopoeic words as κόναβος, ἄραβος?); common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-perhaps here Middle Irish blāed` bellowing, braying, roar ' (out of it cymr. bloedd ds.);

engl. bloat` to bloat, bulge, swell' (**blaitōn* = φλοιδάω);

Latvian blīstu, blīdu, blīzt and bliēžu, -du, -st` grow fat, put on weight '.

References: WP. II 210 f.

Page(s): 156

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>leiq- (*b<sup>h</sup>leik-)

Meaning: to shine

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>lēi- (:b<sup>h</sup>el-) ds., as b<sup>h</sup>lēiġ-.

Material: Old English *bælg*e (**blaigiōn-*) `gudgeon (type of freshwater fish) ' ; mnl. Middle Low German blei(g) and bleger, Modern High German Bleihe, Blei` fish names ' ; besides Middle High German blicke` carp ', Modern High German Blicke (Norwegian dial. blekka, Modern High German Blecke` dace (*white fish) ' from the el-root b<sup>h</sup>leg-?); in other meaning change (`shine : glance, look') Old Icelandic blīgr` looking staringly and rigidly ', blīgja` stare'.

In addition russ. blēknutʹ `bleach, fade, wither, wilt', blēklyj` sallow, paled, faint, languid, wilted; faded, flaccid, withered ', blēkotʹ `fool's parsley, Aethusa cynapium ', poln. blaknąć` fade, expire '.

References: WP. II 211.

Page(s): 157

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lend<sup>h</sup>- (*b<sup>h</sup>lend<sup>h</sup>-i-)

Meaning: pale, reddish

Note: It belongs probably to b<sup>h</sup>el-1.

Material: Old Indic bradhná-h (*b<sup>h</sup>lnd<sup>h</sup>-no-) `reddish, dun';

Germanic **blundaz* (*b<sup>h</sup>lnd<sup>h</sup>-o) in Middle Latin blundus, Italian biondo, French blond, from which Middle High German blunt, Modern High German blond;

Gothic blinds` blind', Old Icelandic blindr` blind, undistinguishable ', Old Saxon Old English blind, Old High German blint` blind', also `dark, cloudy, dull, not obvious'; Gothic blandan sik` mingle, diffuse, intermingle ', Old Icelandic blanda` mix' (blendingr` mixture '), Old Saxon Old English blandan, Old High German blantan, Middle High German blanden 'mix, tarnish' (Modern High German Blendling 'hybrid, mongrel, half breed'); to Germanic a compare the iterative-causative: Old High German blendan (**blandjan*) 'darken, blind', Old English blendan 'blind' (: blandýtis, Old Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>lon<sup>d</sup>-iH-tei*) blāditi); Old Icelandic blunda 'close the eyes', blundr 'slumber', Middle English blundren 'stir, bewilder', nengl. blunder 'be grossly mistaken, wander';

Lithuanian blendžiù, blęsti 'sleep; stir flour into soup, talk nonsense, become cloudy', Latvian blendu, blenst 'have poor eye-sight, be short-sighted'; Lithuanian blandaūs, -ýtis 'low the eyes down, be ashamed', Latvian bluôdīties 'ds.; roam, be ashamed',

Maybe alb. Geg (**flenj*) flê, Tosc fle 'die, sleep'; [rare alb. ph- > f-, found in gr. and Latin]

Lithuanian blaĩdas 'sleepiness, turbid weather, cloudiness', blandūs 'dim, cloudy, thick (soup), murky; dark'; Lithuanian blĩsta, blĩndo, blĩsti 'dim, dusky, cloudy, become dark; become cloudy, from water', prýblindé (and prieblandà) 'dusk, twilight'; here also bliĩdė, blendis, blũndė 'sallow';

Maybe alb. Geg blĩ, blini, Tosc bliri 'linden tree' n/r stem.

Old Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>len<sup>d</sup>-o-*) blędq, blęsti 'err; wander; πορνεύειν', blędb 'gossip, prank', slov. blé-dem, blésti 'maunder, drivel, fantasize', Old Czech blésti (2. Sg. bledeš) 'maunder, drivel'; Old Church Slavic blędb 'debauchery, depravity, adultery', poln. bląd 'mistake, delusion', Old Church Slavic blęždq, blęditi 'err, indulge in debauchery', Serbo-Croatian blúdīm, blúditi 'err, wander, cheat, deceive, spoil, caress' etc.

Maybe alb. Geg blê, Tosc blenj (**cheat*), barter, buy' similar shift of the meaning in gr. ἡπαφον 'cheat, barter, exchange'.

References: WP. II 216, 218, Trautmann 34 f., Endzelin KZ. 52, 112, Specht Dekl. 58, 117.

Page(s): 157-158

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/es-

Meaning: to shine

Note: : up to now only in the Germanic provable extension from b<sup>h</sup>el- 'shine'

Material: Middle High German blas 'naked, bald, bleak, pallid' (Modern High German blaß) n. 'torch, burning candle', Old English blæse 'torch, fire', engl. blaze 'blaze, glow; white forehead spot', Old High German blas-ros 'horse with a bright spot' (with a bright spot on the forehead), Middle Low German bles, blesse (**blasjō*) 'paleness', Old Icelandic **bles-* in blesōttr 'marked with a white spot' and in compound on -blesi.

References: WP. II 217.

Page(s): 158

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/eu-(k)-, (-s-)

Meaning: to burn

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>el- 'shine'.

Material: **b<sup>h</sup>/eu-s-* in gr. περι-πεφλευσμένος πυρί 'blazed by the fire', ἐπέφλευσε, περιφλῶω 'sear all around'; Old Icelandic blys n. 'flame', Old English blȳsa m. 'flame, torch', Middle Low German blūs 'torch', Old English blyscon 'blush', engl. blush.

**b<sup>h</sup>/eu-k-* in Middle High German bliehen 'burning luminously', Old High German bluhhen.

The West Slavic forms as Czech blýštěti 'shimmer', blýskati 'shine' (besides Old Church Slavic blъšťati etc, see below **b<sup>h</sup>/eiġ-*) are against it probably reshuffling after **lyskati*, poln. łyśkać 'flash, shine' etc - meaning not direct accordingly, respectively only from a primordial meaning 'shine' to justify, Trautmann GGA. 1911, 245 compares with Middle High German bliehen: Lithuanian blunkù, blùkti 'become pale, lose one's color'.

References: WP. II 214.

Page(s): 159-160

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/eus-

Meaning: weak, mild

Note: Perhaps to b<sup>h</sup>eleu-.

Material: Swedish Dialectal bloslin 'weak', norweg. blȳr 'mild, lukewarm', bløyra 'weakling, wimp', Modern High German schwäb. blūsche(n) 'slow, idle': Lithuanian apsi-blausti 'despond, despair, become sad'.

References: WP. II 214.

Page(s): 160

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/eu-

Meaning: to blow; to swell, flow

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>el- '(inflate, bloat), swell up'

Material: Gr. φλέ(F)ω `to be full of, to abound with, to be bursting with, to be bristling, be brimful', Φλεῦς (*Φληυς, lengthened grade), ephes. Φλέως (*ΦληΦος) epithet of Dionysos as a vegetation God; presumably from the lushness of growth also Attic φλέως, jon. φλοῦς `reed plant';

φλοῖω (*φλοFιω) `swell, to be full of, to abound with, to be bursting with, to be bristling, be in bloom, blossom', ὑπέρφλοιος `growing excessively' or `exceedingly succulent', Φλοῖος, Φλοῖα `epithet of Dionysos and the Kore as vegetation divinities' probably also φλοιός, φλόος `bark, husk';

changing through ablaut φλύω `surge up, bubble, chat; be fruitful', ἀποφλύειν ἀπερεύγεσθαι Hes. φλύος m. `gossip', φλύᾱξ `gossip, prank; buffoon';

Lithuanian bliáuju, blióniau, bliáuti `roar, bellow, bleat', bliūvauti `roar, bellow', Latvian bl'aūnu, bl'aūt ds.; Old Church Slavic (*b<sup>h</sup>leuH-tei) bl'ujǫ, bl'bvati `spit, vomit' (based on old preterite stem, compare Lithuanian bliūvo from Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>luuā-); in addition perhaps also Old Prussian bleusky `reed' (would be correct in the meaning to gr. φλέως!).

With a s-extension Low German blüstern `violent blow, storm, pant, sniff, snort', engl. bluster `boom, blaster, rant, roister' and Serbo-Croatian bljuzgati `stream noisily, chat silly stuff'; also Serbo-Croatian blíhati etc? (see below b<sup>h</sup>lei-s-).

With dental formant: Middle High German blōdern `chat, prate'? (rather new onomatopoeic word; compare Kluge<sup>11</sup> under plaudern); rather Swiss bloder `big bubble etc', blodern `effervesce, surge, boil', Modern High German Pluderhosen; perhaps Serbo-Croatian blútiti `speak absurd, speak inappropriate', Berneker 62; about Old High German blā(t)ara `bubble' (*blē-drō-) s. S. 121; with -d- (originally present forming?): φλυδάω `flows about, dissolves, become soft', φλυδαρός `muddy, sludgy, slushy, squashy, squishy, slobbery, sloppily', ἐκφλυνδάνειν `break open, from ulcers'.

g-extension b<sup>h</sup>leug<sup>m</sup>- (compare the root form b<sup>h</sup>leg<sup>m</sup>):

gr. οινό-φλυξ `wine-drunken'; φλύζω `to bubble up, boil up, surge up, overflow, also with words'; φλυκτίς, φλύκταινα `bubble'; but πομ-φόλυξ `blister, shield hump' stays away;

Latin fluō, -ere, flūxi, flūctum, newer flūxum `to flow; of a solid object, to flow, drip with any liquid, stream, pour; of abstr. things, to proceed, issue, spread; of circumstances, to tend; of language, to flow; to sink, droop', flūctus, -ūs `current, wave, a streaming, flowing. Transf., commotion, disturbance', flūmen (*fleugsmen) `flowing water; hence a river, stream', conflūgēs Old Latin 'confluence of two stretches of water', fluvius 'river' (from present fluō from), flustra Nom. PL 'calm (at sea)' ( **flugstrom*); if here (with nasalization) cymr. blyngu 'become angry', blwng 'angry, irate', bret. blouhi 'rebuke'?

References: WP. II 213 f., WH. I 519 f., Trautmann 35; different EM. 372.

Page(s): 158-159

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/lōd-, b<sup>h</sup>/ld-

Meaning: to boil; to chatter, boast

Material: Gr. φλεδών 'babbler', φλεδών 'gossip'; φληδώντα ληροῦντα Hes.; παφλάζω 'bubble, seethe, foam'; moreover also Aor. φλαδεῖν (intrans.) 'tear'; compare to meaning Latin fragor 'a breaking; a noise of breaking, crack, crash'; with varying lengthened grade b<sup>h</sup>/lōd- Old Irish indlāidi 'brags, boasts', indlādud 'boasting' ( **ind-blād-* 'puff oneself up or make inflated words') and Latvian blādu, blāzt 'chat';

zero grade Old High German uz-ar-pulzit 'boil, bubble out';

Modern High German platzen, plätschern are probably certainly of new onomatopoeic word formation.

References: WP. II 210, 216, WH. I 515, 518.

See also: to b<sup>h</sup>el-3.

Page(s): 155

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/lēiġ-, b<sup>h</sup>/līg- (**b<sup>h</sup>leiġ-*)

Meaning: to shine

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>/lēi- ds., as b<sup>h</sup>/leiġ-

Material: Old English blīcan 'shine', as, blīkan 'shine', Old High German blīhhan stem -V. 'become pallid', Middle High German blīchen stem -V. 'shine, blush', Old Icelandic blīkja, bleik 'appear, gleam, shine';

Old Icelandic bleikr, Old English blāc, Old High German bleih 'pallid, pale, wan'; Old High German bleihha 'dace, roach', Norwegian bleikja and blika ds.; Old Icelandic blik n. 'bright lustre, shine; gold, gold plating', Old High German bleh '(*shiny) thin metal panel', Modern High German Blech, Middle Low German blick ds.; Old English blike m. (**blik-*) 'bare place'; Old High German blic, -eches 'quick highlight, flash, lightning', Middle High German blic, -ekes 'lustre, shine, look, lightning', Modern High German Blick, Old High German blecchazzen (**blekatjan*), Middle High German bliczen, Modern High German blitzen; Old Saxon bliksmo 'lightning', Old Swedish blixa 'blink', New Swedish also 'flash'.

Lithuanian blizgù, -ėti 'flicker, shine', blýškiu, blýškėti 'sparkle, glitter, shimmer, shine', blykštù, blyškaũ, blỹkšti 'blanch, pale', ablaut. blaikštaũs, -ýtis 'clear up, of the sky'; Latvian blaiskums 'spot, mark', meln-blaiskainš 'dark grey'.

Russ.-Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>loiġ-sko-*) blěskъ 'lustre, shine' (**b<sup>h</sup>loiġ-sko-*); changing through ablaut Old Church Slavic bliskъ 'lustre, shine' and **b<sup>h</sup>lskъ* in Czech blesk, Gen. old blsku 'lightning', Old Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>leiġ-sk-eh<sub>2</sub>-tei*) blbštq, blbštati 'shine', Iter. bliscajq, bliscati se.

References: WP. II 21 If., EM. 398, Trautmann 34, Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 133, Specht Dekl. 144.

Page(s): 156-157

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lei-1 : b<sup>h</sup>lei- : b<sup>h</sup>li-

Meaning: to shine

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>el- ds.

Material: Germanic **blīþia-* (**b<sup>h</sup>lei-tio-* or rather **b<sup>h</sup>li-tio-*) 'light, cheerful, fair (of sky, heaven, then of the looks, appearance, the mood:) cheerful ' in Gothic bleiþs 'merciful, mild', Old Icelandic blīðr 'mild (of weather), friendly, pleasant', Old English blīþe 'cheerful, friendly', Old High German blīdi 'cheerful, blithe, glad, friendly', Old Saxon blīthōn, Old High German blīden 'be glad '.

Old Saxon blīn. 'paint, color', Adj. 'coloured ', Old Frisian blī(e)n 'paint, color', blī 'beautiful', Old English blēo n. 'paint, color, apparition, form' (probably **blīja-*).

On account of Germanic **blīwa* 'lead' (Old High German blīo, -wes, Old Saxon blī, Old Icelandic blī) with Lithuanian blīvas 'purple, mauve, violet-blue ' corresponding color adj. with formants -uo- of our root (to accept Modern High German blau congruent, indeed unoccupied Celtic **b<sup>h</sup>liuo-* from **b<sup>h</sup>lē-uo-* as wellspring, was conceivable), would be debatable, but the most likely.

Here (after Specht Dekl. 117) russ. blī-zná 'thread break, flaw in fabric ', Czech poln. blī-zna 'scar'; because of the parallel forms under b<sup>h</sup>lēu-1 barely with WH. I 517 to b<sup>h</sup>liġ-.

Lithuanian blývas `purple, mauve, violet-blue'; perhaps Lithuanian blaĩvas `sober' (if not as **blaid-vas* to related **b<sup>h</sup>laidō-s*), blaivaũs, -ýtis `clear up, become sober'; perhaps Latvian blīnēt `lurk, a furtive (glance), blink'.

Tocharian A. plyaskem `meditation'?? (Van Windekens Lexique 97).

References: WP. II 210.

See also: see also under b<sup>h</sup>lēu-1 and b<sup>h</sup>laidō-s.

Page(s): 155-156

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lēu-1 : b<sup>h</sup>leu- : b<sup>h</sup>lū- (**b<sup>h</sup>lēu-1*)

Meaning: to shine

Note: derivatives to b<sup>h</sup>el-1.

Material: Russ. blju-šč`ivy' (Specht Dekl. 117); poln. błysk (**b<sup>h</sup>lū-sk-*) `lightning'; Sorbian bl'u-zná `scar', wruss. blu-zná `weaving flaw'; Latvian blau-zgas, blau-znas, Lithuanian blū-zganos `dandruff', Latvian blū-zga `peeling skin', blu-zga `small particles, drill dust' etc

Maybe alb. bluanj `grind, mill'

Proto-Slavic form: blizna; blizno

See also: blizъ(jъ); blizъkъ(jъ); blizъ; blizъ

Page in Trubačev: II 118-120

Russian: blízna (dial.) `missing thread in fabric, flaw in home-spun material' [f ā]; blizná `knot in linen resulting from an incorrect arrangement of the warp' [f ā]; bliznó `flaw in fabric, absence of one or two threads' [n o]; bljuzná `flaw in fabric' {1}

Old Russian: blizna `scar' [f ā]

Belorussian: bljuzná `flaw in fabric' [f ā]

Ukrainian: blýzna `wound, scar' [f ā]; blyzná `defect in linen' [f ā]

Czech: blizna `stigma (bot.)' [f ā]

Polish: blizna `scar, gash, seam, cicatrice, trace left by a fallen leaf' [f ā]

Old Polish: bluzna `cicatrice, stigma, stamp' [f ā] {1}

Kashubian: blizna `cicatrice' [f ā]

Upper Sorbian: bluzna `scar, birth-mark' [f ā] {1}

Lower Sorbian: bluzna `scar, bruise' [f ā] {1}

Bulgarian: blizná `place in fabric where a thread is torn or missing' [f ā]

Serbo-Croatian: bli`zna `two threads put into a reed (instead of one); ruptured thread in weft or warp' [f ā], blīznī[Nomp]; blīzna `scar' [f ā]; bli`zno `gap' [n o]

Proto-Balto-Slavic reconstruction: bli?ž-n-

Lithuanian: blyžė `rip in fabric' [f ē] 4

Latvian: blīznis<sup>2</sup> 'pile of broken trees in a forest' [f ē]

Indo-European reconstruction: b<sup>h</sup>liǵ-n-

IE meaning: scar

Page in Pokorny: 160

Bibliography: Sławski SP I: 264-265

Notes: {1} The forms that seemingly reflect **b<sup>h</sup>luzna* must be secondary.

References: Specht Dekl. 117.

See also: compare the parallel formation under b<sup>h</sup>/ēi-1.

Page(s): 159

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/ēu-2 : b<sup>h</sup>/əu- : b<sup>h</sup>/ū-

Meaning: bad

Note: b<sup>h</sup>(e)/ēu- is apparent, manifest, obvious parallel formation to b<sup>h</sup>e/əu- 'hit'.

Material: Gr. φλαûρος, φαûλος (both dissimil. from *φλαûλος) 'slight, evil, bad';

Gothic blauþian 'abolish' (actually 'make weak'), Old Icelandic blauðr 'timorous', Old English blēað 'daft, shy', with -jo-suffix Old Saxon blōdi 'shamefaced', Old High German blōdi, Middle High German blæde 'frail, breakable, shy, timid', Modern High German blöde;

besides Indo Germanic **b<sup>h</sup>ləu-to-* stands a d- extension in Old Icelandic blautr 'mushy, softish, delicate, mollycoddle, timorous', Old English blēat 'arm, woeful, wretched, miserable', mndd. blōt, Middle High German blōz 'bare', Modern High German bloß (Old High German bloß with strange meaning 'stout, proud'); lengthened grade b<sup>h</sup>/ēu- in Old English un-blēoh 'fearless' (suffix -ko-), with gramm. variation; Old Icelandic bljūgr 'timid', blygð 'the genitals' (**bleugiþō*), changing through ablaut Old High German blūgo Adv., Middle High German blūc, bliuc 'shy', Old High German blūgisōn, blūchisōn 'doubt', Old English blycgan (**blugjan*) 'frighten' (trans.); compare Lithuanian blúkštu, -šti 'become limp'.

References: WP. II 208 f., Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II 150, Feist 99, Specht Dekl. 133.

Page(s): 159

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/lē-uo-s

Meaning: a kind of colour (blue, gold)

Note: also b<sup>h</sup>/ī-uo-s, b<sup>h</sup>/lē-ro-s, b<sup>h</sup>/lō-ro-s, derivatives from the root b<sup>h</sup>e/-1, b<sup>h</sup>e/ə-

Material: Latin flāvus `golden brown, red-yellow, blond ', Oscan Flaviies G. Sg. `of or belonging to the college of priests for the Flavian family' (from Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>7-), besides fulvus `red-yellow, brown-yellow ' from *b<sup>h</sup>7-*u*o-s; flōrus `yellow ', also PN, from *b<sup>h</sup>7*lōros* = gall. **blāros* (Wartburg), Middle Irish blār `forehead with white spot, spot, field ', cymr. blawr `gray', besides *b<sup>h</sup>7*lē-ro-* in Middle Low German blāre `paleness, blessing, white spotted cow'.

Maybe alb. bļerónj `blossom, be green' (see below Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>7*leido-s* : `pale')

Old High German blāo, Modern High German blau (Middle High German blā also `gold, yellow'), Old English **blāw* or **blæw*, Old Icelandic blār `blue' from *b<sup>h</sup>7*lē-u*o-s; s. also S. 155;

Old Irish blā `yellowish?' is late Old English loanword? About Germanic **blīwa-* `lead' see below b<sup>h</sup>7*ei-1*.

Lithuanian blāvas, Latvian blāvs `bluish, gold, yellow' are Germanic loanword

References: WP. II 212, WH. I 513 f., different EM 367.

Page(s): 160

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>7*lē-* (*b<sup>h</sup>7*leh*<sub>1</sub>-)

Meaning: to howl, weep

Material: Latin fleō, flēre (*b<sup>h</sup>7*lējō*) `to weep; to drip, trickle; transit., to weep for, lament, bewail; flendus, to be lamented ';

Latvian blēju, blēt `bleat';

r.-Church Slavic blěju, blějati `bleat' (besides Serbo-Croatian blējīm, blējati `bleat' etc, with ě); Middle High German blæjen `bleat' (Germanic **blējan* = Latin fleō); Old High German blāzan, nnd. blässen, Old English blætan, engl. to bleat `bleat', Old English blagettan, blægettān `cry', nnd. blage n. `kid, child'; Middle High German blēren, blerren `bleat, cry';

Maybe alb. blegërij `bleat' : Old English blagettan, blægettān `cry'.

Modern High German plärren, plären (also `weep, cry'), Dutch blaren `bleat', engl. to blare `roar, bellow'; changing through ablaut Middle High German blürjen, blüelen (**blōljan*), dissimil. brüelen `roar, bellow'; zero grade Middle High German bral `shriek', schwäb. brallə `cry'.

References: WP. II 120, WH. I 516.

See also: compare b<sup>h</sup>el-6 and the onomatopoeic words blē.

Page(s): 154-155

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>leido-s (*b<sup>h</sup>leid-(u)o-)

Meaning: pale

Note: to b<sup>h</sup>lēi- 'shine', from extension root form **b<sup>h</sup>lēi-d-*

Material: Old Church Slavic blědъ 'pallid, pale, wan' = Old English blāt 'pallid, livid'; Old High German bleizza 'paleness'. Perhaps Lithuanian blaĩvas 'sober' (if from **blaid-vas*; or from the an extension root b<sup>h</sup>lei-, s. d.), blaĩvaũs, -ýtis 'become sober; clear up, from the sky'. Alb. blėrónj 'blossom, be green' from adj. **blėrē* from **bled-rē* (e = Indo Germanic ai or o), blėhurē 'pale, wan, pallid'.

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur-: Alb. blehurē: 'Ιλλυριοί, οί, Illyrians, 'Ιλλυρία, ή, Illyria, also 'Ιλλυρίς, ή, Adj. 'Ιλλυρικός, ή, όν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, 'Ιλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, 'Ιλλυρία:--hence Adv. 'Ιλλυριστί.

In addition probably the Illyrian PN Blaedarus.

Maybe Lithuanian blindė 'goat-willow, willow': Alb. (**blind*) blini 'sturgeon, lime-tree, lime, linden'.

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>leido-s: 'pale': Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lē-uo-s: 'a kind of colour (blue, gold)'.

References: WP. II 217, Trautmann 34, Specht Dekl. 197.

Page(s): 160

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lig- (:**b<sup>h</sup>lēig-*) (*b<sup>h</sup>lēiĝ-o-)

Meaning: to hit

Note: also b<sup>h</sup>ligu- (gr. Celtic), to indicate from uo- present **b<sup>h</sup>lig-uo*.

Material: Aeolic Ionian φλῖβω 'push, press, squeeze' (about θλῖβω see below d<sup>h</sup>las 'contuse, squeeze'); cymr. blifm. 'catapult, pallista', blifaidd 'quick, fast';

Latin fligō, -ere 'hit, beat or dash down' (**b<sup>h</sup>ligō*, or at most with through flīxi, flīctum assesses u- loss from **fliguo*);

Maybe alb. (**b<sup>h</sup>lēiĝ-*) mbledh 'squeeze, collect' [common alb. -ĝ > -dh].

Latvian blaîzît 'squeeze, clash, hit', bliêzt 'hit'; Old Church Slavic blizъ, blizъ Adv. 'nigh, near' (actually 'adjacent'). Although puzzling at first, the semantic transition from 'to beat' to 'near' appears to have a few convincing parallels, e.g. Fr. près 'near' : Latin pressus 'squeezed' (Trubačëv II: 122, with references).

References: WP II 217, WH. I 517, EM. 369.

See also: about russ. blizná see below b<sup>h</sup>/ěi-1.

Page(s): 160-161

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/los-q-; -g-

Meaning: expr.

Material: Irish blosc, Gen. bloisc 'din, fuss, noise' (b<sup>h</sup>/losko-); compare also brosc ds. under **b<sup>h</sup>res-*;

Lithuanian blázgu, -ėti intr. 'clatter', blázginti 'clatter, rattle, clash'.

References: WP. II 218.

Page(s): 161

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>/lōk-

Meaning: wool, cloth?

Material: Latin floccus 'a flock of wool' (**flōcos*) to Old High German blaha f. 'coarse bed linen (esp. to covers or substratums)', Modern High German Blahe, Blache, Old Danish blaa 'oakum', now blaar (actually Pl.), Swedish blånor, blår ds., Old Swedish blan, bla ds. (Germanic **blahwō-*), Old Norse blæja (**blahjōn-*) 'linen, sheet'.

Page(s): 161

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>og- (**b<sup>h</sup>og-no-*)

Meaning: running water

Material: Middle Irish búa f. 'running water' (**b<sup>h</sup>oglā*), búar m. 'diarrhoea' (**b<sup>h</sup>ogro-*); proto Germanic **baki-*, Old High German bah, Modern High German Bach, besides **bakja-* in Old Icelandic bekkr, Old English becc m. ds.

With regard to Old Indic bhaṅgá-h, Lithuanian bangà 'billow' could be related to the root b<sup>h</sup>eg- 'shatter, break, rupture'.

References: WP. II 149 f., 187.

Page(s): 161

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ok-

Meaning: to burn?

Material: Latin focus `a fireplace, hearth; meton., house, family, home; sometimes altar-fire or funeral pyre'; presumably to Armenian bosor `red' (*fiery), boç `flame' (*b<sup>h</sup>ok-s-o-).

References: WP. II 186, WH. I 521.

Page(s): 162

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>olo-

Meaning: smoke, steam?

Material: it is associated perhaps Old Irish bolad, nir. boladh and baladh `smell, odor' and Latvian bulš, bula `misty muggy air, height smoke, dryness'; it could form the basis Indo Germanic b<sup>h</sup>ol- (Irish): b<sup>h</sup>el- (Latvian); perhaps is with above etymology also Peterssons Etym. Miscellen 34 connection of bulš with combinable Armenian bal `fog, mist, darkness' (if originally `haze, mist')?

References: WP. II 189.

Page(s): 162

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>org<sup>w</sup>o-s

Meaning: unfriendly

Material: Armenian bark `violent, angry, irate; herb, bitter, sharp from taste' (*b<sup>h</sup>rg<sup>w</sup>os); Old Irish borb, borp `crazy'; Middle Irish borb (**burbo-*, Indo Germanic *b<sup>h</sup>org<sup>w</sup>o-) `raw, ignorant'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Latvian baĩgs `stern, hard, unfriendly, pitiless'; Swedish Dialectal bark `willful, unfriendly person', barkun `rough, harsh'.

References: WP. II 188, Trautmann 27.

See also: compare also b<sup>h</sup>ag-2.

Page(s): 163

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>oso-s

Meaning: naked

Note:

From Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ē-: b<sup>h</sup>ō-: `to warm, fry, *bath' derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>oso-s: `naked'.

Material:

Old High German bar `naked, bare' (**baza-*), Modern High German bar, Old English bær, Old Icelandic berr `naked, bare'; Lithuanian bãsas, Latvian bass, Old Church Slavic bosъ `barefoot'; Armenian bok `barefoot' (*b<sup>h</sup>oso-go-).

Maybe alb. Geg (*b<sup>h</sup>as-) zbath- 'barefoot', mbath 'wear shoes' [common alb. -s > -th shift] : Latvian bass 'barefoot'.

As gr. ψ-ίλος probably to b<sup>h</sup>es- 'abrade, scrape' (and 'grind'), also originally from barren, (naked) sharp places, compare Kretschmer KZ. 31, 414.

References: WP. II 189, Meillet Esquisse 38, Trautmann 28.

Page(s): 163

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>oud<sup>h</sup>i-

Meaning: victory

Material: Old Irish búaid n. 'victory', abrit. FN Boudicca 'the victorious', cymr. budd 'profit, gain', buddig 'victorious' (*b<sup>h</sup>oud<sup>h</sup>īko-) = Old Irish búadach ds.; Old Germanic GN Baudi-hillia 'victory fighter'.

References: WP. II 186, Gutenbrunner Germanic Göttern. 43.

Page(s): 163

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ouk<sup>o</sup>os

Meaning: a kind of buzzing insect

Material: Latin fūcus, -ī m. 'a drone bee' = Old English béaw m. 'gadfly, brake', nnd. bau ds.

References: WP. II 184, WH. I 555 f.

Page(s): 163

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ōgh- or b<sup>h</sup>āgh-

Meaning: lowland, swamp

Material: Mnl. bagger m. 'slime, mud', out of it Modern High German baggern 'drain the mud'; russ. bagnó 'low, marshy place', Czech bahno 'swamp, marsh, morass', poln. bagno ds.

References: WP. II 187, Petersson Heterokl. 123 f.

Page(s): 161

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ōi- : b<sup>h</sup>əi- : b<sup>h</sup>ī- (b<sup>h</sup>ījē-) (*b<sup>h</sup>eiH- > b<sup>h</sup>oiH(d<sup>h</sup>)-so-)

Meaning: to fear, * keep away

Material: Old Indic bháyatē 'be afraid' (from *b<sup>h</sup>əjetai = Slavic bojetъ), Avestan bayente, byente 'they are in fear', Middle Persian bēsānd 'they are in fear' (Proto-Iranian **bai-sk-*); Old Indic bibhṛéti 'be afraid', sek. to initial Perf. m. Präsensbed. bibhāya 'I am in fear' (bibhīyāt, bibhītana, abibhēt, participle bibhīvān = Avestan biwivā 'were afraid'); Old Indic bhiyāná-ḥ `were afraid'; bhī-ḥ f., bhīti-ḥ f. (: Latvian Inf. bītiēs) `fear', bhīmá-ḥ `dreadful', bhītá-ḥ `were afraid, horrified', bhīrú-ḥ `timorous, shy, coward' (if r = Indo Germanic l, changing through ablaut with Lithuanian báilė, bailūs); npers. bāk `fear' (from **b<sup>h</sup>áyaka-*); with Indo Germanic simplification of āi to ā before consonant here Old Indic bhāma-ḥ perhaps `fierceness, fury', bhāmitá-ḥ `fierce, grim'.

Gr. πίθηκος, πίθων m. `ape' (from **πιθος* `ugly', zero grade **b<sup>h</sup>dh-*).

Maybe taboo word alb. pidhi `vagina'.

Latin foedus (**b<sup>h</sup>oǵ<sup>h</sup>os*) `foul, filthy, horrible, disgusting'.

Old High German bibēn, Old Saxon bibōn, Old English beofian, Old Icelandic bifa, -aða and bifra (these in ending directed after **titrōn* `tremble') to Proto German **bībai-mi*, **bībōn* is probably only after to the other coexistence from -ōn- and -ēn- secondary verb besides one from the Perfect form developed grade **bībēn*.

Balto Slavic originally present **b<sup>h</sup>ǵiō-*, preterit-stem **b<sup>h</sup>jiā-*, Inf. **b<sup>h</sup>īēi*, Old Prussian biātwei `fear, dread', kausat. pobaiint `punish, curse'; Lithuanian bijaūs, bijótis (also not reflexive) `be afraid', Latvian bīstuōs, bijuōs, bītiēs and bijājuōs, bijātiēs `be afraid'; Lithuanian baijūs `dreadful, terrible, hideous'; baidaũ, -yti `frighten', Latvian baĩdu, baĩdīt and biēdēt `daunt, scare';

Maybe alb. Geg mbajt `be afraid', nuk ma mban `I am afraid'.

in addition Lithuanian baisà `fright' (**baid-s-ā*), baisùs `terrible, horrid', baisióti `smudge, besmear' (and Old Church Slavic běsъ `devil', **běd-sъ*); Lithuanian báimė `fear'; báilė ds. (bailus `timorous').

Old Church Slavic (**b<sup>h</sup>oiH-eh<sub>2</sub>-tei*) bojō, bojati se `be afraid'.

Further formation **b<sup>h</sup>ji-es-*, **b<sup>h</sup>īs-* in Old Indic bhyásatē `be afraid', udbhyása-ḥ `be afraid', Avestan Perf. biwivāṇha (i.e. biwyāṇha) `stimulated fright, was dreadful'; Old Indic bhīṣayatē `frightens', bhīṣaṇa-ḥ `causing fright';

Old High German bīsa `north-east wind', bisōn `run around madly', bēr `boar' etc lead to a Germanic **bīs-*, **bīz-* `storm ahead jumpily'; compare Wißmann Nom. postverb. 78.

References: WP. II 124 f., 186, WH. I 522 f., Trautmann 24, Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Biese.

Page(s): 161-162

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rag- (better b<sup>h</sup>rə-g-)

Meaning: to smell, scent

Material: Latin fragrō, -āre 'to emit a smell, esp. a sweet smell', denominative *b<sup>h</sup>rag-ro-s 'smelling'; Old High German bracko (Modern High German Bracke), Middle Low German mnl. bracke 'beagle, sleuth, harrier, track hound' (out of it Italian bracco etc), in addition Middle Latin barm-braccus 'lap dog'; compare Middle High German brāhen 'smell' (**brē* <sub>1</sub>jō); also anything for root b<sup>h</sup>rē, above S. 133.

It remains remote gall. brāca 'trouser'; see below b<sup>h</sup>reġ-1 'break, rupture'.

References: WP. II 192, WH. I 540, Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Bracke.

Page(s): 163

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rā-ter- (**s<sub>1</sub>ye-loud<sup>h</sup>ā-ter-* 'member of clan, brother')

Meaning: brother

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rā-ter- (**s<sub>1</sub>ye-loud<sup>h</sup>ā-ter-* 'member of clan, brother'): brother, derived from Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rā-ter- (**s<sub>1</sub>ye-loud<sup>h</sup>ā-ter-* 'member of clan, brother'): brother [Root / lemma: leud<sup>h</sup>-1 (**leugh-*): to grow up; people; free].

Material: Old Indic bhrātā-, Avestan Old pers. brātar- 'brother'; osset. ārvád 'brother, kinsman, relative'; Armenian etbair, Gen. etbaur ds.; (*b<sup>h</sup>rātēr, *b<sup>h</sup>rātrós);

Maybe truncated gr. ἐλεύθερος 'free man': (**s<sub>1</sub>ye-loud<sup>h</sup>ā* 'member of clan, brother') vēla 'brother': osset. ārvád (**alvad*): Armenian etbair (**elvair*), Gen. etbaur 'brother, kinsman, relative': Etruscan (**āruvād*) ruva 'brother' from Eurasiatic: *?arV

Meaning: member of the clan

Uralic: *arV (*arwa)

Number: 1745

Proto: *arV (*arwa)

> Nostratic:

English meaning: relative on mother's side; (younger) brother of mother

Khanty (Ostyak): olī (V Vj.), orti (O), wōrtī (Kaz.) 'Nephew, son of the brother (od. of the sister), younger brother of the mother etc.', olīsakən (Vj.) 'Mother's brother and child of his older sister together', olīsat 'Mother's brother and children of his older sister together', jītj (Vj.), āfīt (Trj.), or`ne (Kaz.) 'Daughter of the older sister (father), daughter of the older brother of the man etc.', ar`səx (O) 'Child of the older sister, child of the sister of the fathers', orťiwenj (Kaz.) 'Man of the daughter of the older sister etc.'

Mansi (Vogul): oār (LM), ār (N) 'related to the mother's side', or 'relatives on a parent line, ancestors on mother', jäynor ōr-nor (K) 'parental disappointment'

Hungarian: ara 'Bride; (altung.) brother of the mother od. of the sister; daughter-in-law'

Maybe

Illyrian bra `brother! (vocative)' > alb. bre `brother! (vocative)' maybe Kurdish bira `brother' : turk. birader `brother'.

New Phrygian βρατερε `brother'; mys.-Phrygian braterais = φράτραις?, gr. φρήτηρ (Ionian) ἀδελφός Hes., Attic φράτηρ, φράτωρ `member of a φρατρία (family, fraternity, brotherhood)';

Venetic vhraterei `brother';

Maybe alb. Tosc v(ë)lla `brother' intervocalic (-ë-) [influenced by Latin order consonant + vowel + consonant], older alb. Geg vlla `brother', (**vhraterei*) vllazëri `member of a φρατρία (family, fraternity, brotherhood)';

Latin frāter `brother', Oscan fratrúm, Umbrian fratrum, fratrom `brothers' etc around Late Latin frātruētis s. WH. I 542);

Old Irish brāth(a)ir `brother, member of a big family', cymr. sg. brawd, brodyr, acorn. broder, Middle Breton breuzr, nbret. breur, Pl. breudeur ds.;

Gothic brōþar, Old Icelandic brōðir, Old High German bruoder, Old English brōþor `brother';

Short forms in addition Old High German MN Buobo, Middle High German buobe `boy', Old English MN Bōfa, Bōja (> engl. boy), Norwegian dial. boa `brother' etc; further Old High German MN Buole, Middle High German buole `kinsman, relative, lover', Middle Low German bōle `kinsman, relative, brother' etc (see Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Bube, Buhle); Old Prussian brāti (Vok. brote) `brother', Lithuanian broterėlis, short form brožis, batis, brólis, Latvian b(r)ālis `baby brother', brātarītis `dear brother!';

Old Church Slavic bratrъ, bratъ `brother', short form serb. baća, ačech. bát'a ds., russ. bátja, báčka `father, priest'.

Also alb. Geg bacë `father, leader' : serb. baća `father, priest'.

compare noch Old Indic bhrātrá-m `brotherhood'; gr. φράτρᾱ, jon. φρήτηρ ds.; Old Indic bhrātrya-m : gr. φράτρία, Old Church Slavic bratrъja, bratъja ds., Latin frātria `wife, woman of brothers'.

Tocharian A pracar (Dual pratñ), B procer.

References: WP. II 193, WH. I 541 f., 866, Specht KZ 62, 249, Fraenkel REtIE 2, 6 f., Risch Mus. Helv. 1, 118.

Page(s): 163-164

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>red(h?)-

Meaning: to wade, wander

Material: Thrak. PN Βρέδαι; Ligurian VN Brodionti, compare gall. FIN Bredanna, French La Brenne, (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), PN Βροδεντία (Bayern).

Alb. breth, Aor. brodha `wander, roam'.

Lithuanian bredù (East Lithuanian brendù), bridaũ, bristi `wade', Iter. bradaũ, -ýti `wade', brastà, brastvà `ford (miry)', bradà `slime, mud', brādas m. `fishing' (= Slavic brodъ), with sek. ablaut brỹdis m. `wading, way in the water', Iter. braidaũ, -ýti `wade around continuously'; Latvian brienu (Dialectal briedu = East Lithuanian brendù), bridu, brist, Iter. bradāt `wade; tread with feet; speak foolishly', braslis m. `ford', bridis m. `while, short time'; Old Prussian Chucunbrast `through the devil's way'; zero grade ir = **r* noch in Lithuanian birdà `wet ordure', Old Prussian Birdaw, sea name.

Russ.-Church Slavic bredu, bresti `wade through a ford' (zero grade present **br̥dō* in nepr̥br̥domъ `not wading through water', Aor. pribr̥de, compare Old Czech přēbrde `will wade', poln. brnąć `wade' from **br̥dnōti*), russ. bredú, brestí `go slowly, fish with the train net', brédítъ `chat nonsense, fantasize', bred, bredína `willow' (`standing there often in the water'), r.-Church Slavic, russ. (etc) brodъ `ford', iter. r.-Church Slavic broditi `wade', russ. brodítъ `go slowly, slink, wander around; ferment, seethe', Serbo-Croatian bròditi `wade'.

References: WP. II 201 f., Trautmann 37, Mühlenbach-Endzelin 332 f.

Page(s): 164

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reg-1

Meaning: to break

Material: Old Indic giri-bhráj- `bursting out from the mountains';

Latin frangō, -ere, frēgi (: Gothic **br̥kum*), frāctum `break in pieces, dash to pieces, shiver, shatter, fracture', fragilis `frail, breakable, easily broken, brittle, fragile' etc (**b<sup>h</sup>rag-*), fragor m. `a breaking; a crashing, a noise of breaking, crack, crash, noise, din'; with ā (after frāctus etc): suffrāgium `a voting tablet, a vote, noisy applause, approval; the right to vote, franchise; in gen. judgment; approval, support'; suffrāginēs f. `the hollows of the knee (suffragines, are so called because they are broken underneath = subtus franguntur, that is, they bend downwards and not upwards like the arm) ', actually `bend, kink ';

Middle Irish braigid `farts ', verbal noun braimm, cymr. corn. bram m. `breaking wind, fart', Middle Irish t-air-brech `crash, blast'; but gall. brāca `breeches' (compare βράκκαι αἰγειαί διφθέραι παρὰ Κελτοῖς Hes.) is Germanic loanword, Old Irish brōc `trouser ' is Old English loanword

Maybe alb. brekë `underwear' = gall. brāca `breeches';

Gothic brikan, Old Saxon brekan, Old English brecan, Old High German brehhan `break, rupture' (Latin frēgimus = Gothic **brēkum*, Modern High German brachen), ablaut. Gothic brakja `wrestling match ' ; lengthened grade Middle High German brache f. `breaking in the ground, unbroken recumbent unsowed land after the harvest ', Old English ā-brācian `press in', Old High German prahhen, brahhen, Middle High German braechen, Modern High German prägen ( **brēkjan* ), Causative to brechen; zero grade Gothic gabruka f. `piece, fragment, gobbet ' (**b<sup>h</sup>r<sub>e</sub>g-*) == Old English bryce m. `the break, lump ', Old High German bruoh `break, cracked ' ; Old English brocian `press', broc `woefulness ' ; with gemination Old High German brocco `broken ', Modern High German Brocken; here perhaps Norwegian brake m. `juniper ' (as brisk ds. to b<sup>h</sup>res- `break, crack, cracking '), Middle High German brake m. f. `twig, branch', engl. brake `brushwood, thorn bushes, fern ', ablaut. Norwegian burkne m. `fern ', compare also Norwegian bruk n. `shrubbery, bush';

a nasal. form in Norwegian dial. brank n. `affliction , defect', branka `injure, break, rupture'; with the meaning `din, fuss, noise' here Old Icelandic braka `crack, creak', brak n. `row, din, fuss, noise', Middle High German Old English brach m. ds., Old High German Middle High German Old Saxon braht `din, fuss, noise, clamor', with changed meaning Modern High German Pracht, Old English breahm m. `argument, quarrel', Old Saxon brahtum `din, fuss, noise, clamorous mass';

Germanic **brōk-* `rump', newer `trouser' in Old English brēc Pl. `buttocks ', engl. breech ds., Old Icelandic brōk, Pl. brōkr `thigh, trouser', Old English brōc, Old High German bruoh, Modern High German Bruch ds., Swiss bruech `pubic region ' ; geminated Old English etc braccas `britches ' ;

here (rather to b<sup>h</sup>res-) belong Lithuanian braškù, braškėti `crack, creak' (**b<sup>h</sup>r<sub>e</sub>ĝ-skō*), Latvian brakškēt, brakstēt ds.

A parallel root **b<sup>h</sup>re(n)gh-* seeks Wood (KZ. 45, 61) in Old Indic bṛhāti 'wrenches, tears from ', Old Icelandic branga 'damage'.

Old Indic bṛgala-m 'piece, gobbet, lump ' is not Indo Germanic (Kuiper Proto-Munda 49).

References: WP. II 200, WH. I 113 f, 539 f., 541, Feist 104 ff., 176, Wißmann Nom. postverb. 11, 58, 123, 181.

Page(s): 165

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reġ-2

Meaning: to stick (?)

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>er- 'stand up, edge, bristle' etc, seeks Persson Beitr. 22 f. A. 2 in:

Material: Old Indic bhraj- 'stiffness (of the member), rigor(?)'; isl. Norwegian brok 'stiff grass, grass bristles '; quite dubious also in Old Icelandic bqrkr (*b<sup>h</sup>orġu-s), Middle Low German borke, Modern High German (actually nnd.) Borke 'rough, outer bark' (from the rough angularity? Similar is gr. φορῖνη 'hard, rough skin, esp. pig's skin ' to an extension to place root b<sup>h</sup>er-).

An analoge g-extension from of a ġ-basis b<sup>h</sup>rei- could at most exist in Norwegian brikja 'stick up high, to show off, shine', brik 'a tall woman keeping her head high ', briken 'fresh, agile, lively; showy, gleaming, pleasant', brikna 'glory, magnificence, lustre, shine, pleasure, joy' (Wood KZ. 45, 66), if not perhaps 'shine, shine out' is the basis of this meaning.

A b<sup>h</sup>rei-k- presumably in gr. φρίξ, -κός 'shuddering, quiver, stare', φρίσσω, -πτω, πέφρικα 'stare up; shiver (*flicker?)' common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-; cymr. bret. brig 'acme, apex ' (*b<sup>h</sup>riko-).

Maybe alb. (**φρίξ, φρίκός*) frikë 'shuddering, fear', older (**φρίκός*) frikësoj 'make shiver, scare'.

References: WP. II 201.

Page(s): 166

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rend<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to swell, sprout

Note: Only for Celtic to cover Tocharian and Balto-Slavic

Material: Old Irish probably in brenn- (*b<sup>h</sup>rend<sup>h</sup>-uā-) 'spring up, bubble, effervesce', e.g. bebarnatar 3 Pl. preterit, with to-ess- : do-n-eprinn 'gushes forth ', Middle Irish to-oss- :

toiprinnit `interior flow, flow into ', Kaus. Middle Irish bruinnid `allows to gush forth, streams out ' etc; (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), compare also Thurneysen Grammar 461;

Maybe alb. brenda, përbrenda `inside, inward, (*inward inflow) '.

Lithuanian brėstu, brėndau, brėsti `swell, ripen', participle brėndęs `ripening', brįstu, brįsti `gush, well up (e.g. from peas)', brandà `ripeness, rich harvest ', brandùs `rainy '; Latvian briēstu, briēžu, briēst `gush, well up, to swell, ripen', bruôžs `thick, strong'; Old Prussian pobrendints `weighted ', sen brendekermnen `pregnant', i.e. `with body fruit ';

Slavic **brędъ* in Old Czech ja-břadek, apoln. ja-brząd `twig, branch of grapevine ' (besides one verschied. Slavic **brědъ* in kašub. břod `fruit-tree '); relationship to b<sup>h</sup>er- (b<sup>h</sup>ren-) `overhang, protrude ' is absolutely agreeable;

Tocharian A pratsak, B pratsāk- `breast'.

References: WP. II 205, Trautmann 35 f., Van Windekens Lexique 99.

Page(s): 167-168

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>renk-, b<sup>h</sup>ronk-

Meaning: to bring

Material: Cymr. he-brwng `bring, glide, slide, guide, lead' (**sem-bronk-*), hebryngiad `guide, leader', acorn. hebrenchiat `leader', mcor. hem-bronk `will guide, lead', hem-brynkys, hom-bronkys `guided', Middle Breton ham-brouc, nbr. am-brouk `guide, lead';

Gothic briggan, brāhta, Old High German bringan, brāhta, also Old Saxon (wo also brengian), Old English bringan and breng(e)an preterit brōhte (from **branhta*) `bring';

Tocharian B prarik-, AB pränk- `depart'.

Angebl. contaminated from root b<sup>h</sup>er- and enek-; finally E. Fraenkel KZ. 58, 286<sup>1</sup> f.; 63, 198.

Maybe alb. geg me pru, aor. prura `to bring'

References: WP. II 204, Lewis-Pedersen 40, Feist 105, Van Windekens Lexique 99.

Page(s): 168

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>re(n)k-

Meaning: to err

Material: Old Indic bhrámśate, bhraśyate 'falls, overthrows', participle bhraṣṭá-h, bhraṁśa-h 'fall, loss', but in RV. only from nasal basis bhrāśáyan (Kaus.), mā bhraśat (Aor.), áni-bhrṣṭa-h 'not succumbing'; also bhraṁśa- with originally only present, then further grown exuberantly nasalization? or old double forms? Old Irish brēc 'lie, falsity' (*<sup>b</sup>renkā) is the half meaning not so certain to compare with Old Indic bhraṁśa-h, that it would decide the latter sense.

Kuiper (Nasalpras. 141 f.) builds *<sup>b</sup>reġ-mi next to *<sup>b</sup>re-n-ġō; nevertheless, his etymological comparisons are not persuasive.

References: WP. II 204.

See also: To <sup>b</sup>reġ-1?

Page(s): 168

---

Root / lemma: bhren-to-s

Meaning: herdsman, *wanderer, horn

Material:

Messapic βρένδον (from *βρέντον) 'ελαφον' Hes., βρέντιον 'deer head' Hes., brunda ds., short form (besides Brenda) to PN Brundisium, older Βρεντέσιον 'Brindisi', Illyrian VN Βρέντιοι; Venetic FIN Brinta 'Brenta'; still today in Italian mountain names and plant names (Bertoldi IF. 52, 206 f.); compare in addition alb. brî, brîni 'horn, antler' (*<sup>b</sup>h<sub>2</sub>no-), Plur. Geg brîena; raetorum.

brenta 'pannier';

maybe alb. brinjë 'rib, bone'

Note:

Clearly alb. is an Illyrian Dialect; alb. bredh 'wander' suggests that there is a link between

Root / lemma: <sup>b</sup>red(h)- : 'to wade, wander' and Root / lemma: <sup>b</sup>ren-to-s : 'herdsman, *wanderer'.

New Swedish dial. brind(e), Norwegian (with g from d) bringe 'male elk' (*<sup>b</sup>rentós), ablaut. Norwegian brund 'baby male reindeer' (*<sup>b</sup>h<sub>2</sub>rentós);

Latvian briēdis 'deer, deer stag', whether from of a Indo Germanic additional form *<sup>b</sup>rendis, must be the origin of Lithuanian brīedis, Old Prussian braydis m. 'elk'; if Germanic loanword?

Note:

Baltic lang. were created before Slavic lang. hence the vocabulary shared by Baltic and alb. is of Illyrian origin.

Perhaps to b<sup>h</sup>ren- 'overhang, edge'; different Specht Dekl. 120.

References: WP. II 205, WH. I 116 f., 551, 852, A. Mayer KZ 66, 79 ff., Krahe Festgabe Bulle 191 f.

Page(s): 168-169

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ren-

Meaning: to stick out; edge

Note: as b<sup>h</sup>er- ds.

Material: Ir. braine 'front part of the ship; guide, leader; edge, border', corn. brenniat ds. (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

With formants t: Latin frōns, -tis m., new f. 'the forehead, brow, front'; Old Icelandic brandr 'sword' (*b<sup>h</sup>ron-tó-); in wider meaning 'stick, board; sword' against it probably from *b<sup>h</sup>ron<sup>h</sup>o- to b<sup>h</sup>erd<sup>h</sup>- 'cut, clip'.

With formants d: Old English brant, Old Icelandic brattr 'high, sharp' (*b<sup>h</sup>rondos), Latvian bruôdiņš 'ridge of the roof'.

b<sup>h</sup>ren-q-: Germanic **branha-* in Old Swedish brā-, New Swedish brå- 'sharp' in PN; Old Icelandic bringa 'breast, thorax, breastbone of birds', nisl. bringr 'small hill';

maybe alb. (*b<sup>h</sup>ren) brinjë 'rib, chest bone, hillside'

Note:

Alb. proves that from Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ren-to-s: 'herdsman, *wanderer, *horn' derived from an extended Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ren-: 'to stick out; edge'.

Lithuanian brankà 'the swelling', brankšóti, branksóti 'jut out stiffly (of bones, laths)'; ablaut. brinkstu, brinkti 'to swell'; Slavic **bręknq*, **bręknqti* in russ. nabráknutʹ 'to bloat, bulge, swell' etc.

b<sup>h</sup>ren-g- perhaps in Old Icelandic brekka (**brinkōn*) 'steep hill', Old Danish brink, brank 'upright', Middle English nengl. brink 'edge, border, bank, shore', Middle Low German brink 'edge of a field, field margin, meadow', Middle Dutch brinc, Modern Dutch brink 'edge, grass strip, border of grass, grass field'.

References: WP. II 203 f., WH. I 551, Trautmann 36.

Page(s): 167

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>res-

Meaning: to break

Material: Middle Irish brosc, broscarm. 'din, fuss, noise'; compare also blosc under b<sup>h</sup>los- q;

Old High German brestan 'break, crack, break, rupture', unpers. 'lack, defect ', Old English berstan ds., Old Icelandic bersta 'break, crack, creak'; Old High German brest(o) 'disability, defect ',

Modern High German Gebrester; Old High German brust 'break, defect ', Old English byrst m. 'damage'; Old High German brastōn 'crackle ', Old Icelandic brasta 'rant, roister, brag, boast'; without -t Norwegian bras n. 'clatter, brushwood '; with -k: Norwegian brisk 'juniper '; Middle High German braschen 'crack, creak, cry, brag, boast';

Lithuanian braškėti etc, see below b<sup>h</sup>reġ-1.

References: WP. I 206.

Page(s): 169

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reu-k- (-k-)

Meaning: to strike; to throw

Note: only Balto-Slavic, probably extension from b<sup>h</sup>rēu-1. For -k- compare above S. 18 Anm.

Material: Lithuanian braukiù braukiaũ braũkti 'whisk, stroke; move slowly '; Latvian brāucu brāuču brāukt 'move'; ablaut. Lithuanian brukù brukaũ brũkti 'wave flax, wedge ', Latvian brukt 'crumble ', brucināt 'abrade, stroke the scythe';

Iterat. Lithuanian braukýti, Latvian braũcūt 'stroke' (with unoriginal intonation) and Lithuanian brūkis m. 'stripe, line', Latvian brūce f. 'scratch, scar', in addition Lithuanian brūknė, bruknis f., Latvian brūklene f. 'cranberry ';

Slavic **brušq* **brusiti* (originally iterative) in Bulgarian brúsja (brusich) 'shake off, get rid of, beat off, chop, cut, reject', Serbo-Croatian brûsim brúsim 'whet', Czech broušiti ds., in addition Old Church Slavic ubrusъ 'veronica (the impression of the face of Jesus believed by some to be miraculously made on a head - cloth with which St Veronica wiped his face as he went to his crucifixion; the cloth used for this) ', Serbo-Croatian brûs (Gen. brûsa), russ. brus (Gen. brûsa; mostly brusók) 'grindstone, whetstone'; russ. etc brusníka 'cranberry' ('lightly strippable'); ablaut. r.-Church Slavic brъsnuti 'scrape, shave', russ. brosátъ (dial. brokátъ), brósítъ 'throw', brósnutъ 'peel flax', bros 'offal' etc in ablaut to Bulgarian brъśъ 'rub off'. With û the iterative grade: Old Church Slavic sъ-brysati 'scrape', brysalo 'a painter's brush or pencil; style'.

Perhaps here Serbo-Croatian-Church Slavic brutъ 'nail', Bulgarian brut ds. as **bruktъ*, compare to meaning Lithuanian brùkti 'put by force', to form Latvian braukts 'knife for cleaning the flax'.

Maybe alb. (**breuks*) pres 'cut, peel', mpreh 'whet, sharpen', mbreh 'harness, yoke, put by force' [common alb. p- > mp-, b- > mb- shift], mbres 'bruise, beat'.

Perhaps here the Illyrian VN Breuci, PN Breucus and the gall. PN Βρευκό-μαγος, today Brumath (Alsace); in addition places Krahe (Gl. 17, 159) Illyrian VN Βρεῦνοι: Breones (from **Breuones*).

Note:

Illyrian VN Βρεῦνοι: Breones (from **Breuones*) evolved according to alb. phonetic laws -t > -nt > -n hence **Breuones* < **Breuontes*. But only alb. displays the common -k > -th, -t shift found in Illyrian VN Breuci: Illyrian VN Βρεῦνοι (from **Breuones*), hence alb. is a dialect of Illyrian Both alb. and older Illyrian display centum and satem characteristics.

Finally gall. PN Βρευκό-μαγος, today Brumath (Alsace); has evolved according to Illyrian alb. phonetic laws -g > -th as alb. (mag-) math 'big'.

About russ. brykátъ 'kick, reject' etc s. Berneker 93.

References: WP. II 197, Trautmann 36 f., Pokorny Urillyrier 119.

Page(s): 170

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reu-s-1

Meaning: to swell

Note: (compare above b<sup>h</sup>reu-)

Material: Old Irish brū f., Gen. bronn 'belly, body' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (**b<sup>h</sup>rus-ā[n]*: -n-os), brūach 'big-bellied' (**brusākos*), cymr. bru m. 'venter, uterus' (**b<sup>h</sup>reuso-*); Old Irish bruinne 'breast' (**b<sup>h</sup>rusnjo-*), acymr. ncymr. bronn f. 'breast', bret. bronn, bron ds.

(*b<sup>h</sup>rusnā) in place names also 'round hill', mcymr. brynn, ncymr. bryn m. (*b<sup>h</sup>rusnjo-) 'hill' (from Celtic derives Gothic brunjō f. '(breast)-armor', Old High German brunja, brunna 'coat of mail');

Maybe alb. (**bryn*) brinjë 'rib, side': alb. Geg (**bryn*) brinī, Pl. brina, alb. Tosc brirë 'horn': Gothic brunjō f. '(breast)-armor'.

Old Irish brollach 'bosom' (*b<sup>h</sup>rus-lo- with formants-āko-); Middle Irish brūasach 'with large, wide breast' (from b<sup>h</sup>reus-to- = Old Saxon brīost).

Middle High German brīustern 'swell up', Old Icelandic ā-brysturf. Pl. 'beestings' (also broddr ds. from **bruz-da-z*), Swiss briescht ds. (besides briesch ds. from *b<sup>h</sup>reus-ko-); Old Saxon brīost N. Pl., Old English brēost, Old Icelandic brīōst 'breast', zero grade Gothic brusts f. Pl., Old High German brust, Modern High German Brust, Old Saxon brustian 'bud' (Slavic **brъstъ* 'bud'), Modern High German Brös-chen (from md.) 'mammary gland of cows', schwäb. Brüste, Bavarian Brüsel, Briesel, Bries ds., Danish brissel, Swedish kalfbräss, with k-suffix Danish bryske, engl. brisket 'breast of the animals'.

Old Icelandic brīōsk 'gristle', Middle High German brūsche, Modern High German Brausche 'swelling, blister', Modern High German dial. brausche, brauschig 'swollen; of style, turgid, bombastic, torose', brauschen 'swell up'.

Russ. brjúcho 'lower abdomen, belly, paunch', dial. brjúchnutъ 'yield, gush, well up, to bloat, bulge, swell', Czech alt. břuch, břucho, nowadays břich, břicho 'belly' etc (*b<sup>h</sup>reuso-s, -m); here also klr. brost f. dial. brost m. 'bud', Bulgarian brъs(t) m. 'young sprouts', Serbo-Croatian břst m. ds., břstina 'foliage, leaves'.

here klr. brost f. dial. brost m. 'bud', Bulgarian Brъs(t) m. 'younger shoots', Serbo-Croatian br ^ st m. ds., břstina 'foliage'.

References: WP. II 197 f., Feist 107 f., 108 f.

Page(s): 170-171

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reu-s-2

Meaning: to break

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>reū-1.

Material: Alb. breshën, breshër 'hail', if actually 'granule, mica' (e = Indo Germanic eu); Latin frustum 'a bit, piece, morsel, gobbet' (from *b<sup>h</sup>rus-to-);

Old Irish brūu 'shatter, smash' (*b<sup>h</sup>rūšjō, gall. brus-, French bruise), Middle Irish brūire, brūile 'piece, fragment', bruan ds., bruar 'fragment, broken piece', broсна (**brus-tonjo-*) 'faggot, brushwood bundle', gall. **bruskjā* 'undergrowth, brushwood', Old French broce ds., Middle Irish brusc 'tiny bit' etc; Old Irish bronnaim 'damage' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (*b<sup>h</sup>rusnām) (subjunctive robria from **bris-* 'break, rupture' borrows, see below b<sup>h</sup>rēi-); mcymr. breu, ncymr. brau 'frail, easily broken', mcor. brew 'broken' (*b<sup>h</sup>rōuso-); Middle Breton brusun 'tiny bit' (**brous-t-*);

Old English briesan (**brausjan*), brȳsan (**brūsjan*) 'break, rupture trans., shatter', engl. bruise 'injure', probably also Old High German brōsma, Middle High German brōsem, brōseme, brōsme 'bit, flake, crumb'; Old English brosnian 'molder'.

References: WP. II 198 f., WH. I 553.

Page(s): 171

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reus-3, b<sup>h</sup>rūs-

Meaning: to boil; to sound, etc.

Note: esp. in Germanic words; perhaps to b<sup>h</sup>reu-s-1; also a new onomatopoeic word could have helped (similarly akr. brújīm, brújiti 'buzz, hum from an swarm of bees', Berneker 89).

Material: Middle High German brūsen 'boom, blaster, roar', brūs 'the boom', ndd. brūsen 'boom, blaster, simmer, seethe, boil; be hasty (from people); spread out, grow new shoot (from plants); sprinkle, besprinkle' (compare Modern High German Brause) (out of it Danish bruse ds.), Dutch bruisen, previous bruischen 'foam, froth, bubble, roar, boom, blaster', ndd. brūsken ds., Middle High German brūsche 'douche, shower, spray, sprinkler', Old Swedish brūsa 'storm ahead', Norwegian Dialectal brōsa 'storm gust', Old Icelandic brusi 'he-goat, billy goat', isl. bruskr 'tussock, besom', engl. brush 'bristle brush, paintbrush, brush, tail (of foxes)', brushwood 'shrubbery, bush, shrubbery', Middle English bruschen, engl. to brush 'comb with a brush', Norwegian dial. brauska, bruska and brausta, brusta 'make room, rush out forcefully'; Swedish bruska 'rustle, rant, roister'.

With Germanic **bruska-z* 'brushwood', **bruskan* 'crackle, rustle' (-sk- could be Indo Germanic zg) one compares the Balto-Slavic groups Lithuanian brūzgai Pl. 'brushwood', briauzgà 'babbler', bruzgù, -ėti 'rustle', russ. brjuzgáju, -átb 'mumble, murmur', brjužžátb 'drone, grumble, murmur, growl' etc; yet are the verb perhaps are only Balto-Slavic onomatopoeic word formation. Because of the Germanic meaning 'spray' is perhaps on the other hand to be compared with russ. brýzgaju, -atb 'spray, sprinkle, bubble' etc.

References: WP. II 199 f., Trautmann 38.

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>reu-, b<sup>h</sup>reu-d-

Meaning: to swell, sprout

Material: Latin frutex, -icis m. 'a shrub, bush; as a term of reproach, blockhead' based on probably on a participle *b<sup>h</sup>rūtós 'sprouted out'; Old Irish broth 'awn, hair'; here d-present: Middle High German briezen, brōz 'bud, swell', Old High German Middle High German broz 'bud, sprout'.

References: WP. II 195, WH. I 554.

See also: compare b<sup>h</sup>reu-s-1 'to swell', b<sup>h</sup>rughno- 'twig, branch'.

Page(s): 169

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rēi-, b<sup>h</sup>rī-

Meaning: to pierce, cut with smth. sharp

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>er-.

Material: Old Indic bhrīṇánti 'be hurt' (Pf. bibhrāya Dhātup.), Avestan pairibrīnənti 'be cut all around', brōiθrō-taēža- 'dashing sharply', Middle Persian brīn 'determined, fixed'. Maybe alb. Geg pre- 'pierce, cut'

Thrak. (?) βριλών 'barber'.

Latin friō, -āre 'rub, grind, crumb, spall, crumble', fricō, -āre 'to rub, rub down, rub off' (from **fri-co-s* 'rubbing, scraping'), refrīva faba 'ground bean', frīvolus (from **frī-vo-s* 'trituated'), 'breakable, trifling, worthless; n. pl. as subst. sticks of furniture'.

Maybe alb. (***frico-*) fērkonj 'rub' possible Latin loanword.

With frīvolus to be compared cymr. brīw 'broke; wound'; brīwo 'break, rupture, injure'; with s-extension here gall.-Latin brīsāre 'break, shatter', French briser etc gallorom. **briscāre* 'curdle, coagulate, harden', Swiss bretschi ds. (Wartburg), Old Irish brissid 'breaks' (from participle Pert. **bristo-*), Middle Irish bress f. 'din, fuss, noise, fight, struggle', breissem ds., Old Irish PN Bres-(u)al (**bristo-ualos*), corn. Middle Breton bresel 'fight', bret. bresa 'quarrel', Middle Irish brise 'frail, breakable', br. bresk ds.; compare the parallel formation under b<sup>h</sup>reus-2.

Hereupon probably also cymr. brwydr 'fight, struggle', Old Irish briathar 'word, *argument' as *b<sup>h</sup>rei-trā 'quarrel, argument' (to cymr. brwyd 'torn, perforates'), compare Lithuanian bárti 'scold, chide', refl. 'be quarrelsome', Old Church Slavic brati 'fight', s. b<sup>h</sup>er-2.

Maybe alb. Geg brit, Tosc bértas 'to scold, chide, quarrel, yell' : Lithuanian bárti 'scold, chide'.

Here presumably Middle Dutch brīne, Modern Dutch brijn, Middle English brīne, nengl. brine 'salted water, salt brine' (from the sharp taste like partly Slavic bridъ).

Maybe alb. brinjë 'rib', alb. Geg brini, Tosc briri 'sharp horn'.

Old Church Slavic britva 'razor', russ.-Church Slavic briju, briti 'shave, shear', bričъ 'razor'; Old Church Slavic bridъ 'δριμός', russ.-Dialectal bridkój 'sharp, cold', Serbo-Croatian bridak 'sharp, sour'; Old Church Slavic brъselije 'shards', russ.-Church Slavic brъselije, brъselъ 'shard' (proto Slavic. also probably **brъselъ*) as **b<sup>h</sup>ri-d-selo-*.

Maybe alb. brisk 'razor' a Slavic loanword.

ġ-extension b<sup>h</sup>rei-ġ-presumably in Lithuanian brėžiu, brėšti 'scratch, scrape', lter. braiž-, -yti ds., and Old Icelandic brīk f. 'board, low wooden wall, low bar'; compare with **b<sup>h</sup>rei-ġ*-parallel ġ-extension the einf. root b<sup>h</sup>er- in Latvian beriu, berzu, berzt 'rub, scour, clean' and gr. φοργάνη ἡ ἀραιότης Hes. and auf a k-extension **b<sup>h</sup>rei-k*-traceable gr. φρίκες χάρακες Hes.; brėšti not better with Indo Germanic b- to Old English prica 'point', Middle Low German pricken, Middle High German pfrecken 'prick' etc, besides that with other root auslaut Norwegian Dialectal prisa 'prick, stir, tease, irritate', preima, preina 'banter, stir, tease, irritate' etc (about age and origin Germanic words nothing is certain).

References: WP. II 194 f., WH. 116, 549, Vendryes RC 29, 206.

Page(s): 166-167

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rēu-1, b<sup>h</sup>rū-

Meaning: to pierce, break

Note: extension from b<sup>h</sup>er-

Material: Old Indic bhrūṇá-m 'embryo' (named after the burst caul);

Middle High German briune, brüne 'lower abdomen, vulva'; Old High German brōdi 'frail, breakable' (**b<sup>h</sup>rou-tjo-*), Old Icelandic broma 'piece, fragment' (**b<sup>h</sup>rumōn*); a t-present in Old English breoðan 'break, rupture'; probably d-present based on Germanic family of Old English brēotan 'break, rupture', Old Icelandic brīōta 'break, rupture', broti m. 'heap of felled trees, barrier', brautf. 'way, alley' (compare Modern High German Bahn brechen, French route from rupta), breyta (**brautjan*) `alter, change, modify', breyskr `frail, breakable, brittle'; Old High German bruzī, bruzzi `fragileness'; Old Icelandic brytia = Old English bryttian `divide, share, allot, distribute'; Old Icelandic bryti m. `colter, plough coulter, pre-pruner, i.e. the most distinguished of the farmhands; kind of estate manager, land agent' = agsl. brytta m. `dispenser, distributor'.

To Germanic **breutan* perhaps also Old Irish fris-brudi `reject'.

Latvian braūna, braūņa `scurf, dandruff, flake, scale, abandoned skin or shell, caul, entrails' (basic meaning `scrapings', compare Slavic brъsnъti `scrape, stripe' under b<sup>h</sup>reu-k-);

Czech br-n-ka (**b<sup>h</sup>run-*) `placenta, afterbirth'.

References: WP. II 195 f., W. Schulze KZ. 50, 259 = Kl. Schr. 216.

See also: S. the extension b<sup>h</sup>reu-k-, b<sup>h</sup>reu-s-2.

Page(s): 169

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rēu-2, b<sup>h</sup>rū-

Meaning: edge

Note: The group is extended from b<sup>h</sup>er- `stand up; edge'.

Material: Old Irish brū `edge, bank, border, shore', bruach ds. (**brū-āko-*);

Old Icelandic brūn `edge', whereof brýna `whet', brýni `whetstone'; Old English Middle High German brūn `sharp' (from weapons).

Lithuanian briaunà `edge, border, cornice' (**b<sup>h</sup>rēunā*), ablaut. with Old Icelandic brūn.

Maybe alb. brini `horn', brinjë `side, rib, edge'.

References: WP. II 196 f., W. Schulze KZ. 50, 259 = Kl. Schr. 216.

Page(s): 170

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>roisqo-, b<sup>h</sup>risqo-

Meaning: bitter

Material: Russ.-Church Slavic obrězgnuti, obrъzgnuti `become sauer', Czech břesk `sharp taste', poln. brzazg `unpleasant, sharp taste; bad mood', russ. brezgátъ (old brězgatī) `nauseate, feel disgust';

Maybe alb. Geg (prezi) përzi `to nauseate, feel disgust'.

at first to Norwegian brisk 'bitter taste', briske 'bitter, sharp'; probably to b<sup>h</sup>rē- 'cut, clip' (as Middle Dutch brīne 'salt water, brine').

Maybe alb. brisk, brisqe Pl. 'sharp, bitter; razor', brisqe Pl. 'razors'

References: WP. II 206.

Page(s): 172

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rugh-no-

Meaning: twig

Note: perhaps in relationship to b<sup>h</sup>reu- 'sprout'

Material: Cymr. brwyn-en f. 'bulrush', acorn. brunnen gl. 'juncus, bulrush', bret. broenn-enn ds. (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (from Proto Celtic **brugno-*); Old English brogn(e) f. 'twig, branch, bush', Norwegian dial. brogn(e) 'tree branch, clover stalk, raspberry bush'.

References: WP. II 208.

Page(s): 174

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rūg-

Meaning: fruit

Note: perhaps oldest 'to cut off or peel off fruit for eating' and then to **b<sup>h</sup>reu-* 'cut, clip' (compare there to meaning Old Indic bhārvati 'chews, consumes', also Balto Slavic **b<sup>h</sup>reu-q-*, -k- 'graze over, chip')

Material: Latin frūx, -gis f. 'fruit' = Umbrian Akk Pl. frif, fri 'fruits', Latin frūgī (Dat. * 'useful, honest, discreet, moderate' =) 'fruitful', fruor, -i, fructus and fruitus sum 'relish' (from **frūg<sup>w</sup>or*, which has entered for **frūgor*?), frūniscor 'relish' (**frūg-nīscor*), frūmentum 'corn, grain', Oscan fruktatiuf (**frūgetātiōns*) 'fructus'.

Maybe alb. (**frūg-*) fruth 'measles, breaking of the skin (disease of fruit and humans?)', frut 'fruit' [common alb. -k-, -g > -th, -dh shift]

Gothic brūkjan, Old High German brūhhan, Old Saxon brūkan, Old English brūcan 'need, lack', Gothic brūks, Old High German brūhhi, Old English brȳce 'usable'.

References: WP. II 208, WH. I 552 f.

Page(s): 173

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rū-1 (**h<sub>e</sub>b<sup>h</sup>rū-1*)

Meaning: brow

Note:

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rū-1 (**h<sub>e</sub>b<sup>h</sup>rū-1*): brow, derived from the animate suffixed -ru of Root /

lemma: ok<sup>w</sup> : to see; eye. According to gr.s -k<sup>w</sup> > -p, -g<sup>w</sup> > -b;

Note: partly with initial vowel, Indo Germanic o- or a- (full root form?); after Persson Beitr.

17 lies a dark composition part **ok<sup>w</sup>* 'eye' (with. consonant-Assimilation) before.

Material:

In e- grade:

npers. ebrū, brū ds. (Hübschmann IA. 10, 24); (**h<sub>1</sub>ebru-*)

In zero grade:

Old Indic bhrū-ḥ f., Akk. bhrúv-am 'brow', Avestan brvat- f. (Du.) 'brows'.

Maybe zero grade alb. vrenjt (**vrenk-*) 'frown' common alb. -kh > t. : Khotanese: brrauka-lā

'brow' : Sogdian: (Buddh.) βr'wkh 'eyebrow' (**brū-kā-*) : Other Iranian cognates: Khwar.

(')βrwc [pl.tantum] 'eyebrow'; San. vrīc 'eyebrow'.

In o- grade:

gr. ὄφρῦς, -ύος f. 'brow', figurative 'raised edge, hill edge' (after Meillet BSL 27, 129 f. with gr. vocal prothesis?); maked. ὀβροῦτες 'on the brow or edge of a steep rock, beetling' (changed from Kretschmer Einl. 287 in ὀβρούτης; held on from Meillet, s.Boisacq 733 Anm. 3, because of the otherwise stated form ὀβροτες and because of Avestan brvat-);

Serbo-Croatian-Church Slavic obrъvъ, Serbo-Croatian öbrva etc 'brow'.

In zero grade:

Old English brū, Old Icelandic brūn, Pl. brynn 'brow' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (conservative stem, from **bruwūn-*).

Lithuanian bruvīs m. 'brow', žem. also brūnės Pl., Old Prussian wubrif. 'eyelash' (seems a metathesis from **bruwi*);

Old Bulgarian brъvъ (originally Nom. **bry*, as kry: krъvъ).

An e- Abl. b<sup>h</sup>ryē- with syllabic become r regards Trautmann KZ. 44, 223 in Lithuanian birwe = bruvīs.

In a- grade:

unclear are Middle Irish Pl. abrait (**abrant-es* or **abrantī*) 'eyelids, brows', likewise mbr. abrant 'brow', cymr. amrant 'eyelid'

In zero grade:

Middle Irish brūd Gen. Du., brāi, brōi Nom. Du. f. 'brows' (to diphthong s. Thurneysen Grammar 199), Old Irish forbru Akk. Pl. (*b<sup>h</sup>rūns : Akk. ḫpūṣ), forbrú Gen. Pl. 'eyebrows'; Specht (Dekl. 83, 162) would like to put to Latin frōns 'the forehead, brow, front'; but vocalism and meaning deviate;

Tocharian A pärwān-, B pärwāne (Dual) 'eyebrows'

References: WP. II 206 f., Trautmann 38.

Page(s): 172-173

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>rū-2, b<sup>h</sup>rēu-

Meaning: beam, bridge

Material: Old Icelandic brū f. 'bridge'; Old Icelandic bryggia 'wharf, pier' nnd. brügge ds., Old High German brucca, Old Saxon -bruggia, Old English brycg 'bridge', Bavarian Bruck 'Bretterbank am Ofen', Old English brycgian 'pave' (originally with thrashed wood), Swiss brügi (Old High German **brugī*) 'wood scaffolding', brügel 'wooden log', Middle High German brügel 'cudgel, club', Modern High German Prügel ('bridge' is also 'balk, rod; track made of beams'); gall. brīva 'bridge' (*b<sup>h</sup>rēua);

Old Bulgarian бръвѣно 'balk, beam', Serbo-Croatian bŕv f. 'balk, beam, bridge made of beams' (etc, s. about Slavic forms Berneker 92).

Unclear is the guttural in the Germanic forms: **brugī*- from **bruyī*-, or k-suffix? S. Kluge<sup>11</sup> under 'Brücke = bridge' and Specht Dekl. 211<sup>3</sup> f., accepts the connection with b<sup>h</sup>rū-1.

References: WP. II 207.

Page(s): 173

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>-m(e)n

Meaning: bottom

Note: single-linguistic in part to **b<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>-mo-*, partly to **b<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>-no-*, besides with already Indo Germanic metathesis **b<sup>h</sup>und<sup>h</sup>o- > *b<sup>h</sup>undo-* ?

Material: Old Indic budhná-ḥ 'ground, bottom'; Avestan būnō ds. (*b<sup>h</sup>und<sup>h</sup>no-), out of it borrows Armenian bun ds., during Armenian an-dund-k 'abyss' from *b<sup>h</sup>und<sup>h</sup>- seems assimilated. From proto iran. *bund<sup>h</sup>as derives tscherem. pundaš 'bottom, ground '.

Gr. πυθμήν (*φουθ-) m. 'bottom, sole, base of a vessel', πύνδαξ m. ds. (for φύνδαξ after πυθμήν Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 71, 333).

Maked. PN Πύδνα (*b<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>nā), dissimil. Κύδνα?

Latin fundus, -ī m. 'ground; the bottom or base of anything; a farm, estate' (*b<sup>h</sup>und<sup>h</sup>os), profundus 'deep' = Middle Irish bond, bonn m. 'sole, foundation, groundwork, basis, pad, prop '. (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Maybe alb. (**fundus*), fund 'bottom, end', fundos 'sink ' Latin loanwords.

Old High German bodam, Modern High German Boden, Old Saxon bodom, Old English **boðm* > Middle English bothem m. besides Old English botm m. > engl. bottom and Old English bodan 'bottom, ground',

Maybe alb. (bod-) botë 'bottom, ground, earth, world'

Old Norse botn 'bottom', Old English byðme 'bilge, floor, bottom ' besides bytme, bytne ds., Old Icelandic bytna 'to come to the bottom ', with unclear dental change; it seems to lie a basic proto Germanic **buþma-*, probably is to be explained analogically; compare Petersson Heterokl. 18, Sievers-Brunner 167, Kluge<sup>11</sup> under siedeln. About Modern High German Bühne, originally 'wooden floor (made from floorboards) ', angebl. from Germanic **bunī*, Indo Germanic **bud<sup>h</sup>niā*, s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Bühne.

References: WP. II 190, WH. I 564 f., 867, Porzig WuS. 15, 112 ff. (against it Kretschmer Gl. 22, 116); compare also Vendryes MSL. 18, 305 ff.

Page(s): 174

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>ūgo-s, nickname b<sup>h</sup>ukko-s

Meaning: goat

Grammatical information: (fem. In -ā 'goat, nanny goat ')

Material: Zigeun. buzni 'goat'; Avestan būza m. 'he-goat', npers. buz 'goat, he-goat; billy goat ';

Armenian buz 'lamb';

Middle Irish bocc, pocc, nir. boc, poc, cymr. bwch, corn. boch, bret. bouc'h `he-goat; billy goat ', in addition Middle Irish boccānach `ghost, bogeyman ';

Germanic **bukka-* (after Pedersen Litteris 7, 23 f. borrowed from Celtic?) in Old Icelandic bukkr, bokkr, bokki, Old English bucca, nengl. buck, Old High German Middle High German boc, -ekes, Modern High German Bock.

The aberrant consonant in Old Indic bukka-h `he-goat' (uncovered) is probably from bukkati `barks ' (see below beu-1, bu-) influenced hypocoristic reshuffling **b<sup>h</sup>ūja-* = Avestan būza-. Also npers. dial. boča `young goat', pām. buč, büč seem to be a result of similar reorganization.

References: WP. II 189 f., Pedersen Litteris 7, 23 f., Martinet Gémiation 182.

Page(s): 174

---

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>erug-, b<sup>h</sup>rug-, b<sup>h</sup>org-

Meaning: throat

Material: Armenian erbuc `breast, brisket of killed animals ' (**b<sup>h</sup>rugo-*); gr. φάρυξ, -υγος, later (after λάρυγξ) φάρυγξ, -υγγος `windpipe, gullet'; Latin frūmen n. `(a gruel or porridge made of corn, and used in sacrifices) larynx, gullet' (**frūg-smen*); without u Old Icelandic barki `neck ' (b<sup>h</sup>or-g-, formally closer to φάρυγξ `cleft, gap, abyss ')

Similar to Lithuanian burnà, Armenian beran `mouth' (actually `orifice ') to b<sup>h</sup>er- `cut, clip' under conception `cleft, gap = gullet'.

References: WP. II 171, WH. I 482, 551 f., 866, Lidén Mél. Pedersen 92, Specht Dekl. 162.

Page(s): 145

---

Root / lemma: bis-(t)li-

Meaning: gall

Material: Latin bīlis (**bislis*, older **bistlis*) f. `gall, bile'; cymr. bustl m., acorn. bistel, bret. bestl (**bis-tlo-*, -tli-) `gall'; gallo-rom. **bistlos* (Wartburg).

References: WP. II 111, WH. I 105 f.

Page(s): 102

---

Root / lemma: blat-

Meaning: to chat

Material: Latin blaterō, -āre ` chatter, babble, empty gossip; also from shout of the camel, ram, frog', blatiō, -īre `babble, prattle ';

mnnd. plad(d)eren `chat, prate', nndd. pladdern `splash, besprinkle ', Swedish pladder ` loose gossip', Danish bladre `spread lose gossip ', older also `splash', lacking of consonant shift in onomatopoeic word.

Similar to onomatopoeic words are nnd. plapperen (Modern High German plappern), Middle High German plappen and blappen, Old High German blabizōn `babble' and mnnd. plūderēn `babble' (Middle High German plūdern, Modern High German plaudern).

compare with partly similar meaning b<sup>h</sup>lēd- ` to bubble up, chat', b<sup>h</sup>el- `sound' and bał, bał-bał under baba- (e.g. Lithuanian blebėnti with Modern High German plappern similar formation).

References: WP. II 120, WH. I 109.

Page(s): 102

---

Root / lemma: blē- (**b<sup>h</sup>leh<sub>1</sub>-* > b<sup>h</sup>le- > b<sup>h</sup>lek-o-; b<sup>h</sup>lek-ot-o-)

Meaning: to bleat

Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>lē- : ` to howl, weep' > Root / lemma: blē- : ` to bleat'; hence the support for the glottal theory b<sup>h</sup>- > b-.

Note: imitation of the sheep sound with different guttural extensions; in the Germanic with consonant shift omitted as a result of continual new imitation.

Material: Gr. βληχάομαι `bleat', βληχή ` the bleating '; russ. (etc) blekati (old), blekotátʹ `bleat'; mnnd. bleken, blöken `bleat, bark, bay' (out of it Modern High German blöken), Norwegian Dialectal blækta (**blēkatjan*) `bleat'; alb. bl'egërás ds.

Note:

in -m- formant:

alb. blegërimë ` the bleating ' : Gr. βληχάομαι `bleat' [common gr. χ > alb. g-].

Proto-Slavic form: blekъ; blekotъ; blekota

Page in Trubačev: II 108-109

Russian: blëkot (dial.) `henbane' [m o]; blekótá (dial.) `chatterbox' [m/f o]

Belorussian: blëkat `henbane, hemlock' [m o]

Ukrainian: blëkit `poison hemlock' [m o]; blëkot `henbane' [m o]; blekotá `poison hemlock, henbane' [f ā]

Czech: blek `bleating' [m o]; blekot `shouter, babbler' [m o]; blekota `grumbler' [f ā]

Old Czech: blekot `chatter, grumbling, chatterbox, grumbler' [m o]

Slovak: bl'akot `bleating, bellowing' [m o]

Polish: blekot `fool's parsley, henbane, (arch.) stammerer, chatterbox' [m o]

Upper Sorbian: blek `henbane' [m o]; blik `henbane' [m o]; blekot `muttering, babble' [m o]

Bulgarian: blek (dial.) `henbane' [m o]

Serbo-Croatian: blék `bleating' [m o]; blè`kēt `bleating' [m o]

Slovene: blék `flock (sheep)' [m o]

References: WP. II 120 f., WH. I 95.

See also: compare also b<sup>h</sup>/ē- `howl' etc

Page(s): 102

---

Root / lemma: blou- (b<sup>h</sup>lou-?), plou- (**b<sup>h</sup>lou-ks-eh<sub>2</sub>*)

Meaning: flea

Note: With k- and s- suffixes and taboo metathesis and anlaut alteration.

Material: With p-: Old Indic plúṣi-, Armenian lu (**plus-*), alb. plesht, Latin pūlex, Indo Germanic **plouk-* in Old High German flôh, Old English fléah.

Note:

Common Armenian Celtic (often alb.) initial pl- > l-, see Root / lemma: plab-: to babble, etc.. Old Irish (**plabar*) labar `talkative'.

Notes: In Polish dialects, we find a large variety of forms, e.g. pcha, pła, ptecha, btecha, btcha.

Formations in e- grade:

alb. plesht: Polish ptecha `flea'.

With b (or b<sup>h</sup>?): afgh. vraža, gr. φύλλα (**blusiā*), Balto-Slavic **blusā* in Lithuanian blusà, Latvian blusa, Prussian PN Blus-kaym, russ.-Church Slavic bľcha, Serbo-Croatian bùha, russ. btochá.

References: Meillet MSL. 22, 142, 539 f., Trautmann 35, Specht Dekl. 42 f., 203, 235.

Page(s): 102

---

Root / lemma: bol-

Meaning: tuber

Material: Armenian botk `radish', gr. βολβός `onion, bulb' (also βόλβιτος, dissimilated Attic βόλιτος `crap, muck, dung', , if possibly originally from nanny goats or horses?), βῶλος, βῶλαξ `clod of earth'; Old Indic bálba-ja-h `Eleusine indica, a type of grass', if `nodules coming out from the root'?, Latin bulbus `onion, bulb, tuber' is borrowed from βολβός.

Redukt.-grade or with Assimil. in Vok. the 2. syllable Armenian palar ` pustule, bubble '.

References: WP. II 111 f., WH. I 122.

Page(s): 103

---

Root / lemma: brangh-, brongh-?

Meaning: hoarse?

Material: Gr. βράγχος `hoarseness', βραγχάω `be hoarse', Old Irish brong(a)ide `hoarse'; but gr. Aor. ἔβραχε `cracks' probably stays away.

References: WP. I 683 f., II 119.

Page(s): 103

---

Root / lemma: breuq-

Meaning: to jump, *throw, thrust, poke, touch, run

Material: Perhaps combined so gr. βροῦκος, βρεῦκος (βραῦκος), βρύκος `locust, grasshopper' (βροῦχος probably after βρῦχω `crunches with the teeth', and sloven. břknem, břkniti, břkam, břkati, břcati `bump with the feet, kick, shoot the way up with the fingers, touch');

Maybe Illyrian TN Breuci: so gr. βρεῦκος `locust, grasshopper (mythological monster?); alb. (**breuk*) prek `touch, frisk, violate', pres `crunches with the teeth, cut' [taboo word]:

Slovene: břsati `lead, touch': Lithuanian: brùkti `poke, thrust, press, scutch (flax)' [verb];

Russian: brosát' `throw, (dial.) scutch flax' [verb]; brokát' (dial.) `throw' [verb]; Serbo-

Croatian: břcati `throw' [verb];

russ. brykáť `kick with the back leg', klr. brykáty `frisk mischievously, run' etc

Note:

Maybe the original cognate was of Baltic - Illyrian origin: Lithuanian: braũktas `wooden knife for cleaning flax' [m o], braũkti `erase, scutch (flax)', brùkti `poke, thrust, press, scutch (flax)' [verb]

References: WP. II 119, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 251 f.

Page(s): 103

---

Root / lemma: bronk-

Meaning: to lock

Material: Gothic anapraggan `press' to **pranga-* `restriction, constriction' in Old Swedish prang `narrow alley', Middle English prange `narrowness', engl. dial. proug `menu fork', Maybe alb. pranga `restriction, fetter, chain, handcuff': germ Pranger `pillory' mndd. prangen 'press', pranger 'pole', Middle High German pfrengen 'wedge', Old High German pfragina 'bar, gate, barrier', to Lithuanian braĩktas m. 'pole for hanging (*gallows)', Latvian brankti (Lithuanian loanword) 'fitting tightly'.

References: WP. II 119, 677 f., Feist 43, Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Pranger.

Page(s): 103

---

Root / lemma: bu-

Meaning: lip, kiss

Note: as an imitation of the kiss sound, bursting of the sucking lip fastener from inside, thus actually differently from bu-, b<sup>h</sup>u- 'inflate' with normal spraying after outside.

Root / lemma: bu- : 'lip, kiss' derived from Root / lemma: ku-, kus- (**k<sup>w</sup>uk<sup>w</sup>h-*): 'to kiss' common Celtic - Greek k<sup>w</sup>- > p-.

Material: Npers. bōsīdan 'kiss'; alb. buzë 'lip';

Maybe alb. (**pus*) puth 'kiss' [common alb. -s > -th shift] : Swedish puss 'kiss'.

Middle Irish bus, pus 'lip', būsóc, pusóc 'kiss' (in addition presumably gall. PN Bussumāros and buđđutton 'mouth, kiss');

Modern High German Buss 'kiss', bussen 'kiss', Busserl 'kiss', engl. buss, Swedish (with regular consonant shift) puss 'kiss'; Lithuanian bučiúoti 'kiss', buč the onomatopoeic word, sound of the kiss dental interjection. poln. buzia 'mouth, face; kiss'.

Note:

The same phonetic construction for poln. buzia 'mouth, face; kiss' : alb. buzë, buza 'lip' : Rumanian buză 'lip'.

References: WP. I 113 f., WH. II 98.

Page(s): 103

---

Root / lemma: dakru-

Meaning: tears

Grammatical information: n.

Material:

Gr. δάκρυ, δάκρυον, δάκρυμα 'tears'; out of it borrows Old Latin dacruma, Latin lacruma, lacrima ds. (with sabin. l?);

Note:

Common Latin dh- > ll-, d- > l-.

Maybe alb. (**lok-*) lot 'tear' [common alb. -k > -th, -t similar to alb. (**mag-*) math 'big'.

Old Irish dērn., cymr. deigr (could go back to Pl. **dakrī* the o-Dekl.), Pl. dagrau, abret. dacr-(lon) `moist, damp, wet', corn. dagr `tears' (Island-Celtic **dakrom* `see, look' Thurneysen KZ. 48, 66 f); Germanic **táhr-* and tagr-: Gothic tagr n. `tears', Old Norse tār n. (from **tahr-*), Old English tæhher, tear, teagor m., Old High German zahar m. (Modern High German Zähre from dem Pl.; whether in Germanic still from old u-stem or it has changed out of it? o-stem has gone out, is doubtful).

Indo Germanic **dakru* is probably from **draḱru* dissimilated because of Old High German trahan, Old Saxon Pl. trahni `tears', Middle Low German trān ds. and `( from fat of squeezed out drops through cooking:) fish oil', Middle High German traher ds. (-er probably after zaher has changed) and Armenian artasuk ``tears', Sg. artausr from **draḱur*.

On the other hand one searches connection with Old Indic ásru, aśra-m `tears', Avestan asrūazan- `pouring tears', Lithuanian ašarà, āšara `tears', Latvian asara ds.; probably sheer rhyme word, so **akro-* `acer, sharp, bitter' as epithet of the tears (`bitter tears') partially used in place of daḱru, whereby it took over its u-inflection? compare also Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 142 f.

Note:

From early Italic, Illyrian people the cognate for tears passed to Altaic languages:

Protoform: **līgà* ( ~ **l̥-*)

Meaning: to weep, cry

Turkic protoform: **līg-(la-)*

Tungus protoform: **līgi-*

References: WP. I 769, WH. I 746 f.

See also: see above S. 23 under aḱru.

Page(s): 179

Root / lemma: dāiṽēr, Gen. daiṽrés

Meaning: brother-in-law

Material: Old Indic dēvár-, Armenian taigr, gr. δᾱήρ (**ḍaiFḥp*), Latin lēvir (in ending reshaped after vir, the l for d probably Sabine), Old High German zeihhur, Old English tācor (presumably through hybridization with an equivalent from Lithuanian láigonas `brother of wife'), Lithuanian dieveris (for **dievē* = Old Indic dēvár-; older conservative Gen. dievērs), Latvian diēveris, Old Church Slavic děverь (i-, io- and conservative stem).

Note:

The Baltic cognate Lithuanian láiḡonas 'brother of the wife' proves the Balkan origin of Baltic languages inheriting Latin d- > l-.

References: WP. I 767, WH. I 787, Specht KZ 62, 249 f., Trautmann 43.

Page(s): 179

---

Root / lemma: dāu-, dəu-, dū-

Meaning: to burn

Note: uncertainly, whether in both meaning originally identical (possibly partly as 'burning pain', partly 'destroy by fire, burn down hostile settlements'?)

Material: Old Indic dunóti 'burns (trans), afflicts', dūná- 'burnt, afflicted', Pass. dūyatē 'burns' (intr.), kaus. dāvayati 'burns' (trans), dāvá-ḥ (with ablaut change davā-ḥ) 'blaze', dū f. 'affliction, pain', doman- 'blaze, agony' (-əu- as in δεδαυμένος);

Note:

Old Indic and alb. prove that Root / lemma: dāu-, dəu-, dū- : 'to burn' derived from Root / lemma: dhēu-4, dhēuθ- (presumably: dhē-, compare the extension dhē-k-, dhē-s-) : 'to reel, dissipate, blow, *smoke etc.'.

Armenian erkn (to δύη) 'throes of childbirth';

Note: common Baltic-Illyrian d- > zero reflected in Armenian

gr. δαίω (**ǵāF-ḡw*) 'set on fire, inflame', Perf. δέδηγε 'be in flames, be on fire' (: Old Indic dudāva), participle δεδαυμένος (δαῦσαι ἐκκαῦσαι Hes., ἐκδαβῆ ἐκκαυθῆ Λάκωνες Hes.), δάος n., δαῖς, -ίδος f. 'torch' (to α: von Attic δᾱς, δᾱδός s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 266), δᾱνός 'easily ignitable = to dry' (**ǵāuinós* from **ǵāFes-nós*), δᾱλός 'burning piece of wood' (**ǵāFελός* = lakon. δαβελός); δῆιος 'hostile', Doric (Trag.) δᾱῖος, δᾱος 'afflicted, woeful, wretched, miserable'; hom. δῆῖω 'slay, kill, murder' (Attic δηῖω 'ds., devastate'), δηιοτής, -τήτος 'tumult of war, fight, struggle', hom. δᾱῖ Lok. 'in the battle' (to Nom. **ǵāūs*, Indo Germanic **dāus* Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 578), δαι-κτάμενος 'killed in the fight'; probably δύη 'affliction', δυόωσι 'fall in the misfortune' (ἀνθρώπους, Od.), δυερός 'unlucky'.

About ὀδύνη (mostly Pl.), Aeolic ἐδύνας Akk. Pl. 'pain', ὀδυνᾶν 'cause pain, afflict, sadden' see below ed- 'eat'; perhaps here δαῦκος ὁ θρασύς ('stormy, hot tempered') Hes.

Alb. dhunë (**dus-n-*) 'affliction, pain, force, violence, horrible action; disgrace, insult' (dhunon 'revile, violate'; dhun 'bitter', originally 'unpleasant'? or as Slavic gorьkъ 'bitter': gorěti 'burn') with **du-s-* (presumably as zero grade of -es- stem = or as gr. δά(F)ος); Tosc derë 'bitter' (**deu-no-*);

Latin presumably duellum, bellum 'war, fight' (WH. I 100 f.), with unclear suffix.

Note: common Latin dw- > b-

Old Irish dōim 'singe, burn' (about Old Irish dōim 'get, exert' see below deu(ə)), Verbalnom. dōud = Old Indic davathu-h 'blaze, fire'; atūd 'kindle, inflame' from **ad-douth*, cymr. cynneu 'kindle, inflame', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), also bret. devi, cymr. deifio 'burn' (with v from w before ɹ) here (Thurneysen KZ. 61, 253, Loth RC. 42, 58); Old Irish Gen. condid, Middle Irish connad, condud 'firewood', cymr. cynnud 'firing', corn. kunys, bret. keuneud 'firewood' (Pedersen KG. I 108, II 39, basic form perhaps **kom-dauto-*); cymr. etewyn 'firebrand' (**ate-dau-ino-*), bret. collective eteo ds.

Old High German zuscen 'burn'; after φρῦνῃ : braun here also Old English tosca 'frog', Swedish Dialectal tosk ds.; perhaps (with **eu*, see below) Old Norse tjōn n. 'damage, wrong; injustice, derision, ridicule', Old English tēona m., tēone f. 'damage', Old Saxon tiono 'evil, harm, wrong; injustice, enmity', whereof Old Norse týna 'destroy, lose', Old English tīenan 'plague, anger, slander', Old Saxon gitiunean 'act wrong against somebody'.*

---

*) In spite of Osthoff IA. 1, 82 has kept away the family of Modern High German zünden, Gothic tundnan 'is ignited', tandjan 'ignite, set on fire', Middle High German zinden, because of that i and a would not be probably first ablaut neologism in u, after Thurneysen IA. 83, 32 as t-andjan to Old Irish ad-and- 'kindle, inflame'.

---

Berneker IF. 10, 158 places here also Lithuanian džiáuti 'place down in order to dry', Latvian žaut 'dry, burn incense, smoke' as **dēu-ti*, as also alb. and Germanic eu- forms can contain Indo Germanic ēu, the relationship of this **dēu-* to **dāu-* is unclear; or to dieu- 'sky, heaven'?

References: WP. I 767 ff., WH. I 100 f.

Page(s): 179-181

---

Root / lemma: dā-

Meaning: to flow; river

Material: Old Indic dā-na- n. 'liquid flowing from the temples of the elephant for the rutting', dā-nu- n. f. 'every dripping liquid, drop, dew', Avestan dā-nu- f. 'river, stream', osset. don 'water, river'; russ. FIN Don, (Greek) skyth. FIN Távaις;

Also typical intensive reduplication Illyrian (**don-don*) Dodona Epirus russ. FIN Dniepr and Dniestr, old Danapris and Danastius from skyth. **Dānu apara* 'back river' and **Dānu nazdya-* 'front river'; Avestan VN Dānavō Pl. 'river inhabitant' (become in R̥gveda water demons, fem. GN Dānu-), skyth. nomadic people, also in Greece, hence (?) gr. VN Δαναοί, ägypt. Danuna; with formants -mo- Armenian tamuk 'humid, wet, moist', tamkanam 'wet, moisten; of water, collect in pools, and of solids, to be liquefied; wet, moistened, soaked' and presumably gr. δῆμος (proto gr. ǵ or η?) 'fat of animals and people', wherewith alb. dhjamë 'fat, bacon, tallow, suet' is not connected in a cleared way yet; the fat can be named as with the roast liquidly growing ones (compare Old Church Slavic loj 'soft fat, lard, grease' : lijati 'pour'). Here also Celtic Dānuvius 'Danube river', gall. ON Condāte 'the confluence of two rivers; as a place-name Confluentes'; six engl. FI Don (**dānu-*), cymr. FIN Donwy (**dānuuīā*).

Benveniste places to Armenian tam-uk yet Hittite dame(n)k- 'fall like rain' (BSL 33, 143).

References: WP. I 763, M. Förster Themse 145 f., Kretschmer Gl. 24, 1 ff., 15 ff., Mél. Pedersen 76 ff., Benveniste BSL 33, 143.

Page(s): 175

---

Root / lemma: dā : də- and dāi- : dəi- : dī-

Meaning: to share, divide

Grammatical information: originally athemat. Wurzelpräsens.

Material: Old Indic dāti, dyāti 'clips, cuts, mows, separates, divides', participle dinā-ḥ, dītā-ḥ, composes ava-ttaḥ 'cropped, truncated, cut off', dītī-ḥ 'the distributing', dānam 'the abscission, trimming', dānām n. 'distribution, deal, portion', dātu n. 'deal, portion', dātār- m. (= δαίτης) 'reaper, mower', dātrām 'allotted share', dātram n. 'sickle', npers. dāra 'remuneration', dās 'sickle'; Old Indic dayā 'communion, concern, commiseration' = dáyate (**dəi-eta*) 'divides, possess lot, has pity; destructs'.

Maybe nasalized form in alb. (**dáyate*) ndanj 'cut, separate, allot, share'.

gr. δαίωμα med. 'divide, allot, share' with probably after Fut. δαίσω and the following words preserved ι (phonetic laws δάηται Konj. Φ 375 'ι is destroyed'); δαίς, -τος, δαίτη,

hom. also δαιτύς, -ύος 'share, meal, sacrifice, oblation' (: Old Indic dātu); δαιτυμών 'guest' (as 'serving the meal'), δαιπρός 'colter, plough coulter, pre-pruner.' (: Old Indic dātár-), δαιπρόν 'share' (: Old Indic dātrám; this αι of these gr. words is partly according to phonetic laws - āi, ēi - partly analogical, as in Cretan Perf. δέδαισμαι to δατέομαι, compare also Cretan δαίσις 'division', καρποδαισταί 'distributor of fruit'), δαίνυμι 'host', probably also δαίμων m. 'god, goddess; fate, destiny, person's lot in life' (actually 'prorating; or 'god of the dead as a corpse eater', Porzig IF. 41, 169 ff., Kretschmer Gl. 14, 228 f.; about of Archilochos δαίμων 'δαήμων' see below **dens-* 'high mental power'); δαίζω, Fut. -ξω, Aor. -ξα 'divide, carve, slit, destroy' (due to **dāFó-* 'sliced, destructed'), ἄ-δατος ἀδιαίρετος Hes., δάνος n. 'interest, usury' (due to a participle **dā-nó-s* = Old Indic dinā-h, compare δάνας μερίδας); gall. arcanto-danos 'minting' as 'distributing silver'.

With formants -mo-: dāmos f. 'people': gr. δῆμος, Doric δᾶμος m. 'people's division) people, area; the single region in Athens', Old Irish dām f. 'retinue, troop, multitude, crowd', acymr. dauu 'boy, serf, servant', ncymr. daw, dawf 'son-in-law'; apparently older fem. o-stem; in addition Hittite da-ma-a-iš (damaĩš?) 'an other, foreigner, stranger', from '*foreign people', originally '*people', Pedersen Hittite 51 ff.

With formants -lo- perhaps Old Church Slavic děľ 'deal, portion' (**dēi-lo-*) (see below **del-* 'split'); about Old Irish fo-dālim etc s. just there. Here belongs probably also Gothic dails 'deal, portion', runeninschr. da[i]lliþun 'divide', Old Icelandic deill, Old English dæ̃l, Old High German teil m. 'deal, portion';

Maybe alb. dallonj 'separate, distinguish'

Old Icelandic deila f. 'division, disunion', Old High German teila f. 'division'; Old Icelandic deila, Old English dæ̃lan, Old High German teilan 'divide' etc It could hardly derive from Slavic, probably it derives from Venetic-Illyrian, because the root form **dēi-* is attested in South Illyrian PN Dae-tor. An additional form Indo Germanic dʰēi- besides dēi- would be unplausible.

With zero grade dī-: Armenian tī, Gen. tioy 'age, years, days, time' (\ < dī-t(i)-* or **dī-to-*, **dī-tā*), Old High German zīt f. (n. Isidor), Old Saxon Old English tīd, Old Norse tīð f. 'time, hour' (**tīþ-*, Indo Germanic **dī-t-*, ursprgl 'period of time'), in addition Old Norse tīðr 'usual, ordinary, frequent, often', Old English tīdan 'occur', Old Norse tīða 'aspire, strive'; Old Norse tī-na 'to pick to pieces, take apart, weed, take out, remove, clean';

About Gothic tīl 'fitting' etc see below ad-2, but Gothic dails under del-3, here against it Old High German zila 'sequence, row, line', westfäl. tīle 'sheaf row', Modern High German Zeile, probably from **tīð-lá-*.

p- extension dāp-, dēp-; dēp-no-, -ni- 'sacrificial meal':

Old Indic dāpayati 'divides'; Armenian taun (**dap-ni-) 'festival'; gr. δάπτω (*δαπιω*) 'tear, rend, mangle, lacerate, disassemble', with intensive reduplication δαρδάπτω 'tear, rend, (κτήματα) squander, dissipate in luxury', δαπάνη f. 'expenditure, esp. arising from hospitality (: daps)', δάπανος 'lavish, wasteful', δαπανάω 'consume' (out of it Latin dapinō 'serve up (as food), provide for'), δαπιλός (Empedokles), δαπιλῆς (**wasteful*) exuberant, rich, generous'; Latin daps (**share*) a sacrificial feast, religious banquet; in gen., meal, feast, banquet', damnum 'loss, damage, defect, fine', damnōsus 'ruinous' (**dap-no-*: δαπάνη, different Pedersen Hitt 42);

maybe Illyrian Epidamnōs (Eppi- 'horse' + **dap-no* 'sacrifice'), also alb. Geg dam (**dap-no*) 'damage': Latin damnum.

Old Norse tafn (**dap-no-*) 'sacrificial animal, sacrificial meal', compare den Germanic GN Tanfana (Tacit.), if from **tafnana*, Marstrander NTS. 1, 159.

From Germanic one still adds a lot, what was a meaning-development from 'split up, cut up, divide' to 'tear, pluck, shortly touch, make short clumsy movement' would assume; in following the meaning from δαπανᾶν, damnum derives aschw. tappa and tapa 'put an end to, lose', Old Icelandic tapa ds.; Old Frisian tapia 'pluck', Old English tæppe f. 'cloth stripes', Middle English tappen (engl. tap) 'hit lightly', Middle Low German tappen, tāpen (lengthening in open syllable?) 'pick, pluck'; Old Norse tæpr 'barely touching', isl. tæpta (**tāpatjan*) 'just touch', Norwegian Dialectal tæpla 'touch lightly, tread quietly'; but Norwegian Dialectal taap(e) m., Danish taabe 'fool, rogue, awkward; clumsy person', Norwegian taapen 'weak, feeble, ineligible', tæpe n. 'insignificant; unimportant thing', Old Norse tæpiligr 'concise', with other labial grades Swedish Dialectal tabb, tabbe 'gawk', tabbet 'oafish', are probably onomatopoeic words, also as ndd. tappe, Swiss tāpe, Modern High German Tappe 'paw', as well as tappen, täppisch etc; s. also under dhāb- 1.

Likewise are to be kept away Old High German zabalōn, Modern High German zappeln, as well as Old High German zapfo, Modern High German Zapfen, Old English tæppa ds. (Germanic **tappōn-*); also only Germanic words with i and u (compare Specht Dekl. 152 f.): Middle English tippen, engl. tip 'touch quietly, bump quietly', Modern High German tippen, Middle High German zipfen '(in swift movement) trip, scurry', Old Norse tifask 'walk on tiptoe; trip', Middle High German zipf 'tip, cusp, peak', nasalized Middle Low German timpe f. 'tip, end', Old English ā-timplian 'hold with nails'; on the other hand Norwegian Dialectal tuppa, Modern High German zupfen, Old Norse toppr 'tuft of hair, summit, acme, apex', Old English topp m. 'cusp, peak, crest, summit, tip', toppa m. 'filament', Old High German zopf 'pigtail, braid, plait, end of a thing'; Middle Low German tubbe, tobbe 'spigot', tobben 'pluck, rend', South German zöfeln 'waver' (as zapfeln); perhaps here also Old High German zumpo 'penis', Middle High German zumpf(e), Modern High German Zumpt, whereat under dumb-.

Here Tocharian A tāp 'ate', Van Windekens Lexique 187.

t-extension de-t (compare but das participle de-tó-s):

gr. δατέομαι 'divide, tear, rend, consume' (Fut. δάσσεσθαι, Aor. hom. δάσσασθαι, Attic δάσσασθαι), wherefore δασμός 'division', δάσμα 'lot', common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss- δατήριος 'dividing, splitting' (this certainly from **dā-tár*: Old Indic dā-tár 'reaper, mower'), ἄδαστος 'undivided'; δατέομαι is gr. neologism (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 676) and not Indo Germanic **de-t-*;

Gothic ungatass 'disarrayed, disorderly' (compare ἄδαστος), Middle Dutch getes 'be submitting, suitable'; Old High German zetten '(distributing) strew, outspread', Modern High German verzette(l)n, probably also Old Norse teðja 'outspread dung', tað n. '(*outstretched) dung'; Old High German zota, zota f. 'tuft of wool, hair hanging down together, filament or wool' (therefrom zaturra 'a harlot, prostitute'), Old English tættec (expressives tt) 'scrap, shred, tatter, rag', Old Norse tǫturr 'scrap, shred'; Old Danish tothae, Old Danish and Danish Dialectal tøde, taade 'retard, delay, hinder'.

Besides with u-Vok. Old Norse toddi 'small piece', holl. todde 'scrap, shred', Old High German zota, zotta 'topknot', Modern High German Zotte, Zote; Middle High German zoten 'go slowly', Modern High German zotteln, East Frisian todden 'pull, tear, drag' ; about Modern High German zaudern s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> 704.

Tocharian A tāt-k 'divide, carve, slit'.

s-extension d-es-:

Old Indic dásyati 'suffers lack, swelters, languishes', upadásyati 'goes out, is exhausted' ;

Norwegian dial. tasa 'wear out', Swedish dial. tasa 'pluck wool, outspread hay', nnd. tasen 'pluck', Modern High German Zaser, older Zasel 'fibre, filament', Norwegian dial. tase m. 'weak person', tasma 'languish', tasa 'become feeble' ; ablaut. Danish Dialectal tæse 'work slowly', nnd. täsen 'work heavily', identical with Norwegian Danish tæse 'disentangle, wear out, pull out'; compare in similar meaning Norwegian tassee 'go quietly', taspa 'go slowly and sluggishly', Middle High German zaspēn 'scratch, go sluggishly', Old High German zascōn 'seize, snatch, tear away' (actually 'drag') = Modern High German dial. zaschen, zäschen 'drag, pull, tear, work slowly', zäschen f. 'a train in the dress' ; about Old High German tasca 'pouch, pocket' s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> 612.

Maybe truncated alb. Geg (**zascōn*) me zanë 'to seize, snatch, tear away'

Hittite tešhā- 'keep oneself away from' (3. Sg. preterit ti-eš-ḫa-aš).

Maybe alb. Geg (**tešhā*) tesha Pl. 'clothes, belongings, rags', teshë 'speck of dust, little splinter, torn piece'

Besides with i-vocalism (Indo Germanic **dī-s* as extension to dī-? Or only Germanic neologism?):

Swedish dial. teisa, tesa 'pull to pieces', Danish dial. tese 'pluck (e.g. wool)', Old English tæsan 'pull to pieces', Old High German zeisan, zias 'ruffle; tousle, pluck wool'; East Frisian holl. teisteren 'rend', Old English tæsel, Old High German zeisala 'teasel', Norwegian Dialectal test 'willow fibre, ringlet, hair lock', with i Norwegian tīst 'fibre, filament', tīsl 'shrubbery', with i Middle High German zispen 'go sluggishly' (as zaspēn), probably also (?) Old English teoswian 'plague, disparage', teoso 'insult, deceit, malice'.

Finally with u-vocalism: Norwegian dial. tosa 'rub, wear out, pluck', also 'flub, work slowly', tose 'frail person', tos 'fibers, ragged rigging', tossa 'strew, distribute, outspread', Middle English tōtūsen 'tousle, ruffle', Middle Low German tōsen 'rend, pull', Old High German zirzūsōn 'tousle, ruffle', Middle High German zūsach 'brushwood', zūse f. 'brushwood, hair lock'; perhaps to Latin dūmus 'a thorn bush, bramble brushwood, shrub' (**dūs-mo-s*) and Old Irish doss 'bush'.

From PIE this root passed to Altaic:

Protoform: **dāma*

Meaning: ill, sick, bad

Turkic protoform: **jAman*

Tungus protoform: **dam-*

Japanese protoform: **dām-*

Note: Despite SKE 75 there is no reason at all to suppose a Chinese origin of the Turkic form (MC ja-maṇ 'savage, barbarian' is too distant semantically; the usage of PT **jaman* for a bad *dis*ease, sickness is very close to Japanese and may suggest that the original meaning of the root was 'ill(ness), sick(ness)').

References: WP. I 763 ff., WH. I 322, 323 f., 859; Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 676.

See also: out at least basically as extensions from dā- 'cut, split' agreeable root del- 'split', del- 'whereupon it is split apart', der- 'split, flay' see below see below its own headwords.

Page(s): 175-179

---

Root / lemma: deigh-

Meaning: to prick; tick

Material: Armenian tī 'tick';

Middle Irish dega, Akk. degaid (**digāt-*) 'stag-beetle';

Germanic **tīkan-*, with intensive sharpening **tikken-*, in Old English ticia m. (lies tīica or ticca), engl. tike and tick 'wood tick, sheep louse', Middle Low German Zecke m. f. 'wood tick', Modern High German Zecke, besides a mediation form **tīkan-* in Middle Low German teke, Middle High German Zeche, engl. teke ds.;

Norwegian dial. tikka, nnd. ticken 'stumble lightly', Middle High German zicken ds.; Old High German zechon 'pulsate, banter, skirmish'; engl. tickle 'titillate'; nasalized Old English tindian ds.

A connection with dʰēig- 'prick' is not provable.

---

Root / lemma: deik-

Meaning: to show

Note: from which Latin and Germanic partly ` point to something with words, say', developed plural also ` show the right, point to the culprit, accuse '

Material: Old Indic dídeṣṭi, diśáti, dēśayati `shows, point at', Avestan daēs- Aor. dōiš- `show' (daēsayeiti, disyeiti, daēdōišť) `show; assign something to somebody, adjudge ', participle Old Indic diṣťá- (= Latin dictus); diṣťi-ḥ `instruction, regulation ', Avestan ādiṣťi-š `directive, doctrine' (= Latin dicti-ō, Old English tiht `accusation ', Old High German in-, bi-zihť ds., Modern High German Verzicht), Old Indic dís- f. `instruction, direction', diśā `direction' (= δίκη `right, justice', from which probably Latin dicis causa `for form's sake, for the sake of appearances '), deśá-ḥ `(direction), region' = Old Norse teigr see below;

gr. δείκνῦμι, secondary δεικνύω `points, shows, evinces', Cretan προ-δίκνῦτι `ἐπιδείκνυσι', δείξις `the display ' (with secondary lengthened grade), δίκη see above, δίκαιος, δικάζω, ἄδικος; the Perf. Med. δέδειγμαι, and δείγμα `avermant, proof, example' not with Indo Germanic g, but gr. innovation;

Latin dīcere `to indicate; to appoint; most commonly, to say, speak, tell, mention; in pass. with infin., to be said to; to mention, speak of, tell of, relate; to name, call; to mean, refer to', dīcāre `announce solemnly, award, consecrate, dedicate, set apart, devote, offer ', Oscan deikum `say', Umbrian teitu, deitu (Fut. Imper.) you will say, declare', changing through ablaut Oscan dicust `will have said ', Umbrian dersicust ds., Oscan da-díkatted `to dedicate, consecrate, set apart ', Latin dīciō `power, sovereignty, authority ', indīcāre `indicate, display, show, offer', index `an informer; a sign, token; the forefinger; a title; a touchstone ' (as also Old Indic deśinī `forefinger '), iūdex `a judge; in plur., a panel of jurors ', vindex (vindicāre = vim dicere), causidicus; about proto Irish **Ek̑o-decas*, Lugudec(c)as (Gen. Sg.) see below deik-1.

Gothic gateihan `indicate, promulgate ', Old Norse tēa, newer tīā `show, depict, represent, explain, announce ', Old English tēon `indicate, promulgate ', Old High German zīhan `accuse, blame', zeihen;

Maybe alb. Tosc zihem `quarrel, argue', truncated Geg (**zīhan*) zanē `to quarrel '.

wherefore Old Norse tīgenn `(*show, point out, reveal, advise, teach) noble', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), tīgn f. `rank; noble man, husband'; Old High German zeigōn 'show', whereof zeiga 'instruction'; inziht etc see above; further Old Norse teigr m. 'linear part of meadow' ('*direction' = Old Indic deśá-h 'region, place, land'), changing through ablaut Old English tīg, tīh 'meadow, pasture', Middle Low German tī(g) m. 'public collective place of a village', Old High German zīch 'forum'.

Here presumably with the meaning 'finger' (= '*pointer') and secondary, but already old 'toe', Old High German zēha, Old English tāhe, tā, Old Norse tā 'toe' (**dóik-ya*), Middle Low German tēwe, Modern High German and südd. zēwe ds. (**doiġ-ya*), and that probably from **dicitus* through dissimilation against the toneless t resulted Latin digitus 'finger, toe'.

Hittite tek-kuš-ša-nu-mi 'makes recognizable, points, shows, evinces' here after Sturtevant Lang. 6, 27 f., 227 ff.; doubts the formation because of E. Forrer by Feist 204.

Hittite: tekkussai- (I) 'indicate, show, present, display' (Friedrich 220)

Besides Indo Germanic doiġ- in Gothic taikns f. 'mark, token, sign, wonder, miracle', taikn n. ds., Old High German (etc) zeihhan n. 'mark, token, sign', Old English tæcan, engl. teach 'instruct', Old Norse teikna 'show, signify, designate', Old High German zeihhonōn 'draw, depict, sign', Gothic taiknjan 'show', Old High German zeihinen ds.

From Germanic **taikna* derives Finnish taika- 'omen, sign'.

Whether deiġ- and deiġ- from dei- 'bright shine' (also 'see') are extended as 'allow to see, allow to shine'?

References: WP. I 776 f., WH. I 348 f., 351, 860, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 696 f., Feist 204, 472.

Page(s): 188-189

---

Root / lemma: dei-1, deie-, dī-, diā- (**sthei- : zdhei-*)

Meaning: to shine; day; sun; sky god, god

Note: (older '*dart rays'?)

Material:

Old Indic dī-dē-ti 'seems, shines', 3. Pl. dīdyati, Impf. 3. Sg. ádīdēt, Imper. 2. Sg. didīhi, su-dī-ti-h 'having nice brilliance', Kaus. dīpáyati 'ignites, illuminates', dīpyate 'blazes, shines, seems' (about dīvyati see below), dīdī- 'shining, seeming' (due to from dī-de-ti); similar **doi-d-o-* (broken Redupl.) in Old Norse teitr 'cheerful, blithe, glad' (actually 'radiating'), Old English tætan 'caress', tāt- (in names) 'blithe, glad', Old High German zeiz 'tender, graceful' (compare heiter and 'clear, bright' as 'blithe, glad'; Uhlenbeck Old Indic Wb. 126); perhaps here also Lithuanian didis 'big, large' as 'handsome, considerable';

gr. hom. δέατο (Imperfect) 'he saw, discerned, perceived', δεάμην ἐδοκίμαζον, ἐδόξαζον Hes., Arcadian Konj. δεᾶτοι, hom. Aor. δοάσσατο 'to appear', Konj. δοάσσεται, compared with Arcadian Aor. δέα[σε]τοι with o after ἐδοξε, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 681<sup>6</sup>;
common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-

hom. δέελος 'visible' (*δεῖελος; with metr. lengthening εὐδείελος), δῆλος ds. (from *δέιαλος, from which also Hesychs δίαλος; hom. ἀρίζηλος 'very distinct, clear, bright' (from *διη-λός);

**doilo-* presumably in Old English sweo-tol (from **tāl*) 'apparent, manifest, obvious, distinct, clear, bright' and in Middle Irish dōel 'beetle, chafer' ('shining black insect') as well as in Irish river names Daol (**doilā*) as 'the shining'. Here probably also Lithuanian dailūs 'dainty, pretty', dáilinti 'smooth, adorn'.

With formants -tlo- presumably here being found only in the compound Germanic **tīpla-*: zīdal-, Modern High German Zeidel-, Low German tīl- 'honey' ('clearness, shine - clear honey').

Against Pedersens raising from Hittite (**sthe-*) te-eš-ḫa- 'dream' (Muršilis 69) s. Couvreur H 53 and above S. 178.

μ-extension: deīeu- (: diēu-, diu-, diu-) 'bright, divine revered sky and bright day:

Diphth. stem Nom. diēus (dīēus), Akk. diēum, Vok. diēu, Lok. diēui and diēu, Dat. diuēi, Gen. diu-és, -ós, diēus-petēr 'sky father, heavenly father'.

Old Indic dyāuḥ (diyāuḥ) 'sky, heaven', Akk. dyām, Lok. dyávī, diví, Dat. divē, Gen. diváh (and dyōḥ), Instr. Pl. dyú-bhiḥ, gr. Ζεύς (= dyāu-ḥ), Akk. Ζῆν (= dyām), Vok. Ζεῦ (**diēu*), Gen. Δι(F)ός, Dat. (Lok.) Δι(F)ι (Ζῆν lengthened Ζῆνα, Ζηνός, Ζηνί; about Ζάς by Pherekydes of Syros s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 577<sup>4</sup>); the Gen. **diues* in Thessalian Διεσ-κουριάδεω, prien. Διεσ-κουρίδου (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 547);

Maybe Rumanian zeu 'god' : alb. zot, Pl. zota 'god' : Rumanian zeiță, zeitate, zână 'goddess' : alb. zana f. 'nymph, goddess' : gr. Ζῆνα [common alb. n > nt > ŋ].

in Latin the old paradigm has split in two names which designate the name of the uppermost God and the 'day'; similarly in the Oscan and Umbrian:

Note: common Latin Illyrian d- > l-:

Latin Iuppiter from lū-pīter, Umbrian Jupater Vok. = Ζεῦ πάτερ, to Nom. Old Indic dyāuṣpītā 'father of the sky, heavenly father', Ζεὺς πατήρ, Dat. Umbrian Iuvepatre, Illyrian (Hes.) Δει-πάτυρος;

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur- : Illyrian (Hes.) Δει-πάτυρος : Ἰλλυριοί, οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία, ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς, ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός, ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία:--hence Adv. Ἰλλυριστί.

In Illyrian and Albanian the attribute noun or adjective comes after the noun.

Latin Gen. Iouis (Old Latin also Dionis, also as Nom.), Oscan Diúveī 'Jove', iuvilam, older diuvilam '*iuvilam', iúvilas '*iuvilae' etc, compare GentilN Latin Iūlius (**Iovilius*); Maybe -f- suffix, (typical in Old Indic and Illyrian): alb. die-lli 'sun' : Latin Diālis 'relating to Jupiter; (flamen) dialis'.

Maybe alb. (**Jove-di*, **jeudī*) enjte 'Thursday' : French jeudi 'Thursday', Italian jovedi 'Thursday'.

Latin Diēspiter (whereof Diālis 'relating to Jupiter; (flamen) dialis', the priest of Jupiter') with Akk. d(ī)ēm has changed after Nom. diēs, otherwise would prevail in the meaning 'day', while to the name of 'sky God' the ablaut grade **dīou-* from **dīeu-* would be accomplished under the pressure of Vok. **dīeu-* (up to Diēspiter, also Umbrian Di, Dei '[masc acc. sing.] god, [neut voc. sing.] god', contracted from diē-, so that Dī(m) = **diēm*); the old Nom. **dīūs* from **dīēus* still standing in addition to Vēdionis, Vēionis, Vē-dīūs 'old-röm. Underworld God'; in the meaning 'day' Latin diēs see above (m.; as f. in the meaning 'date, day month year (according to the calendar), period, time' presumably after nox), yet besides the older Nom. dīēus still in nu-dīūs tertius 'now is the 3. day', further dīū 'by day' (Lok. **dīēu* or **dīōu*), 'for a long time', 'a long time ago' out of it 'long'.

Maybe in -e- grade Latin Greek Albanian: Latin perendie (**peren-dies*) 'on the day after tomorrow' : Albanian (**peren-diem*) perëndim m. 'sunset, end of the day', perëndimi 'west', (**peren-desha*) perëndesha 'upper goddess' (**peren-dea*) perëndia 'divinity'. Albanian (-dea, -desha 'goddess' : Latin dea : Italian dea : Spanish diosa : French déesse : Portuguese deusa 'goddess'. [see Root / lemma: per-2: to go over; over].

diminutive Latin diēcula `a little day, a short time', Oscan [djiikúlús `days', zicolo m. `day';

Old Irish dīe, proclitic dīa `day' (from after the Akk. **djiēm* has changed **djiēs*), cymr. dydd, corn. deth, dyth, bret. deiz `day' (also); Old Irish in-dīu `today', cymr. etc he-ddyw `today' (at first from \-djiū*, probably = Latin diū).

Maybe Root / lemma: Ro-, Re- (with particle Re `here'), R(e)i-, R(i)io-: this + Root / lemma: dei-1, deje-, dī-, dīā-: to shine, day = , cymr. etc he-ddyw: alb. (**sodiena*) sonte `today': Latin hodie, Latvian šodiena, Lithuanian šiandien `this day, today'.

Maybe Latvian diena: Lithuanian diena: cymr. dydd: Wallon djoû: alb. dita: Spanish día: Asturian día: Catalan dia: Piemontese di: Leonese día: Valencian dia: Venetian dì: Bergamasco dé: Bolognese dé: Bresciano dé: Breton deiz: Frisian dei: Galician día: Ladin dé: Lombardo Occidentale dì: Mantuan dì: Portuguese dia: Romagnolo dè: Romanian zi: Romansh di: Sardinian Campidanese di > Italian (**diorno*) giorno: Furlan dì; zornade: French (**diour*) jour: Calabrese iornu; juarnu: Catanese jornu: Caterisano jornu: Sicilian iornu: Triestino giorno: Mudnés dè; giorèn: Napulitano juorno: Occitan jorn; dia: Parmigiano gioren: Reggiano giouren; dè: Viestano jurn: Zeneize giorno < Latin diēs `day'.

From the ablaut grade diu- in the meaning `day';

Old Indic dīvā `during the day', divēdivē `day by day' (divám Nom. otherwise `sky, heaven'), naktámdivam `night and day', sudivám `a nice day', sudivá-ḥ `having a nice day', Armenian tiv `day', gr. ἔνδιος `in the middle of the day (appearing)' (due to *έν διFί, compare ένvύχιος); Latin dīus, interdīus `of the day, in the daytime, by day' (with Latin syncope from Gen. **diuós*); bi-, tri-duum (**diuom*) `period of two, three days';

es-stem diyes- presumed from Old Indic divasá-ḥ `day', formal to dak. διεσεμα `common mullein, high taper', probably from **diyesemā* `luminous plant' (Detschev, Dak. Pflanzenn. 14 ff.); but gr. εὔδιος (**εὔ-διFος*) `clear, cheerful', older εὐδία `clear weather', to Old Indic su-divám (above); compare Sommer Nominalkomp. 73 ff.

*diuios in Old Indic divyá-, diviá- `celestial', divyāni `the heavenly space', gr. διος (from *διFιος, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 472a) `divine, heavenly', Latin dīus `divine, god-like; hence fine, noble; also (apparently) out of doors, in the open air' (different from dīvus!), dīum `open space of heaven', sub dīo; Diāna deriving from **Diviāna*, `the virgin goddess of the moon and hunting' **Diviā* (?); compare etr. Tiv `moon', tives `months', after Kretschmer

Gl. 13, 111 f. from Italian **diviā*, and orph. Πανδία 'Selene (goddess of the moon)' from *παν-διFiä 'all kinds of illuminators'.

ablaut grade dju- in Old Indic dyu-mnám 'splendor of the sky', dyu-mánt- 'bright, light', verbal dyut- 'gleam, shine' in dyótatē, Aor. ved. ádyaut 'shines' (with t probably after švit- 'be bright'); compare also Old Church Slavic дъждъ 'rain', russ. dožd', Old Czech dešč, etc, from **dus-dju-* 'bad weather', Trubetzkoy Z. sl. Ph. 4, 62 ff.

o-stem déiyo-s 'god, the divine':

Old Indic dēvá-h 'god' (dēvī 'goddess'), Avestan daēva- 'demon';

Latin deus and dīvus, by of from the paradigm **deiṷos* (> deos), Gen. **deiṷī* (> dīvī); Oscan deívaí 'goddess' (Oscan deivinais = Latin dīvīnis; Umbrian deueia ' [fem. Acc. sing.] of a deity, goddess ';

Maybe alb. dif 'giant' a Latin loanword.

Oscan deiuatud 'to swear an oath' = Latvian dievâtiēs 'swear, vow'; Latin dīves 'rich, wealthy; with abl. or genit., rich in', actually 'standing under the protection of the Gods', as Slavic bogatъ, s. Schulze KZ. 45, 190); gall. GN Dēvona, PN Dēvo-gnāta, Old Irish dia, Gen. dē 'god', acymr. duiu-(ti) 'goddess, deity', mcymr. ncymr. duw, acorn. duy, bret. doué 'god';

Old Norse tívar Pl. 'gods' (**deiṷōs*) as well as Old Norse Týr (Old Germanic teiwaz) 'the god of war', Old English Tīg, Gen. Tīwes 'Mars', Old High German Zīo, Zīo;

Maybe alb. zana 'goddess, ghost', zota 'gods' > zot 'god'.

Old Prussian deiṷ(a)s, Lithuanian diēvas 'god' (deivē 'goddess, ghost' from **deiṷiā*, diēvo sūnēliai 'sons of the sky', Finnish loanword taiwas 'sky, heaven'), Latvian dievs (verbal derivative lies before in Lithuanian deivótis 'say farewell', Latvian dievâtiēs see above), compare Trautmann 50, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 484, 485 f. Against it are Old Church Slavic divъ m. 'wonder, miracle', divo, -ese n. ds. (-es-stem probably previously after čudo, -ese ds), divъnъ 'wonderful', didn't derive from concept 'god, deity', but (as θαῦμα from θεάομαι) position itself to klr. dyv'ú, dyvýty sja 'see, look, show', Czech dívam se 'look, see, observe', which behaves to Old Indic dī-de-ti 'shines' in the meaning as e.g. Middle High German blick 'lustre, shine, lightning' and 'look of the eyes', Modern High German glänzen: Slavic ględati 'see, show'.

en-stem **deien-* (thematic deino-, dino-) only in the meaning 'day':

Note:

The extension en-stem **deien-* (thematic deino-, dino-) is of Illyrian origin. The attribute nouns that derived from adjectives in Illyrian alb. take -ta, -nta suffix which was then reduced to common alb. n > nt > t. (see alb. numbers) originally conservative still in Old Church Slavic дѣнь, Gen. дѣне 'day'; Old Indic dína-m (esp. in compounds 'day', Latin nundinae 'the market-day held during every ninth day', Maybe alb. (**dína*) dita 'day' : Old Indic dína-m (esp. in compounds 'day' : < Lithuanian dienà, Latvian diena, Old Prussian Akk. f. deinan 'day' [common alb. n > nt > t].

Old Irish denus 'a period of time', trēdenus 'three days' time, three days'; alb. gdhinj 'make day' from \-dī-n-jō*;

maybe alb. gēdhinj 'the day breaks' is a compound of zero grade **ego* 'I' + dína 'I make the day'.

zero grade Lithuanian dienà, Latvian diena, Old Prussian Akk. f. deinan 'day' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 432 f., Būga Kalba ir. S. 227 f.); Gothic sinteins 'daily, perpetual, everlasting'; perhaps here Old High German len(gi)zin 'springtime' from **langat-tin* as 'having long days'.

Kretschmer leads back to gr. Τῖν-δᾱπίδαι 'sons of Zeus', etr. Tin, Tinia 'Juppiter' of a pre-Greek Tin- 'Diespiter (Zeus father)', respectively Italian **Dinus* (Indo Germanic **din-* 'day, sky, heaven') (Gl. 13, 111; 14, 303 ff., 19, 207; s. also Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 65); but the older form is Τυνδᾱπίδαι!

r-extension dēi-ro-, dī-ro- in:

Germanic **tēra-* (**dēi-ro-*) and **tīra-* (**dī-ro-*) in Old High German zēri, ziari 'precious, lovely, delightful, nice, superb, pretty, splendid, beautiful', ziarī 'beauty, ornament, adornment', ziarōn 'adorn, embellish', Middle Low German tēr 'lustre, shine, fame, prospering; flourishing, good constitution', tēre and tīre 'habit, kind and way', Old English Old Saxon tīr 'honour, fame', Old Norse tīrr ds.; Norwegian dial. tīr 'alertness, lookout, peering, light, lustre, shine', tīra 'peek, sparkle, glitter'; in addition Lithuanian dyrėti, dýroti 'gawk, lurk', dairýtis, Latvian daīrītiēs 'stare about', Old Prussian endyrītwei (, see Būga Kalba ir. s. 227 f., Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 432 f.) 'watch, see' (but Bulgarian дѣѣ 'search, seek' absents, s. Berneker 201);

Tocharian A tiri 'kind and way'.

About Hittite šiwat- 'day', šiwanni- 'god' (from **dīēu-*?), Hieroglyphic-Hittite tina- 'god', šijāri 'appears' (**dīā-*?) s. Pedersen Hittite 57, 175 f.

Hittite: ? šiu-, šun-, šuni-, šiwann-, šiwanni- c. 'god', šiwatt- c./n. 'day' (Friedrich 194, 1950 [perhaps to 'sun'?])

Maybe Etruscan Tina 'god'. -a feminine ending proves it meant 'goddess'.

Note:

(Just like Albanian masculine t-ij 'his', feminine s-aj 'her' Hittite verb masculine ending -ti 'you', feminine ending -ši 'you')

Hence Hittite šiwanni- meant 'goddess' not 'god' because Hittite differentiation š- means feminine, t- masculine.

To Old Indic dīvyati 'plays, shows, throws dice' (supposedly 'throws the eye') compare with other ablaut dyūtám 'dice game', further dēvanam 'the game, dice game', and above dyótate 'shines', dyutiḥ 'lustre, shine', dyumānt- 'bright, light'. Whether here also Avestan ā-dīvyeinti 'bestir oneself, strive for' as 'whereupon it is split apart'? compare Wackernagel, Berl. Sbb. 1918, 396 f.

The fact that our root as 'vibrating light' originally one has been from deīa- 'hurry, whirl', seems conceivable.

References: WP. I 772 f., WH. I 345 f., 347, 349 f., 355, 357 f., 727, 732, 860, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 576 f.

Page(s): 183-187

---

Root / lemma: deīa-2 (dīā-, dīa-, dī-)

Meaning: to swing, move

Material: Old Indic dīyati 'flies, hovers'; gr. δῖνος m. 'whirl, whirlpool; round vessel, round threshing floor', δῖνη (Hom.), Aeolic δῖννα (compare Δῖννομένης, Hoffmann Gr. D. II 484) 'whirl, whirlpool', δινέω, δινεύω, Aeolic δίννημι 'spin in whirl or circle, swing, brandish'; intr. 'turn me by dancing in circles'; pass. 'roam around, reel around, roll (the eyes) whirl (from river), spin dancing around', δίνω Aeolic δίννω 'thresh'; hom. δίω 'flee', δίομαι 'chase away' (with ostentatious distribution the intr. and tr. meaning in active and Medium), hom. διένται 'to hurry', δίσσθαι 'flee', ἐνδίσσαν 'rush', διερός (πούς) 'fleeting' (after ἴετε, ἴεται: ἴενται to thematic δίσσθαι analogical διένται instead of *δίωνται neologism?), διώκω 'pursue' (contaminated from Φιώκω and δέμαι, Meillet MSL. 23, 50 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 702); hom. δίζημαι (Fut. hom. διζήσομαι) 'strive for, be troubled about, search, seek', nachhom. also 'investigate' (*δι-διῶ-μαι), next to which due to *διᾱ-το- Attic ζητέω 'strive for, let me be concerned with'; here with originally *dʰiə- : ζάλη 'storm, violent movement, particularly of the sea', ζάλος 'whirlpool, violent movement of water'?

compare about gr. words containing the ζ Schwyzer Gr. Or. I 330, 833.

Old Irish dīan 'quick, fast', dēne 'quickness'; Latvian deju, diēt 'dance', diedelēt 'go idly'. About Lithuanian dainà 'folk song' (to dejà 'lamentation?') compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 432 with Lithuanian Quite doubtful cymr. dig 'mad, wicked, evil', russ. dikij 'wild', Lithuanian dỹkas 'minxish, wanton, bratty, unengaged, leisured, unemployed, idle, lazy', Latvian dīks 'free of work', Old Church Slavic dīvъjъ 'wild' (Berneker 203 f., Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 478, Trautmann 54).

Not here gr. δόναξ 'reed' (new Ionian δοῦναξ and occasional Doric δῶναξ metr. lengthening? Schulze Qunder ep. 205, Boisacq 196), δονέω 'shake', ἀλίδονος 'rove about in the sea' and Latvian duonis, duõñi 'reed, bulrushes'.

References: WP. I 774 ff.

Page(s): 187

Root / lemma: deḱ-1

Meaning: to take, *offer a sacrifice, observe a custom

Material: Old Indic daśasyāti 'proves honour, venerates a god, is gracious' (Denomin. of **daśas-* = Latin decus), daśā f. 'state, status, fate, destiny'; Avestan dasəm n. 'property, belongings piece'; Old Indic Desiderat. dīkšatē 'is consecrated', dīkšā 'consecration' (**dī-dḱ-s-* with secondary ī), dákṣati 'is proficient, makes it right, is compliant', dákṣa-h 'proficient, skilful' (but Avestan daxš- 'instruct, teach, instruct', npers. daxš- 'business, toil' stay away because of the Gutturals), lengthened grade Old Indic dāśnōti, dāṣti, dāṣati

`offer a sacrifice, give, proves honour, grants', dāśvās- `honoring the Gods, godly, pious'; Avestan dāšta- `receive, obtains, attains ' (participle);

after Frisk Etyma Armen. 25 f. here Armenian əncay `gift' from **ənd-tisāti-* (proto-Armenian -tis- from **dēk-*); whether tesanem `I behold ' (compare under δοκεύω); different Meillet Esquisse 135;

gr. (Ionian Aeolic Cretan) δέκομαι `take in, accept', Attic δέχομαι, athemat. hom. 3. Pl. δέχεται (χ after *δέχθω, Infin. δέχθαι), Aor. δέκτο, participle δέγμενος, compare προτίδεγμαι προσδέχομαι Hes. (γμ instead of κμ); κ is preserved in δοκός `[absorption] beam ', δοκάν θήκην Hes. (out of it Latin doga `a sort of vessel (perhaps a measure)'), δοκάναι αἱ στάλικες Hes., δεζάζω `to captivate, fascinate, be impressive ', δωρο-δόκος `the take of presents', δεξαμενή (participle Aor.) `water container, water carrier ', ἀρι-δείκετος `distinguished ' (ει metr. lengthening); nasal present *δεικννμαι (: Old Indic dāśnōti) in participle δεικνύμενος `rendering homage, honoring, greeting ', to δεικανόωντο `to greet'; intensive δειδέχεται ds., δει-δίσκομαι `greet' (for *δη-δέ(κ)-σκομαι after the present auf -ίσκω); δει- could be read δη- (Indo Germanic ē), δεικν- also δεκν-, and δεικα- could be metr. lengthening for δεκα- (Schwyzer Gr Gr. I 648, 697); causative δοκέω (= Latin doceō `to teach, instruct (with acc. of person or thing); with clause, to inform that or how; 'docere fabulam', to teach a play to the actors, to bring out, exhibit', δοκεῖ μοι `it seems to me' (`is suitable to me'); δόξα f. `opinion, fame' (*δοκ-σα), δόγμα n. `decision', δόκιμος `respectable, approved ' ; δοκεύω `to see, discern, perceive, observe; to think, suppose, imagine, expect ', προσ-δοκάω `anticipate, expect'; about διδάσκω see below dens-1.

Maybe alb. Geg doke `custom, ritual, tradition (observed)', (**deuk-*) dukem `appear, seem'.

Alb. shows that from Root / lemma: *dek-1 : `to take' derived the nasalized Root / lemma: tong-1 (**teng-*) : `to think, feel'.

alb. ndieh `to feel' (**dek-skō-?*); ndesh `find, encounter' probably Slavic loanword? S. under dēs-;

Latin decet, -ēre `it is proper, it is fitting (physically or morally)', decus, -oris n. `distinction, honor, glory, grace; moral dignity, virtue; of persons, pride, glory ', dignus `worthy, deserving; esp. of persons, usually with abl. or genit. of things, worth having, deserved, suitable, fitting ' (from **dec-nos*, actually `adorned with'); Umbrian tiçit decet (see in addition EM. 257); causative doceō, -ēre `instruct' (`lets accept something '); discō, -ere, didīci `to learn, get to know; 'discere fidibus', to learn to play on the lyre; in gen., to receive information, find out; to become acquainted with, learn to recognize ' (from **di-elk-skō*);

Old Irish dech 'the best ' (= Latin decus); also in PN Echuid (**ekvo-dek-s*), Gen. Echdach, Luguid, Gen. Luigdech (proto Irish Lugu-deccas with cc = k), whether does not stand for e for older i; then to deik- 'point', in the meaning 'order'.

Perhaps here Germanic **teh-ūōn* in Old English teohhian, tiohhian 'mean, decide, define, ordain, determine', teohh, tiohh 'troop, multitude, crowd, group of people ', tēon (**tehōn*) 'decide, define, ordain, determine', Old High German gizehōn 'bring in order ', Middle High German zeche 'alignment, guild, brotherhood, colliery, association ', Modern High German Zeche, Middle High German zesem (**teksma-*) 'uninterrupted row', wherefore perhaps with lengthened grade ( **tēz-ūō*) Gothic tēwa 'order', gatēwjan 'dispose'; s. above also under deuā- 'move spatially forward '.

Doubtful Old Church Slavic dešq, desiti 'find', Serbo-Croatian děsīm děsiti 'meet', refl. 'meet somebody ', Czech po-desíti and u-desíti 'catch up, catch'; changing through ablaut russ.-Church Slavic dositi 'find, meet'; s. also under dēs-.

Tocharian A tāk- 'adjudicate, decide, determine'; dubious A tāskmām (**tāsk-mām*) 'similar', Van Windekens Lexique 137; Pisani Rč. R. 1st. Lomb. 76, 2, 30.

For es-stem Old Indic daśas(yāti), Latin decus the words stand for 'right' (Specht KZ. 62, 218).

deks- with variant suffixes:

common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

Old Indic dákṣiṇa-, dakṣiṇā- 'on the right, to the south, skilful', Avestan dašina- 'right', Lithuanian dėšinas ds., dešinė 'the right hand', Old Church Slavic desnъ 'right'; gr. δεξιτερός = Latin dexter, -tra, -trum (compounds dexterior, Superl. dextimus), Oscan destrst (abbreviated from **destrust*) 'it is on the right ', Umbrian destrame 'on the right side '; gr. δεξιός 'right, heralding luck, skilful, adroit' (from δεξι- with formants -Fo-, compare gall. Dexsiva dea); (the suffix -uo- probably after **lai-uo-*, skai-uo- 'links') Old Irish dess 'on the right, to the south', cymr. deheu (**deksovo-*) ds., Gothic taíhswa, Old High German zesō 'right', Gothic taíhswō- Old High German zes(a)wa 'the right hand'; alb. djathtë 'right' (that from G. Meyer identical with it Church Slavic destъ is probably corruption for desnъ, s. Berneker 187).

Note:

The etymology of G. Meyer seems erroneous because of the common alb. -k- > -th- similar as Latin dexter, -tra, -trum is a suffixed form of old PIE Root / lemma: *dek-1: 'to take'. The -ter, -tra suffix has been attested in Avestan Illyrian alb. and Latin Hence before -tra, -ter suffix the -k- becomes usually -ks- in all the above mentioned languages. Hence alb. (**dek-*) djath-të 'right' evolved from the common alb. -k- > -th- like in alb. (mag-) math 'big' while -të is the common alb. suffix as in alb. maj-të 'left' from Latin male 'badly, ill, wrongly, wickedly, unfortunately, extremely'.

References: WP. I 782 f., WH. I 330 f., 346 f., Trautmann 53, 54, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 648, 678, 684, 697, Wistrand Instrumentalis 14 ff.

Page(s): 189-191

---

Root / lemma: *dek-2 (: doġ-, dēġ-)

Meaning: to tear

Material: Old Indic dasā 'protruding sheet filaments at the end of fabric, fringes'; Irish dūal 'lock, curl of hair' (**doġlo-*); Gothic tag/n. 'single hair', Old Norse tag/n. 'the hair in the horse's tail', Old English tæg/ (engl. tail) m. 'tail', Old High German zage/ 'tail, sting, prick, male member, rod';

Gothic tahjan 'rend, pull, tear, tug', distahjan 'scatter', isl. tæeja, tāa 'teasels', Norwegian dial. tæja (**tahjan*) and taa (**tahōn*) 'fray, tear';

Old Norse tāg, Pl. tāger and tāgarf. 'fibre, filament', Middle High German zāch, zāhe f. 'wick, slow match (wick)'; in other meaning ('tugging - lugging, pulling out') Norwegian Dialectal taag 'slow and enduring', maybe alb. tegel 'sewing'

Middle Low German tēge, East Frisian tāge 'stringy, tenacious' and Old High German zag 'hesitating, undecided, shy, timid' wherefore zagēn 'be desperate and undecided';

perhaps here as 'from which one tears himself' or 'ragged, rimose piece', Middle High German zacke m. f., Modern High German Zacke, Middle English takke 'fibula, clasp, a large nail', engl. tack 'peg, small nail', with other final sound tagg, tagge m. 'jutting cusp, peak, prong, spike'; or belongs Zacke to Latvian dēgums 'nose, shoe point'?

Maybe alb. takë 'shoe heel (spike?)' perhaps here as 'in which one tears himself' or 'ragged, cracked piece', Middle High German zacke m. f., Modern High German Zacke, Middle English takke 'fibula', engl. tack ` pencil, small nail ', with other final sound tagg, tagge m. ` excellent point, point '; or Zacke to Latvian dēgums hear `nose, shoe point '?

References: WP. I 785.

See also: see also under denk-.

Page(s): 191

---

Root / lemma: dekṃ, dekṃ-t, deku- (**dye-kṃ-t*)

Meaning: ten

Note:

Root / lemma: dekṃ, dekṃ-t, deku- (**dye-kṃ-t*): `ten' is an extended Root / lemma: dyō(u) (**dyei-*): `two'. The subsequent roots **yi-kṃt-ī-*: `twenty' and kṃtóm `hundred' are mutated forms of the root **dye-kṃ-t*: `ten'. They both reflect the common Illyrian- balt d- > zero.

Comments:

The root number (**kem-t-ō*) for 10, 20, 30, 40, 100 derived from the name of deer counted by PIE hunters. see Root / lemma: kem-2: hornless, young deer.

Material: Old Indic dáśa, Avestan dasa, Armenian tasn (after Meillet Esquisse 42 from **deḱ-*, as russ. (tri)dcatb `30' from (tri)dbseti), gr. δέκα, Latin decem (dēnī `per ten' from **dek-noi*, PN Decius = Oscan Dekis, Gen. Dekkieis, Oscan deketasiúí, Nom. Pl. degetasiús `manager of the tithes' (**deken-tāsio-*), Umbrian desen-(duñ) `twelve', Old Irish deich, cymr. deg, corn. bret. dek, Gothic taihun (-n as in sibun, niun), Old Norse tiu, Old English tien, tyn, Old Saxon tehan, Old High German zehan (a probably from den compounds, Brugmann II 2, 18), Tocharian A śāk, B śak, Finnish deksan `10' is after Jokl Pr. ling. Baudouin de Courtenay 104 borrows from Indo Germanic).

In the substantive number dekṃ-t(i), actually `decade', go back:

Old Indic daśat-, daśati- f. `decade', alb. djetë, gr. δέκας, -άδος (to α s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 498, 597), Gothic taihun-tēhund `hundred' (actually `ten decades'), Old Norse tiund f. ds., Old Prussian dessimpts `ten', Lithuanian dėšimt, old dėšimtis, Latvian old desimt, metath. desmit, old desmits (compare desmite m. f. `ten'); Old Church Slavic desętb (conservative stem in -t, Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 428);

deku- probably in Latin decuria `a body of ten men; a class, division, esp. of jurors; a party, club' (out of it borrows Modern High German Decher ü.. `ten pieces'; late Latin **tegoria* is assumed through Swiss Ziger 'ten pounds of milk'; probably identical with Middle High German ziger 'curd' = Umbrian dequrier, tekuries 'decuries, feast of decuries'; compare Oscan-Umbrian dekvia- in Oscan (vía) Dekkviarim 'a way) appropriate to a decury', Umbrian tekvias 'a way to a decury'; in addition probably Germanic **tigu-* 'decade' in Gothic fidwor-tigjus '40', Old Icelandic fiðrer-tiger, Old English fēower-tig, Old High German fior-zug ds. Older explanations by WH. I 327 f. and Feist 150. see also under centuria under Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Decher.

Maybe alb. tek 'odd number'

Changing through ablaut (d)k̑m̑- (Dual), (d)k̑m̑- (Plur.) in figures of ten (only formations up to 50 are provable as Indo Germanic), e.g. Old Indic triṃśát '30', Avestan θrisas, Armenian ere-sun, gr. τριᾱκοντα (from \-κωντα*; further details by Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 592), Latin tri-gintā (with unexplained g), gallo-Latin Abl. Pl. TRICONTIS, Old Irish trīcho (with ī after trī '3'), bret. tregont (**tri-k̑m̑-es*), acymr. trimuceint (in the ending after uceint '20'); s. also under ũ-k̑m̑tī '20'.

ordinals dek<sub>e</sub>mo-s and dek̑m-to-s:

dek<sub>e</sub>mo-s in Old Indic daśamá-ḥ, Avestan dasəma-, osset. däsäm, Latin decimus, therefrom decumānus 'of the tenth.(1) relating to the provincial tax of a tenth; m. as subst. the farmer of such a tax. (2) belonging to the tenth legion; m. pl. as subst. its members. (3) belonging to the tenth cohort', later 'considerable', Oscan Dekm-anniúis **Decumaniis*, compare also EN Decumius, out of it entl. etr. tecumnal, latinized back Decumenus; gall. decametos, Old Irish dechmad, mcymr. decvet, corn. degves.

dek̑m-to-s in gr. δέκατος (see also Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 595); Gothic taíhunda, Old Norse tíunda, Old High German zehanto, zehendo, Old English teogeða, Old Prussian dessīmts, Lithuanian dešim̃tas, Latvian desmitais, older desimtaiš, Old Church Slavic desęty; Tocharian A škānt, B škante, škañce (linguistic singles Armenian tasn-erord, alb. i-dhjetë);

Note:

Anatolian languages show a pattern similar to alb. So Lycian aitāta (**oktō(u)ta*) 'eight': alb. teta 'eight'; Lycian ñuñtāta 'nine': alb. nanda 'nine'. Therefore alb. shtata 'seven' derived from a truncated **sa(p)tata* 'seven' later Old Indic saptáthaḥ, Avestan haptaθa-, Old Saxon sivotho, Old English sefoða, Lithuanian septiñtas; also Old Indic saptatī-, Avestan haptāiti- 70; in alb. -ta, -të are attribute endings that were solidified in Anatolian and Indic cognates. The attribute ta (used in the genitive and adjectives) is unique to alb. language alone.

Therefore alb. teta 'eight' is a zero grade of Lycian aitāta (**oktō(u)ta*) 'eight'. It was initially an ordinal number used as an attribute [compare Latin octuāgintā '80'].

Alb. Tosc nanta, Geg nanda 'nine' derived from Lycian ñuñtāta 'nine'.

Alb. gjashta (seks-ta) 'six' [common alb. s- > gj-] : Old Indic ṣaṭ 'six', ṣaṣṭhā 'sixth' was initially an ordinal number.

Hence alb. die-ta 'ten' derived from a proto Romance cognate **die* + common alb. -ta suffix used in attribute nouns; similarly in: Portuguese dez, Galician dez, Spanish diez, Ladino dies, Asturian diez, Aragonese diez, Auvergnat dié, Limosin die, Rumantsch Grischun diesch, Sursilvan diesch, Vallader desch, Ladin diesc, Italian dieci, Venetian diese etc.

Here kṛntóm 'hundred' from *(d)kṛntóm '(ten) dekades':

Old Indic śatám, Avestan satəm (out of it Finnish sata, Crimean Gothic sada);

gr. ἑκατόν, Arcadian ἑκοτόν (from dissimil. **sém kṛntom* 'a hundred'? compare Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 592 f.), abbreviated *κατον in *τετρά-κατον etc (in τετρακάτιοι τετρακόσιοι, 400, 'four hundred');

Note:

Gr. ἑκατόν (**hekaton*) < *(d)kṛntóm '(ten) dekades' is crucial to tracing the cause of old laryngeal h appearance in IE. Hence laryngeals were created after the loss of initial d- in IE. Gr. and Anatolian tongues reflect the common Illyrian-balt d- > zero.

Latin centum (in addition ducentum, ducentī '200', compare Old Indic dvi-śatam from **dvi-kṛntóm*, trecentī '300', quadringentī '400', etc; centēsimus 'the hundredth' after vīcēsimus, trīcēsimus from **uei-*, **trī-kṛnt-temo-s*);

Old Irish cēt, cymr. cant, bret. kant, corn. cans;

Gothic Old Saxon Old English hund, Old High German hund '100' (in compounds from 200), but Old Norse hund-rað (to Gothic raþian 'count') '120 pieces (10 dozens)' ('120'), out of it Old English hundred, Middle High German Modern High German hundert from Old Saxon hunderod;

Lithuanian šim̃tas, Latvian simts;

Old Church Slavic etc sъto is barely iran. loanword (Meillet Slave commun.<sup>2</sup> 63);

Tocharian A känt, B känte.

Alb. Geg dü, Tosc di 'two' hence alb. (**hünt*) alb. një-qind 'one-hundred' [common alb. ü > ɿ], hence alb. displays centum characteristics while Rumanian sută 'a hundred' displays the satem nature of Rumanian

In addition a r-derivative in Latin centuria f. 'a division of 100; a company of soldiers; a century, a part of the Roman people, as divided by Servius Tullius' (as decuria), Old Norse hundari, Old High German huntari n. 'a division of 100, administrative district', Old Bulgarian съtorica ds., Lithuanian šimteriopas 'characterized by a hundred', šimter-gis 'hundred-year-old'.

References: WP. I 785 f., WH. I 200 f., 327 ff., 859, Feist 150, 471 f., Trautmann 53, 305.

Page(s): 191-192

---

Root / lemma: del-1

Meaning: to put by; to count, tell

Material: Perhaps Armenian toť 'line, row', toťem 'line up';

gr. δόλος 'artifice, bait', δολόω 'outwit, circumvent', δόλων 'small dagger of the assassinator' (about δόλων 'sprit' see below del-3);

from Gr. have been borrowed Latin dolus 'a device, artifice; fraud, deceit, guile; a trap artifice, deception', dolō 'a pike, sword-stick, a small foresail', Oscan Akk. dolom, Abl. dolud 'a device, artifice; fraud, deceit, guile; a trap';

maybe alb. (**tāl*) tall 'tease, trick': Old Norse tāl/f. 'deceit, guilefulness'.

Old Norse ta/n. 'bill, account, invoice, calculus, reckoning, calculation, number, speech' (Old English tæ/n. 'calculation, row', gital 'number'), therefrom Old Norse telja 'recount, narrate, relate', Old English tellan, Old High German zellen (Fem. Old Norse tola 'speech, number, bill, account, invoice, calculus, reckoning, calculation'), Old English tal 'narration, row', Old High German zala 'number, report, account' (therefrom Old Norse tala 'talk', Old English talian 'reckon, consider, think, tell', Old High German zalōn 'calculate, count, pay'); g-extension in engl. talk 'talk'; from s-stem **talaz*-n.: Gothic talzian 'instruct', un-tals 'indocile, disobedient', in addition Old English getæl 'rash, hasty, quick, fast', Old Saxon gital/Old High German gizal 'quick, fast'; with the in dolus 'a device, artifice; fraud, deceit, guile; a trap' present coloring of meaning lengthened grade Old Norse tāl/f. 'deceit, guilefulness ', Old English tæf f. 'reprimand, slander, derision ', Old High German zāla 'pestering, temptation; snare, danger', zālōn 'tear away, rob'; zero grade Old English tyllan 'allure, entice' (**d/n-*).

Original resemblance with de- 'split' is doubtful; perhaps from the hatchet being aimed at the wood to be split or from the technique of runes (number marks as incision)?

About **d/n-* in Gothic ga-tils 'fitting', etc, see below ad-2, probably barely from of an additional form **dai-* here. An association with **de-* Persson attempted root extension 115, Pedersen KZ. 39, 372, while they, deriving from dā-, dāi- 'divide ', **de-* and **dai-*, dī- grasped as parallel extensions.

References: WP. I 808 f.

Page(s): 193

---

Root / lemma: del-2

Meaning: to shake

Material: Old Indic dulā f. 'the wavering ', with secondary lengthened grade ō: dōlayatē 'swings, sways ', -ti 'swings, whirls up ', dōlita- 'fluctuating, moves by oscillating '; Lithuanian dēlsti 'tarry, hesitate', dulinėti 'amble, bum'; with *d-*extension doubtful (?) Old Indic dud- f. 'a small turtle, tortoise' ('waddling'), rather Old English tealt 'doubtful, uncertain, wavering', tealt(r)ian 'waver, wobble, sway, be doubtful, uncertain', engl. tilt 'incline ', Middle Dutch touteren 'waver, wobble, sway, swing', Norwegian Dialectal tylta 'tread quietly, like on toes ', Swedish tulta 'walk with small, insecure steps, like children '; with *z-*extension Old High German zeltāri, Middle High German zelter, md. zelder 'pacesetter, going on a trot, trotting ', Modern High German Zelter, Old Norse tjaldari ds. (influence of Latin tolūtārius 'pacesetter, going on a trot, trotting '; compare isl. tölta 'march in step, match in tempo ' from **talutōn*; the relationship to that mentioned by Plinius span. words thieldones 'pacesetter, going on a trot, trotting ' is unclear), Old Norse tjaldr 'Haematopus ostralegus, Eurasian oystercatcher' ('the trudger '); but rather with -l- from -l/n- Old Norse tolla 'hang loose', tyllast 'toddle, walk on tiptoe; trip'. compare Falk-Torp under kjeld, tulle.

Maybe alb. tul 'boneless meat, pulp, leg meat (also meat hanging lose)'

References: WP. I. 809.

Root / lemma: del-3 (dol-), dele-

Meaning: to split, divide

Material: Old Indic dālāyati 'splits, makes break, crack', dālati 'cracks' (meaning influenced by phālati 'broken in two', Güntert Reimw. 48), dalitá-h 'split, pull apart, blossomed, flourished', dala-m n. 'deal, portion, piece, half, leaf', dālī-h f. 'clod of earth'; but Prakr. ḍālā, -ī 'bough', probably also daṇḍā-h, -m 'stick, bludgeon, beating, punishment' are after Kuiper Proto-Munda 65, 75 not Indo Germanic;

Armenian probably taḥ 'imprinting, impression, mark, token, sign, stave', taḥem 'stamps, brands' (Scheftelowitz BB. 29, 27; **deh-*);

gr. δαίδαλος, δαιδάλεος 'wrought artificially', Intens. δαι-δάλλω 'work skillfully, decorate' (dissimil. from **δαλ-δαλ-*, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 647); δέλτος (changing through ablaut Cypriot δάλτος) '(*writing board) a writing-tablet' ('wood fissure, smoothly slammed wood board', s. Boisacq 174 m. Lithuanian and to meaning esp. Schulze KZ. 45, 235; compare to the form under Modern High German tent); perhaps here δόλων 'sprit, small sail' (out of it Latin dolō m. 'a pike, sword-stick; a small foresail'); quite doubtful whereas δαν-δαλ-ις, δενδαλῖς 'cakes of the flour of roasted barley' δεν-δαλ-ιδες ἱεραὶ κριθαὶ as 'crushed, coarsely ground' (= '*split'?? Prellwitz<sup>2</sup> 104 between); lengthened grade δηλέομαι 'destroy, smash, damage' (not to Latin dēleō 'to blot out, efface; in gen., to destroy, annihilate'); reduced grade Ionian πανδάλητος 'annihilated', φρενο-δαλῆς 'disturbed senses' Aisch.; el. κα-δαλήμενοι with el. ā from η (see Boisacq 182; against it Wackernagel Gl. 14, 51); with the meaning change 'the heart?) tear, maltreat, cause pain' gr. δάλλει κακουργεῖ Hes. (**dehliō*), δαλῆ κακουργῆ (δαλήσασθαι λυμήνασθαι. ἀδικῆσαι, δάλαν λύμην); compare also Latvian dēlīt 'torment, smite, agonize' and Latin doleō 'to suffer pain, physical or mental, to be pained, to grieve; of things, to cause pain', dolor 'pain, physical or mental; esp. disappointment, resentment. Transf., cause of sorrow; rhet., pathos';

alb. dalloj 'separate, distinguish, divide', djal 'kid, child, offspring' (*'offshoot') (**delno-*; compare Middle Irish del 'rod');

Latin dolō, -āre 'to hew with an axe, to work roughly', dolābra 'a pick-axe, mattock, hoe', lengthened grade dōlium 'a wine-jar, cask, barrel, vat' (as proto Slavic **dъly* 'barrel, vat, cask' see below); doleō, dolor see above (but dēleō is because of Perf. dēlēvi probably new formation from dē-lēvi 'has erased, effaced, obliterated, blotted out');

Old Irish delb f. 'shape, form', acymr. delu, ncymr. delw 'image, figure, effigy', corn. del, as with causative ablaut Old Irish dolb(a)id 'shaped', doilbthid 'a worker in clay, potter' (to Celtic **deluā*, **dolu-*, compare ū-stem Slavic dbly); perhaps Old Irish fo-dālim 'discern, separate, exclude' (etc, s. Pedersen KG.II 502 f.), acorn. didaul 'having no part in, not sharing in; wanting in, destitute of' (compare Old Indic and Baltic-slav, words for 'deal, portion'), perhaps Old Irish fo-dālim 'discerno, sejungo' (etc., see Pedersen KG.II 502 f.), acorn. didaul 'expers' (compare Old Indic and Baltic-slav, words for 'part'), cymr. gwa-ddol 'a portion or dowry' as o-forms besides δηλέομαι (just as well but as **dā-l-* correlate to **dā(i)-* 'divide'); probably Middle Irish del 'staff, rod' (as 'split piece wood'), corn. dele 'antenna' (or to θάλλω Indo Germanic **dʰāl-*, whose certain attachments indeed point only a-vocalism?; with meaning- transfer alb. djalë 'kid, child, youth, youngling' ? see below dʰāl-);

Middle Low German tol, tolle 'point of twig, branch', holl. tol 'spinning top' (**peg*, plug'), Middle High German zol(l) m., zolle f. 'cylindric bit of wood, clot, chunk, block, toggle', zol as measurement of length 'inch', īs-zolle 'icicle', Old Norwegian horntylla 'yoke, wood piece connecting the horns of two oxen going in the bottom plate' (**dʰl-n-*); but Middle High German zulle, zülle, Modern High German Zülle 'riverboat, barge' is probably in spite of Persson Beitr. 174 not genuine Germanic, but loanword from Slavic, s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Zülle 'riverboat, barge'; other formations holl. tolk 'stick, rod, chopstick', Swedish tolk 'wedge', Middle High German zolch 'clot, chunk, block, (**blockhead*), lubber' (whether Old Norse tālkn n. 'gill of fish' as 'the split'? Falk-Torp under tōkn); with -d nnd. talter 'rag, scrap, shred' (Holthausen Afneue Spr. 121, 292); with t-suffix Germanic **telda-* '*stretched tent pole' (: gr. δέλτος) in Old Norse tiald 'curtain, cover, rug, tent', Old English teld n. 'tent', Old High German Modern High German zelt, actually 'stretched cover'; in addition Old High German zelto, Modern High German Zelten, Zeltkuchen; or better as 'shredded, ground' (see above δενδαλῖς) to Tocharian B tselt-, tsālt- 'chew'; from Germanic Lidén aaO. still ranks Old Swedish tialdra, tiældra 'cairn' in (**tel-Prōn-* or -ōrōn '*shaft, pole, peg, plug as a boundary marker' ?);

Lithuanian dylù, dilti (delù, dīlti), Latvian dēlu, dilstu, dīlt 'wear out, polish' (from '*to plane'), dēlīt 'wear out, torment, smite'; Lithuanian pūs-dylis (ménuo) 'moon in the last quarter', delčią 'decreasing moon', causative Latvian dēldēt 'wear out, liquidate, rub off, destroy', diluot 'skive, abrade, polish'; out of it derived the concept of smoothness justified probably the transference there of Lithuanian dėl̃na (by Juskiewicz also dát̃na), Latvian dēlna 'inner flat hand', Old Church Slavic dlanь 'palm', russ. old dolonь, nowadays reconverted with metathesis ladónь 'palm; flat place on the threshing floor, threshing floor' (Berneker 208, Trautmann 51, different Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 454);

Lithuanian dalīs, East Lithuanian dalià 'deal, portion, inheritance; alms' (= Old Indic dalí- h 'clod of earth'), dalijù, dalýti 'divide', Latvian dala 'deal, portion, lot', dalīt 'divide', Old Prussian dellieis 'divide, share!', dellīks 'deal, portion' (e from a, Trautmann Old Prussian 100), russ. (etc) dólja 'deal, portion, lot' (in addition Old Church Slavic odolěti 'defeat, conquer' = '*have, obtain the best part', Berneker 206). compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 435.

Doubtful Old Church Slavic děľ 'deal, portion': either as **dēlo-s* here, or rather with Indo Germanic ai as **dai-lo-* to root dā(i)- 'divide'; about Gothic dails, Modern High German Teil see above under dā-, dāi-.

Proto Slavic ũ-stem **dъly*, Gen. **dъlyve* (: Old Irish delb from **deluā*) in russ.-Church Slavic delvi (**dъlyvi*) Lok. Sg., N. Pl. 'barrel, vat, cask', Middle Bulgarian dbli (**dъly*), Lok. Sg. dblyvi 'barrel, vat, cask', New Bulgarian delva (**dъlyva*) 'big clay vessel with two handles'; extension del-gh-, dl-egh-; dolgho- etc 'sickle, blade'.

Tocharian A tālo, B tallāwo 'unlucky', Van Windekens Lexique 136 (?); rather B tsalt-, tsālt- 'chew', Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 18 f.

Indo-iran. **dargha-* (dolgho-) is assumed through Mordovian loanword tarvas 'sickle'; compare pamirdial. l̥arégūś ds.;

Old Irish dlongid 'he splits', dluige (**dlogio-*) 'the fissured', Middle Irish dluigim 'split';

Old Norse telgja 'hew, cut out', talga 'the cutting, carving', talgo-knīfr 'slice knife', also Old Norse tjalga 'thin twig, branch, long arm', Old English telga m. 'twig, branch, bough', telgor m. f., telgra m. 'twig, branch, scion', Middle High German zelge, zelch 'bough, twig, branch', Old High German zuelga 'twig, branch' (whose zw- probably previously is taken over from zwig); about Lithuanian dailgis, Gen. -io m., Latvian dalgs, Old Prussian doalgis 'scythe' see below d<sup>h</sup>elg-;

dolghā in serb. dlaga `board for the splint of broken bones', poln. Dialectal dłožka `flooring from planks', Czech dláha (dlaha) `board, splint, base of the ground', dlážití (dlážiti), dlážditi `pave, hit the screed' (Berneker 207).

As for **del-* `whereupon it is split apart' is also for that with it perhaps originally resemble **del-* `split' given the possibility, that d-el- is an extension from dāl- `divide, share'.

References: WP. I 809 ff., WH. 364 ff., Lidén KZ. 56, 216 ff., Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 18 f.

Page(s): 194-196

---

Root / lemma: del-4

Meaning: to rain

Material: Armenian tet `heavy rain', tetam, -em, -um `to rain, shower, sprinkle, irrigate', titm (**tetim?*), Gen. tmoi,

Middle Irish delt m. `dew'; also FIN; bret. delt `humid, wet, moist';

Germanic **dol-kó-* or **dol-gho-* in dan. Swedish Norwegian talg `tallow, suet', Old English **tealg*, Middle English talgh, engl. tallow, nnl. talk, Modern High German Talg (from Ndd.); ablaut. Old Norse tolgr (**tǫl-kó-*) ds.

Note:

Middle Irish delt m. `dew'; bret. delt `humid, wet, moist' display alb.-illyr -k > -th, -t subsequents.

References: Petersson Heterokl. 198 f., different Kluge<sup>11</sup> under `tallow, suet'.

Page(s): 196

---

Root / lemma: del-5

Meaning: long

Note: to put away more confidently only for Slavic, but probably the basis for the widespread extension delēgh- and (d)longho- (see finally Persson Beitr. 889, 903 Anm. 1)

Material: Perhaps here Old Norse talma `hinder', Middle Low German talmen `loiter, be slow in talking and at work, stupid talk', Norwegian Dialectal tøla `hesitate, wait, hold on', tøle `rogue, fool' (Persson Beitr. 889);

Old Church Slavic pro-dbliti `μηκύναι', russ. dlítb `protract, hesitate', dliná f. `length', Czech dle f. `length', dlíti `hesitate', etc (Berneker 252); perhaps νβ dalje `far, aloof' (Meillet MSL.14, 373; Berneker 177 besides other supplements).

delēgh-, dīghó-:

zero grade Old Indic dīrghá- = Avestan darəga-, darəya-, Old pers. darga- `long', zero grade compounds Superl. drāghīyas-, drāghīṣṭha- `longer, for a long time', Avestan drājyō Adv. `further', drājištəm Adv. `longest', npers. dirāz (actually comparative) `long', Old Indic drāghimán-, drāghmán- m. `length, duration', Avestan drājō n. `stretch, length';

gr. ἐνδελεχής `continuous, persistent, enduring' (*drag out), ἐνδελεχέω `continue', δολιχός `long' (to /s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 278, different Specht Dekl. 126), δόλιχος `the long racecourse'; about alb. glatë etc see below;

Note:

Clearly alb. (**da-lu-ga-aš-ti*) glatë `long' derived from Hittite da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugasti) n. `length': Old Church Slavic dľgota `length' (= Old Indic dīrghatā): proto Slavic. **dlgostь*, poln. długosc etc ds.

Alb. and Baltic forms agree in dropping the initial d- > zero, which means that Baltic cognates originated from proto Illyrian:

Alb. (**da-lu-ga-aš-ti*) glatë `long, tall, high': Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. `long'; alb. is the only IE lang. where (**da-lu-ga-aš-ti*) glatë `long' means also `tall, high' hence the name Alba Longa capital of Etruscan settlers is an alb. concept of building fortresses on hilltops of future Rome.

Latin presumably indulgeō `to be forbearing, patient, indulgent; to give oneself up to, indulge in; grant, allow, concede' (: ἐνδελεχής, basic meaning then `be patient to somebody compared with, hold on patiently') from **en-dolgh-ejō*.

Maybe alb. (**en-dolgh-ejō*) Geg. ndigjoj, Tosc dëgjoj `listen, hear, be submissive', gjej `answer', Tosc ndëlej, ndëjeje, ndjeje `feel', ndiej `feel, hear'.

cymr. dal, dala, daly `hold, stop', bret. dalc'h `possession', derc'hel `hold, stop' (r diss. from l, compare participle dalc'het) presumably with the meaning-development as Modern

High German ` after which last ' to `long' (basic form **d<sub>el</sub>(ə)gh-*; Zupitza BB. 25, 90 f., Pedersen KG. I 52, 106);

Maybe nasalized alb. ndal `hold, stop' : cymr. dal, dala, daly `hold, stop'.

Gothic tulgus `tight, firm, steadfast' (*`long, persistent, enduring '), Old Saxon tulgo Adv. `very', Old English tulge, compounds tylg `better, rather ', Superl. tylgest `best';

Baltic with unexplained d-loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. `long';

Old Church Slavic dľgъ, serb. dŭg, Old Czech dlúhý, russ. dótgij `long' (= Old Indic dīrghá-), in addition serb. dŭž f. `length'; Old Church Slavic dľgota `length' (= Old Indic dīrghatā); proto Slavic. **dlgostъ*, poln. długość etc ds.;

Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) `long', da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugasti) n. `length'.

/d/longho-s:

a) Middle Persian drang, npers. dirang `long' (but alb. glatë, gjatë, gjat `long' at first from **dlagh-t*);

b) Latin longus `long; spacious; of time, long, of long duration; esp. too long, tedious; of persons, prolix, tedious', Gothic laggs, Old English Old High German Modern High German lang (Old High German langēn `become long, seem long, long, want', etc); but Old Irish etc long `ship' seems to be borrowed from Latin (navis) longa; nevertheless, because of second meaning `vessel' and Middle Irish coblach `fleet' (**kom-uo-log-* or \-lug-*) though Loth (RC. 43, 133 f.) holds that word for genuine Celtic; compare also abrit. FIN Λόγγος (Ptol.) and gall. VN ΛΟΓΓΟ-ΣΤΑΛΗΤΕΣ (Aude); anlaut. dl- remains preserved otherwise Celtic. In the group b) would display an already common West Indo Germanic simplification, might be connected with the d-loss of Baltic ilgas . compare also Specht Dekl. 126.

Maybe Alba Longa (Rome) capital of Illyrian - Etrus. : Illyrian Albanoi TN

References: WP. I 812 f., WH. I 694 f., 820 f., Trautmann 55, Pedersen Hittite 34 f.

Page(s): 196-197

---

Root / lemma: demel-

Meaning: worm

Material: Epidaur. δεμελέας f. Akk. Pl., δεμβλεῖς βδέλλαι Hes.; perhaps alb. dhemjë `caterpillar, inchworm' (could stand for **dhemlië*), dhëmime, dhimíze `meat maggot'.

References: WP. I 790.

Page(s): 201

---

Root / lemma: (demə-), domə-, domə-

Meaning: to tame

Material: Old Indic dāmyāti `is tamed; tamed' (**dñ̥-ietī*), dāmtá- `tamed' (**dñ̥-tós*); Kaus. damáyati `tames, overmasters' (**domejō*), participle damita-; damítár- `tamer'; damitvā `taming', damāyāti `tames' (**domā-jo* = Latin domo); damá-h `domesticating', dáma-h `taming'; osset. domun `tame', npers. dam `domesticated animal'; after Pisani Crest. Indeur.<sup>2</sup> 113 here (as **dñ̥-so-s*) dāsá-h `fiend, non-Aryan', actually `slave', but because of the incredible stem formation;

gr. δάμνᾱμι, Ionian -ημι, Aor. ἐ-δάμα(σ)σα (for *ε-δέμασσα) `tame', various secondary reshaped, as δαμνάω etc, πανδαμάτωρ `the all-subduer, all-tamer', Doric δμᾱτός `tamed' (**dñ̥-tós*), hom. ἄδμητος and ἄδμής, -ήτος `untamed, unrestrained, unwed, unmarried', Ionian Perf. δέδμημαι, δμητήρ `tamer', δμησίς `taming, domestication'; forms with root vowel o are missing in Gr.;

Latin domō (**domā-jō* = damāyāti), domās (**domā-si* = Old High German zamōs) `to domesticate, tame, break, subdue, master', Perf. domuī (from **domə-uaī*), participle domitus (reshaped after domuī and domitor from **dmātos*, Indo Germanic **dñ̥-to-s*), domitor `tamer' (= Old Indic damítár-); domitus, -ūs m. `taming' (compare Old Indic damitvā);

Old Irish damnaim `bind (tight, firm), tame (horses)', Verbalnom. damnad and domnad (probably = gr. δάμνημι); phonetic mixture with damnaim from Latin damnō, also the unruléd m has probably arisen from participle dammaintī, Old Irish dam- `acquiesce, endure, grant' (e.g. daimid `admitted to' probably = Old Indic dāmyāti, composes nī-daim `not enduring, not suffering'; Perf. dāmair from lengthened grade **dōm-*), with ad- `admit' (e.g. 3. PL ataimef), with fo- `endure' (e.g. 1. Sg. fo-daimim), cymr. addef, bret. añsav `admit', acymr. nī cein guodeimisauch Gl. `have not endured well', ncymr. go-ddef `suffer, endure, allow', corn. gothaf 'bear, endure', bret. gouzañv, gouzav us. (but cymr. dofi 'tame', acymr. dometic 'domesticated', ar-domaul 'docile', cymr. dōf, bret. doff 'tame, domesticated' stems from Latin domāre, so that native forms with o were absent in Celtic);

Gothic ga-tamjan, Old Norse temja, Old English temian, Middle Low German temmen, Old High German zemmen 'tame' (Kaus. **domėjō* = Old Indic damáyati); Old High German zamōn ds. (= Latin domā-re), Old Norse tamr, Old English tam, Old High German zam 'domesticated, tamed, subdued, mastered' (unclear, whether back-formation from verb, or if the pass. meaning has arisen from 'domestication = the tamed', so that in historic connection with Old Indic dāma-h 'taming').

Because of Old Indic damya- 'to tame' and 'young bull, which still should be tamed' and because of gr. δαμάλης on the one hand 'overmastering, taming' ('Ερως, Anakreon), on the other hand 'young (still to be tamed) bull', wherefore δαμάλη 'young cow', δάμαλις 'ds.'; also 'young girl', δάμαλος 'calf', is probably alb. dëntë, dhëntë, Geg dhënt 'small cattle, sheep and goats, sheep' (**dem-tā* or **dem-to-s*, respectively **dom-tā*, -to-s), dem 'bovine animal, cattle, young bull' (= Old Indic damya-), as well as also gall. GN Damona f. and Old Irish dam 'ox' (**damos*), dam allaid 'deer' ('wild ox'), as well as cymr. dafad, acorn. dauat, bret. dañvat 'sheep (then = gr. ἄ-δάμτος) to add (originally appellation of domesticated bovine animal); Latin damma or dāma is probably borrowed from Celtic or from elsewhere; unclear is Old English dā f. 'roe deer' (out of it acorn. da 'a fallow-deer, chamois, antelope'), engl. doe, Alemannian tē ds., compare Holthausen Altengl. etym. Wb. 68; from Old French daim 'fallow-deer' derives bret. dem ds.; Germanic additional forms s. by Falk-Torp under daadyr m. Lithuanian; corresponding to niederösterr. zamer, zamerl 'young ox' (Much ZfdA.42, 167; proto Germanic **a* or **o*?).

Hittite da-ma-aš-zi 'thronged', preterit 3. Pl. ta-ma-aš-šir, Pedersen Hittite 95 f.

Maybe those cognates derived from Tumuzi the shepherd in Sumerian.

References: WP. 1 788 f., WH I 367 f., 861, Meillet BSL. 33, 110.

Page(s): 199-200

---

Root / lemma: dem-, dema-

Meaning: to build; house

Material: Gr. δέμω 'build', from the heavy basis participle Perf. Pass. δεδμημένος, Doric (Pindar) νεόδμητος 'newly built', δέμας n. 'physique, shape' (μεσόδμη, Attic inschr. -μνη 'spanning crossbeams in the middle of the building', yet η [ā] could also be suffix).

The meaning 'settle, fit' in Gothic ga-timan, Old Saxon teman, Old High German zeman 'suit, fit', wherefore lengthened grade Gothic ga-tēmiþa Adv. 'befitting', Middle Low German be-tāme 'fitting', Old High German gi-zāmi 'proper' and abstract zero grades Old High German zumft, Middle High German zumft, zunft 'propriety, rule, association, guild' (**d̥m-ti-*) = Middle Irish dēt 'disposition, temperament' (Old Irish dētlae 'bold, daring'), mcymr. dant 'temperament, character' (mostly Plur. deint), basic form **d̥m-to-*, Loth RC 46, 252 f. compare mcymr. cynnefin 'trustful' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (**kom-dam-īno-*).

ro-stem Old Icelandic timbr 'timber', Old Saxon timbar, Old English timber 'timber, edifice, building, building', Old High German zimbar 'timber, building, dwelling, chamber', whereof Gothic timrjan 'build', Old Norse timbra, Old High German zimberen and zimbaron 'build, do carpentry, do woodwork'.

root nouns dēm-, dōm-, dm-, d̥m- 'house'.

Old Indic pátir dán 'householder', Avestan dēng patoiš 'master of' (*lord of the house) with Gen. **dem-s*, as also gr. δεσ-πότης 'master, mister' (see Risch IF. 59, 12, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 547 f.), Old Indic dām-patī-h 'lord, master' (new shifting together from **dán patī* [= Avestan dēng patī], less probably with Lok. Aryan **dam* as 'master in the house');

Avestan Lok. dām, dāmi 'in the house', Lok. Pl. dāhv-ā, Nom. -dā from proto Aryan **-dās* in uši-dā name of a mountain range ('having one's house by the aurora'), wherefore probably Avestan ha-dāmōi Lok. 'in the same house';

Armenian tun Nom. Akk. 'house' (**dōm*), Instr. tamb (**d̥m-bh*), whereupon Gen. Dat. tan;

gr. ἐν-δον Lok., originally 'inside in house' (also reshaped to ἐνδο-θι, -θεν, ἐνδοι), perhaps also δῶ (**dō[m]*) as Nom. Akk. Sg. n. or Lok.; δῶμα, δώματος originally Akk. Sg.mask. **dōm-m* with structure in Neutr. after στρῶμα; derivative Δμία, Μνία, Δαμία ('mistress of the house'); as 1. composition part in δάμ-αρ 'wife' (**dām-rt* 'governing of the house'), δάπεδον 'floor (originally of the house)' from **d̥m-pedom* (ζάπεδον out of it after the concurrent of δα- and ζα- as intensive prefix; so perhaps also Ionian ζάκοπος 'temple male servant, temple female servant' for *δᾶ-κοπος) = Swedish tomt, Old Icelandic topt 'place for edifice, building' in Norwegian Mdarten 'loam' (Germanic **tum-fetiz*, Indo Germanic **d̥m-ped-*), compare also Lithuanian dim-stis 'courtyard, property; courtyard' (2. part **sto-s* to **stā-* 'stand').

o-stem domo-s: Old Indic dāma-h 'house, dwelling', gr. δόμος 'house' (δομή 'τείχος' etc? Hes), οἰκο-δόμος (\-δομός*) 'builder', Latin Lok. domī 'to a house' (= Old Indic dāmē 'in a house, to a house'), dominus 'master, mister' from **domo-no-s*.

u-stem *domu-s (Brugmann Grdr. II<sup>2</sup> 1, 180 presumes an adv. Lok. **domū* as originator): Latin domus, -ūs f. 'a house, dwelling-house, building, mansion, palace' (out of it is Middle Irish dom-, dam-liacc 'stone house', aur-dam 'pronaos (the space in front of the body of a temple, enclosed by a portico and projecting side-walls)' undertaken with the thing together);

Old Church Slavic domъ m. 'house', russ. dóma 'at house' (**domō[u]*); **domovъ*: Old Russian domovъ 'after the house'; presumably also through Old Indic dāmū-nas- 'housemate' and Armenian tanu-tēr 'householder';

Maybe alb. dhoma 'room': Old Indic dāma-h 'house'.

a stem **dmōu-* in Ionian δμῶς, Gen. δμῶός 'prisoner of war, farm laborer', δμῶή 'bondmaid', Cretan μνῶᾱ f. 'people in slavery, population in serfdom';

Aryan **dm-āna-* in Avestan dəməna-, nmāna- n. 'house', also Old Indic māna-h 'edifice, building, dwelling';

Lithuanian nāmas, Pl. namaĩ 'house, dwelling' is dissimilated from **damas*, in compounds as namū-darỹs 'homemaker', s. WH. I 861.

Note:

It is a common trait of alb. and Lithuanian to drop the initial da- as in Root / lemma: *del-5: 'long': Baltic with unexplained d loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. 'long'; alb. glatë 'long' Baltic and Albanian languages often drop the initial da- > zero. This is a common Baltic-alb.. Hence Lithuanian nāmas derived from a nasalized form **ndāmas*.

Old Irish damnae 'material', cymr. defnydd, Middle Breton daffnez could have originally signified 'timber'.

Tocharian B tem-, A tam-, AB tām- 'create, beget, be born' and B tsam-, AB tsām-, A śam-, śām-, perhaps after Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 21<sup>7</sup> here; in addition also B c(o)mel, A cmol ( **cmelu*) 'birth', Van Windekens Lexique 51.

An old branching of the root is demā- 'tame', originally probably 'tie up in the house, domesticate'.

Note:

Root / lemma: dem-, deme- : 'to build; house' derived from Root / lemma: ǵhei-2 : ǵhi- : ǵhei-men-, **ǵheimn-* : 'winter; snow'. But the ǵh > d has been recorded in Illyrian alb. alone. This makes proto Illyrian the oldest IE branch.

References: WP. I 786 ff.; WH. I 367, 369 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 480, 524, 547 f., 625, Trautmann 44.

Page(s): 198-199

---

Root / lemma: denk-

Meaning: to bite

Note:

Root / lemma: denk- : 'to bite' derived from Illyrian derivative of Root / lemma: ǵemb<sup>h</sup>-, ǵmb<sup>h</sup>- : 'to bite; tooth' common Illyrian ǵ- > d-.

Material: Old Indic dásati 'bites' ( **dṇkétī*), Perf. dadámśa (thereafter also a present dámśati), Kaus. damśáyate 'makes bite', dámśa-h 'bite, gadfly, brake', damśana-m 'the biting', damśtra-h, dámstrā 'sharp tooth, fang' = Avestan tiži-dāstra- 'with sharp teeth, toothed' (for -dāštra- s. Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 653);

gr. δάκνω 'bite' ( **dṇk-nō*), Aor. ἔδακον (= Impf. Old Indic ádaśam), wherefore Fut. δήξομαι (but Ionian δάξεται), Perf. δέδηγμαι, δεδηχώς (as well as δήγμαι 'bite') with ablaut neologism (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 770); δακετόν, τὸ δάκος 'biting animal'; in addition probably ὀδάξ 'with biting teeth', perhaps originally 'tooth' or 'bite' (Liddell-Scott, different Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 620, 723), probably hybridization of **δάξ* 'biting' with ὀδοός, therefrom derived ὀδάξω (ἀδάξω with Assimil. of o in α), ἀδαχέω etc 'scratch, itch', ἀδαγμός 'the scratch';

alb. Geg danë ( **donk-nā*), Tosc darë 'pliers';

Old High German zangar 'biting, sharp', Middle Low German tanger 'ds., vicious, strong, fresh'; Old Norse tong (Gen. tengr and tangar), Old English tang, tange, Old High German zanga 'pliers' ( **donkā*), i.e. 'the clenching of the teeth'; with further shifting to 'to press (lips) together', probably Old Saxon bītengi 'moving close to, oppressive', Old English getang 'ds., getenge 'near to, close to, oppressive, thronging, pressing', Old High German gizengi 'passing by, moving nearby', Adv. gizango, wherefore Old Norse tengja

(**tangjan*) 'join', Old English tengan 'assail, urge, press, push, aspire to move forward', getengan 'make adhere, be obedient' (Old English intinga m. 'weary, weak', sam-tinges 'at once', getingan, stem V., 'press in' after Fick III<sup>4</sup> 152 neologism?);

besides in gramm. variation Germanic **tanhu-* 'adjoining tightly, appendant, tough' in Old English tōh 'tough'; Middle Low German tā 'abiding, tough', Old High German zāhi, Modern High German zäh, Old Norse tā n. 'stamped place before the house' (Finnish loanword tanhua 'corral, pen, fold'); perhaps originally different from the root **dēk-* 'tear', although **denk-* perhaps as nasalized form to **dēk* and 'bite' could be understood as 'tear with the teeth'.

References: WP. I 790 f.

Page(s): 201

---

Root / lemma: dens-1

Meaning: talent, force of mind; to learn

Material: densos n.: Old Indic dāmsas- n. 'powerful wonder, wise feat' = Avestan daṇhah- 'dexterity, adroitness' (in addition Old Indic dam̐su- 'powerful wonder', daṇ- 'very powerful wonder' = Avestan daṇhišta- 'very wise, the wisest'); Old Indic purudāmsas- 'rich in miracles' (= gr. πολυδῆνεα πολύβουλον 'much-counselling' Hes), dāmsana-m, dāmsánā 'magic power, witchcraft'; in gr. after zero grade forms with *δα[σ]- = **dḥs-* to **ḏánsoς* unvocalized: hom. δῆνεα N. Pl. 'pieces of advice', Sg. δῆνος by Hesych, (Doric) ἄδανές (-ᾱ) ἀπρονόητον Hes. = (Ionian) ἀδηνής ἄκακος, Adv. ἀδηνέως Chios.

dḥs-ró-s 'sensible, very wise': Old Indic dasrá- 'miraculous' = Avestan daṇra- 'skilful'; doubtful gr. δάειρα epithet of Persephone, perhaps 'the knowing or the power of wonder'; δαῖφρων 'wise' to hold as *δα[σ]ί-φρων to Old Indic das-rá- as kūḍi-ánēira to kūḍ-ró-s, if it not originally if it has not signified originally only 'the sense of direction during the fight' (compare δαι-κτάμενος 'slain in battle', ἐν δαί: 'in the battle'; s. finally Bechtel Lexil. 92) and only, after this the meaning was forgotten, the ambiguous connection came through in δαῖναι, see below, to come into usage in sense of 'wise'.

dḥs-mo-: Old Indic dasmá- 'power of wonder (from Gods)' = Avestan dahma- 'expert, inaugurated in religious questions'.

Maybe alb. dasma 'wedding, ceremony (religious rite?)'

Verbal forms: partly reduplicated 'handle knowledge, instruct, teach':

Avestan dīdaiṇhē 'I am instructed' (in addition zero grade dastvāf 'apprenticeship, doctrine, dogma');

perhaps gr. δέδαε Aor. 'taught', Aor. Pass. δαῖναι, δαήμεναι 'learn', participle Perf. δεδαώς 'erudite, expert, skillful', δεδάασθαι π 316 'examine, question', ἄδαής (Soph.) 'ignorant, wherein inexperienced'; in addition δαήμων (Hom.) 'sensible, wise', ἄδαήμων 'ignorant, wherein inexperienced', δαήμεναι ἔμπειροι γοναῖκες Hes. By Archilochos frg. 3, 4 is unclear δαίμων (?) 'skillful, experienced'.

Debrunner Mel. Boisacq 1, 251 ff. has shown that διδάσκω 'instruct, teach' belongs to δέδαε and not to Latin discō 'to learn, learn to know, acquire, become acquainted with' (see above under deḱ-). The fact that also δα- (as **dḥs-*) is to be put to our root, can be explained best of all by the fact that one accepts, from διδάσκω (**δι-δασ-σκω*) has been abstracted an erroneous root **δα-* (M. Scheller briefl.); compare finally Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 307 and see below dens-2.

References: WP. I 793.

Page(s): 201-202

---

Root / lemma: dens-2

Meaning: dense

Material: Gr. δασύς 'dense': Latin dēnsus ds.; the direct derivation from **dḥsús* does not contradict the explanation of **δάω* from **dḥsō* (see above under dens-1); indeed from W. Schulze (Kl. Schr. 116 f.) the stated examples of -σ- from Indo Germanic -ḥs- are absolutely not proving. On the other hand δαυλός 'cover with dense vegetation' could go back to δα-υλός (: ὕλη), but δασκόν δασύ etc would barely be formed by abstraction to δά-σκιος '(*densely) shady' (**διά-σκιος*). Meillet MSL. 22, 63 will define σ in δασύς as expressive gemination σσ (?) common gr.-Illyrian -ks- > -ss-. About phok. PN Δαυλῖς s. WH. I 468.

About alb. dënt, dend 'make dense', etc see below d<sup>h</sup>en-3. common alb. n > nd.

Latin dēnseō, -ēre (Perf. dēnsī only by Charisius Gr.-Latin I 262, 4) 'to make thick, condense, press together', denominative of dēnsus 'dense' (**densos* or **dḥsos*, event. **dēnsyos*).

Hittite dassuš (Dat. Sg. ta-aš-šu-u-ḫ) 'strong (*thick)'.

References: WP. I 793 f., WH. I 341 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 307.

---

Root / lemma: deph-

Meaning: to stamp, push

Material: Armenian top`el (-em, -ec) 'hit'; gr. δέφω 'knead, drum; tumble ', argiv.

δεφιδασται 'fuller', with s-extension δέψω (Aor. participle δεψήσας) 'knead; tan, convert hide into leather' (out of it Latin depsō 'to knead'), δέψα 'tanned skin'; διφθέρα 'leather' (**διψτέρα*); serb. děpîm, děpîti 'bump, poke, hit', poln. deptać 'tread'.

maybe alb. děboj 'drive away'

Note:

It seems that Root / lemma: deph- : 'to stamp, push' derived from Root / lemma: dhāb<sup>h</sup>-1, nasalized dhāmb(h)- : 'to astonish, be speechless'

References: WP. I 786, WH. I 342, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 298, 351.

Page(s): 203

---

Root / lemma: derb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to wind, put together, *scratch, scrape, rub

Material: Old Indic ḍrbhāti 'joined, patched together, winded ', participle sāndṛbdha- 'group of shrubs planted together', ḍrbdhí- f. 'convolution, concatenation, daisy chain ', Avestan darəwδa- n. 'bundle of muscles' Pl. 'flesh (of muscles) ', Old Indic darbhá- m. 'hassock, clump of grass, grass', darbhaṇa- n. 'netting';

Maybe truncated alb. dredha 'convolution', dredh 'curl' : Old Indic ḍrbdhí- f. 'convolution', Avestan darəwδa- n. 'bundle of muscles' Pl. 'flesh (of muscles)'.

Armenian torṇ 'σχοινίον, funiculus, a noose, halter, snare, trap' (**derb<sup>h</sup>-n*);

gr. ῥάπτῃ 'basket' is contaminated from **ῥάρφη* and τάπτῃ ds. (Güntert IF. 45, 347);

Old English tearflīan (**tarbalōn*) 'roll oneself ', Old High German zerben, preterit zarpta refl. 'turn, turn round'; e-grade Middle High German zirben schw. V. 'turn in circles, whirl', Modern High German Dialectal Swiss zirbeln ds., Modern High German Zirbeldrüse, Zirbelwind (probably also Zirbel 'pineal ', see below deru-); zero grade Old English torfian 'throw, lapidate' (compare drehan : engl. throw), as Old Norse tyrfa 'cover with turf', Old Norse torfn. 'turf', torfa f. 'peat clod ', Old English turff. 'turf, lawn', Old High German zurba, zurff. 'lawn' (Modern High German Torff from Ndd.); Old English ge-tyrfan 'to strike, afflict'; maybe alb. diminutive (**turfel*) turfulloj 'snort, blow' : Old English ge-tyrfan 'to strike, afflict'.

wruss. dórob 'basket, carton, box', russ. old u-dorobъ f. 'pot, pan', dial. ú-doroba 'low pot, pan' ('*wickerwork pot coated with loam'), wruss. dorób'íc 'crook, bend'; zero grade **ḍrba* in russ. derbá 'Rodeland, Neubruch', derbováť 'clean from the moss, from the lawn; uproot the growing', derbíť 'pluck, tear, rend', serb. drbácati 'scrape, scratch', Czech drbám and drbu, drbatí 'scratch, scrape, rub; thrash', with lengthened grade russ. derébiť 'pluck, rend' (perhaps hat sich in latter family a b<sup>h</sup>-extension from der- 'flay', Slavic derq ḍbrati eingemischt). S. Berneker 211, 254 with Lithuanian

References: WP. I 808.

Page(s): 211-212

---

Root / lemma: der(ep)-

Meaning: to see, *mirror

Note:

The Root / lemma: der(ep)- : 'to see, *mirror' derived from Root / lemma: derk- : 'to look'.

Material: Old Indic dárpana- m. 'mirror'; gr. δρωπάζειν, δρώπτειν 'see' (with lengthened grade 2. syllable??).

References: WP. I 803; to forms -ep- compare Kuiper Nasalpras. 60 f.

See also: compare also δράω 'sehe' and derk- 'see'.

Page(s): 212

---

Root / lemma: derə-, drā-

Meaning: to work

Material: Gr. δράω (*δρᾱιω) 'make, do', Konj. δρῶ, Aeolic 3. Pl. δρᾱίσι, Aor. Attic ἔδρᾱσα, hom. δρηστήρ 'worker, servant', δρᾶμα 'action', δράνος ἔργον, πρᾶξις . . . δύναμις Hes., ἀδρανής 'inactive, ineffective, weak';

Maybe alb. nasalized form nder (**der-*) 'hang loose';

hom. ὀλιγοδρᾶνέων 'make only less powerful, fainting, unconscious'; hom. and Ionian (see Bechtel Lexil. 104) δρᾶίνω 'do';

Lithuanian dar(ł)aũ, daryti, Latvian darīt 'do, make'; in spite of Mühlenbach-Endzelin s. v. darīt not to Lithuanian derėti 'be usable', Latvian derēt 'arrange, employ, engage' etc, because the meaning deviates too strongly.

References: WP. I 803, Specht KZ. 62, 110, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 675<sup>7</sup>, 694.

Page(s): 212

---

Root / lemma: dergh-

Meaning: to grasp

Material: Armenian trçak `brushwood bundle' (probably from **turç-ak*, **turç-* from **dorgh-so-*, Petersson KZ. 47, 265);

gr. δράσσομαι, Attic δράττομαι `grasp', δράγδην `gripping', δράγμα `handful, fascicle, sheaf', δραγμεύω `bind sheaves', δραχμή, Arcadian el. δραχμά, gortyn. δαρκνᾱ (i.e. δαρχνᾱ; s. also Boisacq 109) `drachma' (**handful of metal sticks, ὀβολοί*'), δράξ, -κός f. `hand', Pl. δάρκες δέσμαι Hes.;

Middle Irish dremm, nir. dream `troop, multitude, crowd, dividing of people' (**drg̃h-smo-*), bret. dramm `bundle, fascicle, sheaf' (false back-formation to Pl. dremmen);

Old High German zarga `side edging a room, edge', Old Norse targa f. `shield', Old English targe f. (nord. loanword) `small shield' (actually `shield brim'), elsäss. (see Sutterlin IF. 29, 126) (käs-)zorg m. `vessel, paten on three low feet' (= gr. δραχ-);

References: WP. I 807 f.

Page(s): 212-213

Root / lemma: derk-

Meaning: to look

Note: punctual, wherefore in Old Indic and intrinsic in Irish linked suppletively with a cursive present other root

Root / lemma: derk- : to look derived from Root / lemma: gher-3 und gherə-, ghrē- : to shine, shimmer + zero grade of Root / lemma: okʷ- : to see; eye

Material: Old Indic [present is páśyati] Perf. dadárśa `have seen', Aor. adarsāt, adrākṣīt (ádrāk), participle dṛṣṭá-, kaus. darśáyati `make see'; Avestan darəs- `behold', Perf. dādarəsa, participle dərəšta-; Old Indic dṛś- f. `sight', ahardṛś- `looking day', upa-dṛś- f. `sight', dṛṣṭi- f. `sight', Avestan aibīdərəšti- ds. (Gen. Sg. darštōiš), Old Indic darśatá- `visible, respectable', Avestan darəsa- m. `sight, gaze, look';

common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

gr. δέρκομαι `look, keep the eyes open, be alive', δέδορκα, ἔδρακον, δέρξιν `vision' (with a changed lengthened grade compared with Old Indic dṛṣṭi-), δέργμα `sight', δεργμός `look, gaze', δυσ-δέρκετος `heavy to behold' (= Old Indic darçata-), ὑπόδρα Adv. `one looking up from below' (\-δρακ* = Old Indic dṛç-, or from \-δρακ-τ*), δράκος n. `eye', δράκων, -οντος `dragon, snake' (from banishing, paralyzing look), fem. δράκαινα;

alb. dritë `light' (**dṛk-tā*);

Note:

Maybe alb. darkë 'supper, evening meal, evening' : dreke 'dinner meal, midday' : Old Irish an-dracht 'loathsome, dark'.

after Bonfante (RIGI. 19, 174) here Umbrian terkantur 'seen, discerned, perceived' (that is to say 'shall be seen, discerned, perceived');

Old Irish [present ad-cīu] ad-con-darc 'have seen' (etc, s. Pedersen KG. II 487 f.; present adrodarcar 'can be seen'), derc 'eye', air-dirc 'illustrious', bret. derc'h 'sight', abret. erderc 'evidentis', zero grade Irish drech f. (**dṛkā*) 'face', cymr. drych m. (**dṛksos*) 'sight, mirror', cymr. drem, trem, bret. dremm 'face' (**dṛk-smā*), Old Irish an-dracht 'loathsome, dark' (an- neg. + **drecht* = alb. dritë);

Gothic ga-tarhjan 'make distinct' (= Old Indic darśayati); Germanic **torza-* 'sight' (== Old Indic dṛś-) in Norwegian PN Torget, Torghatten etc, Indo Germanic to- suffix in Germanic **turhta-* : Old English torht, Old Saxon toroht, Old High German zoraht, newer zorft 'bright, distinct'.

References: WP. I 806 f.

See also: Perhaps with der(ep)- (above S. 212) remote, distant related.

Page(s): 213

---

Root / lemma: der-1 (: dōr-, dər-) or dōr- : dər-

Meaning: hand span, *hands

Material: Gr. δῶπον 'palm, span of the hand' (measurement of length), ὀρθόδωπον 'the distance from the wrist to the fingertip', hom. ἑκκαίδεκάδωπος '16 spans long', zero grade Arcadian Akk. δᾱριν σπιθαμὴν Hes. (lak. δᾱρειν Hes. is false spelling for δᾱρίς, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 506);

alb. (**dṛor-*) dorë 'hand' from **dōrom* (M. La Piana IF. 58, 98); [conservative stem of plural forms (alb. phonetic trait)]

Phonetic mutations: alb. (**dṛor-*) dorë 'hand' : gr. δῶπον 'palm, span of the hand' : Latvian (**dṛor-*) dūre, dūris 'fist'; proto Illyrian alb. dṛo- > do-, gr. dṛo- > do-, Latvian dṛo- > dū-.

Note:

Clearly Root / lemma: der-1 (: dōr-, dər-) or dōr- : dər- : 'hand span' derived through Root / lemma: ghesor-1, ghesr- : 'hand'; Root / lemma: ghesto-2 : 'hand, arm' through Illyrian intermediary. The phonetic shift  $kh > t$ ,  $\hat{gh} > d$  is a unique alb.. Hence alb. dorë 'hand' derived from truncated ghesor. The source of Root / lemma: *der-1 (: dōr-, dər-) or dōr- : dər- : 'hand span' is of Illyrian origin and then it spread to other languages.

That means Homeric Iliad is a translation of Illyrian Iliad. The Greek translation left many Illyrian cognates of the Illyrian Iliad unchanged. There is no doubt that gr.  $\delta\omega\pi\omicron\nu$  'hand span' is a suffixed Illyrian dora 'hand' consequently Iliad was brought to Balkan languages by Illyrians.

Old Icelandic tarra 'outspread', terra ds.

Also Armenian dzerk 'hand'.

Only under a beginning dyer- : dur- or dyōr- : dyər : dur- to justify major key-phonetical comparison with Celtic dur-no- in Old Irish dorn 'fist, hand', cymr. dwrn 'hand', dyrnod (mcymr. dyrnawt) 'slap in the face, box on the ear', dyrnaid (mcymr. dyrneit) 'handful', bret. dorn 'hand', dournek 'who has big hands'; however, these words also stand off in the coloring of meaning 'pursed, clenched hand, fist, fisticuff, punch' so far from gr. that they do not demand an association with them.

On the other hand for Celtic **durno-* one considers relationship with Latvian dūre, dūris 'fist'; this is to Latvian duŗu, dūru, duŗt 'prick, bump, poke' to put (compare pugnus : pungo); if so also Celtic dur-no-? compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 529 and see below der-4.

Note:

From alb. Geg (*\*d̥yōr̥*), dorë hand, (*\*d̥yər̥*), duer Pl. 'hands' it seems that the oldest root was alb. Pl. (*\*d̥yər̥*), duer Pl. 'hands' [conservative stem of plural forms (alb. phonetic trait)]. Hence the original of proto Illyrian - gr. idea was Root / lemma: *dyō(u) : 'two' meaning two hands. That means both Root / lemma: *der-1 (: dōr-, dər-) or dōr- : dər- : 'hand span, hands' and Root / lemma: *dyō(u) : 'two, \*two hands' derived from older Anatolian languages Root / lemma: *ghesor-1, ghesr- : 'hand' because of the common alb.  $\hat{gh}- > d-$ .

References: WP. I 794 f.

Page(s): 203

---

Root / lemma: (der-2), redupl. der-der-, d̥rd̥r-, broken redupl. dor-d-, d̥r-d-

Meaning: to murmur, to chat (expr.)

Material: Old Indic dardurá-h 'frog, flute'; Old Irish deirdrethar 'raged', PN Deirdriu f. (**der-der-iō*); Bulgarian dъrdоръ 'babble; grumble', serb. drdljati 'chatter', sloven. drdrāti 'clatter, burr';

Maybe alb. dërdëllit 'chatter, prattle' a Slavic loanword.

Maybe Dardanoi (**dardant*) Illyrian TN : gr. δάρδα μέλισσα Hes : Lithuanian dardėti, Latvian dardēt, dārdēt 'creak' probably 'talk indistinctly'; common Illyrian alb. n > nt > t.

with fractured reduplication: gr. δάρδα μέλισσα Hes., Irish dord 'bass', fo-dord 'growl, bass', an-dord 'clear voice' ('not-bass'), cymr. dwrdd 'din, fuss, noise' (cymr. twrdd 'din, fuss, noise' t has taken over from twrf ds.), Old Irish dordaid 'bellow, roar' (from deer); Lithuanian dardėti, Latvian dardēt, dārdēt 'creak'; Tocharian A tsārt 'wail, weep, cry' (Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 19), with secondary palatalization śert- (Van Windekens Lexique 145).

References: WP. I 795, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 447.

See also: The Celtic, tochar. and Balto-Slavic words could also belong to d<sup>h</sup>er-3.

Page(s): 203-204

---

Root / lemma: (der-3), drā-, dreb-, drem-, dreu-

Meaning: to run

Material: drā-:

Old Indic drāti 'runs, hurries', Intens. dāridrāti 'wanders around, is poor', dāri-dra- 'wandering, beggarly';

gr. ἀπο-διδρᾶσσω 'run away', Fut. δρᾶσομαι, Aor. ἔδρᾶν; δρᾶσμός, Ionian δρησμός 'escape', ἄδρᾶστος 'striving not to escape', δρᾶπέτης 'fugitive', δρᾶπετεύω 'run away, splits, separates from' (compare to -π- Old Indic Kaus. drāpayati 'brings to run', Aor. adidrapat [uncovered] 'runs');

Old High German zittarōm (**dī-drā-m*) 'tremble (*ready to flee)', Old Icelandic titra 'tremble, wink' (originally perhaps 'walk on tiptoe; trip, wriggle restlessly'); perhaps here Slavic **dropy* 'bustard' (Machek ZslPh. 17, 260), poln. Czech drop, older drop(ĭ)a etc, out of it Middle High German trap(pe), trapgans.

dreb-*:

Lithuanian drebù, -ėti 'tremble, quiver';

poln. (etc) drabina 'ladder';

Old English treppan (**trapjan*) 'tread', Middle Low German Dutch trappen 'stomp', ndd. trippen, Modern High German (Low German) trappeln, trippeln, Middle High German (Low German) treppe, trappe f., Modern High German Treppe, Old English træppe f. 'trap', Modern High German Trappel, East Frisian trappe, trap 'trap, splint, staircase, stairs'; through emphatic nasalization, as in Modern High German patschen - pantschen, ficken - fiacken (see W. Wissmann Nom. Postverb. 160 ff., ZdA. 76, 1 ff.) to define:

Gothic ana-trimpan 'approach, beset', Middle Low German trampen 'stomp', Middle High German (nnd.) trampeln 'appear crude', engl. tramp, trample 'tread', Middle High German trumpfen 'run, toddle'.

drem-

Old Indic drámati 'running', Intens. dandramyatē 'runs to and fro';

gr. Aor. ἔδραμον, Perf. δέδρομα 'run', δρόμος 'run';

Old English trem, trym 'Fußtapfe', Old Norse tramr 'fiend, demon' (see above), Middle High German tremen 'waver', Danish trimle 'roll, fall, tumble', Swedish Dialectal trumla ds., Middle High German trame 'rung of a ladder, stairs'; here probably Modern High German FIN Dramme (Göttingen), Dremse (Magdeburg), from **Dromiā* and **Dromisā* (probably North Illyrian), in addition poln. (Illyrian) Drama (Silesia), Bulgarian Dramatica (thrac.); s. Vasmer ZsIPh. 5, 367, Pokorny Urillyrier 3, 37, 127;

Maybe alb. dromcë 'piece, chip (of a blow)' insecure is Woods KZ. 45, 62 apposition of serb dřmati 'shake', dřmnuti 'upset, allow to shake', sloven. drímati 'shake, jiggle', drámiti 'jiggle from the sleep', drâmpati 'ungentle jiggle';

maybe alb. dremít 'sleep', děrrmonj 'exhaust, tire, destroy' Slavic loanwords.

Alb. proves that from Root / lemma: der-, heavy basis derə-, drē-: 'to cut, split, skin' derived Root / lemma: (der-3), drā-, dreb-, drem-, dreu-: 'to run'.

Czech drmlati 'flit, stir; move the lips, as if one sucking', drmoliti 'take short steps' (these in the good suitable meaning; 'shake' from 'stumble with the foot'), drmotiti 'chat, prate' (probably crossing of meaning with the onomatopoeic word root der-der-2, see there).

dreu- (partly with ū as zero grade, probably because of **dreuāx-*), FIN (participle dr(o)u(y)enti/iā).

Old Indic drávati 'runs, also melts', FIN Dravantī, drutá- 'hurrying', Avestan drāvaya- 'run' (being from daēvischen), draoman- n. 'attack, onrush', aēšmō-drūt(a)- 'calling from Aēśma, sends to attack' (very doubtful Old Indic dráviṇa-m, dráviṇas- n. 'blessing, fortune', Avestan draonah- n. 'bei der Besitzverteilung zufallendes Gut, Vermögensanteil', perhaps as 'traveling fortune?');

Illyrian-Pannonian FIN Dravos (**droyo-s*), out of it serbokr. Dráva, compare apoln. Drawa (Illyrian loanword); Indo Germanic **drogent-* 'hurrying' > Illyrian **drauent-* (: above Old Indic Dravantī), out of it dial. **trauent-* in FIN Τράεντ- (Bruttium) > Italian Trionto; Indo Germanic **druent-*, Illyrian **druent-* in poln. FIN Drwęca, Modern High German Drewenz, Italian **truent-* in FIN Truentus (Picenum); maybe alb. (**druent-*) Drinos river name 'hurrying water?' common alb. nt > n.

gall. FIN (from North Illyrian?) Druentia (French la Drance, Drouance, Durance, Swiss/la Dranse); **Drutos*, French le Drot; Drutā, French la Droude; Lithuanian sea name **Drūv-intas* (wruss. Drywiaty); Old Prussian stream, brook Drawe.

Auf dreu-, participle *dru-to- based on perhaps (see Osthoff Par. I 372 f. Anm.) Gothic trudan 'tread', Old Norse troða, trað ds.; Old English tredan, Old High German tretan 'tread' (by Osthoffs outlook of ablaut neologism), Old High German trata 'tread, spoor, way, alley, drift, trailing', Old Saxon trada 'tread, spoor', Old English trod n., trodu f. 'spoor, way, alley' (engl. trade 'trade' is nord. loanword), Old High German trota, Middle High German trotte f. 'wine-press', Intens. Old High German trottōn 'tread'; Modern High German dial. trotteln 'go slowly'.

Here also Germanic root **tru-s-* in East Frisian trüseln 'lurch, stumble, go uncertainly or staggering', trüsel 'dizziness, giddiness', Dutch treuzelen 'to be slow, dawdle, loiter', westfäl. trüseln, truäseln 'roll slowly', Middle High German trollen (**truzlōn*) 'move in short steps constantly', Modern High German trollen, Swedish Dialectal trösale 'fairy demon, ghost', Norwegian Dialectal trusal 'idiot, fool', trusk 'despondent and stupid person'; as well as (as **truzlá*) Old Norse troll n. 'fiend, demon', Middle High German trol, trolle m. 'fairy demon, ghost, fool, uncouth person' (compare unser Trampel in same meaning; the Wandals called the Goths Τρούλους, Loewe AfdA. 27, 107); it stands in same the way besides Germanic tre-m- (see below) Old Norse tramr 'fiend, demon'.

Maybe through metathesis alb. (**trusa*) trullos, trallis 'make the head dizzy', tru 'brain'

In Germanic furthermore with i-vocalism Middle Low German trīseln, westfäl. triäseln 'roll, lurch', holl. trillen 'tremble' (from which Italian trillare 'quiver, trill hit') etc against association of Old Indic drávati with Avestan dvaraiti 'goes' see below *<sup>h</sup>eu-, *<sup>h</sup>euer- 'flee'.

References: WP. I 795 ff., Krahe IF. 58, 151 f., Feist 45.

Page(s): 204-206

---

Root / lemma: deru-, dōru-, dr(e)u-, drou-, dreuə- : drū-

Meaning: tree

Note: see to the precise definition Osthoff Par. I 169 f., Hoops Waldb. 117 f.; in addition words for various wood tools as well as for 'good as heartwood hard, fast, loyal'; Specht (KZ. 65, 198 f., 66, 58 f.) goes though from a nominalized neuter of an adjective **dōru* 'das Harte', from which previously 'tree' and 'oak': dōru n., Gen. dreu-s, dru-nó-s

Material: Old Indic dāru n. 'wood' (Gen. dróḥ, drúṇaḥ, Instr. drúṇā, Lok. dāruṇi, dravya- 'from tree'), drú- n. m. 'wood, wood tool', m. 'tree, bough', Avestan dāuru 'tree truck, bit of wood, weapon from wood, perhaps club, mace, joint' (Gen. draosš), Old Indic dāruṇá- 'hard, rough, stern' (actually 'hard as wood, lumpy'), dru- in compounds as dru-pāda- 'klotzfüßig', dru-ghnī- 'wood ax' (-wooden rod), su-drú-ḥ 'good wood'; dhruvá- 'tight, firm, remaining' (dh- through folk etymology connection in dhar- 'hold, stop, prop, sustain' = Avestan dr(u)vō, Old pers. duruva 'fit, healthy, intact', compare Old Church Slavic sz-dravъ); Avestan drvaēna- 'wooden', Old Indic druvāya-ḥ 'wooden vessel, box made of wood, the drum', drūṇa-m 'bow, sword' (uncovered; with ū npers. durūna, balučī drīn 'rainbow'), druṇī- 'bucket; pail', dróṇa-m 'wooden trough, tub'; drumá-ḥ 'tree' (compare under δρυμός);

Old Indic dárvī-ḥ, darvī- (wooden) spoon';

Armenian tram 'tight, firm' (**drūrāmo*, Pedersen KZ. 40, 208); probably also (Lidén Arm. stem 66) targal 'spoon' from **dru-* or **deru-*.

Gr. δόρυ `tree trunk, wood, spear, javelin' (Gen. hom. δουρός, trag. δορός from *δορFός, δούρατος, Attic δόρατος from *δορFητος, whose η is comparable with Old Indic drúṇah);

Cretan δορά (*δορFά) `balk, beam' (= Lithuanian Latvian darva); sizil. ἀσχεδωρος `boar' (after Kretschmer KZ. 36, 267 f. *ἀν-σχε-δορFος or -δωρFος `standing firm to the spear'), Arcadian Doric Δωρι-κλής, Doric Boeotian Δωρί-μαχος, Δωριεύς `Dorian' (of Δωρίς `timberland');

Note:

Who were Dorian tribes? Dorians were Celtic tribes who worshipped trees. In Celtic they were called Druids, priests of ancient Gaul and Britain (also Greece and Illyria). The caste of Druids must have worshiped the dominant thunder god whose thunderbolt used to strike sacred trees. Druids must have planted the religion around the sacred oak at Dodona.

δρῦς, δρυός `oak, tree' (from n. **dru* or **deru*, **doru* g. **druμός* become after other tree name to Fem.; as a result of the tendency of nominative gradation), ἀκρό-δρυα `fruit tree', δρυ-τόμος `woodchopper', δρύινος `from the oak, from oak tree', Δρυάς `dryad, tree nymph', γεράνδρουν `old tree trunk', ἄδρυα πλοῖα μονόξυλα. Κύπριοι Hes. (**sm-*, Lithuanian by Boisacq s. v.), ἔνδρουν καρδία δένδρου Hes.

Hom. δρῦμά n. Pl. `wood, forest', nachhom. δρῦμός ds. (the latter with previous changed length after δρῦς); δένδρεον `tree' (Hom.; out of it Attic δένδρον), from redupl. **deu*(= der)-*der*Fov, Demin. δενδρύφιον; compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 583; δορF- in arg. δροόν ισχυρόν. Ἀργεῖοι Hes., ἔνδροια καρδία δένδρου καὶ τὸ μέσον Hes., Δροῦθος (**ΔροF-υθος*), δροίτη `wooden tub, trough, coffin' (probably from **δορFιτᾶ*, compare lastly Schwyzler KZ. 62, 199 ff., different Specht Dekl. 139); δοῖτρον πύελον σκάφην Hes. (diss. from **δορFιτρον*), next to which **drυίω*- in δραιόν μάκτραν. πύελον Hes.

PN Δρύτων: Lithuanian Drūktenis, Old Prussian Drutenne (E. Fraenkel, Pauly-Wissowa 16, 1633); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

in vocalism still not explained certainly δρίος `shrubby, bush, thicket'; maked. δάρυλλος f. `oak' Hes. (**deru-*, compare Old Irish dau); but δρίς δύναμις Hes., lies δFίς (Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 495<sup>5</sup>);

alb. dru f. 'wood, tree, shaft, pole' (**druuā*, compare Old Church Slavic drъva n. pl. 'wood'); drush-k (es-stem) 'oak'; ablaut. **drū-* in dri-zë 'tree', drūni 'wood bar';

Note:

Alb. definite form Nom. dru-ni = alb. Gen. dru-ni 'of wood': Old Indic dāru n. 'wood' (Gen. drōḥ, drúṇaḥ 'of wood'; but a pure Slavic loanword is alb. druvar 'woodcutter, woodchopper')

[conservative definitive forms versus indefinite forms (alb. phonetic trait)] thrak. καλαμίν-δαρ 'sycamore', PN Δάρανδος, Τάραντος (**dar-ant*) 'Eichstätt a district in Bavaria', Ζίνδρουμα, Δινδρύμη 'Zeus's grove', VN 'Ο-δρύ-σ-αι, Δρόσοι, Dru-geri (dru- 'wood, forest');

Maybe VN 'Ο-δρύ-σ-αι : Etruria (Italy)

from Latin perhaps dūrus 'hard, harsh; tough, strong, enduring; in demeanour or tastes, rough, rude, uncouth; in character, hard, austere, sometimes brazen, shameless; of things, hard, awkward, difficult, adverse' (but about dūrāre 'to make hard or hardy, to inure; intransit., to become hard or dry; to be hard or callous; to endure, hold out; to last, remain, continue' see below S. 220), if after Osthoff 111 f. as 'strong, tight, firm as (oak)tree' dissimilated from **drū-ro-s* (**dreu-ro-s*?);

Maybe alb. duroj 'endure, last', durim 'patience'.

but Latin larix 'larch tree', loanword is from an Indo Germanic Alpine language, Indo Germanic **d<sub>e</sub>rik-s*, is conceivable because of heavy /,

Note:

Common Latin d- > /- hence Latin larix (**d<sub>e</sub>rik-s*) 'larch tree'.

Maybe Pelasgian Larissa (**dariksa*)

Old Irish derucc (gg), Gen. dercon 'glans', cymr. derwen 'oak' (Pl. derw), bret. deruenn ds., (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), gall. place name Dervus ('oak forest'), abrit. Derventiō, place name, VN Dervāci; Old Irish dērb 'safe'; reduced grade Old Irish daur, Gen. daro 'oak' (d<sub>e</sub>ru-), also dair, Gen. darach ds. (**d<sub>e</sub>ri-*), Old Irish daurde and dairde 'oaken'; derived gall. **d(a)rullia* 'oak' (Wartburg III 50); maked. δάρυλλος f. 'oak'; zero grade **dru-* in intensification particle (? different Thurneysen ZcPh. 16, 277: 'oak-': dru- in Galatian ὄρυ-ναίμετον ` holy oak grove '), e.g. gall. Dru-talos (`*with big forehead'), Druides, Druidae Pl., Old Irish drūi `Druid' (`the high; noble ', **dru-uid-*), Old Irish dron `tight, firm' (**drunos*, compare Old Indic dru-ṇa-m, dāru-ṇá-, dró-ṇa-m), with guttural extension (compare under Modern High German Trog) Middle Irish drochta (`* wooden) barrel, vat, cask; barrel, tub', drochat `bridge'; here also gallorom. drūtos `strong, exuberant (: Lithuanian drūtas'), gr. PN Δρύτων, Old Irish drūth `foolish, loony' (: Old Icelandic trūðr `juggler, buffoon'?), cymr. drud `foolish, loony, valiant' (cymr. u derives from roman. equivalent);

deru- in Germanic Tervingl, Matrib(us) Alaternis, Old Norse tjara (**deruōn-*), Finnish loanword terva, Old English teoru n., tierwe f., -a m. `tar, resin' (**deruio-*), Middle Low German tere `tar' (Modern High German Teer); Old Norse tyrvi, tyri `pinewood', tyrr `pine' (doubtful Middle High German zirwe, zirbel `pine cone ', there perhaps rather to Middle High German zirbel `whirl', because of the round spigot);

dreu- in Gothic triu n. `wood, tree', Old Norse trē, Old English trēow (engl. tree), Old Saxon trio `tree, balk, beam'; in übtr. meaning `tight, firm - tight, firm relying' (as gr. ἰσχυρός `tight, firm': ἰσχυρίζομαι `show firmly, rely on whereupon, trust in '), Gothic triggws (**treuuz*) `loyal, faithful', Old High German gi-triuwi `loyal, faithful', an: tryggr `loyal, faithful, reliable, unworried ', Gothic triggwa `alliance, covenant ', Old English trēow `faith, belief, loyalty, verity', Old High German triuwa, Modern High German Treue, compare with ders. meaning, but other ablaut Old Norse trūf. `religious faith, belief, assurance, pledge', Old English trūwa m., Middle Low German trūwe f. ds., Old High German trūwa, Old Icelandic trūf., besides trūr `loyal, faithful'; derived Old Norse trūa `trust, hold for true' = Gothic trauan, and Old English trūwian, Old Saxon trūōn, Old High German trū(w)ēn `trust' (compare n. Old Prussian druwis); similarly Old Norse traustr `strong, tight, firm', traust n. `confidence, reliance, what one can count on', Old High German trōst `reliance, consolation' (**droust-*), Gothic trausti `pact, covenant', changing through ablaut engl. trust `reliance' (Middle English trūst), Middle Latin trustis `loyalty' in Old Franconian `law', Middle High German getrūste `troop, multitude, crowd';

maybe alb. trūs, trys `press, crowd'

(st- formation is old because of npers. durušt `hard, strong', durust `fit, healthy, whole'; Norwegian trysja `clean the ground', Old English trūs `deadwood', engl. trouse, Old Icelandic tros `dross', Gothic ufar-trusnjan `disperse, scatter'.

**drou-* in Old English trīg, engl. tray 'flat trough, platter', Old Swedish trö 'a certain measure vessel' ( **trauja-*, compare above δοιμή), Old Norse treyju-sqðull (also trýju-sqðoll) 'a kind of trough shaped saddle';

**drū-* in Old Icelandic trūðr 'jester', Old English trūð 'merrymaker, trumpeter' (:gallorom. **drūto-s*, etc)?

**dru-* in Old English trum 'tight, firm, strong, fit, healthy' ( **dru-mo-s*), with k-extension, respectively forms -ko- (compare above Middle Irish drochta, drochat), Old High German Modern High German trog, Old English trog, troh (m.), Old Norse trog (n.) 'trough' and Old High German truha 'footlocker', Norwegian Dialectal trygje n. 'a kind of pack saddle or packsaddle', trygja 'a kind of creel', Old High German trucka 'hutch', Low German trügge 'trough' and with the original meaning 'tree, wood' Old High German hart-trugil 'dogwood';

maybe nasalized alb. trung ( **trügge*) 'wood, tree'

Balto Slavic **der̥uā-* n. 'tree' in Old Church Slavic drěvo (Gen. drěva, also drěvese), Serbo-Croatian dial. drěvo (drijevo), sloven. drevo, Old Czech dřěvo, russ. derevo, klr. derevo 'tree'; in addition as originally collective Lithuanian dervà, (Akk. deřva) f. 'chip of pinewood; tar, resinous wood'; ablaut, Latvian dařva 'tar', Old Prussian in PN Derwayn; lengthened grade **dōru-īā-* in Latvian dūore f. 'wood vessel, beehive in tree'; **su-dor̥uā-* 'fit, healthy' in Old Church Slavic sъdravъ, Czech zdráv (zdravý), russ. zdoróv (f. zdoróva) 'fit, healthy', compare Avestan dr(u)vō, Old pers. duruva ds.

Baltic **dreuiā-* f. 'wood beehive', substantive adj. (Old Indic dravya- 'belonging to the tree'): Lithuanian drėvé and drevė 'cavity in tree', Latvian dreve ds.: in ablaut Lithuanian dravis f., Latvian drava f. 'wood beehive', in addition Old Prussian drawine f. 'prey, bee's load' and Lithuanian dravė 'hole in tree'; furthermore in ablaut East Lithuanian drėvė and drovė f. ds., Latvian drava 'cavity in beehive'; proto Slavic **druuā-* Nom. Pl. 'wood' in Old Church Slavic dr̥va, russ. drová, poln. drwa (Gen. drew); **druuina-* n. 'wood' in klr. drovno, slovz. drěvnø;

Slavic **dr̥mъ* in russ. drom 'virgin forest, thicket', etc (= Old Indic drumá-h, gr. δρυμός, adjekt. Old English trum);

Lithuanian su-drus 'abundant, fat (from the growth of the plants)' (= Old Indic su-drú-h 'good wood');

Baltic drūta 'strong' (== gallorom. **drūto-s*, gr. PN Δρύτων) in Lithuanian drūtas, driūtas 'strong, thick', Old Prussian in PN Drutenne, (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), PN Druthayn, Druthelauken; belongs to Old Prussian druwis m. 'faith, belief', druwif., druwīt 'believe' (**druwēti*: Old High German trūen), na-po-druwīsnan 'reliance, hope'. Beside Lithuanian drūtas also drūktas; see below d<sup>h</sup>er-2.

In ablaut here Old Church Slavic drevlje 'fore, former, of place or time; higher in importance, at first or for the first time', Old Czech dřěve, russ. drévlé 'ages before'; adverb of comparative or affirmative.

Hittite ta-ru 'tree, wood', Dat. ta-ru-ú-i; here also probably Tocharian AB or 'wood' (false abstraction from **tod dor*, K. Schneider IF. 57, 203).

Note:

The shift d- > zero is a Baltic-Illyrian inherited by Tocharian

References: WP. I 804 ff., WH. I 374, 384 ff., 765 f., Trautmann 52 f., 56, 60 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 463, 518, Specht Dekl. 29, 54, 139.

Page(s): 214-217

Root / lemma: der-, heavy basis derə-, drē-

Meaning: to cut, split, skin (*the tree)

Note:

Root / lemma: der-, heavy basis derə-, drē- : 'to cut, split, skin (*the tree)' derived from

Root / lemma: deru-, dōru-, dr(e)u-, drou-, dreuə- : drū- : 'tree'

Material: Old Indic dar- 'break, make crack, split, burst', present the light basis dārṣī, adar, dārt, n-present the heavy basis dṛṇāti 'bursts, cracks', Opt. dṛṇīyāt, Perf. dadāra, participle dṛta-, of the heavy basis dīrṇá-, Kaus. dārayati, Intens. dardirat, dárdarti (compare Avestan darədar- 'split'; Czech drdám, drdati 'pluck, pick off, remove'), dardarīti 'split up', dara-ḥ m., darīf. 'hole in the earth, cave' (: gr. δοπός 'hose', Latvian nuōdaras 'dross of bast', Church Slavic razdorъ), dṛti-ḥ m. 'bag, hose' (= gr. δάρσις, Gothic gataúrps, russ. dertь), darmán- m. 'smasher' (: gr. δέμμα n.), next to which from the heavy basis dārīman- 'destruction'; -dāri- 'splitting' (= gr. δήρις), dāra- m. 'crack, col, gap, hole', dāraka- 'ripping, splitting', darī- in dardarī-ti, darī-man- with ī for i = ə (compare Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. 1 20), barely after Persson Beitr. 779 of the i-basis; npers. Inf. dirīḍan, darīḍan, jüd.-pers. darīn-išn;

Maybe alb. (**dāras*) dërrasë `board, plank (cut wood)', dërrmonj `destroy, break, exhaust, tire'.

Dardani Illyrian TN

Note:

The name Dardani Illyrian TN and [Latin transcription: Dōrieĩs] Greek: Δωριεῖς, Attic -ιῆς derive from the same root.

Dardanus

by Micha F. Lindemans

The son of Zeus and Electra. He sailed from Samothrace to Troas in a raft made of hides. He eventually married Batea, the daughter of King Teucer, who gave him land near Abydos. There he founded the city of Dardania (the later, ill-fated city of Troy). Hence the name Dardanelles for what was once called the Hellespont.

DARA

DARA (Dara, Ptol. vi. 8. § 4). 1. A small river of Carmania, at no great distance from the frontier of Persis. There can be little doubt that it is the same as the Dora of Marcian (Peripl. p. 21) and the Daras of Pliny (vi. 25. s. 28). Dr. Vincent conjectures (Voyage of Nearchus, vol. i. p. 372) that it is the same as the Dara-bin or Derra-bin of modern charts.

2. A city in Parthia. [APAVARCTICENE]

3. A city in Mesopotamia. [DARAS] [V.]

DARADAE

DARADAE the name of Ethiopian tribes in two different parts of Africa; one about the central part, in Darfour (Daradôn ethnos, Ptol. iv. 7. § 35), the other in the W., on the river DARADUS also called Aethiopes Daratitae. (Polyb. ap Plin. v. 1; Agathem. ii. 5.) [P. S.]

DARADAX

DARADAX (Daradax), a Syrian river, mentioned only by Xenophon (Anab. i. 4. § 10). It has been identified with the Far, a small tributary of the Euphrates. At the source of the river was a palace of Belesis, then satrap of Syria, with a large and beautiful park, which were destroyed by Cyrus the Younger. (Anab. I. c.) [G.W.]

DARADUS

DARADUS, DARAS, or DARAT (Darados ê Daras, Ptol. iv. 6. § 6), a river of Africa, falling into the Atlantic on the W. coast, near the Portus Magnus, and containing crocodiles (Plin. v. 1); probably the Gambia or Dio d'Ouro. [P. S.]

DARAE

DARAE a Gaetulian tribe in the W. of Africa, on a mountain stream called Dara, on the S. steppes of M. Atlas, adjacent to the Pharusii. (Plin. v. 1; Oros. i. 2; Leo Afr. p. 602.) [P. S.]

DARADRAE

DARADRAE (Daradrai, Ptol. vii. 1. § 42), a mountain tribe who lived in the upper Indus. Forbiger conjectures that they are the same people whom Strabo (xv. p. 706) calls Derdae, and Pliny Dardae (vi. 19), and perhaps as the Dadicae of Herodotus (iii. 91, vii. 66). It is possible, however, that these latter people lived still further to the N., perhaps in Sogdiana, though their association with the Gandarii (Sanskrit Gandhāras) points to a more southern locality. [V.]

DARANTASIA

DARANTASIA a place in Gallia Narbonensis.

DARAPSA

DARAPSA [BACTRIANA p. 365, a.]

DARDAE

DARADRAE

DARADRAE (Daradrai, Ptol. vii. 1. § 42), a mountain tribe who lived in the upper Indus. Forbiger conjectures that they are the same people whom Strabo (xv. p. 706) calls Derdae, and Pliny Dardae (vi. 19), and perhaps as the Dadicae of Herodotus (iii. 91, vii. 66). It is possible, however, that these latter people lived still further to the N., perhaps in Sogdiana, though their association with the Gandarii (Sanskrit Gandhāras) points to a more southern locality. [V.]

DARDANI

DARDANI (Dardanoi), a tribe in the south-west of Moesia, and extending also over a part of Illyricum. (Strab. vii. p. 316; Ptol. iii. 9. § 2; Caes. Bell. Civ. iii. 4; Liv. xl. 57; Plin. iii. 29; Cic. p. Sest. 43) According to Strabo, they were a very wild and filthy race, living in caves under dunghills, but very fond of music. [L. S.]

Avestan darədar- (see above) 'split', Inf. darənaṃ (: Old Indic dṛṇāti), Iter. dāraya-, participle darətō (= Old Indic dṛtá-);

Armenian terem 'skin, flay, make callous' (because of r probably for root form **der-s-*, Persson Beitr. 779 Anm. 1); doubtful Armenian tar 'foreign land', tara- 'besides, without, afar', taray Aor. 'take to one's heels, made oneself scarce' (Persson Beitr. 778 a 2);

gr. δέρω 'skin, flay', -io- present δείρω ds. (as Lithuanian derù besides diriu), Aor. Pass. ἐδάριν, participle δρατός, δαπτός (= Old Indic dṛtá-); δορός 'hose' (= Old Indic dara-, Latvian nuō-daras); δάσσις 'the skinning' (= Old Indic dṛti-), next to which with (has changed) lengthened grade Attic δέρρις, -εως 'skin, leathery dress, cover'; **δέριπον*, diss. δέιπον 'the membrane which contains the bowels'; δέρας, -ατος n. 'skin, fur' (heavy basis?), δέρος n., δέμμα n., δορά 'fell, fur'; lengthened grade δῆρις, -ιος (poet.) 'fight, struggle' (= Old Indic -dārī-); here probably also δαρ-δαίνω 'bedraggle' instead of **δαρ-δαίρω* (: Old Indic dār-dar-ti)?

cymr. corn. bret. darn 'piece, part' (= Old Indic dīrṇá-);

Gothic dis-taíran (= gr. δέπω) 'break, pull apart', ga-taíran 'tear, destroy', Old English teran 'tear', Old High German zeran, fir-zeran 'tear, destroy'; Middle High German (ver)zern, Modern High German (ver)zehren 'consume', Middle English, Middle Low German terren 'quarrel, squabble', nld. terren, tarren 'stir, tease, irritate, banter', Old High German zerren 'pull'; Gothic intrans. dis-, ga-taúrnan 'tear' (: Old Indic dṛṇāti), holl. tornen 'unstitch, unpick, take apart', compare nominal Old English Old Saxon torn, Old High German zorn 'anger, fight, violent displeasure' and in original meaning holl. torn 'cleavage, separation' (= Old Indic dīrṇá-, cymr. darn, also Old Indic dīrṇá- is named besides 'split' also 'confused, put in desperation'); next to which zero grade Old Norse tjörn f. (**dernā*), tjarn n. (**dernom*) 'small sea', originally probably 'water hole' (compare Old Indic dara-, darī 'hole in the earth'); causative is trod to ga-taúrnan (iterative) gatarnjan 'mug, rob' (but Old High German uozurnen 'despise' Denom. of **uo-zorn*); Gothic gataúra m. 'crack', gataúrps f. 'destruction' (= Old Indic dṛti-, gr. δάρσις); Old Norse torð in compounds, Old English tord n. 'ordure' (**dṛ-tóm* 'separation', compare Latvian dirstu, dirst 'defecate', dīrsa 'buttocks', Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 470, and of a guttural extension Middle High German zurch, zürch m. 'animal excrements');

besides of the heavy basis Old Norse trōð n. 'batten, lath, support from poles' (**drō-to-m*), Middle High German truoder f. 'slat, pole, from it manufactured rack'; Old High German trāda 'fringe' (Modern High German Trodde), Middle High German trōdel (for **trādel*) 'tassel, wood fiber'; actually to der-(e)u- (see below) with nasal infix belong **dṛ-nṣ-ō* in Middle High German trünne f. 'running shoal, migration, swarm; surge', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German abe-trunnig, ab-trunne 'apostate', ant-trunno 'fugitive', and **dren-uō* in trinnan 'seclude oneself', Middle High German trinnen, trann 'be separated from, depart from, run away', Modern High German entrinnen (**ent-trinnen*), Kaus. Germanic **trannjan* in Middle High German trennen 'cut, clip', Modern High German trennen, holl. (with metathesis) tarnen, tornen 'separate' (the latter, in any case, more directly to derive from **der-* 'split'; nn of Germanic **trennan* from -nṣ-); certainly here Swedish Dialectal trinna, trenta 'split fence rack', further with the meaning 'split trunk piece as a disc, wheel' Old High German trennila 'ball', trennilōn 'roll', Middle Low German trint, trent 'circular', trent m. 'curvature, roundness, circular line', Old English trinde f. (or trinda m.) 'round clump', Middle High German trindel, trendel 'ball, circle, wheel'

With fractured reduplication or formant -d- (compare gr. δαρδαίνω and Czech drdati) and from 'tear, tug unkindly' explainable meaning probably here Germanic **trat-*, **trut-* in Old English teart `stern, sharp, bitter ', Middle Dutch torten, holl. tarten `stir, tease, irritate, challenge, defy ', Middle Low German trot `contrariness ', Middle High German traz, truz, -tzes `obstructiveness, animosity, contrariness ', Modern High German Trotz, Trutz, trotzen, Bavarian tratzen `banter'; with the meaning-development `fray ' - `thin, fine, tender' perhaps (?) Middle Low German tertel, tertlík `fine, dainty, mollycoddled ', Danish tærtet `squeamish ' (perhaps also Norwegian Dialectal tert, tart `small salmon', terta `small play ball '); Old High German Modern High German zart (the last from **dor-tō-*, compare Middle Persian dart `afflicted ', npers. derd `pain' Wood KZ. 45, 70);

Lithuanian diriù (: δείρω), žem. derù (: δέρω), dirti `flay, cut off the grass or peat' (heavy basis compared with Old Indic dṛti-, gr. δάρις, Gothic gataúrPs), nudirtas `flayed ', Latvian nuõdara `pole with cut branches, bread slice ', Pl. -as `dross, esp. of bast' (: Mühlenbach-Endzelin II 772, Old Indic dara-, gr. δαρός), Lithuanian dernà `board, plank, balk'; with u-colored zero grade Lithuanian duriù, dùrti `prick' (preterit dūriau) = serb. ù-drim (ù-driti) `hit' (russ. u-dyrítb `hit' with iterative grade to **dbr-*, compare Lithuanian dūriau, Berneker 179 f.). Against it are Lithuanian duĩnas `frenzied, stupid', Latvian duĩns borrowed from Slavic; compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 519.

Slavic **derō* and **diriō* in Old Church Slavic derq, ḍbrati `rend, flay' and **dbrq* (serb. zādrēm, Czech dru); u-darjō, u-dariti `hit' (**dōr-*, compare **dēr-* in gr. δῆρις), with iterative grade raz-dirati `tear', serb. iz-dirati `exert oneself, (maltreat oneself); clear off, pass away, disappear ' (in addition Old Church Slavic dira `crack'; s. Berneker 201, whereas also about the meaning-development of probably related family serb. díra `hole, crack ', Bulgarian díra `track of a person or animal, or from wheels ', dírb `search, seek, feel, pursue'); about **dbr-* in serb. ù-drim see above;

nouns: with ē-grade sloven. u-dêr `blow, knock', with ō-grade Old Church Slavic razdorъ `crack, cleavage ' (= Old Indic dara-, gr. δαρός, Latvian nuõ-daras), serb. ù-dorac `attack, with zero grade (Indo Germanic **dṛto-*): serb Church Slavic raz-drъtъ `lacerate ', klr. dértyj `torn, flayed ' (= Old Indic dṛta-); Indo Germanic **dṛti-*: russ. dertъ `residue of crushed grain, bran; cleared land ' (= Old Indic dṛti- etc); russ. (etc) děrmъ `lawn, meadow' (: Old Indic dīrmá etc, meaning as in Lithuanian dīrti `cut the lawn grass');

Maybe alb. (**dermō*) dërmoj `exhaust'.

russ. dermó `rags stuff, the unusable, rubbish, dirt ' (**dross* by splitting, peeling), děrkij `rash, hasty, fast ', dranъ f. `shingle, lath', drjanъ = **dermō*, dráka `brawl ', drač `nail puller, tool used to remove nails', o-dríny Pl. `chaff' etc.

With l extended Lithuanian nu-dirlioti 'peel the skin', serb. dřljām, dřljati 'harrow', dřljīm, dřljiti 'divest' (Berneker 255);

Tocharian AB tsār- 'separate, split', tsrorye 'cleft, fissure, crack' (Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 19).

d(e)rī- (: *derēi-?) only barely covered (see esp. Persson Beitr. 779 f.):

Gr. δρῖ-μύς '(incisive, splitting) piercing, sharp, herb, bitter' (probably after ὄξύς reshaped from **δρῖ-μός* or -σμός), Latvian drīsmē 'crack, scratch', perhaps (if not derailment of ablaut to Lithuanian dreskiù because of whose zero grade drisk-) from Latvian driksna (**drīskna*) 'scratch', draĩska 'tearer', compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 488 f., 500; remains far off δρῖλος 'bloodsucker, leech, penis', actually 'the swollen', to δριάουσιν θάλλουσιν Hes. (M. Scheller briefl.).

With u-forms of the light (der-eu-) and heavy basis (dere-u-, dŕ-u-) 'tear, (the land) break, burst, erupt': dore-uā: dŕ-uā 'species of grain', deru-, de-dru- etc 'lacerate skin'.

Middle Persian drūn, drūdan 'reap'; about Germanic forms with nasal infix see above S. 207;

here Old Norse trjōna f. (**dreu-n-ōn-*) 'proboscis of the pig' ('bursting, burrowing'), trȳni n. ds., Middle High German triel (**dreu-lo-) m. 'snout, muzzle, mouth, lip', maybe alb. Geg (*trȳni*) turini, Tosc turiri 'mouth of animals, snout'

Norwegian Dialectal mūle-trjosk, -trusk (**dreu-sko-*) 'horse muzzle' (Falk-Torp under tryne). Because of the meaning insecure is Falk-Torps apposition under træg and trygle of Old Norse trauða 'lack, come short', trauðla Adv. 'barely', trauðr 'querulous' and - with g-extension - Old English trūcian 'be absent, lack, come short' (nengl. dial. to truck 'to fail', Middle Low German trüggelen 'beg, cheat, deceive');

Latvian drugt 'diminish, collapse' (Irish droch, cymr. drwg 'penurious, evil, bad' from k-extension?, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 505).

Old Indic dūrvā 'millet grass' (dŕ-uā); compare gr. delph. δάρατα f., Thessalian δάρατος m. 'bread' (**dŕə-*), maked. δράμις ds.;

gall. (Latin) dravoca `ryegrass' (**dr̥ə-ʎ-*); bret. draok, dreok, cymr. drewg ds. are borrowed from Roman. (Kleinhans bei Wartburg III 158);

Middle Dutch tanve, terwe, holl. tarwe `wheat', engl. tare `weed, ryegrass, vetch' (Germanic **tar-ʎō*, Indo Germanic **dor̥əʎā*);

Lithuanian dirva `farmland' (**d̥r̥-ʎā*, with intonation change the ā-stem), actually `freed, cleared', dirvonas `virgin soil, land' (compare to meaning russ. Dialectal dor `new tillage, cultivated land', rózderť `land made arable'), Latvian druva `the tilled farmland, sown field' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 470, 505), russ. (see Berneker 186) derévnja `village (without church); land property', Dialectal `piece of field', pášet derévnju `tills the field'; with the meaning `skin rash' (`splitting off skin flakes, cracked skin');

Old Indic dar-dru- m. `kind of skin rash', dar-dū- m. (uncovered), da-drú- m., da-dru-ka- m. `leprosy';

Latin derbīta f. `lichen' is loanword from gall. **dervēta* (compare also Middle Irish deir, Old Irish **der* from **derā* `lichen'), to cymr. tarwyden, tarwden (Pl. tarwed) (besides darwyden through influence of the prefix group t-ar-, Pedersen KG. I 495), Middle Breton dervoeden, nbret. deroueden `sick of lichen' (**der̥y-eit-*);

Germanic **te-tru-* in Old English teter `skin rash', Old High German zittaroh (**de-dru-ko-* s = Old Indic dadruka-), Modern High German Zitterich `skin rash';

Lithuanian dedervinė `rash resembling lichen' (Trautmann 47, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 450; compare in similar meaning of the root form **der-* Czech o-dra, Pl. o-dry `prickly heat, miliaria, heat rash', poln. o-dra `measles', of the g-extension Bulgarian drǎgnъ-se `rub myself, itch myself, become scabby');

dereg- :

Middle Dutch treken stem V. `pull, tear' and `shudder', Old High German trehhan `push, poke, intermittently tear, scrape, cover scraping', **trakjan* in Middle Low German trecken `pull, tear (tr. intr.)', Old English træglian `to pluck', wherewith because of the same vocal position maybe is to be connected to Latvian dragāt `pull, rend, upset, shake', draguls `shivering fit', drāga `a strong angry person, renders and demands a lot'; Latvian drigēls, drigants, Lithuanian drigāntas `stallion' are loanword from poln. drygant, compare Būga Kalba ir s. 128, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 498.

deregh- (see Persson root extension 26, Berneker 254 and 212 m. Lithuanian):

Old English tiergan (Germanic **targian*) 'banter, stir, tease, irritate', Middle Low German tergen, targen 'pull, stir, tease, irritate', holl. tergen, Modern High German zergen 'pull, tear, anger', Swedish Dialectal targa 'tug with the teeth or sharp tools', Norwegian Dialectal terga 'banter'; Lithuanian dirginu, dirginti 'flurry, irritate, stimulate, excite, pull (the trigger of a gun)'; russ. děrgatʹ 'pluck, pull, tear, rend' (etc), sú-doroga 'cramp'.

derek-:

Δρέκανον name of foreland in Kos (as Δρέπανον plural as name of forelands, Bugge BB. 18, 189), δόρκαι κονίδες, δερκύλλειν αἰμοποτεῖν (actually 'tear the skin open' as analogous meaning δερρύλλειν) Hes.;

gr. δόρπος m., δόρπον n. 'supper' (**dork-* + μο-forms) = alb. darkë 'supper, evening' (unclear the ablaut relation in dreke 'lunch, middle of the day'; compare Persson Beitr. 859<sup>1</sup>); perhaps to (North Illyrian?) PN Δρακούινα (leg. Δαρκούινα?) in Wurttemberg, as 'place to rest';

Note:

This seems wrong etymology since alb. dreke 'lunch, middle of the day' seems to have derived from Root / lemma: *derk-: 'to look, light'; gr. δέρκομαι 'look, keep the eyes open, be alive', δέδορκα, ἔδορακον, δέρξις 'vision', δέργμα 'sight', δεργμός 'look, gaze', δυσ-δέρκετος 'heavy to behold' (= Old Indic darçata-), ὑπόδρα Adv. 'one looking up from below', δράκος n. 'eye', δράκων, -οντος 'dragon, snake' (from banishing, paralyzing look), fem. δράκαινα; alb. dritë 'light' (**d̥rk-tā*);

According to alb. phonetic laws alb. dritë 'light' derived from (d̥rik-a) not (**d̥rk-tā*) because of common alb. -k- > -th-s;

Maybe alb. (**darçata-*), darkë 'supper, evening meal, evening'; (**drech*), dreke 'dinner meal, midday, light of the day': Old Irish an-dracht 'loathsome, dark' (see above).

sloven. d̥rkam, d̥rčem, d̥rkati 'glide, slither, on the ice trail; run, trot run' (probably from 'clear off, run away, leave'), Czech drkati 'bump, poke, jolt', Bulgarian d̥r̥cam, d̥r̥cъnъ 'pull, riffle flax, hemp' (Berneker 255, Persson Beitr. 85, 359).

deres-:

Armenian terem (see above under der-);

Middle Irish dorr `anger', dorrach `rough, coarse' (see Persson Beitr. 779 Anm. 1); presumably Old English teors, Old High German zers `penis', Norwegian ters `nail'; also Old Norse tjasna f. `kind of nail' from **tersnōn-?*, Norwegian trase `rag, clout', trasast `become ragged', tras `deadwood', trask `offal, deadwood';

Maybe alb. trastë `bag, (ragged cloth?)', tras `pull (a boat on the coast) : Rumanian trage `pull' sloven. drásati `disband, separate', Czech drásati `scratch, scrape, stripe', drasta, drásta `splinter, scrap, shred; garment ', draslavý `rough, jolting ', zero grade drsen `rough', drsnatý `jolting '(compare above Middle Irish dorr).

dre-sk.

Lithuanian su-dryskù, -driskaũ, -driksti `tear', dreskiù, dreskiaũ, -drėksti `rend ', draskaũ, draskýti iter. `tear', Latvian draskât ds., draska `rag', Lithuanian drėkstinė lentà `crafty slat, thinly split wood ' (Leskien Abl. 325, Berneker 220, 224)., Bulgarian dráskam, dráštъ (**draščō*) `scratch, scrape; fit tightly ', perfective drásnъ (**drasknō*); dráska `scratcher, crack'; Czech old z-dřies-kati and (with assimilation of auslaut and a sounding anlaut) z-dřiezhati `break, rupture', dřieska, dřiezha `splinter, chip, splinter', nowadays dřízha `chip, splinter'; poln. drzazga `splinter';

With formant -p-:

drop-, drop-:

Old Indic drāp-ḥ m. `mantle, dress', drapsá-ḥ m. `banner (?)' (= Avestan drafša- `banner, ensign, flag, banner'), Lithuanian drāpanos f. Pl. `household linen, dress', Latvian drāna (probably **drāp-nā*) `stuff, kerchief, cloth'; gallo-rom. drappus `kerchief, cloth' (PN Drappō, Drappus, Drappes, Drapōnus) is probably Venetic-Illyrian loanword; the a-vowel from Indo Germanic o or, as das -pp-, expressive;

gr. δρέπω `break off, cut off, pick ', δρεπάνη, δρέπανον `sickle', also δράπανον (out of it alb. drapën `sickle' ds.), that is defined through assimilation of δρεπάνη to **δραπάνη*; α-grade δρώπτω διακόπτω Hes. (= serb. drāpljēm), δρῶπαξ, -κος `Pechpflaster, um Haare ausziehen ', δρωπακίζω `pull the hair out'; Old Norse trōfn. Pl. `fringes ', trefr f. Pl. ds., treffa `rub, wear out', Middle High German trabe f. `fringe';

**drōp-* in russ. drjápa-ju, -ť (with unclear ja), dial. drápatъ, drapátъ `scratch, rend ', serb. drāpām, drāpljēm, drápati `tear, wear out; scratch, scrape', poln. drapać `scratch, scrape, scrape, rub, flee'; drp-, Slavic **ḍr̥p-* in Bulgarian dṛpam, perfective dṛpъ 'tear, pull, drag', serb. dṛpām, dṛpati and dṛpīm, dṛpiti 'rend'; Balto Slavic dreb-, drob- 'scrap, shred, dress' in Latvian drēbe f. 'stuff, dress, laundry', Lithuanian dróbė f. 'canvas, fabric', drābanas m. 'rag, scrap, shred', drabūžis, drobūžis m. 'dress'; Upper Sorbian draby m. Pl. 'dress stuff', Czech-mähr. zdraby m. Pl. 'rag, scrap, shred' have probably through influence the root **drob-* (see below d<sup>h</sup>reb<sup>h</sup>-) 'carve, slit, dismember' -b- instead of -p-;

drip-:

Gall. (Venetic-Illyrian) PN Drippia, Drippōnius (compare above Drappus etc);

Note: Alb. drapën 'sickle': (Venetic-Illyrian) PN Drippōnius

Bulgarian dṛpa 'rag, scrap, shred', sloven. dṛpam (dṛpljem), dṛpati 'tear, have diarrhea', Czech dṛpa 'scrap, shred', dṛpati 'rend, tear';

drup-:

Gr. δρύπτω 'scratch', ἀποδρύπτω, -δρύφω (with secondary φ instead of π, s. Persson Beitr. 859) 'scrub, flay off the skin', δρυφή 'scratching, peeling', δρυπίς 'a kind of thorn'.

For variation of a : i : u in 'popular words' compare Wissmann Nomina postverbalia 162 ff.

References: WP. I 797 ff., WH. I 342 f., 373, 861, Trautmann 51 f.

Page(s): 206-211

---

Root / lemma: des-, dēs-

Meaning: to find

Material: Gr. δῆνω 'become find' (futur. gebrauchtes present), ἔδην εὔρεν Hes.;

alb. ndesh 'find, encounter', ndieh (**of-skō*) 'feel, find'; perhaps also Old Church Slavic dešq, desiti 'find', ablaut. russ.-Church Slavic dositi (udositi) 'find, meet', whether not to dek-; whereas is Old Indic abhi-dāsati 'is hostile, attacked' rather Denomin. of dāsá-h 'slave, fiend'.

About alb. ndesh s. also above S. 190.

References: WP. I 783, 814, Trautmann 54, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 780.

Page(s): 217

---

Root / lemma: deuk-

Meaning: to drag

Material: Gr. δαι-δύσσεσθαι ἔλκεσθαι Hes. (*δαι-δुक-ιω with intensive reduplication as παι-φάσσω). In addition perhaps also δεύκει φροντίζει Hes., wherefore hom. ἀδευκής 'inconsiderate'; unclear is Πολυδεύκης 'der vielsorgende' (but Δευκαλίων is dissimilated from *Λευκαλίων, Bechtel), and with zero grade ἐνδुकέως 'keen, eager, painstaking'. The meaning 'care, worry, be considerate of' arose from 'pull, drag' perhaps about 'bring up'; similarly stands for Old Norse tjōa (**teuhōn*) 'help' (see Falk-Torp 1315 f.).

Somewhat other spiritual change of position shows Latin dūcere as 'to draw; to draw along or away; hence to shape anything long, to construct. Transf., to charm, influence, mislead; to derive; to draw in; to lead; in marriage, to marry a wife; to calculate, reckon; to esteem, consider'.

Alb. nduk 'pluck, tear out the hair', dial. also 'suck out'.

Mcy. dygaf 'bring' (**dukam*); about Old Irish to-ucc- (cc = gg) 'bring' see below euk-.

Latin dūcō (Old Latin doucō), -ere, dūxī, dūctum 'to draw; to draw along or away; hence to shape anything long, to construct. Transf., to charm, influence, mislead; to derive; to draw in; to lead; in marriage, to marry a wife; to calculate, reckon; to esteem, consider' = Gothic tiuhan, Old High German ziohan, Old Saxon tiohan, Old English tēon 'pull, drag' (Old Norse only in participle toginn).

verbal compounds: ab-dūcō = Gothic af-tiuhan, ad-dūcō = Gothic at-tiuhan, con-dūcō = Gothic ga-tiuhan, etc.

root nouns: Latin dux, ducis m. f. 'a guide, conductor; a leader, ruler, commander' (therefrom ēducāre 'bring up, educate, rise'; linguistic-historical connection with formally equal Old Norse toga, Old High German zogōn 'pull, drag' does not exist), trādux '(here guided) vine-layer'. Is Old Saxon etc. heritogo, Old High German herizogo 'military leader', Modern High German Herzog replication of στρατηγός? compare Feist 479.

ti-stem: Latin ductim 'by drawing; in a stream', late ducti-ō 'duct' (besides tu-stem ductus, -ūs 'direction, leadership, duct, conduction') = Modern High German Zucht (see below).

Specially rich development form in Germanic, so: iterative-Kaus. Old Norse teygja 'pull, drag, pull out' = Old English tíegan 'pull, drag' (**taugian*); Old High German zuckan, zucchen, Middle High German zucken, zücken 'quick, pull fast, wrest, draw back' (with intensive consonant stretch; therefrom Middle High German zuc, Gen. zuckes m. 'twitch, jerk'); Old Norse tog n. 'the pulling, rope, cable', Middle High German zoc, Gen. zoges m. 'pull', whereof Old Norse toga, -aða 'pull, drag', Old English togian, engl. tow 'pull, drag', Old High German zogōn, Middle High German zogen 'pull, drag (tr., intr.), rend, pull', compare above Latin (ē)-ducāre; Old English tyge m. i-stem 'pull', Old High German zug, Modern High German Zug (**tugi-*); Old High German zugil, zuhil, Middle High German zugil, Modern High German Zügel, Old Norse tygill m. 'band, strap, strip', Old English tygel 'rope'; Old Norse taug f. 'rope', Old English tēag f. 'band, strap, manacle, paddock' (therefrom Old English tīegan 'bind', engl. tie); with zero grade Old Norse tog n. 'rope, hawser'; Old Norse taumr m. 'rope, cable, rein', Old English tēam m. 'pair of harnessed oxen, yoke, bridle, parturition, progeny' (therefrom tīeman 'proliferate, be pregnant', engl. teem), Dutch toom 'brood', Old Frisian tām 'progeny', Old Saxon tōm 'a strap or thong of leather; plur., reins, bridle; scourge, whip', Old High German Middle High German zoum m. 'rope, cable, thong, rein', Modern High German 'bridle, rein' (Germanic **tauma-* from **tauz-má*); Old High German giziugōn 'bear witness, prove' (actually 'zur Gerichtsverhandlung gezogen werden'), Middle High German geziugen 'prove from evidence', Modern High German (be)zeugen, Zeuge, Middle Low German betūgen 'testify, prove', getūch n. 'attestation, evidence'; further with the meaning 'bring out, bring up, generate' Old High German giziug (**teugiz*) 'stuff, device, equipment', Modern High German Zeug, Middle Low German tūch (-g-) n. 'stuff, device' and 'penis', Middle High German ziugen, Modern High German zeugen, Gothic ustáuhts 'consummation', Old High German Middle High German zuht f. 'raise, upbringing, breed, breeding, progeny', Modern High German Zucht (= Latin ductus see above); therefrom Modern High German züchtig, züchtigen, Old English tyht m. 'upbringing, breed, breeding', Old Frisian tucht, tocht 'ability to procreate'.

Specially because of Zucht 'progeny', Bavarian also 'breeding pig' one draws Old High German zōha, Middle Low German tōle (**tōhila*), Modern High German schwäb. zauche 'bitch', neuisl. tōa 'vixen' to the root; yet compare Middle High German zūpe 'bitch', Norwegian dial. tobbe 'mare, small female creature' and Germanic **tīkō* and **tībō* 'bitch'.

A simple root form **den-* 'pull, drag' perhaps in Old Norse tjōðr n. (**deu-trom*) 'tether, bandage rope' = Middle English feder-, teper ds., Old High German zeotar 'shaft', Modern High German Bavarian Zieter 'front shaft' (also Old English tūdor, tuddor n. 'progeny?'); but Old Indic ḍōrakam 'rope, strap' is dravid. loanword (Kuiper Proto-Munda 131).

References: WP. I 780 f., WH. I 377 f., 861.

Page(s): 220-221

---

Root / lemma: deu-1

Meaning: to plunge, to penetrate into

Material: Old Indic upā-du- 'to go into, (of clothes), to put on, to wear, assume the person of, enter, press into, cover oneself, wear';

The cause of -(e)s- stem seems to belong to: Old Indic doṣā, new dōṣa-h- 'evening, darkness', Avestan daošatara-, daošastara- 'situated towards evening, to the west', npers. dōš- 'the former yesterday night';

gr. δειλος (more properly δειλός) 'evening' (metr. lengthening for *δεελός from δευσελός? originally Adj. 'vespertine', as still in hom. δειλὸν ἦμαρ); gr. δύω (Attic υ:, ep. ū), trans. 'sink, dive, swathe' (only in compounds: καταδύω 'sink'), intrans. (in simplex only in participle δύνων; Aor. ἔδυν) 'dive in, penetrate (e.g. αἰθέρα, ἐς πόντον), slip in, pull in (clothing, weapons; so also ἐνδύω, ἀποδύω, περιδύω), sets (from the sun and stars, dive, actually, in the sea)', also med. δύομαι and δύνω (hom. δύσετο is old augment tense to the future, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 788); ἀλιβδύω, Kallimachos 'sink in the sea' (β unclear, s. Boisacq s. v.; preposition *[a]p[ro]?); δύπτω 'dip, dive, sink' (after βύπτω); ἄδυτον 'the place where one may not enter', δύσις 'disappearing, dive, nook, hideaway, setting of the sun and stars', πρὸς ἡλίουδύσιν 'towards evening', δυσμαί Pl. 'setting of the sun and stars'; unclear ἀμφιδυμος, διδυμος 'coupled' s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 589; after Frisk Indog. 16 f. here also δυτη 'shrine'.

References: WP. I 777 f., WH. I 3, 682.

Page(s): 217-218

---

Root / lemma: (deu-2 or dou-) : du-

Meaning: to worship; mighty

Material: Old Indic dúvas- n. 'offering, worship instruction', duvasyāti 'honors, reveres, recognizes, recompenses', duvasyú-, duvōyú- 'venerating, respectful'; Old Latin duenos, then duonos, Classical bonus 'good' (Adv. bene, Demin. bellus [**d̥uēnelos*] 'pretty, cute');

Note: common Latin d̥u- > b-.

probably = Old Irish den 'proficient, strong', Subst. 'protection'; Latin beō, -āre 'to bless, enrich, make happy', beātus 'blessed, lucky' (**d̥u-éjō*, participle **d̥u-enos*); in addition Old Saxon twīthōn 'grant', Middle Low German twīden 'please, grant', Old English langtwīdig granted long ago', Middle High German zwīden 'grant', md. getwēdic 'tame, domesticated, compliant' (**du-ei-to*; Wood Mod. Phil. 4, 499); after EM<sup>2</sup> 114 perhaps still here gr. δύ-να-μαι 'has power'.

Perhaps also here Germanic **taujan* 'make' (from **be mighty* ' ) in Gothic taujan, tawida 'make', Proto Norse tawids 'I made', Old High German zouuitun 'exercebant (cyclopes ferrum)', Middle High German zouwen, zöuwen 'finish, prepare', Middle Low German touwen 'prepare, concoct, tan, convert hide into leather', wherefore Old English getawa 'an implement, utensils, tools, instruments' (therefrom again (ge)tawian 'prepare', engl. taw 'make ready, prepare, or dress (raw material) for use or further treatment; spec. make (hide) into leather without tannin') and (with original prefix stress in nouns) Old English geatwe f. Pl. 'armament, armor, jewellery, weapons' = Old Norse gǫtvarf f. Pl. ds., Old Frisian touw, tow 'tool, rope, hawser', Modern Frisian touw 'the short coarse fibres of flax or hemp, tow', Middle Low German touwe 'tool, loom', touwe, tou 'rope, hawser' (out of it Modern High German Tau), Old High German gizawa 'household furniture, apparatus' (but also 'succeed', see above), Middle High German gezöuwe n. 'appliance' (out of it with Bavarian-dial. vocalization Middle High German zāwe), Modern High German Gezähe (see about these forms Psilander KZ. 45, 281 f.).

In addition with ē (Psilander aaO. expounded also **taujan* through proto Germanic abridgement from **tæwjan*) perhaps Gothic tēwa 'order, row', gatēwjan 'dispose', Old High German zāwa 'coloring, paint, color, dyeing', langobard. zāwa 'row, division of certain number, uniting', Old English æl-tæwe 'altogether, wholly, entirely well, sound, whole, healthy, well' (about possible origin of Germanic **tēwā* from **tēz-wā* see below **deŕ* 'take'; then it would be natural to separate from taujan); with ō Gothic tauī, Gen. tōjis 'action', ubiltōjis 'evildoer, wrongdoer', Old Norse tō n. 'uncleaned wool or flax, linen thread material' = Old English tōw 'the spinning, the weaving' in tōw-hūs 'spinnery', tōw-cræft 'skillfulness in spinning and weaving', engl. tow 'the short coarse fibres of flax or hemp, tow'; with -s suffix Old Norse tō/n. 'tool', Old English tō/n. ds. (**tōwula-*), verbal only Old Norse tōja, týja 'utilize, make usable', actually 'align', denominative to **tōwja-* after Psilander aaO., while Falk-Torp seeks under tøje therein belonging to Gothic tiuhan **tauhjan*, **tiuhjan*.

Thurneysen places (KZ. 61, 253; 62, 273) Gothic taujan to Old Irish doīd 'exert, troubled'; the fact that this, however with doīd 'catches fire' is identical and the meaning 'make' has developed from 'kindle the fire, inflame', seems unlikely.

About other interpretations of taujan s. Feist 474 f.

---

Root / lemma: deu-3, deue-, dyā-, dū-

Meaning: to move forward, pass

Material: Old Indic dū-rā-ḥ 'remote, distant, wide' (mostly locally, however, also chronologically), Avestan dūraē, Old pers. duraiy 'afar, far there', Avestan dūrāt 'at a distance, far, far there, far away', compounds Sup. Old Indic dāvīyas-, dāviṣṭha- 'more distant, most distant'; ved. duvās- 'moving forward, striving out', transitive Avestan duye 'chase away', avi-frā-ḍavaite 'carry away itself (from water)'; Old Indic dūtá-ḥ, Avestan dūta- 'summoner, delegator'; perhaps here Old Indic doṣa-ḥ m. 'lack, fault, error' (**deu-s-*);

gr. Doric Attic δέω, Aeolic hom. δεύω (not *δευσ-, but *δεF-) 'lack, err, miss', Aor. ἐδέησα, ἐδεύησα; unpers. δεῖ, δεύει, participle τὸ δέον, Attic τὸ δοῦν 'the needful'; Medium δέομαι, hom. δέυομαι 'lack' etc, hom. 'stay behind sth, fall short, fail to attain, be insufficient', Attic 'please, long for'; ἐπιδεής, hom. ἐπιδευής 'destitute, lacking', δέημα 'request'; in addition δεύτερος 'follow in the distance, the second one', in addition Superl. hom. δεύτατος.

Perhaps in addition with ~~-s~~-extension (see further above Old Indic doṣa-ḥ) Germanic **tiuzōn* in Old English tēorian 'cease, languish' (*stay behind), engl. tire 'exhaust'.

compare further md. zūwen (strong. V.) 'move in the front, move, proceed there', Old High German zawen 'proceed, go ahead, succeed', Middle High German zouwen 'hurry, somewhat hasten, proceed, go ahead, succeed', zouwe f. 'haste, hurry'.

2. Apers. duvaištam Adv. 'for a long time', Avestan dbōišṭam Adj. 'long, extended' (temporal); about Old Indic dvitā, Avestan daibitā, Old pers. duvitā-paranam see below dyōu 'two';

Armenian tevem 'last, endure, hold, hold off', tev 'endurance, duration', i tev 'long time through', tok 'duration, endurance' (**teuo-ko-*, **touo-ko-*), ablaut. erkar 'long' (temporal) from **dyā-ro-* (= gr. δηρόν), erkain 'long' (spacial);

gr. δῆν (el. Doric δᾱν Hes.) 'long, long ago' (*δFāν), δοᾱν (*δοFāν) 'long' (accusative of *δFā, *δοFā 'duration'), δηρόν, Doric δᾱρόν 'long lasting' (*δFā-ρόν), δηθά 'long', therefrom δηθύνειν 'hesitate, stay long', δαόν πολυχρόνιον Hes. (*δFā-ιον); about δᾱρόν compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 482, 7;

Latin dū-dum `some time ago; a little while ago, not long since; a long while ago or for a long time' (to form see WH. I 378). Here also (in spite of WH. I 386) dūrāre `endure' because of Old Irish cundrad `pact, covenant' (**con-dūrad*); but cymr. cynnired `movement' remains far off in spite of Vendryes (BSL. 38, 115 f.); here also Latin dum, originally `short time, a short while', see above S. 181; lengthened grade Old Irish doë (**dōyio-*) `slow';

Old Church Slavic davě `erstwhile, former', davъnъ `ancient', russ. davnó `since long ago', etc;

Hittite tu-u-wa (duwa) `far, away', tu-u-wa-la (Nom. Pl.) `remote, distant' from **duā-lo-*, Benveniste BSL. 33, 143.

References: WP. I 778 ff., WH. I 378 f., 861, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 348, 595, 685.

Page(s): 219-220

---

Root / lemma: deup- (: kteup-?)

Meaning: a kind of thudding sound, onomatopoeic words

Material: Gr. hom. δοῦπος `dull noise, din; sound of the kicks'; δουπέω `to sound heavy or dead'; the in hom. ἐγδούπησαν, ἐρίγδουπος `loud-thundering' (μασίγδουπον ...μεγαλόηχον Hes.) revealed treading original anlaut γδ- is maybe parallel with κτύπος `blow, knock' besides τύπος or is copied to it, so that no certainty is to be attained about its age; after Schwyzer would be (γ)δουπέω intensive to zero grade κτυπ-; serb. dŭpīm, dŭpīti `hit with noise', sloven. dŭpam (dupljem) dúpati `punch on something hollow, rustle thuddingly', dupotáti, Bulgarian dŭpъ `give the spurs to a horse', Latvian dupētiēs `dull sound' (Balto Slavic d- from gd-? or older as gr. γδ-?);

Maybe onomatopoeic alb. dum (**dump*) `thudding sound' [common alb. p > mp > m] after Van Windekens Lexique 138 here Tocharian A täp- `allow to sound, announce' (**tup-*) in Infin. tpässi, participle Pass, cacpunder

References: WP. I 781 f., Endzelin KZ. 44, 58, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 518, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 718<sup>3</sup>.

Page(s): 221-222

---

Root / lemma: de-, do-

Meaning: a demonstrative stem

Material: Avestan vaēsmān-da `up there to the house';

gr. -δε in ὅ-δε, ἥ-δε, τό-δε `that here, this' (I - deixis), ἐνθά-δε, ἐνθέν-δε, τεῖ-δε, hinter Akk. the direction, e.g. δόμον-δε, οἶκον δε, οἰκόνδε, Ἀθήναζε (*Aθᾱῆνᾱσ-δε), as Avestan vaēsmān-da (Arcadian θύρδα ἔξω Hes., reshuffling of -δε after double forms as πρόσθε : πρόσθα), also in δε-ὑπο (δεῦπο emulated Pl.) `here', Latin quan-de, quam-de `as like' = Oscan pan, Umbrian pane `as', also Oscan pún, Umbrian pon(n)e `as well as' (**quom-de*), Latin in-de `thence, from there' (**im-de*), un-de `whence, from where'; gr. δέ `but'; gr. δῖ `just, now, just, certainly', ἤ-δη `already', ἐπει-δή `since, whereas, because'; δαί after interrogative words `(what) then?';

Indo Germanic **de* put also in Old Irish article in-d (**sind-os*, Indo Germanic **sēm-de*);

Italian -**dām* in Latin quī-dam, quon-dam, Umbrian ne-rsa `as long as' (probably solidified Akk. f. **ne-dām* `not at the same time'; besides m. or n. in:);

Latin dum (**dom*) `still', as Konj. `while, during the time that; so long as, provided that; until', originally demonstratives `then', compare etiam-dum, interdum, nōndum, agedum (: gr. ἄγε δῆ), manedum, quidum `as so?', then in relative-conjunctive meaning, as also in dummodo, dumnē, dumtaxat, Oscan ísídum `the same as' however, is to be disassembled in ís-íd-um, as also in. Latin īdem, quidem, tandem, tantusdem, totidem is not to be recognized with dum from **dom* the changing by ablaut -dem; īd-em from **id-em* = Old Indic id-ám `just this', compare Oscan ís-íd-um, as quid-em from **quid-om* = Oscan píd-um, and as a result of the syllable separation i-dem would be sensed as -dem an identity particle and would grow further);

but the primary meaning of dum is `a short while', wherefore u perhaps is old (compare dūdum) and dum belongs to root deuə- (EM<sup>2</sup> 288 f.).

Indo Germanic **dō* originally `here, over here' in Latin dō-ni-cum (archaically), dōnec (**dō-ne-que*), for Lukrez also donique `so long as, till that, to, finally', but also `then' (dō equal meaning with ad-, ar- in Umbrian ar-ni-po `as far as' from **ad-ne-qʷom*) and in quandō `when' = Umbrian panupeī `whenever, as often as; indef. at some time or other'; Old Irish do, du, acymr. dī (= đī), corn. ḍe `to' from **dū* (in gall. du-ci `and'), Thurneysen Grammar 506; Old English tō, Old Saxon fō (te, tī), Old High German zuo (za, ze, zī, the abbreviated forms are in spite of Solmsen KZ. 35, 471 not to understand as previously proto Indo Germanic ablaut variants), Modern High German to (Gothic du `to' with Dat. and preverb, e.g. in du-ginnan `begin', seems proclitic development from **tō*(?), is marked from Brugmann II<sup>2</sup>, 812 as unresolved); Old Lithuanian do preposition and prefix `to'; Old Church Slavic da `so, and, but; that' (meaning-development `in addition' - `still, and', from which then the subordinating link); different Pedersen Tocharian 5.

Besides Indo Germanic **dō* in Old Church Slavic do 'until, to'.

Lithuanian da-, perfektivierendes verbal prefix, and Latvian da 'until - to', also verbal prefix e.g. in da-iet 'hinzu gehen', derive from dem Slavischen.

en-da. Old Latin endo, indu 'in', Latin only more as composition part, e.g. indi-gena, ind-ōles, other formations in hom. τὰ ἔνδον (right ἔνδον) 'intestines, entrails', Middle Irish inne 'ds.' (**en-d-io-*); (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), against it wird Old Irish ind- preposition and prefix 'in' von Thurneysen Grammar 521 as after in- umgefärbte Entsprechung von gall. ande contemplates and further von Pedersen KG. I 450 with Gothic and 'until', Old Indic ādhi connected; and gr. ἔνδο-θι 'indoors, in, within', ἔνδο-θεν 'from inside' are reshaped as Lesbian Doric ἔνδοι after οἶκο-θι, -θεν, -ι from ἔν-δον, s. **dem-* 'to build'; Hittite an-da 'in' to **en-da* (or **n-da*?), Pedersen Hittite 166. Whereas it is the adverbial- and predicate character of nouns Old Irish in(d), abret. in, mcymr. yn probably instrumental of article; s. further Thurneysen Grammar 239.

dē (as dō probably an Instr. extension) in Latin dē 'prep. with abl. in space, down from, away from. Transf., coming from an origin; taken from a class or stock, made from a material, changed from a previous state; of information, from a source. in time, following from, after; in the course of, during. about a subject; on account of a cause; according to a standard', Faliscan de (besides Oscan dat 'dē' (for **dād*, with t after post, pert etc; Oscan-Umbrian **dād* is probably replacement for **dē* after ehtrād etc, respectively after the ablative transformed in Instr. -ē(d), ō(d):ād); as preverb in da[da]d 'give away, give up, surrender, deliver, consign, yield, abandon, render', dadikatted 'dedicate, consecrate, set apart', Umbrian daetom 'a fault, crime'; in addition compounds Latin dēterior 'lower, inferior, poorer, worse', Sup. dēterrimus, dēmum (Old Latin also dēmus) 'of time, at length, at last; in enumerations, finally, in short; 'id demum', that and that alone' ('*to lowest' - 'lastly, finally'), dēnique 'at last, finally; in enumerations, again, further or finally; in short, in fine';

Old Irish dī (besides de from Indo Germanic dē, wherewith perhaps gall. βαπτου-δε 'from a judicial sentence' is to be equated), acymr. dī, ncymr. y, i, corn. the, bret. dī 'from - down, from - away', also as privative particle (e.g. acymr. di-auc 'slow, tardy, slack, dilatory, lingering, sluggish, inactive, lazy', as Latin dēbilis; intensifying Old Irish dī-mōr 'very large' as Latin dēmagis 'furthermore, very much')

The meaning 'from - down, from - away' these with gr. ὅν, ὅέ formally the same particle probably is only a common innovation of Celtic and Italic; also German?

(Holthausen KZ. 47, 308: Old High German zādal 'poverty, need' from **dē-tlom*, of **dē* 'from - away', as wādal 'poor, needy': Latin vē 'enclitic, or, or perhaps'?).

The ending of the following adverbial groups also belongs to this root: Old Indic tadā 'then', Avestan taḍa 'then', Lithuanian tadà 'then'; Old Indic kadā 'when?', Avestan kadā, jav. kaḍa 'when?', Lithuanian kadà 'when'; Old Indic yadā 'when, as', Avestan yadā, jav. yaḍa 'when', Old Church Slavic jeda 'when' (compare also Old Indic yadi 'if', Old pers. yadiy, Avestan yeḍi, yeiḍi 'as soon as' and Avestan yaḍāt 'whence'); Old Indic idā 'now, yet'; also the Slavic formations as russ. kudá 'whereto, where';

Maybe alb. ku-do (**kudā*) 'everywhere, anywhere', nasal nga-do (kądē) 'everywhere'

Old Church Slavic kādu, kądē 'whence', nikъda-že 'never', poln. dokąd 'whereto, where', Old Church Slavic tądě 'from there', sādu 'from here', but it could contain also Indo Germanic d<sup>h</sup>.

A cognate stem **dī* perhaps in enclitic iran. Akk. Avestan Old pers. dim 'her, she', Avestan dit 'es', diš Pl. m. f., dī Pl. n., and Old Prussian Akk. Sg. din, dien 'ihn, sie' (etc); compare but Meillet MSL 19, 53 f.

References: WP. I 769 ff., WH. I 325 f., 339 f., 370 f., 694, 859, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 624 f.

Page(s): 181-183

---

Root / lemma: dēg-

Meaning: to grab?

Material: Gothic tēkan 'touch';

Maybe alb. takonj 'touch'

Additional cognates: [PN taka = WFr. take, EFr. tāken, MDu. tāken grasp, seize, catch, rel. by ablaut to Goth. tēkan] with ablaut Old Norse taka, (engl. take) 'take'; Tocharian B tek-, tak- 'touch', B teteka 'as soon as'.

Maybe alb. takonj 'touch': Gothic tēkan 'touch';

References: WP. I 786, WH. I 351, Van Windekens Lexique 138, 139 (compares also Latin tangō 'to touch'), Pedersen Tocharian 207<sup>1</sup>.

Page(s): 183

---

Root / lemma: dē-: dē- and dēi-, dī-

Meaning: to bind

Note:

Root / lemma: dē-: də- and dēi-, dī-: 'to bind' derived from duai, duēi-, stems of Root / lemma: dyō(u): 'two' meaning 'bind in two'

Material: Old Indic dy-āti (with ā-, ni-, sam-) 'binds' (dy- zero grade of **dēi-*, from 3. Pl. dyānti, compare Avestan nī-dyā-tam 3. Sg. Med. in pass. meaning 'it has made soil holdback', -ā-extension from the zero grade dī-, Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 761), Old Indic participle dītā- 'bound' (= gr. δετός), dāman- n. 'band, strap' (= gr. -δημα), ni-dātār- 'binder';

gr. (hom. Attic) δέω (*δέjω) 'bind', δετός 'bound', δετή 'shavings tied together as a torch, faggot, torch, fetter, sheaf' (δε- for Indo Germanic **dē-* as θετός : τίθημι), ἀμαλλοδετήρ 'sheaf binder', δέσις 'the fastening, binding', δεσμός 'band, strap', κρήδεμνον 'head fascia', δέμνια Pl. 'bedstead'; hom. present δίδημι 'bind' is to δήσω after τίθημι: θήσω 'neologism'; ὑπό-δημα (compare Old Indic dāman-) 'sandal', διάδημα 'a band or fillet, turban, diadem';

alb. duai 'fascicle, sheaf' (about **dōn-* from Indo Germanic **dē-n-*), del '(*band, strap), sinew, tendon, vein' (Indo Germanic **dō-lo-*).

References: WP. I 771 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 340 f., 676, 688.

Page(s): 183

---

Root / lemma: degh-mó-s

Meaning: slant

Material: Old Indic jihmá-h 'slantwise, slant, skew' (Proto Aryan **žízhmá-* assimil. from **dízhmá-*), gr. δόχμιος, δοχμός 'slant, skew' (assimil. from *δοχμός).

References: Pedersen KZ. 36, 78, WP. I 769.

See also: Other possibilities see below gei- 'turn, bend'.

Page(s): 222

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ab<sup>h</sup>-2

Meaning: proper, * fitting, dainty

Material: Armenian darbin 'smith' (**d<sup>h</sup>ab<sup>h</sup>r-ino-*);

Latin faber, fabrī 'craftsman, artist', Adj. 'ingenious, skilful', Adv. fabrē 'skilful', affabrē 'skillfully', contrast infabrē, fabrica 'dexterity, workshop' (Paelignian faber is Latin loanword); perhaps here Latin (Plaut.) effāfilātus 'exposed', Denom. from **fāfilla*, '*acquiescence' (f dial. ?);

Note:

common Latin d- > f-;

alb. Tosc thembërë 'heel, hoof (where a smith would attach a horseshoe)' [common alb. f- > th-].

Gothic ga-daban 'occur, arrive, reach, happen, be suitable', Perf. gadōb 'to be clearly seen, to be conspicuous', Adj. gadōf is 'it is suitable, proper, fitting' = Old English gedēfe 'fitting, mild' (**ga-dōbja*), gedafen 'proper', gedafnian 'be fitting, suitable' = Old Norse dafna 'proficient, proper, become strong, prosper, thrive', Old English gedæfte 'fitting, mild', gedæftan 'sort, order, arrange';

Old Church Slavic dobrъ 'good, beautiful, beauteous, fair' (= Armenian darbin, Latin faber), dobъ, dobljъ 'the best, assayed, examined, tested, strong', doba (older dn-stem) 'fitting, applying, opportunity', podoba 'ornament, adornment, decorousness, decency', u-dobъnъ 'light', u-dobъ Adv. 'light'; Lithuanian dabà 'quality, nature, habit, character', dabinti 'adorn', dabnùs 'dainty' etc.

Maybe alb. i dobët (**u-dobъnъ*) 'emaciated, dainty, elegant, (beautiful)', dobi 'profit, advantage'.

Note:

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>ab<sup>h</sup>-2: 'proper, *fitting, dainty' derived from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>ā<sup>h</sup>-1, nasalized dh<sup>h</sup>amb(h)-: 'to astonish, be speechless, *hit' [see below]

References: WP. I 824 f., Trautmann 42 f., WH. I 436 f., 863.

Page(s): 233-234

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>anu- or dh<sup>h</sup>onu-

Meaning: a kind of tree

Material: Old Indic dhánvan- n., dhánu- m., dhánuṣ- n. 'bow', dhanvana- m. 'a certain fruit tree': Old High German tanna 'fir, oak' (**danwō*), Middle High German tanne, Old Low German dennia 'fir'. (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

References: WP. I 825.

Page(s): 234

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>au-

Meaning: to press

Material: Avestan dvaidd 1. Du. Präs. Med. 'we press', davaṣ-čīnā (could stand for duvaṣ-) 'although pressing oneself further'; Phrygian δάος . . . ὑπο Φρυγῶν λύκος Hes.

(therefrom the people's name Δᾱοι, Dā-ci), Lydian Καν-δαύλης ('κυν-άγχης ` Indian Hemp, dogbane (plant poisonous to dogs)'), compare Καν-δάων, name of thrak. god of war, Illyrian PN Can-davia; dhauno-s `wolf' as `shrike' in Latin GN Faunus (to gr. θαῦνον θηπίον Hes.) = Illyrian Daunus (therefrom VN Δαύνιοι, inhabitant of apul. region of Daunia; compare thrak. Δαύνιον τεῖχος); gr. Ζεὺς Θαύλιος i.e. `shrike' (thessal.; s. also Fick KZ. 44, 339), with ablaut gr. θῶς, θω(F)ός `jackal' (i.e. `shrike');

Maybe alb. dac `cat' : Phrygian δάος

Gothic af-dauīps `rended, mangled, afflicted';

Old Church Slavic davljǫ, daviti `embroider, choke, strangle', russ. davítʹ `pressure, press, choke, crush', dávka `crush'.

References: WP. I 823, WH. I 468.

See also: About d<sup>h</sup>āu- `be astonished, marvel' see below d<sup>h</sup>eiə-.

Page(s): 235

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ā<sup>h</sup>-1, nasalized d<sup>h</sup>amb<sup>(h)</sup>-

Meaning: to astonish, be speechless, *hit

Note: presumably as `beaten, be concerned' from a basic meaning `hit'

Probably common origin of Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ā<sup>h</sup>-1, nasalized d<sup>h</sup>amb<sup>(h)</sup>- : to astonish, be speechless, *hit; Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-, d<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-eu- : `to harm', Root / lemma: (d<sup>h</sup>emb<sup>h</sup>-), d<sup>h</sup>mb<sup>h</sup>- : `to dig', Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>em-, d<sup>h</sup>emə- : `to smoke; to blow'.

Material: Gr. τᾰφος n. `astonishment, surprise', Perf. ep. Ionian τέθηπα, participle Aor. ταφών `astonish', θῶπτω, θῶπτεύω (`gaze in wonder =) flatter' (see Boisacq s. v. θῶψ), nasalized θάμβος n. `astonishment, amazement, fright', θαμβέω `marvel, astonish, frighten'; to β compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 333, 833;

Gothic afdōbn `become silent!'

Under prerequisite a basic meaning `hit' can the following Germanic family be added: Old Norse dafla `splash in the water', Norwegian dial. dabba `stamp, tread down, trample, make a blunder';

Maybe alb. Geg zhdëp `beat, strike'

Old Norse an(d)dōfa `hold on a boat against wind and stream', Middle English dabben, nengl. dab `hit lightly', East Frisian dafen `hit, knock, bump, poke', Middle High German beteben `stun, wander about, press', nnd. bedebbert `reprimand, flog, embarrassed', Modern High German tappen, Tapp 'flick', Middle High German tāpe 'paw' (Germanic ē, but not to use for statement of Indo Germanic vocalism), Middle Dutch dabben 'tap, splash'. However, see also Persson IF. 35, 202 f., several of these words with Middle High German tappe 'clumsy, awkward; clumsy person' etc correlates in a Germanic root dabb-, dēb(b)-, daḅ-, dap- 'thick, lumpy', from which 'clumsy, stupid, doltish', under comparison with Latvian depis swearword, perhaps 'fool', depe 'toad' ('*the awkward'), depsis 'small, fat boy' [maybe alb. djep 'cradle (for a baby)'] and Germanic words, as Swedish Dialectal dabb 'tough lump of mucus', dave 'puddle, pool, slop' (: Old Norse dafla 'splash'?) etc (Latvian dep- is perhaps a change form to **dhēb-* in Old Church Slavic debelъ 'thick' etc, compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 455); it is to be counted on merger of different word cognates in Germanic (see also under dāi-, dāp- 'divide'); after Endzelin (KZ. 51, 290) places engl. dab 'tap' to Lithuanian dóbiu, dóbtī 'beat to death', Latvian dābiu, dābt 'hit'.

maybe alb. dëboj (**dobēt*) 'chase away', i dobēt (**u-dobънъ*) 'emaciated, dainty, elegant, (beautiful)', dobi 'profit, advantage'.

Note:

Alb. proves that Root / lemma: dhāb- -2: 'proper, *fitting, dainty' derived from Root / lemma: dhāb- -1, nasalized dhāmb(h)-: 'to astonish, be speechless, *hit' [see above]

References: WP. I 824.

Page(s): 233

Root / lemma: dhāl-

Meaning: to blossom, be green

Material: Armenian dalar 'green, fresh';

gr. θάλλω 'blossom, be green, flourish', Perf. τέθηλα, Doric τέθᾱλα, whereof present θηλέω, Doric θᾱλέω ds., θάλος n. 'young scion, shoot', ἐριθηλής 'sprouting lusciously', εὐθᾱλής, Doric εὐθᾱλής 'sprouting or blossoming lusciously', θαλλός 'young scion, shoot, young twig, branch', θαλία 'bloom, blossom, blossoming prosperity, esp. Pl. festive joy, feast'.

Alb. dal (**dalnō*), Aor. doṭa (**dāṭ*) `arise, sprout, rise, extend', participle dalë (**dalno-*) etc (about djalë `kid, child, youngling' see below del-3).

There Alb. only arranges original ǣ-vocalism and hence also in gr. die grade ā is not perceived as neologism of ablaut in ǣ, which could be developed in itself from /are to be covered at best by a parallel root **d<sup>h</sup>el-*:

perhaps Armenian deṭ `physic, medicine' (whether from **herb*');

cymr. dail `leaves' (analogical Sg. dalen), acorn. delen `leaf' etc (i-umlaut of o), Middle Irish duille (**dolīniā*) collective, f. `leaves', gall. πομπέδουλα `five leaves' (Dioskor.) : leg. **pimpe-dola*.

maybe alb. (**dalīniā*) dëlinjë `juniper'

Essentially is unsatisfactory apposition from Germanic **dilja* in Old English dile, Old Saxon dilli, Old High German tilli, dilli `dill, strongly smelling plant umbel', changing through ablaut Old English dyle, Old Danish dylle, Modern High German Dialectal tülle ds., with other meaning Old Norse dylla `Sonchus arvensis L., sowthistle'; at least very doubtful of Old High German tola `a cluster, esp. of grapes', toldo m. `treetop or crown of a plant, umbel', Modern High German Dolde `umbel'.

Maybe alb. dyllë `wax'

A cognate being far off the meaning of the family is the form Old English deall `illustrious', see d<sup>h</sup>el- `gleam, shine'.

References: WP. I 825 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 302, 703, 714, 720, WH. I 524.

Page(s): 234

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-, d<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-eu-

Meaning: to harm

Note: the nasalized forms (**d<sup>h</sup>emb<sup>h</sup>-*) are as proportional neologisms to interpret the root after containing n-.

Material: Old Indic dabhnōti `damages, disables, cheats, Pass. gets damaged' (**d<sup>h</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-n-éu-ti*), Perf. dadābha and (changed) dadāmbha, participle Perf. Pass. dabdhá- and (from the root form on -u) á-dbhu-ta-Adj. `wonderful', actually *the inaccessible deception, untouchable'; dambháyati `makes confused, frustrated' (dambhá-ḥ `deceit'), Desid. dipsati (= Avestan diwž-, see below), dabhrá- `a little, slightly, poorly';

Avestan dab- `cheat, defraud sb of sth': davaǰyā G. Sg. f. `the cheating', davayeinti N. Sg. f. `the dishonest', dəbənaotā 2. Pl. present (Aryan **db<sup>h</sup>ana<sub>y</sub>-mi*, Indo Germanic **db<sup>h</sup>-en-eu-mi*), Inf. diwžaidyāi (without more desiderative meaning, but = Old Indic dipsa-ti), participle Perf. Pass. dapta- (innovation); dēbā-vayāt `he shall beguile, infatuate' (root form **db<sup>h</sup>eu-*), ā-dəbaoman- n. `infatuation'; osset. dawin `steal';

Hittite te-ip-nu- `esteem lowly, humiliate', Pedersen Hittite 144.

Tokharian: A tsāw-, tsop-, B tsāp-, tsop- 'mash, crush, pierce; strike, jab, poke' (PT **tsop-*, **tsāpā-*) (Adams 743)

In addition very probably gr. ἀτέμνω `damage, rob, cut (θυμόν), bewilder, deceive', Pass. `I am robbed', with ἄ- probably from **ā-*, **sm-* and with to the same consonant relationship as between πύνδαξ : Old Indic budh-ná-h.

References: WP. I 850 f., Kuiper Nasalprä. 147, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 333.

Page(s): 240

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eb-

Meaning: fat, heavy

Material: Old High German tapfar `burdensome, filled; heavy, weighty', Middle High German tapfer `tight, firm, thickset, full, weighty, signifying', late `valiant (tight, firm in the battle)', Old High German tapfare `mole', tapfari f. `moles', Middle Low German dapper `heavy, weighty, vast, grand', Dutch dapper `valiant; much, a lot of', Norwegian daper `pregnant', Old Norse dapr `heavy, elegiac, dismal, sad'.

Perhaps Old Norse dammr, Modern High German Damm, Middle High German tam ds., Gothic faúrdammjan `dam up, hinder', as dhobmó- here?

Old Church Slavic debelъ `thick', russ. Dialectal debělyj `corpulent, strong, tight, firm', abl. dobólyj `strong' (etc, s. Berneker 182); Old Prussian debīkan `big, large'; perhaps also Latvian dabl's under dābls `luscious', dabl'i audzis `lusciously sprouted', dabl'īgs `luscious' (Berneker aaO.; after Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 428 nevertheless, are Latvian words probably to be connected with Old Church Slavic dobrъ);

Tocharian A tsopats `big, large', tāppo `courage', tpär `high', B tappre, täpr- ds., Pedersen Tocharian 243, Tocharian Sprachg. 23, 27, 29, Van Windekens Lex. 135, 148. doubtfully.

References: WP. I 850, WH. I 437.

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eg<sup>w</sup>h-

Meaning: to burn, *day

Material: Old Indic dáhati, Avestan dažaiti 'burns' (= Lithuanian degù, Old Church Slavic žegō, alb. djek), participle Old Indic dagdhá-h (= Lithuanian dėgtas), Kaus. dāháyati; dāha-h 'blaze, heat', nidāghá-h 'heat, summer', npers. dāy 'burn brand' (in addition spätgr. δάγαλος, -ις 'red-brown horse '?); Avestan daxša-m. 'blaze';

gr. θέπτανος ἀπτόμενος Hes. ('kindled'; == Lithuanian dėgtinas 'who or what is to be burned'), τέφρα 'ash' (*d<sup>h</sup>eg<sup>w</sup>hrā);

alb. djek 'incinerate, burn', Kaus. dhez, n-dez, ndez 'ignite' (basic form *d<sup>h</sup>og<sup>w</sup>hégīō = Latin foveō);

Note:

Common Latin d- > f-:

Latin foveō, -ēre 'to be boiling hot, to boil, seethe, glow. Transf., to be in quick movement, to seethe; to be excited by passion, rage', fōculum 'a sacrificial hearth, fire-pan, brazier' (**foye-clom*), fōmentum 'a poultice, fomentation. Transf., alleviation' (**foyementom*), fōmes, -itis 'touchwood, tinder' (**foyemet-*, meaning as Latvian daglis), favilla 'glowing ashes, esp. of the dead; a spark' (probably from *d<sup>h</sup>og<sup>w</sup>h-lo-lā); favōnius 'zephyrus, the warm west wind' (from **fovōnios*): febris 'fever' (*d<sup>h</sup>eg<sup>w</sup>hro-; after Leumann Gnom. 9, 226 ff. i-inflection after sītis).

Middle Irish daig (Gen. dega) 'fire, pain' (from **degi-*); about Middle Breton deuiff, nbret. devi, cymr. deifio 'burn' see below **dāu-* 'burn'; cymr. de 'burning'; go-ddaith 'blaze' (from *-dekto-); but Old Irish ded-ól 'break of dawn' after Marstrander Dict. Ir. Lang. I 213 actually 'parting drink, the last drink'; nir. dogha 'burdock' (: Lithuanian dagys see below); about Gothic dags 'day' etc see below **āgher-* S. 7;

Note:

from Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eg<sup>w</sup>h-: 'to burn, *day' derived Root / lemma: āgher-, āghen-, āghes- (or ōgher etc): 'day' the same as Root / lemma: akru-: 'tear' derived from Root / lemma: akru-: 'tears'. The phonetic shift da- > a-, zero is a common Baltic. Compare Root / lemma: del-5: 'long': Baltic with unexplained d-loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian īlgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. 'long' : Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) 'long', da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugasti) n. 'length'. This is a sound proof of Aryan migration from the Baltic region to North India.

Lithuanian degù, dègti 'burn' (trans. and intrans.), dègtas 'burnt', dègtinas 'what is to be burned', degtinė f. 'brandy, alcohol', ablauted dagỹs, dāgis 'thistle' (Latvian dadzis); dāgas 'the burning; summer heat; harvest', dagā 'harvest', Old Prussian dagis 'summer'; Lithuanian dāglas 'to brand', dēglas 'torch, cresset, brand; black-dappled'; Latvian daglas f. Pl. 'scorch', daglis 'tinder'; Lithuanian nuodėgulis 'firebrand', dēgis 'burner; burning'; ablaut. atúo-dogiai (?) m. Pl. 'summer wheat, summer crops';

sloven. děgniti 'burn, warm', Czech old dehna 'devil', ablaut. dahněti 'burn'; russ. děgotъ 'tar' (from '* wood rich in resin'), as Lithuanian degùtas 'birch tar'; with Assimil. (?) von **degq* to **gegq*: Old Church Slavic žegq, žešti 'burn', ablaut. russ. iz-gága 'pyrosis, heartburn' (see Meillet MSL. 14, 334 f., different Brugmann II<sup>2</sup> 3, 120).

Maybe alb. zheg 'summer heat' a Slavic loanword.

Tocharian B teki 'disease, malady' (= Irish daig); A tsāk-, B tsak- 'burn', ts after ablaut. tsāk- ( *<sup>dh</sup>ēgʷh-) 'gleam, glow'; AB cok 'light' (from 'pinewood torch') : Balto Slavic **degut*- 'tar' (see above).

References: WP. I 849 f., WH. I 466 f., 469, 471 f., 864, Trautmann 49, Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 23.

Page(s): 240-241

---

Root / lemma: <sup>dh</sup>eigh-

Meaning: to knead clay; to build

Note: s. to Sachlichen Meringer IF. 17, 147.

Material: Old Indic dēhmi 'coat, cement' (3. Sg. dēgdhi instead of **dēḍhi*), also participle digdhá-, dēha- m. n. 'body, structure', dēhīf. 'embankment, dam, curve, bay', Avestan pairi-daēzayeiti 'walled all around' (= Old Indic Kaus. dēhayati) uzdišta 3. Sg. Med. 'has erected (a dam)', participle uz-dišta-, uz-daēza- m. 'pile, embankment', pairi-daēza- m. 'enclosure, park' (out of it gr. παρὰδεισος 'a royal park or pleasure ground, a Persian word brought in by Xen.; used for the garden of Eden, Paradise'), Old pers. didā 'fortress' (from **dizā*-, root nom. in -ā), npers. diz, dēz ds.;

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in $h_2^{w}ah_1^{w}e-$ > Avestan $ae-$

Armenian dizanem (Aor. 3. Sg. edēz) `pile up', dizanim `be piled up', dēz `heap';

Maybe nasalized alb. ( $*d^h eiĝh-$ ) deng `heap' [common Latin  $-h-$  >  $-g-$ ].

thrak.  $-dīzōs$ ,  $-dīzα$  `castle' (: Old pers. didā or  $*d^h iĝh-iā$ ); also  $δέξιον$ , PN  $Δείξας$ , Burto-dexion, Burtu-dizos,  $Δίγγιον$  (: Latin fingerō); Pannonian VN An-dizetes `castle inhabitant';

Note:

Illyrian Pannonian VN An-dizetes `castle inhabitant' displays satem characteristics [common alb.  $-ĝh-$  >  $-d-$ ,  $-z-$ ].

gr.  $τειχος$  n.,  $τοιχος$  m. (formal = Old Indic dēha-) `wall';  $θιγγάνω$ , Aor.  $θιγέιν$  `touched' (meaning as Latin fingerē also `shaped, fashioned, formed, molded; arranged', voiced-nonaspirated g previously original from the nasalized present form);

Note:

Common Latin  $d-$  >  $f-$ :

Latin fingerō,  $-ere$ , finxi, fictum `to shape, fashion, form, mold; also to arrange, put in order; to represent, imagine, conceive; to feign, fabricate, devise, make up; touch strokingly', figulus `a worker in clay, potter' (: Germanic  $*đizulaz$ ), filum ( $*figslom$ ) `shape', effigiēs `(molded) image, an image, likeness, effigy; a shade, ghost; an ideal', figūra `form, shape, figure, size; an atom; shade of a dead person; in the abstr., kind, nature, species', fictiō `forming, feigning; assumption', fictilis `shaped; hence earthen, made of clay; n. as subst., esp. pl. earthenware, earthen vessels' (to Latin g instead of h s. Leumann Latin Gr. 133; after latter derives from forms as fictus also k from Old Faliscan fifiked `touched, handled', Oscan fifikus perhaps `you will have devised'); probably Umbrian fikla, ficlām `a gruel used at sacrifices, a cake, offered to the gods', Latin fitilla `a gruel used at sacrifices' (with dial. t from ct); Oscan feihúss `walls' ( $*d^h eiĝho-$ ); about Latin filum (identical with filum `filament'?) compare WH. I 497, on the other hand EM<sup>2</sup> 360;

Old Irish digen `tight, firm' ( $*k$ neaded tightly, compact'); Old Irish  $*kom-uks-ding-$  `to build, erect' in 1. Sg. cunutgim, 3. Sg. conutuinc etc and perhaps also dingid, for-ding `put down, oppressed', see below 1.  $d^h engh-$  `press, cover' etc;

Gothic þamma digandin 'the kneading', kasa digana 'clay vessel', gadigis (meaning for gadikis, 'anything moulded, an image, figure, shape, construction', es-stem, similarly τεῖχος 'a wall'); daigs m. 'dough' (**d<sup>h</sup>oiǵhos*), Old Norse deig (n.), Old English dāg, Old High German teig ds.; Old Norse digr 'thick, corpulent' (meaning as Irish digen), Gothic digrei 'density, thickness, bulk, mass', Middle High German tiger, tigere Adv. 'fully, entirely', Norwegian Dialectal digna 'become thick', diga 'thick, soft mass' besides Middle Low German Norwegian dīger, Old High German tegal, Old Norse digull 'glaze pot, crucible, skillet' seems to be a genuine Germanic word (**ǵiz* .. laz), however, this has sponged in the meaning of Latin tēgula (from τήγανον 'a frying-pan, saucepan');

Maybe alb. tjegula 'roof-tile': Latin tēgula 'tile, roof-tile' [conservative definitive forms versus indefinite forms (alb. phonetic trait)].

Lithuanian díežti, dýžti 'flay, flog' (*'knead, smear one down'), Latvian diezēt 'convince, offer' (*'to humbug sb'); Old Russian děža, klr. dīža etc 'kneading trough, form, mould' (**d<sup>h</sup>oiǵh-j-ā*; Berneker 198, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 487).

Maybe alb. (**d<sup>h</sup>oiǵh*) dhoga 'plank'

An adapted form (**ǵheǵh-*) is probably Lithuanian žiedžiū, žiēsti 'form, mould', Old Lithuanian puod-židys 'a worker in clay, potter', Old Church Slavic zīzdq, zbdati 'to build', zbdь, zidь 'wall' (Būga Kalba ir s. 184 f);

Tocharian A tseke ši peke ši 'figure, shape or painting' (W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 257 f., Indo Germanic **d<sup>h</sup>oiǵhos*).

A parallel root **d<sup>h</sup>eig-* seeks Wood Mod. Phil. 4, 490 f. in Middle High German tīchen 'make, create etc'; Old English diht(i)an 'to say often; to say over, dictate a thing to be written; hence to get written down', Old High German tihton 'invent and create; versify' derive from late Latin dictāre 'to say often; to say over, dictate a thing to be written; hence to get written down'.

References: WP. I 833 f., WH. I 501 f. 507.

Page(s): 244-245

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eiə- : d<sup>h</sup>iā- : d<sup>h</sup>ī-

Meaning: to see, show

Material: Old Indic ádīdhēt 'he looked', Pl. dīdhimāḥ, Med. dīdhyē, ádīdhīta, Konj. dīdhayat (perhaps converted to present Perf., compare Perf. dīdhaya); dhyā-ti, dhyā-ya-ti

(io-present) ` looks in spirit, d. i. thinks, reflects ', participle dhyā-ta- and dhi-tā-, dhyā ` the thinking, meditating ', dhyā-tar- `thinker', dhyā-na- n. `meditation, contemplation ', dhyāman- n. (Gr.) `thought, notion'; dhī-ḥ, Akk. dhīy-am `thought, notion, imagining, discernment, understanding, religious meditation, devotion ', dhī-tí- `awareness, thought, notion, devotion ', dhīra- `seeing, smart, wise, skilful', avadhīrayati `disdains (despites), rejects, despises ', prakr. herai `sieves '; s-formation Old Indic dhiyasāná- `attentive, observant, heedful '; presumably also dhiśāṇa- if `sensible, wise, smart', dhiśanyant- if `observant, pious ', dhiśā Instr. Adv. if `with devotion, zeal, or lust ', yet compare on the other hand that belong to Latin fēstus, fānum, Indo Germanic d̥hēs- `religious', dhiśnya- `devout, religious ';

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in h₂<sup>w</sup>aḥ₁<sup>w</sup>e- > Avestan ae-

Avestan dā(y)- `see', e.g. ā-diḍā'ti `contemplates', daiḍyantō Nom. Pl. participle `the seeing ' (etc, s. Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 724); participle paitī-dīta- `beholds ', -dītī- f. `the beholding ', dāḍa- `sensible, smart' (lengthened grade as -diḍā'ti), -dā(y)-, -dī- f. as 2. composition part `vision, look; discernment, intention'; -dāman- `intention'; daēman- n. `eye, eyeball; look', dōiḍra- n. `eye', daēnā `religion' and `internal being, spiritual I '; npers. dīdan `see', dīm `face, cheek';

gr. σημα, Doric σᾶμα `mark, token, sign, Kennzeichen, Merkmal etc' (**d̥h₁iā-m̥* = Old Indic dhyāman-; Lithuanian by Boisacq s. v., compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 322; after E. Leumann [Abh. Kunde d. Morgenl. 20, 1, S. 96] rather to Sakisch śśāma `mark, token, sign'), σημαίνω `mache durch ein Zeichen kenntlich etc';

alb. díturë, dítme `wisdom, learning ', dinak `cunning'.

Also alb. dī `I know, discern'

It goes back to a synonymous **d̥h₁āu-*:

Gr. θαῦμα `what excites admiration, astonishment; veneration, astonishment ' (**d̥h₁əu-m̥*) θαυμάζω `be surprised, astonish, venerate, admire ', next to which with gradation θῶ(υ)μα; compare Boeotian Θώμων, Doric Θωμάντας (Lithuanian by Boisacq under θαῦμα; about Θήβος θαῦμα Hes. probably ΘήΦος, s. Boisacq under θάμβος m. Lithuanian); Attic θέα `looking, sight; show' from **thāFā*, compare syrak. θάα, Ionian θηέομαι, Doric θᾶέομαι `consider' (Attic θεάομαι reshaped after θέα), etc, s. Boisacq under θέα and θεωρός (to latter still Ehrlich KZ. 40, 354 Anm. 1). Except gr. equivalents are absent.

References: WP. I 831 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 349, 523.

Page(s): 243

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>elb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to bury

Note: Only german. and Balto-Slavic

Material: Old High German bi-telban, -telpan (participle bitolban) 'bury', Old Saxon bi-delban ds., mndd. Dutch delven, Old English delfan 'dig, bury', Flemish delv 'gorge, ravine, gulch, ditch, trench, channel'; in addition Swiss tölpen 'hit, thrash', Tirol dalfer 'slap in the face, box on the ear, blow, knock', ndd. dölben 'hit';

Balto Slavic **dilbō* 'dig, hollow out': in Lithuanian délba and dálba f. 'crowbar', Latvian dīlba f., dilbis m. 'hollow bone, epiphysis, shinbone', delbs 'upper arm, elbow', dalbs m., dalba f. 'fishing rod, hayfork'; perhaps Lithuanian nu-dīlbinti 'lower the eyes down';

Slavic **dьlbъ*, **delti* in Serbo-Croatian dúbēm, dúpsti 'hollow out', dùbok 'deep, etc (ablaut. **delti* in Serbo-Croatian dial. dlisti 'chisel, cut', compare dlijèto 'chisel'); Czech dlubu, dlubati 'hollow out, poke', ablaut. **dolb-* in Czech dlabati 'chisel, cut', dlab 'seam' (= Latvian dālbs), Old Russian nadolobъ m., nadolba f. 'town enclosure'; **dolb-to-* 'chisel, sharp iron' in Old Prussian dalptan 'press copy, impact break', Slavic **dolto* 'chisel' in Bulgarian dlató, russ.-Church Slavic dlato, russ. doťotó ds.

maybe truncated alb. (**dolto*) daltë 'chisel'

References: WP. I 866 f., Trautmann 54, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 434.

Page(s): 246

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>elgh-, d<sup>h</sup>elg- (?)

Meaning: to hit

Material: Old English dolg n., Old High German tolc, tolg, dolg n. 'wound' (*'blow, knock'), Old Norse dolg n. 'enmity', dolgr 'fiend', dylgja 'enmity', wherefore probably ndd. dalgen, daljen 'hit' (borrows Norwegian Dialectal dalga ds.), Modern High German (Hessian-nassauisch, East Prussian) dalgen, talken 'thrash, hit', Middle High German talgen 'knead'. After Havers KZ. 43, 231, IF. 28, 190 ff. was also for gr. θέλγω 'enchant, beguile etc', θέλκτωρ, θελκτήρ, θελκτήριος 'charming, tempting', θέλξις 'enthralment' (Indo Germanic *d<sup>h</sup>elg- besides *d<sup>h</sup>elgh-?) the basic meaning 'enchantment through a blow' probably, as well as also Τελχίνες, Θελγίνες demons were damaging through blows the health of the people and at the same time the smiths.

Everything quite uncertainly. Rather Tocharian A talke n., B telki `sacrifice, oblation' could still belong to it.

References: WP. I 866.

Page(s): 247

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>elg-

Meaning: to stick; needle

Material: Old Irish delg n. (es-stem) `thorn, cloth needle', corn. delc (i.e. delch) `a necklace, collar [for horses and other animals]', mcymr. dala, dal `bite, prick, sting';

Old Norse dalkr `needle to fasten the mantle about the right shoulder; spinal column of fish; dagger, knife ', Old English dalc m. `clasp, hairpin' (Modern High German Dolch, older Tolch, ndd. dolk, after Mikola BB. 25, 74 the origin of Czech poln. tulich, sloven. tolih, is namely borrowed at first from Latin doŏ `a pike, sword-stick; a small foresail sword-cane', but perhaps reshaped after Germanic words as Old English dalc);

Lithuanian dilgùs `pricking, burning ', dilgé, dilgélẽ f. `nettle', dilgstu, dilgti `get burned by nettle '; dālgis `scythe' here, not to S. 196!

Here perhaps Latin falx `a sickle, bill-hook, pruning-hook; a sickle-shaped implement of war', after Niedermann Essais 17 ff. regressive derivative from falcula, that derives from Ligurian (?) **ǵalkla* (*d<sup>h</sup>al-tla), also as sizil. Ζάγκλη, Δανκλῆ `Messina' (: δρέπανον).

maybe Illyrian TN Docleatae

However, one derive just as well from *d<sup>h</sup>alg-tlā ; if in that Italian dialekt would have become Indo Germanic /to al/, the a-vowel can be also explained.

Late Latin daculum `sickle' could be in addition the Ligurian equivalent. Against it Terracini Arch. Glott. Ital. 20, 5 f., 30 f.

References: WP. I 865 f.

Page(s): 247

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>el-1, d<sup>h</sup>olo-

Meaning: curve; hollow

Note:

From Root / lemma: ǵhel-1 (and ǵhel-?), also as i-, u- or *n-*stem; ǵhele- : ǵhlē-, ǵhlō- : ǵhle- : 'to shine; green, gold, blue, *sun' derived Root / lemma: dh el-1, dh olo- : 'curve; hollow', Root / lemma: dh el-2 : 'light, shining', Root / lemma: dh el-3 : 'to tremble' [common alb.-Illyrian ǵh- > d-].

Material: Gr. θόλος f. 'dome, cupola, domed roof, round building (sudatorium)'; sizil. θολία, lak. (Hes.) σαλία 'round summer hat', θάλαμος m. 'situated in the interior of house room, bedroom, pantry', θαλάμη 'cave, den (of animals)', ὄφ-θαλμός 'eye' (*ὄψ-θαλμός 'eye socket');

cymr. dol f. 'valley', bret. Dol in PN;

Old Norse dalr 'bow'; Gothic dals m. or dal n. 'valley, pit, pothole', Old Saxon dal, Old English dæl, Old High German tal n. 'valley', Old Norse dalr m. 'valley'; Gothic dalaþ 'downwards', dalaþa 'under', dalaþrō 'from below' (here as **Daliþernōz* 'valley inhabitant' the Daliterni of Avienus, German Alps in Valais, after R. Much, Germanist. Forschungen, Wien 1925), Old Frisian tō dele 'down', Old Saxon tō dale, Middle Low German dale, nnd. dal 'down, low', Middle High German ze tal ds.; Old English dell, Middle High German telle f. 'gorge, ravine, gulch' (**dāljo*); changing through ablaut Old Norse dǫll m. 'valley inhabitant' (**dōlja*), Norwegian dial. døl 'small valley, long gully resembling dent' (**dōlja*) = Old High German tuolla, Middle High German tüele 'small valley, dent', mnl. doel 'ditch, trench, channel'; Old Norse dæla 'gully' (**dēlja*), dæld 'small valley' (**dēliðō*); nnd. dole 'small pit, pothole', Middle High German to(e) f. 'drainage ditch' (Old High German dola 'gully, ditch, trench, channel, duct, tube, pipe' probably actually nnd.), Old High German tulli, Middle High German tülle, nnd. dölle 'short duct, tube, pipe' (also nnd. dal stands for 'duct, tube, pipe');

Old Church Slavic (etc) doľ 'hole, pit, pothole, valley', dolu 'downwards', doľe 'under'.

References: WP. I 864 f., Loth RC. 42, 86.

Page(s): 245-246

---

Root / lemma: dh el-2

Meaning: light, shining

Note:

From Root / lemma: ǵhel-1 (and ǵhel-?), also as i-, u- or *n-*stem; ǵhele- : ǵhlē-, ǵhlō- : ǵhle- : 'to shine; green, gold, blue, *sun' derived Root / lemma: dh el-1, dh olo- : 'curve; hollow', Root / lemma: dh el-2 : 'light, shining', Root / lemma: dh el-3 : 'to tremble' [common alb.-Illyrian ǵh- > d-].

Material: Perhaps Armenian deŋin, Gen. deŋnoy 'yellow, sallow, paled, pallid' (**dh̥elēno-*);

Middle Irish dellrad 'radiance'; Old English deall 'stout, proud, bold, illustrious', Old Norse GN Heimdallr, Mar-döll 'epithet of the light goddess Freyja', Dellingr 'father of the day', Middle High German ge-telle 'pretty, good'(?).

References: WP. I 865.

Page(s): 246

---

Root / lemma: dh̥el-3

Meaning: to tremble

Note:

From Root / lemma: ghel-1 (and ghel-?), also as i-, u- or *n-*stem; ghelē- : ghlē-, ghlō- : ghle- : 'to shine; green, gold, blue, *sun' derived Root / lemma: dh̥el-1, dh̥olo- : 'curve; hollow', Root / lemma: dh̥el-2 : 'light, shining', Root / lemma: dh̥el-3 : 'to tremble' [common alb.-Illyrian gh- > d-].

Material: Armenian doŋam 'tremble'; Norwegian and Swedish dial. dilla 'swing, swerve', Norwegian dial. dalla, dulla 'walk on tiptoe; trip', Low German dallen 'amble', Norwegian dilte 'trot, walk on tiptoe; trip', dalte ds.

Doubtful; s. Falk-Torp under dilte addendum.

References: WP. I 865.

Page(s): 246

---

Root / lemma: (**dh̥embh-*), dh̥mbh-

Meaning: to dig

Note: only gr. and armen.

Material: Armenian damban 'grave, vault, sepulchre, grave; grave, monument, tombstone', dambaran ds.;

gr. θάπτω (**dh̥mbh-jo*), Aor. Pass. ἐτάφην 'bury, entomb', ἄθαπτος 'unburied', τάφος m. 'funeral, obsequies; grave, burial mound', ταφή 'funeral, grave', τάφος (**dh̥mbh-ro-s*) f. 'ditch, trench, channel'; but Old Prussian dambo f. 'ground' is amended in daubo (see 268).

Maybe alb. dhemb 'pain, sadness'

Note:

Clearly Root / lemma: (dh<sup>h</sup>em-), dh<sup>h</sup>mb-: 'to dig' derived from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>em-, dh<sup>h</sup>emə-: 'to smoke; to blow' which means that Aryans initially burnt the dead while the ritual of burial was born much later.

References: WP. I 852.

Page(s): 248-249

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>em-, dh<sup>h</sup>emə-

Meaning: to smoke; to blow

Material: Old Indic dhámati 'blows' (dhāmi-śyati, -tá- and dhmātá-, Pass. dhāmyatē and dhmāyātē), Avestan dāōmainya- 'puffing up, swelling, of frogs ', npers. damīdan 'blow', dam 'breath, breath ', osset. dumun, dīmīn 'smoke; blow';

Maybe alb. Tosc tym n. 'smoke': also alb. Geg dhem, alb. dhemb 'hurt, ache', dhimbje 'pain' [common alb. shift m > mb].

Note:

Clearly from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>em-, dh<sup>h</sup>emə-: 'to smoke; to blow' derived Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>eu-4, dh<sup>h</sup>euə- (presumably: dh<sup>h</sup>uē-, compare the extension dh<sup>h</sup>uē-k-, dh<sup>h</sup>uē-s-): 'to reel, dissipate, blow, etc.'.

gr. θέμερος, σεμνός, θεμερῶπις 'somber, dark-looking ' (: Old High German timber 'dim');

Middle Irish dem 'black, dark';

Norwegian daam (*dh<sup>h</sup>ēmo-) 'dark', daame m. 'cloud haze ', daam m. 'taste, smell, odor' = Old Norse dāmr 'taste';

with Guttural-extension: dh<sup>h</sup>enguə-, dh<sup>h</sup>engui- 'misty ' in Old Norse dǫkk f. 'dent in the landscape ' = Latvian danga (*dh<sup>h</sup>onguā) 'faecal puddle, slop, swampy land, sea mud ', further Old Norse dǫkk, Old Frisian diunk 'dark' (Germanic **denkva*-); zero grade Old Saxon dunkar, Old High German tunkal, Modern High German dunkel (originally and with the meaning 'misty - humid, wet' Norwegian and Swedish Dialectal dunken 'humid, wet, dank, muggy', engl. dank, Dialectal dunk 'humid, wet'); in addition cymr. dew m. (*dh<sup>h</sup>enguos) 'fog, smoke, sultriness' etc, deweint 'darkness' (mistakenly Loth RC 42, 85; 43, 398 f), Hittite da-an-ku-i-iš (dankuiš) 'dark, black' (Benveniste BSL. 33, 142); with Germanic -p-: Middle High German dimpfen, dampf 'steam, smoke', Old High German Middle High German dampf m. 'vapor, smoke', Middle Low German engl. damp 'vapor, damp fog', nld. dumpig 'dull, humid, wet, musty', Modern High German dumpfig, dumpf (also = confused, scattered, sprayed); kaus. Old High German dempfen, tempfen, Middle High German dempfen 'stew through steam, stew'; with Germanic -b-: Swedish dial. dimba stem V. 'steam, smoke, spray', dimba 'vapor', Norwegian damb n. 'dust', Old Norse dumba 'dust, cloud of dust' (besides with -mm- Old Norse dimmr 'dark', Old Frisian Old English dim ds., Norwegian Dialectal dimma, dumma 'lack of clarity in the air, fog cover', Swedish dimma 'thin fog'), Old High German timber, Middle High German timber, timmer 'dark, dim, black';

Old Norse dýr 'slime, mud, ordure, morass' from *dh<sup>h</sup>mkio-, compare with gramm. variation Danish dýng 'damp, humid, wet', Swedish Dialectal dungen 'humid, wet';

to what extent of background the s-forms Swedish Dialectal stimma, stimba 'steam', norw Dialectal stamma, stamba 'stink' Indo Germanic have been newly created or only after concurrence of Old High German toum: Old English stēam, German toben 'rage': stieben (see below d<sup>h</sup>eu-, d<sup>h</sup>eu-b<sup>h</sup>- 'scatter, sprinkle'), is doubtful;

Lithuanian dumiù, dùmti 'blow', apdùmti 'blow with sand or snow (of wind)', dùmplės 'bellows', dùmpiu, dùmpti 'blow' (probably with p-extension), Old Prussian dumsle 'bladder';

Old Church Slavic dъmъ, dъti 'blow' (to Balto Slavic vocalism s. Berneker 244 f. m. Lithuanian, Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 63 f., 164, Trautmann 63).

References: WP. I 851 f.

Page(s): 247-248

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>engh-1

Meaning: to press; to cover

Material: Old Irish dingid, for-ding 'oppressed' (see also d<sup>h</sup>eigh-); compare Pedersen KG. II 506;

Lithuanian dengiù, deñgti 'cover', dangà 'cover', dangùs 'sky, heaven', in addition diñgti 'disappear' (from '* be covered'), Slavic **doga* 'bow' (: Lithuanian dangà) in russ. dugá 'bow', old 'rainbow', Bulgarian dъgá, serb. dúga, poln. dial. dęga ds., probably to:

Old Icelandic dyngia 'dunghill, house in the earth where the women did the handwork', Old English *dyng*e, Old High German tunga 'fertilization', Old Saxon dung, Old High German tung, Middle High German tunc 'the subterranean chamber where the women weaved ' (originally winter houses covered with fertilizer for the protection against the cold), Old English dung ` jail ', Old High German tungen ` depress, fertilize ', Old English engl. dung ` manure ', Modern High German Dung, Dünger.

Maybe alb. dengu `heap'

References: WP. I 791 f., 854, Trautmann 44 f.

Page(s): 250

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>engh-2

Meaning: to get, gripe

Material: Old Indic daghnōti (Aor. dhak, daghyāḥ etc) ` reaches up to, achieves ', -daghná- ` reaching up to something ' (*d<sup>h</sup>ṇgh-);

gr. ταχύς `quick, fast', Kompar. θάσσων (*d<sup>h</sup>ṇgh-);

Old Irish daingen `tight, firm, strong' = cymr. dengyn ds. (**dangino-* or **dengino-*);

Slavic dęgъ: dōgъ ` strength, power, luck ' in russ.-Church Slavic djagъ ` strap, leather belt ', russ. djága ` leather belt ', djáglyj `strong, fit, healthy', djágnutъ `grow, become strong '; ablaut. Old Bulgarian ne-dōgъ `disease, malady' (but russ. dúžij `strong' belongs rather to d<sup>h</sup>eugh-, under S. 271); the meaning has taken place after probably an intermingling with Slavic tęg- `pull, drag, draw ' (Brückner KZ. 42, 342 f).

References: WP. I 791 f., Berneker 190, 217 f.

Page(s): 250

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>en-1

Meaning: to run, *flow

Material: Old Indic dhanáyati `runs, set in movement', npers. danīdan `hurry, run', Old Indic dhánvati `runs, flows ', Old pers. danuvatij ` flows ', Old Indic dhánutar- `running, flowing ';

Messapic river name ardannoa (**ar-d<sup>h</sup>on<sub>u</sub>-ā*) ` situated in the water ' (?), (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), apul. PN Ardaneae = Herdonia (Krahe Gl. 17, 102);

Latin probably fōns, -tis ` a spring, fountain; fresh or spring water. Transf. spring, origin, source '; perhaps hybridization of to-stem **fontos* and tī-stem **fentis* (*d<sup>h</sup>ṇ-tí-);

Note: common Latin initial d- > f- shift.

Tocharian AB tsän 'flow', B tseñe 'current, gush', tsnam 'flow'.

References: WP. I 852, Couvreur BSL. 41, 165.

Page(s): 249

---

Root / lemma: dh en-2

Meaning: surface of hand/land, etc. (*dry land)

Note:

From Root / lemma: dh en-1: 'to run, *flow' derived Root / lemma: dh en-2: 'surface of hand/land, etc. (*dry land)' meaning 'arid flat area'.

Material:

Old Indic dhānuṣ- n., dhānvan- m. n. 'dry land, mainland, beach, dry land, desert', dhānu-, dhanū- f. 'sandbank, seashore, island';

gr. θέναρ n. 'palm, sole, also from the surface of the sea or from deepening in the altar to the admission of the offering', ὀπισθέναρ 'opisthenar, back of the hand' (**ὀπισθοθέναρ*), Old High German tenar m., tenra f. (**denarā-*), Middle High German tener m. 'flat hand', Curtius<sup>5</sup> 255 (samt Old Indic dhānuṣ-, see below).

In addition Vulgar Latin danea 'area' (Reichenauer Gl.), Old High German tenni n., (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Middle High German tenne m. f. n., Modern High German Tenne 'barn floor, threshing floor, flattened loam ground or wooden floor as a threshing place, hallway, ground, place, surface generally', Dutch denne 'area, a pavement of tiles, brick, stone; floored, boarded; n. as subst. a floor, story; a row or layer of vines'; as 'smoothly trodden place good as threshing floor' can be also understood meeklenb. denn 'trodden down place in the grain layer', Middle Low German denne 'lowland, depression' (and 'valley forest' see below), Middle Dutch denne 'den of wild animals' (and 'valley forest', see below), dan 'waste, from shrubbery surrounded place, place generally, land, scenery' (and 'valley forest', s.under), Old English denn 'cave, wild den', nengl. den 'cave, pit, pothole', East Frisian dann(e) 'bed, garden bed, garden plot'.

About Lithuanian dėnis m. 'deck board of a small boat', Latvian denis ds. (Germanic loanword?) s. Trautmann 51, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 455.

References: WP. I 853.

Page(s): 249

---

Root / lemma: dh en-3

Meaning: to hit, push

Note:

From Root / lemma: dh en-1: ` to run, *'flow' derived Root / lemma: dh en-2: `surface of hand/land, etc. (*dry land)' meaning `arid flat area', then from Root / lemma: dh en-2: `surface of hand' derived Root / lemma: dh en-3: `to hit, push'.

Material: Only in extensions (almost exclusively Germanic):

d-extension: Old Norse detta stem V. ` fall down heavily and hard, hit ' (**dintan*, compare Norwegian dial. datta [**dantōn*] `knock': denta ` give small punches '), Modern Frisian dintje ` shake lightly ', Norwegian deise ` fall tumbling, glide ' (from:) nnd. dei(n)sen (**dantisōn*) ` reel back, flee'; East Frisian duns `fall' (s from -dt- or -ds-), Old Norse dyntr, Old English dynt m. (= Old Norse dytt), engl. dint `blow, knock, shove ';

alb. g-dhent, gdhend ` hew wood, plane, beat ', Geg dhend, dhênn ` cut out, cut ' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Maybe (**gdhend*) gdhë `piece of wood', alb. Tosc dënd `hit, beat'.

Gutt-extension: Old Norse danga (**dangōn*) `thrash': Old Swedish diunga stem V. `hit', Middle English dingen `hit, bump, poke', nengl. ding (Scandinavian loanword), Middle High German tingelen `knock, hammer', Norwegian dingle (and dangle) `dangle'; Kaus. Old Norse dengja, Old English dengan, Middle High German tengen (tengelen) `hit, knock, hammer (Modern High German dengeln)'; Old High German tangal m. `hammer'.

Labial-extension: Swedish dimpa (damp) `fall fast and heavily', nnd. dumpen `hit, bump, poke', engl. dial. dump ` hit heavily '.

References: WP. I 853 f.

Page(s): 249-250

---

Root / lemma: dh erāgh-

Meaning: to pull; to drag

Note: equal meaning with trāgh- (see d.).

Material: Old Norse draga, Gothic under Old English dragan, engl. draw `pull, drag', Old Norse drag n. ` base of a pulled object ', Norwegian drag ` draught, wash of the waves, watercourse, towing rope ', dial. drog f. (**dragō*) ` short sledge, road track of an animal, valley ', Old Norse dregill `band, strap', drōg f. `stripe', Old Swedish drøgh ` sled ', Old English dræge f. ` seine, fishing net which hangs vertically in the water with floats on the top and weights on the bottom ', Middle Low German dragge, nnd. also dregge ` boat anchor ', engl. dredge ds.; changing through ablaut Norwegian dorg f. (**durgō*, Indo Germanic **dʰr̥ghā*) 'fishing line, which one pulls up behind the boat'; with the meaning 'bear, carry' (from 'drag', s. Berner 212), Old High German tragan 'bear, carry', sih (gi)tragon 'bear oneself, conduct oneself, behave '.

Maybe alb. Geg (dherāgh-) tērhek 'pull, drag' : Polish targać 'carry' [common alb. -g- > -h- shift]

Probably here Slavic **dārgā* in: serb.-Church Slavic draga 'valley', russ. doróga 'way, alley, journey', dial. 'fishing rod'; maybe alb. (**do-róga*) rruga 'way, alley, journey' [common alb. de- > zero grade] similar formation to Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) 'long' : alb. (**da-lu-ga-e-eš*) glatë 'long'; also alb. (**doróga*) dërgonj 'send in a trip'.

The phonetic shift da- > a-, zero is a common Baltic Illyrian. Compare Root / lemma: *del-5 : 'long': Baltic with unexplained d- loss (see below): Lithuanian ilgas, f. ilgà, Latvian ilgs, Old Prussian ilga and ilgi Adv. 'long' : Hittite Nom. Pl. da-lu-ga-e-eš (dalugaes) 'long', da-lu-ga-aš-ti (dalugasti) n. 'length'.

serb. drāga 'valley', poln. droga 'way, alley, road, journey', russ. doróžítʹ 'hollow out', Czech drážiti 'make a rabbit or a furrow, hollow out'; perhaps also Czech z-dráhati se 'refuse, decline', poln. wz-dragać się 'to flinch from doing sth, flinch, shudder' (as 'protract, draw') and Old Church Slavic podragъ 'hemline, edge of a dress' (different under dergh- 'catch').

Latin trahō 'to trail, pull along; to drag, pull violently; to draw in, take up; of air, to breathe; to draw out, hence to lengthen; then; to draw together, contract. Transf. to draw, attract; to take in or on, assume, derive; to prolong, spin out; to ascribe, refer, interpret', traha 'sledge, drag', trāgum 'seine', trāgula ds., small drag, a species of javelin' could go back through spirant dissimilation (**ḍragō* to **dragō*) in dʰr̥āgh-, but also Indo Germanic t- have (: Old Irish traig 'foot' etc, s. trāgh-).

References: WP. I 862, Trautmann 45.

Page(s): 257

---

Root / lemma: dʰer̥bʰ- (dʰer̥bʰ-?)

Meaning: to work

Material: Armenian derbuk 'rough, stiff, rude';

Old English deorfan stem V. 'work; perish, die', gedeorfn. 'work, hardship', Old Frisian for-derva, Middle Low German vor-derven, Middle High German verderben 'die, perish', also Kaus. 'spoil';

Lithuanian dirbu, dirbti 'work', dárbas 'work', darbùs 'laborious'.

Note:

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>erb<sup>h</sup>- (dh<sup>h</sup>erab<sup>h</sup>-?) : 'to work' derived from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>erab<sup>h</sup>- : 'to harden'.

References: WP. I 863, II 631, Kluge<sup>11</sup> 101, 649.

Page(s): 257

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>erab<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to harden

Material: Old Indic drapsá-h m. 'drip'??;

gr. τρέφεσθαι, τετροφέναι 'curdle, coagulate, harden, be firm', τρέφω, Doric τράφω 'make curdle, coagulate, harden (γάλα; τυρόν), nourish (*make thick, fat, obese), bring up' (θρέψω, ἔθρεψα) τροφός 'nourishing', f. 'wet nurse', θρέμμα 'the nourished, foster child, child, breeding livestock', τρόφις 'fat, obese, strong, big, large', τροφαλίς, -ίδος 'fresh cheese, coagulated milk', ταρφύς 'dense', τάρφεα Pl. n. 'thicket', τραφερή (γῆ) 'firm land';

maybe truncated alb. (*τρόφις) trashĕ 'fat, obese, strong, big, large, coagulated'.

nasalized and with Indo Germanic b (Indo Germanic Articulation variation in nasal surroundings) θρόμβος 'coagulated mass (from milk, blood etc)', θρομβόομαι 'coagulate', θρομβεῖον 'clots';

Old Saxon derbi (**ðarbia*) 'strong, mad, wicked, evil', Old Frisian Middle Low German derve 'strong, just, rightful' (different from Old High German derb 'unleavened' = Old Norse þjarfr), ablaut. Old Norse djarfr 'gamy, bold' (the older meaning still in Norwegian dial. dirna from **dirfna* 'put on weight, recover, regain one's strength'); Old Norse dirfa 'encourage'; nasalized probably Old Norse dramb 'lavishness' (*be thick), nisl. drambr 'knots in the wood'; Old Norse drumbr 'clot, chunk', Middle Low German drummel 'sturdy person'.

Note:

Probably from (Old Saxon thervi, Old High German derbi ` unleavened ', Modern High German Bavarian derb ` arid, dry, thin ') Root / lemma: (s)ter-1, (s)tere- : (s)trē- : `stiff, immovable; solid, etc.' derived the extended root Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ereb<sup>h</sup>- : `to harden' [common st- > t- PIE]

References: WP. I 876.

Page(s): 257-258

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eregh-

Meaning: thorn?

Note: with formants -(e)s- and -no-. Dubious equation.

Material: Old Indic drākṣā ` grape '; common Old Indic ġh- > kṣ- gallorum. **dragenos* `thorn', Old Irish draigen m. ` blackthorn ', cymr. draen m., nbret. dréan `briar' (Celtic **drageno-* from **d<sup>h</sup>eregh-*);

perhaps also Old High German tirn-pauma ` of the cornel-tree ', tyrn, dirnbaum ` a cornel cherry-tree ', Modern High German dial. di(e)rle, dirnlein ` Cornelian cherry (dogwood) ', Swiss tierli, whether it is not borrowed from Slavic in very old time;

Lithuanian drignės Pl., Latvian drīgenes `black henbane ' (compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 498), whether it is not borrowed from Slavic; russ. déren, derén ` Cornelian cherry (dogwood) ', Serbo-Croatian drižen, Czech dřín ds., poln. (old) drzon ` barberry ', Kashubian dřòn `prickle', polab. dren `thorn'.

Germanic- Slavic basic form could be **d<sup>h</sup>erghno-* and would stand admittedly in its meaning `sprout, twig, branch', Pl. `young shrubbery, bush' considerably differently colored gr. τρέχνος (Hes., anthol.), τέρχνος (Maximus), Cypriot τὰ τέρχνις very close.

References: WP. I 862 f., Pedersen KG. I 97, M.-L. 2762.

Page(s): 258

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eregh- (d<sup>h</sup>ergh-nā-)

Meaning: to wind, turn, *release, discharge, disband

Material: Npers. darz, darza ` suture', darzmān, darznān ` filament ', darzan `needle', Pahlavi darzīk ` tailor';

Armenian dařnam (**darjnam*), Aor. darjay `turn over, revolve, turn; return ', dařn `bitter, sharp' (compare οἶνος τρέπεται ), darj `turn, reversal, return ', Kaus. darjućanem `turn round, turn away, whirl round, return ';

alb. dreth (stem **dredh-*), Aor. drodha `turn round, turn together, twine, spin ', alb.-skutar. nnrizē `diaper ' (n-dred-zē); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Maybe alb. drizē `thorny bush '.

after Pedersen Hittite 123, 125, Tocharian Sprachg. 20 here Hittite tar-na-aḫ-ḫi `I pocket, let in ', Tocharian A tärnā-, tärk-, preterit A cärk, B carka `let, allow, disband, release ' (?).

Maybe secondary meaning alb. dreth `perturb, terrify' also nazalised alb. ndrizē `band, bandage', ndrydh `twist'.

Maybe an older form alb. (**dh<sup>h</sup>ereĝh-*) derdh `pour, release, discharge, disband, pocket, deposit (liquid, turn over?), ejaculate semen ' [common alb. -ĝh- > -d-] : Tocharian A tärnā-, tärk-, preterit A cärk, B carka `let, allow, disband, release ' (?).

Note:

The oldest IE form is actually Hittite tar-na-aḫ-ḫi `I pocket, plug in, let in ' : alb. (**dh<sup>h</sup>ereĝh-*) derdh `pour, release, discharge, disband, ejaculate semen'. It seems that the old meaning of Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>ereĝh- (dh<sup>h</sup>rĝh-nā-) : `to wind, turn, *release, discharge, disband ' derived from the act of intercourse which became a taboo word in patriarchal society. Alb. shows that Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>ereĝh- (dh<sup>h</sup>rĝh-nā-) : `to wind, turn, *release, discharge, disband ' derived from the extended Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>er-1, dh<sup>h</sup>ere- : `a kind of deposit or dreg, *ordure, defecate ', Root / lemma: (dh<sup>h</sup>er-4.) dh<sup>h</sup>or- : dh<sup>h</sup>er- : `to jump, jump at, *stream, ray, drip, sperm' becoming an euphemistic root. The intermediary bridge root between the two was: **dh<sup>h</sup>ere-gh-*: Gr. θρᾶσσω, Attic θρᾶππω (Perf. hom. τέτρηχα intr.) `bewilder, perturb ', ταραχή `perplexity' found in secondary meaning alb. dreth `perturb, terrify, twist'.

References: WP. I 863, Lidén Arm. stem 101 ff., Meillet Esquisse<sup>2</sup> 111, Kuiper Nasalprä. 151.

Page(s): 258

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>er-1, dh<sup>h</sup>ere-

Meaning: a kind of deposit or dreg

Note: Originally with dh<sup>h</sup>er-5 `ordure, defecate'?

Material: a. dh<sup>h</sup>ere-gh-:

Gr. θρᾶσσω, Attic θρᾶπτω (Perf. hom. τέτρηχα intr.) 'bewilder, perturb', ταραχή 'perplexity', ταραάσσω, Attic -πτω 'bewilder' (*dh<sup>h</sup>eragh<sub>2</sub>-iō : Lithuanian dīrgti see below); τρᾶχύς, Ionian τρηχύς 'rough, uneven' (probably originally from dirt crusts; -pā- here from sog. ṛ, i.e. *dh<sup>h</sup>eraghú-s); τάρχη τάρaxis Hes. (vowel gradation as σπαργή: Lithuanian sprógti);

Note: common lat d- > f- shift:

Latin fracēs f. ' (broken bits, fragments; hence) grounds or dregs of oil ', fracēre ' be rancid ' from *dh<sup>h</sup>eragh-; c is covered probably from faēcēs, floccēs, there *dh<sup>h</sup>erk- otherwise is testified only in Baltic;

in the meaning ' lees, dregs, yeast': alb. drā f., Geg drâ-ni ' residuum of oil, from abundant butter; tartar ' (basic form *draë from *dragā, *dh<sup>h</sup>eraghā);

Old Norse dregg f., Pl. dreggiar 'yeast' (out of it engl. dregs);

Old Lithuanian dragės (*dh<sup>h</sup>eragh<sub>1</sub>iās) Pl., Old Prussian dragios Pl. 'yeast', Latvian (Endzelin KZ. 44, 65) dradži ' residuum from boiled fat'; Slavic **droska* from *dh<sup>h</sup>eragh-skā in Middle Old Bulgarian droštija Pl.n. 'yeast', klr. dríščī ds., otherwise assimilated to **troska* (sloven. trôska ' residuum, yeast') and mostly **drozga* (Old Church Slavic droždьje Pl. f. 'τρυγία, yeast' etc; s. Berneker 228);

here also gallorom. **drasica* ' dry malt ' (M.-L. 2767), this anyhow from older **drascā* (= Slavic **droskā*) or **drazgā* (== Slavic **drozgā*) transfigured sein wird; with st-formants: Old High German (**trast*, Pl. :) trestir ' what is left of squeezed fruit, dregs, pomace ', Old English dærst(e), dræst f. ' dregs, yeast' (Germanic **ðraxsta-*, Sverdrup IF. 35, 154), drōs ds.;

with sn-formants: Old English drōsne f., drōsna m. 'yeast, smut', Old High German druosana, truosana 'yeast, residuum ';

here probably Lithuanian dérgia (dérgti) ' it is bad weather ', dárgana, dárga ' weather, bad weather ' (glottal stop, compare die gr. root forms and Lithuanian drégnas, drégnūs 'humid, wet'); in addition Old Russian padoroga probably ' thunder-storm ', sloven. sô-draga, -drag, -drga ' hail with small grain size; frozen snow lumps, graupel '; Lithuanian dargùs ' nasty, dirty, filthy'; Old Lithuanian dérgesis 'filthy person', Old Lithuanian dergėti

`hate', Latvian deĩdzĩtiĩs `quarrel, squabble' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 456 m. Lithuanian), Old Prussian dergĩ `to hate'; Lithuanian dĩrgti `become dirty, get dirty', dĩrgti `revile', dĩrga f. `rainy weather, defilement, contamination, vituperation';

b. dherg- in: Middle Irish derg `red'; Middle High German terken `befoul', Old High German tarchannen, terchinen `(darken) conceal, hide', Middle Low German dork `keel of water depth', Old English deorc `swart', engl. dark; Old English beorcung `dawn, twilight' probably with ǣ after ǣostor `dark', geǣuxod `dark'.

Maybe alb. darkĩ `evening, evening meal, supper', drekĩ (**derk-*) `dinner, midday'.

c. dherk- in: Lithuanian dĩrkti `make nasty, befoul', dĩrĩti `vilify, inveigh, deform', dĩrĩs `nasty', Old Prussian erdĩrkts `poisoned', Latvian dĩrks, dĩrcĩ (**darkis*) `pinto' Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 448 (see the kinship by Leskien Abl. 361); or to Middle High German zurch `ordure', zũrchen `defecate'? Zupitza gutturals 170 under accentuation of intonation difference of dĩrkti compared with dĩrgesis etc;

here probably Tocharian AB tĩrkĩr `cloud' (Frisk Indog. 24);

WP. I 854 ff.

d. dherab- : dhrĩb- : dhrĩb-.

Doubtful Avestan ĩriwi- (*dhrĩb<sup>h</sup>-) `stain, birthmark';

Middle Irish drab `grape marc, yeast' (*dhrĩb<sup>h</sup>o-), drabar-sluĩg `base, vulgar people';

Old Icelandic draf, engl. draff `berm, yeast', Middle Low German draf, Old High German trebir Pl. `grape marc', Old Norse drafli m. `fresh cheese', drafna `to disband', Norwegian drevja `soft mass'; geminated nl. drabbe `berm, residuum', ndd. drabbe `slime, mud'; Swedish drĩv n. `residuum' (*dhrĩb<sup>h</sup>o-), Old English drĩf, Old High German truobi `cloudy', Gothic drĩbjan, Old High German truoben `tarnish, bewilder', Old English drĩfan `agitate, tarnish' (identical meaning-Verh. as between gr. ταρασσω and Old Norse dreggjar).

A nasalized form with Baltic u as zero grade vowel of a dissyllabic basis (caused by a limited nasal m?) seems Lithuanian **drumb-* in Lithuanian drumĩstas (could stand for **drumpstas*) `residuum', drumstũs `cloudy', drumsĩũ, drumĩsti `tarnish' (Schleifton caused by a heavy group mpst?).

References: WP. I 854 f., WH. I 538 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 715.

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>er-2, dh<sup>h</sup>erē-

Meaning: to hold, support

Material: Old Indic dhar- 'hold, stop, bear, carry, prop, support, receive, hold upright' (present mostly dhāráyati; Perf. dadhāra, dadhré, dhṛtá; dhártum) Pass. 'are held back, be steady, behave sedately', Avestan dar- 'hold, seize, restrain; whereof adhere, observe (a law); hold fast in the memory; perceive with the senses, grasp; sojourn, while, stay' (dārayeiti etc, participle darēta-), ap. dārayāmiy 'hold', npers. Inf. dāštan, osset. Inf. darun, daryn;

Old Indic dhāraṇa- 'bearing, carrying, preserving', dhārúṇa- 'holding, supporting; n. foundation, prop', dhāraṇa- 'holding; n. the clamps, the restraining' = Avestan dārana- n. 'means for withholding', Old Indic dhartár- and dháritar- m. 'holder', dhāritrī- girder, bearer', dhātrá- n. 'support, prop' = Avestan darəθra- n. 'the grasp, understanding', Old Indic dhárma- (= Latin firmus) m. 'firm, strong, stout; lasting, valid; morally strong', dharmán- m. 'holder', dhárman- n. 'support, prop, law, custom', dhārīmani Lok. 'after the statute, according to custom', dhāraka- 'holding; m. container', dhṛti- f. 'the holding on, determination', ḍṛ-dhr-á- 'tenacious', sá-dhrī (or sadhrīm) Adv. 'holding out on a purpose, holding on to a purpose', sadhríy-añc- 'be directed by a purpose, be united, together'; didhīrśā 'the intention to support to support', Avestan didarəšatā 'he composes himself for, he gets ready for';

about Old Indic dhīra- 'tight, firm' s. Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 25;

Armenian perhaps dadar (redupl.) 'abode, residence, rest' ('*adherence, abide by, stay', compare Avestan meaning 'while, stay, behave quietly'), dadarem 'abate (from the wind)', compare under Old English darian 'the side, flank; of persons', Dutch bedaren 'become quiet (from the wind, weather)';

gr. with the meaning 'prop themselves up, force open' (from the heavy root form) ἑρᾶνος m. 'bench, footstool', hom. (Ionian) ἑρῆνυς, -υος 'footstool, thwart', Ionian ἑρῆνυξ, Boeotian ἑρᾶνυξ, -υκος 'stool' (place an early proto gr. *ἑρᾶνο-, which would contain -pā- from -r̥-, i.e. -er̥-), Ionian Inf. Aor. ἑρήσασθαι 'sit down' (proto gr. ἑρᾶ-); due to the thematic root form *dh<sup>h</sup>erē-: ἑρό-νος m. 'seat'; Cypriot lak. ἑρό-ναξ ὑποπόδιον Hes.; with the meaning 'grasp through the senses, observe' and 'hold on custom, a religious custom', ἄ-θερέξ ἀνόητον, ἀνόσιον Hes. (compare under Lithuanian derėti 'be usable'), ἐνθρεῖν φυλάσσειν Hes. (from the thematic root form *d<sup>h</sup>ere-; against it from *d<sup>h</sup>erə-:)

 θρήσκω νοῶ Hes. (Ionian), θράσκειν (ā) ἀναμιμνήσκειν Hes., Ionian θρησκηῖν, Koine θρησκεῖα 'worship', θρήσκος 'religious, godly, pious', θρησκεύω 'observe the official law of god'.

Is ἀθρέω 'observe keenly' up to zero grade h the preposition **en* (or α- = **sm̥*-?) to compare afterwards with ἐνθρεῖν? (Lithuanian by Boisacq s. v.) Probably here ἀθρόος, ἀθρόος 'concentrated, crowded together, gathered' (compare to meaning Old Indic sadhryañc-; Lithuanian by Boisacq s. v., in addition Brugmann IF. 38, 135 f.).

Mit. Old Indic dhāraka- 'container' is compared with θώπαξ, -ἄκος 'breastplate; trunk; vagina'.

Latin frē-tus 'relying on, confiding in', Umbrian frite 'leaning, supported, relying, depending, trusting, daring, confident; trust, confidence, reliance, assurance', Latin frēnum
 'bit, bridle, rein' and 'rein', if originally 'holder' (stand to gr. θρᾶνος as plē-nus to Old Indic pūr-ṇá-); with a meaning 'tenacious, tight, firm: fast' perhaps ferē 'closely, almost, nearly', fermē (**ferīmēd*, Sup.) 'quite approximately, nearly', as well as firmus 'firm, strong, stout; lasting, valid; morally strong' (with dial. l).

Acymr. emdrít 'orderly', cymr. dryd 'economical' (*d<sup>h</sup>rto-).

Old English darían 'hidden, concealed, secret, unknown' (*'restrain, hold themselves together, 'or 'keep shut so one does not see somehow'), Dutch bedaren 'become quiet (from the wind, weather)', in addition Old Saxon derni 'hide, conceal', Old English dierne
 'hide, conceal, clandestine', Old High German tarni 'lying hid, hidden, concealed, secret, unknown', tarnen, Middle High German tarnen 'cover up, conceal', Modern High German Tarn-kappe.

Lithuanian deriù, derėti 'employ, engage (*belay), buy', derù, derėti 'be usable', Kaus.
darāu, daryti 'make, do', dorà f. 'the useful', Latvian deru, derēt 'employ, engage, hire out, arrange', Kaus. darīt 'make, create, originate'; perhaps with formants -go-: Latvian dārgs 'dear, expensive, precious', Old Church Slavic dragъ ds., russ. dórog, Serbo-Croatian drâg ds.;

Hittite tar-aḫ-zi (tarḫzi) 'can, be able, defeated' (*d<sup>h</sup>ṛ-?) belongs rather to ter-4.

guttural extensions:

d<sup>h</sup>eregh- `hold, stop, hold down; tight, firm':

Avestan dražaite, Inf. drājanhe `hold, stop, contain oneself, guide, lead', upadaržuvainti `they hold out, persist = accomplish, finish', wherefore Old Indic -dhr̥k (only Nom.) in compounds `bearing, carrying'; this form (*d<sup>h</sup>rg̥h-s) testifies for anlaut d<sup>h</sup>- the Aryan and hence probably also Slavic family;

Old Church Slavic drъžq, drъžati `hold, stop, contain' (etc, s. Berneker 258); russ. drogá `wooden bar or metal strip uniting the front and the rear axis of a cart, centre pole', Dem. dróžki Pl. `light, short carriage', hence Modern High German Droschke.

As nasalized forms in addition Avestan drənjaiti `solidifies, strengthens, hardens', ā-drənjayeiti `determines', subjunctive dīdrayžaite `looks for protecting himself'; participle draxta-; also Avestan drənjayeiti, dādrājoiš, participle draxta- `learnt by heart, murmured memorized prayers' (compare Church Slavic tvъrditi `moor': russ. tverditъ `learn by heart'); Middle Irish dringid `he climbs', drēimm `climb' (*holding on climbing'); kymr. dringo `rise, climb'; Old Norse drangr `high cliff', drengr (**drangja-*) `thick stick, column' (and übertr. `young man, husband'), Old Church Slavic drqgъ `shaft, pole, turnpike'; different Specht Dekl. 139.

d<sup>h</sup>eregh- `hold down, tight, firm':

Old Indic dṛhyati, dṛmhati (dṛmhatī) `makes tight, firm', participle dṛdḥá- `tight, firm', drahyát- `proficient', Avestan darəzayeiti `binds tight, fetters', Desid. dīdərəžaiti, darəza- m. `the fastening, binding, snatch, griffin', dərəz- f. `band, manacle', dərəzra- `tight, firm', probably also npers. darz `suture' and similar to iran. words for `sew filament';

thrak. GN Darzales;

probably Lithuanian dīržas `strap', diržmas `strong', Old Prussian dīrstlan `strong, stately', dirž-tū, dīržti `become tenacious, hard';

Lithuanian daržas `garden', Latvian dārz `garden, courtyard, enclosure, fenced area' could be reconverted with metathesis from **žārdas* (compare Lithuanian žārdis `Roßgarten', žārdas `hurdle') (different Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 448 f.), but to dīržas (above) and Old High German zarge, Middle High German zarge f. `border, side, verge of a space, edge';

Slavic **drъzъ* 'bold, foolhardy' in Old Church Slavic drъzъ, sloven. dřz, Czech drží, russ. dérzkij ds. and Old Church Slavic drъznъ, drъznъti 'have the audacity, venture', russ. derznútъ etc.

d<sup>h</sup>ereugh-:

awnord. driūgr 'withstanding, strong, full', driūgum 'very', aschw. drȳgher 'respectable, strong, big, large', North Frisian dreegh 'tight, firm, persistent' (but to d<sup>h</sup>reugh-1 belong Old English drȳge 'dry', drēahnian 'dry up, strain, filter', - with h instead of g? -, Old Norse draugr 'withered tree trunk', Old High German truchan 'dry');

maybe nasalized alb. trung 'tree trunk'

here as 'withstand' and 'hold together - assemble' Gothic driugan 'do military service' (Old English drēogan 'withstand, commit'), Old English gedrēag 'troop, multitude, crowd', Old High German truht f. 'cohort, troop, multitude, crowd', Old Saxon druht, Old English dryht, Old Norse drōttf. 'cortege', Gothic draúhti-witōþ '(*laws of war =) military service', gadraúhts 'warrior', Old Norse drōttinn 'prince, lord, master, mister', Old English dryhten, Old High German truhtin 'master, mister' (suffix as in Latin dominus), Old High German trust (**druhstī*) 'warrior's troop';

Lithuanian draũgas 'travelling companion', Old Church Slavic drugъ 'fellow, other etc', družina 'συστρατιῶται';

Old Prussian drūktai Adv. 'tight, firm', podrūktinai 'I confirm', Lithuanian žem. drúktas, driúktas 'thick, bulky, strong';

Old Irish drong 'troop, multitude, crowd', abret. drogn 'meeting together, union, assembly', drog 'a party, group; esp. a political party, faction, side' are, as late Latin drungus 'troop' borrowed from Germanic (see below trenq-1).

References: WP. I 856 ff., WH. 505 f., 536, Trautmann 45, 59 f.

Page(s): 252-255

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>er-3, d<sup>h</sup>ereu-, d<sup>h</sup>rēn-

Meaning: expr. (to purr, murmur, etc.), onomatopoeic words

Material: Gr. θόρυβος 'woozy noise', θορυβέω 'make a noise, bewilder', τονθορύζω 'grumble, murmur', τονθρύς φωνή Hes.; θρύλος m. 'murmur, din, fuss, noise', θρύλέω 'murmur, babble'; θρέομαι (*-F-) 'cry loudly', τερθρεία 'empty gossip, subtleness', τερθρεύομαι 'make empty gossip' (see Boisacq s. v.), θρόος, θροῦς 'loud cry', θροέω 'shout, let become loud';

Old Saxon drōm, Old English drēam m. 'making a glad noise, jubilation' (different Kluge KZ. 26, 70: as '*troop, multitude, crowd', **ðrauyma-*, to Gothic draúhts); Old English dora m. 'bumblebee' (**ðuran-*), engl. dorr 'cockchafer'; redupl. Latvian duñduris 'big, giant gadfly, brake, wasp', deñderis (?) 'weeping knave, boy' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 455).

Also for Celtic and Balto-Slavic words, are mentioned under der- 'murmur', Indo Germanic anlaut dh- comes in question.

dh ren-:

Old Indic dhṛāṇati 'sounds' (Dhātup.);

gr. θρήνος m. 'funeral song, lament, dirge', θρηνέω 'lamentation', θρώναξ κηφήν (drone) Hes., τευ-θρήνη 'hornet', ἀν-θρήνη (*ἀνθο-θρήνη) 'forest bee'; Old Saxon dreno, Old High German treno 'drone', lengthened grade Old Saxon drān ds., also Old English drān dræn f. 'drone'; zero grade Gothic drunjus 'clangor', Norwegian dryn n. 'low shout', drynja 'low roar, bellow', Low German drönen 'make noise, talk slowly and monotonously' (out of it Modern High German dröhnen).

An anlaut doublet maybe lies in Lithuanian trānas, Old Church Slavic **trqъ*, **trqъ* 'drone' before; compare Trautmann 326.

s-extension in Middle Irish drēsacht 'creaky or squeaking noise', gall.-Latin drēnsō, -āre 'cry (of swan)', nnd. drunsen 'low roar, bellow', Dutch drenzel 'whimper', Hessian drensen 'groan', Modern High German dial. trensen 'elongated roar, bellow' (from cows).

A Guttural-extension probably in Armenian dinčim 'blow the horn, toot' (*dh<sub>h</sub>rēnk-) and Old Irish drēcht 'song, tale' (*dh<sub>h</sub>renktā), proto Slavic. **drqъ* (*dh<sub>h</sub>rnk-) in sloven. drok 'pestle' etc; perhaps Tocharian A trānk-, B trenk- 'speak'.

References: WP. I 860 f., WH. I 374, Mladenov Mél. Pedersen 95 ff.

Page(s): 255-256

Meaning: to jump, jump at, *stream, ray, drip, sperm

Material: Old Indic dhārā `stream, ray, drip, sperm ';

gr. (Ionian) θορός, θορή `manly sperm ', θορίσκεισθαι `absorb sperm ', poetically θρώσκω, Attic θρώσκω, Fut. θοροῦμαι, Aor. ἔθορον `spring', θρωσμός `protrusion, hill' (θρω- from **dʰerə-*, because of o of the secondary forms is developed to **dʰore-*, dʰorə-, θρω-);

from a base dʰereu-: θόρνυμαι, θορνύομαι `spring, jump ' (or probably Aeolian instead of αρ from ʀ) compare θαρνεύει ὀχεύει. σπείρει. φυτεύει Hes., θάρνυσθαι ὀχεύειν Hes.; θοῦρος `stormy, boisterous ' probably from **θορFος* (Bechtel Lexil. 167);

Middle Irish dar- `spring, jump', Impf. no-daired, preterit ro-dart, Verbalnom. dāir, Gen. dāra, myth. PN Dāire (**dʰārjo-s*), der `girl', cymr. -derig `rutting, in heat'.

References: WP. I 861, WH. I 528, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 696, 708.

Page(s): 256

---

Root / lemma: dʰer-5, dʰrei-d-

Meaning: to defecate

Note: (whether related to dʰer-1 `muddy residuum ' and dʰer-4?)

Material: Latin foria Pl. `diarrhea' (by Varro of pigs), foriō, -īre `defecate';

gr. δαρδαίνει μολύνει (**dʰr-d-*) Hes., after Fick KZ. 44, 339 Macedonian, either from θαρ- with fractured reduplication or from θαρ-δ- with the same formant -d- as the ʀ-extension dʰr-ei-d-; very dubious;

Lithuanian der-k-iù deĩkti `soil with feculence, defecate '.

Maybe alb. Geg derdh, Tosc derth (**der-k-*) `release semen, pour ' [common alb. -k- > -th-, -g- > -dh-]

dʰrei-d-:

Old Norse drīta (dreit), Old English drītan, Middle Dutch ndd. drīten, Old High German trīzan `defecate ', o-grade Old Norse dreita `make defecate', zero grade Middle English nengl. dirt (from **drit*), Old Icelandic drit, Flemish drits, trets `filth, faeces ', westfäl. driæt `scared shitless, the defecated ';

russ. dial. dristátb `have diarrhea', Bulgarian drískam, dríštъ `have diarrhea', serb. drískati, dríckati, Czech dřístati ds. (Slavic **drisk-*, **drist-* from **d<sup>h</sup>reid-sk-*, -(s)t-, Berneker 224).

References: WP. I 861 f., WH. I 527 f.

Page(s): 256

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ers-

Meaning: to dare

Note: (also with -i-, -u- extended)

Material: Old Indic dhṛṣ-ṇṓ-ti, dhárṣ-ati `is audacious, courageous, ventures', dhṛṣú- (Gramm.), dhṛṣat `hearty' (= Avestan darəšať), dhṛṣṇú- `bold, valiant, gamy, audacious, cheeky', dhṛṣṭá- `insolent, cheeky', dhṛṣita- `bold, gamy', dādhṛṣi- `intrepid, bold', with object dharṣayati `ventures in, makes a mistake, overcomes', dharṣaṇa- n. `attack, maltreatment', dharṣaka- `attacking, assaulting'; Avestan daršam Adv. `violent, very', darši-, daršyu-, daršita- `bold', Old pers. adaršnauš `he ventured', dādarsi- EN;

gr. Lesbian θέρσος n. `courage, boldness' (hom. Θερσίτης `bold, cheeky'), with from Adj. displaced zero grade Ionian Old Attic θάρσος (Attic θάρπος) ds., Attic θράσος n. `courage, boldness; audacity, brashness', θαρσέω, θαρπέω `be gamy', θαρσύς (rhod. θαρσύβιος, ther. Θαρούμαχος), θρασύς `bold, gamy; foolhardy, cheeky' (= Old Indic dhṛṣú-), Lesbian Adv. θροσέως, θάρσυνος `courageous, confident, trusting' (**θαρσο-σῦνος*);

Latin infestus `aggressive, hostile, dangerous', infestāre `to attack, disquiet' and manifestus `palpable, clear, visible, evident; caught out, detected' (**d<sup>h</sup>ers-to-*);

Gothic ga-dars (: Old Indic Perf. dadhárṣa `has had the audacity'), Inf. gadaúrsan, `I venture', Old Saxon gidurran, Old English dear, durran, Old High German (gi)tar, (gi)turran `venture, risk', Old High German giturst, Old English gedyrst f. `boldness, audacity' (= Old Indic dṛṣṭi-h `boldness');

Maybe alb. (**(gi)tar*) guxoj `dare': Old High German (gi)tar, (gi)turran `venture, risk'.

Lithuanian nasalized Lithuanian drėšù `dare, venture' (**d<sup>h</sup>rensō*), dṛistù, dṛīsti (dhr̥ns-) `venture, risk', drąsà (**d<sup>h</sup>rons-*) `forwardness', drąsùs = Latvian drūošs `gamy, brave' (**d<sup>h</sup>rons-*; Old Lithuanian still dṛisùs and dransniaus); without nasalization Old Prussian dīrstlan `stately' and dyrsos `proficient' (**dīrsu-*);

here perhaps Tocharian A tsär 'rough', tsraši 'strong', B tsirauñe 'strength'.

References: WP. I 864, WH. I 698 f., Trautmann 60, Van Windekens Lexique 147.

Page(s): 259

---

Root / lemma: dh eu<sup>h</sup>-, dh ub<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: spike, wedge

Note: uncertain, because almost only Germanic diminutive Middle High German tübel, Middle Low German dövel 'clot, chunk, peg, plug, spigot, nail' (Modern High German Döbel, Dübel with md. anlaut), Old High German tubila, -i 'spigot', engl. dowel-pin 'peg, plug, pin'; Middle Low German dövicke, Dutch deuvik 'spigot'; Swedish Norwegian dubb 'peg, plug', Tirol tuppe 'big piece of wood', Middle Low German dob(b)el, Middle High German top(p)el 'dice, cube'. Besides Germanic words the meaning 'hit': East Frisian dufen, duven 'bump, poke', Dutch dof 'shove, stroke', Old Icelandic dubba, Old English dubbian 'knight, make a man a knight', East Frisian dubben 'bump, poke'; there it also gives Germanic **ðað-* 'hit' (see below dh að<sup>h</sup>- 'marvel'), could be a new variant of **ðuð-* (perhaps come about under the help of words for 'peg, plug, spigot').

Material: Gr. τύφοι σφῆνες Hes.

References: WP. I 848.

Page(s): 268

---

Root / lemma: dh eu-b-, dh eu-p-

Meaning: deep, *black, bottom, dark waters

Note:

The shift g<sup>w</sup> > -b-, k<sup>w</sup> > -p- is a common gr. hence all other IE tongues borrowed Root / lemma: dh eu-b-, dh eu-p-: 'deep, dark' from respectively proto Illyrian gr. dh eu-g<sup>w</sup>-, dh eu-k<sup>w</sup>-. But proto Illyrian gr. dh eu-g<sup>w</sup>-, dh eu-k<sup>w</sup>- is an extension of an older root. After Jokl (Eberts RL. 13, 286 f.) here thrak. PN Δόβηρος (dh ubēr-), Δέβρη (dh eubrā) it seems that Baltic languages derived the concept of 'deep' from Illyrian 'black, dark', hence from Root / lemma: dh eu-4, dh eu<sup>h</sup>- (presumably: dh uē-, compare the extension dh uē-k-, dh uē-s-): 'to reel, dissipate, blow, *smoke, dark, gray, deep etc.' derived Root / lemma: dh eu-b-, dh eu-p-: 'deep, *dark'.

Material: forms in -b:

gr. βυθός, Ionian βυσσός m. 'depth (of the sea)', probably reconverted with metathesis from *d<sup>h</sup>ub-;

maybe alb. (*byssa-h), bytha 'buttocks, backside hole' : gr. βυθός, Ionian βυσσός m. 'depth (of the sea)' [common alb. -s- > -th-] the same formation as poln. dupa 'buttocks, backside hole', Serbo-Croatian düpe, Gen. -eta 'buttocks'.

after Jokl (Eberts RL. 13, 286 f.) here thrak. PN Δόβηρος (*d<sup>h</sup>ubēr-), Δέβρη (*d<sup>h</sup>eubrā);

Also alb. PN Dibra

Illyrian δύβρις θάλασσα (Kretschmer Gl. 22, 216), also in alb. Tosc FIN Tubra, Drove etc (Pokorny Urillyrier 99);

Old Irish domain, fu-dumain, cymr. dwfn, corn. down, bret. doun (i.e. dun) 'deep' (*d<sup>h</sup>ubnī-), gall. dubno-, dumno- 'world' (Dubno-rīx actually 'world king'), Old Irish domun ds., acymr. annwf(y)n, ncymr. annwn 'God's kingdom and the underworld' (**an-duñno*- actually 'underworld, outside world' as Old Icelandic ūt-garðr); s. also under S. 268 Slavic **dъbno*;

maybe alb. (**diep*) djep '(*deep) cradle, hollowed wood' : poln. dziupło n., dziupła f. 'tree hole'.

Gothic diups, Old Icelandic diūpr, Old English dēop, Old Saxon diop, Old High German tiof 'deep'; Gothic daupjan, Old English dīepan, Old Saxon dōpian, Old High German toufen 'baptize' (actually 'dive'), Old Icelandic deypa 'dive'; with -pp-: Norwegian duppa 'dive' and j-formation, Old English dyppan 'dive; baptize', ndd. düppen, Old High German tupfen 'bathe, wash'; with gemin. spirant faer. duffa 'swing' (from barge); with gemin. voiced-nonaspirated Norwegian dubba 'bend down', dobbe 'marshy land' (compare Wissmann Nom. postverb. 170, 186); nasalized Norwegian dump m. 'dent in the earth', Danish dial. dump 'cavity, lowland, depression', engl. dump 'deep hole full with water', Old High German tum(p)filo 'whirlpool', Middle High German tümpfel, Modern High German (from Ndd.) Tümpel 'deep place in the flowing or standing water; puddle', engl. dimple 'cheek dimple', Dutch domp(e)len 'dive, sink';

Lithuanian dubùs 'deep, hollow', in addition FIN Dùbé, Dubingà and Dubýsa (= cymr. FIN Dyfi from **Dubīsā*, Pokorny Urillyrier 46 f.), dùgnas 'bottom' (probably because of Latvian dibens from **dūbnas* = Slavic **dъbno*, gall. dubno-; s. die Lithuanian by Berneker 245 f.); also the FIN wruss. Dubna (= Latvian Dybnòja) 'the deep river' and the Old Prussian PN Dum(p)nis, Dubna show still brx, dumbù, dùbti 'become hollow, sink in', daubā, dauburys 'gorge, ravine, gulch', dúobti 'hollow out', duobē 'cave' (Latvian duôbs, duôbjš 'deep, hollow', dùobe 'pit, pothole, grave' with uo from ōu?), dubuõ, -eñs 'basin', duburys, dūburys, dubuřkis 'pit full of water, hole, pool', nasalized dumburys 'deep hole full with water', duņblas 'slime, mud, morass' (yet see above S. 261); Latvian dubens (besides dibens) 'ground, bottom' (compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 465 under 509), dubt 'become hollow, sink in', dublī Pl. m. 'ordure, morass'; Old Prussian padaubis 'valley' and daubo f. 'ground' (compare above S. 249);

Old Bulgarian дѣбрь (and out of it дѣбрь) 'φάραγξ, gorge, ravine, gulch' (: Latvian dubra 'puddle, slop'); Church Slavic дѣно (**дѣбно*) 'ground, bottom'; about den FIN pomerell. Dbra s. S. 264.

forms in -p:

Old High German toba, Middle High German tobel 'narrow valley', Modern High German Tobel; Old Swedish dūva probably stem V. 'dive', Old Icelandic dūfa 'press downwards', dýfa, deyfa 'dive', Old English dīefan, dūfan ds., engl. dive, Middle Low German bedūven 'flooded, be coated', bedoven 'sunk down';

Slavic **dupa* f. in sloven. dúpa 'burrow', Czech doupa 'hole', Old Bulgarian dupina 'cave', mbg. russ.-Church Slavic dupl'ь 'hollow, light', russ. duplót n. 'cavity in tree trunk', Serbo-Croatian dūpe, Gen. -eta 'buttocks', dúplja 'tree hollow', old dupan 'cave' etc; ablaut. poln. dziupło n., dziupla f. 'tree hole' etc

Note:

From Slavic languages Root / lemma: dh eu-b-, dh eu-p-: 'deep, *dark, bottom' passed to Altaic languages:

Protoform: *tūp`e ( ~ *tūp`i, *č-)

Meaning: bottom

Turkic protoform: *dūp

Mongolian protoform: *dow-

Note: A Turk.-Mong. isogloss. The relationship to TM *dō- 'to sit down (of birds)', suggested in TMC 1, 211, is unclear; if it exists, we may be dealing here with an archaic case of *-p`-suffixation.

from here as **dh eu-g-*: Germanic **dū-k-*, **du-kk-* tauchen = dive, sich ducken = crouch'?

References: WP. I 847 f., WH. I 565, 867, Trautmann 45 f.

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eugh-

Meaning: to touch, press, milk

Material: Indo-iran. *d<sup>h</sup>augh- 'milk' in Old Indic duháti, athematic dógdhi 'milked', the desirable cow Kāma-duh(ā) 'the plentifully bestowing' (= gr. Τύχη), pers. dōγ, dōxtān etc, Old pers. han-dugā 'proclamation' (compare Latin pro-mulgāre);

gr. τυγχάνω (τεύξομαι, ἔτυχον, ἐτύχησα, τετύχηκα) 'meet, find, meet by chance; achieve a purpose or an aim; intr. to find oneself, and be close', τύχη 'success, luck, destiny, lot', goddess Τύχη (probably originally a the desirable cow?); τεύχω (τεύξω, Aor. ἔτευξα, hom. τετυκεῖν, Med. τετύκοντο, τετυκέσθαι - with sek. k-, Perf. τετευχώς, τέτυκται, τετεύχεται) 'make suitable, make, produce, arrange, produce', τιτύσκομαι 'to make, make ready, prepare', τεῦχος n. 'all made, ware, pottery, stuff, esp. armament, military equipment, weapons; ship instrument; pot, vessel';

Irish dūan 'a poem, ode, song' (*d<sup>h</sup>ughnā), dūal 'fitting' (*d<sup>h</sup>ughlo-);

Old Icelandic Inf. duga, present dugi, preterit dugða 'be useful, be suitable for, succeed', preterit present Gothic daug, Old English dēag, Old Saxon dōg, Old High German toug 'it is good for, is useful', Kaus. Middle Low German dōgen 'withstand', Old Saxon ā-dōgian 'ds., sort, order, arrange', Old English gedīegan 'bear, endure, come through'; Old High German tuht 'skillfulness, power', Middle High German tühtec, Modern High German tüchtig = Old English dyhtig 'stalwart' (about Gothic dauhts 'feast' s. Feist 116);

Lithuanian daũg 'much, a lot of', dáuginti 'increase, intensify'; russ. dúzij etc 'strong'.

References: WP. I 847, Benveniste BSL. 30, 73 f., Pisani RETIE. 1, 238 ff.

Page(s): 271

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-1

Meaning: to run, *stream, flow

Material: Old Indic dhávatē 'runs, streams', lengthened grade dhāvati ds., dhāutí-h f. 'wellspring, stream, brook'; Middle Persian dawīdan 'run, hurry', pām. dav- 'run, rush';

Maybe alb. (**dhueti*) dēti 'sea': Middle Irish dōe 'sea' common alb. attribute nouns suffixed in -t formant. [see alb. numbers].

gr. θέω, ep. also θείω, Fut θεύσομαι 'run'; lak. σῆ τρέχε Hes.; θοός 'quick, fast', βοη-θός 'auf einen Anruf schnell zur Hand, helfend', in addition βοηθέω (instead of *βοηθοέω) 'help', θοάζω 'move in quick dashing movement; scoot, move fast';

gr.-Illyrian δυάν κρήνην Hes.;

Old Norse dǫgg, Gen. dǫggwar (**dawwō*), Old English dēaw, Old Saxon dau, Old High German tou, Modern High German Tau (**dawwa*-); doubtful Middle Irish dōe 'sea' (**dʰeuiā*) as 'the violently moving';

Maybe Illyrian TN Tau-lanti (wetland, swamp): Modern High German Tau (**dawwa*-)

here probably **dʰu-ro-* in thrak. FIN 'Α-θύρας (**ḡ-dʰu-r-*) and in numerous Venetic-Illyrian FIN, so Illyrian Duria (Hungarian), Modern High German Tyra, Thur, older Dura (Alsace, Switzerland), northern Italy Dora, Doria, French Dore, Doire, Doron, iber. Durius, Turia etc (Pokorny Urill. 2, 10, 79, 105, 113, 127, 145, 160, 165, 169 f.);

Note:

Finally the ancient Dorian tribe that overrun Mycenaean civilization was of Illyrian origin.
Their name meant 'river people' since they spread very rapidly traveling on fast river boats. Their migration took Mycenaean cities by surprise. The Dorian expansion was similar to the Viking rapid expansion hundreds of years later.

maybe Illyrian (**Durra-hion*) Dyrrhachium -i, n. a port in Illyria.

after Rozwadowski (Rev. Slavic 6, 58 ff.) here the FIN Düna, west-Slavic Dvina (**dʰueinā*), borrowed as Finnish väinä 'wide river', Estonian väin(a) 'straits', syrj. dyn 'estuary'.

References: WP. I 834.

Page(s): 259-260

---

Root / lemma: dʰeu-2, dʰu-ēi-

Meaning: to vanish, faint, die

Material: Gothic diwans (**dʰéu-ono-*) 'perishable, mortal', ablaut. Old High German touwen, Old Saxon dōian 'die', Old Norse deyja, dō (**dōw*), dāinn 'die'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Gothic dauþs 'dead', also aƿ-dauþs 'afflicted', Old High German tōt, Old English dēad, Old Norse dauðr 'dead', Gothic

dauþus 'death', Old High German tōd, Old English dēaþ, Old Norse dauð-r, -ar and dauðe 'death';

Old Irish duine (*<sup>dh</sup>u-n̄-io-), Pl. dōini (*<sup>dh</sup>euen̄-io-), cymr. dyn, corn. bret. den 'person' ('mortal, human being', Brugmann ZfceltPh. 3, 595 ff.); s. also under ghōem-;

perhaps Latin fūnus (fōnus?) n. 'a funeral, burial. Transf., the corpse; death; destruction, ruin; a cause of ruin', whether from *<sup>dh</sup>eṽ(e)-nos 'in death'; formally, nevertheless, exactly = Old Irish n. s-stem dūn 'fortress', probably originally 'hill castle' (see below <sup>dh</sup>eu-4 S. 263);

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift.

after Marstrander Prés. à nasale inf. 15<sup>1</sup> here Old Irish -deda 'dwindles away' from *<sup>dh</sup>e-dh̥u-ā-t, compare also above under <sup>dh</sup>ē-3, in Germanic also the meaning 'insensible, become unconscious', awnord. dā (**dawa*) 'unconsciousness, faint, swoon', preterit dō also 'became numbed' (of limbs), Old Swedish dāna 'faint, pass out', Norwegian daana 'become stiff, become lame (from limbs), faint, pass out' (Ableit. from participle dāinn), isl. doði 'insensibility', doðna 'become unfeeling, became numbed', Gothic usdauþs 'not indolent, diligent, active, quick, unwearied, indefatigable, energetic, eager', Old High German tawalōn 'to dwindle, to die', Dutch dauwel 'sluggish woman'; further Old Norse dā also 'delight of the soul' (*'anesthetization'), dā (**dawēn*) 'admire, venerate'; Old Norse dān f. 'death'.

extension <sup>dh</sup>u-ēi-: <sup>dh</sup>u-ī- in:

Armenian dī, Gen. dioy 'dead body, corpse', Old Irish dīth (*<sup>dh</sup>uītu-) 'end, death'; Old English dwīnan (stem V.) 'abate, dwindle', besides dem nōn-Verb Old Norse duīna and duena ds.; Old English dwæscan 'annul, annihilate' (**dwaiskjan*), Lithuanian dvisti 'die' (Būga by Endzelin KZ. 52, 123).

Maybe alb. Tosc (dvisti) vdes, Geg dekë 'die' [commom alb. -s- > -k- shift].

Clearly from Root / lemma: <sup>dh</sup>eṽes-, <sup>dh</sup>uēs-, <sup>dh</sup>eus-, <sup>dh</sup>ūs-: 'to dissipate, blow, etc. *breathe, breathe out the spirit, perish, die' derived Root / lemma: <sup>dh</sup>eu-2, <sup>dh</sup>u-ēi-: 'to vanish, faint, die'.

As Lithuanian dvisti 'die': Lithuanian dvesiù, dvesiaũ, dvēsti 'breathe, breathe out the spirit, perish, die' (see below);

References: WP. I 835, WH. I 451, 568.

Page(s): 260-261

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-3

Meaning: shining, to shine

Material: Old Indic dhavalá- 'gleaming white', dhāvatī 'makes blank, purifies, cleans, swills', Avestan fraδavata 'rubbed off (cleaning)';

gr. θοός . . . λαμπρός, θοῶσαι . . . λαμπρῦναι Hes., ὀδόντες λευκὰ θεόντες Ps.-Hsd., θαλείον καθαρόν. καὶ θωλέον Hes. (Kontr. from *θoFαλέος).

References: WP. I 835, Schulze KZ. 29, 260 f. = Kl. Schr. 369.

Page(s): 261

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-4, d<sup>h</sup>euθ- (presumably: d<sup>h</sup>uθ-, compare the extension d<sup>h</sup>uθ-k-, d<sup>h</sup>uθ-s-)

Meaning: to reel, dissipate, blow, *smoke, dark, gray, deep etc.

Material:

Hittite: tuhhai- (I) 'be in labor, have labor pains', tuhhima- c. 'be in labor, labor pains, pains of child-birth' (Friedrich 226); tuhhuwai- (tuhhui-) c. 'dense smoke?, fume, smog?' (227)

With m-formant:

Old Indic dhūmá- ḥ m. 'smoke, vapor', dhūmāyati 'smokes, steams' = Latin fūmāre 'smoke, steam, reek, fume', formal also = Old High German tūmōn 'turn in circles';

gr. θῦμός 'breath, life, soul, heart, spirit, courage, mind, temper, will, anger, wrath' (θῦμιάω still purely sensually 'smoke, fumigate'; θῦμάλ-ωψ 'charcoal pile', θυμικός 'ardent', θῦμαίνω 'rage against' etc);

Latin fūmus 'smoke, steam, vapor' (fūmāre see above);

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift.

Lithuanian dūmai Pl. 'smoke', Latvian dūmi Pl., Old Prussian dumis ds.;

Old Church Slavic dymъ 'smoke';

maybe alb. Tosc tym 'fume' [common alb. d- > t- shift.]: also alb. Geg dhem, alb. dhemb 'hurt, ache', dhimbje 'pain' [common alb. shift m > mb].

Note:

Clearly from Root / lemma:  $d^h\text{em-}$ ,  $d^h\text{eme-}$ : 'to smoke; to blow' derived Root / lemma:  $d^h\text{eu-4}$ ,  $d^h\text{eue-}$  (presumably:  $d^h\text{ue-}$ , compare the extension  $d^h\text{ue-k-}$ ,  $d^h\text{ue-s-}$ ): 'to reel, dissipate, blow, etc.'.

with  $\ddot{u}$ : Middle Irish dumacha Pl. 'fog' (nir. dumhach from  $*d^h\text{umuko-}$  'misty, dark'); gr.  $\theta\acute{\upsilon}\mu\omicron\varsigma$ , -ov 'thyme' (strong-smelling plant as also  $\theta\acute{\upsilon}\mu\beta\rho\alpha$ ,  $\theta\acute{\upsilon}\mu\beta\rho\upsilon\nu$  'Satureja thymbra' L.) s. Boisacq m. Lithuanian; after Niedermann Gl. 19, 14 to russ. dubrāvka, dubróvka 'Potentilla Tormentilla', that after Berneker 215 to Old Church Slavic dqmbъ 'oak' [see below S. 264] belongs).

maybe truncated alb. ( $*d^h\text{umusk-}$ ) dushk 'oak': Latvian dumûksnis 'swamp, marsh': Old Church Slavic dqmbъ 'oak' not from alb. drushk 'oak', dru- 'tree, wood' because alb. dr- > d- shift is not common.

Latin fimur 'crap, muck, manure' (as  $*d^h\text{u-i-mos}$  due to growing from suffio, -īre); with Indo Germanic ou: Old High German toum 'vapor, haze, mist, Duft', Old Saxon dōmian 'steam'.

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift.

In addition coloring adjective the meaning 'smoke-color, fog-gray, dismal': Old Indic dhūmrá- 'smoke-color, gray, puce, cloudy, dull (also from the mind)', dhūmala- 'smoke-color, puce';

Lithuanian dum̃blas 'slime, mud, moor on the bottom of pond', Latvian dubl'i 'slime, mud, ordure' (presumably = Old Indic dhūmra-; compare but under S. 268 and Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 509), Latvian dūmal's 'swart, brown', dūmaîns 'smoke-color', dumjš, fem. dumja 'dark brown, paled, cloudily (from the eyes), stupid', dumûksnis 'swamp, marsh', dumbra zeme 'black moorland', dum̃bris, dum̃brs 'spring, fountain, moor, morass' (compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 514; in detail about such moor names after the color Schulze Kl. Schr. 114); compare with dem coloring name suffix -no-: Latvian dûnī, dûņas Pl. 'slime, mud'; with -ko-, respectively of the root extension with -k-: Latvian dûksne, dûkste 'swamp, marsh, pool, morass': dūkans 'a red-brown hue, swart'; with -g-: Latvian duga `the glutinous mucus which swims on the water', dugains ūdens `impure water', dugains uguns `dark, clouded flame', dungans `a red-brown hue' (if latter not from **dumgans*, compare baļgans `whitish', salgans `sugary'); with -t- Tocharian B tute `yellow'?

With f-formant :

Old Indic dhūlī-, dhūlīf- `dust, dusty surface of the earth, pollen', dhūlikā `fog', alb. dëllinjë, dëllinjë `juniper' (as `wood smoking chips', from **d<sup>h</sup>ūlīñio-*);

Maybe alb. dyllë `wax, bee wax' : Lithuanian dūlis m., Latvian dūlājs, dūlējs `smoker, smoking incense incense to drive away the bees' (see below).

Note:

Maybe alb. dëllinjë `juniper' derived from Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>āl- : `to blossom, be green' : alb. (**dalīñiā*) dëlinjë `juniper' similar to Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-4, d<sup>h</sup>eue- : `to reel, dissipate, blow, etc.'.

Latin fūlīgo `soot; powder for darkening the eyebrows'

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift

Middle Irish dūil `wish, desire' (**mind boiling*, as θūμός `the soul'), Lithuanian dūlis m. `smoker, smoking incense incense to drive away the bees'

Maybe alb. dyllë, dylli `bee wax'.

Lithuanian dūlkė `mote, speck'; Latvian dūlājs, dūlējs `a more smoking than burning torch to take the honey from the bees'; Lithuanian dūlšvas `smoke-color, mouse grey'; changing through ablaut russ. dúlo `barrel (of a gun, a cannon)', dúlʹce `mouth piece of a wind instrument' (etc, s. Berneker 237; previously Slavic derivatives of duti `blow').

Verbs and and single-linguistic nominal formation:

Note:

Old Indic and alb. prove that Root / lemma: dāu-, dēu-, dū- : `to burn' derived from Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-4, d<sup>h</sup>eue- (presumably: d<sup>h</sup>ue-, compare the extension d<sup>h</sup>ue-k-, d<sup>h</sup>ue-s-) : `to reel, dissipate, blow, *smoke etc.'.

Maybe alb. dhunoj `violate, rape', dhunë `violence';

Old Indic dhūnōtī (dhunōtī, dhuvāti) ` shakes, moves to and fro, ventilates ', Fut. dhaviṣyati, Perf. dudhāva, Pass. dhūyāte, participle dhutá-ḥ, dhūtá-ḥ `shaken, agitated', Middle Persian dīt `smoke'; Old Indic dhunāti ` moves to and fro, shakes ', participle dhūnāna-, dhūni- f. `the shaking', dhūnayati ` moves to and fro, shakes ', dhavītram n. ` flabellum, whisk ', dhavitavyā- ` fan, ventilate '; Avestan dvaīdī ` we both beset '? ( **du-vaīdī*); Kuiper Nasalpräs. 53 places here Old Indic dhvajati (Dhp. 7, 44), Avestan dvažaiti ` flutters ' (in addition Old Indic dhvajá-ḥ `banner, ensign, flag') from **dhv-eg-* (?);

Armenian de-dev-im ` sway, swing ' (compare that likewise redupl. intensive dhvajá-ḥ Old Indic dō-dhavīti);

gr. θῦω (ἔθῦσα), Lesbian θυίω ` storm along, roar, rave, smoke ' ( **dh<sub>u</sub>-iō*, u: from θῦσω, ἔθῦσα, as also ū in Old Indic Pass. dhūyāte and Old Norse dýja `shake' neologism is; in the meaning `rage' maybe from **dh<sub>u</sub>sīō*, s. dh<sub>e</sub>mes-), θυάω, θυάζω ds., θύελλα `storm' (see S. 269 unter dh<sub>e</sub>mes-), ep. θῦνω ` roam, therefore blow, rage ' ( **θυνFω*), θυνέω ds. ( **θυνέFω*), θῦνος πόλεμος, ὄρμη, δρόμος Hes. with the meaning `smoke (smoke offering), smell': θῦω (θῦσω), τέθυκα ` sacrifice ', θυσία `sacrifice, oblation', θῦμα ` sacrificial animal ', θύος n. ` incense (hence Latin tūs `incense, frankincense'), oblation, sacrifice, oblation' (therefrom θυεῖα `mortar' s. Boisacq m. Lithuanian)

Maybe alb. thuk `mortar', thyenj `break, grind'.

gr. θυόεις, θυήεις ` laden with incense, odorous, fragrant ', θύον ` a tree whose wood was burned because of its fragrance ', θυία, θύα ` an African tree with scented wood ', θυηλή ` oblation ' ( : Ionian θυαλήματα : Attic θυλήματα, **θῦFα-* : **θ<sub>u</sub>:-*, s. Bechtel Lex. 168 f., Boisacq s. v.), θῦμέλη ` sacrificial altar, altar'.

On the base of the meaning `(together) whirl' θίς, θῖνός `heap, sandpile, esp. dune, sandbank, heaps generally ', from **θF-iv*, shaped as ακτῖν-, γλωχῖν-, δελφῖν-, ὠδῖν-, compare gr. θίλα `heap' (Hes.), to meaning under Modern High German Düne; barely with Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 570<sup>2</sup> to Old Indic dhíṣṇya- ` litter put on earth ';

alb. Geg děj, Tosc děnj `fuddle', Med. ` dwindle away, melt ' ( **deu<sub>h</sub>iō*, compare Gothic dauns ` fume, haze, mist'), dêjet ` flows, melts ';

Maybe alb. dêje `vein (where the blood flows)', duf `air blow, anger, impatience, rage' : Old English dofian `rage' : Latin suffio -ire `to fumigate' (see below), also duplicated alb. ( **duh-duh*) dudë `gum'.

Latin suf-fiō, -fīre `to fumigate, perfume; to warm' (suffimentum `incense'; about fīmus see above) from \-dʰu-jiō*, as fio `of persons and things, to be made, come into existence; with predicate, to become, be appointed; with genit., to be valued at; of actions, to be done; of events, to happen' from **bʰu-jiō*, foeteo, -ēre `evil smell, stink' due to a participle **dʰu-oi-to-s* (as pūteō from **pūtos*); common Latin d- > f- shift. Clearly Latin suffio -ire `to fumigate' derived from an Illyrian alb. duf `blow'.

Note:

here (as **piled up*) gall., proto Irish Δοὐν, latin. dūnum, Old Irish n. s-stem dūn ( : Latin fūnus, s. S. 260) `castle' (**hill*), acymr. din (ncymr. dinas) ds.; Old Irish dú(a)ě, arch. dóě `bulwark, rampart, wall' (**dʰōuio-*); Old Irish dumae m. `hill', gall. GN Dumiatis; also Old Irish dé f. Gen. dīad `smoke', Middle Irish dethach ds. (**dʰuīat-*);

Old English dūn m. f. `height, mountain', engl. down `sand-hill, dune', mnl. dūne, Middle Low German düne, out of it Modern High German Düne; compare to meaning klr. vý-dma `dune' to Slavic dʰmǫ `blow'; whereas is Germanic **tū-na-* `fence, a preserved place' (Old Icelandic Old English tūn ds., `town, city', Modern High German Zaun) probably Celtic loanword;

Old Norse dýja `shake' see above;

Gothic dauns f. `sweet scent, smoke' (**dʰou-n*), Old Norse daunn m. `fetidness' (compare alb. dej; about Old High German Modern High German dunst see below the root form **dʰeues-*); Old Norse dūnn m. `down feather (**fan*)' (out of it Middle Low German dūne, whereof again Modern High German Daune `soft loose fluffy feathers, as on young birds'; compare Middle Dutch donst `down feather (**fan*), dust powder (**ash*)' = German Dunst `fume'; s. Falk-Torp under dun); Old Saxon dununga `delusion' (ū or ū?); Old Icelandic dūni `fire';

Lithuanian dujà f. `mote, speck', dujė `down feather (**fan*)'; dvỹlas `black, black-headed', ablaut. dūlas `grayish';

Slavic **dujǫ*, **duti* (e.g. russ. dúju, dutʲ) `blow', changing through ablaut **dyjǫ* in sloven. díjem, díti `blow, smell, breathe quietly'; Old Church Slavic dunǫ dunǫti (**dʰoun-*) `blow' (changing through ablaut with Old Indic dhū-nóti, -nāti, gr. θύω);

Tocharian A twe, B tweye `dust'.

compare still perhaps identical proto root *d<sup>h</sup>eu- `run, flow'.

Root extensions:

I. b<sup>h</sup>-extension: d<sup>h</sup>eu<sup>b</sup>- `fly, smoke; misty, darkens, also from the mind and the reflection '.

Gr. τύφω (θῦψαι, τῦφῆναι) `smoke, vapor, fume, make smoke; burn slowly, singe; Pass. smoke, give off vapor, gleam ', m. τῦφος `smoke, steam, dense smoke; wooziness, folly, silly pride '; τετῦφῶσθαι `be brainless, conceited, haughty', τῦφῶς, -ῶ or -ῶνος `whirlwind, thunderstorm ', τῦφεδών, -όνος `disastrous fire ', τῦφεδανός, τῦφογέρων `feeble-minded age '; τυφλός `blind, dark, stupid ', τυφλόω `blind ', τυφλώψ `blind', τυφλώσσω `become blind'.

Maybe poln. duma `pride ', dumny `proud '.

Old Irish dub (*d<sup>h</sup>ub<sup>h</sup>u-) `black', acymr. dub (*d<sup>h</sup>eu<sup>b</sup>h-), ncymr. du, acorn. duw, mcor. du, bret. dū `black', gall. Dubis `Le Doubs (eastern France) ', i.e. `black, dark water '; probably also Middle Irish dobur `water', cymr. dwfr, corn. dour (i.e. dowr), bret. dour (i.e. dur) ds., gall. Uerno-dubrum river name (`alder water ') are named after the same observation;

however, maybe there are Celtic words with Indo Germanic b which must be assumed that belong to d<sup>h</sup>eu<sup>b</sup>- `deep' (under S. 268), because `deep' and `black' could be slightly identical.

So can the pomerell. FIN Dbra (*d<sup>h</sup>bra) be identical just as well with Latvian dubra, Church Slavic dъbrъ.

Note:

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-b-, d<sup>h</sup>eu-p-: `deep, *dark' derived from Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-4, d<sup>h</sup>euθ- (presumably: d<sup>h</sup>euθ-, compare the extension d<sup>h</sup>euθ-k-, d<sup>h</sup>euθ-s-): `to reel, dissipate, blow, *smoke, dark, gray, deep etc.'.

Gothic daufs (-b-) `deaf, obdurate', Old Norse dauf `deaf, idle', Old English dēaf `deaf', Old High German toup (-b-) `deaf, obtuse, foolish', Old Norse deyfa, Middle High German touben `deafen, stun, make feeble ', changing through ablaut Low German duff `muggy (air), dim (color), muted (sound)';

Maybe alb. duf 'air blow, anger, impatience, rage' : Old English dofian 'rage'.

Dutch dof, Middle High German top 'senseless, brainless, crazy',

Maybe alb. topis 'stun';

ō-Verb: Old High German tobon, Old Saxon dovōn 'be mad', Old English dofian 'rage', ē-Verb: Old High German tobēn, Modern High German toben, as well as (as participle a stem V.) Old Norse dofinn 'dull, limp, half-dead', wherefore dofna 'limp, become stale'; Old Norse dupt n. 'dust', Norwegian duft, dyft f. ds., Middle High German tuft, duft 'haze, mist, fog, dew, hoarfrost', Old High German tuft 'frost', Modern High German Duft 'fine smell, odor' (or zur root form d<sup>h</sup>eup-, see below); Gothic (hraiwa-) dūbō, Old Norse dūfa, Old English dūfe, Old High German tūba 'dove, pigeon' (after the dark color). Nasalized Gothic dumbs, Old Norse dumbr, Old English dumb 'dumb', Old High German tumb 'silent, stupid, incomprehensible', Old Saxon dumb 'oafish'. However, a **d<sup>h</sup>u-m-b<sup>h</sup>os* 'dark' seems to be supported also by Slavic (see below).

Maybe expressive alb. Tosc dudum 'dumb'

Perhaps (Berneker 215) Old Church Slavic dqbъ 'oak, then tree generally' as 'tree with dark heartwood' as Latin rōbur. Against it can be by Latvian dumbra zeme 'black moorland' etc b Einschublaut between m and r, see above, also by Lithuanian dur̃blas 'slime, mud' (Middle High German tümpfel, Modern High German Tümpel, Prellwitz KZ. 42, 387, rather to Modern High German tief, Middle Low German dumpelen 'submerge', s.Schulze SBpr.Ak. 1910, 791 = Kl. Schr. 114).

Besides d<sup>h</sup>ūp- in: Old Indic dhūpa- m. 'smoke, incense', Old High German tūvar, tūbar 'phrenetical' (also in Duff? see above).

2. d<sup>h</sup>-extension: d<sup>h</sup>eu-d<sup>h</sup>- 'whirl, shake, confuse through another'.

Old Indic dōdhat- 'stupefying, vehement, raving', dúdhi-, dudhra- 'boisterous', probably also dúdhita- (epithet of tamas 'darkness') perhaps 'confused, thick';

gr. θύσσεται τινάσσεται Hes. (*θυθιεται), θύσανος 'tassel', hom. θυσσανόεις 'festooned with tassels or fringes' from *θυθια (**d<sup>h</sup>ud<sup>h</sup>ia* = Latvian duža 'bundle'), τευθίς, τεῦθος, τευθός 'squid' ('misting, muddling the water');

Germanic **dud-*, geminated **dutt-* and **dudd-*: Danish dude, older dudde 'ryegrass, darnel' (but about isl. doðna 'become insensitive' see above S. 260), Low German dudendop, -hop` drowsy person', Old Frisian dud` anesthetization ', Norwegian dudra`tremble', Old English dydrian` deceive '; with -dd-: engl. dial. dudder`bewilder', dodder`tremble, wobble, sway', engl. dodder` any plant of the genus Cuscuta; any of various choking or climbing weeds '; with -tt-: Middle Dutch dotten, dutten` be crazy ', Middle Low German vordutten`bewilder', Middle High German vertutzen, betützen` become deaf, but get collectedness ', isl. dotta` fall asleep due to tiredness, not because of exhaustion ';

similarly, on the basis of *dh<sub>u</sub>ed<sup>h</sup>:- East Frisian dwatje` stupid girl', dwatsk` oafish, eccentric ', Jütisch dvot` suffering from Coenurus cerebri ' ; Swedish dodra, Middle High German toter m.` yellow plant, dodder ', Middle English doder, nengl. dodder` any plant of the genus Cuscuta, comprising leafless threadlike twining plants with parasitic suckers; it attaches itself to some other plant as to flax etc. and decaying at the root, is nourished by the plant that supports it ', Dutch (vas)-dodder ds. After Falk-Torp under dodder if the word was transferred as a name for certain plants with yellow threadlike stems: Old Saxon dodro, Old High German totoro, Old English dydring`egg - yellow ' (-ing prove the derivative of plant name); rather has been for it `clump' = `thick mass' in contrast to melting egg white the mediative meaning (Persson) or compare Norwegian dudra`tremble' the elastic shivering of this colloid rocking core; compare Old Icelandic doðr-kvísa` a bird'.

3. k-extension: dh<sub>u</sub>ēk-, dh<sub>u</sub>īk- and dh<sub>u</sub>euk-:

Old Indic dhukṣatē, dhukṣayati with sam-` blown up the fire, kindled, animated ', *dhūka-*m. (unleashed)`wind'; common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

Lithuanian dvēkti, dvėkúoti, dvėkterėti`breathe, pant, gasp', dvōkti`stink', dvākas`breath, breeze, breath', dūksas`sigh', dūkstù, dūkti` become raving, rage ', dūkis`fury', Latvian dūcu, dūkt` roar, rage ', ducu, ducēt it.`roar', dūku (**dunku*), duku, dukt` become mat '; color names as Latvian dūkans` swart ' (see above) hit presumably the bridge to:

Old High German tugot`variegated', tougan` dark, concealed, mysterious, miraculous ', n.` mystery, miracle ', Old Saxon dōgalnussi` mystery, hiding place, nook', Old English dēagol, dīegle` clandestine ', Old High German tougal` dark, concealed, secret '; also Old English dēag f.` paint, color, red or purple dye; red or purple color; rouge; in gen., paint, dye of any color; bee-glue ', dēagian`dye', engl. dye.

4. l-extension: dh<sub>(e)</sub>uel- (compare in addition above the l-nouns as Old Indic dhūlī-)` whirl up, cloud (water, the mind); murky, dark, spiritually weak '.

Gr. θολός `slime, mud, smut, esp. from murky water, the dark juice of the cuttlefish ' (= Gothic dwals), Adj. `cloudy', θολώω `cloudy', θολερός `muddy, cloudy, eclipse; verwirrt, beguile ';

Δύαλος, name of Dionysos by the Paeones (Hes.) `the raving ', Illyrian Δευάδαι οἱ Σάτ[υρ]οῖϋπ' `Ιλλυριῶν (Hes.); maybe alb. dal `go out, move out, wander aimlessly', nasalized ndal `stop, hinder, delay' : Old Norse dvelja `hinder, delay', Old Saxon bidwellian `hinder', Old Norse dvǫf. `delay', Old English dwala m. `aberration'.

Old Irish dall `blind', clūas-dall `deaf' (`unable to hear, blind'), cymr. corn. bret. dall `blind' (about **duallos* < **dyllos* from **d<sup>h</sup>ylno-s*);

Gothic dwals `oafish ', Old Norse dvala f. `coma, doze, stupor '; changing through ablaut Old Saxon Old English dol `clownish, crazy', Old High German tol, tulisc `crazy, nonsensical ', Modern High German toll, engl. dull `stupid, tasteless, weak (also from colors)', Old Norse dulfr. `concealment, illusion, arrogance ', dylja `negate, conceal ' and on the other hand Old Norse dǫlskr (**dwōliska-*) `crazy'; Old Saxon ƿardwelan stem V. `miss, fail', Old Frisian dwilith `errs ' ; Old English participle gedwolen `wrong, mistaken ', Old High German gitweƿan `be dazed, tarry ', Old Norse dulinn `conceited, arrogant ' ; Kaus. Old Norse dvelja `hinder, delay', Old Saxon bidwellian `hinder', Old English dwelian `misguide ', Old High German **twaljan*, twallen, Middle High German twel(h)en `hinder, delay'; Old Norse dvǫf. `delay', Old English dwala m. `aberration', Old High German gitwolo `infatuation, heresy'; Gothic dwalmōn `crazy, be phrenetical ', Old English dwolma, Old Saxon dwalm `anesthetization ', Old High German twalm `anesthetization, narcotic smoke, smoke', Old Norse dylminn `thoughtless, frivolous ', Danish dulme `drowse '.

5. n-extension : d<sup>h</sup>uēn(ə)- `scatter, sprinkle, be moved violently; whirling smoke, fog, cloud; befogged = dark, also from the darkening of the consciousness, the death '.

Old Indic ádḥvanīt `he burnt out, was extinguished, dwindled ' (of anger, actually `evaporated, sprayed '), Kaus. dhvānayaṭi `darkens ', participle dhvāntá- `dark', n. `darkness';

Avestan dvan- with pre verb `fly' (apa-dvaṣaiti `macht sich auf zum Davonfliegen ', upa-dvaṣaiti `goes flying there ', Kaus. us-dvaṇayaṭ `he allows to fly upwards '); dvaṇman- n. `cloud', aipi-dvaṇara- `cloudy, misty ', dunman- `fog, cloud';

gr. θάνατος `death', θνητός `perishable ' ( *dh<sub>h</sub>u<sub>e</sub>netos and *dh<sub>h</sub>u<sub>h</sub>ētós), Doric θναῖσκω `die', reshaped after the present in -ίσκω Attic ἀποθνήσκω (-θανοῦμαι, -θανεῖν), Lesbian θναίσκω ds. (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 362, 709, 770);

Latvian dvans, dvanums `haze, mist, vapor', dviņga `haze, mist, coal steam ' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 546).

6. r-extension: dh<sub>h</sub>euer- (dh<sub>h</sub>uer-, dh<sub>h</sub>eur-) `whirl, attack, hurry; vortex = dizziness, folly '.

Old Indic (unleashed) dhōraṇa- n. `troth', dhōraṭi- `trots ' (=Slavic dur-, see below); perhaps dhurā Adv. `violent, forcible ' ; dhātī- `raid, night raid ' , if Middle Indic development from *dh<sub>h</sub>vārtī- Heranstürmen ' ;

perhaps gr. ἄ-θῦπω (*ἄ- = ἦ `in' + *θυπιω) `play, I amuse ' , ἄθυρμα `play, toys; jewellery, ornament things ' (if `play' from `spring');

Lithuanian padūrmai Adv. `with impetuosity, stormy', Old Prussian dūrai Nom. Pl. `shy'; russ. durь `folly, fatuity, stubbornness ' , durěť , `lose the mind ' , durítʹ `make pranks', durák `fool', dúra `fool, clown', durnój `evil, bad, ugly', dial. `unreasonable, furious ' , durníca `henbane, ryegrass, dandelion ' , klr. dur, dura `anesthetization, dizziness, tomfoolery ' , serb. dûrīm, dúriti se `flare up, foam' etc;

Tocharian A taur, B tor `dust'?

References: WP. I 835 ff.; WH. I 499 f., 561 f., 57 lf., 865; Trautmann 62 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 686, 696, 703.

Page(s): 261-267

---

Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>eues-, dh<sub>h</sub>uēs-, dh<sub>h</sub>eus-, dh<sub>h</sub>ūs-

Meaning: to dissipate, blow, etc. *scatter, dust, rain, breathe, perish, die

Note: extension of dh<sub>h</sub>eū-4; also expressions for `dark colors ' seem to be supposed to be added as `fog-gray, dust-color '.

Material: Old Indic dhvaṃsati- `sprays, sprinkles, disintegrates, goes to pieces ' , participle dhvastá-, Kaus. dhvaṃsáyati, dhvasáyati `powdered, destroyed ' , dhvasmán- m. `obscuration ' , dhvasirá- `powdered, sprayed ' , dhvasrá- `powdered, indistinguishable ' , dhvásti- f. `the spraying ' (= Old High German tunist, dun(i)st `wind, storm, breath, smoke ' , Old English Old Frisian dūst `dust'), dhūsara- `dust-colored ' ; to formation ( *dh<sub>h</sub>u-és-mi, Konj. dh<sub>h</sub>éu-s-ō besides *dh<sub>h</sub>u-n-és-mi, Konj. *dh<sub>h</sub>u-én-s-ō) compare Kuiper Nasalprä. 41;

gr. θῦω (θυίω) `blow, storm, surge, smoke, sacrifice' as *dʰǵ-iō (υ: from θῦσω, ἔθυσα) to einf. root *dʰeǵ- (see S. 262), however, maybe in the meaning `rage' from *dʰǵs-iō, as θυῖα f. `female bacchant', θυιάς `a mad or inspired woman, a Bacchante' ds. (θυάζω `be grasped by bacchanalian dizziness') probably from *dʰǵs-ia because of θυστάδες Βάκχαι Hes. and θύσθλα the implements of Bacchus, the thyrsi and torches', θυστήριος epithet of Bacchus;

Note: common Latin d- > f-:

Latin furō-ere `to rage, rave, be mad' could be *dʰusō, so that Furiae = gr. θυῖαι; compare also v. Blumenthal IF. 49, 172 to δύσμαιναι Βάκχαι; ἐχθύσση ἐκπνέουση Hes.; but θύελλα `a furious storm, hurricane' probably feminine of *θυελος `storming, raging', probably from *θυφελος; θυμός `anger, soul' is = θυμός `air, a current of air, breeze, breath, wind' and not because of Latvian dusmas `anger' lead back to a various basic form *θυσμός; compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 521;

Ablaut form *dʰǵes- in hom. θέειον and θέιον (with metr. lengthening to θήιον), Attic θεῖον `sulphur steam, sulphur' (*θFεσ-(ε)ιον?).

Perhaps here θεός `god' because of Lithuanian dvasià `ghost', Middle High German getwās `ghost' and forms as gr. θέσ-φατος `spoken from god', θεσπέσιος, θέσπις `divine' as *θFεσός from *dʰǵesos after Hirt Indog. Gr. I 195, Pisani REtIE. 1, 220 ff., Schwyzler Gr. I 450, 458, WH. I 102; Lithuanian by Feist 122;

alb. dash `Aries, ram, sheep' (*animal), after Jokl (L.-k. Unters. 240) from *dʰǵosǵ-;

Latin perhaps furō, see above; fimbria f. `fringe, border, edge' maybe from *dʰǵensriā, with the ablaut form dʰǵēs- : februō, -āre `clean, expiate religiously' from februum `religious purification' (sabin. after Varro), as also Februārius `the cleansing month', on the basis of *dʰǵes-ro- `fumigating'; fērālis `relating to the dead, funereal; deadly, fatal; mournful; n. pl. as subst. the festival of the dead, in February' probably also here;

Note:

Common Latin d- > f-.

whether bēstia, bēllua `an animal without reason, a brute, beast, large animal; as a term of reproach, monster' belong here as *dʰǵestiā, *dʰǵēsloṽā, it is extremely dubious because of anlauts in spite of WH. I 102;

Note:

Common Latin dw- > b-.

gallorom. dūsīus `impure, foul daemon, incubus ', out of it lad. eng. dischöl, Modern High German westfäl. dūs, Basque tusuri `devil'; compare Pedersen Ét. celt. 1, 171; Old Irish dāsacht `fury', dāistir immum `I become raving ' (*d<sup>h</sup>uōs-t, ablaut. with Old English dwæes etc); Old Irish dōē `idle', perhaps as *d<sup>h</sup>ousio- to Modern High German dösīg, Old English dwæes `stupid, crazy', Middle Low German dwās ds., Middle High German twās, dwās m. `idiot, fool, villain ', getwās n. `ghost; foolishness ' (compare to the former meaning Middle High German tuster n. `ghost'; to lengthened grade Old Irish dāsaid); ablaut. Old English dysīg `clownish ', engl. dizzy `giddy ', Middle Low German dūsīch `benumbed, giddy ', Low German dūsīg, dösīg, Old High German tusic `sluggish ', Middle Low German dūsen, dosen `pass away thoughtlessly ', engl. doze `doze', Modern High German (nnd.) Dusel (in the meaning `light drunkenness ' compare Modern High German Dialectal dusen `carouse ' and Middle High German tūsen `rant, make a noise, whizz '); in addition: Norwegian dūsa `doze', Old Norse dūsa `behave quietly ', dūs `calm ', dūra `sleep', Middle High German türmen `be dizzy, reel, lurch ' etc; with Germanic au: Middle High German dōsen `behave quietly, slumber, drowse ', tōre `insane, fool', Modern High German Tor, töricht, Middle Low German dōre m. `fool, crazy person';

Maybe alb. Geg torrë `fool'

with the meaning `spray, get dusty, scatter ': Middle High German tæsen, dæsen `scatter', verdæsen `destroy' (from **dausjan*), Norwegian Dialectal døysa `lump, pile up', probably originally from `dust heaps and waste heaps ', under which medium meaning can be added also Old Norse dys f. `from pouting stones of burial mounds ', Norwegian Dialectal dussa `messy heap ';

with the meaning `scatter, sprinkle, dust rain ': Norwegian duskregn `dust rain ', duska, dysja `rain finely, trickle ', engl. dusk `cloudy, dim', Modern High German Bavarian dusel `dust rain '; West Germanic **dunstu-* `transpiration ' (see above S. 263) in Old High German tun(i)st `wind, storm', Middle High German tunst `fume, mist ', Old English Old Frisian dūst n. `dust' (Old Norse dust n. `dust' is Middle Low German loanword), Danish dyst `flour powder ', Middle Low German nnd. dust m. `dust, chaff, husk'; with the meaning 'breathe - animal': Gothic dīus n. 'wild animal' (*d<sup>h</sup>eus-), Old Norse dýr n. 'Vierfüßler, wild animal', Old High German tior 'animal', Old English dēor 'wild animal', Adj. 'violent, wild, valiant';

Lithuanian dvesiù, dvesiaũ, dvėsti 'breathe, breathe out the spirit, perish, die ';

maybe alb. (**dves*) vdes 'breathe out the spirit, perish, die';

Clearly from Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>euēs-, d<sup>h</sup>uēs-, d<sup>h</sup>eus-, d<sup>h</sup>ūs- : 'to dissipate, blow, etc. *breathe, breathe out the spirit, perish, die' derived Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-2, d<sup>h</sup>u-ēi- : 'to vanish, faint, die'.

As Lithuanian dvīsti 'die' : Lithuanian dvesiù, dvesiaũ, dvėsti 'breathe, breathe out the spirit, perish, die ' (see above);

Note:

Aryans created the storm god, sky god Deus Pater from the ritual of burning the dead. Hence the very spirit of the dead was identified with the breath in the cold, smoke in heaven. Animal fat was burned to appease the sky god hence animals were named after the father god.

Latvian dvēsele f. 'breath, soul, life', ablaut. (*d<sup>h</sup>uos-), Lithuanian dvasas m., dvasià f., Gen. dvāsios 'ghost', 'breath', Latvian dvaša 'air, breath, smell ' (: russ. dvochatb, Indo Germanic *d<sup>h</sup>uos-); zero grade (*d<sup>h</sup>ūs-), Lithuanian dūsas 'sigh' and 'haze, mist' (= klr. doch), dūstū, dūstī 'run out of breath', Latvian dust 'pant, gasp', dusmas 'anger', Lithuanian dūsiù, dūséti 'take a deep breath, sigh, gasp heavily', dūsauti ds.; Lithuanian daūsos f. Pl. (*d<sup>h</sup>ous-) 'the upper air, paradise ', dausinti 'ventilate, air ';

russ. dvóchatb, dvocháť 'pant, gasp' (see above); Old Church Slavic (ѵѣс)дѣхнѣти 'take a deep breath, heave a sigh ', klr. doch 'breath, breeze' (**дѣхъ*), Old Church Slavic dychaję, dyšę, dychati 'breathe, exhale, blow', duchъ (: Lithuanian daūsos) 'respiration, breath, spirit ', duša 'breath, soul' (*d<sup>h</sup>ousiā), dušę, duhati 'breathe, blow, from wind' etc maybe alb. (**dychati*) dihat 'breathe heavily' a Slavic loanword.

words for sombre colors ('dust-colored, fog-gray '):

Old Indic dhūsara- 'dust-colored ' (see above); Latin fuscus 'dark-colored; of the voice, indistinct ' (*d<sup>h</sup>us-qo-), furvus 'dark-colored, black ' (*d<sup>h</sup>us-uo-);

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift.

Old English dox (**dosc*) 'dark', engl. dusk 'cloudy, dim; twilight' (= Latin fuscus; compare also Norwegian dusmen 'misty'), with formants -no- Old English dunn (Celtic loanword?), (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Saxon dun 'chestnut-colored', Old Norse dunna 'the common domestic duck', Old Saxon dosan, Old English dosen 'chestnut-colored', Old High German dosan, tusin 'pale yellow' (West Germanic Lw is Latin dosinus 'ash-colored'); Middle Irish donn 'dark', cymr. dwnn 'subfuscus, dark-colored, blackish', gall. PN Donnos etc (**d<sup>h</sup>uosnos*). (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Note:

Probably from a fusion of Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>əues-, d<sup>h</sup>yēs-, d<sup>h</sup>eus-, d<sup>h</sup>ūs- 'to dissipate, blow, etc. *scatter, dust, rain, breathe, perish, die' + Root / lemma: dei-1, deje-, dī-, diā- : 'to shine; day; sun; sky god, god' derived Slavic (**dus-diu-*): Old Church Slavic: дъждь 'rain' [m jo] (see below).

References: WP. I 843 f., WH. I 102, 386, 472 f., 570 ff., Trautmann 64 f.

Page(s): 268-271

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ēigʷ- : d<sup>h</sup>ōigʷ- : d<sup>h</sup>īgʷ-

Meaning: to stick, plant

Material: Latin figō, -ere 'to fix, fasten, make fast, attach, affix; esp. with oculos, to fix the gaze; to thrust home a weapon, etc. so as to fix fast; to transfix' (Proto Latin ī, compare figier S. C. Bacch.), Old Latin fivō, Umbrian fiktu 'you shall fix, fasten, drive, thrust in, attach, affix, post, erect, set up', afiktu 'he/she shall fasten, implant, drive in, affix'; probably in addition as 'pinned' also fīnis 'boundary, limit, border; summit, end; object, aim; in pl. enclosed area, territory' (= Lithuanian dýgsnis 'prick, sting'), compare fīniō, -īre also 'to bound, limit, enclose, restrain; to define, determine, appoint; to put an end to, conclude, finish; esp. to finish speaking, or to die; pass., to end, cease';

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift.

Old English dīc 'drainage ditch, canal', ndd. dīk, Old Icelandic dīk(i)n, Middle High German tīch, from which Modern High German Deich, Teich (actually) 'the digging'.

Lithuanian dýgstu, dýgti, Latvian dīgt 'germinate' (actually 'jut. stick out, protrude', Lithuanian dygūs 'spiky, prickly'), in addition dygiū, dygėti 'feel piercing pain', dyglỹs 'thorn', dýgė 'gooseberry', Old Prussian digno 'the hilt of a sword' (as Modern High German Heft 'the handle of a cutting or piercing instrument, as a knife, spear, etc.; the hilt of a sword, dagger ', that is to say ` wherein the blade is fixed, to fix'); zero grade Lithuanian díegiu, díegti, Latvian diēgt `prick', Lithuanian díegas `germ, sprout', Old Prussian deicktas `site, place ', originally ` point, dot, prick, sting'; with ōi: Lithuanian dáigas `germ, sprout, seedling ', dáiktas `point, dot; thing', daiginti `make germinate ';

References: WP. I 832 f., WH. I 495 f., 865; Trautmann 49 f.

Page(s): 243-244

---

Root / lemma:  $d^h\bar{e}(i)-$  (besides  $d^h-ei-$ ?)

Meaning: to suck

Note: ( $d^h\bar{e}i-$ ,  $d^h\bar{i}-$  and  $d^h\bar{e}-$ ,  $d^h\bar{\theta}-$ ) s. esp. Schulze KZ. 27, 425 = Kl. Schr. 363.

Material: Old Indic dhāya-h `nourishing, nursing ', dhāyas- n. `the sucking ', dhāyú- `thirsty ', dhātavē `to suck', Fut. dhāsyati, Aor. ádhat `he sucked ', su-dhā `juice, sap, nectar', dhātrī `wet nurse, mother', dhēnú- f. `producing milk ' = Avestan daēnu- `female of four-footed animals '

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan ae-

Old Indic dhēnā `milker ', ablaut. dhītā- `sucked ', Perf. Plur. 1. 3. da-dhi-má ( $i = \bar{\theta}$ ), da-dh-úh; redupl. noun da-dh-an-, Nom. dá-dh-i, Gen. dadhnás `sour milk' (: Old Prussian dadān, alb. djathë);

Maybe alb. ( $*dhei-$ ) Geg dhëj, Tosk dhi, Pl. dhen, dhentë `goat', edha `goats' : alb. Geg dhanë `to give, produce'.

from stem  $d^h\bar{\theta}i-$ : dháyati `sucks' ( $*d^h\bar{\theta}ieti$ : Kaus.  $*d^h\bar{\theta}i-éje-ti$  in Slavic dojiti, Gothic daddjan) and dhinóti `nourishes ';

Armenian diem `suck' ( $i =$  Indo Germanic  $\bar{e}$  or rather  $\bar{i}$ , so that = Old Norse dīa), stn-di `(sucking breast =) suckling ', dal from dail `beestings ' ( $d^h\bar{\theta}i-li-$ ), dayeak `wet nurse ' (from  $*dayi-$  = Indo Germanic  $d^h\bar{\theta}-ti-$ );

gr.  $\theta\acute{\eta}\sigma\alpha\tau\omicron$  `he sucked ',  $\theta\acute{\eta}\sigma\theta\alpha\iota$  `milk',  $\theta\acute{\eta}\nu\iota\omicron\nu$  `milk',  $\tau\iota\theta\acute{\eta}\nu\eta$  `wet nurse ' (short form  $\tau\iota\tau\theta\eta$  underlikewise, whereat different Falk-Torp under taate),  $\gamma\alpha\lambda\alpha\theta\eta\nu\acute{o}\varsigma$  `sucking milk ',  $\tau\iota-\theta\alpha\sigma\acute{o}\varsigma$  `tame, domesticated, well-bred';

alb. djathë `cheese' originally `curd made from sour milk ' (: Old Indic dádhi), gr.-alb. dithë `cheese'; (common Slavic alb.  $-e > -je-$ ,  $-a > -ja-$  ).

Note:

Spectacularly alb. djathë (**das*), gr.-alb. dithë 'cheese' derived from a solidified Illyrian root **d<sup>h</sup>-ei-s* 'curd made from sour milk' because of common alb. -s > -th.

Latin fēmina 'wife, woman' (*'the nursing one'); about fēlix, fecundus see below;

Old Irish dīnu 'lamb', dīth 'he/she has sucked' (ī = Indo Germanic ē or ī), denaid 'he sucks' (**dī-na-tī*), bret. denaff 'suck', cymr. dynu 'suck';

Gothic daddjan = Old Swedish dæggja 'suckle' (proto Germanic **ḍajjan*, compare Old Indic dháyati, Old Church Slavic dojǫ; the Germanic **ḍajj-* has originated normally from **d<sup>h</sup>oi-eie-*), Old Swedish dā, Danish Norwegian die 'suck', Middle High German dīen, tīen 'suckle; breast feed a baby' (compare zero grade Armenian diem), zero grade Old High German tāen, present tāju (= Latvian dēju 'suck'), westfäl. däiern 'nourish a calf with milk';

Latvian dēju, dēt 'suck', at-diene, at-dienīte 'a cow that calves in the second year', Lithuanian dienī f. 'pregnant' (= Old Indic dhēnú-), dienà ds. (= Old Indic dhēnā 'cow'), Old Prussian dadān 'milk' (= Old Indic dadhan-); Old Church Slavic dojǫ 'suckle' (Old Indic dháyati), doilica 'wet nurse', with ě (= Indo Germanic ē or ə) děť f. 'children, kids.', děva, děvica 'girl, virgin' (replaced by '* woman' = 'the nursing one, the one who suckles', s. Berneker 197).

With /-formant: Old Indic dhārú- 'sucking' = gr. θήλυς 'nourishing (ἐέρδη), lactating, female' (fem. θήλεια and θήλυς), θηλώ, θηλαμύν 'wet nurse', θηλάζω 'suckle, suck', θηλή 'brisket', alb. dele 'sheep' (**d<sup>h</sup>əil-r-*), delmë ds., dhallë 'sour milk', Illyrian dalm- 'sheep' in PN Δάλμιον, Δελμίνιον, VN Dalmatae, Delmatae, Messapic PN Gen. m. dalmāihī, fem. PN dalmaθoa; Latin fēlō, -āre 'suckle', filius 'son' ('suckling', from **fēlios*) = Umbrian feliuf, filiu 'give milk, give suck';

Note:

Common lat d- > f- phonetic shift

Middle Irish del 'teat' (**d<sup>h</sup>ī-lo-*), delech 'milker', Danish dæl 'mammary glands or udder of the sow', Swedish Dialectal del m. 'teat', Old High German tīla f. 'female breast', Old English delu f. 'nipple, teat', Old Norse dilkr 'lamb, baby, youngling'; Latvian dēls 'son', dēle 'bloodsucker, leech', Lithuanian dėlė ds., pirmdėlė 'the first born', pirmdėlỹs 'who has just been born'; Latvian dīle 'sucking calf', dīlīt 'suckle'.

Identical alb. djalë, Pl. djelm, djem `son' : Latvian dēls `son'.

(common Slavic alb. -e > -je-, -a > -ja-, ).

from gr. θῶσθαι (*θῶι-εσθαι) `to feast', θοίνη `feast' (from *θῶι-vā?) with gradation suit here, is doubtful; if θῶξαι and (Doric) θᾶξαι `μεθύσαι' as *θῶι-ακ-σαι points to a light root *d<sup>h</sup>ōi- (also then θοίνη; also θῶσθαι could be θῶι-α-σθαι)?

Latin fēlix `fertile, lucky' to fēlāre goes back to a fem. Subst. **fēlī-c-* `the nursing one = fertile', after Specht (KZ. 62, 237) from **fēlū-k-s*, Femin. to Old Indic dhārī-, gr. θῆλυς; Latin fēcundus `fertile', fētus, -ūs (1) pregnant; fruitful, fertile; teeming with, full of. (2) that has brought forth, newly delivered; (3) m. the bringing forth or hatching of young; of the soil, bearing, producing. Transf., that which is brought forth; offspring, brood; of plants, fruit, produce, shoot', fēta `filled with young, pregnant, breeding, with young', also `what is born', effēta `past bearing, exhausted, worn out, weak after a lot of parturition', fēnus, -oris `yield, interest on money, usury', perhaps also fēnum `hay' (as `yield') define themselves through a special application from d<sup>h</sup>ēi- `suckle' for `be fertile'; in addition but not *d<sup>h</sup>ōnā- `corn, grain' : Old Indic dhānā f. Pl. `grain, seeds', dhānyā- n. `corn, grain', np. dāna `corn, grain', Avestan dānō-karša- `an ant kind', i.e. `towing grain (= an ant)', Tocharian B tāno `corn, grain' and Lithuanian dúona, Latvian duõna f. `bread' (originally `corn', Old Lithuanian `provision for retired farmers, retirement, settlement on retirement'); Doric-Illyrian (Cretan) δηαί. . . αἱ κριθαί EM., δητταί αἰέππισμέναι κριθαί (*d<sup>h</sup>ē-k-jā-) Hes.; different Jokl by WH. I 475;

References: WP. I 829 ff., WH. I 474 ff., 864, Trautmann 51.

See also: s. also above d<sup>h</sup>ē-1, d<sup>h</sup>ē-d<sup>h</sup>ē-.

Page(s): 242

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ē-1, redupl. d<sup>h</sup>ē-d<sup>h</sup>(ē)-

Meaning: child word for `grandparents'

Material: Gr. θεῖος `uncle', θεία `aunt' (*θη-ος, θη-ᾱ), τῆθη `grandmother' (from *θη-θη), Italian (venet.) deda `aunt' (?), gr. τηθίς `aunt' (in addition GN Θέτις); Illyrian deda `wet nurse' (Krahe IF. 55, 121 f.), also probably originally to root d<sup>h</sup>ē(i)- `suckle'; Lithuanian dēde, dēdis `uncle' (but diēdas `graybeard, old man, elder' from wr. džėd ds.), Old Church Slavic dědbъ `grandfather'; similarly Modern High German deite, teite, Swiss däddi `father, elder', russ. djadja `uncle'.

Note:

Turk. dayi 'uncle' derived from russ. djádja 'uncle' while alb. daja n. f. 'uncle' could have existed before turk. dayi 'uncle', however, alb. cognate is phonetically identical with other cognates: also turk. hala 'paternal aunt' : alb. halla 'paternal aunt', turk. teyze 'maternal aunt' : alb. teze 'maternal aunt'.

References: WP. I 826, Trautmann 47, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 193.

Page(s): 235

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ē-2

Meaning: to put, place, say

Material: Old Indic dádihāti, Avestan daōāiti 'he places', Old pers. Impf. Sg. adadā 'he has installed', Old Indic Aor. á-dhā-m 'I placed', Med. 3. Sg. á-dhita (= gr. ἔθετο); to-participle Old Indic hitá-h (-dhitá-h in ved. compounds) 'set, settled' (= Latin con-ditus, ab-ditus, crēditus, probably also gr. θετός 'sedate, calm, settled, placed, set; having position; taken as one's child, adopted'), with full grade Avestan Old pers. dāta (= Lithuanian dėtas 'sedate, calm, settled', Old Prussian sen-ditans Akk. Pl. f. 'folded', also gr. θητόν βωμόν Hes., actually 'set raised platform, placed stand'); Inf. Old Indic dhā-tum (= Lithuanian dėty Supin., Old Church Slavic děti 'to place': Latin [late] conditus, -ūs m. 'pickled, preserved; of corpses, embalmed; in gen., seasoned, savory', Supin. -um, -ū, compare also Old Indic dhātu-h), m. 'component, set', Avestan vīdātu- n. 'grounds, rationale, steady acquiescence'); io-present Old Indic dhāyatē 'places for oneself' (= Latvian dēju, dēt 'place, lay eggs', dēju dēt 'solder together', Old Church Slavic dějo 'lay, place', Old Czech děju 'make'); Perf. Old Indic dadhāu, dadhimá, Avestan 3. Sg. daōa (: gr. τέθεμαι, Latin -didī, Oscan prú-ffed, Old High German teta etc).

Armenian ed Aor. 'he placed' (= Old Indic á-dhāt, 1. Sg. edī, 2. Sg. ediñ), present dnem 'I place' (**dinem*, Indo Germanic *d<sup>h</sup>ē-no-, compare russ. děnu 'sit, put, lay, place', Serbo-Croatian djènem 'do, put, lay');

Maybe nasalized alb. Geg me ndejt 'to sit, while, stay', ndej 'hang loose, place'

Phrygian εῶαες 'has placed' (**e-d<sup>h</sup>ē-es-t*? rather = Hittite da-a-iš);

gr. τίθημι 'put' (Aor. ἔθηκα - see below -, ἔθεμεν, ἔθετο, Fut.θήσω, participle θετός);

Messapic hi-pa-of 'has placed' (**ghi-po-d<sup>h</sup>ēs-t*, J. B. Hofmann KZ. 63, 267);

Latin abdere 'put away, remove, set aside, stow away', con-dere 'to put together, make by joining, found, establish, build, settle' (in addition Cōnsus [**kom-d-to*] an ancient deity, god of secret plans), perdere 'to make away with, destroy, ruin, squander, dissipate, throw away, waste, lose ', crēdere 'believe, trust' (see below **kēred-* 'heart'); about the interference of dare with respective forms s. WH. I 362; Perf. condidī etc, Oscan prú-ffed 'has placed ' (*-fefed).

Note:

Common italic.-Latin d- > f- shift.

With einer k-extension Latin faciō, -ere, fecī (: ἔθηκα), factum 'to make, form, do, perform; of feelings and circumstances, to cause, bring about ', Oscan fakiiad, Umbrian fačia 'he/she makes, constructs, fashions, frames, builds, produces, composes ', fakurent Fut. II [subjunctive] 'they will have made, constructed, fashioned, framed, erected, produced, composed ', praen. (passionate inscription) FheFhaked 'he/she has made, constructed, fashioned, framed, erected, produced, composed ', Oscan fefacit Konj. Perf. 'let he/she have made, constructed, fashioned, framed, erected, produced, composed ', fefacust Fut. II 'he/she will have made, constructed, fashioned, framed, erected, produced, composed '; with **fēk-* Umbrian feitū, fetu [Imperative] 'he/she will have made, constructed, fashioned, framed, erected, produced, composed ':

facilis ' (feasible) easy to do; easy to manage, convenient, favorable ', Umbrian façefe ds.; faciēs 'shape, form, figure, outward appearance; esp. face, countenance. Transf., character, nature; seeming, pretence ', facinus, ponti-fex, arti-fex bene-ficus; to meaning of interficiō 'to put out of the way, destroy, bring to naught, slay, kill' ('*allow to disappear') compare Old Indic antar-hita-ḥ 'vanished '.

The same k-extension besides in gr. ἔθηκα also in ἑθήκη 'receptacle ', Old Indic dhā-kā-ḥ 'container ' and Phrygian αῖ-δακετ 'afflicts, causes death ', Med. αῖ-δακετορ; Venetic vhaχsθo 'he/she makes, constructs, fashions, frames, builds, erects, produces, composes ' (**fak-s-to*, the f probably from Ital.);

Hittite dak-ki-eš-zi (dakkeszi) 'makes, places down ' (: Latin facessō), dak-šu-ul (daksul) 'friendly' (: Old Latin facul); perhaps Tocharian A tākā 'I was, became', B takāwā ds. (different Pedersen Tocharian 194);

gall. dede 'he/she has placed ' ; compare Latin con-, ab-, crē-didī, Old High German teta 'I made, did'; Old Irish -tarti 'gives, yields ' (**to-ro-ad-dīt* from **d<sup>h</sup>ē-ṭ*), Perf. do-rat (**to-ro-ad-dat* from **d<sup>h</sup>ə-ṭ*), Thurneysen Gr. 35;

Old High German tōm, tuom, Old Saxon tōn, Old English dōm 'do', Inf. Old High German tuon, Old Saxon Old English dōn (*d<sup>h</sup>ō-m) 'do', preterit Old High German teta 'I made, did' (2. Sg. tāti, Pl. tātu-m; reshaped after the type of Gothic sētum), Old Saxon deda (2. Sg. dedōs, 3. Pl. dādun, dedun), Old English dyde < dudi (see above to Old Indic dadhāu); particle Perf. Pass. Old High German gi-tān, Old English dōn 'done' from *d<sup>h</sup>ē-no- = Old Church Slavic o-děnz 'wrapped, dressed'; in the ending of reduced Präter. (Gothic salbō-dēdun etc) one tries to seek mostly the root d<sup>h</sup>ē-, whereas in Gothic kunþa 'granted', must contain the Indo Germanic -t-, to accept an other formation. compare Hirt, Indo Germanic Gr. IV, 99, Sverdrup NTS. 2, 55 ff., Marstrander, NTS. 4, 424 f., Specht KZ. 62, 69 ff., Kretschmer Sbb. Wien, 225. Bd., 2. Abh., 6 f.

Lithuanian dėti 'lay, place, put', present 2. Pl. old deste (*d<sup>h</sup>e-d<sup>h</sup>-te), Sg. demi, desie-s, dest(i) (compare Būga Kalba ir s. 158, 213), neologism dedù, Latvian dēt (see above);

Old Church Slavic děti 'lay, place, say', present deždō (*deđiō) and dějō (see above); dějō, dějati 'lay, place, do'; -va-iterative Old Church Slavic o-děvati '(to put), dress', russ. děvátb 'set down, do, place'; in addition probably Lithuanian dėviù, dėvēti 'wear a dress'; a formant u also in gr. *θoFakoς and (assim.) *θαFakoς, compare θoάζω 'sit, put', Ionian θōkoς (hom. θóωkoς written for θó[F]akoς) 'seat', θάβακον θâkov ἢ θρόνον Hes., Attic also θâkoς ds., hom. θαάσω 'sit', Attic poet. θāσω ds. (see to gr. group Bechtel Lexil. 161 f., Boisacq 335); compare also thrak. -dava 'settling, settlement' from *d<sup>h</sup>ēuā or *d<sup>h</sup>əuā, probably reshuffling after the concurrent *dō-: *dou- 'bestow, give';

Note:

The suffix -dava 'settling, settlement' frequently scattered over the thrak. territory and city names is absent in Illyrian toponyms, hence Illyrian-alb. and trak. were two different people.

Hittite da-a-i (dāi) 'places, lays', 1. Sg. te-eh-ḫi (tehh), 3. Pl. ti-an-zi (Pedersen Hittite 91, 112 f., 166), preterit 3. Sg. da-a-iš, perhaps also dak-ki-eš-zi (see above);

Hittite: dai-, tai- (II) 'place, lay, put', tija- (I) 'step, tread, be positioned', tittanu- (I) 'put, place', zikk- (I) 'lay, place' (Friedrich 202-203, 223-225, 260-261)

Hittite: te- (I) 'say' (Friedrich 219-220) : Old Church Slavic děti 'lay, place, say'

Tocharian A tā-, tās-, tas-, B tes- 'lay, place' (**dhē-s-* Pedersen Tocharian 186 f.);

Tocharian B tättā- 'to place, set' (Adams 283 f)

Lycian ta- 'lay, place' (Pedersen. Lycian and Hittite 30 f.).

Root nouns (in compositions): e.g. Old Indic vayō-dhā-h 'imparting vitality', saṁ-dhā f. 'pact, agreement, promise' (: Lithuanian arklī-dė 'stable'), saṁ-dh-ā-m 'association' (: Lithuanian sam-das), ratna-dh-ā-h 'imparting treasure', nī-dh-ī-h m. 'container, treasure, tribute', saṁ-dh-ī-h m. 'association, covenant, fusion', Avestan gao-δi- 'milk container'; Lithuanian samdas 'rent, rental', iñdas 'vessel', nuodaĩ 'poison', (old) núodžia 'debt, blame, offense', pādis 'the hen lays an egg';

Old Prussian umnode 'bakehouse', Lithuanian pelùdė, Latvian pelude 'chaff container', Old Church Slavic obb-do n. 'θησαυρός', sq-dz 'κρίσις, κρίμα'; compare Berneker 193 ff., Trautmann 47 f.; if so also Old Icelandic oddr, Old English ord, Old High German ort 'cusp, peak' as **ud-d<sup>h</sup>o-s* 'pointed up'?

nominal formation:

Old Indic dhātar- m. 'instigator, founder', dhātár- 'creator, god' (compare also Old Church Slavic dětelb 'perpetrator'), gr. θετήρ, Latin con-ditor 'a founder; hence, in gen., contriver, composer, author';

compare **dhə-tlo-* in Old Irish dāl, acymr. datl, ncymr. dadl, abret. dadl 'congregation, meeting', nbret. dael 'contest, quarrel' (compare to meaning Phrygian δουμος);

**dhə-ti-* in Old Indic -dhiti-h f. 'stead', dēvá-hiti-h 'God's statute', gr. θέσις f. 'statute, order', Latin con-diti-ō f. 'an agreement, stipulation, condition, compact, proposition, terms, demand'; **dhē-ti-s* in Avestan nī-δāiti- f. 'laying down, putting away, hiding', Gothic gadēds 'deed, position, place', Old Icelandic dāð 'skillfulness, deed, act', Old English dæd, Old High German tāt 'deed, act', Lithuanian dėtis 'load, burden', Pl. détys 'lay of the chicken, the goose', Old Church Slavic blago-dětb 'Grace, blessing, gratitude'; **dhə-t-* in thrak. PN Δάτος, alb. dhatë (**dhə-tā*) 'site'; **dhō-t-* in Avestan dami-dā-t 'the created creature', Latin sacer-dōs 'a priest, priestess' (**sacro-d<sup>h</sup>ōt-s*).

Old Indic dhāna-m 'container', el. συνθήναι (?) 'pact, covenant', Old High German participle gītān, Old English dōn 'done', Old Church Slavic o-děnb '(completed), vested'; Old Indic dhāna-m 'sacrifice, offering, price in competition etc', nidhānam 'layover, stay, inhabitation etc', gōdhana-m 'cattle possession', Avestan gao-δana- n. 'milk container'.

Old Indic dhāman- n. `statute, law, dwelling, troop, multitude, crowd etc', Avestan dāman-, dāman- n. `site, creature', gr. ἀνά-θημα `anything devoted to evil, an accursed thing', ἐπί-θημα `something put on, a lid, cover; statue on a grave', θημῶν m. `heap'; εὐθήμων `probably keeping tidy, keeping in order'; thrak. plant name κοα-δάμα ποταμογεΐτων (Dioskor.) (from **k<sup>w</sup>a-d<sup>h</sup>ēm̥*) `water settlement', PN Uscu-dama; secondary (after θέσις) gr. θέμα n. `that which is placed or laid down: money deposited, deposit; also, of grain; treasure, pile, of loaves, coffer, position, situation, nativity, common burial-place, common land, private burial-ground, something proposed as a prize, case proposed for discussion, theme of an argument, proposition, premise, arbitrary determination, primary (non-derivative) element or form, of the present tense, mode of reduction of an irregular syllogism', compare also Inf. θέμεναι; Avestan dāmi- f. `creation', Adj. (also fem.) `constituting, originating, creator, god'; gr. θέμις `that which is laid down or established by custom', Gen. originally θέμιστος `*allowed by the laws of God and men, righteous' as Goddess's name, then `right, law, custom', θέμεθλα Pl. `the foundation of a building; the innermost, core', θεμέλιοι λίθοι `the foundation-stones', hom. θεμέλια (ει metr. lengthening) `the foundations, lowest part, bottom, ground';

Alb. themel `the foundation of a building; the innermost, core': hom. θεμέλια (ει metr. lengthening) `foundation, ground' [probably a loanword]; themēn `heel, bottom of the foot'.

zero grade: θαμά `*massed; frequent, often', θαμινός `frequent, often, massed', hom. θαμέες, femin. θαμειαί Pl. `the piled up, tightly packed, crowded, close-set, thick' (from **θαμός*), θάμνος `thicket, shrubbery, bush, shrub'; in a **d<sup>h</sup>ə-mo-* `settlement, branch, dwelling' (compare θαιμός οἰκία, σπόρος, φυτεία Hes. [**d<sup>h</sup>əmjō-*], also Old Indic dhāman- `dwelling') or `heap, troop, multitude, crowd (the servant)' correlates one perhaps rightly also with Latin famulus `a servant, a male slave, attendant', familia `a household (of slaves), establishment', Oscan famel `a servant, a male slave, attendant', famelo `a household (of slaves), establishment', Umbrian fameñias `a household (of slaves), establishment';

Note:

Common Latin d- > f- shift

ō-grade gr. θωμός `heap, barn, haystack'; Phrygian δουμος `an assembly, meeting, congress, a living together', Latin ab-dōmen `lower abdomen' as `intimate, hidden, secret part', compare Old High German intuoma `the chief internal organs of the body, significant organs' (would be Latin **indōmen*), Middle Low German ingedōme, bayr. ingetum ds., Gothic dōms m. `judgement, fame' (dōmjan `adjudicate'; from dem Germanic russ. dúma `thought, notion, care; council meeting ' etc, s. Berneker 237), Old English dōm `opinion, sense, mind, judgement, court', Old High German tuom `judgement, feat, deed, act, custom, state, status', Lithuanian domė, domesys `attention, directing of the thought and will on something ', also Lithuanian dėmė `spot upon which attention is directed ' etc, dėmėtis = domėtis `wonder, care, concern, follow, go, take interest '.

Old Icelandic dæll `easy to do, easy, without difficulty ' ( **dʰē-li-s*); compare Proto Norse dalidun `they did ' (preterit of Germanic **dēlian*), Lithuanian pa-dėlys `nest-egg (the hen lays an egg) ', priedėlė, priedėlis `inclosure ', Old Bulgarian dělo n. `work', wherefore (see Berneker 195 f., Trautmann 48) Old Church Slavic dělja, děljbma m. Gen. `because of', Lithuanian dėl, dėl, dėliai, Latvian dēl with Gen. `because of, for the sake of'.

Maybe from Slavic ne `not' + Old Church Slavic: dělo `work, matter' = Bulgarian неделя (nedel'a), Serbian nedelja, Czech neděle, Polish niedziela `Sunday, holiday = no work' : Lithuanian: dėlioti `put down, away' : Albanian djelë `Sunday, holiday'.

An occasional formation compare still gr. τεθμός (Pind.), θεθμός (Iak. etc), θεσμός (Attic) `statute ' after Thurneysen (KZ. 51, 57) to Old Irish dedm, cymr. deddf (**dʰe-dʰ-mā*) ds. (different Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 492<sup>12</sup>); θωή, Attic θωά: `punishment '. Very doubtful a s-extension would be attributed to Old Icelandic des (**dasjō*) `hay stick, hay rick ' (loanword from dem Old Irish?), Old Irish dais (**dastí*) `heap, hay rick', wherewith E. Lewy (KZ. 52, 310) compares rather osset. dasun `pile up, lump'.

References: WP. I 826 ff., WH. I 266, 362 f., 439 ff., 863, Trautmann 47 ff., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 492, 686, 722, 725, 741, Pedersen Hittite 141 ff., 192.

Page(s): 235-239

---

Root / lemma: dʰē-3, dʰe-

Meaning: to disappear

Material: Latin famēs f. `hunger', ad fatim, affatim `ad lassitudinem, zur Genüge', fatīgō `hetze ab, ermüde', fatiscō, -or `gehe auseinander; ermatte';

Note: common Latin d- > f-shift

Old Irish ded- (present ru-deda, Fut. Plur. dedaít, preterit con-ro-deda) `vanish, pass away, die away, disappear, dwindle, waste away, melt, decay '; Old English dem `damage' (**dʰe-mi-s*); with -s Old Norse dāsi `idle' (Germanic **dās-*), Middle High German dāsic `still, uncommunicative, stupid', changing through ablaut Norwegian dial. dase `flabby person', Danish dase `be decayed`; Old Norse dæsa(sk) `swelter, decay`, dasask `go bad, get worse`; Middle English dasen `stun` (engl. daze), dasewen `be dark`.

In all parts some dubious connections. About Old Irish de-d(a). compare Pedersen KG. II 504 f.(from Perf. **d<sup>h</sup>e-doue* from to Gothic diwans `perishable`? s. d<sup>h</sup>eu- `disappear`, where also about Old Irish dīth, Armenian dī). The Germanic family finally reminds partly under **d<sup>h</sup>eues-* `whisk` discussed from nnd. dösige and have been directed partly after this not only in the s-extension, but also in the meaning itself; at least, is to be reckoned on an old relationship from Old Norse dāesask etc. and Irish -deda.

References: WP. I 829, WH. I 451.

Page(s): 239

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ēs-, d<sup>h</sup>es-

Meaning: a root used in religious terms

Material: Armenian di-k `gods` (PL **d<sup>h</sup>ēses*);

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift

Latin fēriae (Old Latin fēsiae) `days of rest, holidays, festivals`, fēstus `of holidays, festive, festal, solemn, joyful, merry, originally from the religious celebration to devoted days`, Oscan fīisnam Akk. `an open place for observation, place marked off by the augur's staff`, Umbrian fesnaf-e `in a shrine, sanctuary, temple`; zero grade Latin fānum (**fas-no-m*) `a shrine, sanctuary, temple` and Old Indic dhiṣṇya- `devout, godly, pious, holy` (insecure dhiṣanyant-, see below d<sup>h</sup>eṣ- `see`); about gr. θεός `god` see below d<sup>h</sup>eues-, about Latin fās, fāstus above S. 105 f.

References: WP. I 867, WH. I 453, 3 f.; EM<sup>2</sup> 333, 347 f.

Page(s): 259

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>las- or d<sup>h</sup>elB- (: d<sup>h</sup>ls-)

Meaning: to squeeze, press

Material: Old Indic dhṛṣád- `millstone`;

gr. θλάω `squeeze, crush` (Indo Germanic **d<sup>h</sup>las-ō* or **d<sup>h</sup>ls-ō*), ἐθλάσθην, θλαστός;

Czech dlasmati `press` (**d<sup>h</sup>lās-mo-* or **d<sup>h</sup>ols-mo-*);

φλάω `θλάω` is hybridization of θλάω with φλῖβω, as on the other hand φλῖβω through hybridization with θλάω is also transfigured to θλῖβω.

References: WP. I 877, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 676.

Page(s): 271

---

Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>/gh-

Meaning: debt

Material: Old Irish dligim 'be entitled to, earn', mcymr. dlŷu, with epenthetic vowel dylyu 'withheld, kept back', corn. dyll ds., Middle Breton dellit ds., Old Irish dliged n. 'obligation, law, right' (*dh<sub>h</sub>/ghito-m), cymr. dled, dyled, me. d(y)lyet f. 'obligation', besides dlit 'earnings' (*dh<sub>h</sub>/ghitā); Gothic dulgs 'debt' (in money); Old Church Slavonic dlъgъ 'debt', russ. dolg, Serbo-Croatian dûg (Gen. dûga), poln. dług, Czech dluh ds.

Gothic dulgs and the Slavic words have probably common origin.

References: WP. I 868, Trautmann 55.

Page(s): 271-272

---

Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>ō[u]- : dh<sub>h</sub>ū-

Meaning: rope

Material: Gr. θῶμι(γ)ξ, -ίγος f. 'rope, cord, band, strap, string of the bow' (places ahead *θω-μο- or -μῶ);

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift

Latin fūnis 'a rope, sheet, line, cord'; ablaut ō[u]-: ū-, if Latin ū not at most dial. development from ō; after J. Duchesne-Guillemin (BSL. 41, 178) ostensibly here Tocharian AB tsu-, B tsaw 'to unite' (??).

References: WP. I 868, WH. 567 f. compare also Petersson Heterokl. 169 f.

Page(s): 272

---

Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>ō-

Meaning: to sharpen

Material: Old Indic dhārā 'cutting edge, sharpness, blade', Avestan dārā f. ds., tižidāra- 'with sharp edge', gr. θοός 'sharp, sharp', ἐθόωσα 'I sharpened, sharpen' (*θo-Fός uo- participle, as e.g. *δα-Fός 'sliced' in δαῖζω; for *dh<sub>h</sub>ə- to o compare δοτός: δω-).

from here due to *dh<sub>h</sub>ə-ro- 'pointed' (: Old Indic dhā-rā) also Old English daroð m. 'spit, pike, spear, lance', Old High German tart m. 'spit, pike', Old Norse darrað-r m., darr n. 'spit, pike'? And at most in addition as 'wound with a pike' further the Germanic family of Old Saxon Old English derian 'injure, hurt', Old High German terren besides tarōn, -ēn 'harm, injure', Old English daru f. 'damage, pity, injury', Old High German tara f. 'injury'?

References: WP. I 867 f.

Page(s): 272

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>reb-

Meaning: to crush, grind

Material: Gothic gadraban 'cut out, λατομεῖν'; Old Norse draf n., Old English dræf n. 'offal', Old Norse drafna 'separate in small parts', blōp-drefjar m. 'bloodstain';

Old Church Slavic drobljǫ, drobiti 'crush, break, rupture, grind', russ. drob f. 'break, piece, fragment', russ.-Church Slavic drobьnъ, Bulgarian dróben 'small, little', next to which with ablaut e: Bulgarian drében ds., dréb 'secession of wool, by rippling the flax; liver', russ. drébezg 'shards, debris'; Fick BB. 2, 199, Berneker 225-226 (m. further Lithuanian).

With Gothic hlaiw, Patei was gadraban us staina compares Hoffmann BB. 18, 288 τράφος τάφος Hes., so that the application of our root to 'quarrying out of stones' would be old.

A similar to root d<sup>h</sup>reb- in:

Old Norse drepa 'prick, bump, poke, slay', Old English drepan 'slay, meet', Middle Low German drepen 'meet, fight', Old High German treffan 'meet, touch', Old Norse drepa n. 'blow, knock', Old English gedrep ds., Middle High German tref m. n. 'prank, blow, club, meeting', Old English drepe m. (**drapt*) 'manslaughter', Old Norse drāp n. ds.; presumably as kvæði drepit stefjum: Old Norse drāpa f. 'one from several distinguished parts of existing poem by sog. stef, usually a praise song'.

References: WP. I 875 f.

Page(s): 272-273

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>reg-1

Meaning: to run

Material: Armenian durn, Gen. drgan 'potter's wheel' (after Meillet BSL. 36, 122 from *d<sup>h</sup>rg-);

gr. τρέχω (Doric τράχω), Fut. ἀποθρέξομαι, θρέξω 'run', τροχός (: Old Irish droch) 'wheel', τρόχος 'run', τρόχισ 'runner, summoner', τροχίλος 'sandpiper'; barely τράχηλος 'nape, neck' ?? Pedersen IF. 5, 56, Zup. KZ. 36, 57;

Old Irish droch 'wheel' (**drogo-n*);

It shows in palatal whereas Latvian drāžu, drāzu, drāzt 'quick, fast run', Lithuanian padrōžti ds., but to say the least could be considered just as well as a variant in palatal besides d<sup>h</sup>erāgh- 'pull, drag'. Yet are likewise Lithuanian (pa)drōžti as also Latvian drāzt 'run quickly, fast' identical with Lithuanian drōžti, Latvian drāzt 'carve' (see d<sup>h</sup>reġ-). The primary meaning is 'carve'. All numerous other interpretations are to be explained by casual use.

References: WP. I 874 f.

Page(s): 273

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>regh-2

Meaning: to pain, to suffer

Material: Old Indic drāghatē (Dhatup.) 'afflicts, plagues, strives itself'; osset. äw-därzin 'stir, tease, irritate' (E. Lewy KZ. 52, 306);

Old English dracu f. 'plague, agony', dreccan 'stir, tease, irritate, plague' (? with expressive k?);

Old Church Slavic raz-dražq, -dražiti 'enrage, irritate', serb. drâžīm, drâžiti 'stir, tease, irritate';

Maybe alb. trazonj 'stir, tease, irritate'.

ein nī-abstract noun **dražnъ* 'irritation' lies russ. draznítъ 'stir, tease, irritate, banter' the basic, z instead of ž after the synonymous forms -znъ.

Also a root *d<sup>h</sup>rāgh- or *d<sup>h</sup>rēgh-: *d<sup>h</sup>rōgh-: *d<sup>h</sup>rəgh- wäre möglich.

References: WP. 1 875.

Page(s): 273-274

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>reġ-

Meaning: to pull

Note: synonymous with trāgh- (see there)

Material: Old Indic dhrájati `glides, slides there', prá-dhrajati `hurries', dhrájas- n., dhrajati- f. `the pranks, pull', dhrāji- perhaps `attraction', dhrāji-, dhrājí- f. `pull, urge, desire';

Old Norse drākf. `stripe' (: Old Indic drāji-); nasalized in addition perhaps Gothic drigkan, Old Icelandic drekka, Old English drincan, Old High German trinkan `drink' (`make a good gulp, draw from drinking-vessel');

Maybe alb. dreka, dreke `dinner', darkë (**drakë*) `supper'

Lithuanian drežóti `smooth down', dryžas, druožė `streaky', also (?) Lithuanian drėžiu, -ti `rend', nudrėžti `pull down, destroy' (Juškevič 346); in addition probably dróžti `carve, hit, gehen' etc, Latvian drāzt ds.; see below dregh-1;

Latvian dragāt `pull' against it presumably to Middle Dutch trecken `pull, drag', s. der-4 (dergh-, dreg-) `flay' and Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 488 m. Lithuanian

References: WP. I 874.

Page(s): 273

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>reibh-

Meaning: to drive, to push

Material: Gothic dreiban `drive, push, bump, poke', Old Norse drīfa `come pulling, pull, drag, stream' etc, Old English drīfan `drive, push, hunt, chase, overthrow', Old Saxon drīban `be moved, dispelled', Old High German trīban `beat, strike, knock, push, drive, hurl, impel, propel, expel' (zero grade schw. Verb tribōn `set in violent motion, drive onward, move, impel, urge', uolatribōn `thrust through, pierce through, transfix'); Old Norse drift f. `drive, impel, drift, propel, push, thrust, snowdrift', drif n. `what floats through the air, snowfall', Old English drif n. `drive, impel, drift, propel, push, thrust, the driven', drāff. `drive, impel, drift, propel, push, thrust, drift, herd', Middle High German trift ds., Modern High German Trift `pasture, herd';

Lithuanian drimbù, dribti `laggard, clodhopper, lubber, looby, hobbledehoy, lummox, squab, dub, lug', sniėgas drim̃ba `the snow falls thickly' (= Old Norse pā drīfr snæ̃r); from drib-, to which could belong likewise the i- as the e- series, the transfer has occurred in the e- series: drebiù, drėbti `pour, make stains with viscous liquid'.

References: WP. I 872, 876, Wissmann Nom. postverb. 68 f., Specht KZ. 68, 41.

Page(s): 274

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>reugh-1

Meaning: to tremble, shake

Material: Old English dryge 'dry' etc, see above S. 254 f. under dhereugh-;

Lithuanian drugys 'fever; butterfly', Latvian drudzis 'cold fever; fever', drudzināt 'neigh after fodder' ('*to shake'), perhaps Old Prussian drogis 'reed' (if for drugis, s. Trautmann Old Prussian 323 m. Lithuanian, Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 502); perhaps Latvian drugt 'collapse, diminish', Berneker 231 between; s. also under S. 279; poln. drzę, drzec 'tremble', old also 'have a fever', drgać, perf. drgnąć 'tremble, quiver; flounder, twitch', russ. drožú, -átb, perf. drógnutb 'tremble, quiver' (etc, s. Berneker 231). Dissyllabic root form *dh<sup>h</sup>ereugh- or *dh<sup>h</sup>ereug- one supposes in gr. τοιθορύσσειν σείειν Hes., τοιθορύκτρια ή τοὺς σεισμοὺς ποιοῦσα Hes. and τανθαρούζω, τανθαλύζω ds. Hes.

Maybe alb. Geg (*dh<sup>h</sup>ereugh-) dredh 'tremble, twist', dridhem 'tremble, quiver, have a fever' [common alb. -gh- > -dh-].

References: WP. I 873 f., Berneker 231.

Page(s): 275

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>reugh-2

Meaning: to deceive, harm

Material: Old Indic drúhyati 'seeks to harm, harms' (Fut. dhrōkṣyāti, participle drugdhá-); common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

Old pers. Imperf. adurujiya (= Old Indic adruhyat) 'lied', Avestan družaiti 'lies, cheats', Old Indic drógha-, drōha- m. 'insult, damage, betrayal', Avestan draoga- 'fallacious', m. 'lie, falsity, deception', Old pers. drauga- 'fallacious', Old Indic drúh- 'injuring', f. 'damage, fiend, ghost', m. 'fiend, demon', Avestan drūj- f. 'lie, falsity, deception; impersonating the lie, falsity';

Middle Irish aur-ddrach (after the sounds from **druag* = Old Indic drōgha-) 'ghost';

Old Saxon bidriogan, Old High German triogan 'deceive', Old Norse draugr m. 'ghost'; zero grade Old Saxon gidrog n. 'delusion', Middle Dutch gedroch ds., Old High German gitrog n. 'deceit, devilish phantasmagoria'; Old Norse draumr, Old High German troum, Old Saxon drōm, engl. dream 'dream' (Germanic **ðrau(y)ma-* 'delusion').

Indo Germanic d<sup>h</sup>reugh- is very probably related with d<sup>h</sup>uer- 'bring to trap through deception', while to zero grade **d<sup>h</sup>ru-gh-* from **d<sup>h</sup>ur-gh-* adjusted itself to a new zero grade Indo Germanic **d<sup>h</sup>reugh-*, **d<sup>h</sup>rough-*. With the extending gh would be identical with Modern High German Zwerg, if this word not goe back to a miscellaneous Indo Germanic d<sup>h</sup>uergh- 'dwarfish, crippled' (see there).

References: WP. I 874.

Page(s): 276

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>reu-

Meaning: to crumble, grind

Note: with it are probably linked from intransitive 'crumble' explicable words for 'tumble, fall down, trickle down'

Material: 1. d<sup>h</sup>reus-, d<sup>h</sup>rēu-s-:

Gr. θραύω (τέθραυσμαι, ἐθραύσθην) 'rupture, crunch', θραυστός, θραυλός (*θραυσ-λός), θραῦρος (Hes.) 'frail, breakable', θραῦμα, θραῦσμα 'piece, fragment, wound', θρᾶνύσσω (Lycian), συντεθρᾶνῶται (Eur.) 'shatter' (point at *θραυ[σ]-ανός, s. Boisacq s. v. m. Lithuanian); θρῦλίχθη (Hom.), θρῦλίξας (Lycian) 'break, rupture, shatter', θρῦλεῖ τaráσσει ὀχλεῖ Hes. (*θρῦλος from *θρῦσ-λο-; gr. -αυ- and -υ- are to be interpreted as zero grade and lengthened grade of d<sup>h</sup>rēus-, next to which d<sup>h</sup>reus-; s. Bechtel KZ. 46, 164); cymr. dryll 'piece, fragment' (**d<sup>h</sup>rus-lio-*), gallorom. Pl. drullia 'dross' (Kleinhans bei Wartburg III 163);

Gothic drauhsnōs f. Pl. 'gobbet, crumbs'; probably as metathesis from **d<sup>h</sup>rūs-kna* with nearest connectable Baltic druska; interference to Modern High German trocken, Old English drēahnian - s. d<sup>h</sup>er-2, d<sup>h</sup>reugh- 'hold, stop' - respective words would permit to look at most at both traditional forms as really spoken; but compare besides Gothic drausnōs ds.;

Gothic driusan 'fall, tumble, fall down', Old Saxon driosan, Old English drēosan 'fall', norw dial. drysia 'trickle down'; Kaus. Gothic gadrausjan 'prostrate', Old High German trōren 'drip, trickle, make drip, moult'; in addition as 'collapse, bend' with lautsymbolisch gedehnter zero grade: Old English drūsian 'be sluggish (from age)', engl. drowse 'be sleepy'; Old High German trūrēn 'be knocked down, mourn; lower the eyes', Middle High German trūrec 'sad'; Old English changing through ablaut drēorig 'grieving'; Old Norse dreyri m. (**drauzan-*) 'the blood dripping from the wound', Old Saxon drōr m. 'blood' (Old English changing through ablaut drēor m. ds.), Middle High German trōr m. `dew, rain, blood`;

Latvian druska `crumb`, Lithuanian druskà `salt` (*crumb), Old Prussian druskins `earwax` (consigns dmskins); in addition Balto Slavic **druzga* `small piece` in Lithuanian drūzgas ds., sloven. drūzgatī `crush`, etc

Labial extensions:

dh<sup>h</sup>reubh-: gr. θρύπτω (ἐτρύφην) `grind, crumb, spall, crumble; enfeeble, soften, make fragile`, θρύμμα and τρύφος n. `piece, fragment`, τρυφή `softness, luxuriance`, τρυφερός `mushy, softish, delicate, mollycoddle` (see also Boisacq s. v. θρύπτω);

Latvian drubaža `Trumm`, drubazas `splinter of wood`.

dh<sup>h</sup>reup-: Old Saxon drūbōn, drūvōn `be grieving`; Latvian drupu, drupt `zerfallen, in Trümmer gehen`, draûpīt `crumb, spall, crumble`; compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 505.

dh<sup>h</sup>reub-: Old Norse driūpa, Old Saxon driopan, Old English drēopan, Old High German triofan `drip, drop`, o-grade schw. Verb, Old English drēapian `drip, trickle down`, e-grade drēopian ds., Old Norse drūpa (*-ēn) `überhängen, droop down, bend down`, Old Norse dropi m. `drip`, Old English dropa, Old Saxon dropo ds.; Intens. Old English dryppan, droppian, Old High German tropfōn `drip`, tropfo `drip`; Old Icelandic dreypa, Old English dríepan `drip, trickle`;

Old Irish drucht `drip` (*dh<sup>h</sup>ruptu-s).

References: WP. I 872 f., WH. I 553 f., Wissmann Nom. postverb. 21, 104, 136, 140 f., 182, Trautmann 61 f., Kluge<sup>11</sup> s. v. Trauer.

Page(s): 274-275

---

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>riġh- (or dh<sup>h</sup>reikh-)

Meaning: hair, bristle

Note:

Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>riġh- (or dh<sup>h</sup>reikh-) : `hair, bristle` derived from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>ereġh- (dh<sup>h</sup>riġh-nā-) : `to wind, turn, *release, discharge, disband`.

Material: Gr. θρίξ, τριχός f. `hair, bristle`, therefrom θρίσσα, Attic θρίττα f. `a fish with fine fishbone`, τριχίας, τριχίς ds.;

Maybe alb. drizë `blackthorn, sloe` : gr. θρίξ f. `hair, bristle` : Old Irish driss `blackthorn`.

Middle Irish gairb-driuch (**drigu-* or **driku-*) 'bristle' (garb 'rough'); from gr. θρίσσα derives probably Italian-lombard. trissa 'burbot'; out of it probably likewise Swiss Trische (11. Jh. trisca); whether Balto Slavic **draika-* 'stretched long' as **d<sup>h</sup>roiko-* here belongs, also Lithuanian driėkti 'distend, take off (a thread)', drykti 'hang down in long threads', slovak. driek m. 'stem', driečny 'stocky', Old Bulgarian drъkolъ 'shaft, pole', etc, could our root be placed as **d<sup>h</sup>reikh-*.

Maybe alb. (**d<sup>h</sup>reikh*) derth, derdh 'hang down, pour', (**d<sup>h</sup>reikh*) dreth, dredh 'twist, curl (hair)', dredhë 'lock, curled hair' common alb. -k > -th.

References: WP. I 876, Jud BullGIPat. Suisse Rom. 11, 82, Trautmann 58 f., Berneker 223, 232.

Page(s): 276

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>rono-

Meaning: multicoloured

Material: For gr. θρόνα Pl. 'flower decorations in garments (by alexandrin. poets for φάρμακα, charm, spell, sorcery, necessitated medicinal herbs), colored garments, colored animals' infer Hoffmann BB. 15, 86, Lidén Stud. 67 f. a basic meaning 'varicolored'. Under these basic meaning compares Lidén aaO. alb. drē-ri, Geg drē-ni m. 'deer' (Animals like the deer and roe are named often as 'dappled, varicolored'), therefore an Illyrian basic form **drani-* (Indo Germanic d<sup>h</sup>roni-) through the probable Illyrian Hesych explanation ἀρανίς ἑλάφος (Λ- recommended for Δ-) is advisable.

Stokes Mél. Kern [RC 24, 217] supposed for θρόνα 'embroidery' because of Middle Irish druine ds.

References: WP. I 876 f., WH. I 374.

Page(s): 276-277

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ug(h)eter-

Meaning: daughter, *thin girl

Note: guttural as with eg(h)om 'I', see there.

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>ug(h)eter- : 'daughter' derived from d<sup>h</sup>-suffixed root: d<sup>h</sup>eu- d<sup>h</sup>- 'shake, confuse' of Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>eu-4, d<sup>h</sup>euē- (: d<sup>h</sup>uē-), d<sup>h</sup>uē-k-, d<sup>h</sup>uē-s-) : 'to reel, dissipate, blow, etc.' earlier Root / lemma: deuk- : 'to drag, pull, attract'.

Material:

Maybe from **d<sup>h</sup>uēd<sup>h</sup>-*: East Frisian dwatje 'stupid girl', dwatsk 'simple, unusual', Jütsch dvot 'suffering of dizziness'

Note:

meaning Latin alb. Geg (**vargha*) varza, tosk vajë 'girl, virgin': Latin virga 'thin branch, rod' (from **uiz-gā*), virgō 'girl, virgin';

Root / lemma: uer-3. E. uer-gh- (**suergh<sup>h</sup>-*): 'to turn, press, strangle' < [common Latin Germanic -s- > -r-] of Root / lemma: ueis-2: 'to turn, bend'.

Old Indic duhitār- (duhitā), Avestan dugədar-, duyδar- (from **dug<sup>h</sup>ter-*), npers. duxtar, duxt, Armenian (with s from k after u) dustr, Gen. dster, (dowstr)
gr. θυγάτηρ (shift of stress as in μήτηρ, but still θυγατέρα as μητέρα), Oscan futír, Dat. fu(u)treí (Vetter Gl. 29, 242);

Maybe Luvian tuwatar-: Lycian cbatru, kbatra: Tocharian A ckācar, B tkācer 'daughter'.
Gothic daúhtar, Old Norse dōttir (Runic Nom. Pl. dohtriR), Old High German tohter, Lithuanian duktė, -eš, Old Prussian dukti, Old Church Slav. dъšti, -ere, Tocharian A ckācar, B tkācer 'daughter'.

Note:

Old Church Slav. dъšti 'daughter' [f r], dъštere [Gens]

Russian: doč' 'daughter' [f r], dóčeri [Gens]

Old Czech: dci 'daughter' [f r], dceře [Gens]

Serbo-Croatian: kćī 'daughter' [f r], kćé'ri [Gens]; šćī 'daughter' [f r], šćéra [Gens]

Slovene: hčī 'daughter' [f r], hčére [Gens]; hčī 'daughter' [f r], hčēre [Gens]

Alb. Tosc (**hoc*) gocë 'daughter', Geg cucë 'daughter'.

References: WP. I 868, WH. I 557.

Page(s): 277

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>uēn-, d<sup>h</sup>un-

Meaning: to hum

Material: Old Indic dhvānati 'sounds, sighs', dhvaní- m. 'sound, echo, thunder, word', dhvaná- m. 'sound, a certain wind', dhvanita- n. 'sound, tone, echo, thunder', dhúni- 'soughing, roaring, thundering', dhunáyati 'soughs';

Old Norse dynr m. 'resonance', Old English dyne n. ds., engl. din, Old High German tuni ds.; Old Norse dynia (preterit dunda) 'din, drone, rant, roister', Old English dynnan, Old Saxon dunnian Middle High German tünen 'din, drone'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Germanic extensions therefrom seem Old Norse dynkr 'din, fuss, noise, blow, knock', Middle English dunchen, engl. dunch 'strike with a short rapid blow, jog with the elbow' and nld. dunsen 'din, drone, stomp', Swedish dial. dunsa 'crack, creak, hit'.

Interference of new sound imitations (onomatopoeic words) comes for Germanic words just as for Lithuanian dundėti 'violent knock, hit, din, drone' in question.

References: WP. I 869.

Page(s): 277

---

Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>uer-, dh<sub>h</sub>uerə-

Meaning: to ruin by deceiving

Note: (: dh<sub>h</sub>ur- : dh<sub>h</sub>ru-)

Material: Old Indic dhvāratī 'damages', participle dhrutá-, -dhrut (and -dhvṛt), dhṛúti- f. 'deception, seduction', **dh<sub>h</sub>vará-* 'deceiving' in dhvarás- f. (Nom. -āḥ) 'a kind of female daemon'; dhūrvati 'brings down through deception, damages' (zero grade of a heavy basis dh<sub>h</sub>uerə-), dhūrta-ḥ 'deceitful', m. 'cheater', dhūrti- f. 'deceitful injury, damage';

Latin fraus, -dis f. 'deceit, cunning deception, damage, punishment', frausus sum (Plaut), Umbrian frosetom 'cheated, beguiled, defrauded, robbed', Latin frūstra (newer frūstrā) 'in deception, in error, in vain', therefrom frūstror, -āri 'deceive, cheat' belong probably as d-extension our root here (see above under dh<sub>h</sub>reugh-); unclear is only a (popular saying? EM 382; incredible WH. I 543);

Note: common Latin d- > f- shift

here probably Hittite du-wa-ar-na-aḥ-ḫu-un (dwarnahḫun?) 'I broke'.

References: WP. I 869 f., 874, WH. I 543 f.

Page(s): 277

---

Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>uergh- : drugh-

Meaning: low (in stature), crippled

Material: Bartholomae IF. 12, 131 Anm. connects Avestan drva- (i.e. druyva-), which is reckoned under other names of physical ailments and perhaps stands for 'dwarfish, crippled', with Old Norse dvergr, Old English dweorg, engl. dwarf, Middle Low German dwerch, nnd. dwarf, Old High German *twer*c, Middle High German *twer*c, -ges, Modern High German Zwerg, wherefore zero grade **durgī* in Old Norse dyrgja 'dwarf, midget', nnd. dorf, after Krogmann (KZ. 62, 143) in addition Latvian drugt 'sink down' (see above d<sup>h</sup>reugh-1).

Otherwise for Germanic the interpretation would derive as 'creature of deception' with regard to Old Indic dhvarás- 'a kind of female daemon', root d<sup>h</sup>uer- 'bring down through deception'; it could have derived from d<sup>h</sup>uer- then with the same -gh, which agrees also with the root form d<sup>h</sup>reu-gh- (d<sup>h</sup>uer-gh- : d<sup>h</sup>urgh- : d<sup>h</sup>rugh-, d<sup>h</sup>reugh-); also latter deriving from appellation for puckish creature of deception.

References: WP. I 871 f.

Page(s): 279

---

Root / lemma: d<sup>h</sup>uēr-, d<sup>h</sup>uōr-, d<sup>h</sup>ur-, d<sup>h</sup>ur-

Meaning: door

Note: besides this conservative stem, the proto form of plural and dual of such a measure (see below), would probably fit to a certain degree already proto forms -o- and -ā- extensions partly with to supposed collective meaning, partly (as neuter) in the position as 2. composition parts.

Material: Old Indic Nom. Pl. dvārah, Akk. Pl. duráh, dúrah, Nom. Du. dvārā(u) 'door' (loss of Aspiration originally in den b<sup>h</sup>-case through influence of dvāu 'two'), durōṇā- n.

'dwelling, homeland' (-no-derivative of Lok. Du. Aryan **d<sup>h</sup>urāu*); o-stem dvāram n. (new)

'door' in compounds śatādura- n. 'secretive place with 100 doors'; Avestan Akk. Sg.

dvareṃ, Lok. dvare 'gate, courtyard', Old pers. duvarayā 'at the gate';

Armenian Pl. dur-k, Akk. z-durs (*-ps) 'door', i durs 'out of doors, forth, out, outside', Sg. duṛn, Gen. dran 'door, gate, courtyard' (n-Dekl. derive from Akk. Sg. in -m), dr-and 'doorpost, doorsill' (*d<sup>h</sup>ur + **anētā*, see there);

gr. presumably from conservative stem still θύρδα ἔξω 'Ἀρκάδες Hes.; θύραζε 'out through the doors, out of doors, forth, out' (i.e. θύρασ-δε, either Old Indic duraḥ, Armenian durs or from ā-stem θύρᾱ, so that from -āvς about -āvς), as 1. composition part perhaps θυραυλέω 'habe meinen Aufenthalt an (vor) der Türe, lagere im Freien' from θύρ-αυλος (but it could have derived also from θύρα), very archaic θαιρός 'the revolvable doorpost' (also 'Wagenachse, Eckpfosten des Wagenkastens' from **d<sup>h</sup>ur-jo-*);

o-stem in πρόθυρον 'room before the door, vestibule of the house' (: Old Indic śatā-dura- n.);

ā-stem θύρᾱ 'door' (hom. mostly Pl.), Attic θύρᾱσι 'outside ', hom. θύρη-θι, -φι; compare still θύριον 'Türchen' (: Old Indic dūr(ḷ)ya- 'zur door or zum Haus gehörig'), θυρίς, -ίδος 'window' (actually 'Türchen') θύρετρον 'door', θυρεός 'Türstein; großer long shield', θυρών 'Vorhalle, vestibule in Haus' (: Gothic daúrōns f. Pl. 'zweiflügliges gate', yet barely in historic connection with it);

alb. (d<sup>h</sup>uer-) derë f. 'door', Pl. düer (conservative stem *d<sup>h</sup>uōr-);

Note: conservative stem of plural forms (alb. phonetic trait)

Phonetic mutations: Alb. alb. (d<sup>h</sup>uera) derë f. 'door' : gr. (d<sup>h</sup>uera) θύρᾱ 'door' : Proto-Slavic form: dъrъ See also: [dvorъ - Page in Trubačev: V 171-172] Old Church Slavic: dъrъ 'door' [f i] : Russian: dver' 'door' [f i]

Therefore proto Illyrian gave alb. d<sup>h</sup>ue- > de-, gr. d<sup>h</sup>ue- > du-, Slavic d<sup>h</sup>ue- > dve-.

Latin Plur. forēs f. 'folding-doors' (older conservative stem *d<sup>h</sup>uor- reshaped to i-stem); the Sg. foris, -is is secondary; ā-stem in forās 'out through the doors, out of doors, forth, out ', forīs 'an open space, public place, court, market-place' (the vowel after forēs); in addition forum n. 'an open space, public place, court, market-place'; Umbrian furo, furu, 'an open space, public place, court, market-place'; about Latin forus see above S. 134;

cymr. abret. corn. dor f. 'door' (*d<sup>h</sup>urā or *d<sup>h</sup>uorā, latter vowel gradation certainly in Old Irish dorus n. 'door', in-dorus 'before' from Celtic *d<sup>h</sup>uorestu-; with it phonetically not compatible cymr. drws 'door', from Thurneysen IA. 33, 25 places to Middle Irish drut, druit 'shut', nir. druidim 'I close' from *d<sup>h</sup>ruzd-); o-stem gall. doro 'door', Duro-, -durum in PN, Old Irish dor m. ds.; acorn. darat, mcor. daras 'door', bret. Pl. dorojou, dial. doredou (Loth RC 20, 355) from *d<sup>h</sup>uorato-; compare gall. **doraton* 'grille, lattice door' in gallorom. **doratia* (or **duratia*?), Kleinahns bei Wartburg III 139; unclear is gall. dvorico (Holder I 1390), GN?;

Old High German turi, Old Franconian duri 'door', Old Norse dyrr 'doorway', fem. Pl. (Nom. Pl. *d<sup>h</sup>ur-es); Old English duru ds. (extended after Akk. Pl. *d<sup>h</sup>ur-ns, Germanic **durunz*, also Old High German Dat. Pl. tur-un, -on); o-stem Gothic daúr n., Old High German tor, Old Saxon dor, dur, Old English dor n. 'gate' (*d<sup>h</sup>urom); Gothic daurōns see above (: θυρών); Old Icelandic for-dyri n. 'vestibule';

Lithuanian duris Akk. Pl. dūrū Gen. Pl., dial. and old dūres Nom. Pl. (then i-inflection: Nom. Pl. dūrys), Latvian duris, dūrvī, Old Prussian dauris f. Pl. 'door' (au error); however, lacks Lithuanian dvāras 'grange' because of dvērti 'unbolt, unlock' (also dūrys 'door' from '*aperture'?) it is not certainly poln. loanword;

Old Church Slavic dvъrī 'door' (*Akk. Pl. in -r̥s; root stem dʰur- from the reduced case with consonant-ending e.g. Lok. **dvъrchъ*); o-stem Old Church Slavic dvorъ 'courtyard';

Hittite: ? an-dur-za (adv.) 'within, inside, in' (*'indoors'), Tischler 37-38.

Tocharian B twere 'doors'.

References: WP. I 870 f., WH. I 529 f., Trautmann 63, EM 377 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 625<sup>1</sup>.

Page(s): 278-279

---

Root / lemma: digh-

Meaning: goat

Note:

Root / lemma: digh-: 'goat' derived from a zero grade of Root / lemma: deigh-: 'to prick; tick'. From the older root Root / lemma: deigh-: 'to prick; tick' derived Root / lemma: aiġ-: 'goat' and Root / lemma: āġ-: 'goat' [common Baltic - Illyrian - alb. de-, da- > zero]. Hence the gr. cognate derived from proto Illyrian

Material: Gr.-thrak. δίζα αἶξ. Λάκωνες (**dighia*), compare thrak. PN Διζα-τελμῖς (as 'Ἐβρου-τελμῖς to ἔβρος τράγος Hes.); Old High German ziga 'goat', with hypocoristic consonant increase Old English ticcen, Old High German zickī, zickīn 'young goat, kid' (but about Modern High German Zecke see above under deigh-); here perhaps Norwegian dial. tikka 'sheep' (event. hybridization of Swedish dial. takka 'sheep' with nord. equivalent of Zicklein), tiksa 'sheep, bitch', tikla 'young sheep or cow', as well as Old Norse tīk f. 'bitch' = Middle Low German tīke ds.

Armenian tik 'hose from animal skin' it is put here by Lidén (Arm. Stud. 10 f., Don. nat. Sydow 53<sup>1</sup>) as originally 'goatskin', must go back to **dīg-* (taboo distortion?).

References: WP. I 814, WH. I 632, 868. After Risch (briefl.) perhaps originally Lockruf.

Page(s): 222

---

Root / lemma: dīp-ro-, dīp-erā

Meaning: cattle

Material: Armenian tvar `ram, herd of cattle' (**tivar* < **dīp<sub>e</sub>rā*); Gothic tibr `oblation' (meliorated from aibr), Old High German zebar `sacrificial animal', Old English tifer, tiber ds., Late Middle High German ungezībere, unzīver, Modern High German Ungeziefer actually `impure, animal not suited to the sacrifice'. Old French (a)toivre `draft animal' derives from Germanic Maybe alb. (**dīb<sub>e</sub>rā*) dorbēria `heard of cows'.

References: WP. I 765, WH. I 323, Feist 19 b, 477 a.

Page(s): 222

---

Root / lemma: ḍlkú- (?)

Meaning: sweet

Material: Gr. γλυκύς, γλυκερός `sweet', γλυκκόν γλυκύ, γλύκκα ή γλυκύτης Hes. (-κκ- from -κ<sub>υ</sub>-), γλεῦκος (late) `must, stum' (ablaut neologism); γλ from δλ because of folg. κ; -λυ- from -λα- after folg. υ; about late δεῦκος `must, stum', δευκής `sweet' s. WH. I 380;

Latin dulcis `sweet, mellifluous, gentle' (from **ḍlkui-s*).

References: WP. I 816, WH. I 380.

Page(s): 222

---

Root / lemma: ḍṇḡhū, ḍṇḡh<sub>u</sub>ā

Meaning: tongue

Note: often reshaped through anlaut change and rearrangements

Material: Old Indic jihvā f., Avestan hizvā ds. (Proto Aryan **ḡiḡh<sub>u</sub>ā* from **daḡh<sub>u</sub>ā* with i from lih- `lick' or from jih- `turn down'; iran. **sizvā* probably through sound dissimilation);

Maybe Root / lemma: ḍṇḡhū, ḍṇḡh<sub>u</sub>ā : `tongue' derived from Root / lemma: dh<sup>h</sup>ereḡh- (dh<sup>h</sup>rḡh-nā-) : `to wind, turn'.

besides ū-stem in Old Indic juhū f. `tongue, spoon' (with u after juhōti `pour into the fire', different Wackernagel-Debrunner III 192), Avestan hizū m. ds.; with -ōn- for -ā Old pers. hizbāna-, Middle Persian huzvān ds., North Aryan bisān m. `tongue, discourse' (**vižhvān* after E. Leumann North Aryan Spr. 127 f.);

Armenian lezu, Gen. lezvi places in ending -gh<sub>u</sub>ā away from **ḍṇgh<sub>u</sub>ā*, the first syllable probably influenced by leiḡh- `lick';

Note: common Latin d- > l-; also common Italic-Latin d- > f- shift.

Old Latin dingua, Latin lingua (with l- from lingere); Oscan fangvam (Vetter Serta Hoffilleriana 153;

Maybe alb. (**d̥ŋghuā*) gluha 'tongue, language' not from Latin lingua for alb. has preserved -h- in contrast to Latin Hence alb. d- . l- mutation is genuine. Alb. (**d̥ŋghuā*) gluha 'tongue' is similar to formation alb. (**dlagh-t-*) glatë, gjatë, gjat 'long'.

Old Irish teng (ā-stem) and tengae, Gen. tengad with t- after tongid 'swears'; but Old Irish ligur 'tongue' to Latin ligurriō; unclear is mcymr. tafawt, cymr. tafod, acorn. tauot, Middle Breton teaut, bret. teod, wherefore corn. tava, Middle Breton taffhaff, bret. tañva 'taste' (Celtic **tamāto*-?);

Gothic tuggō f., Old Norse Old Saxon tunga, Old English tunge, Old High German zunga, with -ōn- instead of -ā-, as ablaut neologism perhaps here Old Norse tangi 'clutch piece of the blade', Middle Low German tange 'sand shift between two marshes';

Balto Slavic inžū- m. in Old Prussian insuwis; Lithuanian liežūvis (after liēžti 'lick'); Old Church Slavic jězy-kъ, Serbo-Croatian jězik, poln. język, russ. jazyk, to contraction of anlaut. d- s. J. Schmidt, Krit. 77;

Note:

Common Illyrian-Baltic d- > zero.

Tocharian A kāntu, Gen. kāntwis, B kāntwo, Obl. kāntwa sa (**kantwa*, reconverted with metathesis from **tankwa*, Indo Germanic **d̥ŋghuā*).

References: WP. I 1792, WH. I 806 f., Trautmann 104, Specht Dekl. 83, Havers Sprachtabu 123 f.

Page(s): 223

Root / lemma: dous-

Meaning: arm

Note:

Root / lemma: dous- : 'arm' derived from an archaic root **ǵheus* 'hand, arm' (see below). But the shift ǵh- > d- is a unique Old pers., Baltic, celt., Illyrian-alb..

Material: Old Indic dós- n. (m.), Gen. doṣṇáh 'forearm, arm, lower part of the forefoot with animals', Avestan daoš- m. 'upper arm, shoulder', npers. dōš- 'shoulder'; Old Irish doē (**dous-nt-s*), Gen. doat 'arm'; Latvian pa-duse (zero grade) 'Achselhöhle; Busen des Kleides'; sloven. pâzduha, pâzdiha besides pâzuha, pâziha 'armpit', and with the same d- loss (ein Erklärungsversuch by Berneker 233 f.) Old Bulgarian etc pazucha 'κόλπος'.

Note:

Root / lemma: dous-: 'arm' derived from an archaic root **ǵheus* 'hand, arm' (see below).

But the shift ǵh- > d- is a unique Old pers., Baltic, celt., Illyrian-alb..

Two other roots, respectively Root / lemma: ǵhesor-1, ǵhesr-: 'hand' and Root / lemma: ǵhesto-2: 'hand, arm' derived from an extended archaic root ǵheus + reduced form of the common PIE suffix variants -tar, -ter, -tra, -tre: Old Indic hásta-h m. 'hand', Avestan zasta-, Old pers. dasta- ds.;

The key link between Root / lemma: dous- (**ǵheus-*): 'arm' derived from an archaic root **ǵheus* 'hand, arm' and Root / lemma: ǵhesor-1, ǵhesr- (**ǵheus-*): 'hand' and Root / lemma: ǵhesto-2 (**ǵheus-*): 'hand, arm' are Baltic: Latvian pa-duse (zero grade) 'armpit': Lithuanian pa-žastė, pa-žastis f. 'place under the arm, armpit'.

Note: common Baltic-Illyrian ǵh- > z: Old pers., Avestan, Illyrian-alb. - celt. ǵh- > z, d.

References: WP. I 782, Trautmann 64.

Page(s): 226

---

Root / lemma: dō-: də-, also dō-u-: dəu-: du-

Meaning: to give

Grammatical information: (perfective) Aoristwurzel with secondary present dī-dō-mi.

Material: Old Indic dā-dā-ti (Aor. á-dā-m, Opt. dēyām, Fut. dāsyáti, Aor. Med. ádīta = gr. ἔδοτο, Inf. dámanē: gr. δόμεναι, compare Latin damini 'hand over, deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender', whether originally infinitive) 'gives' (pāli. dinna to a present **dī-dā-ti*), (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Avestan dadāiti ds., Old pers. Imp. dadātuv 'he should give'; root nouns Old Indic dā[s] ástu 'be a giver'; Infin. dātum (: Latin Supin. datum); participle dítá-h (uncovered), secondary dattá-h, zero grade in ā-t-tá-h, prá-t-ta-h 'devoted', ablaut. in tvā-dāta-h 'you gave from', Avestan dāta; to Fut. Old Indic dāsyāmi (: Lithuanian dúosiu) s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 788<sup>11</sup>;

Armenian ta-m 'dō', ta-mk 'we hand over, deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender' (**də-je-mi*), Aor. etu (= á-dā-m, Indo Germanic **e-dō-m*); gr. δί-δω-μι 'give', Aor. ἔδωκα, Opt. δοίην (**dojiēm*). Fut. δώσω, Aor. Med. ἔδοτο, participle δοτός, Infin. hom. δόμεναι and hom. Thessalian etc δόμεν (locative without suffix);

Venetic zoto 'he/she has handed over, delivered, given up, rendered, furnished' = gr. ἔδοτο; zonasto 'he/she has given as a present, presented, bestowed, granted, vouchsafed, conferred ' maybe from **dōnā-s-to* from a denom. **dōnāiō* (**dōno-m* : Latin dōnum); mess. pi-do (**dō-t* : Old Indic a-dāt);

alb. (**d<sup>h</sup>uo-sm*) da-shë Aor. ' I gave ' (**də-sm*); : alb. subjunctive dhashtë ' let him give '

Latin dō, dās, dat, dāmus (**də-mós*), dātis, dānt (secondary fur **dent* from \(di)-dñ-ti*), Old Latin danunt, dedī, dātum, däre 'give, grant, bestow', refl. 'betake oneself' (dās with ā after stā for **dō* = Lithuanian duō, dúo-k [Specht KZ. 55, 182], gr. hom. δί-δω-θι);

Vestinian di-de-t 'delivers, gives up, renders, furnishes, pays, surrenders', Paelignian dī-da 'he/she should deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender', Umbrian dīrsa, dērsa, teṛa 'he/she should deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender' (**didāt*), teṛtu, dirstu, titu 'he/she shall deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender' (**di-de-tōd*), teṛte 'he/she has been given' (**di-da-ter*), a-teṛa-fust 'he/she will have handed round' (**am-de-da-fos-t*); Oscan da[da]d 'he/she should give away, give up, surrender, deliver, consign, yield, abandon, render' (**dād(-di)-dād*), dadid 'he/she will have delivered, given up, rendered, furnished, surrendered' (**dād(-de)-dād*), di-de-st 'he/she will hand over, deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender', dedet, Umbrian dede 'he/she has handed over, delivered, given up, rendered, furnished, surrendered' (= Latin dē-d-īt, old dedet), Umbrian teṛust, dīrsust 'he/she will have handed over, delivered, given up, rendered, furnished, surrendered' (**dedust*), etc; Faliscan poded 'he/she has stretched out, spreaded out, put forth, reached out, extended' (**por(-de)-ded*);

redupl. present Italian **dī-dō(?)* in Latin reddō (reddidī, redditum, reddere) 'give back' from **re-d(i)-dō(?)* is ostensibly themat. metathesis from **dī-dō-mi*; other compounds are dē-dō, dī-dō, ē-dō, prō-dō, trā-dō and **ven-dō*, participle Latin dātus 'bestowed' = Faliscan datu 'given, delivered, given up, surrendered', Vestinian data 'been delivered, given up, surrendered', Paelignian datas 'been delivered, given up, surrendered' (: gr. δοτός); Supin. datum (: Old Indic Infin. dātum);

here perhaps in spite of WH. I 193 Latin ce-dō 'go from, give place, remove, withdraw, go away, depart, retire!' Pl. cette from **ce-date* (: gr. δότε);

Lithuanian dúomi (nowadays secondary dúodu, Latvian duôdu, based on neologism to Old Lithuanian Ipv. duodī from **dō-d<sup>h</sup>i*, East Lithuanian dúomu), 2. Sg. dúosi, 3. Sg. dúost(i) 'gives', Old Prussian dāst ds., after Kořínek Listy filol. 65, 445 and Szemerényi Et. Slavic Roum. 1, 7 ff. (compare E. Fraenkel Baltic Sprachw. 11 f.) not on older reduplication (angebl. **dō-də-mi*, Balto Slavic **dōdmi*, 3. Sg. **dō-də-ti*, Balto Slavic **dōdti > *dōsti*), but on an unreduplicated athemat. inflection (**dōmi*, Pl. **dəmos*); Lithuanian dúosti, Old Bulgarian dastъ are imitations from Lithuanian ėsti 'eats' etc, which lie besides Lithuanian **é(d)mi*, Old Bulgarian jamъ (from **ēd-m-*), where d would be perceived as suffix of the root; to Fut. Lithuanian dúosiu see above S. 223.

The same would be assumed from Old Church Slavic damъ 'I will give', 3. Pl. dadęтъ (after jadęтъ etc); Old Church Slavic dažda 'gift' is an analogical form after **ēdja* 'food, eating', where d was perceived again a formant.

Infin. Lithuanian dúoti, Latvian duôt, Old Prussian dāt (**dō-ti*) = Old Church Slavic dati, serb. dāti, russ. datъ.

For preterit Lithuanian daviaũ, Latvian devu 'gave' see below.

participle **dō-na-* in Old Church Slavic prě-danъ, serb. dân, Czech dán, klr. dányj 'bestowed'; **dō-ta-* ds. in Old Prussian dāts, Lithuanian dúotas, Latvian duôts; einzelsprachl. innovations are serb. dial. dāt, Czech dátý, in addition Lithuanian duotina 'nubile, marriageable', russ.-Church Slavic podatъnъ, russ. podátnyj 'generous'; Supin. **dōtun* 'to give' in Old Prussian daton (Infin.); Lithuanian dúoty, Old Church Slavic otъdatъ, sloven. dat, compare Slavic **datъ-kъ* in sloven. dodâtek, poln. dodatek, russ. dodátok 'bonus, addition';

Hittite dā- 'take', 1. Sg. da-aḫ-ḫi (daḫḫi), 3. Sg. da-a-i (dāi), would be placed here by Pedersen (Muršilis 68) and Kretschmer (Glotta 19, 207) ('give' - 'for give to oneself' - 'take'); against it Couvreur H 206 ff.

nominal formation: Old Indic dātar-, dātár- 'giver', gr. δώτωρ, δωτήρ ds., zero grade δότηρ, δότειρα, Latin dātor, datrīx. - Old Indic dātrá-, Avestan dāθra- n. 'gift'.

**dō-tel-* in Old Church Slavic dateljъ (**dō-tel-ju-*) 'giver', Czech udatel 'bighead', russ. dátelъ 'giver'.

Old Indic **dāti-* 'bestowal, gift' in dāti-vāra- 'allotting willingly, generous', havya-dāti- 'procuring the offering, presenting the sacrifice', Avestan dāiti- 'grant, gift, impartment', gr. δῶτις Hes. (and conservative stem **dō-t-* in δῶς) 'gift', Δωσί-θεος, -φρων, Latin dōs, -tis 'dowry';

Lithuanian Inf. dúoti. Slavic **datъ* 'gift' (e.g. in Old Church Slavic blagodatъ 'χάρις', russ. pódatъ 'tax'), Inf. dati, zero grade Old Indic díti-h, gr. δόσις 'gift', Latin dati-ō, -tiōnis (old \-* tīnes) `the bestowing' (suffix as in gr. δωτινῆ `gift'); with zero gradation in enclitic Old Indic bhāga-tti- `luck bringer'.

Old Indic dāna- n. `gift' (substantiviertes -no-participle) = Latin dōnum, Oscan etc dunum ds. (duunated `he/she has presented, bestowed, granted, vouchsafed, conferred'); cymr. dawn ds., Old Irish dān m. `gift, present, practical skill, innate quality, nature, temperament (faculty, talent)', compare Slavic **danъ-kъ* in serb. dānak `tribute, tax' etc and den -ni-stem Old Church Slavic danъ `tribute, tax, toll', Lithuanian duōnis `gift'; zero grade alb. dhënë `bestowed', f. `gift, tribute, tax', Geg dhânë, (**dh<sub>h</sub>uon-*)

Also alb. (**dh<sub>h</sub>uonti*) dhunti `gift, faculty, talent'.

gr. δῶρον `gift' (-ro- in pass. value, compare e.g. clā-ru-s), Old Church Slavic darъ `gift' (m. as **danъkъ*), Armenian tur ds.;

Maybe alb. (**dh<sub>h</sub>uonata*) dhurata `gift, faculty, talent' rhotacism n/r; darsmë, dasmë `wedding': Latin dōs, -tis `dowry';

Old Indic dāyá- `giving', dāyá- m. `gift', Old Prussian dāian Akk. `gift', serb. prō-daja `sale' (etc, Berneker 176).

Maybe nasalized alb. ndanj, shpërndanj (**shprë-ndanj*) `allot, give, separate': Lithuanian priėdas `bonus, addition, wage increase'.

As 2. composition part Old Indic -dā- e.g. in aśvadā- `horse giving, horse offering', Slavic with structure in o-Dekl., e.g. russ. dial. pó-dy Pl. `tributes, taxes', serb. prî-d`Draufgabe beim Tausch'; Lithuanian priėdas `bonus, addition, wage increase'.

dō-u- lies before in Old Indic dāvánē `to give' (also Perf. dadáu `have bestowed'), Avestan dāvōi `to give', Cypriot δουFάvoι `he may give', Inf. δοFεvαι (about Arcadian participle ἀπυ-δόας s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 745 f.), contracted hom.-Attic δοῦvαι;

Latin duim, duīs etc `I, you should hand over, deliver, give up, render, furnish, pay, surrender', Fut. II -duō, contain an Aorist-stem **du-* from **dou-*; duim is from Optat. **douīm* originated in compounds (prō-duint from **prō-douint*, etc), then also by compounds from **dh<sub>h</sub>ē*: per-duim, etc For Italian optative **douīm* probably trod only secondary in Umbrian and Faliscan a present **douiō* in Faliscan doviad `may grant' (it seems to be reduced in compounds hence Latin duam etc **doviām*), Umbrian pur-dovitu, pur-tuvitu, -tuetu `stretch out, spread out, put forth, reach out, extend', purtuvies `stretch out, spread out, put forth, reach out, extend', Umbrian purditom (\-d(o)uitom*) `stretched out, spread out, put forth, reached out, extended ', purtiūs (**d(o)uīūs*) 'you will have stretched out, spread out, put forth, reached out, extended ', purtilife '* stretched out, spread out ', from synkopiertem **por-d[o]uī-* with alteration from du to d, in purdovitu Imper. it was hindered syncope through Indik. **pór-dovīt*,

Lithuanian daviaũ 'I gave ', dovanà f. 'gift', Latvian dāvana f. 'gift', iterative dāvāt, dāvināt 'offer, give', Old Church Slavic -davati 'allot' (the pattern forms for the Iterative in -vati).

About Old Saxon twīthōn 'grant' etc see below deu-2 'friendly grant'.

References: WP. I 814 ff., WH. I 266, 360 ff., 371 f., 861, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 686<sup>8</sup>, 722, 741, 794, 806 ff., Trautmann 56 ff.

Page(s): 223-226

---

Root / lemma: dreġh-

Meaning: unwilling, displeased

Note: or perhaps originally 'be slack, tough'?

Material: Gothic trigo 'mourning, grief, repulsion', Old Norse tregi m. 'mourning, grief, hindrance ', tregr 'unwilling, averse ', treginn 'grieving ', Old English trega m. 'mourning, grief, affliction '; Old Saxon trego m. 'pain', tregan (only Inf.) with Dat. 'be afflicted ', Middle Dutch tregen 'lose the courage ', Old Norse trega = Old English tregian 'afflict, sadden'; compare with a probably old concrete meaning ' zähe, zähe haftend ' Norwegian Dialectal treg also 'persistent, firm ', tregre 'tough fibre, filament, sinew, hard skin', Swedish trägen 'fatigueless '; lengthened grade Old High German trāgi 'idle, slow, querulous ', Old Saxon trāg 'evil, bad', Old English trāg f. 'affliction, wickedness ', Old Saxon Old High German trāgī f. 'sluggishness, displeasure ';

Lithuanian dryž-tù, drižaũ, drižti 'faint, languid, slack become' (Būga Kalba ir. s. 219), drižinti 'slack make'; to Lithuanian ri compare Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II 83. [common Illyrian-Baltic -ġh- > -d- shift]

Maybe alb. treth 'castrate, clip' [common alb. -g > -th shift] (see below)

Note:

Root / lemma: tr-eu-d- : 'to press, push, *displeasure' derived from Root / lemma: dreġh- : 'unwilling, displeased' [common Illyrian-Baltic -ġh- > -d-, Illyrian alb. -g > -th].

References: WP. I 821 f., Persson Beitr. 46 f.

Page(s): 226-227

---

Root / lemma: drē-: drē-, extended dr-ēm-

Meaning: to sleep

Material: Old Indic drāti, drāya-ti, -tē 'asleep', ni-drā 'sleep'; in addition zero grade ni-drita-
h 'sleeping, dozed off';

Armenian tartam 'slow, sleepy' (**der-d-*, Pedersen KZ. 39, 416);

gr. hom. Aor. ἔδραθον (**e-dr-d<sup>h</sup>-om*), new ἔδαρθον 'slept', secondary καταδάρθάνω 'dozed off';

Latin dormiō 'sleep, drowse' (**dr̥m-īō*);

Slavic **drēmīō* 'drowse' in Church Slavic dremlju drěmati 'drowse', serb. drijemljēm drijèmati 'have sleep desire', etc maybe alb. dremit 'drowse'.

About the formal Verhältnisse s. EM. 284, to -em- extension also Pedersen Groupement 22.

References: WP. I 821, WH. I 372, Trautmann 60.

Page(s): 226

---

Root / lemma: dumb- (-b<sup>h</sup>?)

Meaning: penis, tail

Material: Avestan duma- m. 'tail', npers. dum, dumb (**dum(h)ma-*), Old High German zumpfo 'penis', Middle High German zumpf(e), zumpfelin (Sütterlin IF. 4, 93); in addition perhaps Avestan dumna- n. 'hand (?)' (**dumbna-*), s. Scheftelowitz IF. 33, 142 with numerous parallels for the meaning-development 'shaft, pole, staff - penis, tail' and 'staff - arm, hand'. Probably to Middle Low German timpe 'cusp, peak, acme, apex', Old English ātimplian 'provide with nails', nasal. form from Germanic **tippa* 'tip, tail' in engl. tip 'cusp, peak', Middle High German zipf(e); Germanic **tuppa-* 'pigtail' in Old Norse toppr ds., Old English topp m. 'acme, apex', Middle High German zopf 'plait, tress', with bb. Middle Low German tobbe, tubbe 'spigot', compare Latvian duba 'assigned sheaf'; Germanic **tappan* 'spigot' in Old English tæppa m. (engl. tap), Middle Low German tappe m., Old High German zapho, Middle High German zapfe m. apparently 'popular saying' with intensive consonant increase, nasalization and vowel change a : i : u; compare above S. 221 drop:- drip:- drup-.

References: WP. I 816, Fick III 155, 164, 168, Petersson Heterokl. 70 f.

See also: see also above S. 177.

Page(s): 227

---

Root / lemma: dus-

Meaning: bad, foul

Material: Old Indic duṣ-, dur-, Avestan duš-, duž- 'dis-, wrong, evil', Armenian տ 'un-', gr. δυσ- 'dis-, de-, evil', Latin in difficilis 'difficult, hard', Old Irish do-, du- ds. (construction after the example from so-, su-), Gothic tuz- (in tuz-wērjan 'doubt'), Old Norse Old English tor-, Old High German zur- 'un-', Slavic in Old Bulgarian дъждъ (**duz-djus* 'bad weather' =) 'rain', russ. dožď, poln. deszcz, Old Czech děšč, Gen. dščě and analogical deště. connection with deus- 'lack' is very probable.

Note:

Probably from a fusion of Root / lemma: dh<sub>h</sub>eues-, dh<sub>h</sub>uēs-, dh<sub>h</sub>eus-, dh<sub>h</sub>ūs- 'to dissipate, blow, etc. *scatter, dust, rain, breathe, perish, die' + Root / lemma: dei-1, deje-, dī-, dīā- : 'to shine; day; sun; sky god, god' derived Slavic (**dus-diu-*): Old Church Slavic: дъждъ 'rain' [m jo] (see below).

Only Indic from duṣ- has evolved dúṣyati 'goes bad, goes off', duṣṭa 'spoiled, evil, bad', dūṣáyati 'spoiled, disabled'.

References: WP. I 816, E. Fraenkel Mél. Pedersen 453.

Page(s): 227

---

Root / lemma: duēi-

Meaning: to fear

Material: Avestan dvaēθā 'menace';

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>ah<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Avestan ae-

Armenian erknčim 'I fear', erkiut 'fear' (anlaut as in erku 'two' : **duōu* Meillet MSL. 8, 235);

gr. hom. δειδω 'dread' (*δέ-δFoi-α), Plur. δειδμεν (i.e. δέδFιμεν), Attic δέδιμεν (thereafter the new Sg. hom. δειδια, i.e. δέδFια, Attic δέδια), Aor. hom. ἔδδειςεν (i.e. ἔδδFειςεν), hom. δίε 'dreaded'; reshaped from *δεδFοια Perf. hom. δειδοικα, Attic δέδοικα, Cretan δεδFοικώς Hes. (Hs. δεδροικώς), in addition δεδείκελος Hes. 'timorous'; to δεδίσκομαι (after hom.) 'terrify' (*δε-δFί-σκο-μαι) would be shaped secondary δειδίξομαι, whereof previously Attic δεδίπτομαι, hom. δειδίσσομαι; hom. δειδήμων 'timorous' (*δεδFειήμων); δέος n. 'fear' (*δFειος), θεουδής 'godfearing' (*θεο-δFειής), δαίμα n., δειμός m. 'fear', δεινός 'terrible', δειλός, 'timorous, fearful; unlucky, lamentable' (*δFειλός); διερός 'to fear, dread' (*δFι-ερος);

Latin dīrus 'ill - omened, ominous, boding, portentous, fearful, awful, dread' (from Servius to Aen. III 235 also as sabin. and Umbrian stated word, so that dī- instead of bī- from **dui-* as a dialectal sound development), with formants -ro- 'before what one is afraid', as clā-rus 'audible, distinguishable'.

s-extension in Old Indic dvéṣti 'hated, is hostile', dvīṣtá- 'detested', dvéṣa- m., dvéṣas- n. 'hate', Avestan dvaēš-, ṭbaēš- 'be hostile to, mortify', participle ṭbišta-, dvaēšaḥ-, ṭbaēšaḥ- 'hostility', Middle Persian bēš 'affliction, mischief', probably to duis- S. 232.

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan ae-

References: WP. I 816 f., WH. I 353 f., Schwyz. Gr. Gr. I 710<sup>6</sup>, 769, 774. After Benveniste (briefl.) belongs the root as 'be in doubt' to consecutive duō(u) 'two'.

Page(s): 227-228

Root / lemma: duō(u) (**dhuei-*)

Meaning: two

Grammatical information: m. (grammatical double form duuōu), duai f. n., besides duēi-, duoi-, dui-

Note: compare the summary by Brugmann II<sup>2</sup> 2, 6-82 passim.

Material: 1. Old Indic m. dvāu, dvā (ved. also duvāu, duvā) = Avestan dva m., Old Indic f. n. dvē (ved. also duvē) = Avestan baē f. and n. 'two';

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan ae-

Instr. Dat. Abl. Old Indic d(u)vābhyām (has changed with ā), Avestan dvaēibya (with old i-diphthong, as Lithuanian dviẽm etc), Gen. Sg. Old Indic d(u)váyoḥ; by compression of Old Indic d(u)vā-: d(u)vā-daśa `12' (== gr. δώδεκα);

Armenian erku `two' (= Old Indic dvā);

gr. hom. δύ(F)ω (*δFω in δώ-δεκα), Gen. Dat. Ionian Attic δυοῖν, next to which uninflected hom. Attic Doric etc δύ(F)ο (to form s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 588 f.; to rudiment Indo Germanic **duō* s. Meillet BSL. 21, 273, due to Armenian erko-tasan 12, Latin duō-dēnī, Old Indic dva-ká- `the two together', but it could be directed after compositions with o-stems in the first part, as well as from Gothic Old Norse Old Saxon Old English Old Frisian wi-t `we two', Old Norse ít, Old Saxon Old English gīt `you two');

alb. dü m., dúj f. `two' (**duuō*, respectively **duua*);

Latin duo (from **duō*), f. duae (neologism), Umbrian (only with plur. inflection) dur Nom. m. `two' (**duōs*, **duūr*), desen-duf Akk. m. (12), duir `two', tuva Akk. n.;

Old Irish dāu, dō Nom. Akk. m. (= Old Indic dvāu), before Subst. dā (proclitic form), fem. dī (= Old Indic dvē), neutr. dā n- `two', acymr. bret. masc. dou, fem. cymr. dwy (etc); gall. VN Vo-cor-ii, Vo-contii (compare Tri-corii) with **u-* besides du-; compare Thurneysen Gr. 182;

Gothic m. twai, f. twōs, n. twa, Old Norse tueir m., tuærf., tuau n., Old English tū m., twā f. (= Old Indic dvē); Old High German zwēne m., zwā, zwō f., zwei n. etc (Old High German zweio `to two' Lok. Du. = Lithuanian dviejau, dviejaus);

Lithuanian dù m. (from **dvúo* = Old Indic dvā), dvi f. (= Old Indic dvē); Latvian divi m. f. (from **duwi* f. n.), Old Prussian dwai m. f.; Old Church Slavic dъva m., dъvě f. n.;

Tocharian A m. wu, f. we, B m. f. wi (neologism); compare above gall. vo-; Hittite ta-a-an (tān) `secondly, second', ta-a-i-u-ga-aš (tāyugaš) `two years old' (: Lithuanian dveigys `two years old animal?').

About the first part from εἴκοσι, vīgintī etc (old dissimilation from **duĩ-*, **duēi-dkmtī*??) s. uī-kmt-ī `twenty'.

Note:

The following dw- > b- is originally a Latin-italic.

In compound Indo Germanic dui- and from it under unclear condition developed di-: Old Indic dvi- (e.g. dvi-pád- 'bipedal'), Avestan bī- (e.g. bī-māhya- 'lasting two months'), Armenian erki (erkeam 'biennial'), gr. di- (e.g. δίππου; da díppos 'curule chair, seat' was not di-, rather δφι-φπος, if not perhaps dissimilatory loss of F is not against the following φ, also for other di- formation to consider from Indo Germanic **dui-*), Old Latin dui-, Latin bī- (e.g. dui-dens, bidens; about forms as diennium s. WH. I under biennium, Sommer Hdb.<sup>3</sup> 223; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Umbrian dī-fue 'cleft, parted, split' probably sound pattern from dui-), Old Norse tve- (also tvr̥, see below), Old English twi-, Old High German zwi- (e.g. Old English twi-fēte 'bipedal', Old High German zwi-houbit 'bicipital'), Lithuanian dvi- (e.g. dvi-gubas 'twofold', Old Prussian dwi-gubbus).

Ital. du- in Latin du-bius, -plus, -plex, -pondius, -centi, Umbrian tuplak Akk. Sg. n. 'twofold', du-pursus 'on two feet' is innovation after being perceived as du- stem from duo; also is to define du- in Umbrian duti 'again, a second time, once more, anew', pāli dutiyam 'for the second time'; about Latvian du-celes 'two-wheeled cart' compare Trautmann 125, Mühlenhach-Endzelin I 509, Endzelin Latvian Gr. 358.

Zero grades duei- in compounds is to be admitted for Celtic (e.g. Old Irish dē-riad 'a span of horses, pair, two horses harnessed to an open car', díabul 'twofold', cymr. dwy-flwydd 'two years old'; Old Irish días 'duality of persons' probably from **dueio-stho-*) and for Germanic (e.g. Old Norse tuī-faldr 'twofold' besides tuēfaldr, Gothic twēifla-, probably n., Old High German zwīfal n. besides gr. δι-πλός, Latin duplus).

duoi- in Old English getwæfan, twæman 'separate, cut, clip' < **twaifjan*, **twaimjan*, perhaps also for the Aryan (Avestan baēərəzufrāṣah- 'two fingers wide', dvaēpa- n. 'island'? or rather from duai-, as probably Old Indic dvēdhā 'twofold, (*divided) in two parts', compare dvīpā- 'island' above S. 51); perhaps Phrygian GN Δοίας, Gen. -αντος (**duoi-nt*) 'twin'.

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in h₂ʷah₁ʷe- > Avestan ae-

Slavic dvo-, dvu-, dvě- in compounds s. Berneker 247.

2. ordinals: Old Indic dvitīya-, Avestan bitya-, dabitya-, Old pers. duvitiya- 'second'; under duti 'again, a second time, once more, anew' (probably replacement for **diti* from **duitiom* after du-, see above); Armenian erkir, erkrord 'second'; alb. i-düte; all new neologisms.

3. Multiplikativadverb: duis 'twice': Old Indic dvīh (ved. also duvīh), Avestan biš, gr. δῖς, Old Latin duis, Latin bis, Middle High German zwir 'twice' (but nir. fo-dī = Old Indic n. dvē, Pedersen KG. I 301, II 127), Germanic myth. PN Tuisto 'hermaphrodite';

Maybe alb. düş 'in two'.

through u-forms extended Avestan bižvašt, Old Norse tysuar, tuisuar, Old High German zwiro, zwiror (zwiron, zwironſ), with voiced ? z-reduction Old English twiwa, twiga, twia, tuwa, twie, Old Frisian twia, twerā, Old Saxon twio; therefrom with formants -ko- Old High German zwisk, Old Saxon twisk 'twofold' (see below), probably also Armenian erkics 'twice'; with f-forms Old English twislian 'bisect', twisla 'confluence of two streams', Modern High German Zwiesel 'bifurcation' (perhaps restricted to **duis* in the meaning 'divided', see below); with t-forms Old Indic dvitā 'twofold, double' (therefrom dvāitā-m 'duality'), ap. duvitāparnam 'in two lines', Gatha-Avestan daibitā 'again(?)'.

4. multiplicative: gr. διπλός, διπλόος, Latin duplus, Umbrian dupla 'double, twice as large, twice as much', Old Irish dīabul (**d̪uei-plo-*; see also above Gothic twēifls), wherefore perhaps Avestan bifra- n. 'comparison, affinity' (: root pel- 'fold', compare with t-extension:)

gr. διπλάσιος (**pl̥t-io-*), Ionian διπλήσιος 'waved with both hands', Old High German zwifalt ds.

Gr. δίπλαξ, Latin duplex, Umbrian tuplak n. 'duplex' (: root plāk- 'flat, spread'); from Adv. z.B. duvī-dhā, dvē-dhā (probably **dvāi-dhā*, that to be read in the oldest texts 3-syllable) 'twofold, in two parts', wherewith the ending from Old Irish dēde 'duality of things' seems to be connected, as well as the from Old Low German twēdi 'half', Old English twæde 'two thirds', Old High German zwitaran 'hybrid, mongrel, half breed', Modern High German Zwitter.

Gr. δίχα 'twofold, divided in two parts' (after hom. διχῆ, διχοῦ), next to which (through hybridization with **δι-θά* to Old Indic dvīdhā) hom. διχθά 'δίχα', therefrom Ionian διξός 'twofold' (**διχθός* or **δικσός*), and δισσός, Attic διπτός ds. (**διχιός*, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 598, 840); about Hittite dak-ša-an 'half part' s. Pedersen Hittite 141.

Here also alb. degë `twig, branch, bough, brushwood' (**duoi-ghā*);

Note:

Alb. (**dh<sub>1</sub>uei-ghā*) degë `twig' : Old Indic f. n. dvē `two' : Lithuanian dveigys m. `biennial animal';

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Albanian -h<sub>1</sub>ue- > -e-; Old Indic Lithuanian -h<sub>1</sub>ue- > -ve-.

Old High German zwīg `twig, branch' (**duēi-gho-*), Old English twig `twig, branch' (**dui-gho-*); Old Saxon tōg(o), Middle Low German toch, Old High German zuog(o) `twig, branch' are reshaped after cardinal forms with twō;

Lithuanian dveigys m. `biennial animal', serb. dvizāk `biennial ram', old dviz `biennial' (: Hittite dāyugas, see above).

5. collective: Old Indic dvayá- `double' (dvayá-m `twofold creature, falsity', nachved. `pair'), Dat. f. dvayyái = hom. ἐν δοίῃ; dvandvám `pair' (from ved. duvā-duvā `every two');

gr. hom. δοιῶ, δοιοί `double, two' (with preservation of -i- through influence of **ǵFoī[F]IV*), ἐν δοίῃ `in doubt' (Irish dīas from **dueio-stho-?*);

Gothic Gen. Pl. twaddjē (compare with other ending Old Indic Gen. Dual dváyoḥ, Lithuanian Gen. dviejų), Old Norse tueggja, Old High German zweiio, Old English m. twægen, f. twā, n. tū `two' (see above Sievers-Brunner 264), Nom. Akk. Pl. Old High German zwei (**duēiā*), next to which from Indo Germanic **duēio-* Old High German Middle High German zwī, g. zwīes m.n. `twig, branch' (the n-stem Old Norse týja `doubt' presumably balanced from Nom. **tvīja*, Gen. týju); Balto Slavic duēja- and duaja- in Lithuanian dveji, f. dvėjos `two' (the substantival n. Sg. in dvėja tiek `twice as much');

Old Church Slavic d(ъ)voji Adj. `twofold, two', d(ъ)voje n. Subst. `two things' (therefrom derivatives as russ. dvojnój `double', dvójni `twins', dvójka `pair', dvojník `zweidräftiger Faden', dvoítb `in zwei Teile teilen, zwei Fäden zu einem zusammendrehen', etc, s. Berneker 247).

With -no- (partly due to from duis):

Armenian krkin 'double' from \(r)ki-rki-no-*, Indo Germanic **d̥ui-d̥uis-no-* (?) (L. Mariès REtIE. 1, 445);

Latin bīnī 'every two' (distributive) and 'two' (collective) from **d̥uis-no-* (= Germanic **twiz-na-*);

Germanic **twi-na-* in Old High German zwinal, zwenel 'born together, twin-born, twin-', zwiniling m., Middle High German zwinilīn n. 'twin', **twai-na-* in Old Saxon twēne 'two', Old High German zwēne ds. (it has substituted with ē instead of ei after **zwē* = Gothic twaī), Old High German zwein-zug, Old Saxon twēn-tig, Old English twēn-tig '20' ('Doppelzehn');

Maybe alb. 20, një-zet 'one - ten', 40, dy-zet 'double - ten'

Germanic **twiz-na-* in Old Norse tvennr, tvinnr 'twofold', Pl. tvenner 'zwei zusammengehörige' (tvinna 'redouble'), Old High German zwirnēn, -ōn 'zweifach zusammendrehen', Middle High German zwirn, Middle Low German twern 'doppelt zusammengedrehter Faden' probably = Old English twīn, holl. twijn 'linen thread, linen' (Old English getwinne 'every two', getwinnas 'twins' is led back then to **twi-nja-*). (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-). Besides due to **twīha-*, Indo Germanic **d̥uei-ko-*, Gothic tweihnai 'two', Old English Dat. twēonum, betwēonum, engl. between 'between';

Lithuanian m. Pl. dvynai, russ. dvójni 'twins'.

With -ko-:

Old Indic dviká- 'aus zweien bestehend, zweifach' (dvaká- 'in pairs, by pairs' connected after ēkaká-);

Old High German zwe(h)o, Old Saxon twe(h)o, Old English twēo m. 'doubt', Old English be-twih, -tweoh 'between', mid unctwīh 'between us both' (compare above Gothic tweih-naī); from d̥uis- from: Old High German zwisk, Old Saxon twisk 'twofold', Pl. 'both' Dat. Pl. Old High German (undar, en) zwiskēn, Modern High German zwischen, in addition Old English getwisa m., Old Saxon gitwiso, Middle High German zwiseilinc 'twin'.

With d̥uis- 'twice' identical is d̥uis- 'divided, asunder' in Gothic twisstandan 'to divide' and den derivatives Old Norse tvistra 'separate', Middle Low German Old Frisian twist, Middle High German zwist 'discord (split)' and Middle English twist = Old Norse kvistr 'twig, branch' (as also Bavarian zwist), further Old Norse kvīs/f. 'split branch or tools, arm of a river' (these with Indo Germanic er); further Old Norse tvis-var 'twice', tvistr 'dichotomous, sad' (= Old Indic dviṣṭha- 'ambiguous', gr. *διστος in διστάζω 'doubt', Indo Germanic **dui(s)-sto-* : root stā-, at most duis-to- with formant -to-), Old English twisla 'arm of a river', twislian 'bisect', Old High German zwisila, Modern High German Zwiesel 'divided object, twig, branch', Middle High German zwisele 'double'; here very probably Aryan dviṣ- 'hate' (see below **dyei-* 'fear, dread').

Maybe alb. më dysh 'apart, in two', dyshi 'two'

6. Indo Germanic additional form dis- in Latin dis-, Old Saxon Old Frisian tē-, tī-, Old English tē-, Old High German zi-, ze- (new zīr- through amalgamation from zi- and ir-) 'dis-', Gothic dis- 'apart' (probably borrowed from Latin, barely preceding from **tis-* = Latin dis-), alb. tsh- e.g. in tshk'ep 'unpick', gr. διά (i.e. after μετά etc filled in *δι[σ]ά), e.g. δια-σχιζω 'through' : Latin discindo 'to tear asunder, cut apart, cleave, divide, rend, tear' (*split in the middle), as prefix also 'through and through, thoroughly, all through' = 'very' (Aeolic ζα-).

References: WP. I 817 ff., WH. I 104 ff., 354 f., 381 ff., 860, 861, Feist 484 ff., Trautmann 64, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 588 f., Wackernagel-Debrunner Old Indic Gr. III, 342 f.

Page(s): 228-232

Root / lemma: (ob<sup>h</sup>i?) : ob<sup>h</sup>i : b<sup>h</sup>i

Meaning: around, from to, etc.

Material: Old Indic abhi- prefix 'from - to', abhi preposition with Akk. 'to', Gatha-Avestan aibī, jav. aiwi, avi, aoi, Old pers. abi as prefix 'to, around -', as preposition m. Akk. 'to - toward', with Lok. 'about, in regard to' (in Aryan abhi lies also partly **mbhi* 'before', see above S. 34);

Latin ob 'towards, to' appears only in the function, but not the sounds according to the partial successors from Indo Germanic ob<sup>h</sup>i (see below epi);

Gothic bi, Old High German etc bi, bī 'from - to' (Gothic), with regard to, about' with Akk.; 'an, by' with Dat. (Lok.), also with Instr., prefix 'be-', s. also under amb<sup>h</sup>i, above S. 34, which contains in final sound identical element;

Old Church Slavic obъ, obъ as preverb 'around-, about-, to-' in obъ-stojati or obъ-stojati 'encircle', in compounds, as obъdo n. 'treasure, tribute', in derivatives, as obъšťъ, russ.-Church Slavic obъčъ 'common' (**obʰi-ǵiō-*); intensified form obi- in russ.-Church Slavic obichoditi 'to walk around, perambulate'; the form o, ob contains previous **op-* (Lithuanian ap), see below epi.

References: WP. I 124, Trautmann 1, Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 155 f.

Page(s): 287

---

Root / lemma: edʰ-2

Meaning: fence, paling

Material: Doubtful gr. ὄστριμον 'stall, hurdle' (**odʰ-tro-*)??

Old English eodorm. 'hedge, fence, dwelling; prince, lord' (ablaut. Middle Low German ader 'fence post'), Old High German etar, Modern High German Etter 'fence, edge' (if in addition Bavarian ester, Swiss ester 'penstock'), Old Icelandic jǫður-r, jaðar-r 'edge, upper fence pole', perhaps Old English edisk m. 'fenced pasture', Bavarian iss(e) 'enclosed meadow' (**edʰ-siā?*); Old Bulgarian odrъ 'bed', odrina 'stall', russ. odr 'scaffolding board', Czech odr 'picket, pole', Serbo-Croatian odar, odrina 'encircling grapevine'.

References: WP. I 121.

Page(s): 290

---

Root / lemma: edʰ-

Meaning: sharp

Note:

From an older root heǵʷ-el derived: Root / lemma: ak-, ok- : 'sharp; stone' and Root / lemma: āik- : īk- : 'spear, pike', finally Root / lemma: edʰ- : 'sharp' [common Illyrian-Baltic ǵh- > d-].

Material: Latin ebulus, -īf. and -um n. 'dwarf-elder (danewort, a fetid European species of elder, also dane's weed, dane's blood [said to grow on spots where battles were fought against the Danes]);

Note: common Latin ǵʷ- > b-, hence Latin ebulus < **heǵʷ-el* where -el, -ul are diminutive formants.

ablaut. (with k-suffix) gall. and gallorom. odocos 'dwarf elder';

Old High German attuh, attah, Old Saxon aduk 'dwarf elder' (borrowed from Celtic);

Balto Slavic **edlā-* and **edlī-* f. 'fir' in Old Prussian addle (**edle*), Lithuanian ẽglė (out of it dial. ãglė), Latvian egle ds.

(secondary ē-stem; -g from -d);

Note: common Illyrian-Baltic ĝh- > d- hence -g from -d is wrong etymology.

moreover probably Iterat. Lithuanian adýti 'prick', Latvian adīt 'knit', compare Lithuanian ãdata 'sewing-needle';

Church Slavic etc jela (**edlā*), russ. jelb, Old Czech jedl etc (**edlī-*).

References: WH. I 14, 388 f., Trautmann 66.

See also: from zum Folgenden (ed<sup>h</sup>-2)?

Page(s): 289-290

---

Root / lemma: ed- (**heĝh-*)

Meaning: to eat, *tooth

Note:

From an older root (**heĝh-*) derived Root / lemma: ed- (**heĝh-*): 'to eat, *tooth' and Root / lemma: ĝem<sup>h</sup>-, ĝm<sup>h</sup>-: 'to bite; tooth'

Note: originally athematic, but mostly thematic change

Note:

Common Illyrian-Baltic ĝh- > d-, z-, Old Prussian - Illyrian ĝh- > zz-, ss-, s-

Material: Old Indic athematic present 1. Sg. ád-mi, 3. Sg. át-ti 'you eat', Perf. ādimá (: Latin ēdimus, Gothic etum); themat. in Medium ada-sva;

Avestan 3. Sg. Konj. aδāiti;

Armenian utem 'eat', themat. (**ōd-*);

gr. hom. Infin. ἔδμεναι, Fut. (older Konj.) ἔδ-ο-μαι, Imper. originally **ἔσθι* (: Old Indic addhñ), thereafter secondary ἔσθιω (ἔσθω) 'eat'; secondary themat. ἔδω (after participle ἔδοντ- and the thereafter resulted in 3. Pl. ἔδοντι), Perf. hom. ἔδ-ηδ-ώς, ἔδηδοται (after πέπο-ται), Attic ἔδηδοκα;

Latin edō, ēs, ēst etc 'eat' (length of ē either old or after the sog. Lachmann's rule to define; if old in participle ēsus and passive ēs(s)um?); Perf. ēdī, Oscan Infin. edum, about Umbrian ezariaf see below S. 288;

Old Irish Konj. ci-ni estar `although he does not eat' ( **ed-s-tro*), Fut. īss- ( **i-ed-s-*), Perf. dofūaid ( **de-u(p)o-od-e*), participle esse `eaten' ( **ed-tio-*); cymr. ys `you eat' ( **ed-ti*);

Gothic themat. itan (Perf. 1. Pl. ētum, Old High German āzum etc: Old Latin ēdimus), Old Norse eta, Old Saxon Old English etan, engl. eat, Old Frisian īta, Old High German ezzan `eat' (= Old Indic ádanam `act of eating', gr. ἔδανόν `dish, food'); with prefix fra- ( **pro-*): Gothic fra-itan `consume', Old English fretan `gnaw', Old High German frezzan `devour'; kaus. Gothic fra-atjan, Old Norse etia `allow to consume', Old English ettan `allow to graze', Old High German azzen, ezzen `give to eat, allow to graze', Modern High German ätzen, actually `a spicy dish that can be eaten';

Maybe alb. Geg etun `thirsty', etje `thirst'

Balto Slavic **ēd-mi* in:

Lithuanian ėdu, ėdžiau, ėsti (alt. ĕ[ɖ]mi, 3. Sg. ėšt) `eat, devour', Supin. ėstu, Latvian ēmu (older **ēmi*) and ēdu, ēst ds., Supin. ēstu, Old Prussian īst, īstwei `eat'; Old Church Slavic jamъ ( **ěmъ*), 3. Sg. jastъ ( **ěstъ*) Indo Germanic **ēd-ti*, 3. Pl. jadētъ (Indo Germanic **ēdnti*), Infin. jasti (old ěsti), Supin. jastъ, Old Czech jěst, Lithuanian participle ėdęs, Old Prussian īduns, Old Church Slavic jadъ `having eaten';

Hittite et- `eat', Imper. e-it (eṭ), 1. Sg. present e-it-mi (etmi), 3. Pl. a-da-an-zi (adanzi); the first a through assimilation?, s. Friedrich IF. 41, 371; different Pedersen Hittite 128;

in compounds: gr. ἄρι-στον ( \-d-tom*) `breakfast'; with lengthening in compound δειπνηστός `mealtime', δορπηστός `time for supper, evening meal, evening' (compare also hom. ὠμησής ` Rohes essend ': Old Indic āmāḍ- ds.); gr. ἔδεστός, -τέος is arranged from **έστός*, **έστέος* after έδομαι (as έδεσθῆναι from **έσθῆναι*).

nominal formation:

1. Lengthened grade:

ēdīo-*, *ēdīā-: in Old Indic ādyá- `edible' (ādyūna- `voracious' is derived from **ādyu-h-* `eating food, ');

Old Norse ætr `eatable' (compare also Gothic afētja m. `excessive eater');

Lithuanian ėdžios f. Pl. 'Raufe', édžià 'devourer' (originally 'food fed to livestock'), ėdis m. 'dish, food', mės-ėdis 'carnivore, family of meat-eating animals'; Old Prussian īdis m. 'food, eating'; russ. jěžá 'food, eating, dish, food' (; s. Berneker 271 f.); about Latin inēdia 'fast' s. WH. 393.

ēdo-, ēdā- in Old Norse āt n. 'ravenousness, dish, food' (also āta f. 'ravenousness, nourishment, food'), Old English ætn., Old Saxon āt n., Old High German āz n. 'dish, food' (compare also Gothic uzēta m. 'crib, manger'), Lithuanian éda f. 'the eating' (= Old Norse āta), Latvian ēdas f. Pl. 'food fed to livestock', Old Prussian īdai f. Nom. Sg. 'the eating', Old Church Slavic obědъ 'repast, meal' (perhaps also jadъ 'poison', s. Berneker 271 f.), russ. jědá f. 'breakfast, dish, food'.

ēdi- in Old Church Slavic jadъ 'dish, food', medv-ědъ 'the bear' (honey eater, compare Old Indic madhv-ád- ds.).

ēd-to- in Lithuanian ésta 'eaten', Old Prussian Subst. Dat. Sg. īstai 'food, eating', mbg. jasto 'serving of food', etc.

ēdes- in Lithuanian ėdesis 'dish, food', ėskà f. 'appetite', old 'food fed to livestock, carrion' = Latin ēscā (**ēd-s-kā*) 'dish, food, food fed to livestock, carrion', Latvian ēška 'wolverine'; Old High German Old Saxon ās 'flesh of a dead body, bait, carrion', Old English æs 'carrion' (**ēd-s-om*); Old Church Slavic jasli Pl. m. 'crib, manger, manger' (**ēd-s-lī*); if Umbrian ezariaf stands for 'food', it can be maybe explained from **ēdes-āsio-*; different about Lithuanian ėskà EM<sup>2</sup> 295.

Maybe alb. eshkë 'dried mushrooms for kindling the fire'

With ō: gr. ὠδίς f., Pl. ὠδῖνες 'throes of childbirth', ὠδίνω 'be in labor pains' (Frisk Etyma Armen.13); ἑδ-ωδ-ή 'dish, food' (compare ἑδηδώς); in addition Lithuanian uodas, Latvian uōds m. 'mosquito' (Schulze KZ. 43, 41 = Kl. Schr. 627; from Zubatý AfslPh. 16, 407, Brugmann Grundr. I<sup>2</sup> 337 placed to wruss. wadzen 'a gad-fly, horse-fly, breese').

2. Full grade, e.g.:

Old Indic ádman- n. 'dish, food' (: ἑδμεναι); -advan- 'eating';

Armenian erkn 'birth pain, labor pains' (**edyōn*), erk 'plague' (**edyo-* ?);

hom. εἰδαρ, -ατος n. 'nourishment, food' (i.e. ἑδFαρ, compare ἑδαρ βρωμα Hes.), ἑδητύς, ἑδεσμα 'dish, food';

Latin prandium `a late breakfast, luncheon' (**pram-ediom*?), edulus `trencherman' (see also WH. I under acrēdula, ficedula and monēdula), edūlis `eatable' (possibly because of from Fick III<sup>4</sup> 24, Falk-Torp under jætte as **etuna-* `voracious eater' or `cannibal' our root form added to Old Norse jǫtunn `giant', Old English eoten `giant', older nnd. eteninne `witch' an older u- stem edu- is added?); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

3. ǝ-grade: ὀδύνη (Aeolic but ἔδυνα) `pain' (compare Latin cūrae edācēs), ὀδύρομαι `lament, bewail, mourn for, felt pain' etc. (influenced from μύρομαι `flow, run, trickle, cry, weep').

edont-*, dont-, *dnt- `tooth', probably previous participle present

Old Indic dán m., Akk. dántam (**dont-*), Gen. datáh (= Latin dentis) `tooth' (secondary dánta-h m.); Avestan dantan- m. ds., dātā f. ds.;

Armenian atamn, Gen. -man `tooth' (**dnt-mn*);

gr. (Ionian Attic) ὀδών, -όντος `tooth' (Attic ὀδούς neologism after (δι)δούς), Aeolic ἔδοντες (ὀδόντ- assimilated from *ἔδόντ-?), νωδός `edentulate, toothless' for *νωδων after στραβών : στραβός ;

Latin dens, -tis m. (**dnt-s*); Oscan dunte[s] is ablaut `teeth';

Old Irish dēt n., cymr. bret. dant, corn. dans `tooth' (**dnt-*);

Old High German zand, Old English tōð (Dat. Sg., Nom. Pl. tēð, conservative stem), Old Norse tǫnn (Nom. Pl. teðr, tennr, conservative stem); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), zero grade (from the weak case), Gothic tunþus (from dem Akk. tunbu = Latin dentem) `tooth' (derivative Old English tūsc `fang' from **tunþ-ska-*);

Lithuanian dantis, Gen. Pl. dantỹ (dial. also dančĩũ) `tooth';

Slavic probably in poln. dzięna `stomatitis, inflammation of the mouth, mouth decay, inflammation of the gums' (**dēt-gna*, s. Berneker 190).

forms with e-grade don't stand firm accordingly; Old Norse tindr `cusp, peak, crag', Middle High German zint, -des `prong, spike, tine', Old English tind m. ds., Old High German zinna (**tindjā*) `pinnacle', Old High German zinko (**tint-kō*) `tine' belong to Old Irish dind `hill, lifting', Phrygian Δίνδυμος mountain name, Illyrian VN Δίνδαροι.

References: WP. I 118 ff., WH. I 340 f.

Page(s): 287-289

---

Root / lemma: egnis : ognis (-n- inanimate genitive ending)

Meaning: fire

Note:

Root / lemma: egnis : ognis : 'fire' derived from Root / lemma: ong- (better ang-) (**heng-*): coal < Root / lemma: okʷ- : 'to see; eye'

Grammatical information: m.

Material: Old Indic agní-h m. 'fire' (= Hittite Agnis, Hrozný ZA. 38, 185, after Laroche, Recherches sur les noms of dieux hittites 119, taken over from Hurrians);

Latin ignis, -is m. 'fire, flame, light, blaze, glow' (**egnis*);

Lithuanian ugnis f. (Old Lithuanian also m., Specht KZ. 59, 278<sup>2</sup>), Latvian uguns m. f. ds.; u derives from Old Swedish ughn 'oven';

Old Church Slavic ognь m. 'fire' (**ognis*; i-stem, secondary io-stem), Czech ohěň (ohně), russ. ogónь (ognjá); about Czech výheň f. 'flue, chimney, smithy', Serbo-Croatian vīganj m. 'blacksmith', with quite unclear anlaut, s. Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 85, lastly J. Holub Stručný slovník etym. jazyka českoslov. 341.

Maybe alb. vigan 'giant' : Serbo-Croatian vīganj m. 'blacksmith' [a translation of Cyclops who were giant blacksmiths; they got their name for covering one eye as a spare if one got damaged from sparks of melted metal, that is why Root / lemma: egnis : ognis : 'fire' derived from an extension of Root / lemma: okʷ- : 'to see; eye']; common alb. prothetic v- before bare initial vowels.

References: WP. I 323, WH. I 676, Trautmann 334 f.

Page(s): 293

---

Root / lemma: eg-

Meaning: a lack of smth.

Material: Latin egeō, -ēre 'want, be in need; with genit. or abl. to be in want of, to be without, not to have; also to desire, wish for, want', egestās 'poverty, indigence, need; with genit., want of', egēnus (**egesnos*) 'needy, destitute; with genit. or abl., in need of'. Hereupon also Oscan egmo f. 'a thing, object, matter, affair, circumstance; possessions, property, wealth; interest, advantage, benefit; cause, ground, reason; a matter of business; a law suit, action' (to meaning development compare gr. χρή : χρήμα);

Old Norse ekla 'lack', ekla 'barely', Old High German ekorōdo 'bare, only', ekrōdi, eccherode 'thin, weak'.

References: WP. I 114 f., WH. I 394 f.

Page(s): 290

---

Root / lemma: eĝhero- (**h<sub>1</sub>eĝhero-*)

Meaning: lake, inner sea

Note:

From Root / lemma: eĝhero-: 'lake, inner sea' derived Root / lemma: ad(u)-, ad-ro-: 'water current': Illyrian Pannonian VN 'Οσεριᾶτες [common alb.-Illyrian-Baltic -ĝh- > -d-, -z-; Old Prussian -Illyrian -ĝh- > ss-, s-].

Material: Maybe Illyrian TN Oseriates (Osseriates) [common italic -Illyrian -ĝh- > ss-, s-].

The comparison from Balto Slavic **ežera-* n. 'sea shore' in Old Prussian assaran n. 'sea', Lithuanian ėžeras m. (out of it dial. also āžeras), Latvian ezers m., Old Church Slavic (j)ezero [common h > j- Slavic Albanian.], russ. ózero ds., with:

Baltic **ežīā* f. 'border line' in Old Prussian asy, Lithuanian ežė, Latvian eža; Slavic **ěžь* m. in serb.-Church Slavic jazь 'canal', Old Czech jěz 'water weir', Old Russian ěžь, russ. jaz 'fish weir', is doubtful, also the with Pannonian VN 'Οσεριᾶτες in the flat sea surface (because of. of σ it must be thrak.), and with:

gr. 'Αχέρων, -οντος, river of the underworld (therefrom 'Αχερουσία λίμνη and ἄχερωϊς 'abele, white poplar'), whose α (instead of ε or ο) could indeed derive from ἄχος 'a trembling, quaking, shaking, terror, anxiety, fear, dread, alarm';

Note: common gr. -ĝh- > -χ-

Balto Slavic forms could go back particularly perhaps also to **ažera-*, in which case one could place Indo Germanic **aĝhero-*.

References: WP. I 184<sup>1</sup>, Trautmann 73, Kretschmer Gl. 14, 98, Jokl Eberts Real-lex. 6, 39.

Page(s): 291-292

---

Root / lemma: eĝhi- (**h<sub>1</sub>eĝhi-no-s*)

Meaning: hedgehog (*serpent eater)

Note: probably short form to eĝhi-no-s 'of the serpent, serpent eater' (see above S. 44).

Note:

Root / lemma: eġhi- (**eġhi-no-s*): 'hedgehog (*serpent eater)' derived from Root / lemma: angʷ(h)i- (**egʷhi-*, ogʷhi- and eġhi-): 'snake, worm, (*hedgehog = snake eater)'

Material: Armenian ozni 'hedgehog';

Phrygian (**hεζις*) εζις 'hedgehog';

gr. (**hεχιῖνος*) εχιῖνος 'hedgehog';

Old High German igil, Middle High German igel, Middle Low German egel, Old English igil, igl, īl 'hedgehog', Old Norse igull 'sea urchin' (with Old High German also īgil, by Luther Eigel, Old Norse also īgull);

Lithuanian ežỹs, Latvian ezis 'hedgehog';

Church Slavic ježb (**eġhios*) ds. (in addition russ. ježevika, ožína 'blackberry' common h > j- Slavic Albanian., ožíka 'bulrush' etc., s. Berneker 267).

Here probably following Balto-Slavic appellation of perch (prickly fish):

Old Prussian assegis m. 'perch', Lithuanian ežgỹs, ežegỹs, egžlỹs, Old Lithuanian ėkšlis, jėkšlis 'chub'; lengthened grade Slavic **ězgb*, out of it **ěždžb*, čech. ježdík 'perch', poln. jażdż, jaszcz (also jazgarz) 'chub'; basic form perhaps **ěġh(e)-g(h)ios* 'hedgehog-like'.

Maybe alb. (**eġh*) esh 'hedgehog', according to the shift [common Old Prussian - Illyrian ġh- > z-, ss-].

Maybe Latin (**eksicus*) ericius -i, m. 'hedgehog; milit., chevaux de frise': alb. iriq 'hedgehog' [common Latin Germanic -s- > -r-].

References: WP. I 115, Trautmann 73, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 491<sup>2</sup>.

Page(s): 292

Root / lemma: eġhs (eġhz) (**heġhz*)

Meaning: of, out, from

Note: Aspirata erwiesen through gr. ἔσχατος.

Material:

Gr. ἐξ (dial. ἐς, before consonant ἐκ, ἐγ) 'from', prefix and preposition m. ablative, (genitive) and (Arcadian-Cypriot, pamph.) dative; Ionian Attic ἐκτός 'out of' (after ἐντός with τ for θ, compare:) lokr. ἐχθός (from ἐκσ + τοσ Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 326) epidaur. to ἔχθω, ἔχθοι reshaped, ἔσχατος `of the extreme, last ' (based on *ἐσχο- from *eĝzgho-, older *eĝhs-ko-), less certainly ἐχθρός `fiend, detested ', originally `Landflüchtiger' or `foreigner, stranger' from *eĝhstros, wherefore were created after αἰσχ-ρός : -ίων, -ιστος, -ος further ἐχθίων, ἔχθιστος, ἔχθος, also ἔχθεσθαι, ἀπεχθάνομαι, ἀπεχθαίρω etc.;

Latin ex (out of it ē before b, d-, g-, t-, m- etc., ec before h) `from', prefix and preposition m. Abl., Oscan-Umbrian (about **exs*) ē-, e.g. Oscan ehpeيلاتas set `*are pillaged, are assigned ', Umbrian ehe-turstahmu `drive out, drive away, expel, exile, banish '; Latin exterus `outward, foreign, strange; compar. exterior -ius, genit. -oris, outer; superl. extremus -a -um, outermost; n. as subst. outer edge, extreme; in time, last; n. as subst., an end; 'ex- tremum', acc., for the last time; 'ad extremum', to the end or at the end; in degree or quality, extreme; esp. lowest, worst; 'extremum bonorum, malorum', the highest good, evil; superl. extimus -a -um, out- ermost' (exterior, extrēmus, externus, extrā, extimus), because of in **ek-t*- indicating Oscan ehtrad `outside; except, unless; prep. with acc., beyond, outside of, without; except for ', Umbrian ap ehtre `*ab extrim ', Old Irish echtar, cymr. eithyr `outside; except, unless; prep. with acc., beyond, outside of, without; except for ', acymr. heitham, ncymr. eithaf ( : extimus) its x previously was restored from ex;

Old Irish ess-, preceding ass-, a, cymr. eh-, gall. ex- (e.g. in Exobnus `fearless' : Old Irish essamain, mcymr. ehofyn), before consonant ec-, prefix and (Irish) preposition m. Dat.(-Abl.);

Old Prussian esse, assa, assæ (with an unclear extension), es-teinu `from now on ';

with hard i: Lithuanian iž, iš, Latvian iz, is, Old Prussian is, Old Church Slavic iz, izъ, is `from', prefix and preposition m. Abl.(-Gen.), probably also partly real Gen.; after Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 155, 505 zero grade Balto Slavic **iž* (?); s. also Endzelin Latvian Gr. 33, about Latvian iz 507.

WH. I 423 places also Armenian preverb y- (e.g. y-ainem `uplifts me ': Latin ex-orior `to come out, come forth, spring up, rise, appear') and the preposition with Abl. i `from' here (doubtful); also dubious is Meillet's (MSL. 18, 409) explanation the Tocharian A-Postposition -ṣ `not at all' from **-kṣ*. common Old Indic ĝh- > kṣ-

Maybe alb. negative particle s `not at all' : Tocharian A-Postposition -ṣ `not at all'

About verbal compounds in several languages, as e.g. gr. ἐκ-φέρω, Latin ef-ferō `to carry out, take out, bring forth, take away, remove ', Old Irish as-biur `say, express, *take out' ( **ek̥s-bʰerō*), gr. ἔξ-εἶμι, Latin ex-eō `to go out, go forth, go away, depart, withdraw, retire ', Lithuanian iš-eĩti, Old Church Slavic iz-iti ds. etc., s. WH. I 423 f.

Maybe nasalized zero grade alb. nxjerr `bring out, take out' < Latin ex-orior `to come out, come forth, spring up, rise, appear'

References: WP. I 116 f., WH. I 423 ff., Trautmann 105, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 326.

Page(s): 292-293

---

Root / lemma: eġ-, eġ(h)om, eġō (**h<sub>1</sub>eġ-*)

Meaning: I

Note: -ġh- besides -ġ- is ensured only for Old Indic, thus probably secondarily after Dat. máhyam.

Note:

From Root / lemma: ehem, ehēu, eho (**eġh-*): `interjection, *an exclamation of joyful surprise' derived Root / lemma: eġ-, eġ(h)om, eġō: `I'

Material: Old Indic ahám, Avestan azəm, Old pers. adam (**eġ(h)om*);

Note:

The shift ġ(h) > d, t is recorded in alb. and Old pers. alone see below.

Armenian es (from **ec*, Indo Germanic eġ before conservative anlaut);

gr. ἔγω, ἐγών, boot. iw, iwv; Latin egō as gr. ἐγώ has changed from **egom*, perhaps while **ἐγὼν φέρω* stretched after ἐγὼ φέρω, egō ferō, and **ἐγών* are directed after **ἐδῶν* `gave ' etc. (about Latin egomet `I myself' s. WH. I 396)? Faliscan eko, ego; probably also Oscan íiv `I?'; s. finally Kretschmer Gl. 21, 100, Sommer IF. 38, 171 ff.;

venet. exo `I' (compare mexo `me ');

Gothic ik, Old High German ih (ihh-ā `I myself ' with the particle -ā), Old Saxon ic, Proto Norse ek, ik, Old Norse ek and enclitic Proto Norse -ika (**eġom*), West Germanic also **īk* (lengthening after **tū*) in Old English īc, Modern High German Franconian aich, Old Norse also ēk (proto Germanic **ékaʰ*, from which proclitic ek, ik, enclitic **ka*);

Lithuanian àš, old eš, Latvian es, Old Prussian es, as (**eġ*);

Old Church Slavic azъ (quite seldom jazъ) from **ēghomʰ*?, nsloven. russ. poln. ja (to explanation of anlaut vowels s. lastly WH. I 862, Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 452); Common h > j- Slavic Albanian.

Note:

Maybe: Old Church Slavic jazъ derived from Swedish jag 'I'

Tocharian ñuk 'I' after Petersen Lang. 11, 204?;

Hittite ú-uk (uk) with u after am-mu-uk 'me, I', secondary 'I', that against u has related from the 2. Sg. tu-uk 'you (dat.) you'.

Maybe reduced nasalized alb. (**unk*) unë 'I' : alb. Arbëresh uthë 'I' [common alb. -k > -th]

Indo Germanic eĝ(h)om is presumably after J. Schmidt (KZ. 36, 405) neuter; which actually stands for '(my) hereeness' and it has evolved from the Pron.-stem e- which is considered worth under **ghe*, **gho* enclitic particles.

References: WP. I 115 f., WH. I 395 f., 862; Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 209, 602, 604<sup>2</sup>, Trautmann 72, Pedersen Hittite 73 f.

Page(s): 291

Root / lemma: ehem, eheu, eho (**heĝh-*)

Meaning: interjection, 'an exclamation of joyful surprise'

Note: mostly independent neologisms

Material: Ved. áha, Old Indic ahahā, ahē, ahō, hamhō etc.;

Latin ehem, hem (an exclamation of joyful surprise), eheu, heu (: Old Indic ahō) 'ach, oh!', eho 'hey there!'; for Old Indic ah-, Latin eh- one could place Indo Germanic **eĝh-*.

Modern High German hem, hum, hm (: Latin hem); compare Modern High German aha, oh!;

References: WP. I 115, WH. I 396 and above S. 281 ē, ō.

Page(s): 293

Root / lemma: eb<sup>h</sup>- (: ob<sup>h</sup>-), ieb<sup>h</sup>- (**heb<sup>h</sup>-*)

Meaning: to copulate

Note: probably a taboo with metathesis of anlaut

Material: Old Indic yábhati 'copulates';

gr. οἴφω, οἴφέω 'copulate'; οἴφολης 'obscene';

Doric-Illyrian mythical PN Οἰβαλος ` of or belonging to one's birth '; perhaps Germanic **aiþō* ` family, a district, canton, province, region ' in langob. -aib (Ant-aib, Burgund-aib), Old High German -eiba (Weter-eiba, Wingart-eiba);

Slavic **jebō* ` copulate ' in russ. jebú, jetí, Serbo-Croatian jèbêm, jèbatí (with newly formed infinitive), etc.

Common h > j- Slavic Albanian.

References: WP. I 198, Specht KZ. 59, 121<sup>2</sup>, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 722<sup>1</sup> (sieht in gr. ò- ein preverb e, o, above S. 280).

Page(s): 298

---

Root / lemma: eig-, oig- (**heig-*)

Meaning: to complain, entreat

Material: Gr. οἶκος ` pity, compassion, the lamenting ', οἰκτρός ` pitiable, in piteous plight, lamentable, wretched ', οἰκτῖρω (Aeolic οἰκτίρρω) `have mercy on, bemoan ';

in addition verb **eigiō* in Middle Irish éigid ` screams ', éigem f. `cry', to-formation in lachtaid ` groans, shouts ';

Gothic aihtrōn ` ask, cadge ' (denominative of gr. οἰκτρός corresponding noun agent or rather of neuter **oiktrōm*).

References: WP. I 105 f.

Page(s): 298

---

Root / lemma: ei-3 (**hei-3*)

Meaning: multicoloured; reddish

Note: extended (e)i-uo-, (e)i-ūā `yew' etc.

Material: Armenian aigi ` grapevine ' (**oiuīā*);

gr. οἴη, ὄη, ὄα ` service-tree, rowan tree' (**oiuā*) = Latin ūva ` a grape, berry of the vine ';

gall. ivo-, proto Irish iua-, Old Irish ēo m., cymr. ywen m., acorn. hiuin, bret. ivin m. `yew';

Old High German īwa, Middle High German īwe, mnl. ijf, Modern High German Eibe f., Old English īw m., Old Icelandic ȳr ` yew' (**eiuo-*), named after the red-brown wood;

besides **ei-ko-* in Old High German īgo, Old Saxon Pl. īchas, Swiss īche, īge, Old English īh, ēoh 'yew';

Lithuanian ievà, jievà f., Latvian (with irregular intonation) iēva 'alder buckthorn, alder dogwood' (**eiūā*), Old Prussian iūwis 'yew' (**iūa-*), named after the red-brown wood; russ.-Church Slavic iva, Serbo-Croatian īva (= Latvian iēva), russ. íva 'Weide', Old Czech jíva 'yew, willow'; Common h > j- Slavic Albanian.

Old Indic é̄ta- 'glimmering, varicolored', m. 'steed, bird, antelope' etc., Proto Indic PN (14. Jh.) Aita-ggama 'riding on a ram' (Kretschmer KZ. 55, 93), f. énī, in addition (with ṇ for n after hariṇī, Femin. to harita 'yellowish', compare also hariṇá- 'gazelle'): ēṇa- m. 'kind of antelope' (Schulze Kl. Schr. 123).

References: WP. I 105 f., 165, Trautmann 68, Kluge<sup>12</sup> s. v. Eibe, Specht Dekl. 63, 205.

Page(s): 297-298

---

Root / lemma: ei-4 : oi- (**h<sub>3</sub>ei-4*)

Meaning: pole; thill

Note: extended through s- or l-, n-, *r-*stem; qi-es- : īs- : ois- 'shaft'

Material: Old Indic īṣā 'shaft';

gr. (**h<sub>3</sub>oiḡion*) οἰῖον 'rudder, helm', Attic (**h<sub>3</sub>oiḡsa*) οἰᾶξ, -κος ds.; gr. **oi[σ]ā* corresponds:

Baltic **aisā* as wellspring from Finnish wotj. (etc.) aisa 'shaft, pole of the helm, thill';

ei-el- in Lithuanian ielekstis f. 'Deichselstange', Latvian ielukšī, ablaut. īlkss, ilkmis ds.; Lithuanian ailė 'shaft, pole', žem. āilis 'a knotty branch, rough stick, cudgel, club', Latvian ailis 'shaft, pole';

ei-en- in Lithuanian iena f. 'thill pole';

qi-er- in Old Icelandic Old English ār 'helm pole', that according to the loanword Finnish airō and Latvian aīr-is, aīre, Lithuanian vaīras 'rudder' based on proto Germanic **airō*;

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **h<sub>3</sub>ue-* > gw- > g-; Lithuanian gw- > v-.

oi-es- also in sloven. Serbo-Croatian Czech oje 'shaft' (Gen. sloven. ojese).

References: WP. I 167, Lidén Studien 60 ff., Specht Dekl. 101.

Page(s): 298

---

Root / lemma: eis-1

Meaning: to move rapidly, *hot iron

Comments:

Root / lemma: aios- : 'metal (copper; iron)' : Root / lemma: eis-1 : 'to move rapidly, *weapon, iron' : Root / lemma: ies- : to foam, boil.

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset ü-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

Gr. Doric (*iasros) ἰαρός (: Old Indic iśirá-), Attic (*iesros) ἱερός ( $r$ : er, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 482), Lesbian Ionian ἱρος (*isros) 'strong, lively'; further gr. (*isnao, *isneo) ἱνάω, ἱνέω (if read with  $i$ ), so that is deducible from *iσν-άω, -έω) 'send away, empty, drain; pour out', Med. 'empty oneself' (compare Old Indic iṣṇāti);

(*oiso, *oisomai) οἶω, οἶομαι (οἶσσαντο, ἀνωιστός, ἀν-ωιστί, ὠίσθην, οἰσθείς) 'meine, komme mit meinen Gedanken worauf, verfalle worauf', by Hom. with  $i$ : either through metr. lengthening from *ὀ-ἰ[σ]-ω or from *ὀ-ἰ[σ]ιο:, after hom. οἶμαι (from οἶομαι);

(*oisma) οἶμα 'stormy attack, rush', οἰμάω 'tear off', beides from bird of prey, as ved. ēṣati also from shooting out the bird of prey on his nest (gr. basic form *οἶσμα, compare Avestan aēšma-); here also still οἶστρος 'the gadfly, breese, an insect which infests cattle; a sting, anything that drives mad; the smart of pain, agony; mad desire, insane passion; madness, frenzy' next-related to Lithuanian aistrā 'intense ferventness, passion', aistrūs 'ardent' (not better above S. 12); in similar meaning ἰστυάζει ὀργίζεται;

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_3^woh_1^we-$  > Greek oi- if gr. (*isa-osmai) ἰάομαι 'to heal, cure; to be healed, to recover'.

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_3^w o-$  > Proto Greek > yao- > Greek iao-

Gr. (\*isatros) ἰατρός 'physician, medicine man, magician; one who heals, a mediciner, physician or surgeon (for there seems to have been no professional distinction)' here belong, is dubious; Attic forms without Asper speak rather against intervocalic -s- and  $\bar{i}$  against anlaut.  $\epsilon\acute{\alpha}$ ; it is not surprising by a cultural word would be of foreign origin; Theander (Eranos 21, 31 ff.) derives from the sacred name  $\acute{\alpha}\alpha$  from, which would also define the swaying quantity of  $\acute{\alpha}$  (the goddess of the art of healing  $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\sigma\acute{\omega}$ ,  $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\sigma\acute{\omega}$  f.,  $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\sigma\omega\nu$ ,  $\acute{\alpha}\lambda\sigma\omega\nu$  m. etc., perhaps also the root name  $\acute{\alpha}(F)\omicron\nu\epsilon\varsigma$ , compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 80, as  $\acute{\alpha}$ -Rufer);

Maybe Hittite Isara (f.) 'a goddess of the art of healing'.

Reduplicated gr. (\*ia-isno) ἰαίνω 'warm' has and requires  $\bar{i}$  furthermore in spite of Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 681, 694, 700 it doesn't belong to it; see above S. 11 and W. Schulze Qunder ep. 381 ff.; after Wissmann Nom. postverb. 203 should explain  $\acute{\alpha}\alpha\mu\alpha\iota$  the sound-symbolic lengthened zero grade the root  $\epsilon\acute{\alpha}$ -, it did not need to be separated of the quantity difference because of ἰαίνω;

wruss. Jesa,

Reduplicated laryngeal: Lithuanian Aĩsė, Ἀἷσσοπος (Bruttium), Venetic Aesontius > Isonzo, Umbrian Aesis, Aesinus, (Illyrian Baltic substrate)

etrusk. aesar 'god', Italian **aíso-*, **aísí-* ds. are to be kept away and barely equate with gr. ἰερός.

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Italic ae- = Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Baltic ai-

Reduplicated laryngeal Old Norse (**e-isa) eisa 'storm along', Norwegian FIN Eisand, wherefore Old English ofost, Old Saxon oġast 'haste, hurry, eagerness' from **oġ-aist-*;

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Germanic ai- here also Old Indic īṣu-, Avestan išu- m. 'arrow'; gr. ióc ds. from **iṣu-os*, compare to meaning οἰστός;

Old Indic iṣṇāti, iṣyati 'sets in motion, swings, shoots up (squirts out), comes floating; it hurries, presses forward', éṣati 'glides' (ēṣá- 'hurrying', éṣa- 'the rush'), īṣatē 'hurries away' (Adv. īṣát 'approaching'), iṣaṇat 'he came floating', iṣaṇyáti 'comes floating, stimulates, animates', iṣayáti 'is fresh, astir, strong; refreshed, animated', īṣ- f. 'refreshment, invigoration' (also in īṣ-kṛti- 'healing'), iṣirá- (: ισρός, Isara) 'strong, active';

Avestan aēš- 'set in hasty motion' (present stem iša-, iṣya-, aēšaya-, Old pers. aišaya-), Avestan aēšma- m. 'anger';

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan ae-

Latin īra, Plaut. eira (**eisā*) 'anger';

perhaps here gall. Isarno-PN, isarno-dori 'a door made of iron', Old Irish īarn, Middle Irish īarann n., cymr. (**ha-isarn*) haiarn (required ī-), acorn. (**ho-isarn*) hoern, bret. (**ho-isarn*) houarn 'iron' as 'strong metal' in contrast to soft bronze;

Maybe alb. (**hesru*) hekur 'iron': Spanish hierro: cymr. (**ha-isarn*) haiarn, acorn. (**ho-isarn*) hoern, bret. (**ho-isarn*) houarn 'iron' (Illyrian substrate).

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Celtic hai- =  $h_3 o h_1^w e-$  > Celtic hoi-

Germanic **īsarnan* n., Gothic eisarn, Old High German Old Saxon Old Norse īsarn 'iron' is because of ī- maybe borrowed from Venetic-Illyrian **eisarnon* before Germanic alteration from ei to ī, compare Venetic FIN 'Ισάρας, later īsarcus, Modern High German Eisack (Tirol); in addition the proto Irish PN I(s)aros, Old Irish īār, Balkan Illyrian iser, Messapic isareti (Krahe IF. 46, 184 f.); further perhaps Celtic-Ligurian-Venetic-Illyrian-Baltic FIN word Is- in Celtic FIN Isarā, Modern High German Isar, Iser, French Isère, **Isiā*, French Oise, **Isurā*, engl. Ure, etc. (Pokorny Urillyrier 114 f., 161);

Modern High German FIN Ill, Illach, Iller could also go back to proto Germanic **Is-/* and be compared with Latvian FIN Isline, Isīcis, wruss. Isťa (it could not be genuine Slavic because of -sť-) etc.; the name the Iller: **Illurā* could be compared with VN the Illyrii, (common Celtic Illyrian -sť > -ll- see Root / lemma: *ies-: to foam, boil, bret. gòell 'yeast' (**upo-ies-lo-*);

Maybe alb. Ilura: zero grade alb. (**Ilura*) Lura PN

the full grade **Eis-* besides in Īsarcus still in many Baltic FIN: **Eisīā*, Lithuanian iesiā, **Eislā*, Lithuanian ieslā, Lithuanian Eisra, etc. (Būga RSl. 6, 9 f., Rozwadowski RSl. 6, 47); whereas Būga introduces back wruss. Istra, Latvian Sea name Istra, Lithuanian FIN Isra, Old Prussian FIN Instrutis 'Inster' and thrak. Ἰστρος from **Instr-*; yet one could explain Ἰστρος from **Is-ro-s*;

References: WP. I 106 f., WH. I 717 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 282, 482<sup>5</sup>, 491, 679<sup>7</sup>, 681, 694, 700, 823.

Page(s): 299-301

---

Root / lemma: ei-s-2, ei-n- (**heis-*)

Meaning: ice

Material: Avestan isu- 'icy', aēxa- n. 'coldness', pāmīr. īš- 'coldness', osset. yex, ix 'ice', afghan. asai 'frost' (if from inchoative formation **is-sk-*?; different Specht Dekl. 18, 201, 234);

Old Norse íss, Pl. íssar m. 'ice', Old English īs n., Old Saxon Old High German Middle High German īs n. 'ice';

Balto Slavic **inīa-* m. and **inīja-* m. 'hoarfrost' in Church Slavic inej, inij 'snow flurry', russ. ínej m. and Old Czech jíníe n. 'hoarfrost', Lithuanian ýnis m. (also fem. ístem).

References: WP. I 108, Trautmann 104.

Page(s): 301

---

Root / lemma: ei- (**heī-*)

Meaning: to go

Note: extended ei-dh-, ei-gh-, i-tā- and i-ā-, i-ē-: iō-: iə-

Material: Old Indic émi, éti, imáh, yánti 'go', Avestan aēiti, yeinti, Old pers. aitiy 'goes', themat. Med. Old Indic áya-tē etc. (apparent lengthened grade of Old Indic āiti, Avestan āiti 'goes to, comes to, comes up to, approaches, draws near' is **ā-aiti*, with prefix ā);

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$ > Avestan ae-

gr. hom. εἶμι 'will go', εἶ (**eís*), εἶσι (Doric εἶτι), Pl. ἴμεν, ἴτε, ἴασι (neologism for **ἴεσι* instead of hēsi, **hēnti*, Indo Germanic **i-enti*, Old Indic yánti); Impf. Attic ἦα (neologism for **ἦα* = Old Indic āyam); Konj. ἴω (instead of **ἴω*, Indo Germanic **eīō*, Old Indic 3. Sg. áyāt); Opt. εἴη (instead of **ἴη*, Indo Germanic **iīēt*, Old Indic iyā́t), Imper. ἔξ-ει (Latin ī, Lithuanian eĩ-k), ἴθι (Old Indic ihí, Hittite i-i-ti);

Maybe zero grade alb. (e)ik-i: Lithuanian eĩ-k 'go'

Latin eō 'go' (**eī-ō* for athemat. **eī-mi*), īs, it, Pl. īmus, ītis (neologism as Lithuanian eĩ-mė), eunt (**eī-onti* for previous **i-enti*), Imper. ī (**eī*), particle present iēns instead of **iēns* = Old Indic yán, Gen. yat-áh (**i-nt-es*, compare gr. Ἐπρίασσα), Old Lithuanian ent- (instead of **jent-*); Perf. ĩĩ (**i-i-ai*, Old Indic iy-āy-a), secondary ĩvĩ,

Paelignian eíte = 'you go, walk, ride, sail, fly, move, pass', Umbrian etu = 'to go, walk, ride, sail, fly, move, pass' (ampr-ehetu, apretu 'ambit, circuitous route', en-etu = in-ītō), etu-tu 'he/she shall go, walk, ride, sail, fly, move, pass', eest, est 'he/she will go, walk, ride, sail, fly, move, pass' (**eī-seti*), ier 'be going away' (demonstrates a Perf. **ied*), etc.; Oscan eítuns (set) 'they will be gone' (**eī-tōn-es*);

cymr. wyf 'I am', actually 'I go' 2. Sg. wyt (different about wyt Stern ZfceltPh. 3, 394 Anm.);

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **h<sub>2</sub>ue-* > gw- > w-.

Gothic iddja 'I walked' probably = Latin ĩĩ, Old Indic iy-āy-a; s. Lithuanian by Feist 288; Old English ēode 'walked' is unexplained;

Old Prussian ēit 'goes', ēisei 'you go', perēimai 'we come', Inf. perēit,

Old Lithuanian eĩmi, eĩsi, eĩti, Pl. eimė, eitė, and eimi, eisi, eĩti(i), Pl. eĩme, eĩte, Dual eivà, eità, preterit ėjaũ, Inf. eĩti, Supin. eĩtu (= Old Indic étum Inf.); Latvian eĩmu (older **eĩmi*), iēmu (secondary eju, **ietu*, Lithuanian dial. eitù etc.); Inf. iēt, iēt, Supin. iētu,

Old Church Slavic Inf. iti (= Lithuanian eĩti), present idŏ, Aor. idъ, neologism to Imper. **i<sup>dh</sup>i* > **idъ* > idi, as also Lithuanian eidu 'I go' to Imper. **eidĩ*, Maybe alb. (**e-ki*) eci 'I walk'.

Tocharian A ymäs 'we go', B yam 'he goes', usually no-present yanem 'they go', etc.;

Hittite Ipv. i-it (it) 'go!' (= gr. ἴθι), medial e-hu 'come!'; pa-a-i-mi (paimi, with preverb prefix **pe*-) 'I go away', 3. Pl. pa-an-zi (**-i-enti*, Old Indic yánti), etc.; s. Pedersen Hittite 129 f.;

Maybe alb. hiki, iki 'I go'.

unclear is the Indo Germanic basic form of a voiced stop i-ja-at-ta-ri (ijattari) 'goes, marches'; compare Couvreur H 101;

-i-o 'going' as 2. composition part in gr. πεζός among others, s. W. Schulze LEN. 435<sup>3</sup>.

Formations: Old Indic ití-f. 'gait, alteration', ityā 'gait', dur-itā- (Avestan duž-ita-) 'hardly accessible', prātar-itvan- 'früh ausgehend oder auskommend', itvarā 'going', vītā- (**vi-ita*-) see below; éta- 'hurrying'; Infin. étum;

gr. ἀμαξ-ιτός 'mobile for carriage', ἱραμός, ἱρής '(brave =) pert, foolhardy', εἰσ-ιτήρια 'Antrittsopfer'; -o-grade οἶτος 'fate of people, destiny' (compare 'course of the world', s. different above S. 11);

Latin exitium, initium (: fem. Old Indic ityā); itiō 'going out or away; hence destruction, ruin; also a cause of destruction' (: Old Indic ití-); iter, itineris n. 'way, alley' (compare Tocharian A ytārf., B ytārye f. 'way, alley', Hittite i-tar, Gen. innas 'the going', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Irish ethar m. 'scow, ferry-boat', originally r/n-stem; com-es, -itis 'companion'; itus, -ūs m. 'gait', next to which zero grades **eí-tu-s* probably as base from Oscan eituam, eítiuvam 'property, riches, wealth, *incomings' (compare to meaning 'entrance, incomings, returning, return, entering, right or privilege of entrance' or 'moving property');

Old Irish Pass. ethae 'gone away, departure', ethaid 'goes', ad-etha (**-it-āt*) 'seizes'; perhaps Old Irish ōeth 'oath', acymr. an-utonou, mcymr. an-udon 'perjury' = Gothic aip̃s, Old Norse eiðr, Old English āþ, Old Saxon ēth, Old High German eid 'oath' (formal = gr. οἶτος, meaning perhaps evolved from 'oath way, stepping forward to taking of an oath', compare Swedish ed-gång?, s. but above S. 11.);

asachs. frēthi `apostate, fleeting ', Old High German freidi `fleeting, bold, foolhardy ' (from **fra-iþya-*, **pro-ītios* `the the gone away, the departed ', compare Old Indic prēti- f. `leave, escape, departure ', in addition prētya `after the death, on the other side ');

Maybe prefixed alb. Geg me pritë (**pre-ita*) `to host' probably Old Norse vīðr `capacious, wide, vast, spacious', Old English Old Saxon wīd, Old High German wīt, Modern High German weit from **wi-itos* `gone apart ' (compare Old Indic vītá- `gone, dwindled, missing, without', vīta-bhaya- `fearless', vīti- f. `go away, pass over, depart, seclude oneself' and Latin vītāre, see below).

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-; Old Indic Lithuanian Tocharian gw- > w-, v-, Latin gw- > v-.

iterative i-tā- in gr. ἰτητέον, ἰτητικός el. ἐπ-αν-ιτᾱκῶρ, Latin itō, -āre, Old Irish ethaid `goes', Umbrian (with secondary lengthened grade probably after eitu, eite) etatu, etato `have gone, will go'; unclear gr. φοιτᾶω `go here and there' (ἰτᾶω with prefix **φοι*, to Gothic Old High German bi-??), Latin vītāre `to shun, seek to escape, avoid, evade ' = `(by Plaut. m. dative) go from the way, go from sb '; doubtful, if here Latin ūtor (Old Latin oetor, oitile) `to use, make use of, employ, profit by, take advantage of, enjoy, serve oneself with ', Paelignian oisa aetate `get used to an enjoying life ', Oscan úittiuf `usufruct ', with prefix o-, originally `approach, wherewith deal with ' (úittiuf still distinct with corresponding Latin ititō; still it remains to be clarified, if the present from **o-itārī* would be transferred in the way of the root verb);

if οἶσω `will carry ' as `go up to something ' or `go with something ' as based on ūtor from **o-* + **it-*? After Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 752<sup>9</sup> rather from **o-i-s-*; compare under οἶχομαι.

d<sup>h</sup>-formations: gr. ἴθμα n. `gait ', εἰσίθμη `entrance '; doubtful ἰσθμός, Attic inschr. Ὠισθμός `narrow access, tongue of land, promontory, isthmus; neck ' (basic form **d<sup>h</sup>-d<sup>h</sup>mos*? at least the way of the penetration from σ would not be clear in older **ἴθμος*); compare Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 492<sup>12</sup>;

Old Norse eíð `isthmus ';

Lithuanian Instr. eĩdine `in amble, easy pace ' (of horses), Old Church Slavic idq `go' (see above).

m-formation:

Old Indic é̃ma- m. `gait ' (but gr. οἶμος, οἶμος `gait ' to εἰσάτο, s. μει- ἔμαι `set a going, put in motion'); Lithuanian eĩsmẽ `gait, Steige ' with Lithuanian -sm-suffix.

μ-formation:

Old Indic é̃va- m. `run, departure, way, consuetude, custom'; Old Indic dur-é̃va- `of bad kind, mad, wicked, evil'; Old High German ēwa (**oīuā*) f. `law, norm, covenant, matrimony ', Old Saxon ēu, ēo m., Old English æw, æ f. `law, sacred custom, matrimony ' (for resemblance with ēua `eternity, perpetualness ' pleads Weigand-Hirt s. v.); compare also Gothic hwaiwa `as, like' (if from **q̥wōiμos* from **q̥wō-oīμos*; so also gr. ποῖος ?, see below q̥wō);

e-grade Lithuanian pėreiva, pėreivis `landloper ', after Specht KZ. 65, 48 from Adj. **ejūs*, to ved. upāyú- `approaching '.

f-formation probably in intensive Old Saxon īlian, Old High German īllan `hurry, rush ' (from **ijillian*; **ēielīō*, formation as Latin sepeliō); at most, yet very doubtful, Norwegian dial. eil f. `gully resembling a dent ', Swedish dial. ela ds., Lithuanian eilẽ `row, furrow', Latvian ailis `area, row'.

gh-extension in:

Armenian ēj `descent ', ijanem (Aor. ēj) `climb down, go down', ijavank Pl. `inn ', ijavor `guest';

Maybe alb. Geg hyj `enter', huaj `foreign'.

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **h̥ue-* > gw- > w-; Albanian **h̥ue-* > hy-.

gr. εἴχεται οἴχεται Hes., οἴχομαι `go away, be away ', οἴχνέω `go, come', perhaps also ἵχνος, ἵχνιον `footprint ' (as `tread, step');

Old Irish ōegí, Gen. -ed `guest';

Lithuanian eigà f. `gait '.

īā- in:

Old Indic yāti 'goes, travels', Avestan yāiti ds., Old Indic yāna-ḥ m. 'pathway', n. 'gait, vehicle', Avestan yāh- n. 'crisis, (turning point), verdict' (s-stem);

Common ḥ > j- Slavic Albanian; ḥ > j̣-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

gr. ἑπι-ἰσσω 'pressed, squeezed, being upon' (with -nt-suffix), epithet of Demeter (: Old Indic yāti 'the going');

Latin Jānus 'Old Italian God of the doors and the beginning of the year; he had a small temple in the Forum, with two doors opposite to each other, which in time of war stood open and in time of peace were shut', jānua 'doors';

Common ḥ > j- Slavic Albanian Italic.

Old Irish ā 'pivot, axle, cart' (Indo Germanic **iā*), āth 'ford' (**iā-tu-s*; brit. supplementary assumes Pedersen KG. I 322 f.);

Lithuanian jóju, jóti, Latvian jāju, jāt 'ride', Lithuanian jodyti 'ride continually';

Old Church Slavic jadŭ, jachati (s-extension **iā-s*) 'drive, be carried, conveyed', participle Pass. prě-javъ, jazda 'the going, riding', jato 'herd, flock' (see to Slavic forms Berneker 441 f., v. d. Osten-Sacken IF. 33, 205, Brückner KZ. 45, 52, Persson Beitr. 348 f.); in addition Slavic FIN Jana (Nowgorod), Janka (Vilna), Jana (Bulgaria), Modern High German Jahna (Saxony); s. Rozwadowski RSI. 6, 64.

Perhaps also here Latvian Jānis (thrown together with christl. Johannes) as a ruler of the sky gate; compare above E. Fraenkel Baltic Sprachwiss. 134;

Tocharian A yā 'he walked', B yatsi 'go', with p-extension yopsa 'he entered', etc. (Pedersen Tocharian 231); compare Old Indic yāpáyati 'allows to reach to'.

jē- in jēro-, jōro-, jəro- 'year, summer':

Old Indic paryāriṇī- (pari-yāriṇī-) 'calving after one year only' (?);

Avestan yārə n. 'year';

gr. (**h<sub>3</sub>ṛ̥pa*) ὥρα 'season, daytime, hour, right time', ὥρος 'time, year';

Also alb. herë 'time', herët 'early' from Old French heure 'early', from Late Latin hora 'canonical hour', from gr. ὥρα 'season, daytime, hour, right time'; again alb. ora 'hour' from gr. ὥρα 'hour'.

perhaps Latin hōrnus ` of this spring, this year's ', if being based on **hōiōrō* `in these years', compare Old High German hiuru `this year' from **hiu jāru*; proto Celtic **iārā* (**iērā*), cymr. bret. iar `hen', gall. PN iarilla, Middle Irish eir-īn `chicken' (Old Irish **air-īn*); incorrect O'Rahilly Eriu 13, 148 f.;

Gothic jēr, Old Norse ār, Old English geār, Old Saxon Old High German jār n. `year';

russ.-Church Slavic jara `spring ', russ. jarb `summer harvest ' (etc., s. Berneker 446, therefrom derivatives for one-year-old animal, e.g. russ. járec `one-year-old beaver', járka `sheep lamb ', Bulgarian járka `young chicken ');

Common h > j- Slavic Albanian Germanic.

against it certainly here Middle High German jān `row, way ', Modern High German Jahn `way, row of mowed grain ', Swedish mundartl. ān ds.

References: WP. I 102 ff., WH. I 406 ff., 658 f., 668 f., 723, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 674.

Page(s): 293-297

---

Root / lemma: ekyo-s (**hekyo-*)

Meaning: horse

Note:

Horses were often considered the most precious sacrifice for the sea god. That is why from Root / lemma: akwā- (correct ekwā): ēkw- (**hekw-*): `water, river' derived Root / lemma: ekyo-s (**heky-*): `horse'.

Material:

Old Indic ásva-h, Avestan aspa- Old pers. asa- `horse'; about osset. yāfs see below;

gr. ἵππος ds. m. f. (originally without Asper: Ἰππος etc.);

thrak. PN Βετέσπιος, Οὐτάσπιος, Autesbis, Esbenus, Lycian Κακασβος; about Lycian esbe-di `cavalry' (Phrygian loanword?) s. Pedersen Lycian and Hittite 51, 67 (**ekujio-m?*);

Latin equus `a horse, steed, charger' (compare Oscan names Epius, Epidius, Epetinus, yet s. Schulze EN 220<sup>4</sup>, 355);

Old Irish ech, gall. epo- (in Eporēdia, Epona `The Celtic horse goddess whose authority extended even beyond death, accompanying the soul on its final journey ', etc.), cymr. corn. ebol `foals' (**epālo-*);

Old English eoh m., Old Norse iōr 'horse', Old Saxon in ehu-skalk 'groom, stableman', Gothic in aíhva-tundi 'briar' (*horse tooth');

Tocharian A yuk, Gen. yukes, B yakwe 'horse' with prothet. y (as in osset. jäfs, New Indic dial. yāsp ds.); out of it borrowed türk. etc. jük 'horse's load', from which russ. juk 'Saumlast' etc.

Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

About Latin asinus 'an ass', hinnus 'mule', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns, -nt > -nn), gr. ὄνος etc. s. WH. I 72 f., 647, 849.

fem. Old Indic ásvā, Avestan aspā, Latin equa, Old Lithuanian ašvā, ešva 'mare' (the formation held by Meillet BSL. 29, LXIV rightly for single-linguistic, Lommel Indo Germanic Fem. 30 f. for previously proto form);

Old Indic ásv(i)ya-, Avestan aspya-, gr. ἵππιος 'of a horse, of horses'; Latin equinus 'of a horse, of horses', Old Prussian aswinan n. 'kumys, mare milk', Lithuanian ašvīenis m. 'stallion', compare also FIN Ašviné, Ašvā; gr. ἵππότης 'equestrian, horseman': Latin eques, -ītis m. ds 'a horseman, rider'. (letzteres from **eqʷot*-).

The gr. word could exist because of tarent. epid. ἵκκος Illyrian loanword; compare Pannonian PN Ecco, Eppo, maked. PN Ἐπό-κίλλος, the builder of the Trojan horse Ἐπειός, VN Ἐπειοί in Illyrian Elis, etc. (Krahe Festgabe Bulle 203 ff.); neither the Asper nor l can be explained by gr., yet the various treatments from kʷ- in gr. were not surprising, because also the labiovelars are treated dialectically differently there (Risch briefl.).

References: WP. I 113, WH. I 412 f., 862, Trautmann 72, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 68, 301, 351, 499.

Page(s): 301-302

---

Root / lemma: elg-

Meaning: miserable, poor

Material: Armenian atkatk 'miserable, poor, small, evil, bad'; Old High German ilki 'hunger'; Lithuanian elgtis 'beg', elgeta 'beggar' (Lidén Arm. stem 99 f.); kinship with **elk-* 'hungry; evil, bad' is but quite doubtful; see there.

References: WP. I 160.

Page(s): 310

---

Root / lemma: elkos-

Meaning: boil n.

Grammatical information: n.

Material: Old Indic árśas- n. 'hemorrhoid';

gr. ἔλκος n. 'wound, esp. pustulating wound, ulcer' (Spir. asper after ἔλκω), ἔλκανα τραύματα Hes., ἔλκαίνω 'I am wounded';

Latin ulcus, -eris 'ulcer' (**elkos*); to Latin ulcus probably also ulciscor, ultus sum 'to avenge oneself on, take vengeance on, punish, recompense' as 'collect bitterness, rancor against somebody'.

The latter would be placed against it from Pedersen KG. I 126 incredible to Old Irish olc, elc 'bad, evil, wicked, ugly, unlucky', s. **elk-* 'hungry; evil, bad'.

References: WP. I 160.

Page(s): 310

---

Root / lemma: elk-, elək-

Meaning: 'hungry, bad' (?)

See also: see above S. 307 (el-7, elə-)

Page(s): 310

---

Root / lemma: el-1, ol-, el- (**h<sub>2</sub>el-*)

Meaning: red, brown (in names of trees and animals)

Note: mostly i-, u- and n- (also m-) stem, rare from the bare root, which seems extended then with g or k. In names of swan and other sea birds the meaning is 'white, gleaming', as in a/b<sup>h</sup>o- 'white' refined names (above S. 30 f), thus both roots are probably identical originally.

Material:

A. Adjektiva:

Old Indic aruṇá-h 'reddish, golden', aruṣá-h 'fire-color', Avestan auruša- 'white';

Germanic **elwa-* 'brown, yellow' in Old High German elo (elawēr), Middle High German el (elwer); compare also gall. VN Helvii, Helvetii, perhaps also Swiss FIN Ilfis (**Elvisiā*). B. el- in tree names for 'alder', 'elm' and 'juniper':

1. `alder'

Latin alnus `alder' (from **alsnos* or **alenos*; the anlaut al goes back to older e/-);

maked. (Illyrian?) ἄλιζα (**elisā*) `abele, white poplar';

Hittite: <sup>GIS</sup>alanzan- c. 'a tree and its wood' (other etymologies in Tischler 15) after Bertoldi (ZfceltPh. 17, 184 ff.) places proto gall. **alisā* `alder' in many PN and FIN; besides the later dominant meaning `service tree' in **alisia*, French alise, Modern High German Else; Illyrian-Ligurian origin is proved through frequent occurrence in Corsica (FIN Aliso, Alistro etc., alzo `alder'); compare gall. PN Alisia, FIN Alisontia, French Aussonce, Auzance, Modern High German Elsenz, etc.;

for Gothic is according to span. aliso `alder' ein **alisa* `alder' must be assumed; Old High German elira and with metathesis erila, Modern High German Eller, Erle, mndd. elre (**alizō*), else (**alisō*), Dutch els ds., Old Norse elri n., elrir m.; alr, qlr (**aluz-*) ds., Old English alor ds.; Indo Germanic e root is guaranteed through Old Icelandic jǫlstr (**elustrā*) `alder' and ilstri `willow, Salix pentandra' (**elis-tr-jo-*; Middle High German dial. hilster, halster ds. with secondary h, as Swedish (h)ilster); an adj. formation is Old High German erlīn `of alder'; perhaps to compare also Old English ellen, ellern, engl. elder `elder';

It is to be compared further Lithuanian ālsnis, elksnis, Latvian ālsnis, East Latvian ēlsnis, East Lithuanian aliksniš, Old Prussian alskande (Hs. abskande) `alder', yet one will have to assume various basic forms **alsnīa*, **elsnīa* (with ablaut) and **alisnīa* (Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 6, yet compare v. d. Osten-Sacken IF. 33, 192). The suffix from Old Prussian alskande reminds after Trautmann an Slavic **jagnędъ* `black poplar'; also the Slavic shows old e/o-ablaut; go back to Slavic **jelъcha* (**elisā*): Old Bulgarian jelъcha `alder', Bulgarian (j)elhá ds.; on Slavic **olъcha* (**olisā*): poln. olcha, russ. olъcha `alder' (dial. also ělcha, elócha, volъcha);

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-; Slavic Albanian gw- > v-.

Maybe alb. verr `alder': russ. dial. also ělcha, elócha, volъcha `alder'.

Slavic **jelъša*, respectively **olъša* lies before in Serbo-Croatian dial. jěšá (compare jělāšje `alder bush' from **jelъšbje*), sloven. jétša, dial. ótša, jótša ds., russ. dial. olъša, olъšína, elъšína and lešína (compare Pedersen KZ. 38, 310, 317).

Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

As derived Adj. appears Balto-Slavic **al(i)seina-* : Lithuanian alksninis, East Lithuanian aliksiinis, Old Bulgarian jelbšinъ (compare Old High German erlīn).

2. `elm': elem-.

Note:

-m- suffix is of Illyrian Greek origin.

Latin ulmus 'an elm, elm-tree' goes to Indo Germanic **ol-mo-s* or to zero grades **l-mó-s* back; full grade (but s. S. 309) in Middle Irish lem 'elm' (**lemos*).

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-; Latin gw- > u-.

There, one puts gall. Lemo-, Limo- etc.; cymr. llwyf 'elm' falls out of the frame, that due to the basic form **leimā* must be placed probably to elēi- 'bend' (see 309).

Compare further Old High German ēlmboum 'elm', Old Norse almr (with o-grade), Middle Low German Old English elm ds.; Modern High German Ulme, Middle High German ulmboum should derive from Latin (Kluge), what is not sure at all, because compare Old English ulmtréow, Middle Low German olm, so that possibly Germanic contains all three Abl.-grades; russ. īlim, G. īl'ma etc. derives from Germanic

3. juniper and other conifers: el-eu-, el-en-.

Armenian etevin, Gen. etevni 'spruce, cedar';

perhaps gr. ἐλάτη 'fir, spruce' (**el-η-tā*);

extended in -g- suffix:

Lithuanian (**h<sub>1</sub>elge*) ēglius m. (for **élus* after ēglé 'fir') 'juniper', Latvian pa-egle f. ds.;

Note:

The name of juniper derived from the concept of 'smoking wood, dark color' hence Lithuanian ēglius m. is the closest form to primordial root. Armenian etevin, Gen. etevni 'spruce, cedar' similar to Armenian **alj-* in atjatj, atjamutjkh 'darkness': Gr. ἀχλὺς 'fog, darkness ', Old Prussian aglo n. 'rain'. Hence Root / lemma: el-1, ol-, el- (**heghl-*): red, brown (in names of trees and animals), derived from Root / lemma: aghl(u)- (**heghel-): rainy weather.

Slavic **ělonьcb* 'juniper' in Czech jalovec, russ. játovec ds., besides n-forms in wruss. jel-en-ec etc.

C. el- in animal names:

1. 'deer and similar to animal.'

a. with k-forms (Germanic Slavic olkis):

Old High German élho, élaho 'elk', Old English eolh, engl. elk ds.; with o-gradation (**olkís*) Old Norse elgr ds.; from an initial stressed form Germanic **álχis* derives Latin alcēs, alcē f. and gr. ἄλκη f. 'elk'; russ. losь, Czech los, poln. łoś, Upper Sorbian tos 'elk' (from **olkis*); zero grade: Old Indic ṛśa-ḥ ṛśya-ḥ 'male antelope', pam. rus 'wild mountain sheep'.

b. stem el-en-, el-η- (elēnī- 'hind '); zero grade l-ōn-:

Armenian etn, Gen. etin 'deer';

gr. ἔλαφος m. f. 'deer' (**elη-b<sup>h</sup>o-s*), ἐλλός 'young deer' (**elno-s*);

cymr. elain 'hind' (**elēnī* = Old Bulgarian alъni, lani ds.), Old Irish elít 'roe deer' (**elη-tī*) perhaps also Middle Irish ell f. 'herd' (**elnā*); ablaut. **lon-* in Gaelic lon m. 'elk'; gall. month name Elembiu (: gr. ὈἩλαφηβολιών);

Lithuanian ėlnis and ėlnias, Old Lithuanian ellenis m. 'deer' (out of it Middle High German elent, Modern High German Elen), Latvian ālnis 'elk';

Old Church Slavic (j)elenь 'deer' (older consonant-stem), russ. olénь etc.

Femin. **elēnī-* and **alēnī-* 'hind' in:

Lithuanian ėlnė and álnė ds., Old Prussian alne 'animal';

Old Bulgarian alъni, lani 'hind' (= cymr. elain), russ. (with junction in die *ŷ*Dekl.) lanь, Czech laní etc.;

in addition further very probably as **l-on-b<sup>h</sup>o-s* (with the same suffix as ἔλαφος) also Gothic lamb 'sheep', Old Norse lamb 'lamb, sheep', Old High German lamb 'lamb' (mostly neutr. -es-stem, what appears basic Germanic innovation after calf);

Maybe Alb. lopë 'cow' (**lāpā*), Latvian luõps 'cattle'; also Swiss loobe, lioba 'cow' see Root / lemma: *lāp- cow

As metathesis from **elen-* understands Niedermann IA. 18, 78 f. gr. ἔνελος νεβρός Hes.; Latin (h)inuleus borrowed out of it.

2. waterfowl: el-, ol-, with guttural extension or r- and *u-*stem.

Gr. 1. ἐλέα f. 'a kind of owl, a small marsh bird' (to ἔλος n. 'swamp, marsh?'); 2. ἐλώριος 'water-bird' (not quite supported word, leg. ἐρωδιός?);

Latin olor 'swan' (**elōh*);

Old Irish elae (**elouio-*) ds., with k-suffix acorn. elerhc, cymr. alarch (a- from e-, s. Pedersen KG. I 40);

Old Swedish and Swedish Dialectal alle, al(l)a, a(l)h (Finnish loanword allo), Swedish written-linguistic alfågel 'long-tailed duck', Norwegian Dialectal hav-al, -ella; with Indo Germanic g-derivative: Old Norse alka 'black and white North Atlantic auk, razorbill, penguin'; alka could also belong to onomatopoeic word roots el-, ol- 'cry' (see 306);

Maybe alb. Geg alka, alkë 'white cream, dirt, spot, fat of wool'.

because Indo Germanic -k(o)- suffix is common in animal names (above corn. elerhc), could be also added perhaps: gr. ἀλκυών 'kingfisher' (Latin alcēdo seems reshaped out of it), Swiss wīss-elg and birch-ilge from variant kinds of duck.

3. 'polecat'?

Perhaps here the 1. component from Old High German illi(n)tīso, Modern High German Illtis and Old High German elledīso (Modern High German dial. elledēis), nnd. üllek 'polecat', if from **illit-wīso* (to Modern High German Wiesel); Germanic **ella-* from **el-na-*, because of the red-yellow hair; different sees Kluge<sup>11</sup> therein Old High German ellentī (from elilentī, see above S. 25) 'strange'.

References: WP. I 151 f., 154 f., WH. I 28, 31, Specht Dekl. 37, 58 f., 116, Trautmann 6, 68 f., Pokorny Urilryier 137 f.

Root / lemma: el-2 (**hel-2*)

Meaning: to lie

Material: After Persson Wortf. 743 has defended a Indo Germanic root el- 'rest' and base **el-* with consecutive pattern: Old Indic iláyati 'stands still, gets some peace' (iláyati should be faulty spelling), an-ilaya-h 'restless, not still', wherefore probably Old Indic alasás 'idle, tired, dull' (to s-stem **alas-* 'tiredness' as rajasás: rájas-; after Uhlenbeck Wb. 15 belongs though alasá-h as a-lasa- 'not awake, not animated, not blithe' to lásati, s. las- 'greedy, insatiable'), Lithuanian alsà 'tiredness', ilstù, ilsti 'become tired', ilsíuos, ilsétis 'rest', ãt-ilsis 'relaxation'. The dissyllabic basis points, shows, evinces gr. ἐλινύω 'lie, rest, be powerless, hesitates, stops'. The whole construction is very dubious; compare about ἐλινύω lei-2 'crouch' and lēi- 'slacken'.

References: WP. I 152.

Page(s): 304-305

Root / lemma: el-3: ol- (**hel-3*)

Meaning: to rot

Note:

The extension of Root / lemma: el-3: ol-: 'to rot' into elk<sup>w</sup>h- caused k<sup>w</sup> > p, b then b > mb > ms.

Material: A root with variant determinative root.

without conservative extension seems to be the zero grade root in Norwegian ul 'become moldy', dial. also 'fill with disgust', Swedish ul 'rancid' etc., holl. uilig 'decayed' (from wood); derived verbs are Norwegian schw. ula, Old Norse Norwegian schw. ulna. If Old Indic āla- n., ālaka- (**ōl-ṇ-ko-*) 'poison' belongs here, it remains dubious.

mab. alb. helm 'healing drug, posion, medicine, herb' similar to Sanskrit āla- 'poison'. obviously alb. has preserved the old laryngeal h-.

clearly alb. shows that from Root / lemma: al-2: (to grow; to bear; grove) derived Root / lemma: el-3: ol-: (to rot, poison).

guttural extension lies before in:

Old Indic jīṣá-h 'viscous, smooth, slippery', Latin alga f. 'seaweed, kelp' from **elgā* (compare Old English wōs 'slime, mud, dampness': engl. woos 'seaweed') and very numerous Germanic, esp. Scandinavian-isl. forms, as: Norwegian dial. ulka 'fester, disgust ', refl. `start to rot ', ulka `mildew, adhesive mucus; repulsive, unclean woman', etc. hereupon also Danish ulk `bullhead ', Norwegian ulk `toadfish ', further Norwegian dial. olga `feel disgust, nausea ', elgja `want to vomit ' etc., isl. also æla (**alhian*); Norwegian dial. alka `pollute, litter ', ndd. alken `touch impure things, step on dirt '; -sk show Danish dial. alske `pollute ', ndd. alschen, Frisian alsk, älsk `impure, unclean, spoil' etc.

Maybe alb. alkë, alka `floating cream, wool fat, dirt, stain' : Old Indic ālaka- `poison'.

That Latin ulva (**oleuā*) `swamp-grass, sedge ' moreover belongs, is very probably; Lithuanian álksna `puddle' could go back to **olg-snā*.

Dental extension appears in:

Armenian aft (\!d-*) `smut, filth ', attiur, ettiur (under elteur) `damp lowland, depression'. In addition Old Norse ūldna `mildew ', Old High German oltar `dirt crumb ', probably also Old Norse ỹlda `mustiness smell '.

m-formant is found in:

Norwegian dial. ulma `mildew ', ndd. East Frisian olm, ulm `decay, esp. in wood', Middle Low German ulmich `fretted from decay ', Middle High German ulmic ds.; Lithuanian el̃mės, almens `the liquid flowing from the corpse '.

b<sup>h</sup>-extension lies in Armenian atb `filth ' before.

Maybe in b<sup>h</sup>- suffix alb. (**ǵalb*) kalb `rot, decay ', qelb `pus' common alb. ǵ- > k-.

References: WP. I 152 f., WH. I 28 f., Petersson Heterokl. 165 f.

Page(s): 305

---

Root / lemma: el-4, ol-

Meaning: expressive root, onomatopoeic words

Material: Armenian atmuk `din, fuss, noise, agitation etc.' (\!mo-*), alavt-k `imploration', olb `lament', olok `urgent request';

gr. ὄλολος `lamerter, effeminate person', ὄλολυγή `wailing, lament ', ὄλοφυδνός `lamenting', ὄλοφύρομαι `lament '; perhaps also ἔλεγος n. `dirge', ἔλεος m., later n. `pity';

asl. jalmr `din, fuss, noise', jalma `shout, make a harsh noise, hiss, whiz, rattle, crack, creak, rustle, clatter, tinkle, jingle, chink ', Norwegian Dialectal jalm, jelm `clangor ',

Swedish Dialectal jalm `scream, harsh sound'; Norwegian Dialectal alka `starts to complain', East Frisian ulken `drive to confusion, cry, mock, scoff' (Modern High German ulken), Swedish dial. alken `begin to growl';

Lithuanian nualdėti `sound', algóti `summon, name';

perhaps belong also the names for waterfowl from a root el-/ ol- here (yet s. S. 304); somewhat different is the sensation value from ul-.

References: WP. I 153 f., Pisani Armen. 8 f.

Page(s): 306

---

Root / lemma: el-5, ol- (**hel-*)

Meaning: to destroy

Material: Armenian etein, Gen. eteran `misfortune'; otorm `unlucky';

gr. ὄλλυμι `spoil' (**ol-vu:-mi*), Fut. ὀλέσω, Perf. ὀλώλεκα (older intrans. ὄλωλα) etc., after Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 747 ὀλ- instead of *ἐλ- after the causative *ὀλέω; ὀλέκω `destroy', ὄλεθρος m. `ruin';

after Loth (RC 40, 371) here Middle Breton el-boet `hunger' (to boet `nourishment, food'), bret. (Vannes) ol-buid `lack of food', ol-argant `lack of money' etc., perhaps also Old Irish el-tes `lukewarm' (tes `heat'); about Latin aboleō `to destroy, abolish, efface, put out of the way, annihilate' s. WH. I 4 f.; if el- lies as a basis for roots elg-, elk-?

possibly Hittite hu-ul-la-a-i- `he defeats, destroys', Couvreur H 134 f., different Hendriksen, Laryngaltheorie 27, 47.

References: WP. 1159 f., Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 361, 363, 696, 747, Petersson Heterokl. 159.

Page(s): 306

---

Root / lemma: el-6, elə-: lā-; el-eu- (d<sup>h</sup>-)

Meaning: to drive; to move, go

Material: Armenian etanim `I become', Aor. 1. Sg. etē (**etei*), 2. Sg. eter, 3. Sg. eteu-, elanem `I rise up, climb, ascend, come out, emerge', 3. Sg. Aor. el, in addition eluzi `I made spry, animated' (**el-ou-ghe-*), thereafter eluzanem `I make come out';

gr. ἐλα- in Imper. koisch ἐλάτω, Fut. ἐλᾶντι (*ἐλαοντι), Aor. ἐλάσαντες and poet. ἐλάω 'drive'; suppletive to ἄγω (see below Celtic el-), Fut. Attic ἐλῶ, Aor. ἤλασα; mostly ἐλαύνω 'drive, travel' (from a noun *ἐλα-υν-ος, Brugmann Grundriß II, 1, 321); with dh-extension 'come': Aor. ἦλθον (from ἦλυθον), out of it Doric etc. ἦνθον; Perf. hom. εἰλήλουθα, Attic ἐλήλυθα; Fut. Ionian ἐλεύσομαι; about Perf. ἐλήλυμεν (**el-u-*), adj. προσ-ήλυτος 'someone who comes', ἔπηλυς, -υδος ds., s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 704<sup>2</sup>, 769<sup>7</sup>;

one places still here ἰάλλω 'send, throw, cast' (**i-el-iō*), Aor. hom. ἴηλα, Doric ἴηλα (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 648, 717); but Old Indic īyarti 'he excites, stirs' belongs rather to er-1;

Old Irish luid 'walked' (**lud<sup>h</sup>-e*), 3. Pl. lotar (**lud<sup>h</sup>-ont-ŋ*); as in Gr. is supplied in Celtic aġ- 'drive, push' by el-, however, partly also the root pel- 'to beat, strike, knock, push, drive, hurl, impel, propel' has coincided (see there), so certainly in Old Irish Fut. ebloid 'will drive, push' (from **pi-plā-s-e-ti*), Fut. sek. dí-eblad 'would wrest';

el- appears in Brit. only in subjunctive: present 1. Sg. mcymr. el(h)wyf, 3. Sg. el, Corn. 1. Sg. ylyf, 3. Sg. ello, mbr. 3. Sg. me a y-el 'I will go' (y is removed hiatus; lh and ll go back to /+ intervocalic s); perhaps here die gall. FIN Elaver > Elaris > French Allier (**elə-uer-* : **elə-uen-*, see above ἐλαύνω) and Elantia > Modern High German Elz, perhaps in addition as no-participle (??) Old English lane, -uf. 'alley, way', Old Norse lǫn 'line of houses', etc. About Old Norse elta 'press, pursue, drive away' (**alatjan?*) s. Falk-Torp m. Nachtr.

References: WP. I 155 f., Meillet BSL. 26, 6 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 213, 507, 521<sup>4</sup>, 681 f.

Page(s): 306-307

---

Root / lemma: el-7, elə-, with -k-extension elk-, elək-

Meaning: hungry, bad

Material: Old Irish elc 'mad, wicked, evil' (but olc ds., Gen. uilc places **ulko-* ahead!); about Latin ulciscor 'to avenge oneself on, take vengeance on, punish, recompense' see below elkos-;

perhaps Old Norse illr 'mad, wicked, evil' (**elhila-*);

Lithuanian álkti, Latvian aīkt (besides s-aīkt) 'starve' (**olək-*), Old Prussian alkīns, Lithuanian álkanas 'sober';

Old Church Slavic lačŕ and alъčŕ, lakati and alъkati, sloven. lákati 'starve', Czech lakati 'long, want', where the stem Slavic **ólka* derives from Präter.; in addition the adjectives Old Church Slavic lačъnъ, alъčъnъ, Czech lačný 'hungry' and Old Church Slavic lakomъ 'hungry', Czech lakomý 'greedy', etc.

Maybe alb. lakmi 'desire, hunger'.

References: WP. I 159 f., Trautmann 6 f.

Page(s): 307

---

Root / lemma: el-ŕ, elēi-, lēi- (**huel-*)

Meaning: to bow, bend; elbow, *rainbow

Material: A. Here names position themselves at first for 'elbow' and 'ulna, ell':

Gr. ὠλένη 'elbow', ὠλήν, -ένος ds.; ὠλέκρᾱνον (from ὠλενο-κρᾱνον through remote dissimilation, compare Brugmann Ber. d. sächs. Ges. d. W. 1901, 31 ff.) 'the point of the elbow'; ὠλλον την τοῦ βραχίονος καμπήν Hes.;

Latin ulna (from **olinā*) 'elbow, arm; an ell';

Old Irish uilenn 'elbow', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Middle Irish uillind 'elbow' (-// from -ln- the syncopated case, compare Pedersen KG. II 59), cymr. elin, acorn. elin, bret. ilin 'elbow' (**olinā*);

Gothic: aleina 'ulna, ell' shows the same long middle vowel, however, Germanic forms have remaining short middle vowel: Old English eln (engl. ell), Old High German elina, Middle High German elline, elne, Modern High German Elle; Old Norse shows form variegation: Old Icelandic seldom alen (Old Norwegian also alun) with preserved middle vowel, otherwise qln, eln (qln, āln); simple root **ōlē-* in Old Indic aratnī-ḥ m. 'elbow', Avestan arəθna- ds. frā-rāθni- 'ulna, ell', Old pers. arašniš ds.;

in alb. lërë Geg lans 'arm from elbow to wrist, ell' (**lenā*, yet compare Pedersen KZ. 33, 544) lacks the anlaut vowel.

Note: alb. Geg lans 'ell' derived from zero grade of **alana* 'elbow'

B. The same root placed furthermore in: Old Indic āṇī-ḥ m. 'pin, leg part about the knee' (**ārnī-*, Indo Germanic **ēlnī-* or **ōlnī-*), arāla-ḥ 'bent, curved', ārtnī- 'end of curve', probably also in alaka- 'hair lock', perhaps in āla-vālam 'Vertiefung um die Wurzel eines Baumes, um das für den Baumbestimmte Wasser einzufangen';

Armenian otn (Gen. otin) 'dorsal vertebrae, backbone, spine, shoulder', ulu 'backbone, spine, shoulder' (from Indo Germanic **olen*, respectively **ōlen*); further Armenian atefn (Gen. atefan) 'bow, rainbow', il (Gen. iloy) 'spindle, arrow, spindle' (**ēlo-*), ilik ds.;

Albanian mixed etymology: alb. ül-ber, ylber, ilber 'rainbow': Armenian atefn (Gen. atefan) 'bow, rainbow' contaminated by a mistranslation of Romanian (**curcu-beu*) curcubeu: Sardinian (**circu-voglia*), circuvoglia, (**circu-vrongia*) circuvrongia 'rainbow', Sardinian Logudoresu arcu de chelu, (**arcu-baradu*) arcubaradu, Sicilian (**arcu-bbalenu*) arcubbalenu 'rainbow (arch of the whale)', Welsh bwa'r arch, Romagnolo (**arco-balèin*) arcobalèin, Italian (**arco-baleno*) arco-baleno 'rainbow (arch of the whale)'.

'Circu' means 'circle' in Sardinian, as 'cerc' (> Latin circus) means 'circle' in Romanian (circle > arc > rainbow). (Hence alb. ylber 'rainbow' is a compound of a 1 foreign word + 2 explanatory word).

cymr. olwyn (**oleinā*) 'wheel';

Germanic ablaut. **luni-* in Old High German Old Saxon Middle High German lun 'axle pin, linchpin', Modern High German Lonnagel, compare Old High German luning 'linchpin', Old English lyni-bor 'borer', next to which a s-derivative Old English lynis, asächs. lunisa, Middle Low German lüns(e), Modern High German Lünse;

Lithuanian lušis 'axle pin' (Specht Dekl. 100, 125, 163);

Old Bulgarian lanita 'cheek' (**olnita*).

C. further formations ēl-ēq-:

1. In names for elbow, arm, now and then also other body parts:

Armenian olok 'shinbone, leg' (**eloq-* or **oloq-*);

gr. [ἄλξ καὶ] ἄλαξ πῆχυς, Ἀθαμάνων Hes.;

Lithuanian úolektis f., Latvian uðlektis 'ell' (originally conservative stem **ōlekt-*);

Maybe alb. ulok 'lame': Middle Irish losc 'lame'.

Old Prussian woaltis, woltis 'ulna, ell, forearm' (**ōlkt-*);

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **h<sub>ue</sub>- > gw- > g-*; Old Prussian Lithuanian Tocharian gw- > w-.

Lithuanian alkúnė, elkúnė f., Old Prussian alkunis 'elbow', Latvian ēlks n. ēlkuons ds., Old Bulgarian лакѣтъ, russ. lókotʹ 'ulna, ell' (**olkʹ-tʹ*); russ. dial. albčik (?) 'ankle, ankle bone; heel'.

2. Gr. λοξός 'bent, dislocated, slantwise' (Middle Irish losc 'lame'), λέχριος 'slant, skew, quer' (**λεκσ-ριος*), λέχρις 'quer', λικριφίς 'quer' (diss. from **λιχριφίς*, Saussure MSL. 7, 91, Hirt IF. 12, 226; whose í of the first syllable probably rather from ε assimilated as with ι = ε, as indeed:) λικροί Hes. besides λεκροί 'the prongs of deer antlers', λίξ, λίγξ πλάγιος Hes., as 'incurvation, trough' λέκος n., λέκις, λεκάνη 'trough, platter'; cymr. llechwedd 'slope, inclination', gall. Lexovii, Lixovii VN; Middle Irish losc 'lame';

Latin licinus 'bent or turned upward, having crooked horns' (from **lecinos*), lanx, -cis 'a plate, platter; the scale of a balance' (probably also lacus etc., s. **laqu-*);

quite dubious is the interpretation from Old Bulgarian lono 'bosom, lap' etc. from **loq-s-no-* 'incurvation', also from Bulgarian lónec etc. 'pot, pan' from loq-s-no- (see Berneker 732).

D. To lei- 'bend' belong also:

Perhaps Gothic undarleija 'lowest, faintest';

Latvian leja 'valley, lowland, depression', lejš 'situated low'.

1. With m-suffixes:

presumably gr. λειμών 'meadow' (**lowland, depression, indentation*'), λιμὴν 'harbor', Thessalian 'market' (**bay*'), λίμνη 'sea, pond, pool' (**immersion, depression bent inwards, dent*');

cymr. llwyf 'elm' (**lei-mā*), nir. PN Liamhain (to **līamh* ds.), perhaps zero grade Middle Irish lem ds. (**limo-*), nir. PN Leamhain (whether not from **lemo-*, see below el-1);

Latin līmus 'sidelong, askew, aslant, askance; an apron crossed with purple; slime, mud, mire', līmes -itis 'a path, passage, road, way, track', Oscan līmítúm 'a path, passage, road, way, track', līmen 'doorsill' (**crossbar, crossbeam*);

Old Norse limr (u-stem) f. 'limb, member, thin twig, branch' ('*pliable'), lim f. ds., lim n. 'the fine branches which carry the foliage', Old English lim n. 'limb, member, twig, branch', zero grade Old Norse līmi m. 'trunk, Körperstatur' (Lithuanian liemuõ m. 'tree trunk, Körperstatur', originally 'round timber, curvature'?).

Maybe alb. Geg (**lemes*) lamsh 'ball of (pliable) wool, globe of earth, pool, spellet'.

2. With r-suffix: perhaps alb. klir-të 'valley' from prefix kë+ /ir.

3. With t-suffixes:

Latin lituus 'a crooked staff borne by an augur, augur's crook, crosier, augural wand' (being based on **li-tu-s* 'curvature');

Gothic liþus 'limb, member', Old Norse liðr (u-stem) 'joint, limb, member, curvature, bay', Old English lið, lioðu m., Old Saxon lith 'joint, limb, member', Old High German lid, Middle High German lit, lides m. n. 'ds., part, piece' (s-stem), wherefore Old Norse liða 'bend, bow', Old English āliðian 'dismember, separate', Old High German lidōn 'cut in pieces' as well as Old Norse liðugr '(flexible) a little bit movable, free, unhindered', Middle High German ledec 'available, single, free, unhindered'; Tocharian AB lit- 'go away, die, tumble, fall down'.

E. guttural extensions:

Latin oblīquus 'sidelong, slanting, awry, oblique, crosswise, skew' (-uō- could be suffix, compare curvus), liquis ds. (probably with lj), līcium 'in weaving, the thrum or perhaps a leash; in gen., a thread, a cross thread; plur., the woof' ('*weft'), lixulae 'a round pancake made of flour, cheese, and water';

perhaps cymr. llwyg (**lei-ko-*) 'balky horse', bret. loeg-rin 'an askance look' (Loth RC 42, 370 f).

References: WP. I 156 ff., WH. I 744, 761, 798.

Page(s): 307-309

---

Root / lemma: e-3, ei-, i-, fem. ī- (**he-3*)

Meaning: this, etc. (demonstrative stem); one

Note: (e, i probably originally demonstrative particle). To i- is joined the relative stem jo-. Summarizing representation offer esp. Brugmann Dem. 32 ff., BSGW. 60, 41 ff., Grundr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 324 ff., Pedersen Pron. dém. 311 ff.

Material: A. case-by-case used forms:

Old Indic ayám 'he' = Gatha-Avestan ayēm, jav. aēm (after ahám 'I' widened Aryan **ai* = Indo Germanic **ei*; Indo Germanic **ei* of stem e-, as **q<sup>w</sup>o-i* of stem k<sup>w</sup>o-, not lengthened grade to i);

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>ah<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Avestan ae-

Old Indic idám 'it' (without the secondary -am-extension Old Indic ít, Avestan īṭ as emphasizing particle), Old Indic iyám (extended from **ī*) = Avestan īm (i.e. iyəm), Old pers. iyam 'she', Akk. Sg. m. Old Indic imám (extended from **im*) = Old pers. imam (that after f. imām etc.), Gen. m. n. asyá, ásya = Avestan ahe, fem. Old Indic asyāḥ = Avestan aiṛhā, Dat. m. n. asmāi, ásmāi = Avestan ahmāi, Gen. Pl. m. n. ēšām = Avestan aēšām, Dat. Abl. Pl. m. Old Indic ēbhyaḥ = Avestan aēibyō etc.; Gatha-Avestan as[-čīṭ], ē each once n. Sg. m.; of stem ā- Pl. fem. Gen. Old Indic āsām = Avestan āṛhām, Dat. Abl. ābhyaḥ = Avestan ābyō etc.

Maybe alb. (a-y) ay, aji 'he', (**a-yo*) ajo 'she' : Old Indic ayám 'he'.

Kypr. iv 'him, her' (seems also in μiv, viv blocked, s. Schwyzzer Gr. Gr. I 608<sup>1</sup>); here Lesbian Thessalian hom. ἴα (**iṛ*) 'one, a single' (originally 'just this, only this'), hom. ἱῆς, ἱῆ, thereafter also n. hom. ἱῶ?; different Schwyzzer Gr. Gr. I 588 (**s[m]iās*).

Latin is 'he', id 'it' Nom. Sg. m. (old also īs, inschr. eis, eis-dem, provided either with -s Indo Germanic **ei* = Old Indic ay-ám, as one considers also for Umbrian er-e and certain for Irish (h)ē 'he' such a basic form **ei-s*, or reshuffled of is after eiius, e(ḷ)ḷ; Akk. Old Latin im (= gr. iv) and em, doubled emem 'the same, at the same time' (from the parallel stem e-?) = Adv. em 'then, at that time, in those times' and **im* in inter-im 'at the same time, meanwhile, in the meantime', in-de 'from that place, thence', Dat. Abl. Pl. ībus (: Old Indic ēbhyaḥ); Oscan iz-io 'he', idic, ídík 'it' (the affix -ík, -ic is itself the solidified adverb from n. **id* + **ke*), Oscan ís-íd-um 'the same' and esídum ds., Umbrian er-e 'he' ers-e eṛ-e 'it', Umbrian Dat. Sg. esmei, esmik, Gen. Pl. Oscan eisun-k, Umbrian esom (= Old Indic ēšām); thereout a stem **eiso-* would be deduced besides in Nom.-Akk.-forms, e.g. Oscan eizois `with them ', Umbrian eru-ku `with it ', however, it is to be reckoned after all with an old n. **ed*, compare Latin ecce `behold! lo! see! ' (probably from **ed-ke*) = Oscan ekk-um (**ed-ke-um*) `likewise, besides, also, further, moreover, too, as well ', and perhaps Akk. mēd, tēd, sēd, if from **mē*, **tē*, **sē* + ed, although this assumes only a more solidified adverb **ed*,

Italian eo-, eā, in Oscan-Umbrian only in Nom. (besides Sg. m. n.) and Akk., in Latin mainly in almost all case oblique (only eius from **esjo-s*, thereafter Dat. ei stands apart), e.g. Latin ea `she', eam `her', Oscan iúk, ioc `she', ionc `him', under eam `her', have derived from Old Indic Nom. ay-ám corresponding form **e(i)om*, because of their ending -om would be perceived as Akk. and entailed eam `her' etc.

iam by Varro 1.1. 5, 166 and 8, 44 probably spelling mistake for eam `her'. - From Latin here ipse `self, in person ' from \-is-pse* (because of Old Latin fem. eapse), is-te (however, ille `that, that yonder, that one; emphatically, that well-known; the former, (sometimes the latter)' only afterwards reshuffled ollus), compare Umbrian estu `that of yours, that beside you ';

Old Irish ē (hē) `he' (probably **ei-s*), see above; ed (hed) `it' (from **id-ā* = Gothic ita, wherewith formal identical Old Indic idā `now, yet'; but Lithuanian tadā `then' required because of East Lithuanian tadū an auslaut in nasal); Nom. Pl. ē (hē) m. f. n. = mkymr. wy (hwynt-wy) probably at least partly from Indo Germanic **ei* (additional information by Thurneysen Gr. 283), Akk. Sg. bret. en `him, it' (prefixed), cymr. e (also), Irish -an- (also), -i (suffixed after verbs; after prepositions partly also, e.g. airi from **ari-en* `on him ', partly only more as having a lasting softening effect, e.g. foir from **uor-en*), Gen. Sg. **esjo*, f. **esjās* `his, her', proklit. a, older partly still e, æ; cymr. **eið* after the example of the conjugated preposition to differentiated mcymr. eidaw, f. eidī, wherewith identical Old Irish a `his, its' (len.) and `her' (geminated), cymr. corn. y, bret. e, etc.; about Old Irish accentuated āī, āe `his, her' and Dat. Pl. -ib s. Thurneysen Gr. 285;

Gothic is `he', Akk. in-a, neutr. it-a (see above) `it' (in addition new formed plural forms: Gothic eis from **ei-es*, Akk. ins, Dat. im, Old High German Old Saxon im) Old High German er, ir, Akk. in-an, in; n. iz, Old Saxon in-a, n. it, Old Norse Relative particle es, er, Runic eR, of stem e-: Gen. Sg. Gothic m. is, f. izos, Old High German m. n. es(is), f. ira(iru), Old Saxon es(is), era(ira); Gen. Pl. Gothic ize, izo, Old Saxon Old High German iro; Dat. Sg. f. Gothic izai, Old High German (with other ending) iru, m. n. Gothic imma, Old High German imu, imo, Old Saxon imu, of stem ī- Gothic Akk. ija (Old High German sia etc. with s-suggestion after Nom. sī), whereupon new formed plural forms, Gothic Nom. Akk. jīōs (Old High German sio);

Lithuanian jīs 'he', Akk. jī (to anl. j s. Brugmann Grundr. II<sup>2</sup> 2, 331), fem. jī, Akk. jā (jōs, jaĩ etc.);

but Old Church Slavic Akk. Sg. f. jō, Nom. Akk. Pl. f. jē (about the other case s. Brugmann aaO.), Akk. Sg. m. -(j)b in vidity-jb 'sees him', vbh-b 'to him' etc. (about further Slavic supplementary, e.g. jakъ 'interrog. of what kind?; relat. of the kind that, such as; indef. having some quality or other. Adv. qualiter, as, just as', jelikъ 'interrog. how great?; exclam. how great!; interrog. how much?; exclam. how much!; relat. as much as; for how much, at what price; by how much', s. Berner 416 f.) rather from Indo Germanic jo-;

according to Pedersen Hittite 58 f. should contain the Pron. -as 'he' etc. ein o in ablaut to Indo Germanic **esjo* etc. (?); since stem i has probably preserved n. it 'it' in association with netta 'and as you' (**nu-it-ta*) (Friedrich Heth. Elem. I 27); compare Hieroglyphic Hittite is 'this', Akk. jan.

B. Relative stem jo-:

Old Indic yās, yā, yād, Avestan yō, gr. ὅς, ἥ, ὅ 'who, what, which, the one that', Phrygian ioç (vi) 'whoever', Slavic **ja-* in i-že, f. ja-že etc., Baltic under Slavic in the solidified form of adjective, e.g. Lithuanian geràs-is, Old Prussian pirmann-ien, -in, Old Church Slavic dobry-jb (see Berner 416 f., Trautmann 105 f.). Dubious (Lithuanian jeĩ 'what if, when', Gothic jabai 'what if, when') s. by Brugmann II<sup>2</sup> 2, 347 f. (Lithuanian); Celtic by Pedersen KG. II 235, Thurneysen Gr. 323, however, cymr. a can not belong to it.

comparative Old Indic yatará-, Avestan yatāra-, gr. (Cretan gort.) ὅτερος 'one or the other of two'; compare Old Indic yāvat, gr. ἕως, Doric ἄς (**á:Fos*) 'as long as', Old Indic yād 'inasmuch, as' = gr. ὡς 'as'; s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 528, 614 f.

C. particles and adverbs:

About the nominal and adverbial particle ē, ō see above S. 280 f.

e-, ē- Augment ('then, at that time') Old Indic a- (also ā-, e.g. ā-vṛnak), Avestan a-, arm. ē (e.g. ē-lik = ἔ-λιπε), gr. ē- (also h-, e.g. hom. ἦFeίδη).

e- in Old Indic a-sāu 'that' (besides Avestan hāu), a-dāh 'that; there', a-dyā, a-dyá 'today (this present day)' (stem compound?), ā-ha 'certainly, yes';

Armenian e-t e (besides t e) `that, in the event that';

gr. ἐ-χθές, ἐ-κεῖ, ἐ-κεῖνος (besides κεῖνος);

Oscan e-tanto, Umbrian e-tantu `of such a size, so great; as, so far; for so much, worth so much; by so much', Oscan Paelignian e-co `this, this one; this present; here; in this place, in this matter; hereupon', Oscan exo- (**e-ke-so*) `this, this one; this present; here; in this place, in this matter; hereupon';

Old Church Slavic (j)e-se `behold! lo! see!' (besides se ds), Old Russian ose, russ. é-to `there, that, that here', é-tot `that here, that, this' (besides tot `that'); serb. Bulgarian e-to `there, that' (etc., s. Berneker 259 f);

Maybe alb. a-të `that, the one there', a-to f. `they', a-ta m. `they', a-tje `there' a `interrogative particle'; enclitic particle of gen. and (attribute) adj. m. i (from he), f. e (from she).

insecure Gothic i-bai, i-ba interrogative particle, Old High German ibu, oba, Old Saxon Old Norse ef `if' and `whether', Old English gif, engl. if ds.;

about **eno-* in gr. ἐν etc. see special headword.

To e- also the comparative formation Avestan atāra- `this, the one from the two, the other', ds., alb. jál(ë)rë `other', Umbrian etro- `other', Latin in cēterus `the other, the rest; Acc. n. sing. as adv. otherwise, moreover, but', Old Church Slavic eterъ, jeterъ `whoever', Pl. jeter(ji) `some, few', Lower Sorbian wótery.

Note:

Alb. and Slavic use j- for the lost laryngeal h-.

ed (Nom. Akk. Sg. n.): about Latin ecce, mēd see above; Avestan aīt to the emphasis of the preceding word (as īf, see below; Bartholomae Altiran. Wb. 67); probably also in Old Church Slavic jed-inъ, -ьпъ `someone' as `*just, only one'; whether also Church Slavic jede, kyjb `a certain, a kind of, as one might say' from doubled **ed-ed* or after ide in attached ending **ed*? (Berneker 261, disputed from Brückner KZ. 45, 302, compare Meillet Slave comm.<sup>2</sup> 444.)

ēd and ōd (Abl.): Old Indic āt `therefore, next; and; (in subsequent clause) so', Avestan āāt `next, therefore, then; and; but; since', East Lithuanian ẽ `and but' (Old Church Slavic i `and' is rather **e*), Lithuanian õ `and, but' = Old Church Slavic a `but'.

ei(Lok.): gr. εἰ `*so, if, whether ' (εἰ-τα ` then, next ', εἴ-θε ` would that! ', ἐπ-εἰ (compare el. ἐπ-ή) ` after that, after, since, when ', ἐπ-εἰτα `thereupon'; besides dial. αἰ, Lok. of f. stem ā, and ἡ Instr. `if'; Old Church Slavic i `and, also' (compare ti `and' of stem **to-*; from Brückner KZ. 46, 203 placed against it = Lithuanian teĩ), Gothic -ei relative particle (compare þei of stem **to-* in same meaning), e.g. sa-ei `who, what, which, the one that', after Junker KZ. 43, 348 also Armenian Abl.-ending -ē. See also under ī.

em (Old Latin em, see above S. 282) lies before in gr. ἐνθα ` there, to there, at that time ', rel. `where, whereto, where, whence', ἐθεν ` there, from there, from where' etc. (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 628); about Old Irish and see above S. 37 and compare Cypriot ἄνθα αὐτη.

e-tos: Old Indic á-tah `from here' (see below eti).

i: probably in Lok. in Indo Germanic -i, further the base of the comparative formation **i-tero-*: Old Indic i-tara- `the other' (neuiran. equivalent by Bartholomae IF. 38, 26 f.);

Latin íterum ` again, a second time, once more, anew ' ; further in Old Indic i-va `as' (compare above ἡ-Fe `as'); in gr. ἰ-δέ `and' (compare ἡ-δέ).

i-d<sup>h</sup>a and i-d<sup>h</sup>e:

Old Indic i-há, prákr. idha, Avestan iḍa `here';

gr. ἰθαγενής `(* born in lawful wedlock, legitimate; born here ', hence:) inborn, lawfully born ' (about ἰθαγενής s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 448);

Latin ibī ` in that place, there ' (the sound development d<sup>h</sup> to f, b after ubī, in auslaut directed after the locative the o-stem), Umbrian ife ` in that place, there ', ifont ` in the same place, in that very place, just there, on the spot ' (Aryan and Italian forms could contain themselves also -d<sup>h</sup>e, compare Old Indic ku-ha = Old Church Slavic kъ-de `where' [alb. kudo `everywhere'], sb-de `here' and Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 627<sup>4</sup>); mcymr. yð, yncymr. ydd verbal particle, corn. yz, yth-, bret. ez-? (see Pedersen KG. II 234, Lewis-Pedersen 243, Thurneysen Gr. 324 f.); in addition also Old Irish prefixed -id- from **id(h)e* or **id(h)i*.

i-t(h)-: Old Indic itthā, itthād `here, there', Avestan iḇā `so', Old Indic itthám `so' and with -t (-tə or -ti?) Old Indic íti `so'; Latin ita `so', item `also, likewise', Umbrian itek ` in this manner, in this wise, in such a way, so, thus, accordingly, as has been said ', mcymr.

preverb yŧ-, ncymr. yŧ-, e.g. in yr yŧ-wyf 'I am'; Lithuanian dial. it 'by all means; as', it, yŧ 'completely, very much', Latvian it, itin 'surely, just'.

ī (stressed to the strengthening of a deixis word, unstressed behind a relatively used word):

Old Indic ī (also īm), Avestan ī emphasizing postpositive, after relative in ved. yad-ī, gr. οὐτοσ-ī, -iv (= Old Indic īm? or previously new extension from -ī?), ἐκείνοσ-ī:, el. το-ī;

Umbrian probably in po-ei 'interrog. adj. which? what? what kind of?; exclam., what!; indef. any, some; relat. who, which, what, that; interrog. in what manner? how?; relat. wherewith, wherefrom; indef. somehow' (etc.), Latin in utī 'how (interrog. and exclam); relat. as, in whatever way; as, as being; as when, while, since, when; where; how; o that; granted that; so that, namely that; final, in order that; that, to; that...not' (from **uta-ī*;

Old Irish (h)ī deixis particle and particle before relative clauses;

Gothic -ei Relative particle in sa-ei, iz-ei, ik-ei whereas probably Indo Germanic **ei*, see above;

Old Church Slavic intensifying in to-i (see Berneker 416), Old Church Slavic e-i 'yes, indeed' (? Berneker 296).

Also in 1. part from Old Indic ī-dṛç- 'looking so, resembling so', Lithuanian y-pačiai 'particularly, specially, especially, particular: in particular, peculiarly, separately, extra, notably', y-patūs 'lonely, only, apart, peculiarly'.

Doubtful, if from Indo Germanic **ei* or ī. Old English īdæg 'of the same day', īsiðes 'to same time', īlca (**ī-līca*) 'the same', wherewith perhaps Old Norse īdag 'today' (although understood as preposition ī) and refined afterwards īgæR 'yesterday', īfjorð 'a year ago, last year' interrelate;

It is unclear āi (Lok. fem. in adverbial solidification) in Old Indic āi-śāmaḥ adv. 'this year', meaning 'just this year - the same' as gr. ἰὺ ἧματι, s. Schulze KZ. 42, 96 = Kl. Schr. 539<sup>6</sup>, Holthausen KZ. 47, 310, Junker KZ. 43, 438 f., with Old Indic words also Armenian aižm combined from **ai žam*. The same as mentioned before Armenian demonstratives ai-s, ai-d, ai-n contain **āi* in conjunction with Pron.-stem **ko-*, **to-*, **no-* (Junker aaO.); compare Benveniste Origines 129 ff., Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 548 f.

jām (= Akk. Sg. f.): Latin iam `now, by now, already; of future time, immediately, presently, soon; henceforth; further, moreover; just, indeed ', Gothic ja, Old High German jā `indeed '; with the ending of Lok. Sg. in \-ou-* the u-stem: **jou*, **ju* `already' (from Kretschmer KZ. 31, 466 placed against it to **jeu-* `new') : Lithuanian jaũ `already', Latvian jāu, Old Church Slavic ju `already', zero grade Gothic Old High German Old Saxon Old English ju `already' (the formation is similar to Gothic pau, pau-h, Old English pea-h, Old Indic tú `but' to stem **to-*).

jāi (== Lok. Sg. f.): Gothic jai `yea, in truth, indeed ', Modern High German jē (jeh), Umbrian ie perhaps `now, by now, already; of future time, immediately, presently, soon; henceforth; further, moreover; just, indeed ' in ie-pru, ie-pi, but cymr. ie (disyllabic) `yes, indeed ' from mcymr. ī-ef `this (is) it'.

D. compositions and derivatives (not classed above thus far):

Old Indic ē-śá, ē-śā, ē-tát, Avestan aēša-, aēta- `he himself ' (**ei-so*, -to-, while Armenian aíd from **āi-to-*, see above; Oscan Umbrian eiso-, ero- against it from Gen. Pl. **eisōm*);

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan ae-

(m) Armenian í-sa, í-ta, í-na Demin. from **ei-ko-*, -to-, -no- (Junker KZ. 43, 346 f.);

Old Indic ē-vá, ē-vá-m `so', wherefore with the meaning-development `just in such a way, just him - only him - only, one ';

Avestan aēva-, Old pers. aiva- `one, solely, only ', gr. οἶος, Cypriot οἶΦος `by himself, only' (Indo Germanic **oiue*, **oiuos*); s. also above S. 75.

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan ae-

oi-nos: Old Indic ē-na `he' (could also be **ei-no-*);

Armenian -in the identity adverb andrēn `ibid ', astēn `just here ', perhaps also the identity pronoun so-in `the same here', do-in `the same there', no-in `the same there' (`just him, one and the same ' ; **oino-s* at first to ēn, still in the meaning `god', that is to say `the one', and in so-in etc. weakened to -in, Junker KZ. 43, 342; for so-in he also considers **ko-* + ēnos); different Meillet Esquisse 88;

gr. οἶνος, οἶνῃ `one in the dice';

Latin ūnus, old oinos;

Old Irish ōen `one'; cymr. bret. corn. un `one, a (also indefinite article)';

Gothic ains, Old High German ein, Old Norse einn (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (here belongs Old Norse einka `particularly, specially, especially, particular: in particular, peculiarly, separately, extra, notably' and further ekcja `widow', ekkill `widower');

Old Prussian ains (f. ainā) `one', ablaut. Lithuanian ýnas and inas `surely, really'; besides with präfig. particle (?):

Lithuanian vienas, Latvian viēns `one' (because of Lithuanian vičveīnelis `all alone, completely' from **einos*), ablaut. Latvian viņš `he' (**vinjas*; compare Serbo-Croatian īn from **ēino-*); s. Trautmann 3, Endzelin Latvian Gr. 356, 381 f.

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **h<sub>ue</sub>-* > gw- > g-; Old Prussian Lithuanian Tocharian gw- > w-, v-.

Old Church Slavic inъ `one; only one; one and the same' and `another, other, different', ino-roǵъ `unicorn', vъ inq `on and on, always', inokъ `alone, only, single, sole' (= Gothic ainaha `solely, unique', Latin ūnicus, Old Norse einga, Old English ānga, Old High German einac, Old Saxon ēnag, Modern High German einig), next to which Old Church Slavic jed-inъ (to 1. part, probably Indo Germanic **ed*, see above) `one', from which by shortening in longer inflection forms e.g. jednogo (inscribed jedъnogo), russ. odinъ, odnogo.

Note:

This is all wrong etymology. Root / lemma: e-3, ei-, i-, fem. ī-: `this, etc. (demonstrative stem); one' derived from the reduced Root / lemma: eĝ-, eĝ(h)om, eĝō: `I'. Indic languages display -ĝ- > -y-, Germanic -ĝ- > -g-, Italic -ĝh- > -cc, kk-, Slavic -ĝh- > -d-.

Old Church Slavic: jedinъ `one' [num o]; jedьnъ `one' [num o] derived from eġ(h)omn [common Baltic-Illyrian -ġh- > -d-. Common prothetic Slavic j-, Baltic Illyrian ν- stand for the lost laryngeal h-.

Maybe zero grade in alb. (*ġ(h)omn) një `one' similar to alb. njoh (**ġnē-skō*) `know'.

With formants -ko- (as Old Indic dviká `consisting of two') Old Indic ēka- `one; only one; one and the same ', ēkañya `the one', Proto Indic (in Hittite Text) aika-vartana `a spin, one rotation ' (Kretschmer KZ. 55, 93); about Latin ūnicus, Gothic ainaha, Old Church Slavic inokъ see above ë

Maybe compound alb. Geg (**nie uka*) nuk, Tosc nuku, nukë `(*not one) no, not'

With formants -go- Gothic ainakls `single, spouseless ' (also above Old Norse einka etc.), Church Slavic inogъ `solitary, of male beasts which have been driven from the herd: hence, savage, ferocious, a griffin or dragon '; s. Feist 22 f.

Similar reverting together with e- (e.g. Old Indic asāu) and āi- (Old Indic āišāmaḥ, Armenian ain etc.) see above.

It seems that root lemma for number one spread spread from Indo European to Dravidian, then to to Semitic:

Indo-European

Germanic: Old Germanic+ **ainaz*, Western : Old English+ án, Middle English+ an, English one, Scots ane, Old Frisian+ en, W.Frisian ien, Frisian (Saterland) aan, Dutch een, W/S Flemish ièn, Brabants iën, Low Saxon een, Emsland ein, Mennonite Plautdietsch een, Afrikaans een, German eins, Central Bavarian oans, Swabian oes, Alsatian eins, Cimbrian òan, Rimella ais, Rhein Franconian ääns, Pennsylvania eens, Luxembourgeois eent, Swiss German eis, Yiddish eyns, Middle High German+ ein, Old High German+ ein, Northern : Runic+ æinn, Old Norse+ einn, Norwegian en (Ny. ein), Danish én, Swedish en, Faroese ein, Old Icelandic+ einn, Icelandic einn, Eastern : Gothic+ ains, Crimean+ ene, Italic: Oscan+ uinus, Umbrian+ uns, Latin+ u:nus, Romance : Mozarabic+ uno, Portuguese um, Galician un, Spanish uno, Ladino unu, Asturian uno, Aragonese un, Catalan un, Valencian u, Old French+ un, French un, Walloon onk, Jèrriais ieune, Poitevin in, Old Picard+ ung, Picard in, Occitan (Provençal) un, Lengadocian un, Gascon un, Auvergnat vun, Limosin un, Franco-Provençal (Vaudois) on, Rumantsch Grischun in, Sursilvan in, Vallader ün, Friulian u~ng, Ladin un, Dalmatian+ join, Italian uno, Piedmontese ün, Milanese vun, Genovese un, Venetian on, Parmesan von, Corsican unu, Umbrian unu,

Neapolitan unë, Sicilian unu, Romanian unu, Arumanian unu, Meglenite unu, Istriot ur, Sardinian unu, Celtic: Proto-Celtic+ oinos, Gaulish+ *ônos, Brythonic (P-Celtic) : Welsh un, Cardiganshire în, Breton unan, Vannetais unan, Unified Cornish+ un, Common onan, Modern on, Devonian+ un, Goidelic (Q-Celtic) : Old Irish+ óen, Irish aon, Scots Gaelic aon, Manx nane, Hellenic: Mycenaean Greek+ e-me (*hemei), Classical Greek+ hei:s, Greek éna, Cypriot énas, Tsakonian éna, Tocharian: Tocharian A+ sas, Tocharian B+ se, Albanian: Albanian një, Gheg (Qosaj) n'â, Tosk (Mandritsa) ni, Armenian: +Classical Armenian mi, Armenian mek, Baltic West: Old Prussian+ ai:ns, East: Lithuanian víenas, Latvian viēns, Latgalian vi:ns, Slavic East: Russian odín, odín, Belarussian adzín, adzín, Ukrainian odín, ody'n, West: Polish jeden, Kashubian jeden, Polabian+ janü, Czech jeden, Slovak jeden, West jeden, East jeden, Upper Sorbian jedyn, Lower Sorbian jaden, South : Old Church Slavonic+ jedinu, Bulgarian edín, Macedonian eden, Serbo-Croat jèdan, Slovene ena, Anatolian: Hittite+ *a:nt-, Luwian+ *a-, Lycian+ sñta, Indo-Iranian: Proto-Indo-Iranian+ *aiwas, Iranian Eastern: Ossetian Iron iu, Digorieu, Avestan+ ae:uua-, Khwarezmian+ 'yw, Sogdian+ 'yw, Yaghnobi i:, Bactrian+ io:go, Saka+ s's'au, Pashto yaw, Wakhi i:, Munji yu, Yidgha yu, Ishkashmi uk, Sanglechi vak, Shughn yi:w, Rushani yi:w, Yazgulami wu:, Sarikoli (Tashkorghani) iw, Parachi zhu, Ormuri so:, Western Northwest: Parthian+ 'yw, Yazdi ya, Nayini yak, Natanzi yæk, Khunsari yäg, Gazi yeg, Sivandi yä, Vafsi yey, Semnani i, Sangisari yækæ', Gilaki yæk, Mazanderani yak, Talysh i, Harzani i, Zaza zhew, Gorani yak, Baluchi yæk, Turkmenistan yak, E Hill yak, Rakhshani (Western) yëkk, Kermanji (S) Kurdish yak, Zaza (N) Kurdish e:k, Bajalani ikke:, Kermanshahi yäki', Southwest: Old Persian+ aiva, Pahlavi+ e:vak, Farsi yak, Isfahani ye(k), Tajik yak, Tati yæ, Chali i, Fars yek, Lari yak, Luri ya, Kumzari yek, Nuristani: Ashkun ach, Wasi-weri i pü:n, Kati ev, Kalasha-ala ew, Indic: Sanskrit+ éka, Prakrit+ ekko:, Ardhamagadhi+ ege, Pali+ eka, Romany (Gypsy): Spanish yes, Welsh yek', Kalderash yek(h), Syrian e:kâ, Armenian jäku, Iranian yek, Sinhalese-Maldivian: Sinhalese eka, Vedda ekamay, Maldivian eke, Northern India: Dardic: Kashmiri akh, Shina êk, Brokskat e:k, Phalura a:k, Bashkarik ak, Tirahi ek, Torwali ek, Wotapuri yek, Maiya ak, Kalasha ek, Khowar i, Dameli ek, Gawar-bati yok, Pashai i:, Shumashti yäk, Nangalami yak, Dumaki ek, Western: Marathi ek, Konkani êk, Sindhi hiku, Khatri hakro, Lahnda hikk, Central: Hindi/ Urdu ek, Parya yek, Punjabi yk, Siraiki hik, Gujarati ek, Rajasthani (Marwari) e:k, Banjari (Lamani) ek, Malvi e:k, Bhili e:k, Dogri ik, Kumauni e:k, Garhwali e:k, W Pahari e:k, Khandeshi e:k, East Central: Nepali ek, Maithili ek, Magahi ek, Bhojpuri e:k, Awadhi (Kosali) e:k, Chattisgarhi e:k, Eastern: Oriya ek, Bengali æk, Assamese ek, Mayang a:

Northwest: Brahui asi, Northeast: Kurukh onta:, Malto ort, Central: Kolami okkod, Naiki okko, Parji o:kuri:, Gadaba okur, Telugu okati, Gondi undi:, Koya orro, Konda unri, Manda ru, Pengo ro, Kui ro, Kuvi ro:ndi, South: Tulu onji, Koraga onji, Kannada ondu, Badaga ondu, Kodagu ondũ, Kurumba -onde, Toda wïd, Kota vodde, Tamil onrru, Malayalam onnu, Irula vondunder

Burushashki

Hunza hik, Yasin hek

Etruscan

Etruscan+ thu(n)

Semitic

East: Akkadian+ ishte:n, Central: Arabic wa:hid, Kashka-Darya fad, Saudi waahid, Yemeni waahid, Syrian wa:hed, Lebanese wähad, Cypriot ?éxen, Iraqi waahid, Egyptian wa:hid, E Libyan 'wahad, N African (Darja) wa:hed, Moroccan wahed, Sudanese wa|ahid, Nigerian wa:hid, Zanzibari wa:hi, Maltese wieh=ed, Phoenecian+ '-h-d, Ugaritic+ ahd; Moabite+: Classical Hebrew+ 'ahat, Modern Hebrew 'axat, Classical Aramaic+ xadh, Modern Aramaic âhad, Classical Syriac+ hadh, Syriac kha, Van he;
South: Old S. Arabian+ '-h-d, South Arabian (Harsusi) t'a:d, (Sheri) t'ad, Socotra t'ad;
N Ethiopic: Geez+ ?ah=adu, Tigre worot, Beni Amir orot, Tigrinya hade;
S Ethiopic: Amharic and, Argobba hand, Harari ahad, E Gurage ad, Gafat+ ajjä, Soddo att Goggot quana, Muher at, Masqan at, CW Gurage at, Ennemor Attic

References: WP. I 95 ff., WH. I 368 f., 399 f., 409, 671, 720 ff., 869, Trautmann 3, 65, 72, 105, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 548, 588, 608, 613 f., 628 f., 651.

Page(s): 281-286

---

Root / lemma: emb<sup>h</sup>i-, empi-

Meaning: a kind of mosquito or bee

Note: With taboo variation b<sup>h</sup> : p?

Material: Gr. ἐμπίς, -ίδος `a mosquito `;

Old High German imbi (oldest evidence impi pīano), Middle High German imbe (**embī-* α-) `swarm of bees, beehive', previously late-Middle High German `bee', Modern High German Imme, changing through ablaut Old English imbe (**umbia*) `swarm of bees'.

References: WP. I 125, WH. I 57.

Page(s): 311

---

Root / lemma: em-, em- (**h<sub>u</sub>em-*)

Meaning: to take

Grammatical information: originally athematisches present

Material: Latin emō, -ere, ēmī (Lithuanian émiaũ), emptum (= Lithuanian im̃tas, Old Prussian imtā f., Old Bulgarian jetъ) `take (only in compounds), buy'.

Maybe zero grade in alb. marr `take' < Lat emere `take'.

Oscan pert-emest `to take away entirely, annihilate, extinguish, destroy, cut off, hinder, prevent', pert-emust `taken away entirely', per-emust `has taken wholly, seized entirely, taken possession of, seized, occupied' (to Perf. **emed*), pert-umum `shall take away entirely, annihilate, extinguish, destroy, cut off, hinder, prevent' (assil. from **pertemom*); Umbrian emantu(r) `be taken without effort, received, got, accepted' emps `taken out, taken away, removed';

Old Irish em- in ar-fo-em- `take, receive', verbal noun airitiu (: Latin emptiō, Lithuanian iš-imtis `exception'), dī-em- `shield', etc.;

Lithuanian imù, preterit émiaũ, im̃ti `take', East Lithuanian present jemu, Old Prussian imt ds.; Latvian jemu, jēmu, jemīt and jemīt, besides ñemu, ñēmu, ñemīt (probably through contamination an equivalent originated from Gothic niman `take', Endzelin, Latvian Gr. 564);

Old Church Slavic imq (ѣmq, compare vъz-mq `take away', etc.) jetī `take' (perfective), besides imperfect: jemlq, imati ds., and as `have': stative verb imamъ, imějō, iměti (**mā-*, **mē-*);

besides Indo Germanic em- formant the rhyme roots jem- and nem-, probably originally different and only secondary now and then adapted;

Hittite u-e-mi-ja-mi (u-emijam??) `I catch, find', Pedersen Hittite 82<sup>1</sup>, 135.

Note:

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals: similar to Hittite huek-, huk- 'adjure', Tocharian A wakf., B wek 'voice'.

References: WP. I 124 f., WH. I 400 ff., 862; Trautmann 103 f., Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 80, 203 f., EM<sup>2</sup> 300 f.

Page(s): 310-311

---

Root / lemma: (enē<sup>bh</sup>-1), emb<sup>h</sup>-, omb<sup>h</sup>-, nā<sup>bh</sup>- (nē<sup>bh</sup>-?), ṃb<sup>h</sup>- (**hen-mb<sup>h</sup>el-*)

Meaning: navel

The initial laryngeal was transformed into a vowel which was immediately nasalized.

Note: plural with /-formant.

Material: Old Indic [nasalized **h<sub>2</sub>ánmbhya*] nábhya- n. 'hub', nābhī- f. 'navel, hub, kinship', nābhīla- n. (uncovered) 'pubic region, navel dent'; Avestan nabā-nazdišta- 'der verwandtschaftlich nächststehende', besides with Aryan ph: Avestan nāfō, npers. nāf 'navel';

gr. ὀμφαλός (Nom. Pl. also ὀμφαλες) 'navel, shield boss', probably also ὀμφακες 'the unripe grapes or olives or other fruit' ('als nabelartig vorgestülpte Knöpfchen'), ὀμφακίς 'cup of the acorn of Valonia oak, used for tanning, and as an astringent medicine';

Maybe zero grade in alb. mbulonj 'cover, shield, protect'.

Latin umbilicus 'navel', umbō, -ōnis 'a swelling, rounded elevation, knob, shield boss';

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-; Old Prussian Lithuanian Tocharian gw- > w-, v-, Latin gw- > u-.

Old Irish imbliu 'navel' (**embilōn-*), Middle Irish imlecan ds. (an attempt to the suffix explanation by Pedersen KG. I 495);

Old High German naba, Old English nafu, Old Icelandic noḟ 'hub of a wheel' (also in Old High German naba-gēr, Old English nafu-gār, Old Icelandic naḟarr 'grober borer'), Old High German nabalo, Old English nafela, Old Icelandic naflī 'navel'; in addition after Lidén KZ. 61, 17 Old High German amban, ambon, m. (o-stem) 'paunch', Old Saxon ámbon 'the belly, abdomen', Nom. Akk. Pl. m. on-stem (Germanic **amban-*, Indo Germanic **omb<sup>h</sup>on-*);

Old Prussian nabis 'hub, navel', Latvian naba 'navel'.

Perhaps here Old English umbor 'small kid, child', also the Italian VN Umbri (**mb<sup>h</sup>-*), other ablaut in Germanic VN Ambrones (**omb<sup>h</sup>-*) different Kretschmer Gl. 21, 116 f.

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **h<sub>ue</sub>-* > gw- > g-; Old Prussian Lithuanian Tocharian gw- > w-, v-, Italic gw- > u-.

References: WP. I 130, EM 1122, Specht Dekl. 100.

Page(s): 314-315

---

Root / lemma: (enē<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>-2): ne<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>-, emb<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>-, mb<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>- (**hen-m<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>el-*)

Meaning: wet, damp; water; clouds

The initial laryngeal was transformed into a vowel which was immediately nasalized.

Note: (Kontaminationsform nemb<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>-); partly emb-, omb- from emb<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>-, omb<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>-

Material: ne<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>os-: Old Indic nā<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>as- n. 'fog, haze, mist, clouds, airspace, sky, heaven', besides root inflection in lengthened grade f. Plur. nā<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>aḥ (?); Avestan nabah- n. Pl. 'airspace, sky, heaven';

gr. νέφος, -ους n. 'cloud, fog' (Denom. primary form ξυννέφει 'es umzieht sich', ξυννένοφε 'it is cloudy');

also (see below nem- 'bend') Old Irish nem (n. es-stem), nir. neamh, cymr. corn. nef 'sky, heaven';

Old Bulgarian nebo, -ese n. 'sky, heaven', to i-stem reshaped in Lithuanian debesis f. and m. 'cloud' (but older konson. Pl., e.g. Gen. Pl. debesų d for n through influence of dangùs 'sky, heaven');

Note:

Common n- > nd- > d-

Hittite ne-pi-iš (nebis) n. 'sky, heaven' Gen. nebisas; with f-forms (ne<sup>b<sup>h</sup></sup>elā):

gr. νεφέλη 'cloud, fog' = Latin nebula 'haze, mist, fog, cloud';

maybe alb. (**nebula*), avull 'vapor, steam, *cloud' [the shift b > v] from the same root as Rumanian abur 'fog'.

but Old Irish nē/m., Gen. nīuil 'cloud, fog' not from **neb<sup>h</sup>/o-*, but loanword from cymr. niwl, nifwl, ncorn. niul ds. (that again after Loth RC 20, 346 f. loanword from late Latin **nibulus* for nūbilus);

Old High German nebu/m. 'fog', Old Saxon neḅal 'fog, darkness', Old English nifol ds., Old Icelandic nifl-heimr below likewise, njōl 'darkness, night' (Germanic **neḅla-* and **niḅula-* from -e/o-; Old Icelandic nifl- from **niḅila-*);

Maybe alb. (**njōl*) njollë '(white stain), bad vision' : Old Icelandic njōl 'darkness, night '].

doubtful Old Indic nabhanú- m., nabhanū- f., probably 'wellspring'; Avestan aiwi-naptīm asti 'he (befeuchtet =) besudelt with blood', napta- 'humid, wet' (**nab-ta-*), npers. neft 'naphtha '; perhaps here Latin Neptūnus 'God of the springs and rivers, then of the sea, son of Saturn and brother of Jupiter ' from **neb<sup>h</sup>-tu-s*; of -p- in skyth. FIN Naparis, Old pers. spring, fountain N Νάπρας derives from iran. apa- 'water, wellspring' (Brandenstein, OLZ 1940, 435 ff.).

ṛnb<sup>h</sup>-(ro-)

Old Indic abhrá- m. 'gloomy weather, cloudiness ', n. 'cloud, airspace' (**ṛnb<sup>h</sup>ros*), Avestan awra- n. 'cloud'; remains far off because of the meaning gr. ἄφρος 'scum, froth, foam' (Meillet BSL 31, 51);

in i-Dekl. converted Latin imber, imbris 'a rain, heavy rain, violent rain, shower, pouring rain ' = Oscan Anafríss, probably 'a rain, heavy rain, violent rain, shower, pouring rain '.

Here also the river names gall. **Ambrā*, mcymr. Amir, Amyr as well as Modern High German Amper and Ammer (Celtic **Ambrā*), Emmer (Celtic **Ambriā*); in addition also engl. Amber, French Ambre, Ambrole; span. Ambro, Ambror, Italian Ambra, Ambria, Ambro, Ambrio etc., latter are particular Venetic-Illyrian; compare without formant r gall. inter ambes 'between streams ', ambe 'a small stream, brook ', abrit. Amboglanna 'bank, shore of the stream', as well as Armenian amb and (with Indo Germanic b) amp 'cloud'.

emb(h)- : omb(h)- :

Old Indic ámbhas- n. 'rainwater '; ambu n. 'water', gr. ὄμβρος m. 'rain' (to b compare above Armenian amp and Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 333); here also lak. ὀμφά 'smell, odor, breath, breeze', Arcadian εὔομφος 'wohlriechend', etc.

nemb<sup>h</sup>-:

Pahlavi namb, nam, pers. nem `moist, humidity ', Pahlavi nambītan `moisten ';

Latin nimbus `cloud, mist; esp. a black rain-cloud; a storm, shower '.

From Slavic languages the cognate for sky, cloud passed to Altaic languages:

Protoform: *ñiöbu

Meaning: to pour

Turkic protoform: *ju(b)-

Mongolian protoform: *jeγü-le-

Tungus protoform: *ñiabe-

Korean protoform: *nūb-

Note: TMC 1, 352. It is tempting to compare also Evk. ñewte, Evn. ñewte 'spring, well' (*'washing or pouring place') and perhaps also OJ mjiwo 'water-way, seaway' (if mji- is to be analysed as 'water', the -wo part stays completely obscure).

References: WP. I 131, WH. I 681, II 151 f., Specht Dekl. 16 f.

Page(s): 315-316

---

Root / lemma: enek-, nek-, enk-, ṇk- (**ḥenek-)

Meaning: to reach; to obtain

Material: Old Indic aśnōti, Avestan ašnaoiti (**ṇk-neu-*) `if something is obtained, achieved ', Perf. Old Indic ānāṃśa (Indo Germanic **ōn-onke* = Old Irish ro-ānaic);

Old Indic násati, Avestan -nasaiti (**nek-*, originally probably athematic, compare 2. Sg. nakṣi etc.), Old Indic nákṣati `achieved, attained ', Desid. ánakṣati `tries to reach, strives for ', ámśa-ḥ m. `allotment ', Avestan ąsa- `party ', Old Indic námśa-ḥ m. `obtainment ', -naṃśana- (hybridization from amś- and naś-); common Old Indic ḡh- > *kṣ-

Armenian hasi `have arrived ', thereafter hasanem `come to close to something, arrive ';

after Pisani Armen. 5 here hunj-k, hnjo-ç `harvest' (**onkos*);

Maybe alb. has, alb. (Calabria) (**ké-hasem*) kéyasem `encounter '

gr. (*ḥenek-) δι-ηνεκής `passing through distance = unbroken, perpetual ' (Doric and Attic διᾱνεκής from *δια-ηνεκής?, different Boisacq s. v.), ποδ-ηνεκής `bis zu den Füßen herabreichend ', δουρ-ηνεκής `a far javelin-throwing ' = `as far as one's spear can reach '

or pass. `obtain a javelin', as κεντρ-ηνεκής `the goad, prick (obtain =) set in motion, prick, drive on'; Pass. Aor. ῥνέχθην `wurde getragen', Perf. κατ-ήνοκα Hes., ἐν-ήνοχα (ἐν- is therein probably reduplication; also in Med. ἐν-ήνεγμαι, joined as 3. Sg. ἐν-ήνεγκται instead of *ἐν-ήνεκται, after Aor. ἐνεγκεῖν);

*enĕ- in Redupl. Aor. ἐν-εγκ-εῖν (*enĕ-enĕ-) `bear, carry'; see below Hittite henkzi, *onĕ- in ὄγκος `Tracht, load' (= Old Indic ámśa-h, Balto Slavic **naša-*);

ῥνεια against it to root *seik- `suffice, reach', see there and Boisacq 251 f. m. Lithuanian; through hybridization with it became ῥνεγκον to ῥνεγκα, ῥνειγκα;

Latin nactus (and nanctus) sum, nancisci (arch. also nanciō, -īre) `to light upon, obtain, meet' (-a = e, so nactus = Germanic **nuh-ta*; the nasalization of present is probably secondary (Kuiper Nasalprä. 163);

Old Irish ro-icc `reaches', do-icc `comes', air-icc `find', con-icc `be able' etc.; probably in the themat. conjugation transferred lengthened gradees **ēnĕ-ti*, from which **īnk-*, **īnc-*, icc-; verbal nouns rīchtu, tīchtu, s-Konj. -ī from **ēnĕst*, Perf. ro-ānaic (see above); s-preterit du-uicc (**onĕ-i-s-t*) `has brought' etc. see below S. 347; zero grade ĕk- in cymr. di-anc `escape, flee', cyfranc (**kom-ro-anko-*) = Old Irish comracc `encounter'; after Loth RC 40, 353 Irish oc, cymr. wnc, wng `by' from **onĕo* `neighborhood'(?); in addition mcymr. ech-wng `expulsion'; after Vendryes (MSL 13, 394) here also the gall. VN **Selva-nectes* (latinis. Silvanectes) `property which is acquired', to Old Irish selb `possession';

Gothic ganah (preterit-present) `it suffices = is enough, it meets the needs', Inf. ganaúhan (about Germanic **nuh-* see above), Old High German ginah, Old English geneah ds.; Gothic **binaúhan* `be permitted', Gothic ganaúha m., Old High German (etc.) ginuhtf. `sufficiency'; ō-grade: Gothic ganōhs `sufficient, much, a lot of', Old English genōh, genōg, Old Norse (g)nōgr, Old High German ginuog `sufficient' etc.; ē-grade, as it seems, Old Norse nā `approach, reach, obtain', Old English (ge)nāegan `approach to somebody, address, attack'; about Gothic nēh Adv. `approach, come near to, close to, adjacent to, nearby, near', nēhua ds., Old Saxon nāh, Old English nēah `nearby, close at hand, near, close in time', preposition `nearby, next to, alongside', Old High German nāh Adj. `adjacent', Adv.-preposition `by', Modern High German nach see above S. 40; one places also alb. nes, nes-ër, nesër `tomorrow morning' (**nōk-*); in addition, also Latvian nāku, nāki `come',

Lithuanian pranókti 'overtake', nókti 'ripen', but the presupposed Indo Germanic ā, compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin, Latvian-D. Wb. II 698; about that Jokl SB Wien Ak. 168, I 36 with Lithuanian pranókti 'overtake' compared alb. kë-nak 'satisfy, delight' s. the same IA. 35, 36;

Balto Slavic **nešō* 'bear' (compare Old Indic naśati) in:

Lithuanian nešù, nešiaũ, nėštį, Latvian nesu, nešu, nest, in addition iterative Latvian nēsāt, Lithuanian nėšiai = Latvian nēši m. Pl. 'Tracht Wasser', Lithuanian naštà, Latvian nasta f. 'load';

Old Church Slavic nesq, nesti, iterative nositi etc.;

Balto Slavic **naša-* m. 'carrying, the bearer' (= Old Indic amśa-h, gr. ὄχος) in:

Lithuanian už-našai Pl. 'poured out beer', lengthened grade są-nošai m. Pl. 'washed ashore stones';

Church Slavic po-nosъ 'envy', russ. za-nós 'snow flurry', etc.;

Hittite **nenék-ti*, Pl. **nenék-énti*, out of it ni-ik-zi (nikzi) 'be uplifted', 3. Pl. and ni-in-kán-zi, ní-ní-ik-zi (ninikzi) 'lifted', 3. Pl. ní-ní-(in-)kán-zi (Pedersen Hittite 147);

hi-in-ik-zi (henkzi) 'divided to' is placed to ἡνεγκον; about na-ak-ki-iš (nakīs) 'heavy', s. Pedersen Hittite 147, 194; about Tocharian A emts-, B erik- 'take, catch', s. Meillet MSL 18, 28, Pedersen Tochar. 236 and Anm. 1;

Kuiper Nasalprä. 50 f. disassembles en-ek- 'bear, carry', which he understands as an extension from en- (see S. 321 under enos-) ds.; just there further supposition about en-ek- 'reach'.

References: WP. 1 128 f., Kuiper Nasalprä. 50 f., EM<sup>2</sup> 652, Trautmann 198, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 647, 744, 766.

Page(s): 316-318

---

Root / lemma: e-neuen, neun, enun

Meaning: nine

Note:

Root / lemma: e-neuēn, neuēn, enuēn (**henekʷt*): 'nine' was created as a compound of Root / lemma: neuōs, -ios: 'new' + Root / lemma: oktō(u): 'eight'.

Material: Old Indic náva, Avestan nava (neuēn) '9';

Armenian inn (sprich inən) '9' (**enuēn*), Pl. in(n)unk; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

(*gr. **ēFva-* through metathesis to gr. **ēvFa-*) gr. **ēvFa-* in hom. εἰνά-ετες, -vυxες, Boeotian ἐνα-κη-δεκάτη, Ionian εἰνα-κόσιοι, Attic ἐνα-κόσιοι; Ord. εἵνατος, Attic Aeolic ἐνατος; **ēvFa* also in hom. ἐννήμαρ (**ēvF ἥμαρ*) '9 days'; besides **veFa* (**neuēn*) in ἐννέ[F]α (prefixed with ἐν, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 1 591); thereafter became ἐνήκοντα '90' to Ionian Attic ἐνενήκοντα; thrak. ενεα (v. Blumenthal IF. 51, 115);

Note:

This is wrong etymology. Greek order was reversed Root / lemma: oktō(u): 'eight' + Root / lemma: neuōs, -ios: 'new' > gr. **ēFva-*: εἰνά-ετες. The shift kʷ > p, gʷ > b is a common gr.. Greek also reflects an Illyrian-alb. trend as it puts the ordinals and adjectives after the noun while in IE languages the adjective and ordinal precedes the noun.

[Phonetically attribute] alb. nëndë '9' (**neuēnti*: 'number of nine', as Slavic devět '9', Old Norse niund 'number 9' and Old Indic navatī-, Avestan navaiti- f. '90', actually nine of tens);

Note:

Anatolian languages show a pattern similar to alb. So Lycian aitāta (**oktō(u)ta*) 'eight': alb. teta 'eight'; Lycian ñuñtāta 'nine': alb. nanda 'nine'. Therefore alb. shtata 'seven' derived from a truncated **sa(p)tata* 'seven' later Old Indic saptáthaḥ, Avestan haptaθa-, Old Saxon sivotho, Old English sefoða, Lithuanian septiñtas; also Old Indic saptatī-, Avestan haptāiti- 70; in alb. -ta, -të are attribute endings that were solidified in Anatolian and Indic cognates. The attribute ta (used in the genitive and adjectives) is unique to alb. language alone.

Therefore alb. teta 'eight' is a zero grade of Lycian aitāta (**oktō(u)ta*) 'eight'. It was initially an ordinal number used as an attribute [compare Latin octuāgintā '80'].

Alb. Tosc nanta, Geg nanda 'nine' derived from Lycian ñuñtāta 'nine'.

Slavic follows alb. attribute -të [nasalized -ntë; -ndë ending]

Latin novem ` nine ' (-m for -n? after septem, decem);

Old Irish nōi n-, cymr. corn. naw, bret. nao (to a s. Pokorny IF. 38, 190 f.);

Gothic Old High German niun, Proto Norse niu, Old Norse nīo `9', Old Saxon nigun, Old Frisian ni(u)gun, Old English nizon (from **niūyūn*);

Note: This is wrong etymology. Germanic family reflects the compound (**niuktūn*) from

Root / lemma: neuos, -ios: `new' + Root / lemma: oktō(u): `eight'.

Lithuanian devyni, Latvian deviņi (n- still in ordinals Old Prussian newīnts), Old Church Slavic devětъ ` nine ' (d- becomes steady probably through dissimilation against auslaut n and through influence of the 10; Berneker 189);

Note:

Old Church Slavic devětъ ` nine ' derived from Lycian ñuñtāta `nine' the same as alb. Tosc nanta, Geg nanda ` nine ' [common alb.-Illyrian n > nd > d].

Tocharian AB ñu ` nine '.

ordinals: **neueno-* in Latin nōnus; introduced after the 7 and 10 m instead of n Umbrian nuvime ` the ninth ', Old Indic navamā-, Avestan naoma-, Old pers. navama-; Old Irish nōmad, cymr. nawfed (**neum-eto-*); -to-formation also gr. ἐνάτος, ἑνάτος (**enun-to-*); Gothic niunda, Old High German niunto, Old Norse nionde, Old Saxon nigundo, niguðo, Old Frisian niugunda, Old English nizoða, Lithuanian deviñtas, Old Prussian newīnts, Old Church Slavic devětъ; Tocharian B ñunte, oblique of ñuñce.

Note:

Ordinals in IE are built according to Illyrian pattern; alb. -ta adjective formant: alb. Tosc nanta, Geg nanda ` nine ' : Lycian ñuñtāta `nine'

One assumes connection with **neuo-* `new', because a new countable segment has begun with 9, while the binary form from **oktōu* `8' points to a 4-calculation system.

References: WP. I 128, Feist 378 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 590 f.

Page(s): 318-319

---

Root / lemma: eng<sup>w</sup>-, ng<sup>w</sup>én (eng<sup>w</sup>h-)

Meaning: swelling

Material: Gr. ἀδρῖν, ἐνος m., older f. 'glandula' (**ng<sup>w</sup>én*) =

Note:

Common Illyrian -g<sup>w</sup>h- > -d-. In gr. -g<sup>w</sup>- > -b- not -d-, otherwise shift n > nd > d common Illyrian-alb. but not gr.

Maybe taboo in alb. anda 'pleasure, delight (sexual?)'

From Illyrian **eng<sup>w</sup>hi* > idi derived Root / lemma: īl- (eng<sup>w</sup>hi, indī): groin, intestines [common Latin -d- > -l-] (see below).

Latin inguen, -inis n. 'groin, the genitals, tumefaction in the pubic region';

Old Icelandic þekkr 'swelling, lump, growth' (proto Germanic **enkwa-z*), þekkvinn 'swollen', Swedish dial. ink 'blain, boil, furuncle of horses'.

Indo Germanic (e)ng<sup>w</sup>- presumably ablaut from **eneg<sup>w</sup>h-* (with g<sup>w</sup> from g<sup>w</sup>h through immediate encounter with the nasal), whereof:

neg<sup>w</sup>h-ró-s 'kidney, testicle' ('round intumescence'; perhaps older n/n-stem, Pedersen KZ. 32, 247 f.) in:

Gr. νεφρός, mostly Pl., 'kidneys';

prānestin. nefrōnēs, lanuvin. nebrundinēs 'kidneys, testicles'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old High German nioro m. 'kidney', partly also 'testicle', Middle English Middle Low German nēre, Old Swedish niūre, Old Icelandic nýra n. 'kidney' (Germanic **neuran-* from **nez<sup>w</sup>hran-*; Old Icelandic umlaut is to be explained from a reshuffling of **neurian-*).

References: WP. I 133 f., WH. I 701, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 486.

Page(s): 319

---

Root / lemma: en1 (**hen1*)

Meaning: in, *into, below

Note: (: **η*, Slavic also **on*?); eni, n(e)i, perhaps also nd<sup>h</sup>i (ending as epi, ob<sup>h</sup>i etc. perhaps related to Lok. in -i, if not even created after it).

Material: Old Indic in ánika- n. 'front' (= Avestan ainika- ds.) from **eni-oq<sup>w</sup>-*;

**n̥* in Old Indic n̥i-já- 'inborn, inherent, fixed, own', Avestan ni-zənta- 'innate, natural', Old Indic n̥i-tya- 'continuous, fixed, own' = gall. Nitio-broges, VN (contrast to Allo-broges) = Gothic nibj̥s 'kinsman, relative', Old Norse nīðr 'kinsman, relative', Old English nīððas Pl. 'men, people', also in verbal prefix Aryan n̥i- 'in, into', e.g. Old Indic n̥igam-, Avestan nigam- 'enter into a condition';

Armenian i (before vowel y and n-) from **in*, older **en* 'in', adnominal m. Lok. and Akk.;

gr. ἐν, dial. iv and (poet.) ἐνι, ἐνί (so hom. always as postposition; Attic only more ἐνι as predicate = ἐνεσσι) 'in', adnominal with Dat. (= Lok.), Gen. and in part also still with Akk. ('whereto, where'), in latter meaning elsewhere after ἐξ to ἐνς (Attic εἰς; thereafter εἴσω extended as ἔξω, anti conservative out of it ἐς); zero grade ᾰ- (h) e.g. in ᾰ-λέγω etc.;

about the debatable ἕστέ, ἕντε 'until' s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 629 f.;

maked. iv;

Messapic in;

alb. inj 'until, in' (**en̥i*);

Latin in, oldest en; Oscan en, Umbrian en- (en-dendu 'stretch out, reach forth, extend'), postposition Oscan -en, Umbrian -em, -e, adnom. with Dat. (= Lok.), Akk. and Gen. (of ambit);

Old Irish in- 'in' adnominal m. Dat. and Akk.; nasalized), in- (derived from **eni*, compare ingen from proto Irish ini-gena 'daughter'; mixed with ind- = gall. ande-, s. Thurneysen Grammar 531 f., Pedersen KG. I 45), acymr. abret. en, in 'in', corn. bret. en, ncymr. yn, gall. essedon (**en-sedon*) 'chariot', embrekton 'immersed (swallowed) bite' (see below mereq-);

Gothic in 'in', adnom. m. Dat., Akk., Gen.; Old High German Old Saxon Old English in, Old Norse ī 'in', adnom. m. Dat. and Akk., from **eni* (about derivatives as Gothic inn 'in, into', inna, innana, probably from **eni-n-*, s. Brugmann IF. 33, 304 f.); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Old Prussian en 'in', adnom. m. Dat. and Akk., Latvian ie- (only prefix); zero grade **h* in Lithuanian ĩ (older and nowadays dial. in, int̃) 'in', adnom. m. Lok. and Akk.;

Old Church Slavic on- (on-ušta 'footwear', q-dolb 'valley'), zero grade vb̥n-, vb̥ 'in', adnom. m. Lok. and Akk.;

Tocharian AB y-, yn-, B in- (only prefix).

ṇ-dʰi-: Old Indic ádhi- 'about, on', Old pers. adīy- 'in'; gall. intensive prefix Ande- (PN Ande-roudus- 'the very red'), cymr. an(ne)- in anne-l- 'contrivance' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-) = Old Irish inde-l (**ṇdʰi-l-om*), cymr. an-daw- 'eavesdrop' (to taw- 'closemouthed'); Old Irish ind- (partly from **ind-*, partly from secondary **indo-*) in ind-reth- 'incursion' (**ind-i-reto-*), indnaide (see further under), etc. Pedersen (KG. I 45) will also place here Gothic und- 'up to'; s. about other possibilities above S. 50 and S. 181.

(e)nero- 'inner': Armenian **nero-* 'the inside', assumed from ner- 'within, in, into', nerk's- 'inside', nerk'oy- 'inside, within'; perhaps gr. ἔνεροι as 'those below, those beneath the earth, of the dead and the gods below', namely in the earth; or better Hypostase from οἱ ἐν ἔργῳ?

nī-, nei- 'low, base', comparative nītero- 'low' (in contrast to 'upper'):

Old Indic nī-, Avestan nī- 'down; downward', Old Indic nītarām- 'underneath', Avestan nītama- 'the lowest';

Armenian nī-, n- 'low';

Celtic **nē* from **nei* in Old Irish ar-nēut-sa, in-nēut-sa 'I expect, anticipate', (Proto Irish \-nē-sedū*), verbal noun indn(a)ide (**indo-nē-sodjion*) and in ar-neigdet 'to pray' (**ari-nē-gedont*); compare different Bergin Ériu 10, 111;

Old High German nidar, Old Saxon nithar, Old English nīþer, Old Icelandic nīðr 'down; downward', Old High German nidana, Old Saxon nithana 'under', Old English neoðan, nīþan 'down, downward, under', Old Icelandic neðana 'from here below', preposition with Akk. 'below', Old Saxon nithe Adv. 'under', Old High German nida preposition with Dat. and Akk. 'below, under';

Old Bulgarian nizъ 'down, downwards' (formation as prě-zъ etc.);

in compound:

Old Indic nīpa- 'low lying' (nī + ap- 'water');

**nī-okʷ-* as 'holding down the eyes' in:

Old Indic nīcā- 'downwards' (compare nyañc- 'pointed down');

Old Bulgarian nicb `inclined forward, stooping forward; rushing down or past; precipitous, steep; inclined, well-disposed, favorable; easy ', (**po-niknati*) poniknati, ničati `be inclined '; Wackernagel-Debrunner Old Indic Gr. III 230 f., Trautmann 198 f.

with formants -yo-:

gr. νειός f. `field, entryway ' (*lowland, depression'), νείατος, νέατος `the uttermost, lowest, extreme, outermost ', νείοθεν `from under, from the bottom ', νείοθι `below, at the bottom ', νείαιρα γαστήρ `the lower part of the belly ', νήιστα ἔσχατα, κατώτατα Hes., theb. Νήιπται πύλαι (η seems to stand for ē from ei before pal. vowel);

Old Bulgarian ŋiva `farmland' (*lowland, depression'), Serbo-Croatian ŋjiva (whence j?), Czech russ. niva ds. (**nēiμā* f); zero grade Old English neowol, nēol, nihol `inclined forward, stooping forward; rushing down or past; precipitous, steep; inclined, well-disposed, favorable; easy ' from **niwol*, Middle Low German nigel `low, base'; here probably also with full grade Lithuanian néivoti `torment, smite', Latvian niēvât `disdain, scorn ' (also Gothic **naiw* `ἐνεῖχεν ' Marc. VI 19?).

Maybe alb. nivel `levelled ground'?

compare Indo Germanic ni-zdos `nest' under sed- `sit, place'. As `run down, tell off, rebuke' (as Latvian niēvât) based on probably also neid- `reproach, rebuke, censure, blame, esp. by word ', neit- `to be hostile towards, attack ' neiq- (see there), in nei-, ní-.

enter, nter `between - in', en-tero- `inward ':

Old Indic antár, Avestan antarə, Old pers. antar `between ', adnom. with Lok., Instr., Akk., Gen.; Old Indic ántara- `internal ', Avestan antara- `inner ', Superl. Old Indic ántama- `the closest ' (not to ánti, ánta-), Avestan antəma- `the most internal, intimate, inmost '; Old Indic antrá-, also with Vṛddhi āntrá- n. `intestines, entrails ';

Armenian ənder-k Pl. `intestines, entrails ' (gr. loanword ? s. Hübschmann Arm. Gr. 1447 f.);

gr. ἐντέρον, mostly Pl. `intestines, entrails ';

alb. nder, ndër `between, in', further ndjer, ngjer etc. `until' (**entero-*); (common Slavic dz: Albanian dj, gl, gj allophones)

Latin enter, inter ` prep. with acc. between, among, amid; during, in the course of ', adnom. m. Akk. (solidified m. Gen. intervias, interdius), intrō, intrā, intrin-secus, interus ` internal ', interior, intimus, intestīnus (see below), Oscan Entraí `* Interae ', zero grade, Oscan anter ` between, among, amid; during, in the course of ', Umbrian anter, ander `during', adnom. m. Lok. and Akk.;

Old Irish eter, etir, etar ` between ', adnom. m. Akk., corn. ynter, yntre, bret. entre (the ending after tre-, dre = cymr. trwy), acymr. ithr ` between, among, amid; during, in the course of '; gall. inter ambes `between streams';

Old High German untar etc. `under = between' = Oscan anter (different from Germanic **under*, Old High German etc untar `below' from **ǵdʰer*, Latin infra); compare Gothic undaúrni-mats `lunch' = `breakfast', Old Norse undorn n. `morning (at nine clock)', Old Saxon undorn, Old English undern `midday', Old High German untorn `midday, lunch' (n-suffix as in Latin internus); zero grade as gr. ἐντερά etc. Old Norse iðrar Pl. `intestines, entrails' (from **innrar, *inþerōz*), innre, iðre `the inner' (if not specific nord.-ro- has derivated from inn = Gothic inn `hinein', see above); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Slavic **etro* in Old Church Slavic ĵatro `liver', ablaut. qtroba `liver, *intestines, cavity of the body', qtrb ` εἶσω '.

about Hittite antūrijas `inner, interior', andurza `inside, within' s. Lohmann I. F. 51, 320 f.

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur- : Hittite antūrijas `inner, interior' : Ἰλλυριοί, οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία, ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς, ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός, ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία!--hence Adv. Ἰλλυριστί.

entós `(from) inside' (compare Old Indic i-táh `from here', Latin caelitus etc.):

gr. ἐντός `inside', whereof ἐντοσ-θεν, -θι and further ἐντόσθια, ἐντοσθίδια `intestines, entrails' (or latter with from ἐντοσθε lengthened in θ for **ἐντοστια*, compare Old Indic antastya- n. `intestines, entrails', Fick I<sup>4</sup> 363, Vendryès Rev. ét. gr. 23, 1910, 74);

Latin intus `from inside, within; inside', therefrom with analog metathesis intestīnus `inward, internal; n. as subst., sing. and plur. the intestines';

Middle Low German Modern High German dial. inser 'eatable internal parts of animals', Old Norse īstr n., īstra f., 'the fat surrounding the intestine' (**en-s-tro-*);

Old Prussian instran 'fat', Latvian īstri Pl. 'kidneys' (**en-s-tro-*); Latvian iekša 'Inneres', Pl. 'intestines, entrails' (**en-t-ia*), Old Lithuanian insčios 'heart', Lithuanian įščios 'intestines, entrails' (**en-s-tio-*).

About the compression Latin endo, indu 'in', wherefore gr. τὰ ἐνδῖνα, Old Irish inne 'intestines, entrails', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), see above S. 182 -- About gr. ἐν-δον 'in the house, indoors' (wherefore ἐνδο-θεν, -θι, Lesbian Doric ἐνδοί after οἰκο-θεν, -θι, οἴκοι) s. dem- 'to build'.

References: WP. I 125 ff., II 335 f., WH. I 687 f., 694, 708 f., 711 f., 870, Trautmann 69 f., 198 f. W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 70 ff.

Page(s): 311-314

---

Root / lemma: en-2

Meaning: year

Material: Gr. ἔνος 'year' Hes., doubtful, whether m. or n., δί-ενος 'biennial', τετρα-ένης, -ες 'quadrennial, four years old', hom. Akk. Sg. ἥνιν, Akk. Pl. ἱνής 'annual', πρητ-ήν 'one-year-old lamb' (to Doric πρᾶτος from **p̄rtos*?); ἐν-ιαυτός 'year' (to ἰαύειν: 'wenn das Jahr ruht, Jahreswende' ??).

zero grade -n- in:

Gothic fram fair-n-in jēra, Old Saxon fer-n-un gēre, Middle High German verne 'last year';

Lithuanian pér-n-ai 'last year', Latvian pērn 'the previous year';

russ. dial., Czech lo-ni (**ol-ni*) 'letztjährig'.

Specht Dekl. 16 places in addition Pron. en in gr. ἐνη 'that (day or that year?)'.

Note:

Gr. ἔνος 'year': Latin annus 'year' (**atnos*) 'year': Old Indic hāyana- 'yearly', hāyaná- m. n. 'year' prove that Root / lemma: en-2: 'year': Root / lemma: at-, **atno-*: 'to go; year': Root / lemma: yet-: 'year' [prothetic y- before bare initial vowels] derived from Root / lemma: ghei-2, ghi-, ghei-men-, **gheimn-*: 'winter; snow'

References: Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 424 with Anm. 5, Feist 140 f., Specht Dekl. 15 f.

Page(s): 314

---

Root / lemma: *en(o)μη-, (o)nomη, nōmη, (*h<sub>1</sub>en h<sub>3</sub>(o)μη-)*

Meaning: name

Material: Old Indic nāma, Instr. Sg. nāmnā, Avestan nāma 'name';

Armenian anun, Gen. anuan, after Meillet Esquisse 48 from **anuwn*, **onomno-*, after EM<sup>2</sup> 675 from **onōmno-*;

gr. ὄνομα (from reduced **eno-* with assimilation e - o), dial. ὄνυμα, *ἔνυμα in lak.
'Ενυμακαπίδας, (reduced u derived before μν from Gen. *ἔνομνος), ἀνώνυμος, νώνυμος 'nameless';

alb. Tosc emër, Geg emën (**enmen-*);

Note:

(**da-a-ma-an*) > alb. Geg emën [common alb.-Baltic d- > zero]

Latin nōmen, -inis, n. Umbrian nome, Abl. nomne 'name' and 'people';

Old Irish ainmm n- n., Pl. anmann (**enmη-*); acymr. anu, Pl. enuein, out of it ncymr. enw, corn. hanow, Middle Breton hanff, hanu, bret. anσ;

Gothic namo n., Old Icelandic nafn n., Old English nama, Old High German namo m.
'name'; with ō-grade Old Frisian nōmia, Middle High German be-nuomen 'name';

Note:

Taboo word for (**dap-no-*) 'sacrificial animal, sacrificial meal'.

Old Prussian emnes, emmens m. (**enmen-*);

Slavic **ьmę*, out of it **ьmę* in Old Church Slavic imę, Serbo-Croatian īme, Old Czech
jmě, Gen. jmene, russ. īmja;

Tocharian A ñem, B ñom;

Hittite la-a-ma-an (lāman), with dissimilation of Anlauts; (**nda-a-ma-an*) compare finno-ugr. nām, nam, nēm, namma, magyar. nēv 'name'.

References: WP. I 132, Feist 369 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 352, Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. II 98, 121.

Page(s): 321

---

Root / lemma: enos- or onos-

Meaning: burden

Grammatical information: n.

Material: Old Indic ánaḥ n. 'load wagon' = Latin onus, -eris 'a load, burden' (onustus 'loaded, laden, burdened, freighted', onerāre 'load, burden, fill, freight').

In addition perhaps gr. ἀνία, Aeolic ὀνία 'grief, sorrow, distress, trouble', ἄνιος, ἄνιᾱρός 'grievous, troublesome, annoying' (the dialect distribution from ἀνία : ὀνία as with the preposition ἀνά : ὀν); after Wackernagel Gl. 14, 54 f. but dissimilated from **amīFā* = Old Indic āmīvā f. 'grief, sorrow, distress, trouble, plague' (see below ome-).

References: WP. I 132 f.;

See also: s. also under enek-.

Page(s): 321-322

---

Root / lemma: eno- (probably e-no-): ono- : no- : -ne-

Meaning: that

Material: Old Indic Instr. anēna, anáyā 'this, that', Gen. Lok. Du. anáyōḥ, anā 'for, sure'; Avestan Gen. Du. anayā, Instr. ana (Old pers. anā), Pl. anāiš, about Old Indic anyá- 'other', ántara- ds., which someone might place here, compare above S. 37;

Armenian so-in 'the same', if from **ko-eno-s*, Junker KZ. 43, 343; gr. ἐν (sc. ἡμέρα) 'der über morgige Tag', (ἐ-)κεῖνος 'that', Doric τῆνος ds. (*κε-, *τε-ενος), ὁ δεῖνα 'der und der, ein gewisser' (after ταδεῖνα = *τάδε ἔνα 'this and that'); about ἐνιοί 'a, some, few' (from **en-io-*?) compare Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 614<sup>4</sup>;

Latin enim Old Latin 'yea, in truth', later 'for, namely' = Oscan íním, inim 'also, too, besides, moreover, likewise, as well, even' (whose í in proclitic from e), Umbrian ene, enem 'then, at that time, in those times' besides end(m), ennom etc. ds.; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Indo Germanic **onjo-*, with í (probably of Rel. **jo-*) in Old High German ienēr, obd. ener, Middle High German geiner (= jeiner), Old English geon, Gothic jains 'that' instead of **janjis* through the influence of ains, Old Norse enn, inn 'the', with ko-: hinn 'that', hānn, hann 'he' (**kēnos*);

Lithuanian añs, anàs 'that', žem. 'he'; Old Prussian tāns 'he' (**t-anas*: **to*);

Old Church Slavic etc. онъ (ona, ono) 'that, he', serb.-Church Slavic onakъ 'from that kind of' (= Lithuanian anōks ds.); about Hittite an-ni-iš (annis) 'that', Adverb an-na-az (annaz), an-ni-ša-an 'once, one day, some time, some day', compare Pedersen Hittite 63, Cuvreur H 91 f.

no-*, *nā in:

Old Indic nā-nā 'so or so';

Armenian -n article, na 'then' (**no-ai*, Meillet Esquisse<sup>2</sup> 88), a-n-d 'there' (d from Indo Germanic t, also not similar Old Irish and 'here', above S. 37, wherefore still Cypriot ἄνδρα αὐτή, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 613);

Maybe alb. andej 'there'

gr. νῆς τὸ ἔννης, Doric νᾶς Hes.; νή 'yea, in truth', Instr. (= Latin nē ds.), ναί, ναίχι ds. (compare αἰ : ἢ 'if', δαί : δῆ 'also');

Maybe alb ně se 'if'

Latin nam 'for, namely' (Akk. Sg. f), nem-pe 'certainly, without doubt, assuredly, of course, as everybody knows', nem-ut ds.; nē 'yea, in truth', instrumental; doubtful whether Slavic **nā*, Interjektion russ. na 'there you have!' etc. belongs here.

Also alb. na 'there you have!'

Maybe poln. na pewno 'certainly' : Latin nem-pe 'certainly'

Doubtful is also, whether the consecutive particles belong here:

ne in:

Old Indic nā 'as though, as';

Avestan yaθ-na 'and namely';

gr Thessalian ὄνε, τόνε, τάνε, with double inflection Gen. Sg. τοῖνεος etc. 'this';

Latin ego-ne, tū-ne, dēnique (**dē-ne-que*), dōnicum, dōnec (**dō-ne-kʷom*, compare Umbrian arnipo 'as far as' from **ad-ne-kʷom*), quandō-ne, sīn (**sī-ne* 'if, however'), etc.; also -ne in the question;

Old High German (ne weist tu) na 'not knowing whether';

Old Lithuanian ne 'as', Lithuanian nė, nėgí, nėgu 'as' (after comparative), néi 'as' (**ne-i*), Latvian ne 'as';

akls. neže, Serbo-Croatian něgo 'as' after comparative; Old Russian ní ds., poln. ni 'as' (**ne-i*).

Maybe alb. (**nse*) se : poln níž 'than' : akls. neže 'as' after comparative.

nē in:

Old Indic ví-nā 'without';

Avestan yaθa-nā 'straight as', ciθa-nā for the introduction of a question (= Latin quid-ne); about gr. ἐγώνη, which could also be ἐγω-νη, see below ē, ō; νή s. S. 320;

Latin nē 'yea, in truth' see above S. 320;

Gothic -na in afta-na Adv. 'from behind', hinda-na Adv. 'beyond', etc.; Old High German -na in oba-na 'from here above'; Old Norse þēr-na 'to yourself, to you', etc.;

Old Bulgarian въ-нѣ 'outside'; probably Phrygian vi 'and' (in ioς vi 'and who') remains far off; about Tocharian A -ne in kus-ne 'who, what, which, the one that', compare Cuvreur (Tochaarse Klank- en Vormleer 50); s. also Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 612;

References: WP. II 336 f., WH. I 339 f., 370 f., 386 f., 404 f., Trautmann 7 f., 195, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 606, 612, Specht Dekl. 306.

Page(s): 319-321

Meaning: to sigh, groan, onomatopoeic words

Note: both vocalizations also with various emotion value, so that perhaps would be spoken from two variant onomatopoeic words. Besides, admittedly, a root form in voiced-nonaspirated eng-, ong-, ŋg- 'groan, moan, sigh', without such meaning separation after the vocalization.

Material: Gr. ὀγκάζομαι 'cry, shout (bray, of the ass) ' (of donkey), ὄγκος 'bittern ' (*ὄγκος);

alb. nëkónj, Geg angój 'groan, sigh, complain ' (**enq-*);

Latin uncō, -āre 'to sound or roar like a bear '. But cymr. och 'a sighing, a sigh, a groan, a lamentation, complaint ', interjection 'ah!', is not deducible from **onq-* and probably certainly a new interjectional creation;

Slavic **jěčati*, russ.-Church Slavic jaču, jačati 'sigh', jaklivъ 'having an impediment in one's speech', russ. Dialectal jačátъ 'groan, moan, plaintive shout '.

alb. Geg me u anku 'to groan, moan, sigh' : Middle Low German anken 'groan, moan, sigh'

With voiced-nonaspirated:

Middle Irish ong 'the groaning, sigh, lamentation ', in addition probably Old Irish ennach 'crow' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (from **eng-n-ākā*) and enchache f. 'buffoonery, scurrility ';

Middle Low German anken 'groan, moan, sigh', Norwegian Dialectal ank 'whimpering, sigh, distress, repentance ', Danish ank, anke 'lament, complaint ', wherefore changing through ablaut Danish ynke, Swedish ynka 'have mercy on, deplore, bemoan ', at most also Modern High German Unke after her pitiful cry (yet onomatopoeic word Middle High German ūche 'toad '; s. still Kluge<sup>11</sup>, the hybridization this ūche with Middle High German Old High German unc 'snake' [see above S. 44] considers).

An onomatopoeic word is Lithuanian ùngti, ùngau 'whimper like a dog '.

References: WP. I 133.

Page(s): 322

---

Root / lemma: ent- (better ant-) (**h-ent*)

Meaning: to weave

Note:

Root / lemma: ent- (better ant-?) : 'to weave' derived from a truncated Root / lemma: uebh-
1: 'to weave, plait' through an Illyrian-alb. intermediary alb. venj 'I weave' (**uebh* ñiō) : alb.
ent, int 'weave' (**ent-i-* or **nt-*).

Material: Old Indic átka-h m. 'garment, mantle', Avestan aōka-, atka- m. 'Upper dress, mantle' (nt-ko-s);

alb. ent, int 'weave' (**ent-i-* or **nt-*) : Old Indic ubhnāti, umbhāti, unábdhi 'tie together', ūrṇā-vábhi- m. 'spider', gr. ὤφῃ 'the weaving', alb. venj 'I weave' (**uebh* ñiō);

Note:

Alb.-slavic use prothetic v- for the lost laryngeal h-.

gr. Attic ἄπτοι (**nt-iō-*) 'weave', διαζομαι ds. (compare Debrunner IF. 21, 216), ἄσμα, διασμα 'setting the warp in the loom, i.e. beginning the web'; if, however (Petersson Heterokl. 262) ἄνταp ds., ἀντήριος ds. belong to it, must have begun rather like root **ant-*. However, exists with gr. culture words the suspicious origin and Old Irish étid 'dressed', étiud 'clothing' could be shaped secondary to étach ds. (**en-togo-*); also the equation Old Indic átka-h : gr. ἄσκος 'skin, hose, tube' is because of of this dubious meaning; gr. ἥτριον, Doric ἄτριον 'the warp in a web' are suspectly of pre-Greek origin.

References: WP. I 134.

Page(s): 322

---

Root / lemma: epero-

Meaning: boar

Material: Latin aper, aprī 'boar', Umbrian Akk. Pl. apruf, abrof, Akk. Sg. abrunu, Akk. Pl. abrons 'pigs' (yet about Latin Aprōnius, mars.-Latin Aprufclano see Schulze Eigennamen 111, 124 f.); a probably after caper, derived Latin aprugnus 'of boar' with suffix -gno- zur root gen-; here perhaps the PN Eprius; Germanic **ebura-*, Old Norse jōfurr m. 'prince, lord' (in figurative meaning, actually 'boar'), Old English eofor m. 'boar', mndd. ever, Old High German ebur, Modern High German Eber.

With (analogical?) ν-suggestion belong asl. veprь m. 'boar', Serbo-Croatian věpar (Gen. věpra), poln. wieprz (Gen. wieprza), russ. veprь (Gen. véprja) here;

Latvian vepris ds. (PN Lithuanian Vėpriai Plur., and Old Prussian Weppren) is not borrowed of Slavic, but common origin; unclear is thrak. ἔβρος 'he-goat; billy goat'.

References: WP. I 121, WH. I 56, Trautmann 351.

Page(s): 323

---

Root / lemma: eph-

Meaning: to cook

Note: Only Gr. and Armenian

Material: Armenian ep'em 'cook';

gr. ἔψω 'cook', Fut. ἐψήσω, participle ἐφθός (does not prove in itself Indo Germanic ph, because also *ἐπστός should lead to ἐφθός); however, ἔψω so- would be present (compare δέψω : δέφω) and Armenian p 'derived from Indo Germanic ph .

References: WP. I 124, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 326, 706.

Page(s): 325

---

Root / lemma: epi, opi, pi

Meaning: at, by

Note: (also with lengthened grade -ei, -oi in the final syllable); partially in the meaning with abbreviated eb<sup>h</sup>i, ob<sup>h</sup>i.

Material: Old Indic ápi 'also, in addition' (Adv.), seldom ved. preposition m. locative 'by, in', prefix apí-, pí- 'to, by' (pí- in pí-dhāna- n. 'covering, cover, lid', pí-nahyati 'tethered, fastened to', py-úksṇa- 'cover of the bow': gr. πτ-υχρή 'crease, layer', if from *πτ-υχᾱ, πτύσσω 'lay, place together, crease', pīdayati: πιέζω, s. *sed-); common Old Indic ġh- > kṣ-

Avestan aipi, ap. apiy, adnominal 'about - to, by (Akk.), by (temporal, Lok.), after (temporal, Instr.)', Adv. 'in addition also, likewise also, particularly, specially, especially, particular: in particular, peculiarly, separately, extra, notably; hereafter, later', prefix 'to';

with lengthened grade of final syllable Avestan ape 'after' (m. Akk.), compare apaya Adv. 'hereafter, prospectively', -pe emphasizing particle;

Armenian ev 'and, also'; **pí* in anlaut h- united verbs, as h-aganim 'pull myself to'?

Gr. ἐπί, ἔπι 'auf to, an', adnominal with dative (= Indo Germanic Lok., Instr., Akk., Gen., prefix, ἔπισσον τὸ ὕστερον γινόμενον Hes. (i.e. probably 'progeny', basic form *ἐπι-τιο-, Schulze, Kl. Schr. 70 ff., 675), πι- prefix (see above); opi in hom. ὀπι-θε(ν) 'behind, afterwards', Ionian Attic ὀπισθε(ν) ds. (-σ- after πρόσθε(ν), compare also ὀπίσ(σ)ω 'behind, backwards'; hereafter ' (**opí-tiō*), ὀπίστατος 'hindmost, last'; ὀπ-ώρα 'autumn', S. 343); presumably (with Indo Germanic contraction from **opí-oqʷ* to **opīqʷ*, to **oqʷ*- 'see') ὀπι:-πέυω 'stare at', παρθενοπίπτα 'girl gazer, onlooker', *ὄψ (formation as ἄψ, Latin abs, ἀμφίς, see below Italian ops-) base from ὀψέ, Aeolic ὄψι 'late'; about gr. ἐπ-εἰ 'there' see above S. 284;

Illyrian PN Epi-cadus (compare gr. κεκαδμένος 'parading, showing off'); Venetic PN Opi-tergium (to Tergeste 'Triest', Old Bulgarian trъgbъ 'marketplace'; alb. tregu 'marketplace'); Messapic pí-dō (**dō-t*) 'bore profit';

alb. épërrë 'situated above'; Illyrian Epirus (**epí-ueriō*) 'situated above, highland': Ériu 'Ireland' (**epí-ueriō* 'enclosed land, hill, island'), cymr. Ywerddon ds. (**uiuerdon*, **epí-uerionos*) [common Illyrian n > nd > d].

Latin ob adnominal m. Akk. 'prep. with acc., in front of, before; in return for; because of, on account of', Old Latin also 'around, round about, all around, near together, in close proximity', and prefix from op- before voiced consonant originated (as ab from ap[o]); op still in operio from **op-veriō*, oportet from **op-vortet* 'it is necessary, needful, proper, becoming, or reasonable; it behooves; I (thou, he, etc.) must or ought'; about opācus s. EM<sup>2</sup> 703 and above S. 54; **ops-* (see above) usually before t- in compound, e.g. o(p)s-tendo; Oscan úp, op 'by' with Abl. (= *Instr.);

Old Irish iar n-, iar-m- 'after, afterwards, in the next place, secondly' m. Dat., perhaps Neutr. a derivative **epi-ro-m* (Thurneysen Gr. 516); epí seems also obstructed in Old Irish ía-daim 'close' (compare Latin ob-dō), éi-thech 'perjury' (compare gr. ἐπι-ορκέω), Ériu 'Ireland' (**epí-ueriō* 'enclosed land, hill, island') = cymr. Ywerddon ds. (**uiuerdon*, **epí-uerionos*), nir. éibheall 'blaze, glow' (**epí-b<sup>h</sup>elo-*);

opi in Old Irish oíbell m. 'blaze, glow' = cymr. ufel m. 'spark' (**opí-b<sup>h</sup>elo-*); cymr. uffarn, bret. ufern 'ankle' (opi-spernā);

Gothic iftuma (formation as aftuma 'last') 'subsequent, later'; ibdalja m. 'descent, slope', Old English eofolsian 'blaspheme' (**eḥ-hālsian*), eofut, eofot n. 'blame' (**eḥ-hāt*);

in addition perhaps also the group 'evening': Old Norse aptann, eptann, west-Germanic with ā Old English æfen m. n., Old Saxon āband, Old High German āband; perhaps the West Germanic has dissimilation reduction of the first dental experienced in the basic form **āptanto*- or is Indo Germanic **ēp-onto*- the basic form and Old Norse aptann from derived aptan 'hereafter'; to the possible fusion from **ap-* and **ep-* in Germanic compare above S. 53 f.;

Lithuanian ap-, before labial also still api-, in nominal compound apy- prefix 'around, about, by', apiẽ 'around, about' m. Akk., Old Lithuanian and dial. East Lithuanian dievíe-p 'by god', sūnaūs-pi 'for the son'; Latvian ap- 'around, about', pie with Gen. and Akk. 'by, in', pie 'to there, in-, full-'; Old Prussian ep- (ap- lacking normative spelling), eb- 'around-', rather as **epi* here, as to be taken as a basis under the form eb- to Indo Germanic eb<sup>h</sup>i, ob<sup>h</sup>i; in addition to the postposition lit -p(i) hinter Gen. namó-pi 'on the way home, homeward') and Lok. (namié-pi 'to the house, homeward'), Latvian -p (only adverbial use), E. Fraenkel, Syntax 18 ff., Endzelin Gr. 524 ff.;

in addition one places also Lithuanian suffix in dvej-ópas 'twofold' etc., as well as das suffix in Illyrian VN Hadriopes, Δερριότητες, etc. (??);

here also Slavic preposition o 'around, in' (**op*); to coincidence with Indo Germanic ob<sup>h</sup>i see above S. 287, Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 155 f., Trautmann 1;

about Hittite appa etc. see above S. 53; in the meaning it corresponds rather to gr. ἐπί as gr. ἀπό;

Lycian knows only the extended forms epñ-, epñte 'after'; about Tocharian Gen.-ending A -āp, B -epi, which one could put here (also in Lithuanian would strengthen the Gen. through epi), s. also Pedersen Tocharian 50 ff.

References: WP. I 122 f., Pedersen Lycian and Hittite 23, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 325, 550<sup>7</sup>, 620, 628, 631<sup>7</sup>, Trautmann 1.

Page(s): 323-325

---

Root / lemma: epop, opop

Meaning: a kind of exclamation

Material: Armenian popop, npers. pūrū `hoopoe';

gr. ἐποποῖ ποποπό `shout, call of hoopoe', ἔποψ, -οπος `hoopoe', ἔπωπα ἀλεκτρυόνα ἄγριον Hes. (-ωπ- probably through support in -ωψ); ἄπαφός ἔποψ, τὸ ὄρνεον (assimilated from *επαφός, which is reshuffled in ending after animal names suffix -αφος = alb. kafshë (*-αφος, **haphos*) `animal');

Latin urupa `hoopoe';

ndd. Hupphupp; Modern High German Wiedehopf, Old High German wituhopfo, Old Saxon widohoppa is a reinterpretation after Germanic widu- (Indo Germanic uidʰu-) `tree, wood' and Middle High German hopfen `hüpfen';

Latvian puppukis `hoopoe'.

similar, but not reduplicated, Upper Sorbian hupak, poln. hupek `hoopoe', Upper Sorbian hupać `cry like a hoopoe', compare also more in general slovak. húpati `cry', russ. old chupsti sja `vaunt, boast'.

References: WP. I 123 f., Kluge<sup>11</sup> S. 689.

Page(s): 325

---

Root / lemma: ereb-, orob-, rōb-

Meaning: to drill, make holes

Material: Latvian īrbs `knitting needle' (rhyme word to virbs), īrbulis `little peg, stylus'; Lithuanian urbinti `make a hole with the awl', urbtī = Latvian urbt `bore', urbulis `awl, stylus'; Lithuanian ruōbti `hollow out', ruobtuvas `Hohlmesser', Latvian ruobs `incisure, incision, rabbet, lack, feud'. The ablaut relation speaks for Indo Germanic age of the family, although the citation of gr. ἄρβηλος `round shoemaker's knife' and ἀρβύλη `strong shoe covering the whole foot' (if originally `hollow clog') remains quite doubtful, because latter can be also based on a word for `shoe' of quite other origin

References: WP. I 146.

Page(s): 333

---

Root / lemma: ered- (**ere-danos*)

Meaning: to flow; dampness

Material: Old Indic árdati, rdáti 'flows (in compounds), sprays, resolves; disturbs', ardáyati 'makes flow, dissolves, presses, torments, kills', ādrá 'humid, wet, damp', rdū (in compounds) 'dampness', Avestan arədvī- f. name of a mythical river, worshiped mostly as a female divinity.

from in addition gr. ἄρδᾶ 'smut, dirt', ἄρδαλος 'dirty, filthy'?

Perhaps here the frequent Celto-Ligurian FIN Rodanos (French Rhône = Modern High German der Rotten, Italian Rodano etc.) as 'the flowing' (gräzis. Ῥπίδανος from iberisiert. **Errodanos*), in addition Rednitz (Bavaria) from **Rodantia*.

maybe Illyrian GN Redon 'sea god'.

References: WP. I 148, Pokorny Mil. Boisacq II 193 ff.

Page(s): 334

---

Root / lemma: ereg<sup>w</sup>(h)o-, erog<sup>w</sup>(h)o-

Meaning: pea

Material: Gr. ὀροβος m. (from *ἔροβος after Gen. etc. ὀρόβου); compare however, W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 81), ἐρέβινθος m. (Asia Minor suffix proves not exactly such origin, there in plant names also, otherwise, seeming, thus in λέβινθοι ἐρέβινθοι Hes.) 'chickpea';

Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Latin ervum n. 'a kind of pulse, the bitter vetch' (from **erouom*, **ereg<sup>w</sup>(h)om* or **erog<sup>w</sup>(h)om*);

Old High German araweiz, arwiz, Modern High German Erbse, Old Saxon er(iw)it, Middle Low German erwete, nnd. erwten Pl., Old Norse ertr f. Pl. (Dat. ertrum) ds. (-ait probably pure suffix); but Middle Irish orbaind 'grains' stands for **arbainn*, older arbanna (above S. 63).

Probably borrowings from a common, probably east-mediterranean origin, from which derives also Old Indic aravindam 'lotus'.

References: WP. I 145, WH. I 419 f., 863.

Page(s): 335

---

Root / lemma: erek-1 (er[e]gh-)

Meaning: louse, tick

Note: often distorted taboo

Note:

Root / lemma: erek-1 (er[e]gh-): louse, tick, derived from a suffixed Root / lemma: er-2, eri-: goat; sheep.

Material:

In e- grade:

Lithuanian érké 'tick, sheep louse' (**erkiā*), Latvian ērce 'cow's mite, wicked, evil person' under Indo Germanic **erek-*. Furthermore it is to be compared Armenian o(r)jil 'nit, louse' (here seems to be a root variant er(e)gh-, as also in the consecutive alb. form) and ork'iun 'ringworm, itching, erysipelas' (from **orqjiōno-* (?) with a -no- suffix as in Latin after Petersson KZ. 47, 263 f.), alb. ergjiz 'small louse' (see G. Meyer Alb.Wb. 96; doubt by Hermann KZ. 41, 48; however, the irregular guttural in Armen. and Alban. could be based on taboo distortion).

In zero- grade:

Old Indic likṣā 'nit, louse' common Old Indic ḡh- > kṣ- (probably from **lakṣā* through influence of likhāti 'scarifies');

Latin ricinus 1. 'itself in the skin of sheep, dogs or cattle annoying vermin, tick' (doubtful is the affiliation from 2. 'a shrub kind, castor bean, ricinus') could go back to older **recinos* and be shared with Lithuanian érké 'tick, sheep louse'.

References: WP. I 145, II 344.

Page(s): 335

---

Root / lemma: er(e)k-2, rek-, rok-

Meaning: to tear, cut, split

Material: Old Indic ṛkṇá-ḥ 'flayed, rubbed off bald', ṛkṣá-ḥ 'naked, bald, bleak', ṛkṣara-ḥ 'cusp, peak, thorn'; common Old Indic ḡh- > kṣ-

Lithuanian j-érkà, pra-j-érkà 'slit'; (about Latvian ērcis 'juniper' etc. see above S. 67 f.); with other ablaut grade Lithuanian rankù, ràkti 'stick in, poke', rakštis 'splinter, thorn', etc.

References: Persson Beitr. 839.

See also: In addition belongs also: eres-1 'prick'.

Page(s): 335

---

Root / lemma: eres-1

Meaning: to pierce

Material:

Old Indic ṛṣáti `bumps, stings ', ṛṣṭíṣ `spear, javelin', Avestan aršti- ds.;

Lithuanian erškėtis `thorn plant ', compare above S. 67;

sloven. rêšək `sowthistle '.

References: Persson Beitr. 84.

See also: Verschieden therefrom is: ere-s-2.

Page(s): 335

---

Root / lemma: ere-s-2 (ers-, rs-, eres-), and rēs-, rōs-

Meaning: to flow

Material: 1. Old Indic rása-h `juice, sap, fluidity', rasā `dampness, humidity', also mythical river name equally Avestan Raīhā (i.e. Rahā), out of it the name the Wolga ΩPâ;

Latin rōs, rōris `dew' (conservative stem with originally bare nominativischer lengthened grade ō);

alb. resh, reshën `it is snowing, it is raining ', also `shower of ash, fire' (probably likewise from **rōs-*);

Maybe alb. reshje `rainfall ', re `cloud '.

gr. ἀπ-εράω (**erāsō*) `pour liquid, spew away ' (?), ἐξ-εράω `empty, spit out, spew ', κατ-εράω `pour in ', μετ-εράω `transfuse ', συνεράω `pour together '; after Debrunner IF. 48, 282 the basic meaning from ἐράω `spill, pour on the earth ' and the verb would derive from ἔρα `earth' (above S. 332);

Old Church Slavic rosa `dew', Lithuanian rasà ds.

Maybe as `*water bird' in alb. rosa f. `female duck (*water bird) ': Slovenian: raca f. `female duck ': Romany: ratsoy m. `male duck', ratsa f. `female duck ': Romanian: rață f. `female duck', rațoi m. `male duck ': Furlan raze `duck ': Occitan rit `duck ': Hungarian réce `duck'.

2. root form ers-, rs-, rsen 'virile'.

Old Indic arṣati 'flows'; further with the meaning 'virile' (from 'moistening, pouring seeds') Old Indic ṛṣa-bhā-ḥ 'bull', aja-rṣabhā-ḥ 'he-goat', Avestan Old pers. aršan 'man, husband, penis', gr. hom. ἄρσῃν, Attic ἄρρῃν, Ionian Aeolic Cretan ἔρσῃν (without F-!) 'virile' (in addition *αρνηFός, hom. ἀρνειός 'of a lamb or sheep, ram' = Attic ἀρνέως, Aeolic ἀρνήαδες f., in addition ἀρνεύω 'make an aerial jump, dive', actually 'make a leapfrog', ἀρνευτήρ 'one who flips over in the air, capers, jump about', Lithuanian by Boisacq under ἀρνειός and ἀρνευτήρ Nachtr.), probably also Old High German or[re]huon, Old Norse orre 'grouse' (out of it Middle High German ūrhan, Modern High German Auerhahn through hybridization with Old High German ūr, ūrohso).

3. affiliation of our root **eres-* to **er-*, **or-* 'set in motion, lively movement' is worth considering. Other s-forms show additional meaning from root er-, or-:

Armenian eṛam (**ersā-iō*; compare above Old Indic arṣati) 'boil, flow; be in perpetually in motion; be teeming; be excited passionately; be or become keen, angry', eṛandn 'surge etc.; excitement', z-eṛam 'moves me around, stirs me, I am strongly moved, excited, swim etc.';

gr. ἐρωή 'swing, verve, rush' (**rōsā*; therefrom but also ἐρωέω 'flow, stream, hurry');

Latin rōrārii 'light armed skirmisher, kind of light-armed Roman troops, who usually made the first attack and then retired, skirmishers' (derivative from **rōsā* 'swing' = βελέων, δουρὸς ἐρωή);

Old Norse rās f. 'run', mndd. rās n. 'intense current', Old English ræs m. 'run, attack' (engl. race Scandinavian loanword), Middle High German rāsen 'dash', Old English ræsan 'onrush', Old Norse rāsa 'dash forth, rush along'; Old Norse ras n. 'haste, hurry', rasa 'stream, glide, slide' (ablaut **rōs-* : **rēs-* : **ræs-?*); Gothic rēs in PN Rēs-mēr, in addition with the concept partly of the worried, also aimless movement, partly of the excitement, the violent rage:

on the one hand: Latin errō (**ersā-iō*) 'to wander, to wander or stray about, to wander up and down, to rove' (= Armenian eṛam), Gothic airzeis 'wander, enticed', Old High German irri 'wander', Gothic airziPa f. 'error, deceit', Old High German irrida ds., irr(e)ōn (**erziōn*) 'err'; on the other hand: Old Saxon irri 'angry, irate', Old English eorre, yrre 'angry, irate, rancorous', eorsian, iersian 'to wish a person ill'.

4. **res-* in Old Indic irasyáti 'is angry, is ill-disposed, behaves violently' (**res-*), irasyā- 'the ill-will' and īṛṣyati 'is envious' (**erəs-*), Avestan participle arəšyant- 'envious', Old Indic īṛṣyā- 'envy, jealousy' Avestan aras-ka- 'envy', Middle Persian npers. arašk 'envy, eagerness', zero grade Avestan arəši- 'envy'; ved. īṛṣi- m. 'bard, seer' (**lunatic*);

Armenian heri 'anger, envy, strife';

gr. ἄρος ἀκούσιον βλάβος Hes., hom. ἀρειή 'defamatory word' (= Old Indic irasyā), in addition ἐπήρεια 'violent, hostile action' (proto gr. ā, compare Arcadian ἐπηρειάζεν, with lengthening in compound due to a **ἐπ-ᾱρής*), compare also ἐρεσχληέω 'banter'; Ἄρης 'god of revenge' seems if personification of the related Subst. ἀρή 'ruin, outrage, act of violence', whereof ἀρήμενος 'distressed, injured, hurt, disabled, afflicted';

Lithuanian aršūs 'violent';

Hittite arsaniya- 'be jealous, envious', Denom. from **arsana-* 'jealous' (compare above Old Indic īṛṣyā 'envy'), Benveniste BSL. 33, 139;

after Pedersen RETIE. 3, 18 here Tocharian A ārṣal 'poisonous worms', B arṣāklai 'snake' (**rsātlā*); to Old Indic ārṣati 'flows' (above S. 336) places Cuvreur H 96 Hittite a-ar-aš-zi (arszi) 'flows';

Tocharian A yār-s-, B yar-s- 'bathe' (-s- from -sk-), without sk- suffix A yār- ds., would be compared with Hittite arra- 'wash' (?).

References: WP. I 149 ff., WH. I 416 f., 863, Trautmann 237.

Page(s): 336-337

---

Root / lemma: ereu-1

Meaning: to seek, ask

Material: Gr. **ἔρευμι*, **ἔρουμεν*, thematic become: ἐρέ[F]ω, ἐρέ[F]ομαι (Aeolic ἐρεύω) and εἶρομαι (ἔρφομαι) 'ask, search, seek', Cretan ἐρευταί 'ζητηταί, πράκτορες', due to en- stem: **ερεF-ων* 'inquirer, searcher', ἐρευνάω 'feel, investigate' and hom. ἐρεείνω investigate, ask' (*ερεFεν-ιω), finally due to a *ḗpF-ως: ἑρωτάω hom. εἰρωτάω `ask'; hom. ἐρείομεν is after Risch (briefl.) a fake analogical form;

Old Norse raun f. `attempt, test, investigation ', reyna `examine, get to know '.

References: WP. II 366, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 680.

Page(s): 337

---

Root / lemma: ereu-2

Meaning: to tear

Material: Old Indic áruṣ- n. `wound';

Old Norse ørr, err n. `scar' (**arwaz*, **arwiz*), as Finnish loanword arpi, Gen. arven, Middle Low German are, Modern High German dial. arbe `scar';

References: WP. II 352, Holthausen Altwestn. Wb. 355.

See also: s. also under reu-2 `tear open', which probably belongs to it.

Page(s): 338

---

Root / lemma: er(ə)d- (ar/ə/d-), er(ə)d<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: high; to grow

Note:

Root / lemma: er(ə)d- (ar/ə/d-), er(ə)d<sup>h</sup>-: `high; to grow' derived from Root / lemma: al-2: `to grow; to bear' d<sup>h</sup>- Extensions: Old Indic rdhnóti, rnáddhi, rdhāti, ṛdhyati `prosper, succeeds, does succeed, manages ', Avestan arədaī `he allows to prosper ', arədāt- `make prosper '.

Material: Avestan arədva- `high';

Latin arduus `high, upright';

gall. Arduenna silva, Old Irish ard (**ṛd̪uo-*) `high, big, large'; cymr. hardd `beautiful';

Maybe Illyrian TN Ardiei

Old Icelandic qrðugr `upright ' puts away (as at most also arədva-) a parallel form in d<sup>h</sup>-, while various extensions exist from er- `(set in motion, invigorate) bring up' through d<sup>h</sup> (compare ὀποθύω `set in motion, invigorate' etc.).

Certainly with d<sup>h</sup> Latin arbor `tree', wherefore Kurdish ār- from **ard-* `tree' in ārzang `dark hue on the trees caused by wind and weather ', actually `tree rot';

alb. rit 'grow', from rd- or rdh-; (zero grade) < Rumanian ridica 'pitch, raise, elevate, lift, perk up, straighten, loop, kick up, pick up, hoist, take up, rise, arise, get up, mount, ascend, balloon, shovel, pry, prong, stick up, cock, start, step up, advance, remove, arrest, suspend, encash, enhance, aggrandize, resound, strike, construct, build, carry up, set up, erect, found, create, put up, put, interpose, appear, pose, bring up, receive, convene, assemble, muster, collect'

Maybe alb. adj. f. re m. i ri 'young', rini 'youth'.

Slavic **orstq*, Old Bulgarian rastq, russ. rastú, Czech rostu etc. 'grow' (**ord-*, ordh-tō);

Tocharian A orto 'upwards'.

References: WP. I 148 f., II 289 f., WH. I 64 f.

Page(s): 339

---

Root / lemma: erə-1, rē-, er(e)-

Meaning: to row

Material: Old Indic arí-tra- m. 'driving; rudder', n. (also áritra-) 'rudder, helm', arítár- 'oarsman';

gr. ἑρέτης 'oarsman', replacement for **ἑρετήρ* (= Old Indic arítár-) wherefore receive fem. Ἑρέτρια PN, ἑρέσσω, Attic ἑρέπτω 'row, oar' (**ἑρετ-ιω*, denominative), ἑρετμός, Pl. ἑρετμά (instead of **ἑρήμος* = Latin rēmus, after ἑρέτης, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 493<sup>2</sup>) 'rudder', hom. εἰρεσίη (ei- metr. lengthening) 'the rowing', ὑπηρέτης 'enslaved oarsman, sailor'; figurative: 'hardly working servant', πεντήρης 'having five banks of oars, a ship or galley having five banks of oars, a quinquereme'; εἰκόσ-ορος, τριᾱκόντ-ορος, Ionian τριηκόντ-ερος etc. (die -ορος-forms through gr. assimilation of o from ε?); ἀλι-ήρης 'rowing through the sea', ἀμφ-ήρης 'having two banks of oars', τριήρης 'three-decker';

Latin rēmus 'rudder', triresmom, septeresmom Columna rostrata (basic form rather **rē-smo-* as **reť-smo-*);

Maybe Remus, i, m., the brother of Romulus (**rē-smo* 'placed into sailing the basket?')

The god Mars impregnates a Vestal Virgin. When she gives birth to twins, Romulus and Remus, the king orders them to be left to die in the Tiber River. When the basket in which Romulus and Remus were placed washes up on shore, a wolf suckles them and a woodpecker named Picus feeds them until the shepherd Faustulus finds Romulus and Remus and brings them into his home. When they grow up, Romulus and Remus restore the throne of Alba Longa to its rightful ruler, their maternal grandfather, and set out to found their own city. Sibling rivalry leads Romulus to slay his brother and become the first king and founder of the city of Rome. Rome is named after Romulus.

Old Irish rā 'oar, row', imb-rā 'oar, row, sail, navigate a ship' (e.g. Impf. -raad, Perf. imm-rerae 'set out, departed', Verbn. imram 'the rowing'), rāme 'rudder';

Old Norse rōa, Old English rōwan, Middle High German rüējen 'oar, row'; Old High German ruodar, Old English rōðor n. 'rudder', Old Norse rōþr (u-stem **rōþru-*) 'the rowing';

Lithuanian irīu, irtī 'oar, row', irklas 'rudder', ablaut. Old Prussian artwes f. Pl. 'sailing'.

References: WP. I 143 f., Trautmann 105.

Page(s): 338

---

Root / lemma: erə-2, rē-

Meaning: to be still

Material: Avestan airime adv. 'still, peaceful' (**erə-mo-*), armaē-šad, -štā 'sitting quietly, standing still' (**er-mo-* or **erə-mo-*;

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in -h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>ah<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Avestan -ae- mere graphic -i- are seen in airime Meillet Dial. indoeur. 66);

gr. ἐρωή (πολέμοιο) 'stop the fight', ἐρωέω 'cease' = Old Norse rō, Old English rōw, Old High German ruowa, Modern High German Ruhe (**rōyō*), changing through ablaut with Old High German rāwa ds.; ἀρά-μεναι ἡσυχάζειν Hes. (?); cymr. araf 'peaceful, mild, slow' (**erə-mo-*);

after Rozwadowski R. Sl. 6, 58 f. ostensibly here the name the Wolga ṚPā as 'quiet, still water' from **Rava* (Mordovian Ravo) to Lithuanian rova (= Germanic **rōyō* 'tranquility'), Latvian rāwa 'still water', Lithuanian FIN Rova = Slavic Ravā; better above S. 336.

apposition from gr. ἔρως 'love', ἔραμαι 'love' (compare Old Indic rāmate 'rests, stands still, can be enough, finds favor, cherishes love') is at most quite a weak possibility (see Boisacq m. Lithuanian, Persson Beitr. 667).

A s-extension **r-e-s-*, r-o-s- in Gothic rasta 'mile (relatively great distance)' ('rest'), Old Norse rǫst f. 'stage of a journey', Old High German rasta f. 'tranquility, rest, stage of a journey, stretch of time', Old Saxon rasta and resta (**rastja*) 'tranquility, lair', Old English ræst and rest 'tranquility, lair, grave'; changing through ablaut Middle Low German ruste, roste 'tranquility, stage of a journey', Late Middle High German rust 'tranquility'; Gothic razn n. 'house', Old Norse rann ds., (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old English ærn, ren n. 'house' (with strange meaning ræsn n. 'plank, ceiling'); Note: (similar meaning shift as in md. humil 'sky, heaven'; Old High German himil 'ceiling')

Maybe alb. rrasë, dërrasë (ndë-rrasë) 'plank': Old English ræsn n. 'plank, ceiling'.

Old Frisian ern in fiā-ern 'cattle-house, pen'; doubtful Old English reord (**rezdō*) f., gereord n. 'meal, festival, food', Old Norse greddir 'servant who feeds cattle, saturator' (**garazdīz*), grenna 'feed' (**ga-raznian*).

References: WP. I 144 f.

See also: compare rem-, this is put together like res- with (e)rə-.

Page(s): 338-339

---

Root / lemma: ergh- (**hergh-*)

Meaning: to shake, tremble, *evil, lustful, sinful

Note: probably extension from er- 'set in motion'.

Material: Old Indic ṛghāyāti 'shakes, roars, attacks, storms';

gr. ὀρχέω 'πάλλω, κινέω', mostly ὀρχέομαι 'dance, hop, jump, shake'.

Because of similar present meaning in er-3 'strife, quarrel, contention' could stand furthermore in relationship:

Avestan ərəγant- 'bad, hideous';

Old High German ar(a)g 'fearful, idle, mad, wicked, evil, bad', Old English earg ds., Old Icelandic argr and with metathesis ragr 'unmanly, lustful, evil, bad';

Lithuanian aržùs 'lascivious, sensual'.

Maybe alb. herdhe 'testicle' [common alb. -gh- > -dh-]

Note:

From Root / lemma: *ergh- : `to shake, tremble, *evil, lustful' derived Root / lemma: *orghi-, rghi- : `testicle' (hence a taboo word)

References: WP. I 147 f.

Page(s): 339

---

Root / lemma: *erkʷ- (**herkʷ-*)

Meaning: to shine; to praise

Material: Old Indic árcati `shines; sings praise, greets, honors, venerates', arká- m. `ray, lightning, sun, fire; song, bard, singer' (= Armenian erg), rc-, Nom. Sg. rk f. `radiance; poem, verse', rkvan- `lobpreisend, jubelnd';

Armenian erg `song';

Old Irish erc `sky, heaven', Middle Irish suairc `pleasant, beautiful, radiating' (**su-erkʷis*);

Tocharian A yärk, B yarke `worship, veneration' (Pedersen REtIE. 3, 18);

Hittite ar-ku-ya-nu-un `I prayed' (arkuanun); different Hendriksen 45 and 74.

References: WP. I 147, Marstrander ZceltPh. 7, 360; compare above S. 65.

Page(s): 340

---

Root / lemma: *er-1, or- (**herm-, hemg-, hemd-*)

Meaning: eagle

Note: Armenian gr. `(large) bird generally '

Note:

Old Indic rji-pyá `darting along' epithet of the bird śyená- (`eagle, falcon'), Avestan ərəzi-fya- (cf. gr. ἄρξιφος ἀετὸς παρὰ Πέρσαις H., αἰγίπποψ), Armenian arcui (< **arci-wi*) `eagle', prove that from Root / lemma: *er-1, or- : `eagle' derived extended Root / lemma: *ar(e)-ġ- (arġ-?), rġi- : `glittering, white, fast' and its subsequent zero grade Root / lemma: *reġ-1 : `right, just, to make right; king'.

Material: Armenian oror, urur `seagull, consecration';

gr. ὄρνις, ἰθὺς, Doric ἰχὺς `bird; rooster, cock, hen', ὄρνειον `bird';

Old Irish irar, Middle Irish also ilar, cymr. eryr, Middle Breton erer (nbret. corn. er through haplology, barely = Lithuanian ẽras) `eagle' (**erur-*);

Gothic ara, Old Icelandic ari, q̃rn (from **arnuz*), Old English earn, Old High German aro, aru 'eagle', Middle High German adel-ar 'noble eagle', Modern High German Adler, proto Germanic **aran-* = Hittite aran-;

Lithuanian erėlis, dial. arėlis, Old Prussian arelie (lies arelis), Latvian ērģlis (from ērdlis) 'eagle'; Baltic basic form **ereļja-*, compare Lithuanian ėras, āras 'eagle' (whether old?);

Old Bulgarian орѣлъ (**arila-*) 'eagle', russ. orět, Gen. orťá, whether urn. erilaR, Old Icelandic jarl, Old English eorl, Old Saxon erl 'man, husband', esp. 'noble man, husband', so that is to be connected in accordance with Old Icelandic jǫfurr 'prince, lord', actually 'boar', is doubtful;

Maybe the compound in Tocharian B: arśakärśa 'bat, (*mouse?)' [from (**haras*) arśa 'eagle, bird' + kärk- 'steal, *prey']

Hittite ha-a-ra-aš (haras), Gen. ha-ra-na-aš (haranas), n-stem 'eagle', as Gothic ara.

ARINNA: Hittite Sun Goddess. She sent an Eagle out in search of Telepinus. The effort failed. The name of Hittite sun goddess is an attribute name created according to Illyrian ha-a-ra + -nta formant.

Arinna = Arinnitti = Greek Hera (wife of thunder god Zeus) The Hittite goddess of the sun and war-like protectress. The sun goddess of the Hittites and the spouse of the weather god Tarhun = Zeus.

From ARINNA derived the name of the Illyrian war god Ares.

Actually the double headed eagle was a winged dragon that was supposed to protect the sun god. The protector of Zeus was also an eagle. Hittites borrowed the double headed eagle from Sumerians ur̄in, ur̄i [ŠEŠ]: eagle; standard, emblem, banner; blood [ŠEŠ ZATU-523 archaic frequency: 25; concatenates 2 sign variants], bu-rí-in: eagle (Akkadian loanword, urinnu t, Orel & Stolbova 52 *ar-/war- 'eagle'; note that AHW says that urinnu ll, 'standard, totem', is a Sumerian loanword), AKKADIAN: erû (arû) 'eagle'.

References: WP. I 135, Trautmann 13, Pedersen Hittite 41, Specht Dekl. 47.

Page(s): 325-326

---

Root / lemma: er-2, eri- (**her-2*)

Meaning: goat; sheep

Material:

In o-grade:

Armenian or-oj 'a lamb, usually for sacrifice, a ewe lamb'.

In e grade:

Old Irish heirp (**erb<sup>h</sup>̄*) f. 'a fallow-deer, chamois, antelope; as meat, venison, a she-goat; also a star in the constellation Auriga', erb(b) 'cow' (**erb<sup>h</sup>ā*), Middle Irish (with secondary f) ferb(b) ds., nir. earb, fearb f. 'red deer, cow', Scots Gaelic earb f. 'roe deer'; to Celtic **erbā*: ἔριφος compare gr. σέρφος : σέριφος 'insect'; after Kleinbans (Ét. Celt. 1, 173)

In zero grade:

here Middle Irish reithe 'Aries, ram' from **ri-io-tio-*; in Old Prussian eristian 'lambkin', Lithuanian (j)éras, Latvian jērs 'lamb', litt. ėrienà 'lamb meat'. Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

Balto Slavic **ero-* 'he-goat; billy goat' and **jōrā-* 'year' (see above S. 297) have probably been mixed;

Armenian erinj 'young cow, heifer, calf, young bull, an ox, a bull, a cow'; gr. ἔριφος (**eri-b<sup>h</sup>o-*) m. f. 'kid, young goat';

In a grade:

Latin ariēs, -etis 'Aries, a ram; a battering ram; a prop, beam' [for the kindr. forms arvix and harvix, in Varr. and Fest.; v. arvix; poet. aries] (a after aper, caper); Umbrian erietu 'arietem'; russ.-Church Slavic jarina 'wool', etc., Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

Old High German irah 'he-goat; billy goat' etc. is borrowed from Latin hircus 'a he-goat'.

References: WP. I 135 f., WH. I 67, Trautmann 70.

Page(s): 326

---

Root / lemma: er-3: or-: r-: (**her-3*)

Meaning: to move *stir, animate, fight, struggle, rise; to spring up, be born

Note: originally athematic root with terminative aspect. Basic forms er-, ere-, erə- (?), erei-, ereu- and (under besond. article) eres-

Note:

Root / lemma: *ar-1**, themat. (a)re-, heavy basis arə-, rē- and *i*Basis (a)ri-, rēi-: 'to move, pass' and Root / lemma: er-3: or- : r- : `to move *stir, animate, fight, struggle, rise; to spring up, be born' derived from the same root Root / lemma: er-1, or- : `eagle'.

Material: Conclusions by Persson Beitr. 281 ff., 636 ff., 767 ff., 836 ff.

a. Basic forms er-, ere- (including paradigmatic with it combined i- and *u-*forms):

Old Indic redupl. present íy-ar-ti, iyarti `sets in motion ', Med. īrtē (**i-er-*); Gatha-Avestan īratū `he should rise '; Old Indic intensive present álati, from ereu- (see below S. 331) ṛṇóti ṛṇváti `rises, moves, animates ' (gr. ὀρνύμι `urge on, incite, make to arise, call forth, move, stir oneself, awaken, arouse from sleep'), ārta (compare ὤπτο), ārata (compare ὤπετο; themat. as rantē, ranta), Perf. āra : ὀπ-ωπα, Fut. ariṣyati, participle rtá- (īrṇá- `moved, excited ' with separation of ī from īrta or or real form of a heavy base);

Nostratic etymology:

Proto-IE: *ela- <PIH *H->

Nostratic:

Meaning: to move, to drive

Hittite: halai- (II) 'in Bewegung setzen' (nach unten?) (Tischler 126); halija- (I) 'niederknien, niederfallen', caus. halinu- (Tischler 130)

Old Indic: iyarti `to go, move', med. īrte `to go, move, rise, go away, retire'

Avestan: gath. īratū `he should rise '

Armenian: elanem `come out, go up ', eṭanim `become, turn into - '

Greek: iállō, aor. iállai `send, stretch '; *élami (arg. pot-elátō, ko. elántō), eláō, eláunō, aor. elás(s)ai, pf, med. elállaka, aor. pass. ela(s)thē<sup>nai</sup> `float, bump, forge ', élasi-s `train, army train, ride ', ? élatro-n `flat cake ', elatér `driver, car driver ', `flat cake ', elátā-s `driver ', elató- `pliant, driven '

Proto: *ala

Nostratic:

English meaning: space below smth., below

Finnish: ala 'place, field, area ', alla (postp.) 'under, below '

Estonian: ala 'math. subspace; reason, origin '. all (postp.) 'under, below '

Saam (Lapp): vuolle ~ vuollē -l- 'down; (in comp.) 'space or part under smth...' (N), -vuollē 'the place below or close, base ' (L), vīlle (T) 'the lower ', vīlne, vīln (T), vūln (Kld.), vue:ln (Not.), vo:ln (Not.) (adv., postp.) 'under, below '

Mordovian: al (E M) 'lower, located below ', alo (E), ala (M) 'under, below '

Mari (Cheremis): ül- (KB, B), ülö-, ül- (U) ' the lower, the under- ', ülnə (KB), ülnö (U, B) (adv. postp.) ' under, below '

Udmurt (Votyak): ul (S) 'lower part, lower section, bottom , underspace, bottom', ulên (K) ' under, below ', ul (G) ' math. subspace, bottom ', ulĭn (G) 'under'

Komi (Zyrian): -ul (S), -jv (P) in žož-ul, žëž-jv ' Space, cellar under the floor ', ulĭn (S), uvĭn (P) ' under, below ', ul (PO) ' the lower ', ulø-n (PO) ' low, below, under '

Khanty (Ostyak): jl (V), it (DN), il (O) ' low, down ', jlən (V), itən (DN), ilən (O) 'under'

Mansi (Vogul): jalë-k (TJ), jalx̄ (KU), jalk (P), jolik (So.) ' the lower ', jalə-n (TJ), jōln (KU), jalən (P), jolən (So.) 'under', jil (TJ) ' down; downwards '

Hungarian: al- ' under-; lower part; litter ', alatt (adv. postp.) ' under, below '

Nenets (Yurak): ŋilna (O) ' under, below ', ŋil? ' downwards, down '

Enets (Yen): iðo (Ch.), iro (B) 'Ground', iðone (Ch.) 'under'

Nganasan (Tawgi): ŋilea ' the lower '

Selkup: ĩl (Ta.), ĩl (Ke.), ĩl, ĩ-l ' Ground, the lower ', ĩl (Ta.), illé (N) ' there under '

Kamass: jildə ' there below ', jilgən 'under'

Janhunen's version: (38) *i6la

Sammalahti's version: *i6la

Yukaghir parallels: -al ' under, below '

References: FUV; SKES; КЭСКЯ; MUSz. 728; MSzFgrE; TESz.; EtSz.; SzófSz.; Donn. VglWb. II, 116; Paas. Beitr. 38; ИВПЯ 212; Collinder JukUr. 75

Maybe alb. ul ' lower ', ulem ' sit down ', ulët ' low, base, vulgar ' : Mari (Cheremis): ül- (KB, B), ülö-, ül- (U) ' the lower, the under- ', ülnə (KB), ülnö (U, B) (adv. postp.) ' under, below ' : Udmurt (Votyak): ul (S) 'lower part, lower section, bottom , underspace, bottom', ulên (K) ' under, below ', ul (G) ' math. subspace, bottom ', ulĭn (G) 'under' : Komi (Zyrian): -ul (S), -jv (P) in žož-ul, žëž-jv ' Space, cellar under the floor ', ulĭn (S), uvĭn (P) ' under, below ', ul (PO) ' the lower ', ulø-n (PO) ' low, below, under '

-----
Avestan ar- ' (be) set in motion, arrive at, reach', present-stem ar- : arə-, iyar- : īr- (as Old Indic īyarti : īrta), Kaus. āraya-, participle -arəta-;

skō-present Old Indic ṛcchāti ' bumps into something, encounters, reaches ', next to which **re-skō* in Old pers. rasatiy ' comes, arrives at ', np. rasad ds.;

The following cognates are compounds of Root / lemma: sem-2: one + Root / lemma: er-3 : or- : r- : ' to move *stir, animate, fight, struggle, rise; to spring up, be born' = [fight together]:

Old Indic sam-ará- m., sam-áraṇa- n. 'fight, struggle, contention', Avestan ham-arəna-, Old pers. ham-arana- n. 'hostile encounter, fight, struggle', Avestan hamara- m. (and with th- formants hamərəθa- m.) 'adversary, rival, enemy'; Old Indic írya- 'vigorous, strong, energetic' (could belong to ī- basis), irín- 'vast, grand, violent, forcible', ártha- n. m. '(*wherefore one arrives at)' 'affair, thing, business; blessing, fortune, benefit, advantage', Avestan arθa- n. 'thing, affair, incumbency, litigation';

Maybe gr. ὁμός 'one and the same, common, joint, unite' > gr. ὁμερος: τυφλός, Hsch. (cf. Ὀμηρος). m. 'a pledge for the maintenance of unity, a surety, a hostage': Old Indic sam-ará- m., sam-áraṇa- n. 'fight, struggle, contention', Avestan ham-arəna-, Old pers. ham-arana- n. 'hostile encounter, fight, struggle', Avestan hamara- m. (and with th- formants hamərəθa- m.) 'adversary, rival, enemy'; Hence Homer was not a bard. The Old Persian compound meant 'war (of Ilion)'. Actually the main theme of the Iliad is the fury of Achilles and the maintenance of unity.

Old Indic ṛtí-, ṛti- f. 'attack, fight', Avestan -ərəti- 'energy' (compare Old Bulgarian ratb);

Old Indic āṛta- 'afflicted, injured, hurt, disabled, pressed, ailing', ārti- f. 'mischievous, affliction' (**ā-ṛta-*, -ṛti-);

Old Indic árṇa- 'flowing, surging, flooding', m. 'surge, tide, flood', árṇas- n. 'flowing flood' (formal = gr. ἔρνος n.; compare S. 328 Old High German runs), arṇavá- 'billowing, surging'; m. 'flood, surging sea' (μo- further formations to árṇa-? or in older formant relationship to ṛnót? The latter is sure for:) Avestan arənu- m. 'fight, struggle, contest' (: Old High German ernust S. 331);

from the themat. root form (e)re- Old Indic rāṇa- m. n. 'fight, struggle' (versch. from raṇa- m. 'lust') = Avestan rāna- n. 'action, struggle, fight'; Avestan rāna-, raṇa- m. 'fighter, combatant';

Armenian y-ainem 'I stand up, I am lifted'; after Pisani Armen. 4 in addition ore-ar 'people' (see below Latin orior); with -dh- (compare S. 328 ἐρέθω, ἐρεθίζω, ὀρο-θύνω): y-ordor 'fast', yordorem 'encourage, arouse, irritate'; arm 'root' (: ὀρμενος); ordi, Gen. ordvoy 'son' (**ord<sup>h</sup>ijō*);

gr. ὀρνύμι 'urge on, incite, make to arise, call forth, move, stir oneself, awaken, arouse from sleep' (: Old Indic ṛnóti, compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 696β; das o after ὀρέομαι?), Aor. ὤρσα, ὤροπον, ὤρσω, Med. ὀρνυμαι, ὤπτο 'aroused, animated, uplifted', Fut. ὀροῦμαι, thematic Aor. ὤρετο, participle ὀρμενος, Perf. ὤρωπα 'have been excited'; with op- as iterative vocalism ὀρέ-ομαι, -οντο `sally, burst forth, rushed forth', with er- still ἔρετο ὠρμήθη Hes., ἔρσεο διεγείρου Hes., ἔρση ὀρμήση (which then permeated through ὠρετο, ὀρσεο forms); a present *ἵρνυμι (as κίρνημι) follows from Cretan Ζεὺς Ἐπινυνύτιος (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 695); -ορτος in νεορτός `new born', θεόρτος `celestial, heavenly ', etc.; Κυν-, Λυκ-όρτας, Λᾶ-έρτης; hom. οὔρος `favorable sailing wind ' (*ὀρΦος, `navigating the ship'), ὄρος m. `actuation, drive '; with gh-extension ἔρχομαι `start, set out, come or go, come to, arrive at ' (only present), ὀρχέομαι `dances' (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 702); see below Old Irish regaid; ὄρμενος `shoot, sprout, or stem, stalk ', about ὄραμνος `twig, branch', ὀρόδαμνος, ῥάδαμνος ds., s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 313<sup>2</sup>; er- in ἔρνος (ἔρνος, Schwyzer Gl. 5, 193) `sprout, twig, branch' (*`shot up ', as Norwegian runne, rune `twig, branch': formal = Old Indic árṇas- n.); ἐρέας τέκνα. Θεσσαλοί Hes., ἐρέθω, ἐρεθίζω `agitate, perturb, irritate ' (ὀροθύνω `enrage, encourage, cheer, irritate ');

From an es-stem *eros `elevation' from: Old Indic ṛṣvá- `high', gr. ὄρος n. `mountain' (the vocalism after ὀρνῦμι, partly changed perhaps also after ὄρρος); about οὔρος = ὄρος s. esp. Schulze Qunder ep. 407 ff.; is Doric ὦρος and Attic Ὠρείθια with ὦμος from **ōmsos* to compare and lead back to (reshuffled after an Adj. **ors-os* or **ors-μos* : Old Indic ṛṣva-) *ὄρρος?; gr. ὀρσοθύρη `back door ' (probably as high escape door, emergency exit??), by Hes. εἰρεθύρη ὀρσοθύρα; about gr. ὄρρος `buttocks ' see below ers-; (common Italic rs- > rr-)

Phrygian εἰροι `children ' (Jokl Eberts Reallex. 10, 151a);

alb. jerm `frenzied, phrenetic, wild ' (**er-mo-*); about përrua `riverbed, stream ' (see below);

Maybe alb. jerm `be angry ' derived in -m- suffix : russ. dial. jeretítbša `be angry, quarrel, squabble' see below. Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > ḡh-, y- Old Indic Tocharian.

Maybe alb. ora `mountain nymph'.

Latin orior, -irī, ortus sum `to rise; to spring up, be born, proceed from a source or cause ' (ortus = Old Indic ṛtá-; o of orior either from ortus or from Aor.-stem, EM<sup>2</sup> 713), ortus, -ūs `rising ', origo `origin, source, beginning; an ancestor ' (could be based as orior on the i-basis), Umbrian ortom 'have risen', urtas 'have been risen, arisen', urtes 'arisen, stirred, agitated';

Old Irish Imper. eirg 'go!' (**ergh-e*), Fut. regaid (**rigāti*, Indo Germanic **ṛgh-*); see above gr. ἐρχομαι; Celtic or- in mcymr. cyf-or m. 'troop', dy-gyf-or 'elevation', ad-orth 'excitement, help' (**atī-or-to*), etc. (Loth RC 40, 355); compare also Ifor Williams RC 43, 271 (about Middle Irish orf. 'bank, border, shore' s. Pedersen KG. I 206 f.);

Germanic **ermana-*, **irmino* 'big, large' (: ὄρμενος, Church Slavic raměňъ, s. Brückner KZ. 45, 107) in Old High German irmin-deot etc. (see above S. 58); Old Icelandic ern (**arnia-*) 'proficient, energetic', Gothic arniba adv. 'certainly' (but Old Icelandic ārna, -aða 'go, drive, run' secondary from ærna = Gothic airinōn), Old High German ernust 'fight, struggle, seriousness', Old English eornost 'seriousness, eagerness' (: Avestan arənu- 'fight, struggle'); with similar meaning gr. ἐρέας τέκνα Hes., perhaps Proto Norse erilar, Old Icelandic jarl, Old English eorl, Old Saxon erl 'noble man, husband' (see below er- 'eagle'); Old Icelandic iara 'fight' (**era*);

Note:

Proto Norse erilar, Old Icelandic jarl, Old English eorl, Old Saxon erl 'noble man, husband': Lithuanian erēlis, dial. arēlis, Old Prussian arelie (lies arelis), Latvian ērglis (aus ērdlis) 'eagle'; Baltic basic form **erelja-*, derived from Root / lemma: er-1, or- : 'eagle'. Hence the original meaning of those cognates was 'eagle men'. Celtic people called themselves after the sacred bird of the sky god. Hence the eagle was a war god that is why eagle bones are found in Stonehenge monuments. Clearly the Celtic cognate derived from Baltic languages.

Gothic rinnan, rann 'rush, run' (**rē-nū-ō*), urrinnan 'rise, from the sun', Old Icelandic rinna 'flow, run', Old High German Old Saxon rinnan 'flow, swim, run', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old English rinnan and iernan, arn ds.; Kaus. Gothic urrannjan 'allow to rise', Old Icelandic renna 'make run', Old Saxon rennian ds., Old High German Middle High German rennen, rante 'run' (ein after rinnan with nn provided **ronejō* = Slavic roniti under S. 329); zero grade Gothic runs m. (i-stem), Old English ryne m. 'run, flow, river', Old Icelandic run n. 'rivulet, brook', Gothic garunjō 'inundation, flood', Old High German runs, runsa 'run, flow of water, river', runst f. 'the runnel, flowing, riverbed'; Gothic garuns (stem garunsi-) f. 'road, market' (actually 'the place where the people gather'; Germanic runs-: Old Indic árṇas-). In the use of shooting up, growth the plants (compare ἐρνος, ὄρμενος)

Old Icelandic rinna `sprout, grow', Norwegian runne, rune `twig, branch' and Swedish dial. rana `shoot upwards, take off into the air', Norwegian rane `shaft, pole', Middle High German ran (ā) `slim, thin', Old High German rono `tree stem, clot, chunk, chip, splinter'; `exaltation, elevation' generally in Norwegian dial. rane `cusp, peak, projecting rocks, ridge', Old Icelandic rani `snout, proboscis';

Old Irish rind (**rendi*) `cusp, peak'; for d(h)-extension see below;

This root form **re-n-* (maybe grown from a present **re-neu-mi*, **re-nu-o*) one also seeks in alb. përrua, përroi `riverbed, brook bed' (për-rēn-, lengthened grade), prrua, Pl. përrenj `spring' (**prër-rua* `effluence') and in Old Bulgarian izroniti (Balto Slavic **ranejō*) `pour out, pour forth, shed, spread abroad', russ. ronítʹ `make or let fall', serb. ròniti `shed tears, melt, urinate', Gothic -rannjan; compare Trautmann 236 f.;

Maybe alb. (**kë-roni*) kroi, krua, Pl. kroje `stream': pë-rrua, pë-rroi `riverbed, brook bed'.

Maybe alb. Geg (me) ra `to fall, strike, hit', rrah (**ra-sko*) `hit', reshje `rainfall', re `cloud', përrua, përroi `riverbed, brook bed' (përrua, pë-rnua `spring' from a prefix pe-, pë- common Hittite Slavic Albanian prefix + alb. **roni* `running water', in -gh suffix:

Maybe alb. rrjedhë n. `spring', rrjedh v. `springs' common alb. -gh > -dh.

d(h)-extension in Lithuanian participle nusirendant, nusirendusi `from the setting sun', rindà `gully, runnel' (stógo r. `gutter'), `crib, manger', Latvian randa `dent where the water runs off';

Old Bulgarian ratb, russ. ratb, Serbo-Croatian răt `fight' (**or(ə)ti-*), Old Bulgarian retb ds. `an assiduous striving to equal or excel another in any thing, emulation, jealousy, envy, malevolence', russ. retb `quarrel, strife', Old Bulgarian retiti `to strain, stretch, exert; of missiles, to shoot, cast; intransit., to strive, strain, exert oneself, hasten; of statement, to assert with confidence, maintain. In relation to another: transit., to compare, contrast; intransit., to compete', russ. retovatʹsa `be angry', retivyy `keen, eager, stormy, hot tempered, violent, fiery' (goes back to thematic (e)re- or **er-ti-*, has been supported by russ. dial. jeretítʹsa `be angry, quarrel, squabble'); about Church Slavic raměň see above S. 58 under 328. Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > ǰ-, ɣ- Old Indic Tocharian.

Maybe in **-ska* formant alb. rrah `strike', rihem `quarrel, fight' (**ra-sko*) [common alb. h < skj]

From Hittite here (Pedersen Hittite 5 f., 45, 91 f., 122) ar- in

1. a-ra-a-i (arā) 'uplifts', besides a-ra-iz-zi ds., preterit 3. Pl. [a]-ra-a-ir;

2. a-ri 'comes' (previous Perf.), preterit a-ar-ta (arta) or ir-ta;

3. Med. present ar-ta-ri 'stands, it is placed upright' (compare gr. ὄρωρα : Latin orior),

3. Sg. Preterit a-ar-aš (ars) 'went over, looked over';

4. iterative a-ar-aš-ki-it (arskit) 'reached repeatedly' (compare above Old Indic ṛcchāti);

5. causative (compare above S. 61) ar-nu-uz-zi (arnuzi) 'bring to, set in motion' (r-nu-; compare above Old Indic ṛṇōti); Imper. 2. Sg. ar-nu-ut (arnut) = gr. ὀρῦν-θι, verbal noun a-ar-nu-mar (arnumar);

Hittite: arsana-, arsanaija- (II) 'envy, be angry' (Tischler 67-68) (but cf. also ḫarsallant- 'angry', Tischler 182-184 without etymology) to what extent Tocharian A ar-, B er- 'produce, cause, bring forth', with sk- Kaus. ars-, ers- ds., after Meillet (MSL. 19, 159) belong here, is doubtful; certainly remain far off AB ar-, ār- 'cease', with sk- Kaus. ars-, ārs- 'abandon' (inaccurate Van Windekens Lexique 6, 22).

b. extension er-ed- (d-present?): s. ered- 'deliquesce', Old Indic árdati, ṛdāti 'flows etc.', also 'perturbed, agitated'; with Kaus. ardáyati 'makes flow; throngs, presses, afflicts, slays' was equatable Old Icelandic erta (**artjan*) 'incite, provoke, banter', yet is connection with **ardí-* 'cusp, peak, sting, prick' (above S. 63) at least equivalent; a dissyllabic form in ἀράζουσι ἐρεθίζουσιν Hes., ἄραδος 'excitement';

further here or to er-5 Old Indic rádati 'scratches, digs, hacks, scarifies', ví-radati 'cleaves, splits apart, opens'; perhaps also Old Prussian redo 'furrow' (Persson Beitr. 667).

c. extension er-ēd<sup>h</sup>-: see above S. 327 ἐρέθω etc. under under S. 339.

d. basis erei-; and reia-: rī-; rojo-s, rī-ti- 'flux'.

Old Indic írya- see above S. 327;

Old Indic riṇāti, riṇvati (áriṇvan) 'allows to flow, run away, escape, dismisses, releases', rīyatē 'gerät ins Fließen, löst sich auf', rīṇa- 'in Fluß geraten, fließend', rītí- 'stream, run, line; run of the things, kind, way ' (latter meaning also in Middle Irish rīan 'way, manner'), rīt 'escaping', raya-m. 'current, stream, run, flow, haste, hurry, vehemency', rētas-n. 'downpour, stream, seed, sperm', rēṇú-m. 'dust' (: Old Russian rěnb 'sandbank'); to u-suffix compare under Latin rīvus;

Maybe zero grade in alb. rrī (**rnī*) 'stay, stand'.

Armenian ari 'get up, stand up!' (Persson Beitr. 769) To y-arnem, S. 327;

gr. Lesbian ὀρίνω, (*ὀρι:-νῶ) 'set in motion, excite, irritate to the rage'; ἔρις, -ιδος 'fight, strife, quarrel, contention' (perhaps in /to our root form, whether not better after Schwyzer Gl. 12, 17 to ἐρείδω 'support, stem, bump, press, poke, push'); Arcadian ἐρινύειν 'be angry with' from Ἐρινύς actually 'the angry soul of the victim pursuing the murderer' (??);

alb. Geg rītë 'humid, wet, damp', actually '* flowing' (**rinētë*: Old Indic riṇāti, Slavic rinōti);

Latin orior, orīgo see above; rīvus (**rei-uo-s*) 'stream, brook'; in Old Bulgarian рѣнь 'rival' corresponding meaning change rīvīnus and rīvālis 'rival in the love' (latter form reshuffling after aequalis, sōdālis), actually 'one who lives near a brook'; probably here irritāre 'excite, exasperate, anger, provoke', prorītāre 'to incite, entice, allure, tempt, provoke, cause, or produce by irritation', (probably intensive to an **ir-rī-re*);

Irish rīan 'sea' and (compare Old Indic rītī) 'kind, way', gall. Rēnos (**reinos*) 'Rhein (large river)' (whether also after Stokes KZ. 37, 260 Irish riasc 'a marsh', rīm 'bad weather' ??), cymr. rhidio 'go or come together, to meet, assemble, collect together, go or come together in a hostile manner, to encounter' (: Old English rīð, Old Indic rītī-ḥ), Old Irish riathor, cymr. rhaiadr, acymr. reatir 'waterfall' (**rīja-tro*);

Old English rīð m. f., rīðe f. 'stream, brook', Old Saxon rīth m. 'burning hot, rushing, torrential', Middle Low German rīde f. 'stream, brook, watercourse', Modern High German -reid(e) in place names; Dimin. (**rīPulōn*) nnd. rille 'furrow after rainwater, gully'; further Old English ā-ræman 'raise, uplift, soar, rise', Middle English rōmen, engl. roam 'wander', Old Icelandic reimuðr 'wandering around', reimir 'snake', þar er reimt 'there it is scary, haunts', reima 'annoy, disturb, infest' (meaning as Old Bulgarian rijati 'bump, poke'). About rinnan see above.

With Germanic s-extension: Gothic urrisan 'rise';

Old Icelandic rīsa, Old English Old Saxon rīsan 'rise', Old High German rīsan, Middle High German rīsen 'ascend, fall'; Old High German reisa 'departure, migration, campaign, journey', Gothic urraisjan 'make rise, uplift, set up, awake, animate', Old Icelandic reisa ds., Old English ræran 'raise, uplift, set up, erect', Old High German rēren 'make fall, make pour down, pour';

Maybe alb. re 'cloud, rain', alb. Geg ra 'fall', reshje 'rainfall, downpour' : diminutive Middle High German risel m. 'rain'.

ndd. rēren 'fall', Middle High German riselen 'drip, rain', Modern High German rieseln, Middle High German risel m. 'rain', Old Icelandic blōð-risa, Middle High German bluotvise 'blood-spattered', Old Frisian blōdrisne 'bleeding wound'; from 'fall' becomes 'dropped, fallen' in Old English (ge)rīsan 'befit', Old High German garīsan 'approach, suit, fit' (compare s-extension Old Bulgarian ristati), Middle High German risch 'spry, quick, fast' (compare Old Bulgarian riskanije);

Lithuanian rý-tas 'morning' (*sunrise', compare Gothic urraisjan), Latvian rietu, -ēju, -ēt 'break out, rise (e.g., from the day), burst forth', riete 'milk in the brisket' (compare formal Old Indic rēta-);

Slavic **raja-* m. 'current' (: above Old Indic raya-ḥ m. 'stream, run, flow') in Old Bulgarian izrojb 'ejaculation of semen', sbrojb 'confluence', naroj 'rush', roj 'swarm of bees' (**roio-s*); in addition rěka (**roi-kā*) 'river';

Maybe alb. rē, re 'cloud' : Rumanian roi 'swarm, hive, cluster, cloud'; a loanword from Proto-Slavic form: rojъ; See also: rějati; rěkà; rinqti; Russian: roj 'swarm' [m jo]; Polish: rój 'swarm' [m jo], roju [Gens]; Serbo-Croatian: rōj 'swarm' [m jo]; Slovene: ròj 'swarm' [m jo] Maybe alb. reja 'cloud' from alb. rufeja 'thunderbolt' < Bulgarian

Also alb. rrëke 'current' from Proto-Slavic form: rěkà See also: rějati; rinqti; rojъ; Old Church Slavic: rěka 'river' [f ā]; Russian: reká 'river' [f ā]; Czech: řeka 'river' [f ā]; Slovak: rieka 'river' [f ā]; Polish: rzeka 'river' [f ā]; Serbo-Croatian: rijeka 'river' [f ā]; Slovene: rěka 'river' [f ā]

Slavic **rējīō* 'poke, push' in Old Church Slavic rějō, rějati 'flow' (New Slavic) and 'bump, poke, urge, press, push' (as ópivw 'budge'); in addition the changing by ablaut Old Church Slavic vyrinqti ἐξωθειν, rinqtise 'to fall with violence, rush down, fall down, tumble down, go to ruin'; Old Russian rěnb 'sandbank'; klr. rin 'sand, river detritus, pebbles' (compare Old Indic rēṇú-); in other meaning (see above to Latin rīvīnus) Old Bulgarian ръвль 'rival'

ŗvenije `strife, quarrel, debate, contention ', Czech ŗevniti `compete ', poln. ŗzewnić `move, stir, agitate'.

Maybe in -sko formant alb. ŗrah (ŗa-sko) `quarrel' [common alb. -sk > -h].

With s-extension Balto Slavic **ŗeisŗiō* in Old Bulgarian ŗiŗtō, ŗistati `run', ŗiskanije `to run, move quickly, hasten ', Lithuanian ŗaiŗtas (`run time' =) `rutting ', Latvian ŗiests ds., Lithuanian ŗistas `quick, fast', ŗiŗŗiā Instr. Sg. `in gallop '.

e. basis ŗreu-; ŗer-nu- `contest ', ŗer-ŗu- `hasty'.

Old Indic ŗŗŗŗŗi (Perf. ŗŗŗ but Indo Germanic **ŗŗŗ*), ŗŗŗŗŗ; Avestan ŗŗŗŗ- see above S. 327;

Maybe alb. PN ŗinas, Illyrian ŗinotl?

Old Indic ŗŗŗŗ-, ŗŗŗŗ- `hurrying, rusher, racer', Avestan ŗŗŗŗ-, ŗŗŗŗ- `quick, fast, valiant'; perhaps Avestan ŗŗŗŗ- `wild, cruel, savage, from animals'; very doubtful Old Indic ŗŗ-ŗŗ- `stormy, hot tempered, of fever';

Note:

Old Indic ŗŗŗŗ-, ŗŗŗŗ- : Messapic FIN ŗŗŗ prove Illyrian displayed satem character : gall.-brit. FIN **ŗŗŗ*, engl. ŗŗŗ, French ŗŗŗ, ŗŗŗ (**ŗŗŗ*); Messapic FIN ŗŗŗ.

gr. ŗŗŗŗ-ŗi, ōŗŗŗ see above; previous causative ŗŗŗŗ `overthrow me, outleap ', ŗŗŗŗŗ `jump up ' (probably as **ŗŗŗŗŗ* zur s-extension, see below); compare Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 683;

Latin ŗŗŗ, -ŗŗ `run, hurry, storm along';

Middle Irish ŗŗŗŗ (**ŗŗŗ-tro-*) `onrush', cymr. ŗŗŗŗ ds., Old Irish ŗŗ(ŗ)ŗ `hero, demigod ' (**ŗŗŗ-ŗo-*); here gall.-brit. FIN **ŗŗŗ*, engl. ŗŗŗ, French ŗŗŗ, ŗŗŗ (**ŗŗŗ*); Messapic FIN ŗŗŗ; Old Saxon ŗŗ, Old English ŗŗŗ `swift, ready, quick ', Old Icelandic ŗŗŗ `rash, hasty, generous, (**ŗŗŗ-* = Avestan ŗŗŗ-; here as originally `generous ' perhaps also Gothic ŗŗŗŗ `gratuitous, free ', Old English ŗŗŗŗŗ, Old High German ŗŗ(ŗ)ŗŗŗ `free, for nothing, in deception, in error ', ŗŗŗ `forceful, agile'; Old High German ŗŗŗŗ s. S. 328.

Old English rēow `agitated, stormy, wild, rough', Gothic unmana-riggws `wild, cruel, savage'.

extension reu-s-:

Old Indic róṣati, ruṣáti `is sullen', ruṣitá-, ruṣtá- `irritated' ;

Swedish rūsa `storm from there, hurry', Middle Low German rūsen `dash, rage, clamor, rant, roister', rūsch `intoxication', Old Icelandic rosi `Sturmbö', raust `voice', Old Swedish ruska `storm ahead, hurry';

[but Gothic raus n., with gramm. variation Old Icelandic reyrr m., Old High German rōr `reed', rōrea `duct, tube, pipe' (**rauziōn*), with stem stress (as Gothic) Swedish rysja, Old High German rūssa, rūsa, riusa f. `baskey for catching fish, snare, trap', other formations with k-suffix Old English rysc f., Middle High German rusch(e) f. `bulrush', probably remain far off];

Lithuanian ruošùs `diligent, active', Latvian ruošs ds., Lithuanian ruošìù, ruošiaũ, ruošti `provide', reflex. `take care' ;

Slavic **ruchъ* in russ. ruch `restlessness, movement', ručnutъ `tumble, fall', poln. Czech ruch `movement', ablaut. čech. rychlý `quick, fast', in addition causative Slavic **rušiti* `overturn, upset' in Old Church Slavic razdrušiti `destroy', russ. rušitъ ds., etc.

Maybe alb. Geg zdroj, Tosc rrëzonj `tumble, fall' : Old Church Slavic razdrušiti `destroy'.

References: WP. I 136 ff., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 516 b, 694, 702, 719, 740, 749, Trautmann 240 f., 242, 243, 246, WH. I 64 f., 416 f., 719, II 222 f.

Page(s): 326-332

---

Root / lemma: er-4 (er-t-, er-y-) [**herĝ*he*]

Meaning: Earth

Note:

Root / lemma: er-4 (er-t-, er-y-) [**herĝ*he*] `earth' derived from Root / lemma: er-3: or-: r-: to move *stir, animate, fight, struggle, rise; to spring up, be born'

Material: Gr. ἔρᾱ `earth', ἔρᾱ-ζε `to earth' (perhaps therefrom ἐράω, see below S. 336; with common extension of probably πολύηρος πολυάρουρος, πλούσιος Hes.); ἔνεροι, see above S. 312; ἔρεσι-μέτρη γεωμετρίαν Hes.;

Germanic **erbō* in Gothic airpa, Old Norse jǫrð, Old High German (etc.) erda `earth';

Maybe TN Illyrian Ardiaei (**er-ĝ<sup>w</sup>he*) [common Illyrian-alb. -ĝh- > d-]

Germanic **erō* in Old High German ero 'earth';

yo-extension in Old Norse jörvi (**erwan-*) 'sand, sandbank', and cymr. erw f. 'field', Pl. erwi, erwydd, corn. erw, ereu ds., abret. Middle Breton eru, nbret. ero 'furrow' (**erui-*);

Note:

Those cognates derived from Old Indic árvan-, árvant-: Messapic FIN Arvō prove Illyrian displayed satem character; there is proof Illyrian belonged to the Celtic family gall.-brit. FIN **Arvā*, engl. Arrow, French Erve, Auve (**ruā*); Messapic FIN Arvō. [see above] perhaps Armenian erkir 'earth' (Pedersen KZ. 38, 197), if for **erg-* (Indo Germanic **eru-*) after erkin 'sky, heaven'.

References: WP. I 142, Finzenhagen Terminol. 6, Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 424.

Page(s): 332

---

Root / lemma: er-5, erə-, thematic (e)r-ě-

Meaning: rare, loose, crumbly

Material: Old Indic ṛtē with Abl., Akk. 'with exclusion of, without, except, besides' (Lok. a participle **ṛta-* 'separated, secluded'), nīṛti-h- 'resolution, decay, downfall, ruin'; ár-ma Pl. 'debris, ruins', armaká- 'trümmerhaft' or n. 'Trümmerstätte' (meaning somewhat doubtful); **erə-* in īrma- 'wound'; themat. *(e)r-e- in virala- 'standing apart, leaky, rare';

Maybe zero grade in alb. (**erala-*) rallë 'rare'.

gr. ἑρῆμος, Attic ἔρημος 'lonely';

quite doubtful Latin rārus 'having wide interstices between its parts, of a loose texture, not thick or dense, thin, loose, scattered, scanty, far apart; milit. in loose order; in gen. rare, infrequent; sometimes extraordinary, distinguished. Adv. raro, rare, seldom, rarely' (**erə-ró-s*), rather credible rēte 'net, thread' (compare under Lithuanian rētis, Latvian rēta);

maybe alb. (**rēte*) rrjetë 'net'

Lithuanian yrù, irti 'separate, resolve, distinguish', paĩras 'lax, loose'; rētis m. 'phloem sieve' (with unoriginal second accent, as often in i-stems), Latvian rēta, rēte 'scar', rēni rudzi 'leaking standing rye'; Lithuanian eĩtas 'wide, far, spacious' (*'standing apart'); from the light basis rētas 'thin, spacious, seldom' (from the themat. root form \(e)r-e-*, as also:) rēsvas 'seldom, thin', paresvis 'sparse';

Old Church Slavic oriti 'dissolve, overthrow, destroy' (Kaus. **oréjō* 'make break up'), Serbo-Croatian obòriti 'prostrate, throw down', Czech obořiti 'destroy', russ. razorítʹ ds.

Maybe alb. rrëzonj 'bring down' : russ. razorítʹ

er-d<sup>h</sup>-:

Old Indic ṛdhak 'especially, peculiar, particular', árdha-h 'part, side, half', ardhá- 'half', n. 'part, half';

Lithuanian ardaũ, -yti 'separate, split' (Kaus., as Church Slavic oriti) ; eĩdvas 'wide, capacious', Latvian ārdaws, īrdens 'lax, friable', ēds 'lax, commodious (capacious)', īrdīt, īrdināt 'loosen, separate', ēržu, ērdū, ērst 'separate'.

rē-d<sup>h</sup>-:

Old Church Slavic rěďьkъ 'seldom' (probably shifted stress, compare Czech řidký, sloven. rědāk, in spite of serb.-kroat. riǰedki, riǰki); about ered- see above S. 329 f., about ereu- under different article under S. 337.

To what extent those from Persson Beitr. 666, 773, 839 f. considered as extensions of **er(ə)-* roots really derive rē-d- 'scratch', re-, reu- 'tear open', is doubtful; die by **er(ə)-* esp. significant meaning of loose, leaking, standing apart allow to miss them completely or recognize at least not as dominant meaning.

References: WP. I 142 f., Trautmann 12 f.

Page(s): 332-333

---

Root / lemma: ers- : orsos

Meaning: behind; tail

Material: Armenian or ' buttocks ' (mostly Pl. or-k, i-stem);

gr. ὀππος m. ' buttocks ' (in addition οὐρά: f. 'tail' from **orsjá*) =

Old High German ars, Old English ears m., Old Icelandic ars, rass ' buttocks ' =

Hittite a-ar-ra-áš (arras), Dat. ar-ri-iš-ši (arris); whose -si enclitic pronoun;

e-grade Old Irish err (**ersā*) f. 'tail, end' (also of chariot), therefrom eirr 'chariot combatant' (**ers-et-s*), Gen. erred,

References: WP. I 138, Couvreur H 98, Pedersen KG. II 101.

See also: it is often placed 'elevation, protrusion, preceding body part' to er-3 (above S. 326).

Page(s): 340

---

Root / lemma: es-en-, os-en-, -er- (**hek<sup>w</sup>-en-* in centum languages)

Meaning: harvest time, *summer, *autumn

Note:

Root / lemma: es-en-, os-en-, -er- : 'harvest time, *autumn' : Root / lemma: ues-ʃ- : 'spring'.

Note: in Germanic also from the harvest- and generally Feldarbeit and the earnings out of it

Material: With a relationship as between Lithuanian vasarà and vãsara 'summer' : Old Bulgarian vesna 'spring', here (after Schulze Qunder ep. 475) hom. etc. ὀπώρα 'summer end, harvest time' (see S. 323) ὀπωρίζω 'harvest', ep. ὀπωρινός 'autumnal' (probably actually ὀπωαρινός) from ὀπ- (: ὀπιθεν) + *ὀ[σ]αρά 'phase of conclusion' *tāw *ōárāw, i. e. τὸ θέρος; ω as contraction from οα- confirms Alcman (Gr. poet) ὀπᾶρα, s. Boisacq s. v.; (common gr. k<sup>w</sup>- > p-).

Maybe Lithuanian vasarà and vãsara 'summer' : Latin (**vesis*) veris n. 'spring' [common Latin Germanic -s- > -r-] : Spanish verano : Aragonese berano : Asturian veranu : Galician verán : Portuguese verão : Romanian vară : alb. vera 'summer'.

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Old Prussian Lithuanian Latin Albanian **h<sup>w</sup>ue-* > ve-.

Gothic asans (o-grade) f. 'harvest, summer', Old Norse qnn (**aznō*) 'harvest, hardship', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German aren m., arn f., Middle High German erne 'harvest' (in addition Old High German arnōn 'reap');

Gothic asneis, Old English esne, Old High German asm 'day labourer', derived from the equivalent from Old Saxon asna 'earnings, tribute, tax' (*harvest earnings), in addition Old High German arnēn 'earn' = Old English earnian ds.; compare Wissmann Nom. postverb. 1454; serb.-Church Slavic jesenъ, Serbo-Croatian jěsēn; russ. ósenъ, wruss. jěsień; Old Prussian assanis (from **esenis* or **asanis*); Common h- > j--Slavic Albanian; h- > j-, y--Old Indic Tocharian.

doubtful, whether here Middle Irish ēorna (**esor-n̄-iā*) 'barley';

References: WP. I 161 f., Trautmann 71, Feist 58 f.

Page(s): 343

---

Root / lemma: esu-s (: su-)

Meaning: good, **noble, master, owner, lord*

Material: Gr. ἐύς, ἡύς 'proficient, good', Adverb εὖ (Akk. n.), belongs to prefix εὐ-

Hittite a-aš-šu-uš (assus) 'good'; to a- s. Pedersen Hittite 167 under Anm.; perhaps as zero grade in addition (Friedrich IF. 41, 370 f.) the prefix su-, see there;

moreover perhaps Latin erus 'the master of a house, head of a family, mister, master, owner, lord', fem. era, Old Latin esa 'mistress, lady';

however, Hittite iš-ha-a-aš (išhas) 'master, mister' is to be kept away, because this belongs to Armenian isxan 'master, mister', isxal 'rule, reign' (?), even it is not of Indo Germanic origin (Couvreur H 9); gall. GN Esus (with ē-) remains far off, probably because of the names with Aes-, Ais- in the earliest 1. ais- or 2. ais- (above S. 16), less probably 2. eis- (above S. 299); also the Old Irish PN Éogan (**ivogenos*) and the cymr. PN Owein (older Ywein, Eugein, Ougen) = Old Irish PN Úgaine (**ouo-geñios*), compare in addition Bergin Ériu 12, 224 f.

References: WP. I 161, WH. I 419, 863. Ein etymol. Versuch by Kretschmer, object. Konjugation 16 ff.

See also: es-.

Page(s): 342

---

Root / lemma: es-

Meaning: to be

Note:

Root / lemma: es- : 'to be' derived from Root / lemma: eġ-, eġ(h)om, eġō : 'I' [Old Indic ásmi 'I am' = ahám (**eġ(h)om*) 'I']

Grammatical information: copula and verb substantive; built originally only a durative aspect of present wird hence single-linguistic various supported by the root  $b^h\text{eye-}$  :  $b^h\bar{u}-$ .

Material: 1. Old Indic ásmi, ási, ásti, smás, sthá, sánti, Avestan ahmi, 3. Sg. astí, 3. Pl. hanti, Old pers. amiy, Note: Old Indic ásmi 'I am' = ahám ( **eĝ(h)om* ) 'I';

Armenian em, es, ē;

gr. hom. Attic εἰμί (= ēmí, Aeolic ἔμμι, Doric ἦμί), εἶ (= ei from **esí*, only Attic, hom. εἰς, ἔσσι), ἐστί, εἰμέν (as εἰμί; Attic ἐσμέν as ἐστέ; Doric ἦμέζ), ἐστέ, εἰσί (Doric ἐντί), Dual ἐστόν;

venet. est;

alb. (**h<sub>2</sub>asmi*) jam (**esmi*) 'I am'; Geg asht 'he is', aor. isha 'I was'. Common h- > j- Slavic Albanian; h- > z-, γ- Old Indic Tocharian.

Latin sum (through influence the 1. Pl.), es(s), est (Inchoat. escit, as gr. ἔσκε), sumus, estis, sunt (Inchoat. escunt); Oscan súm, est (íst); Umbrian est;

Note: Latin zero grade sum (**esoum*) 'I am' : Latin egō ( **eĝ(h)om* ) 'I'

Old Irish (only as copula) am (**esmi*), a-t, is, ammi (**esmes*), adī-b, it (**sentí*, acymr. hint);

Gothic im, is, is, 3. Pl. sind (**sentí*); Old Icelandic em, est (ert), es (er); Old English eom (after bēom), North Umbrian am (**os-ŋ*), eart (ending of Präteritopräs.), is; 3. Pl. North Umbrian aron (**os-ŋ*), etc.;

Old Lithuanian esmi, (nowadays esù, dial. esmù) esi, ėstí, Dual old and dial. esvà, estaũ and està; Latvian esmu (dial. esu), esi etc.; Old Prussian asmai, assai (essei), est (ast);

Old Church Slavic jesmь, jesi, jestь (**estí*), jesmь, jeste, sьtь (= Latin sunt); Dual jesvě, jesta, jeste, etc.;

Note:

alb. jam (**jesem*, aor. isha) : [truncated] poln. jestem 'I am', alb. je (**jesi*, aor. ishe) : [truncated] poln. jestes 'you are (sing.)'; alb. asht (**jesti*, aor. ishte) 'he is' : poln. jest 'he is'; alb. jemi (**jesemi*) : [truncated] poln. jestesmy 'we are', alb. jeni (**jesenti*) : [truncated] poln. jestescie 'you are', alb. janë (**jasanta* : hitt asan): poln. są (**santa*) 'they are'.

Alb. and Slavic use j- for the lost laryngeal h-. Alb. proves that Root / lemma: *es-: 'to be' derived from Root / lemma: *eġ-, eġ(h)om, eġō: 'I' : Proto-Slavic form: *(j)azъ, Lithuanian: àš, eš (OLith.) 'I', Latvian: es 'I', Old Prussian: as, es 'I'.

Tocharian present B 3. Sg. ste, star- (with enclitic), 3. Pl. skente, stare, skentar, Imperf. A 1. Sg. šem, 2. Sg. šet etc., B ša(š-), with optative formants Indo Germanic -oi- (after Pedersen Tochar. 161 should also B nes-, A nas- 'be' contain the root es-, the preverb n- is identical with the post position B ne ??);

Hittite e-eš-mi (esmi), 3. Sg. e-eš-zi (eszī), 3. Pl. a-ša-an-zi (asanzi, whose as through vocal harmony from **es-*?).

2. significant congruities:

Imperf. Old Indic āsam, ās, ās, respectively Perf. āsa, āsitha, āsa, Pl. āsma, āsta, āsan, Dual. āstam, āstām: gr. hom. 1. Sg. ἦα, 2. Sg hom. Attic ἦσθα, 3. Sg. Doric etc. ἦς, Pl. hom. ἦμεν, ἦτε, ἦσαν, 3. Dual hom. ἦστην; with ἦσθα compare Hittite e-eš-ta (ēsta) 'was, were'; [alb. isha], themat. 1. Sg. 3. Pl. Aeolic ἔον (**e-s-om*, respectively **e-s-on*); truncated 3. Pl. Old Indic san, Avestan hən (**sent* or **son*).

Latin erat (**es-ā-t*) = cymr. oedd 'was' seem neologisms.

Gr. Imperf. ἔσκειν, ἔσκει : Old Latin escit (the future tense meaning reminds an Armenian i-čem 'that I am' from prothet. **i + s + (s)ke-*, Meillet Esquisse 121);

Konjunkt. ved. 2. Sg. ásas(i), 3. Sg. ásat(i): Latin Fut. eris, erit, Optat. ved. s(i)yā́m, gr. εἶην (das ε from **ἔσμι*): Latin Konj. siem, siēs, siet, Umbrian sir, sei 'you are, exist, live', sí, sei 'he is, exists, lives', sins 'they are, exist, live': Old High German 3. Sg. sī, Imper. 2. Sg. gath--Avestan zdī: gr. Attic ἔσθι (**es-d<sup>h</sup>*); 3. Sg. gr. hom. Attic ἔστω : Latin estō(d) : Oscan estud,

3. participle sent-, sont-, snt- 'being', partly with development to 'truly, really', and further partly to 'good, well', partly to 'the real perpetrator, the culprit': Old Indic sánt- sāt- m., n. (f. sat-ñ) 'being, good, true', Avestan hant-, hat- ds.;

Maybe alb. send 'thing, *being' perhaps used as a taboo.

gr. ὄντ-, ὄντ-, Doric ἐντ- 'being' (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 473, 525<sup>4</sup>, 567, 678), Nom. Pl. τὰ ὄντα 'present, verity, possession', derived οὐσία, Doric ἐσσία, ὠσία f. 'property, nature, reality', etc.;

Latin in prae-sēns, -sentis 'presently', Oscan praesentid 'at hand, in sight, present, in person', ab-sēns 'absent, not present'; sōns, Gen. sontis 'culpable, harmful' (compare sonticus morbus 'epilepsy?');

Maybe alb. sonte 'tonight, this night, present day'.

proto Germanic **sanþa* 'true' in Old Norse sannr, saðr, (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German sand, Old Saxon sōð 'true', and 'whose debt stays without doubt', Old English sōð 'true'; besides zero grade Germanic **sun(ð)jā-z*, Gothic **sunjis* 'true' (sunja 'verity'); the real meaning still in bisunjanē 'multi-sided, all around', originally Gen. Pl. 'being all around' = Old Indic satyá- 'true, right' (**snt̥yo-*), n. 'verity', Avestan haiθya- 'true, genuine', Old pers. hašiya- ds.;

with preserved or assim. d Old High German suntea, Old Saxon sundea, Old Frisian sende, Old Icelandic synð, synd < Middle Low German sūnde, Old English synn f. 'sin, crime' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (proto Germanic **sund̥i-*: **sun(ð)jāz*), further to Old Saxon Old High German sunnea 'hindrance, need', Old Icelandic syn 'renunciation, denial';

Old Prussian Nom. Sg. sins, Dat. Sg. sentismu, Old Lithuanian Akk. Sg. m. santj, Lithuanian sąs, sañčio (newer ėsąs, ėsąs m., ėsantif.), Latvian esuots 'being'; Gerundium Lithuanian sant, Old Church Slavic sy (: Old Indic sán), Gen. Sg. m. sqšta, Hittite aš-ša-an-za (assanz) 'being';

to-participle **s-e-tó-*, s-o-tó- in gr. ἐτά ἀληθῆ. ἀγαθά Hes., ἐτάζω 'prüfe', ἐτεός, ἐτυμός 'true, really' and ὄσιος 'right, allowed, godly, pious';

tī-Abstrakta: Old Indic abhi-ṣtī f. 'help' (abhi-ṣtī m. 'helper'), Avestan aiwištī f. 'devotion, study'; Old Indic úpa-stī m. 'subordinate' (Old Indic sv-astī f. 'well-being' probably Aryan neologism); compare gr. ἐστὼ οὐσία, ἀπεστὼ, ἀπεστύς Hes. 'absence, not present'; about that perhaps belonging here gr. ἐσ-θλός 'proficient, good, lucky', Doric ἐσλός, Arcadian ἐσλός compare Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 533<sup>5</sup>, Specht Dekl. 256.

References: WP. I 160 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 676 ff., Trautmann 71, etc.

See also: esu-s

Page(s): 340-342

---

Root / lemma: et(e)n-

Meaning: seed; corn

Material: Gr. ἔτνος n. 'a thick soup of pulse, pea-soup, mash of legumes' one places to Middle Irish eitne m. 'seed', Scots Gaelic eite 'unhusked ear of corn', eitean 'seed, corn, grain'; the unlenierte voiceless -t- between vowels is puzzling though, because it can only go back to -tt-.

References: WP. I 117.

Page(s): 343

---

Root / lemma: eti

Meaning: out; further, etc..

Material: Old Indic áti m. Akk. 'about - out, against', prefix áti (Avestan aiti-, Old pers. atīy-) 'over-, back-' (contains also part Indo Germanic atī-, see above S. 70 f.);

Phrygian ετι in ετι-τετικμενος 'curses' (to Old Irish tongid 'swears');

gr. ἔτι 'moreover, further, still';

perhaps Messapic -θι 'and' (Krahe KZ. 56, 135 f., compare WH. I 863); : alb. *edhe 'and'.

Latin et 'and also', Paelignian Umbrian et ds.; Latin et-iam 'and, also, still'; gall. eti 'also, further', eti-c 'and also' (**eti-ke*); in abret. et-binam gl. lanis, acymr. et-met 'to beat back, blunt, dull' (Loth RC 37, 27);

Gothic iþ 'but, δέ' (an 1. place), prefix id- in id-weit n. 'disgrace, shame, insult' = Old English Old Saxon edwīt, Old High German ita-, itwīz ds. (Old High German it(a), Old Norse ið- 'again', Old English Old Saxon ed- 'again', besides Old High German ith-, Old English eð-, Jacobsohn KZ. 49, 194, yet is Old English eð- after Sievers-Brunner 165<sup>1</sup> only spelling mistake), perhaps also in Gothic id-reiga f. 'repentance, penance, atonement' (compare Feist 289 f.);

Old Prussian et- besides at-, probably as acymr. etc. et- besides at- (to ati above S. 70), different Trautmann 16; about Tocharian A atas 'from here' (?), A aci, B ecce 'from there' (**eti*) compare Van Windekens Lexique 8, 16, Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 16<sup>1</sup>.

References: WP. I 43 f., WH. I 421 f., the eti in e- (see above S. 283) and -ti (as in au-ti above S. 74, etc.) zerlegen will.

Page(s): 344

---

Root / lemma: euk-

Meaning: to be used to

Material: Old Indic ókas- n. 'dwelling, house, residence, home, custom, habit, tradition', úcyati 'is habitual', ucitá- 'habitually, adequate'; sogd. ywčt (yōčāt) 'he teaches', yγwtčh 'accustomed' (with secondary γ-), Meillet BSL. 23, 76;

Armenian usanim (k after u palatalized) 'learn, I am accustomed';

gr. ἔκκλητος (Pind. ἔκᾱλος) besides εὐκκλητος 'in unobstructed pleasure'; maybe from uek-, respectively euk-?

Old Irish to-ucc- 'understand, comprehend, conceive' (cc = gg) from **u-n-k-*; whereas go ro-uicc 'has carried', do-uicc 'has brought' to **-onk-i-s-t* (back to enek-, see above S. 317);

Gothic bí-ūhts (**unkto-*) 'habitual, customary';

Lithuanian jùnkstu, jùnkti 'become habitual, customary', jaukùs 'accustomed to people, tamed, domesticated', jaukinti 'accustom, tame', jùnktaš 'accustomed'; Latvian jūkt 'become accustomed, habitual, customary', jaukt, jaucēt 'accustom'; Old Prussian jaukint 'train, practice'; Lithuanian ūkis 'farmstead' (actually 'dwelling', compare Old Indic ōkas ds.); to j- see below eu-3,

Old Church Slavic učiti 'instruct, teach', ukъ 'doctrine', vyknŋti 'be accustomed';

References: WP. I 111, Trautmann 335, Kuiper Nasalprä. 187 with Anm.

Page(s): 347

---

Root / lemma: eu-1, euə-: uā-, uə- (***hue-*)

Meaning: to lack; empty

Note: esp. in partizipialen no-formations

Material: Old Indic ūná-, Avestan ūna- 'insufficient, inadequate, lack, be short of', Avestan uyamna ds. (participle present Med. to present u-ya-); npers. (**gvang*) vang 'empty, bare, lacking, poor, needy', pāmir vanao 'Leerheit, vanity, pride';

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Celtic **h<sub>ue</sub>-* > gw- > f-; Armenian Old Indic gw- > u-.

Armenian unain 'empty, bare, lacking' (Indo Germanic ū);

gr. εὐνίς, -δος 'stolen; looted, lack, be short of'; about gr. ἐτός, (F)ετώσιος, that could also belong here, see above S. 73; common Celtic Greek **h<sub>ue</sub>-* > gw- > f-; Gothic Latin Lithuanian gw- > w-, v-.

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

perhaps here Latin vānus 'bare, lacking, containing nothing, empty, void, vacant'; very dubious (because the k-extension is attested only in Ital.) vacō, -āre 'be empty, be void, be vacant, be without, not to contain' (besides vocō, -āre EM<sup>2</sup> 1069); Umbrian vaçetum, uasetom 'make faulty, injure, spoil, mar, taint, corrupt, infect, vitiate, defile', antervakaze, anderuacose 'a breaking off, intermission, interruption, discontinuance', uas 'a fault, defect, blemish, imperfection, vice'; after Mühlenbach-Endzelin IV 462 here Lithuanian vañs-kariai 'unincubated eggs', Latvian vāns-kar(i)s 'infertile, not fertile egg' (with s-k from s-p).

Gothic (**gwans*) wans 'lacking, missing, wanting' (**u-ono-s* or **uə-no-s*), Old Icelandic van-r, Old Frisian Old English Old Saxon Old High German wan ds.;

cognitional seems uāsto-s 'deserted, abandoned, forsaken' in:

Latin vāstus 'empty, unoccupied, waste, desert, devastated' = Old Irish fās 'empty, bare, lacking', fāsach 'desert, waste, wasteland', Old High German wuosti 'deserted, abandoned, forsaken, ungebaut, empty, bare, lacking, waste, desolate', Old Saxon wōsti, Old English w-ēste 'waste, desolate' (Middle High German nengl. waste 'desert, waste, wasteland' but from Latin).

Maybe alb. bosh 'empty' from Turkish boş 'empty'.

References: WP. I 108 f., Feist 550.

Page(s): 345-346

---

Root / lemma: eu-2

Meaning: to put on

Material: Avestan aoθra- (: Latin sub-ūcula) n. `footwear`;

Armenian aganim `draw something to me` (Indo Germanic **óu-mi*); aut-oc `bedspread`;

Latin ex-uō `to draw out, take off, pull off, put off`, ind-uō `to put on, assume, dress in` (at first from -ovō, Indo Germanic probably **euō*), ind-uviae `clothes, garments`, ind-uvium `bark, outer covering of a tree`, exuviae `that which is stripped off, clothing, equipments, arms`, reduviae `a hang-nail, loose finger-nail`, subūcula `a man's undergarment, under-tunic, shirt` (**ou-tlā*, compare Latvian āukla), ōmen and ōmentum `retina around the intestine, mesentery fat, fat, intestine; also leg skin, cerebral membrane`, ind-ūmentum `a garment, a covering, clothing` (about indusium, intusium `a woman's under - garment` s. WH. I 695 f.); Umbrian anovihimu `induator` (from **an-ouīō*: Balto Slavic ayīō see below); from Celtic presumably Old Irish fuan (not but the French loanword cymr. gŵn, corn. gun `dolman, woman's cape`) as **upo-ou-no-*;

Lithuanian aviū, -ėti `bear footwear`, aunū, aūti `put, dress footwear`, Latvian āut `ds.; dress`, Lithuanian aūklė `foot bandage`, auklis `rope`, Latvian āukla f. (**au-tlā*) `cord`, Old Prussian auclo `halter`, Lithuanian (**au-to-s*, participle Perf. Pass.) aūtas, apaūtas `shoed, Pl. foot bandages`, Latvian āuts `kerchief, cloth, bandage` (: Latin ex-ūtus); russ.-Church Slavic izuju, izuti `take off the footwear`, Old Church Slavic obujō, obuti `dress footwear`, russ. obútyj `shoed` (: Lithuanian apaūtas ds.), in addition Old Church Slavic onušta `ham, smoked meat from the hindquarter of a hog`, russ. onúča `foot bandages`, etc.

Maybe alb. prefixed (**kē- (a)paūtas*) kēpucē `shoe`, kēputē `(foot bandages) sole` : Lithuanian apaūtas `shoed, Pl. foot bandages`.

from here (Pedersen Mursilis 72 ff.) Hittite unuṽā(ḷ)- `adorn'?

References: WP. I 109 f., WH. I 434 ff., 695 f., Trautmann 21 f.

Page(s): 346

---

Root / lemma: eu-3, with present formants -et- : uet-, ut-

Meaning: to feel

Material: Old Indic api-vátati 'understands, comprehends', Kaus. api-vātáyati 'stimulates spiritually, makes understand', Avestan aipi-vataiti 'is familiar with a thing', Konj. aipiča aotāi 'she understands' (**eut-*);

Lithuanian jaučiù (**euṭiō*), jaučiaũ, jaũsti 'feel', Latvian jaušu, jautu, jaust, in addition Lithuanian jaũsmas m. 'emotion', jautrūs 'emotional, passionate, sentimental, tender', Iterat. jáutotis 'searching, ask'; in ablaut (Indo Germanic u) juntù, jutāu, jùsti 'feel', Latvian jùtu, jutu, just ds. About the j-suggestion s. Endzelin Latvian Gr. p. 30c, different (as reduplication?) Specht KZ. 68, 55<sup>1</sup>.

References: WP. I 216, Trautmann 72, Kuiper Nasalprä. 54.

Page(s): 346

---

Root / lemma: eu-4

Meaning: exclamation of joy

Note: (only gr. Latin)

Material: Gr. εὐόζω 'jubilate, cheer', εὐῶ, εὐαί, εὐοί exclamations of bacchant enthusiasm; Latin ovō, -āre 'exult, rejoice, delight, cheer; keep a victorious move' (**euāiō*).

compare also u- in onomatopoeic words.

References: WP. I 110.

Page(s): 347

---

Root / lemma: eus-

Meaning: to burn

Material: Old Indic ósati 'burns', participle uṣṭá- (= Latin ustus), uṣṇá- 'hot, warm' (ōṣám 'fast, rapid, hurried, immediately, right away' perhaps '*stormy, hot tempered, burning?');

gr. εὔω (**eũhw*, **eusō*) 'sing', Aor. εὔσαι, εὔσπᾱ 'pit, pothole, the place for singeing slaughtered swine';

alb. ethe f. 'fever';

Latin ūrō, -ere, ustus (thereafter ussī) `to burn; to dry up, parch; chafe, gall; to disturb, harass (trans.)', ambūrō - ἀμφεύω `to burn round, scorch; of cold, to nip, numb; in gen., to injure';

Old Norse usli m. `glowing ash', Old English ys/e f. ds., Middle High German üse(e) f. ds.; Old Norse ysja f. `fire', usti `scorches, deflagrates, incinerates', with gramm. variation eim-yrja, Old English æm-yrīe (engl. embers), Middle High German eimer(e) f., Modern High German Dialectal ammer `glowing ash'; Norwegian Dialectal orna `become warm' (**uznēn*); perhaps as `burning, stormy, hot tempered = keen, eager' here Old High German ustar `greedy, gluttonous', ustrī `industria', ustinōn `fungi';

Lithuanian usnis `scratch thistle' (a kind of thistle) or `alder buckthorn'.

In the one **eus-* under \*eyēs-* to be combined with **yēs-* `burn' one attributes to Latin (Oscan) Vesuvius, the but also as `the bright, the radiant, the glowing' can be placed to \(a)yēs-* `gleam, shine' (above S. 87).

References: WP. I 111 f.

Page(s): 347-348

---

Root / lemma: eyegʰ- (**huehʰuegʰ-*)

Meaning: to praise, worship

Material: yegʰ-: Old Indic ved. (**gvāghát*) vāghát- `the vowing, worshiper, organizer of a sacrifice', Avestan rāštarə-vayənti- EN;

Armenian gog `say!', gogçes `you can say';

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > g-, u-; Old Indic gw- > v-, Latin gw- > v-, u-.

Latin voveō, -ēre, vōvī, vōtum (this at first from **vōvē-vai*, -tum) `to vow, promise solemnly, engage religiously, pledge, devote, dedicate, consecrate', Umbrian vufetes (= Latin vōtīs) `a promise to a god, solemn pledge, religious engagement, vow, to dedicate, devote, offer as sacred, consecrate', vufriu `of a vow, promised by a vow, given under a vow, votive', Vufiune, Uofione `a promise to a god, solemn pledge, religious engagement, vow'.

eugʰ-: Avestan aog- (aojaite, aoxta, aogədā) `announce, declare, say, speak, esp. in ceremonious way', wherefore Old Indic ōhatē `praises, vaunts, boasts'; and presumably Armenian uzem 'I wish, like ', y-uzem 'I search, seek';

The origin of labialized Old laryngeals:

common Armenian Celtic **hue-* > gw- > u-.

gr. εὐχομαι 'I promised, prayed, wished, praised ', athemat. Impf. εὔκτο (= gath.-Avestan aogədā, j.-av. aoxta 'spoke, talked, conversed ') to a present **eugh-tai* (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 679); εὐχος n, 'thing prayed for, object of prayer, boast, vaunt, vow, votive offering ', εὐχή 'profession, declaration, prayer, request, imploration'; in addition perhaps also αὐχέω 'boast, brag, vaunt, boast', abstracted from κενε-αυχής 'the empty boasting ' (*κενε-ευχής, Bechtel Lexilogus 192).

References: WP. I 110.

Page(s): 348

---

Root / lemma: ē 1, ō

Meaning: a kind of adverbial/ nominal particle

Note: out of Aryan and partially also already in this in the meaning coloring, in Germanic as sense 'under, after, behind, back, again, away ' extended cognitional with Pron.-stem ə-, o-, either as its originator or, what is obvious esp. for the long vowels ē, ō, therefrom as an Instrumental formation.

Material: Old Indic ā, Avestan Old pers. ā 'in, to there ', e.g. ā-gam- 'near to, draw near, get near, come close ', as postposition with Akk. 'to - toward ', with Lok. 'on, in, to - toward ', with Abl. 'from - away '; with Old Indic ā-dā 'receive (in) ', ā-da- 'receiving; getting in possession ' compare Old Indic dāyādā- m. 'hereditary receiver ' (dāyā- 'inheritance'), gr. χηρωστής 'wer ledig gewordenen Besitz (τὸ χῆρον) zu eigener Nutzung oder zur Verwaltung bekommen hat ' (*-ω-δῑᾱ, compare Old Indic participle ā-t-ta-h 'receive '), Latin hērēs 'an heir, heiress ' (**hēro-* = χῆρο- + ē-d- 'receiving '). In adj. compounds has Aryan ā the concept of the convergence, e.g. Old Indic ā-nīla- 'blackish, darkish ' (also probably gr. ὠ-χρός 'pale, wan, yellowish', probably also ἡ-βαιός besides βαιός 'little, small ', and Slavic ja- see below). About Avestan a- insecure affiliation in the nominal setting s. Reichelt Avestan Elementarbuch 270;

Armenian in y-o-gn 'much, a lot of' from preposition i + **o-gʷhon-* or **o-gʷhno-* (to Old Indic ā-hanás- 'tumescent, luscious' s. gʷhen- 'to swell');

gr. ὀ- probably in ὀ-κέλλω 'set in motion, drive, animate ' (see qel- 'drive, push'), ὀ-τρύνω (see tuer- 'hurry'), ὀφέλλω, ὀλόπτω (see lep- 'schälen'), ὄαρ 'wife' (see ar- decree, edict, mandate, dispose, arrange; reconcile, settle; resign, submit to ', above S. 56), ὁ-νίνημι (see nā- 'help'), ὁ-πατρος 'by the same father, being descendant by same father ', ὁ-τριχες ἵπποι 'of similar mane ', ὄζος 'attendant, servant' (**o-zdos* actually 'Mitgänger', to root sed-, as also Indo Germanic **ozdos*, gr. ὄζος 'bough' as 'ansitzendes Stämmchen', compare ὁ-σχη, ὁ-σχος 'twig, branch' to ἔχειν, ἐχεῖν), ὁ-τλος (see tel- 'bear, carry'), ὁ-φελος, ὁ-ψον, ὁ-βριμος (see below g<sup>w</sup>er- 'heavy'), perhaps also in οἶμα and other under **eis-* 'move violently, fast' discussed words;

after Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 433 though lies in ὁπατρος before Aeolic ὁ- instead of ὁ ( **sm-*), according to Risch (briefl.) also in ὄαρ, ὄτριχες and ὄζος 'companion';

gr. ἐ- probably in ἐθέλω besides θέλω; ἐ-γείρω 'arouse, stimulate; wake up, awaken';

gr. ω in χηρωστής (see above);

gr. η probably in ἡ-βαιός (see above);

ē: ō in Old High German āmaht 'eclipse (of a heavenly body); want, defect; flowing/dropping down, faint, swoon, temporary loss of consciousness ', āteilo 'free from; without; lacking experience; immune from ', Old English in æwæde 'nude ', Old High German āmād: uomād 'after reaping, harvesting ', āwahst: uowahst 'growth, development, increase; germ (of idea); offshoot; advancement (rank) ', 'occiput, back part of the head or skull ', Old English ōgengel 'the (retreating) Querriegel ', ōleccan 'flatter, compliment, chatter, wheedle ' from **ō-lukjan*, ō suffixed in Akk. Sg. the pron. Dekl., e.g. Gothic hvanō-h, hvarjatō-h, þana etc.

In Slavic **ē* or **ō*, colorless in some compounds, as Serbo-Croatian-Church Slavic ja-skudъ besides Church Slavic skqđъ 'ugly' (see Berneker 441); ě following the Lok. and with this deformed in type Old Bulgarian kamen-e and Lithuanian rañkoj-e 'in the hand'.

References: WP. I 95 f., WH. 388, 642, Specht KZ. 62, 56, Hirt Indog. Gr. IV 54, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 434, 648<sup>3</sup>, 722<sup>1</sup>.

Page(s): 280-281

Root / lemma: ē 2, ō

Meaning: interjection (vocative)

Material: Old Indic ā emphasizing behind adverbs and nouns: 'oh!';

gr. ἦ ` hey, hallo!, you there!', also emphasizing and questioning ` really!?' ἦ ἦ σιώπα, Lesbian ἦ μόν etc., also in ἦ-τοι, ἐπει-ρή, ἦ(F)ε `or', ἦ-δε; probably also lak. tar. ἐγών-η, whereupon hom. τύνη etc.;

Latin eh `ei, hey, hallo!, you there!', ē-castor ` by Castor ', edepōl ` by Pollux ', ēdī (**ē deīve*), etc.;

Old High German ihh-ā `I (just)', ndd. iəkə, Proto Norse hait-ik-a, probably also Old High German nein-ā `no, nay' ;

Lithuanian ē, é, Latvian e, ē, exclamation particles;

about Slavic o- in exclamation see below S. 283;

References: WP. I 99, WH. I 1, 389, 396, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 606.

See also: s. further under ehem.

Page(s): 281

---

Root / lemma: ēg̃-, ōg̃-, əg̃-

Meaning: to say, speak

Material: Armenian asem `say', if s instead of c (= Indo Germanic g̃) is established through the position in the 3. Sg. **as* from **ast* = **əg̃t*, verbal noun ar-ac ` proverb ';

gr. ἦ ` he spoke ' (the unique hom. form; from **ēg-ŋ*), wherefore is joined after hom. 1. Sg. Imperf. ἦν, 1. 3.Sg. present ἦμί, ἦσί (Doric ἦτι) as neologisms after (ἔ)φη : (ἔ)φην, φημί, ἀησί. Perf. ἄν-ωγα ` order, command ' (originally ` I announce ' (?), ἀνά as in ἀνακαλεῖν ` shout loudly ' ), presently reshaped ἀνώγω; about ἦχανεν εἶπεν s. EM<sup>2</sup> 30 and Liddell-Scott s. v.;

Latin a(ŋ)ō ` say, speak, state ' (**agiō*), the prophetic god Aius Locūtius, adagiō, -ōnis, later adagium ` proverb, saying ', prōdigium ` a prophetic sign, token, omen, portent, prodigy ' ( ` prophecy'); axāmenta `carmina Saliaria' (about anxāre `vocare, nominare' s. WH. I 44);

Oscan angetuzet ` put forth, set forth, lay out, place before, expose to view, display, bid, tell, command ', if syncopated from **an-agituzet* (from a frequentative **agitō*) `in- saying, speaking, uttering, telling, mentioning, relating, affirming, declaring, stating, asserting ';

Umbrian aiu (**agiā*) ` a divine announcement, oracle ';

perhaps also acetus ` answer, reply, respond, make answer ';

Old Indic āha, āttha `spoke', um dessentwillen the root form was earlier attached as **āgh-*, is because of Avestan āda `spoke, talked', present ādaya-, ādaya- lead back to a different root ad<sup>h</sup>- (Güntert Reimw. 84).

References: WP. I 114, WH. I 24 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 678; different EM<sup>2</sup> 30.

Page(s): 290-291

---

Root / lemma: ēik-

Meaning: to possess; to be capable

Material: Old Indic īśē, īṣṭē (ī originally present perfect reduplication) `has owned, possessed, governed', īśvará- `wealthy, ably; m. master, lord'; Avestan īše `is master, mister about', īšvan- `vermögend', īšti- `blessing, fortune, grace, wealth' (Germanic aihti-), āēšā- `fortune, property'.

hereupon Gothic **aigan* (aih, aigum, secondary preterit aihta) `have, own, possess', Old Norse eiga (ā, eigom, ātta), Old English āgan, Old Frisian āga, asächs. ēgan, Old High German eigan ds.; participle **aigana-*, aigina- in the meaning `own, personal, private' and substantive n. `property': Old Norse eiginn `particular, characteristic, singular', Old English āgen (engl. own), Old Frisian ēgin, ēin, asächs. ēgan, Old High German eigan etc. ds., Gothic aigin n. `property', Old Norse eigin, Old English ægen etc. ds. hereof has derived **aiganōn*: Old Norse eigna, -aða `assign, allot'; Old English āgnian `make have, possess, own', further Old High German eiginēn `make have, possess, own, appropriate, allot' etc.

tī-Abstr. Germanic **aihti*: Gothic aihts `property', Old Norse ætt, att in the abstract meaning `gender, sex, quality of being male or female'; also `firmament, heavens, skies'; Old English æht, Old High German ēht `possession, rightful possession, property'. compare further Old Norse eign f. `property of reason and ground' (**aig-nī*); proto Germanic **aihtēr* `holder, owner, occupier, possessor' is to acquire to be acquired by lapp. āitâr ds. (: Old Indic īṣitar- ds.); after Pedersen Groupement 30 f. here Tocharian B aik-, aiś- `know, have knowledge of'.

References: WP. I 105, Feist 20.

Page(s): 298-299

---

Root / lemma: ēi2

Meaning: vocative particle

Material: Old Indic ē `Ausruf der Anrede, des Sichbesinnens' etc.; ai ds., ayi before the vocative;

Avestan āi before the vocative; it could also belong to ai, above S. 10,;

gr. εἶα ( **ei!* + a ) `on! up! away!' (besides εἶεν);

Latin ei, hei `ah! woe! oh dear!' therefrom, ēiulō `cry out, wail, lament ', oi-ei `alas! woe is me!';

Old Irish (h)ē `Exclamation of joy and pain ';

Old High German ī, Middle High German Modern High German ei have not developed from it phonetically;

Lithuanian ei `exclamation of warning ', Latvian ei `hey, hallo!, you there!; wow!';

Serbo-Croatian êj, poln. russ. ej `hey, hallo!, you there!'.

References: WH. I 396 f., Trautmann 67.

Page(s): 297

---

Root / lemma: ēlā

Meaning: bodkin

Material: Old Indic āṛā `pricker, awl', Old High German āla f., Middle High German āle ds. (Germanic **ēlō*) Old English æ̃l, ablaut. Old Norse alr m. `pricker, awl, gimlet', > nengl. awl besides Old High German alansa, alunsa `pricker, awl'.

From Gothic **ēla* derives Old Prussian ylo, from which Lithuanian jla `awl, gimlet ', Latvian īļens ds.

References: WP. I 156, Vasmer by Senn Germanic loanword-Stud. 47.

Page(s): 310

---

Root / lemma: ēl-

Meaning: line

Material: Old Indic āl-, āl- f. `stripe, line' could belong to gr. ὠλίγγη `wrinkle under the eyes ' ( **ōlin-g-ā* ); here one could also put Old Icelandic āl (Indo Germanic **ēlō-*) `gully or dent in river, deep valley between rocks, furrow or stripe along the back of animals '; compare Old Icelandic ālōttr `striped, lined, having stripes or bands', Norwegian dial. aal = Old Icelandic āl and Modern High German Aal `stripes in the cloth'; Modern High German Aalstreif, -strich `stripes on the back of animals' nevertheless, could belong though to Modern High German Aal `eel', whereas vice versa the possibility of the naming of the eel after its long-stretched figure would be possible.

References: WP. I 155, Specht Dekl. 213.

Page(s): 309-310

---

Root / lemma: ēneu, ēnu

Meaning: without

Material: Gr. (Lokat.?) ἄνευ, ἄνευθε(v) `without'; Doric ἄνευν, el. ἄνευς, meg. ἄνις (shaped after χωρίς); from **ēneu-*, Gothic inu `without';

with lengthened grade: Old Indic ānu-śák, Avestan ānu-šak `one after the other, in succession' (to Old Indic anu-sac- `follow, go after, ensue, follow as a consequence of, happen as a result of, result from, result, arise from', root sek<sup>w</sup>-); Old Norse ān, ōn, Old Frisian ōnī, Old Saxon āno, Old High German ānu, āno, āna, Middle High German āne, ān, Modern High German ohne from **ēnunder*

Not entirely certain that only from Gramm. is covered Old Indic anō `not' (= gr. ἄνευ), also osset. ānā `without'; relationship with Latin sine etc. (Meillet BSL. 30, Nr. 89, 81) might exist, yet under no circumstances certain.

References: WP. I 127 f., Feist 295, WH. I 677.

Page(s): 318

---

Root / lemma: ēn

Meaning: look here!

Material: Gr. ἤν, ἤήν, Latin ēn `look here!'

References: WP. I 127, WH. I 403 f.

Page(s): 314

---

Root / lemma: ēpi-

Meaning: comrade

Note:

The original root was Root / lemma: *ap-1 (exact əp-) : ēp- : 'to take, grab, reach, *give' > Root / lemma: *ēpi- : 'comrade' > Root / lemma: *ai-3 : 'to give'.

Maybe alb. Tosc (**ə-ip-mi*) ep, jap, Geg nep (**na ep*) 'give us (*take)': Hittite ə-ip-mi (ēpmi) 'take', 3. Pl. ap-pa-an-zi (apanzi) : gr. ἄπτω 'give a hand'. [see above]

Material: Old Indic āpí- 'friend, ally', āpyam 'friendship, companionship';

gr. ἥπιος 'friendly, mild; helping'.

Perhaps to **epi-* 'near, to there, ἐπί', so that **ēpi-s* (and **ēpi-os*) would have meant 'the helpful companions close to a rest station', from which also 'trust, rely on, have confidence in'.

To ἥπιος from Gr. still ἡπάομαι originally (?) 'heal' (compare ἡπια φάρμακα πάσσειν) and out of it 'join two sides of a wound or incision using stitches or the like, patch, piece up'?

References: WP. I 121 f.

Page(s): 325

---

Root / lemma: *ēreb(h)-, ōrob(h)-

Meaning: a kind of dark colour

Material: Gr. ὀρφνός 'dusky, dim, dour, gloomy, dark' (ὀρφος 'a dark-tinted sea fish'); for growing pale the real color meaning Rozwadowski Eos 8, 99 f. in russ. rjabinóvaja noč 'cloudy, stormy night', as hom. ὀρφναίη νύξ; with dissimilation reduction of the first -r- alb.-Ligurian-Celtic-Germanic eburo- 'rowan, mountain ash, yew, evergreen tree with poisonous needles':

in alb.-Geg ber-sh-e m. 'yew' (**ebur-isio-*, with collective suffix), Ligurian PN Eburelianus saltus, gallorom. eburos 'yew' (in many PN and PN), Old Irish ibar m. 'yew', also as PN, cymr. efwr 'acanthocephala, class of parasitic worms which have rows of thorn-like hooks', Middle High German eberboum, Modern High German Eber-esche;

Old Icelandic iarpr 'brown', Old High German erpf 'dark, swarthy, dusky; husky; hoarse' (often in FIN), Old English eorp 'swart, black, dark'; therefrom Old Icelandic iarpi 'hazel grouse' and nnd. erpel 'drake, male duck' (in contrast to brighter females); with full grade the 2. syllable Old High German repa-, reba-huon, Swedish rapp-höna 'partridge, game bird' < Middle Low German raphōn;

Latvian īrbe in meža īrbe 'hazel grouse', lauka-īrbe 'partridge, game bird' (see above Mühlenbach-Endzelin, Latvian-D. Wb. I 708 f.; barely Slavic loanword as Lithuanian ierbė ėrubė, jėrubė, jėrublė 'hazel grouse', compare klr. jarubéc); from here also late Old Norse rafn. 'amber, yellowish brown color', Old Icelandic refr 'fox' as 'the red'? But probably here Old Icelandic arfr 'ox' etc. as 'the rubiginous, rust-colored, reddish-brown'.

Slavic with nasalization: mbg. jerębъ, r.-Church Slavic jařabъ, **jeřabъ*, Serbo-Croatian jārēb etc. 'partridge, game bird', named from the color, as klr. orábyna, orobýná, sloven. jerebika, Czech jeřáb etc. 'rowan berry'; without anlaut. vowel russ. rjabój 'dappled, dotted, spotted' (compare above rjabinóvaja nočъ, Old Bulgarian reъbъ, russ. rjabka 'partridge, game bird', rjabína 'rowan tree', rjabčik 'hazel grouse', etc.).

compare Specht Dekl. 115 f., it derived from a color root er-; s. also rei-, reu-b- 'striped in different colors, multicolored; dappled'; to b: b<sup>h</sup> s. Specht 261 f.

References: WP. I 146, Jokl Symb. gramm. Rozwadowski II 242 f., Trautmann 104 f.

Page(s): 334

---

Root / lemma: ēs-r(gʷ), Gen. es-n-és (**hēs-*)

Meaning: blood

Grammatical information: older r/n-stem

Material:

In e- grade:

Tocharian A ysār, (**eysār*)

Hittite e-eš-ḫar (ešḫar), Gen. ešḫanas.

Hittite: ešḫar, išḫar gen. ešḫanas, išḫanas (Tischler 112ff); ešḫanija 'red'

Armenian ariun 'blood' (**esr-*);

gr. poet. (**esar*) ἔαρ, ἔϊαρ (ἦαρ Hes.) 'blood' (probably proto gr. **ḥ̥ar* with lengthened grade as ḥ̥iarp; see Schulze Qunder ep. 165 f.);

In a- grade:

Old Indic ásrk, ásrt, Gen. asnáh 'blood', asrjā RV. 3, 8, 4, nachved. asra- n. ds.;

Old Latin aser (asser), assy 'blood', assarātum 'drink from the mixed wine and blood' (probably aser with simple s; compare WH. I 72);

With ng- extension:

Maybe Latin [sanguis, older sanguen, inis 'blood'- most probably also here < **asen-g<sup>w</sup>*-]

Latvian asins 'blood' (**es<sub>e</sub>n*-?), Pl. asinis; compare in addition Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 14, Mühlenbach-Endzelin Latvian-D. Wb. I 143;

References: WP. I 162, WH. I 72, 849, Meillet Esquisse<sup>2</sup> 39.

Page(s): 343

---

Root / lemma: ēs- (**hēs-*)

Meaning: to sit

Material:

In e- grade:

gr. Infin. ἵσθαι, participle (**hesmenos*) ἥμενος, secondary Attic κάθηται, inverse ἵσμαι; the Asper after ἐδ- (**sed-*)?

Hittite Med. e-ša (esa) 'sits', e-ša-ri (esar) ds., Infin. a-ša-an-na (asanna) etc., (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), perhaps zero grade a-ša-ši 'places, sits'; Hieroglyphic-Hittite es- 'sit'.

Hittite: as- (I) 'remain, to be left over', as, es- (I) 'sit, sit down' (Tischler 75, 77, 110-111); ases-, (asas-) (I) 'place; settle' (Tischler 79); ses- (I) 'rest, sleep, remain' (Friedrich 191)

In a- grade:

Old Indic āstē, Avestan āste 'he sits' (= gr. Attic ἵσται ds.), ostiran. ās-, 3. Pl. Old Indic āsatē (== gr. hom. εἵσται, lies ἥσται), Avestan ānhantē,

Tokharian: B āsk- 'sit, be seated' (Adams 58); A,B šäm- 'sit' (654)

References: WP. II 486, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 679 f., Couvreur H 99 f., Pedersen Hittite 91, 101, 104, 110.

Page(s): 342-343

---

Root / lemma: ēter-

Meaning: intestines

Material: Gr. hom. ἥτορ n. 'heart' (Gen. μεγαλ-ήτορος etc., Aeolic form for **ētr*, *ἥταρ); ἥτρον 'belly, lower abdomen';

Old Norse æðrf. 'vein' (**ēter*, through misinterpretation of -r transferred as nominative **-z* in the i-Dekl., Dat. Akk. æðr, Pl. æðir, æðar), Old English ædre, æderf. 'vein', Pl. also 'kidneys', Old High German ād(a)ra, Middle High German āder, ādre 'vein, sinew; Pl. intestines, entrails', with inn(a) 'inside', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), clustered together Old Franconian inn-ēthron gl. 'fat, lard, grease; intestine fat', Old Saxon ūt-innāthrian 'disembowel, remove the entrails from', besides an older composition with in 'in' and stress shift **ō* in Old High German (with suffix exchange) inuodili 'intestine, entrails';

the fact that also Old Irish inathar 'intestine, entrails' are deducible from **en-ōtro-*, is but barely doubtful; it would have received **enathar* (from **en-ōtro-*) through influence of the preposition in- being i; about acymr. permed-interedou gl. 'that part of the abdomen which extends from the lowest ribs to the pubes, the groin, flank', mcor. en-eder-en 'the chief internal organs of the body, significant organs' s. Loth RC 42, 369; mcor. -eder- could go back to **ōtro-*, against which acymr. word could belong to preposition **enter*.

from here Avestan xʷāθra- 'moments of joy, cheerfulness, contentment' as **su-ātra-*?

References: WP. I 117, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 519, Meillet Ét. 167 f., Specht Dekl. 81.

Page(s): 344

Root / lemma: ētf-

Meaning: diver, a k. of bird (of waterfowl?)

Note:

Root / lemma: ētf- : 'diver' derived from the abbreviated Root / lemma: anet- : 'duck'

Material:

Maybe Old Indic: ātí-, āfī f. 'an aquatic bird' : Other Iranian: Sak āce, āci 'water fowl', Osset occ 'wild duck', Pamir Wakh. yōč 'duck' : Greek: ὠτίς, ἰδος, ή, ( [οὐς] ) A. bustard, Otis tarda, X.An.1.5.2sq., Arist.HA 509a4, al., Ael.NA5.24, Opp.C.2.407; cf. οὐτίς, ὀτίς. Old Norse æðrf. (Gen. æðar), æðarfugl, out of it engl. Dutch Modern High German eider, Norwegian ærfugl (and æfugl); Swedish åda, dial. åd 'eider duck'. Perhaps with Old Indic ātí-, āfī 'a water-bird' in connection to present. However, see below anet- 'duck' (see 41 f.).

References: WP. I 118, Kluge<sup>14</sup> s. v. Eider.

Page(s): 345

Root / lemma: ēt-mén-

Meaning: breath, *soul, wind

Material: Old Indic ātmán-, Gen. ātmánaḥ m. 'breath, breeze, soul';

Old English æðm m., Old Saxon āthum 'breeze, breath', Old High German ādhmōt (Isid.) 'flat', otherwise in Old High German m. gramm. variation ātum (= ādum Isid.) m. 'breath', Modern High German Atem and (with dial. o from a) Odem.

from here Irish athach (**at-āko-*) 'breath, breeze, wind'?

References: WP. I 118.

Page(s): 345

---

Root / lemma: ētro-

Meaning: hurried, swift

Note:

Root / lemma: ētro-: 'hurried, swift' derived from Root / lemma: āt(e)r-: 'fire'

Material: Old High German ātar (**ētró-*) 'keen-scented; acute, sharp, perceptive, swift, fleet, quick, speedy', Old English ædre 'immediately, forthwith, at once, right away, instantly, now, fully, totally, completely', Old Frisian ēdre, Old Saxon ādro ds., Old Icelandic āðr 'early, matutinal, before, previously, in the preceding time, at an earlier time' one places (in ablaut) to Latvian ātrs 'rash, hasty, violent, stormy, hot tempered' (**ātro-*), Lithuanian dial. otu 'quick, fast', Latvian ātri Adv. ds., ātrumā 'in the haste, hurry, in the heat'; North Lithuanian ātrus 'violent, stormy, hot tempered, irascible, irritable', ātrē(ī) Adv. ds. and 'quick, fast' could be borrowed from Latvian.

The supposed ablaut ē: ā nevertheless, is doubtful lengthened grade; also the vocalism of Tocharian A atār, B etār 'hero', whether correct, is unclear; compare Van Windekens Lexique 23; Baltic forms could moreover belong to āt(e)r- 'fire' (above S. 69).

References: WP. I 118, Trautmann 203, Mühlenbach-Endzelin Latvian-D. Wb. I 245.

Page(s): 345

---

Root / lemma: ēud<sup>h</sup>-, ōud<sup>h</sup>-, ūd<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: udder

Grammatical information: r/n-stem; Old Indic occasional forms of -es- stem (secondary?), Slavic men-stem.

Material: Old Indic ūdhar (and ūdhas) n., Gen. ūdhnáḥ 'udder';

gr. οὔθηρ, οὔθηατος (α = -η) 'udder';

Latin ūber, -eris n. 'a teat, pap, dug, udder, suckling breast; fullness, wealth' (ūbertās 'richness, fulness'; out of it ūber Adj. 'rich, fertile' inferred after paupertas : pauper);

Old High German Dat. ūtrin, Middle High German ūter, iuter, Swiss ūtər, Old Saxon Old English ūder n. 'udder', next to which the changing by ablaut **ēud<sup>h</sup>r-* in Old Icelandic ju(g)r ds. and Old Saxon ieder, Old Frisian iāder ds.;

Lithuanian ūdruó-ju, -ti 'udders, be pregnant';

Slavic **vymę* in Czech výmě, Serbo-Croatian vìme 'udder' (**ūd<sup>h</sup>-men-*); probably as 'the swelling, the swollen', compare russ. údit<sup>ь</sup> or údět<sup>ь</sup> 'to bloat, bulge, swell', also perhaps the Volscan FIN Oufens, Ufens.

References: WP. I 111, Trautmann 334, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 518.

Page(s): 347

---

Root / lemma: gag-, gōg-

Meaning: a round object

Note: word the Kindersprache

Material: Isl. kaka 'cake', Norwegian and Swedish kaka 'small, round and flaches bread', Danish kage 'cake' (Germanic **kakan-*), wherefore the diminutive Old English cicel, cycel 'small cake' (engl. cake is Norse loanword) and changing through ablaut Norwegian kōk 'clump', Swedish koka 'clod, clod of earth', Middle Low German kōke, Old High German kuocho (Germanic **kōkan-*) 'round bread, cake', in addition the diminutives Old English cæccil, cēcil and Old High German kuocheli(n) 'small cake';

Maybe alb. kokë 'round object, head'

Lithuanian gúogė 'cabbage head, head, thick skull', guogingas 'mit Kopf versehen', guogióti 'Köpfe ansetzen (vom Kohl) '.

From Germanic **kakan-* derive Finnish kakko, lapp. gakko 'cake', Finnish kakkara 'clod of earth, lump of earth, bread'; about prov. katal. coca 'cake' (nnd. loanword) s. Meyer-Lübke<sup>3</sup> 4734.

References: WP. I 530 f., Kluge<sup>11</sup> 333.

Page(s): 349

---

Root / lemma: gal-1

Meaning: bald; naked, *callow (without feathers)

Note:

Root / lemma: gal-1: 'bald; naked' derived from Root / lemma: koi-lo-: 'naked; miserable'.

Material: Old High German kalo (**kaluā*-), inflectional kalwēr, Middle High German kal 'naked, bald, bleak', Old English calu, engl. callow 'naked, bald, bleak, callow'; Old High German calua 'baldness, a bald spot';

Latvian gāla, gāle f. (lengthened grade) 'thin ice cover, glazed frost, ice', gāls 'ice-smooth';

akl. golъ 'naked', sloven. gòf, russ. gótyi 'bald, bleak, naked', Czech holý ds., holek 'beardless fellow', holka 'girl', etc.; in addition Church Slavic golotъ f. 'ice', Czech holot, russ. gótotъ f. 'ice, icing, glazing';

baltoSlavic **galuā* f. 'head' in:

Latvian galva f., Lithuanian galvą (Akk. gálvą) f. 'head (substantive Adj.)', Old Prussian gallū, Akk. galwan ds.; Lithuanian galvotas 'köpfig' (= Serbo-Croatian glavat);

Old Church Slavic glava 'head', Serbo-Croatian gláva (Akk. glâvu), russ. gotová (Akk. gotovu); Serbo-Croatian glavat 'having a large head', Czech hlavatý 'köpfig';

Baltic and slaw. intonation (gálvą: gotovu) do not agree; compare Meillet Slave commun<sup>2</sup> 183, 503; Baltic pushed intonation spoke after Trautmann 77 rather for kinship with Armenian ǵlu-x 'head' from **ghōlu-ko-* (Meillet Esquisse 36); then however, Germanic words must be observed as Latin loanword (from calvus).

References: WP. I 537 f., WH. I 143 f., Trautmann 77; different Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 596 f., Specht Dekl. 85, 132.

Page(s): 349-350

---

Root / lemma: gal-2

Meaning: to call, cry

Material: 1. Cymr. galw 'call, shout, cry, subpoena, send an invitation to court, summon', Middle Breton galu 'call, appeal; claim, summons; plea' (**gal-uo-*), Middle Irish gall 'fame, glory, honor' (**gal-no-s*; covered only doubtfully), probably also gall 'swan';

Old Church Slavic glagolja, glagolati (**gal-gal*) 'speak', glagolъ 'word', russ. gologólitъ 'chatter, joke, jest, tell a funny tale'; perhaps Old Indic gargara-h 'a certain music instrument' (= Old Church Slavic glagolъ, if with r from Indo Germanic l, Meillet Ét. 229; or to **ger-* or **gʷer-*, what in alignment these onomatopoeic words are not closed, compare from still from one more such Old Indic gharghara- 'rattling, clashing, gargling, gurgling; m. din, fuss, noise').

2. gal-so- in:

osset. yalas 'φωνή', Old Church Slavic glasъ, russ. gólosъ 'voice', Lithuanian galsas 'echo', Old Norse kall n. 'the calls', whereof kalla 'call, shout, cry, sing', Old English callian (engl. call) ds., Old High German kallōn 'speak, babble, chatter a lot and loudly', with -ll- from -lz-, next to which -ls- in Old Norse kalls n. 'provocation, incitation, irritation'.

from Latin gallus 'rooster, cock' (only afterwards supported in the Gaul's name) vorder Old Saxon loanword, also as gr. κάλλαιον 'a cock's comb'?

Maybe alb. gjel 'rooster, cock'

In addition perhaps as extensions, but rather independent onomatopoeic words:

3. glag-:

gr. γλάζω 'lets a song resound' (*γλαγιω);

Old Norse klaka 'chirp, twitter', Old English clacu f. 'insult', further plural with function in 'resounding, roaring, banging blow' Middle High German klac 'applause, clapping of the hands, slam, bang, strike, noise, crack', klecken 'meet, break, crack with a bang', engl. clack 'clatter, rattle, clash, chat, prate', Old Norse klakk-sārr 'injurious, malign, pernicious', and m. d. meaning 'make move, put into motion slapping, tattling, splotch, stain; smear' Middle High German klac also 'splash, splotch, stain, blob, spot, blot', Middle Low German klacken 'make blot, splash, splotch, stain' (Modern High German klecksen, Klecks = ndd. klakks), Old Norse klakkr 'blot, splash, splotch, stain, clump, cloudlet, cloudling, small cloud';

4. gal-gh-, g(a)lagh- 'lament, wail, scold, chide':

Old Indic garhati, -te, ved. 3. Pl. grhatē 'complains, reproves, rebukes', garhā 'reprimand', grhú- 'beggar, mendicant', Avestan garəzaiti 'complains, cries, wails', osset. järzun 'groan, moan', Avestan grəza, npers. gila 'lament';

Old High German klaga 'lament', klagōn 'wail';

Middle Irish glām 'clamor, curse, swear word, evil proclamation' (**glagh-smā*);

5. nasalized glengh-: Old High German klingan 'ring, sound, clink' (without close connection to Latin clangor, gr. κλαγγή 'sound'), next to which with Germanic 'thin, fine; delicate; weak, feeble' Old High German klinkan ds., engl. clink, Swedish klinka 'clink'.

In Germanic furthermore **kalt-*, **klat-*, **klap-*, e.g. Middle High German kalzen, kelzen 'babble, chatter'; Old Frisian kaltia 'speak'; Old English clatrian 'clatter, rattle, clash', Modern High German Klatz 'smirch, stain, splotch, smear', bekletzen; Old Norse klappn 'sound of a kiss; sound of a lash; gossip, rumors, blow, knock', Old High German klapfm 'gossip, slam, bang, strike, blow, knock, shove'.

References: WP. I 538 f., WH. I 580 f., Trautmann 77.

See also: compare the similar to onomatopoeic words ghel-, kel-.

Page(s): 350-351

---

Root / lemma: gal-3 or ghal-

Meaning: to be able

Material: Cymr. gallu 'to be able, can be able', corn. gallos 'power', bret. gallout 'to be able' (ll < ln), Irish gal/f. 'braveness, boldness, courageousness', abret. gal 'skill, ability, power'; Old Irish dī-gal/f., cymr. dial, corn. dyal 'revenge, vengeance'; gallorom. **galia* 'power' (Wartburg); in addition Celtic VN Galli, Γαλάται;

Note:

The name VN Galli, gr. Γαλάται, Keltoi seem synonymous as Keltoi is an attribute noun modelled after Illyrian adj. (see alb. numbers).

Galatea

[Greek] One of the Nereids, and the beloved of Acis, a Sicilian shepherd. She was also loved by Polyphemus, who killed Acis with a boulder in jealousy. From his blood, Galatea created the river Acis on Sicily.

Goliath

giant Philistine warrior killed by a stone from David's sling (Biblical); giant.

Lithuanian galiù, galėti 'to be able', galià, gālios 'fortune, ability, capacity, power', ne-gālė f. 'indisposition, minor illness'; with unclear formation russ.-Church Slavic golěmъ 'big, large, high', Bulgarian golěmъ 'big, large, high, wide', Serbo-Croatian göljemno 'big, large', Old Czech holemý 'big, large', Serbo-Croatian gòlem 'big, large', russ. dial. goljamyj 'high, mager' and Adv. galjamo 'much, a lot of, very' (further by Berneker 320 and Trautmann 77).

References: WP. I 539 f., Trautmann 77.

Page(s): 351

---

Root / lemma: gan(<sup>dh</sup>)-

Meaning: vessel

Note: Only Celtic (?) and Germanic

Material: Middle Irish gann (**gand<sup>h</sup>n-* or **gand<sup>h</sup>-*) 'vessel' (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (very doubtful covered: Stokes BB. 19, 82);

isl. kani 'vessel with a handle, bowl (poet.)', Norwegian dial. kane 'a bowl with a handle', Swedish dial. kana 'sled', Danish kane 'sled' (Old Danish also 'boat'), Middle Low German kane 'boat' (from which Old Swedish kani 'boat'), Dutch kaan 'small boat, barge' (from dem Ndd. derives also Modern High German Kahn, s. Kluge EWb. s. v., v. Bahder, Wortwahl 30); with it changing through ablaut Old Icelandic kæna 'kind of boat'; in addition further(< **gand<sup>h</sup>nā*) Old Norse kanna, aschw. kanna, Danish kande, Old English canne, Old Low German kanna, Old High German channa 'carafe, glass bottle, jar, pitcher, vase', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), from which is borrowed late Latin canna; from Franconian kanna also prov. cana 'measure of capacity', afr. channe 'carafe, glass bottle, jar, pitcher, vase', s. Meyer-Lübke 1596, Gamillscheg EWb. d. Franz. 168; besides Old High German chanta, canneta, Franconian cannada 'carafe, glass bottle, jar, pitcher, vase' (< gand<sup>h</sup>ā).

Maybe alb. kanë 'carafe, glass bottle, jar, pitcher, vase'.

References: WP. I 535, WH. I 154.

Page(s): 351

---

Root / lemma: gang-

Meaning: to mock

Note:

Root / lemma: gang-: 'to mock' derived from the onomatopoeic duplication of Root / lemma: gha gha, ghe ghe, ghi ghi: 'to cackle (of geese)'.

Material: Old Indic gañja-h 'disdain, contempt, derision, ridicule', gañjana-h 'scornful, ridiculing, mocking';

gr. γαγγαίνειν τὸ μετὰ γέλωτος προσπαίζειν Hes.;

Old English canc under ge-canc `derision, ridicule, reprimand' (= Old Indic gañja-h), cancettan `mock', Old Norse kangen-yrðe `mocking words' (Old English cincung `loud laughter', engl. Dialectal kink `laugh loudly' has expressives i, as Modern High German kichern etc.);

perhaps belongs nir. geōin `clamor, din, fuss, noise, pleasure, joy, mockery, jeering' here, if from **ganksni-*, older **gang-sni-*; Middle Irish gēim `bellowing, braying, roar', gēssim `cry', gēsachtach `peacock' could then also belong to it.

The family seems originally onomatopoeic coloring. Similar to onomatopoeic words are Old Indic gúñjati `buzzes, hums', gr. γογγύζειν `grunt, snort', spätgr. γογγύζω `grumble, coo', Old Church Slavic gogъnъ `speaking heavily', russ. gugnati (old) `mumble, murmur', gugnjá `stammerer, stutterer', poln. gęgać, gęgnać `gaggle, cackle' (from the goose), etc. Latin ganniō `to bark, snarl, growl' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), is probably independent onomatopoeic word formation.

Maybe expressive alb. gagaç `stammerer, stutterer', gogësinj `belch, burp', gugat `to sing (pigeon, dove).

References: WP. I 535, WH. I 582 f.

Page(s): 352

---

Root / lemma: garəğ-

Meaning: grim, grievous

Material: Armenian karcr `hard', karcem `I dread, believe';

gr. γοργός `grim, fierce, terrible, wild', Γοργώ `bugbear, spectre, bogeyman', γοργοῦσθαι `become wild (from horses, i.e. get a fright), to be hot or spirited', γοργώψ, γοργωπός `looking terribly' (gr. words assimilated from **γαργό-??*);

Old Irish garg, gargg `rough, wild';

on the other hand Middle Irish grāin `ugliness, disgust, repulsion, loathing, fear, shyness' (**gragnis*), grānda (**gragnodios*) `ugly', cymr. graen `mourning, grief, distress; hideous';

Lithuanian gražóju, gražóti `threaten', Latvian gražuôt `grumble, rumble, be wilful', grēzuôt `threaten' (to Latvian e from a following r s. Endzelin Latvian Gr. 36 f.);

Old Church Slavic groza `horror, dismay, shudder, shiver', Serbo-Croatian gròzá, poln. groza ds., russ. grozá `threat, austerity, severity, thunder-storm, violent weather', Church Slavic groziti 'threaten', sloven. groziti, poln. grozić, russ. grozítʹ ds.; gróznij 'terrible, cruel, savage'.

Maybe alb. kërcënoj 'threaten', kërcej 'jump, dance' Slavic loanwords

References: WP. I 537, Trautmann 95, Leumann Homer. Wörter 154 f.

Page(s): 353

---

Root / lemma: gāu-

Meaning: to rejoice; to swagger

Material: Gr. γηθέω, Doric γᾱθέω 'to rejoice' (from *γᾱFεθέω = Latin gaudeō), γήθομαι, Doric γᾱθομαι ds., Perf. γέγηθα, Doric γέγᾱθα 'be pleased, rejoice'; iō-present γαίω (*γᾱF-ιω) 'I am pleased'; present with ne-Infix (Indo Germanic **ga-né-u-mi*) in γάνυμαι 'to brighten up', wherefore γανυρός 'cheerful', as well as as secondary formations with γαν- as stem γάνος 'brightness, sheen: gladness, joy, pride', γανάω 'shimmer, glimmer, gleam, sparkle', etc., Ionian διη-γανές λαμπρόν; ἄγανός 'mild, gentle, kindly'; γαῦρος 'stout, proud (boasting), exulting in', γαύρηξ 'swaggerer, bragger', γαυριάω 'be minxish, bold, frivolous; impudent', γαυρώ 'make minxish, bold, frivolous; impudent' (ἄγαυρός 'stately, proud' seems hybridization with ἄγαυός 'illustrious, noble' [*ἄγαF-σός], ἄγᾱν 'very' [*ἄγαFᾱv]);

Latin gaudeō (**gāu-ed<sup>h</sup>-eiō*) 'to rejoice, be glad, be joyful, take pleasure, be pleased, delight', gaudium 'inward joy, joy, gladness, delight';

Maybe alb. gëzim (**gaudium*) 'pleasure, joy': Doric γᾱθέω 'to rejoice'.

Middle Irish gūaire 'noble' (**gaurios*); reconverted with metathesis Lithuanian džiaugiuos 'to rejoice' (from **gaudžiúos*);

after Pedersen (Tocharian 109) here Tocharian B kāw- 'lust, desire, crave; seek after', kāwo 'lust, desire, crave; seek after', A kāwas ds., kāwälte 'beautiful'.

References: WP. I 529, WH. I 584.

Page(s): 353

---

Root / lemma: geid-

Meaning: to tickle, stick

Note: ('popular saying')

Material: Armenian kitak `prick, sting, point ', kitvac `embroidery ', kcem `itch, tickle ' (**gidjō*), kcanem (Aor. kic) `sting, bite '; Old Icelandic kitla, Old English citelian (through metathesis engl. tickle), Old Saxon kitilōn, Middle Low German ketelen, Old High German kizzilōn `tickle ', kuzzilōn (with expressive variation i: u).

Maybe alb. gicilonj, gudulis `tickle '.

References: WP. I 552 f.

Page(s): 356

---

Root / lemma: geig-

Meaning: to prick, bite

Material: Osset. änyezun `ferment, leaven, sour ' (Proto-Iranian **ham gaizaya-*), westosset. yizun `become cold, freeze ';

Armenian kc-anem, Aor. 3. Sg. e-kic `prick, bite', kc-u `bitter, rancid';

Old Irish gēr `sharp, sour' (**giġ-ro-*);

Lithuanian gižti `become sour ', gaižūs, gižūs `rancid, bitter, grumpy, surly, sullen ', gaižti `become bitter '; about alb. gjize, gjizë `Ziger, cheese' s. rather Jokl Indo Germanic Jahrb. 18, 152.

References: Lidén KZ. 61, 1 ff.

Page(s): 356

---

Root / lemma: gei-

Meaning: to turn, bend

Note: Only in Root extensions:

Material: Old Indic jihmá-h `crooked, cunning, deceitful, slant, skew, slantwise, crosswise recumbent, stoopedly, squinting '; different above S. 222;

Old Icelandic keikr `with crooked back, with high head and shoulders', Norwegian keik ds., keik m. `bend, turning, crookedness, dislocation, luxation ', Old Icelandic keikia `bend the upper part of the body backward ', Old Icelandic kikna `bend backward ', Danish kei, keitet `left hand '.

geb<sup>h</sup>-:

Latin gibber ` crook-backed, hunch-backed, hump-backed, protuberant '. gibber, -is m. ` hump, hunchback, hunch ', gibbus ` a hunch, hump ' (with expressive Gemination from **gībus*);

Norwegian dial. keiv ` slant, skew, twiddled, twisted, upside down, reversed ', keiva ` left hand', keiv, keiva ` unskillful, clumsy person ';

Lithuanian geibùs ` clumsy, unadept, unskillful ', geibstù, geĩbti ` become weak, collapse, perish ' ; in addition with Anlaut variant gy after Trautmann KZ. 42, 372: Lithuanian gvaibstù, gvaĩbti ` become senseless, unconscious, swoon, faint, blackout ', intens. gváibėti?, Latvian (with dissimilation reduction of u before b, or borrowing from Lithuanian? s. Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 582, 695, 698) gibstu, gibt ` sink, fall, bend down ', gèibstu, gèibt ` perish, die', gēiba ` dizziness, giddiness; swindle, clumsy, weak person', gaība ` foolish woman '.

geim- :

Norwegian dial. keima ` bend askew, hold the head askew, swing, bin und her schweben ', kima ` turn, sway (with joy) '.

geis- :

Old Icelandic keisa ` bend, crook', PN Kīsi, isl. keis ` round belly', Norwegian dial. keis ` movement, curvature ', kīs ` hump, hunchback ', Swedish kesa ` flee in wild escape ', Swedish Norwegian dial. kīsa ` squint, leer, cross one's eyes, blink'. In addition further with gramm. variation Old Frisian kēra, Old Saxon kērian, kierian, Old High German kēran ` turn, twist ' (wherefore the retrograde formation kēr and kēra ` turn, circular movement, spin '), Middle High German kēren, Modern High German kehren, Swiss chīre ` nach einer Seite neigen '. (Different about kēran Scheftelowitz BB. 28, 296, it with Armenian cir ` circle ' combined, wherefore Petersson PBrB. 44, 178 still placed osset. zīlin, zelun ` slue, turn, turn around reverse '.)

Here also with Petersson LUA 1922, 2, 39 ff. Armenian kikel ` crook, bend' (to **kik* < **gisu*??), and russ. dial. žíchatb, žíchatbsja ` bend, give way, yield to, sway ', žichljatb ` make something stagger '?

References: WP. I 545 f., Persson Beitr. 83 ff., WH. I 597.

Page(s): 354-355

Meaning: to plane, flay

Material: Gr. γλάφω `to scrape up, carve from', γλάφυ n. `hollow, cavern', γλαφυρός `hollow, hollowed';

Slavic **globiti* in poln. wy-głobić (**globh-*), imperfect -głabiać `hollow out', sloven. glób-am (-ljem), -ati `hollow out; repair; gnaw', Bulgarian glob m. `eye socket'; russ. globà `crossbar, crossbeam, long shaft, pole', iterative serb. gläb-âm, -ati (**głb-*) `gnaw'; here perhaps after Machek (Slavia 16, 199 f.) as nasalized form Old Bulgarian glōbokъ `deep' and with expressive ch- Old Bulgarian chlēbъ f. `depth, abyss'.

Beside these words leading back to Indo Germanic **glāb<sup>h</sup>-* or in Indo Germanic **glob<sup>h</sup>-*: glb<sup>h</sup>- stands with it under **geleb<sup>h</sup>-*, gelob<sup>h</sup>- compatible **gelb<sup>h</sup>-*, **gob<sup>h</sup>-* in Old Church Slavic žlěbъ, russ. žolob etc. `crib, manger, gully', russ. želobítъ, sloven. žlěbiti `groove, make furrows or channels', and gallorom. gulbia f. `chisel', Old Irish gulban (**gulbīno-*) `sting, prick, bill, beak', abret. golbina `having a beak, hooked, with a crooked point, beaked, with a curved front', acymr. gilb `punch, piercer', gilbin `a point', ncymr. gylf, -in, -ant `bill, beak', acorn. geluin `a beak, bill, snout, muzzle, mouth' (Indo Germanic **gob<sup>h</sup>-*).

References: WP. I 630, WH. I 625, Trautmann 90.

See also: compare though also under gleub<sup>h</sup>-.

Page(s): 367

---

Root / lemma: gel(ə)-3

Meaning: cold

Material: Latin gelū (also gelus, -ūs and gelum, -ī) `coldness, frost', gelidus `cold', gelō, -āre `congeal, freeze'; Oscan γελαν `πάχνην' (Steph. Byz.);

gr. γελανδρόν ψυχρόν Hes. is perhaps incorrect according to (WH. I 867); gallorom. **gelandron* `frost' (Hubschmied VRom. 3, 130) is better with Bertoldi (ZrPh. 56, 187) and Wartburg (see v. **gelandron*) through influence of Latin gelū on gallorom. **calandron* ds. to explain (with mediterr. ending), to Old Irish caile `(white) spot'; again different Specht Dekl. 130; about gallorom. **gelabria* `frost' s. Wartburg s. v. **calabra* and gelabria; Hubschmid Praeromanica 18 ff.

about Latin glacies see below;

Old Norse kala, kōl 'be cold, freeze' (unpers. m. Akk. mik kel), Old English calan ds. (hine or him cælp 'it freezes') with a through reshuffling of a Kaus. **kaljan* = **golejō* 'make cold', whence also the impers. construction with Akk.; Old English ciele m. (nengl. chill) from **kali* 'coldness'; as a participle furthermore Gothic kalds, Old High German (etc.) kalt, Modern High German kalt (in addition Old Norse kelda from **kaltiōn* 'fountain, well, source of water', Finnish loanword kaltio, with ablaut, due to the older form **kul-da-* of participle, Old Norse kuldi m. = Middle Low German külde f. 'coldness'); lengthened grade Old English cōl, Old High German kuoli, Modern High German kühl, whereof Old English cēlan, Old High German kuolen, Modern High German kühlen, Old Norse kōla ds., zero grade Old Norse kul (kol) n. 'chill breeze', kylr m. 'coldness'; with broken Redupl. Indo Germanic **gla-g-* (the base seems to have also been **gelə-*), Old Norse klaki m. 'frozen earth's crust', wherewith Latin glacies 'ice' is to be connected under the assumption, that **glagiēs* was reshaped after aciēs (and other words in -aciēs);

here also Swiss challen 'solidify, congeal (from fat)', Old English cealer, calwer m. 'thick milk', Middle Low German keller ds. ('solidification' is at first cooling off, e.g. from fat); Old High German chalawa, Middle High German kalwe 'shudder, shiver', probably originally 'shiver before showers as before cold'; after Machek (Slavia 16, 195) perhaps here with expressive ch- Old Church Slavic chladъ 'coolness, coldness' (**gol-do-*).

References: WP. I 622, WH. I 585 f., 603, 867 f.

Page(s): 366

Root / lemma: gel-1

Meaning: 'to curl; round, *gland, growth, ball, fathom, arm'

Material: evidence for the unadjusted root form are seldom and partly very doubtful:

Old Indic gula-ḥ, gulī (Lex.), gulikā 'ball, sphere, pearl', gúlma- m., n. 'swelling, lump, tumor, growth, bush' (to -u- before Kons. s. Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 30); with n-suffix Old Indic gunikā (Lex.) 'swelling, lump, growth';

gr. redupl. γαγγλιον n. 'swelling, lump, growth, tumor, pearl';

Latin galla f. 'a gall-apple, gall-nut, small nut-shaped protrusion on trees produced by the gall wasp' as 'spherical outgrowth' from **gel-nā* or **gol-nā*; out of it borrowed Old English gealla, gealloc, Modern High German 'nutgall, small nut-shaped protrusion on trees produced by the gall wasp';

alb. gogëllë `ball, sphere; nutgall, small nut-shaped protrusion on trees produced by the gall wasp ' ( **gel-gal-nā*); older holl. kal `core in apples and pears '; Swedish dial. kalm `cairn, pile of stones set up as a memorial or mark of some kind ';

Old Church Slavic žby (žely) `ulcer', Bulgarian želka `gland, swelling, lump, growth', russ. žolva, žolvúj, želvak `swelling, blister', Czech žluna, žluva `swelling, lump, growth', klr. žolá `groundnut, peanut, goober '; poln. gleń, glon `clump, piece of bread'.

A. guttural extensions:

gel-ġ*:

Gr. γέλγῖς f., Gen. γέλγῖθος (also γέλγιος and -ῖθος) `head of garlic', Pl. γέλγεις `the cloves of garlic' (if not because of ἄγλις, -ῖθος `clove of garlic, head of garlic made up of separate cloves ' = **ἀ-γλιθ-* `from nodule parts, cloves clustered together ' from redupl. **γελ-γλιθ-* dissimilated; yet compare also:) Old Indic grñja-h, grñjana-h `kind of garlic ', perhaps also gr. γέλη Pl. `antiquities ' (if perhaps `round products, little nodules ', compare Modern High German Kurzwaren);

Swedish kälk `marrow in wood' (`marrow globules '), Middle English kelkes `eggs of fish', colk, colke `apple core '.

The consecutive only Germanic (and Celtic?) word groups (Indo Germanic gleġ-, gloġ-?) make no Indo Germanic impression with their expressive intensification and nasalization, so glek- in Old Norse kleggi (**klagjan-*) `haycock, haystack ', nasalized Modern High German Dialectal (siebenbg.) heu-klīng, klāng `haycock, haystack ', klang, klīngē `gravelly shallow place in the river, sandbank'; Old English clīngan `contract, shrink ', engl. cling `cling, stick; adhere ', Old Norse klengiask auf jemand eindringen ' (**cling* '), Middle High German klīngen `climb, ascend, go up, mount ' (with consonant-sharpening Modern High German dial. klinken `cling '), Old High German klīnga, Modern High German Klīngē `narrow gorge, ravine, gulch, gully, canyon ', wherefore with gramm. variation (also Indo Germanic **gle-n-k-*) engl. clough (= Old English **clōh* from **klanh-*) `steep gully, canyon, gorge ', Old High German Clāh-uelde; Old High German klunga `ball (of thread, yarn), tangle, knot ', Demin. klungilīn, Modern High German Klünge ds., Swedish klunga `congested heap, mass ', klānga `climb, ascend ', Old Norse klungr (**klung-ra-*, -ru-) `thornbush, rosehip, dog rose '; with Germanic -k- (partly Indo Germanic g, partly Germanic consonant-sharpening) Old Norse klaki 'frozen earth's crust', klakkr 'lumps, wool lumps, blot, cloudlet, small cloud', Middle High German klak 'spot, blot'; Old English clyccan 'pack, grapple, grasp' (engl. clutch), to Old Frisian klatsie 'spit, pike', Swedish klyka (**klykja*) 'agrafe, hook, clasp, fork';

in addition (?) that in proto Celtic kk weisende Middle Irish glacc, nir. glac 'hand', glacaim 'seize; grasp'; nasalized Norwegian dial. klank and klunk 'clump', Middle High German klungelerf. 'tassel (*mass of tangled hair)', glunkern 'dangle', Modern High German Klunker 'excrement lumps, mucus lumps, slime of the eyes' (from similar meaning of the uncleanness has perhaps derived also Old Norse klæki n. 'disgrace, shame, humiliation', Old English clacn 'insult?');

nnd. klinken 'make ruffles in clothing, pleat, crease, shrivel, shrink due to excess dryness, wrinkle up', klinksucht 'consumption, tuberculosis', Middle High German klinke 'door handle', Old High German klenken (**klankjan*) 'lace, tie, bind', Old English be-clencan 'hold down', engl. clench, clinch '(the fist) clench; enclose; clasp together; hold tightly', Middle High German klank 'loop, noose, sling; trick, intrigue, conspiracy'.

In Indo Germanic gleġ- indicate though probably russ. Church Slavic glez-nъ, -na, -no 'ankle', poln. glozna ds. and lengthened grade russ. glazokъ 'pellet, globule', glazъ 'eye', poln. głaz 'stone, cliff; little stones', głazny 'smooth, skilled, adroit, clever' (compare Berneker 301 m. Lithuanian, Persson Beitr. 792);

Note: russ. glazokъ 'pellet, globule', glazъ 'eye' are compounds of extended Root / lemma: *gel-1: 'to curl; round' into gleġ- + Root / lemma: *okʷ-: 'to see; eye'.

Zupitza (KZ. 36, 236) places Middle High German kluoc(-g) 'smart, sly, cunning, courteous, polite, elegant' (Germanic **k/lōza-*), Middle Low German klōk (Germanic **klōka-*) 'smart, cunning, adroit' to Old Irish glicc (nir. glic proves proto Celtic kk) 'wise, judicious; discreet'; originally 'as a ball so smooth and so movable'??

B. Dental extensions:

gel-t-: at first (as 'intumescence, swelling; puffiness - womb - young of a human or animal while in the womb or egg', as under by Kalb, kilburra): Old Indic jaṭhāram 'belly', jaṭú- 'womb, uterus'; at most Old Indic guṭikā 'pellet, globule, pill, pearl, drinking cup' (rather dial. from guḍikā ds.);

Gothic kilþeif f. 'womb', in-kilþō 'pregnant', Old English cild n. 'kid, child', engl. child.

Maybe alb. Geg cullë 'children'.

Mikkola BB. 21, 225 connects also apparent zero grade Swedish kolla, kulla 'girl; female of different animals' (**kulþ-*) with kilþei, about Old Swedish kolder 'children from a marriage' s. Lidén IF. 19, 335 and root goþ-.

**gle-t-* perhaps in Church Slavic glota 'commotion, uproar, turmoil, tumult, disturbance; crowd, mob, multitude', serb. glōta 'family (wife and children); poor people; weed, wild plant; impurity, dirt'?

Because of the uncertainty of the consecutive Old Indic example, certain recorded word groups only in Germanic (Indo Germanic **gel-d-*, **gle-d-?*) are of dubious Indo Germanic origin:

with the meaning of animal young Old Indic gaḍi-h, gali-h 'young bull' (?);

in addition zero grade Old English colt 'the young of animals', engl. colt 'young male horse, (abundance, fullness)';

Old Icelandic kialta, kilting 'puff, bulge, puffed crease of clothing', Norwegian dial. kult 'wood stump, mountain top, ungainly thick figure' (Swedish also 'half-grown piglet', compare above Old English colt);

nasalized (**glend-*) Old Swedish klinter 'mountain top, mountain summit', Old Icelandic klettr 'rock, cliff', Middle Low German nnd. klint 'rock, cliff', nnd. klunt, klunte 'clump, heap; thick Weib' = Modern High German dial. klunze, nnd. klunter 'clots of ordure or crap, muck' (besides with Germanic d nnd. klunder 'bunch, heap', Norwegian klundra 'knag, knot'); westfäl. klætern (Old Saxon **klātirōn*) 'climb, cling' (actually 'adhere or cling tightly'), nnd. klāteren, klatteren ds., nnd. klāter m. 'sticking dirt'; with ō Middle Dutch holl. cloet, kloet 'stick; round grasp, sword handle' (late Old Norse klot 'sword handle' is loanword from Middle Low German klōt = Modern High German Kloß 'dumpling, lump'); with expressive -tt-: Middle Low German klatte 'rag, cloth' = Modern High German dial. klatz 'smirch, stain, splotch', Middle Dutch klatten 'smudge', Middle High German bekletzen ds., Norwegian Swedish Dialectal klatra 'work sloppily';

besides with expressive dd. nnd. kladde 'smirch, stain, splotch; burdock' (i.e. 'the sticking'); with Dent. + s: Norwegian klessa (klass) 'stick, cling, splash, bang, clap', klessa (klete) 'smudge, pollute', klussa 'smudge, pollute, lisp'; Old Icelandic kless 'lisp'; compare Old Icelandic klasi S. 362.

C. Additional labials:

geleb(h)-, glēb(h)- (: glēb(h)-) and gleb(h)- (: glb(h)-) 'conglobate'.

Latin (probably actually gall.) galba (**geleb<sup>h</sup>-?*), after Sueton gall. name for 'exceptionally rich, filthy rich, outstandingly fat'; gall. **galbo-* 'swelling, calf of the leg, arm' is also probably assumed from galbeus, -eum 'a kind of armband, fillet (worn as an ornament, or for medical purposes) armlet, as a jewellery', perhaps from galbulus 'the nut of the cypresstree', which belongs to the vocalism presumably from **geleb<sup>h</sup>-*;

Old Norse kalfi m. 'calf', kalfabōt 'hip area; hip joint of meat', engl. calf 'calf', Modern High German Dialectal Kalb 'muscle', Old High German wazzarkalb 'dropsy, abnormal collection of fluid in body tissues' ('swelling, tumescence through water'), wherewith (as 'intumescence - womb - fetus', compare engl. in calf, with calf 'pregnant') deckt Old High German kalb, Pl. kelbir 'calf', Old English cealf, calfun, Old Norse kalf 'calf', Gothic kalbō f. 'heifer, young cow, cow that has not had a calf', with æ-grade Old English cilfor-lamb, Old High German kilburra f. 'female lamb';

Maybe alb. kalb 'spoil' : Old High German wazzarkalb 'dropsy, abnormal collection of fluid in body tissues'.

Latin globus m. 'a round body, ball, sphere, globe, heap, clump', lengthened grade Latin glēba f. 'a lump of earth, clod; shred, clot' (out of it borrowed poln. gleba 'clod of earth').

Is glēbō 'of the country, rural, rustic' ('piling up clods '??') Gallic (then ē) or only arisen in Latin part of Gaul?

Old High German klāfra f. 'measure of the stretched arms, fathom' (**glēb<sup>h</sup>-*); ablaut. Old Norse klafi m. 'neck yoke, packsaddle', Middle Low German klave 'neck yoke' (**klaḥan-* 'the pressing together'); Old English clyppan 'hug, embrace, hold tight, wrap the arms tightly around (a person or thing)' (**klupjan* with -lu- as zero grade from -le-), Old Frisian kleppa ds., Swiss chlupfel 'bundle', engl. clasp (**claps-*) 'hug, embrace; hold by the hand; fasten together' (probably also Old Irish glass 'lock, hinge, chateau, castle' from **glabso-*); compare with the same meaning 'to press together (with the arms)' and likewise at best from a heavy root form glēb<sup>h</sup>-: glēb<sup>h</sup>- to explanatory ablaut of the Baltic family of Lithuanian glėbiu, glėbti 'enclose with the arms, embrace' (glėbỹs 'armful, armload, hugging, embrace'), glóbiu, glóbti 'hug, embrace, hold tight, support', Latvian glēbt, glābt 'shield, protect', Lithuanian glabóti 'preserve, guard, save, keep; demand, beg', Latvian glabāt 'protect, preserve, guard, wait, hold on', Old Prussian poglabū 'cuddle' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 621, 623 under 626); perhaps in addition Lithuanian gėlbu, -ėti 'help', gīlbtī 'recover, recuperate', Old Prussian galbimai 1. Pl. Konj. 'we help', pogalbton 'helped, aided, assisted' as **gelēb<sup>h</sup>-* (Trautmann 92);

Slavic **globiq*, **globiti* in serb. z-glōbīm, zglōbiti 'fold, plait, fold up, merge, decree, edict, mandate, dispose, arrange', poln. głobić 'old press, merge, packetize, coalesce' (lengthened grade sloven. glābim, glābiti 'pile, heap, place one on top of other') with Indo Germanic ə or rather o (: Latin globus).

Further with the meaning of 'the clenched, round, klutzy, clumsy, awkward' Germanic **klapp-* (intensive consonant increase) in Old Norse klapp f. 'Knüppelbrücke', Middle Low German klampe ds., Swedish klapper-sten 'round stones for the pavement', Middle High German klapf m. 'cliff top';

Germanic expressives **klabb-* in Norwegian dial. klabb 'adhesive clump, of sticking lumps', Swedish klabb(e) 'clot, chunk, mountain summit in the sea, short, thick boy' (zero grade Old Norse klubba 'club, mace, joint', whence engl. club);

Germanic **klēp-* (compare Latin glēba, Germanic p from express. pp or at most a form with Indo Germanic b) in Old Norse klāp-eygr 'popeyed, wide-eyed, with bulging staring eyes', klāpr an abusive word, insult (perhaps 'clot, chunk') u likewise; about Indo Germanic qlēp- see there; zero grade **kulb-* in Old High German kolbo 'stump, club, mace, joint (as weapon), cudgel, club', Old Norse kolfr 'plant nodules, arrow', kylfi, kylfa 'club, mace, joint'; besides with Germanic -p- ndd. kulp-ōge 'popeyed, wide-eyed, with bulging staring eyes', mrhein. Külpe 'Schlagholz am Dreschflegel', Swedish dial. kulp 'thick person'; Middle English cülpe, nengl. kelp 'salsola (salt herb)'.

Nasalized glemb<sup>h</sup>- (perhaps partly through hybridization from **glēb<sup>h</sup>-* and **glem-*):

Maybe alb. glemb, gjemb 'thorn, sticky thorn, clinging thorn, prickly plant'.

Middle High German klamben `join tightly ', Old Norse klembra `climb, ascend ', Old Icelandic klpmbr `agrafe, hook, clasp ', Middle High German klemberen `cramp, clamp, staple, clip ', Middle High German Modern High German Klammer, engl. clamber `climb, ascend ', actually `clip something to, cramp, clamp ', as also ablaut. Old High German klimban `clamber, climb, ascend ', Old English climban, Middle High German klimben, klimmen `clamber, climb, ascend; pinch, tweak, nip, pack, grapple, grip, seize '; Old Norse klumba `club, mace, joint', klumbu-fōtr `clubfoot, misshapen deformed foot '; with Germanic p: Old Swedish klimper `clump, dumpling, lump ', Old Icelandic kleppr `clump, rocky hill ', Middle High German klimpfen `to press together tightly '; Old High German klampfer `agrafe, hook, clasp ', Middle Low German klampe f. `hook, gangplank, footbridge', nnd. klamp, klampe `clump, clot, chunk' (Modern High German Klampe `agrafe, clasp, hook, clot, chunk' is nnd. loanword, genuine Modern High German Klampfe); Old English clympe `clump', nnd. klumpe `clump' (Modern High German Klumpe(n) is nnd. loanword); poln. głąb, Czech hloub `stalk, stem of a plant '.

glem-

Latin glomus, -eris n. `a clew, ball made by winding, lump dumpling, (as dish, food); ball, tangle, knot ' (**glemos*), glomerāre `clench, clasp together ';

Old Irish glomar `bridle, rein, toggle' (compare S. 360 Middle High German klammer);

Old English climman `climb, ascend ', Middle Low German klimmeren ds., Middle High German klimmen (partly with mm from mb), also `make narrow, limit, restrict' (Modern High German beklommen), Old English clam(m) `band, strap, handle, grasp, manacle', Old High German klamma `restriction, constriction, clamp, glen, mountain valley, gulch, canyon ', Modern High German Klamm, Kaus. Old High German Modern High German klemmen, Old Frisian klemma, Old English beclemman `clamp', Middle High German klam `narrow, dense', Modern High German (Low German) klamm `steif (krampf়ig) vor Kälte ', zero grade Norwegian dial. klumra `work with stiff and frostbitten hands '; with erweit. **klam-d-*: Old Norse klanda, klandra `disparage, anger, denigrate, annoy, try to steal';

Maybe alb. (**k*)lemcē `womb, uterus (of animals)' : Gothic kilþeif. `womb', in-kilþō `pregnant' [common alb. gl- > l-].

Lithuanian glomó-ju, -ti ` hug, embrace, hold tight '; with -ĝ- extended Lithuanian glemžiù, glemžti ` snatch, snatch up; crumple ', Latvian glemzt ` eat slowly, babble, chatter nonsense '; further glēm-, glēm- with older meaning-development to ` stick together, mucilaginous mass ':

gr. γλάμων `blear eyed, bleareyed ', etc. (Latin glamae loanword);

alb. nglomë, ngjomë `humid, wet, fresh, young' (**glēmo-*);

Old Norse klām `dirty speech ', engl. clammy `humid and sticky, clingy, cool and damp ', East Prussian klamm `humid and sticky, wet';

Lithuanian glēmės, glėmes, glėmos f. pl. `tough slime ', Latvian glēmas, glēmi `slime, mucus', glūmt `become slimy, smooth ', glums `smooth ' (also glemzt `chat, prate thoughtlessly ', glemža `babbler ', compare z. meaning Latvian gleīsts `babbler ': glīst `become slimy '); about Lithuanian glėimės see below S. 364.

Maybe alb. (**g*)lemzë `hiccup, involuntary spasms ': Lithuanian glemža `babbler' [common alb. g/- > /-]

D. g(e)l-eu-, partly with further consonantal derivative:

Old Indic glāu-ḥ f. `globular object, ball, clenched mass ', npers. gulūle `ball';

gr. γίγ-γλυ-μος m. `a hinge joint: a joint in a coat of mail, bone joint, hinge ';

Old Irish glō-śnáthe, gláo-śnáthe `a linen thread, string, line, plumb-line, a measure, standard ' (literally `bale cord ');

Old Norse klē m. (**klew-an-*) `Webstein ', Old English clyne n. `metal lumps ' (**klu-n-*), Swedish kluns m. `clump', isl. klunni `klutzy, clumsy person'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old High German kliuwa, kliwa `ball, tangle, knot ', kliuwi, kliwi `ball, tangle, knot ' (Demin. Middle High German kliuwelīn, dissimilated Modern High German Knäuel `ball, tangle, knot'), Old English clíewen `thread knot ' (engl. claw); zero grade Middle Low German klūwen, holl. kluwen `ball, tangle, knot '; in addition with lengthened grade and meaning-development `the gripping: claw ' the family of Germanic **klēwā*: Old High German klāwa `claw, talon, nail ', Middle High German klāwe, Middle Low German klā `claw, talon, nail, hoof, Old Frisian klē, wherefore with ablaut das verb **klawjan* (has changed **klawan*) `scratch, scrape, itch with the nails ', Old High German klauuenti `to itch or long for a thing, for blows, stripes, for pleasure, to be wanton', Middle High German klöuwen `scratch, scrape', Old English clawan = Old Norse klā `rub, scratch, scrape' (Old Norse klæja `itch' neologism after the 3. Sg. klær = **klawið*), wherefore **klawiPan-* m. in Old Norse klāði m. `itchiness, itching, scratching', Old English clæweða ds., Old High German glouuida (lies clouuida) `scabies'; from the verb derives the abbreviation from Old English clawu f. `claw, nail, hoof' (engl. claw) and clēa f. (engl. Dialectal clea) ds. (the last = **klaw* from clawu), as well as Old High German klōa `claw, nail'; Old High German cluwī `pliers, tongs'; Old Icelandic klō f. `claw, nail, hook'; Old Icelandic klunna `attach tightly', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), compare Old English clyne, Swedish kluns `clump', Old English clynian `swathe, wrap up'; probably Old Irish glūn `knee' = alb. Geg gluni, Pl. glunj, glu-ri (Geg), gju-ri (Tosc) `knee' (with Indo Germanic **ĝenu-* `knee' barely as dissimilation form compatible to **ĝnū-n-* because of the Guttural difference); (similar to alb. kjuhem `be called', gjuanj, kjuanj `name' see Root / lemma: Rleu-1, Rleue-: *Rlū- : to hear, cry).

presumably Lithuanian gliaūmas `smooth diminution of the whetstone', gliaumūs `smooth, slippery', Latvian glāūms, glums `slimy', if `slimy = sticking together, balling, massing-together', compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 622; compare with -s- Norwegian klyse (**klūsion-*) `slimy clump', that from Middle Low German klūs `mass', nnd. `ball, tangle, knot, confusion, mass', nnd. klūster `bundle, grape, type of fruit which grows in clusters on a vine', Old English clūster, clýster n. ds. are not to be distinguished; compare from a root form **gle-s-* Old Norse klasi `lump of berries or fruit, mass'.

extension with -t-:

gr. γλουτός (τα γλουτά) `buttock', τὰ γλούτια `medullary tubercles near the pineal gland of the brain';

sloven. glūta, glúta `growth, swelling natured tumefaction, tree gnarl' (Berneker 309); changing through ablaut Old English clūd m. `a mass of rock, hill', engl. cloud `cloud' (`cloud bundle'), compare with gemination (**kludda-*) Old English clodd (engl. clod) `clod, lump of earth'.

extension with -d-:

Middle Low German klōt m. `clump; testicle', Middle High German klōz, Modern High German Kloß, Old English cléot, engl. cleat `clump, wedge'; changing through ablaut

Middle Low German klūt, klūte 'clod, lump of earth', East Frisian klūt 'clump, piece, fragment' (in further development of latter meaning also :) Old English clūt m., engl. clout 'rag; metal sheet', late Old Norse klūtr 'rag, clump'; with expressive gemination (**klutta-*) Old English clott (engl. clot) 'clump' = Middle High German kloz, Modern High German Klotz.

Perhaps here Lithuanian glaudžiù, glaūsti, Latvian glaūst 'mache etwas eng anschmiegen', glaudūs 'anschmiegend, dicht anliegend', glúdoju 'liege angeschmiegt da' (compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 622 f.); russ. glúda 'clump, dumpling, lump'.

Maybe alb. glasë 'droppings' extension with -b<sup>h</sup>-:

syld. Frisian klēpi 'kiss', russ. glýba 'clump, block', glýba zemli 'clod of earth' (Berneker 310; compare to -b- under **gle-b-*), perhaps Lithuanian glāūbti 'squeeze, caress the breast', glaubstýti 'caress'.

E. glei-, partly with further, consonantal derivative (esp. glei-t-, -d-, glei-b<sup>h</sup>-; glei-m-) 'glue, put grease on, oil, smear', but probably originally derived from gel- 'clench, clasp together'; after Specht Dekl. 144 basic meaning 'gleaming' (to ġel-, gel-?); nominal: gli-jo-, -no-, -tu-, gloi-uo-.

Gr. γλία f. 'glue' (Slavic **glъjъ*, see below), γλίνη ds. (:Slavic glěnъ, glina, Old High German klenan, Old Irish glenim see below), γλοιός 'any glutinous substance, gluten, gum, generally, oily sediment in baths', γλοιός 'humid and sticky, wet' (*γλοιFός: Latvian gliens, Slavic **glěnъ*, see below), γλιπτόν γλοιόν Hes. (*γλιτFός: Lithuanian glitūs etc.), γλίχομαι 'cling to, strive after, long for', γλίσχρος 'glutinous, sticky, clammy, sticking close, importunate, penurious, niggardly, of things, mean, shabby, of buildings, of painting, carefully, with elaborate detail', (presumably with -po- from a **γλίσχω* from **γλίχ-σκω*);

Latin glūs, -tis, glūten, -inis n. 'sticky oil; slime, gluten', glūtinō 'glue together' (ū from oi, compare that of the changing by ablaut:) glis, -tis 'fat dormouse', glittūs 'soft, delicate, tender, yielding' (basic form **gleitos* with intensive t̥);

Maybe nasalized alb. (**nglīt*) ngjit 'to stick to, climb, cling': Lithuanian gliejù, gliēti 'smear', refl. gliētis 'stick, glue, remain', alb. glisht 'finger (to grasp, cling)'.

Old Irish glenim (**gl̥-nā-m̥*), cymr. glynaf 'to cleave or stick to a thing'; in addition further Old Irish fordíuclainn 'gobbles, engulfs, devours', after Pedersen KG. II 540 from for-dí-uks-glen- to **glenaid* (from **gl̥-nā-t̥*); also bret. geot 'grass' from **gel-tā* (Marstrander Prés. nasalized 30 f.);

Old English clæg (engl. clay), Middle Low German klei 'loam, clay', Danish klæg 'glutinous, thick, loamy slime, mud' (Germanic **klajja-*; in addition nnd. kleggen 'climb, ascend'); changing through ablaut Norwegian dial. kli 'slime, mud, loam, clay' (the derivative Middle Low German klick 'earth loam' probably after slick 'slick, film of oil floating on top of water, silt, earth loam'?), Old High German klenan 'stick, glue, smudge' (= Irish glenim, see above, compare also nominal γλίνη etc.; is klenan as stem V. in the converted e-row, hence also Old Norse klunna 'attach tightly?'); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), zero grade Old Norse klina 'smear' (**klīnian*, schw. V.), with oi Norwegian kleina ds.;

Lithuanian gliejù, gliėti 'smear', refl. gliėtis 'stick, glue, remain';

Slavic **glъjbъ* in russ. glej 'clay, loam', poln. glej 'muddy, sludgy ground' (: gr. γλία; extended russ. Dialectal glěkъ 'mucus, lymph, serum, clear fluid which separates from the blood during coagulation' from **glъ-kъ*);

Maybe alb. glak, gjak 'blood'

gleb<sup>h</sup>- (Slavic equivalents see below); an deducible also from Indo Germanic **glei-p-*.

Old High German klēbēn 'stick, glue, adhere, be stuck, be stuck up', Old Saxon klībōn, Old English clifian, cleofian 'stick, glue, attached, be linked', Old English clibbor 'sticking, adhesive', zero grade Old High German klīban 'adhere, stick, glue, cling', Old Saxon biklīban ds., Old English clīfan 'stick, adhere, cling', Old Norse klīfa 'climb, ascend (pin, clinch, attach oneself)', Middle Dutch clīven ds.; Old High German klība, Old Saxon klīva, Old English clīfe 'burdock'; with -oi- Old High German kleiben 'clamp, fasten, stick, fix (make stick, glue)', Modern High German kleiben 'stick, glue, paste, cause to adhere'; Old English clæfre (**klaiḃriōn-*), Middle Low German klāver, klēver 'clover, plant having leaves with three leaflets'; here also Old Norse kleiff., klif n. 'steep hill', Old English clif n., Middle Low German klif 'cliff', Old High German klep (-b-) 'forelands, promontory', Middle Dutch, Middle Low German klippe f. 'crag, cliff' (out of it Modern High German Klippe as 'smooth rock', as Old Irish sliab 'mountain' to root **sleib-* 'glide, slide'); to what extent occurred besides **gle-m-b*<sup>h</sup> also a nasalized form from **glei-b*<sup>h</sup>- in Old English Old High German klimban 'clamber, climb, ascend', is unclear;

Old Church Slavic u-glbb'q` 'get stuck', Aor. ugl̃bbq` 'fixed', uglebb` (e = ь) 'fix or plant in', changing through ablaut (**o*) russ.-Church Slavic uglěbl'evati` 'fasten, implant, drive in, affix', and (**e*) serb. glīb` 'ordure' (Berneker 310).

glei-d- in Middle Irish glōed` 'glue', Old English clāte f. 'burdock', clīte f. 'coltsfoot, herb (Tussilago Farfara), whose leaves and root are employed in medicine to treat coughs', engl. dial. clote, clite, cleat` 'burdock', clite` 'glue, slime, mud' (: Latvian glīdēt` 'become slimy', compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 626, 627).

with m-formants: Old English clām` 'viscous material, loam, clay', wherefore Old Norse Kleima` 'name of a giantess (**clod*, heap?)', Old English clæman` 'smear, daub, tallow, lubricate', Old High German chleimen` 'glue, attach with glue, paste, size';

Latvian gliemezis, gliems, glieme` 'snail, mussel'; Lithuanian glėimės` 'mucus', glimūs` 'mucilaginous, of the sticky substance from plants; mucinous, slimy'; Latvian glāīma` 'joke, flattery, insincere compliments, excessive praise', glāīmuôt` 'joke, flatter, caress' (compare Norwegian dial. kleima` 'smear, daub, tallow, lubricate : caress'); Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 621, 628 f.; Trautmann 92; about Lithuanian glēmės see above S. 361;

Slavic **glěmyždžь* in Czech hlemýžď` 'snail'.

with n-forms (see above γλίνη etc.) russ.-Church Slavic glěnъ` 'mucus, tough dampness', glina` 'clay';

glei-t- in Old English ætclīpan` 'stick, adhere', zero grade cliðā, clioðā m. 'plaster, wound dressing', Old English cliðe` 'burdock' ('the sticking'), Old High German kleda, kletta, Dutch klis, klit` 'burdock', Modern High German klettern; also probably Middle High German kleit, Modern High German Kleid, Old English clāð ds.; Middle High German klīster` 'paste, glue, dough', nisl. klīstra` 'paste, cause to adhere, stick' (as **gleit-tro-* here or with Germanic forms -stra- from the root form **kľ-*, Indo Germanic glei-); Norwegian kleisa` 'stick, glue; (stick, glue with the tongue =) lisping or impure, unclean talk', Old Norse kleiss ī māle` 'stammering, stuttering, spluttering'.

Lithuanian glītūs` 'smooth, humid and sticky', glytė` 'nasal mucus, pl. isinglass, form of gelatin obtained from fish products and used in the production of glue and jellies, fish glue', Latvian glīts` 'smooth, neat nice, pretty; lovely, kind'; Latvian glīstu, glīdu, glīst` 'be and become slimy', glīdēt` 'become slimy', gleīsts` 'babbler'; s. Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 624, 627; compare above S. 363 gr. γλιπτόν; perhaps in russ. (etc.) glistъ, glistá 'worm, earthworm, tapeworm' (or to Modern High German gleiten; Berneker 304);

Maybe alb. glisht, glishta Pl. '(smooth) finger, clinging finger' : russ. (etc.) glistъ, glistá 'worm' [compare Old Irish glūn 'knee' = alb. Geg gluni, Pl. glunj, glu-ri (Geg), gju-ri (Tosc) 'knee'] with μ-formants: Germanic **kloiwa-*, Old High German klēo-, klē 'clover, plant having leaves with three leaflets' (after the sticky juice, sap the bloom, blossom?) and **klīwōn-*, Middle Low German klīe, Old High German klīwa, klīa, Modern High German Kleie f. (if with Indo Germanic ī, so ablaut equally with Latvian glīve 'mucus').

Lithuanian glėivės f. Pl. 'mucus', Latvian glēvs 'tenacious as mucus, slack' (if with ē from Indo Germanic **ǵ[ī]?*; about Lithuanian glėmės see above S. 361 under glen-), Latvian glievs 'slack' (= γλοιός), glīve 'mucus, green mucus on to the water' (: Old High German klīwa, see above);

Slavic **glěvъ* (: Latvian glīvs, γλοιός) in russ. dial. glenvъ m., glévá f. 'mucus of fish', poln. gléwieć (besides gliwieć) 'spoil (of cheese)', changing through ablaut klr. klýva 'Beefsteak fungus, Oak-tongue (a type of mushroom, species of mushroom)', serb. gljiva 'type of mushroom, fungus';

References: WP. I 612 ff., WH. I 577 f., 580, 606 f., 608 f., 611 f., 617, 867 f., Trautmann 92.

Page(s): 356-364

---

Root / lemma: gel-2 and g<sup>w</sup>el-

Meaning: to devour

Note: the form with g<sup>w</sup> presumably after Osthoff IF. 4, 287, Zupitza gutturals 86 through hybridization from gel- with g<sup>w</sup>er-.

Material:

A. Certainly gel- in: Old Irish gelid 'consumes, eats, grazes', gaile 'stomach'; acorn. ghel, cymr. gel, bret. gelaouen 'bloodsucker, leech', Old Irish gelit ds. (participle f. in -ḡtī);

Old High German kela, Old English ceole 'throat, gorge, ravine, gulch, prow, bow of a ship' (**kelōn-*), ceolor, Old High German celur m. 'gullet'; Old Icelandic kjǫlr m. (**kelu-*) 'the keel of a ship', Middle Low German kel, kil, engl. keel ds.; with g-extension Old High German kelah, -uh 'throat infection', Old Norse kjalki m. 'mandible, lower jaw bone, jaw (also hand sledge)'; zero grade Danish kulk 'gullet, throat', Middle Low German kolk, kulk, Old Frisian kolk m. 'water hole' (Modern High German Kolk), Old English cylcan, Modern High German Dialectal kölken, kolkse 'belch, spit', as Latvian gulgātis 'belch, vomit' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 678), wherewith slovak. g/g 'gulp, pull' perhaps is connected (onomatopoeic word?).

compare with other extension Swedish dial. kulp 'gulp', Norwegian kulp 'water hole', nnd. kolpen, kölpsen 'throw open, open quickly and forcibly; eruct, belch'.

Maybe alb. qelb 'pus': Old High German kelah, -uh 'throat infection'

B. Certainly g<sup>w</sup>el- only in Gr.: δέλεαρ, -ατος 'bait' (*δέλε-Fap); besides δειλαρ (Callim.) from *δέλ-Fap from the monosyllabic basis, and Aeolic βλήρ from *βλη-Fap from the heavy root form **g<sup>w</sup>(e)lē-*; δέλε-τρον 'bait', δέλος n. ds.; βλωμός 'morsel, mouthful, bread' (**g<sup>w</sup>lō-*); κα-βλέ-ει, κατα-βλέ-θει καταπίνει Hes. from the root form **g<sup>w</sup>(e)le-*, also βλέορον (correctly βλέθρον?) βάθος, δεσμωτήριο Hes. ('βάραθρον', Fick BB. 29, 196), βλέ-τυες αἱ βδέλλαι Hes.; compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 519; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

in guttural ambiguous: Latin gula (**g<sup>w</sup>elā?*) f. 'the gullet, weasand, throat'

Maybe Occitan gola 'mouth': alb. (**gola*) gojë 'mouth' a Latin loanword.

compare in vowel Armenian klanem, Aor. 3. Sg. ekul 'devour, swallow up, engulf, consume, gobble up, eat hastily', whereas -u- after all could be a result of Labiovelars; **g<sup>w</sup>l-tó-s* based on **glut-ós*, would be assumed from Old Church Slavic **glъtati* (russ. głotátъ) 'swallow, gulp', **glъtъ* 'gullet', russ. głot, głotók 'gulp, mouthful', Czech hlít, compare also Latin **gluō*, the base of ingluviēs 'throat, voraciousness, appetite, gluttony, greediness', glūtus 'gullet', glūtiō 'swallow, devour', glūt/tō, -ōnis 'gormandizer, gourmand, voracious eater'.

Maybe alb. (**glotit*) gëlltit 'swallow' a Slavic loanword.

Maybe alb. (**g<sup>w</sup>elā*) gjellë 'dish, food' [common alb. shift / > //].

References: WP. I 621, WH. I 612 f., 625 f., Trautmann 93.

Page(s): 365

---

Root / lemma: gem-

Meaning: to grab, grip; be full

Note: elaborated Persson Beitr. 78 ff., 933 m. Lithuanian Material: Armenian čim, čem 'bridle, rein', čmlem 'push, press together';

gr. Aor. γέντο 'he grasped' (*γεμ-το), ὕγ-γεμος συλλαβή. Σαλαμίνιοι Hes., ἀπό-γεμε ἄφελκε. Κύπριοι Hes., ὄ-γμος 'furrow in ploughing, swath, , swathe in reaping, strip of cultivated land, vast orbit of the sun, of a hippopotamus, wrinkled old age, row (of teeth) ' (see also under aġ- 'drive, push'), redupl. presumably γάγγαμον, γαγγάμη 'small round net, esp. for oystercatching'; γέμω 'be filled, packed full', γεμίζω 'fill full of, load or freight with, pack full, load', γέμος 'the meat parts filling the body', γόμος m. 'shipload, cargo, freight, load' (γόμος ζωμός Hes., perhaps a mash for stuffing, fattening?);

Umbrian gomia, kumiaf 'gravidās' (out of it Latin gumia, -ae m. f. 'a glutton, gourmand gormandizer, gourmand, voracious eater, devourer', actually 'obese person'), probably also gemō, -ere 'sigh, groan, moan' as 'be pressed emotionally, have the heart full' (= γέμω 'be full');

Middle Irish gemel, cymr. gefyn 'chain, series of metal rings which are linked together; shackles, gyve, manacles, handcuff; pastern, part of a horse's foot between the fetlock and hoof';

Old English cumbol n. 'wound, swelling, lump, growth', Norwegian kumla 'clump; knead, compress', Old Norse kumla 'squeeze'; s-extension Norwegian kams 'dumpling, lump', kamsa 'knead, stir, mix', kumsa 'mixture'; doubtful, if in addition with labial extension (there only Germanic) Old English cimb, cimbe 'connection, joint, point of connection (between limbs)', Swedish dial. kimb(e) 'stave (of a cask)', Old Norse kim-bull 'bundle', Middle Low German kimmel 'toggle', kimme (mm from mb) 'frame, edge, border', etc. compare also geneb<sup>h</sup>- S. 378 f.;

Maybe alb. kumbull 'plum, round fruit'

Latvian gūmstu, gūmt 'snatch; attack', reflex. 'bow, bend oneself'; Lithuanian gūmulas, gumulỹs, gūmuras (besides gūb-) 'clump, ball, tangle, knot', o-grade gāmalas (besides gāb-) 'snow ball, piece of bread, meat'; borrowing from Poln. is possible for Lithuanian gumulis, gumulė 'goat, cow without horns - actually, with lump instead of horns-, also hen without tail' because of poln. gomoty 'hornless', Czech homolý ds.;

Old Church Slavic žьmъ, žęti 'compress, press, jam, constrict, squeeze, pack', žętelъ 'dog-collar, wooden collar worn by prisoners, collar as an ornament', klr. žmeňa 'handful'; russ.-Church Slavic gomola 'mash, mush, porridge, gruel, soft mixture, clump', serb. gòmolja 'cheese lumps', sloven. gomòt, Gen. -óta 'crowd in a heap, confusion', Czech hmota (**gъmota*), old also homota 'cloth, fabric, material, matter, substance; stuff'.

References: WP. I 572 ff., 585, WH. 588 f.

Page(s): 368-369

---

Root / lemma: geneb<sup>h</sup>-, gendb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: a piece of wood

Material: Only Germanic, hence probably barely Indo Germanic origin.

It concerns probably two different word groups:

1. Germanic kamb-, kumb- 'clot, chunk, clump, block, lump, cut-off piece of wood '.

Old High German kembil 'chain block ', kamp 'a (wooden) fetter or shackle, for the feet ', Old Norse kumbr 'block of wood ' with Germanic -p-: Middle High German kumpf 'truncated, chopped down, cut down, cut off, dull', engl. chump 'block of wood ' (anlaut from chop), Norwegian dial. kump 'clump', Norwegian Danish kamp 'brow, edge of a hill or cliff ', Old Norse koppusteinn, Danish kampe-sten 'Rollstein ' etc. compare also under gem-.

2. Germanic knab-, knabb-, knap-, knapp- (expressive gemination) 'peg, plug, stick, penis, knave, boy'.

With -b-: Modern High German dial. knabe 'peg, bolt ', Old High German knabo, Modern High German Knabe 'boy ', Old English cnafa ds., from which engl. cnave 'knave '; Old Norse knefill 'shaft, pole, picket, pole, stick', Old High German knebil, Middle High German knebel 'toggle, ankle ' (also 'rascal, villain, scoundrel ', as also Norwegian knebel), Middle Low German knevel 'short, thick transom, toggle ' and 'twisted moustache point ' (Modern High German 'small pointed beard '), Swedish dial. knavel 'thin shaft, pole'; with -bb-: Swedish dial. knabbe 'tubers, clump', also 'stocky fellow, bovine animal, bull '; knabb 'peg, plug' (Norwegian 'brow, edge of a hill or cliff '); with -p-: Old English cnapo, Old Saxon knapo 'young man, husband, servant', Swedish dial. knape 'peg, plug' and 'knot'; with -pp-: Modern High German dial. Knappe 'foot of a bench ', Old High German knappo 'youngling, knave, boy', Modern High German Knappe, Swedish dial. knappe 'peg, plug, block of wood '; sometimes are above forms of the derivatives from gn-eb<sup>h</sup>- 'to press together' (above S. 370) barely to make a distinction; compare above (see 370) Old Norse knappr etc.;

Old English cenep, Old Frisian kenep, Old Norse kanpr 'whisker, moustache' (Germanic **kanipa-*), wherefore probably Middle Low German kenneve 'neck block', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), mnl. kanef-been 'maxilla, jaw, upper jawbone' are probably contaminated somehow with ġenu- 'chin' (under S. 381 f.).

References: WP. I 585 f., Martinet Gémination 117 f., 196.

Page(s): 378-379

---

Root / lemma: gengh-

Meaning: to wind; to weave

Note: only Germanic and Slavic

Material: Old Norse kinga 'pectoral, chest decoration, brooch, pin, clasp', probably to kengr (**kangiz*) m. 'bay, bend, hook', kǫngur-vāfa 'spider' (Old English gangelwæfre ds., reshaped after gangan), Middle High German Modern High German dial. kanker 'spider', Finnish (from dem Germanic) kangas 'web, webbing, strong cloth or fabric, net-like weave', Swedish Dialectal kang 'droopy slender branch', kång (esp. from horses) 'agile, lively, excited, aroused' (actually 'spinning violently'), kynge 'bundle', Old Norse kǫngull 'bundle of berries';

Maybe alb. kungull 'pumpkin'

Finnish (from dem Germanic) kinkko, kinkon 'bundle'; in addition compare also those mentioned words under **gong-* 'clump' as Middle Low German kinke, see there;

Old Church Slavic gažvica 'a long, slender, flexible shoot or branch', sloven. gôž 'strap', serb. gužva 'twig, shoot, basket or braid from plaited twigs', russ. gužb 'twig used for tying up, rope, cable', Czech houžev, poln. gażwy Pl. 'strap of a flail'.

References: WP. I 587 f., Petersson IF. 24, 265.

Page(s): 380

---

Root / lemma: geng-, gong-

Meaning: lump

Material: Gr. γόγγρος 'conger-eel, tubercular disease in olive-trees' (out of it Latin gonger, conger ds.), γογγρώνη 'swollen neck gland', perhaps γόγγων μωρός Hes. ('fat, obese and stupid?'), γογγύλος 'round' (-ύλος suffix as in στρογγύλος, ἀγκύλος; compare also Lithuanian gungulys 'ball'), γογγυλίσ, γογγύλη 'turnip', γιγγίς, -ίδιον 'a kind of beet, turnip ' (assimilated from *γεγγί-; the reminiscence in Lithuanian žinginis 'a plant bog arun, Calla palustris' and the Old Indic flower names jingini, jhiñjhikā are certainly coincidental);

Latin gingīva f. (mostly Plur.) 'gums', further formations from **gengā* 'swelling, blister, hump, hunchback ';

Old Norse kǫkkr 'ball' (**gongu-s*; against it derives Old High German kankur, Modern High German Kanker 'malignant growth, cancer' from Latin cancer 'cancerous ulcer, cancerous growth'), also Old Norse vatr-kakki m. (**gong-*) 'bucket; pail'.

In Germanic perhaps (?) cognate words for 'coil, bind, wind, bend':

Middle Low German kinke, Norwegian dial. kink(e) 'coil by a rope', kink also 'small bend, contemptuous movement of the head', Middle Low German kinke also 'sinuous snail house', Norwegian dial. kank 'gyration, whirling, turning, rotation, circular movement, spin, knot in the thread, unwillingness', West Flemish konkel 'whirl, maelstrom, whirlpool, eddy' (but Old High German kunkala, konakla, Modern High German Kunkel 'distaff (= staff for holding flax, wool, etc., in spinning)' derives from Middle Latin conucla, Demin. from colus); s. also under gengh- S. 380;

Lithuanian gūnga 'hump, hunchback, ball, clump' (out of it Latvian gūņģis 'curvature, belly'), gungulys 'ball', gūngu, gūngti 'crook oneself', gūnginti 'go slowly, from a humped going person';

maybe alb. gungë 'hump, hunchback'

besides with palatal (**gonġ-*, g<sub>u</sub>nġ-):

Baltic **gunž-* in gūžys 'crop from birds, Adam's apple, head of the femur; cabbage head', gūžiū, gūžti 'conglobate, bundle up; sit down to the earth (from the chicken which spreads out the wings)', gūštà 'lair, camp, nest of a chicken, a goose'; Old Prussian gunsix 'swelling, blister' (Lithuanian gūzas, gūzikas 'hump, hunchback, gland, knag' from Poln.);

Maybe alb. (**gunsa*) gusha 'neck, Adam's apple'

Slavic **gqz-* (also **guz-* with u from Indo Germanic geu-ġ-, see below geu-1) in serb. gūz 'buttock', russ. guz, guzá, guzó 'the thick end of the sheaf, a beam', gúzka 'backside, tail, rump', poln. old gqz, gqż 'tuber', gezić się 'crook oneself' (with u nowadays guz `swelling, blister, hunch ', guza ` buttocks '), sloven. góza f. `buttock, backside' (with u. gúza ` buttocks, hunch '); participle Perf. Pass. **gqstb* (**gnġ-to-*) in Serbo-Croatian gúst, russ.-Church Slavic gustb, russ. gustój, poln. gęsty `thick, dense'.

Because of sloven. poln. u and the Baltic -un- (> -ū-) forms (which would perhaps be normal however, as reduced grade colored in o-grade **gonġ-*) assumes Persson Beitr. 937 for the Slavic mixture from **gong-* and **geuġ-*, guġ- (extension from geu- `crook', see there), compare isl. kjuka `ankle', Norwegian kjuka `knag, knot, spigot ' etc. and for Lithuanian gùžas `knag' and for Baltic gunž-, gūž- formation from such nasalized **gu-n-ġ-* (at most also **gūġ-*), since Baltic forms with lengthened grade **gonġ-* are absent. Also those in velares g ending Baltic words, as Lithuanian gùnga, could be assigned to a parallel extension **geu-g-*, compare under geu-1: Lithuanian gugà ` bump in saddle, hump, hunchback ', gaūgaras ` acme, apex, summit ', etc.

References: WP. I 637 ff., WH. I 601, Trautmann 101 f.

Page(s): 379-380

---

Root / lemma: gen-

Meaning: to pinch, pluck, press, etc..

Note: (Persson Beitr. 88 f.); therefrom are gnegh-, gneig-, gner-, gnes-, gneus- only Germanic

Material: 1. gn-eb<sup>h-</sup>:

Gr. perhaps γνάπτω ` bend, make curved; wind; arch, make arched, make vaulted; incline, bow ' (formal as in the meaning but influenced through κάπτω);

Old Norse knafa `sodomize', compare `compress, squeeze women'; with pp: holl. knep ` joining (**pressing, squeezing*), narrowly, brief, fast ', ndd. knep `short, spare, small' (out of it Modern High German knapp), Norwegian knapp `narrow, short, concise', with bb: knabbe ` pinch, cut off'; further with the meaning ` fold up the jaws ' and ` snap one's fingers ' and out of it deriving sound suggestions of Swedish knäppa ` crack, snap, clink ', holl. knappen `break, crack, creak', ndd. knappern, knuppem ` crunch, nibble ', Modern High German knabbern `bite, gnaw '; finally as `the crushed, clenched, rounded ' Old Norse knappr ` bump, bulge, gnarl, handle, knob ', Old English cnæpp ` mountaintop (bulging); brooch, pin, clasp ' (from ` nub, button, knop, knob '), ndd. knep(p) ` mountain top, tableland, hill, plateau, elevation, heel of the boot';

Maybe alb. Geg (**knappen*) thembën 'heel' [common alb. k- > s- > th-].

ndd. knappen 'cut off, shorten; live briefly'; from Slavic perhaps here poln. gnębić, old gnąbić (with secondary nasal vowel as a result of preceding n) 'press, distress, maltreat, stir, tease, irritate'; compare also geneb<sup>h</sup>-, S. 378 f.

2. gnegh-:

Swedish knagg 'knot, snag', Middle English Middle Low German knagge 'snag, thick piece'; with Germanic kk: Old Norse knakkr 'foot (at tables, chairs), footstool (foot block)'. Here also Old High German kneht, Modern High German Knecht, Old English cniht 'knafe, boy, youngling, servant, warrior' (**kneh-ta-*, compare to meaning Knabe, Knebel, to -t-suffix Modern High German Bavarian knüchtel 'cudgel, club, bludgeon').

3. gn-eib<sup>h</sup>-:

Gr. γνίφων 'skinfint, scrooge, cheapskate, curmudgeon' (if not because of older recorded Κνίφων, Meisterhans-Schwyzler 74, with secondary anlaut softening, so that with Old Norse hnippa 'bump, poke' to the parallel root **ken-*, kn-eib(h)-);

Old Norse kneif 'kind of pliers', knīfr, Old English cniḥ 'knife', Modern High German dial. kneif 'knife'; besides with Germanic pp, p: Middle Low German knīp, Modern High German dial. kneipf 'knife', Norwegian Dialectal knīpa, Middle Low German knīpen (out of it Modern High German kneifen figurative) 'nip, squeeze tightly between two surfaces, pinch, break off by pinching, squeeze, press' (partly also 'be thrifty, stingy; run short, be used up, be exhausted, running out of; pinch; run away'; s. similar under gneb<sup>h</sup>-), Low German knippen 'cut, clip', Modern High German knippsen, Low German knipperig 'stingy, fugal, spare, thrifty', Modern High German Kniff (also = thievish, sneaky trick), Middle Low German knippen 'blink, wink the eye, wink';

Lithuanian gnýbiu, gnýbti, Iterat. gnáibau, gnáibyti 'pinch (with the fingers or tongs)', besides šnýbiu, žnýbti ds., Trautmann 93.

4. gneig-:

Old Norse kneikia 'press, clamp', Norwegian dial. kneikja 'bend backward'; Middle Low German Low German Modern High German knicken, wherefore Knicks 'knee-bend, flexure, bowing, bending'.

5. gner-:

Norwegian knart, knort `knag, knot, unreifes Obst', Middle English knarre `hunch, outgrowth, knag', Middle High German knorre `knag' ; besides Old High German kniurig `knorrig', Middle High German knūr(e) `knot, knag, Klippe, mountain top ' with ablaut neologism.

6. gnes-

Norwegian knast m. `knag' = Low German hd. Knast, Middle Low German knōster `gristle', holl. knoest `knag', Middle Dutch knoes `gristle', knoesele `ankle'; Norwegian Dialectal knös (**knōsia-*) `large mighty beggar ', Swedish knase `big, rich, obstinate, inflexible person '.

7. gnet-

Old High German knetan, Old English cnedan stem V. `knead', zero grade Old Norse knoða, -aða `knead'; with Germanic tt Old Norse knotttr (**knattu-z*) `ball, sphere', knatti `brow, edge of a hill or cliff ', Norwegian knott m. `short and thick body, knag, knot ', Swedish dial. knatte `small bush'; Old Church Slavic gnetq, gnesti `press', Old Prussian gnode f. `trough for kneading the bread ' (**gnōtā*), Trautmann 93.

Maybe nasalized alb. (**ghnes-*) ngjesh `press' common alb. gh- > gj-.

8. gn-eu-

Old Norse knýja `press, hit', Old English cnū(w)ian `in mortar zerstoßen' (Old English cnéowian `coire ', as Swedish knulla ds. compared with Middle High German knüllen `bump, poke, hit'); Old Norse knūi `knuckle '; Old Swedish knūla, knyla `knag, knot in trees, foot ankle ';

Maybe alb. (**knyla*) nyja `knag, knot' [common alb. kn - > n-] serb. gnjáviti `press', sloven. gnjáviti `press, ruffle, crease, crumple, wrinkle, strangle, throttle, choke '.

9. gn-eu-bh-

Irish gnobh `knot in the wood, knot, node ' (**gnubh-o-*);

Old Norse knýfill m. `short, just come out horn ', East Frisian knūfe `clot, chunk, clump, knag'; Old Norse kneyfa `press'; Norwegian knuva `press, squash, crush ', East Frisian knūfen, ndd. knuffen `bump, poke, kick'; with **ū*: Middle Low German knovel `knot, ankle';

Middle High German knübel 'ankle'; with Germanic ƀ(ƀ) (consonant-sharpening):
 Norwegian dial. knupp m. 'bud', Middle Low German knuppe, knoppe 'bud', knuppel = Middle High German knüpfel 'club, cudgel' (these nnd.), Old High German knopf 'knot, knag, knop, knob', Swiss chnopf 'knot, knop, knob, bud, small kid, child' (in addition knüpfen; a derivative is Knospe, there probably from **knup-sōn-*), and o-grade Middle Low German knōp m. 'knot, knop, knob, handle, button, pommel', Middle High German knouf, Modern High German Knauf, with Germanic bb: Norwegian knubb m. 'clot, chunk', Middle Low German knobbe 'knag', Middle English knobbe (engl. knob) 'bud, knop, knob, knag, knot', Norwegian knubba 'bump, poke, kick, press';

Lithuanian gniáubti 'comprise, enfold, hug, embrace, hold tight' (**gnēubh-*), gniùbti 'lose stability, fall, sink'; if from gniáužti (under 10.) through influence of gnýbti (above 3.)?

10. gn-eu-ġ-

Old Norse knjúkr 'round mountain top', Norwegian Dialectal knjuka, knoka 'ankle', Old Norse knykill 'small knot'; Middle Low German knoke m. 'bone', Middle High German knoche 'bone, knag, bundle';

Maybe alb. (**knyk*) kyc 'ankle'

Old English cnycel (?), Middle Low German knokel, Middle High German knüchel, Modern High German Knöchel, but Old Norse knoka 'hit, knock', Norwegian Dialectal knoka 'press, squash, crush', Old English cnocian, cnucian 'knock at a door, thrust in the mortar', Middle High German knochen 'press' stand in ablaut to Old Swedish knaka 'crack, creak' and indicate to onomatopoeic words ġneg- (Wissmann 79), whereat also Kluge<sup>11</sup> s. v. knacken; with Germanic -kk-: Middle Low German knocke, Middle English knucche, engl. knitch 'bundle', Middle High German knock 'nape, cervix, neck'.

Lithuanian gniáuž-iu, -ti 'close the hand firmly', gniūžis, gniūžtė, gniáužta 'bundle, handful', gniūžti 'bend, fall, lose firmness' (**fold up, double or bend something over upon itself*), Latvian gnaūzt 'grasp with the hand, press' (Latvian žņaugt 'strangle, throttle, choke' from **grāuž-?*); compare (above 9.) Lithuanian gniáubti.

11. gn-eu-s-

Old Norse knosa, -aða 'abuse with blows', Norwegian knysia 'crunch, munch, chew with the teeth; pulverize, grind into fine particles', Old High German knussen 'hit, crush', Old English cnyssan `crush, grind'; with ū Old Swedish knusa = nnd. knūsen `press, squeeze', Old Norse knūska `hit', Modern High German Swiss chnüssen, chnüschen `thrash'; Old Norse knylla `hit, bump, poke' (**knuzljan*, s. also above under gneut- about Knollen) = Old English cnyllan `hit', Low German knüllen (knullen from **knuz-lōn*) `to press together, zerknüffeln', Middle High German knüllen `hit, bump, poke, cuff, strike, slap, pommel, push, shove, thrust'; Old Norse knauss m. `round mountain corner'; with ū Middle Low German knūst m. `knag', Swiss chnūs `knag, clump'; with ǣ Norwegian knust, knysta `coiled chunk, knag', schwed Dialectal knose `hunch, outgrowth' (figurative Bavarian knös `a youth, lad', Swiss chnösi `thick man, husband', nrhein. knösel `dwarf, crippled being, unripe fruit').

12. gn-eu-t-

Old High German knōdo (**knūpan-*) `knop, knob, ankle, bud', Middle High German knödel `ovary, dumpling, small mass of dough which is boiled or steamed', Old High German knoto (**knudān-*), Modern High German Knoten, whereof Old High German knutil, Modern High German Knüttel `thick stick' (actually `knotty walking stick'); Old English cnotta m., Middle Low German knutte `tubers, flax bud', Middle High German knotze `knag', Middle Low German knulten `knit, tie, bind, knot' = Old English cnyttan, engl. knit ds. and with the originally meaning `to press together' Bavarian knauzen `to press together', Low German knutschen, Middle High German knützen `squeeze, push, shove, thrust'; Old Norse knūtr (**knūdn-*) `knot, knag', knūta `capitulum, head of a bone, end of a bone', knýta `tie, bind, knot'; Middle High German knūz (**gnarled, snaggy, knobbed* rising arms against, daring, bold, audacious, perky, cheerful; bold; impudent'; Middle High German knolle `clod of earth, clump', Old English cnoll m. `mountaintop, mountain peak, summit, acme, apex' (if from **knud-lá-* or **knuz-lá-* for the root form **g(e)n-eu-s-*);

Lithuanian gniutù, gniūsti `press', gniutúoti ds., gniūtelé `pole for pressing of the straw with the roof cover', gniūtulas `bales, paper, lump, clump', gnūtulas `clump, fist-size clump'

References: WP. I 580 ff., Wissmann Nom. postverb. 83, 132.

See also: compare also under ken-.

Page(s): 370-373

---

Root / lemma: gerē<sup>bh-</sup>

Meaning: to scratch, write

Material: 1. gerē<sup>bh-</sup>:

Gr. γράφω `scratch, carve, cut, mark by cutting or scratching, write' (**gr̥bʰō*), γράμμα `alphabetic letter', γραμμή `line', γραφεύς `scribe', γραπτός `Ritzung der Haut' (besides dialect forms with -πο- instead of -πα-);

Old English ceorfan (participle corfen) `cut, clip, notch', Old High German kerban `make incision, cut, clip', Modern High German kerben, Middle High German kerbe f. `incision, notch', kerp m. `seam, joint, fugue', Old English cyrfa m. `cut';

Slavic **žerbъ* in Old Church Slavic žrěbъ, Serbo-Croatian ždrijev, klr. žéreb `lot, fate' and Slavic **žerbъjъ* in Old Church Slavic žrěbъjъ `lot, fate, crumb' (*`notched rod'), Old Prussian gīrbīn `number' (*`crenation, series of notches on the outer edges of a leaf or shell').

Maybe alb. krrabë `shepherd's stick'

2. grebʰ-:

Middle High German krabelen (with expressive intensification: Middle High German krappeln, Middle Low German krabbelen, out of it Modern High German krabbeln) `scratch, scrape, grovel, truckle, creep', Old Norse krafla `grovel, truckle, creep', krafsa `scratch, scrape, leicht anrühren',

Maybe alb. kref, kreh (**krefs*) `comb, clean' with expressive intensification Danish Norwegian krabbe `scratch, grapsen' (and `scrabble, scribble, scrawl, scratch, grovel, truckle, creep', originally `grovel, truckle, creep, while one gets stuck'), wherefore Old Norse krabbi m., Old English crabba, Middle Low German krabbe `crab' and Old High German (krebiz), **kraḅita-*, krebaz(o), asächs. kreḅit, Modern High German Krebs. - Quite doubtful gr. γρόμφις `sow' (better `the grunting'?) as nasal form.

3. Besides **gr̥bʰ-* (with expressive /?):

Gr. γριφᾶσθαι γράφειν. Λάκωνες. οἱ δὲ ξύειν καὶ ἀμύσσειν Hes. (compare from sker-: gr. σκαριφάομαι, Latin scribō), ἀγρίφη, ἀγρεῖφνα `rake, gardening tool with a comb-like end; rack' (ἀ- from **ḡ-* `in', `carve, cut, mark by cutting or scratching');)

holl. kribbelen `murmur', kribelen `itch', Middle High German md. kribeln `kitzeln (von der Sinuenlust)', Modern High German kribbeln, and with Germanic pp: Old High German kripfan `rasch und wiederholt wonach greifen', Modern High German kripfen `esp. of scratching a groove';

Latvian grīpsta `scratch'.

References: WP. I 606 f., Trautmann 87.

See also: compare gred- `scratch, scrape', grēb(h)o-s `hornbeam'.

Page(s): 392

---

Root / lemma: ger-1, gere-

Meaning: to gather, put together

Material: Gr. ἀγείρω (ἀγερω, ἡγείρω) `gather; assemble' (**ǵ-ger-iō*; α- weak form from ἐν, also `collect, gather'?), gr. Doric ἀ-γρέ-τᾱς `collector, gatherer', Aor. ἔγρετο `be gathered', Infin. ἀγρέσθαι; ἀγορά, ἄγυρις `congregation, meeting', ἀγύρτης `collector, gatherer, beggar', ἀγοστός `hand, crooked, bent arm' (if from *α-γορστος, with Aeolic op from ǵ; for the formation compare παλαστή `flat hand'), γέργερα πολλά Hes., τὰ γάργαρα `swarm, flock; mass, crowd, heap'; broken reduplication **gre-ǵ* in:

Latin grex, gregis m. `herd, troop, multitude, crowd';

Middle Irish graig n. (with secondary a), Gen. grega `herd of horses', cymr. corn. bret. gre ds.; because of Old Irish grafann f. `horse race' (**grego-syendnā*) (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), barely borrowed from Latin;

Maybe alb. (**grega*) grigja `herd of sheep'

Balto-Slavic gur- from **gor-* in:

Lithuanian gurgulys m. `coagulation, thickening', gurguolė f. `bulk, mass, lump';

Maybe alb. gurgullonj `boil (liquid coagulation)'

Latvian gūrste `bundle of flax' (**gursti-* from **gurt-sti-*) =

Maybe through metathesis alb. (**gursti*) grushti `handful, thin, emaciated; fist'; (**grist*) glisht, gisht `finger'.

Slavic **gъrstъ* in Old Church Slavic grъstъ `fist, handful', Old Russian gъrstъ, Serbo-Croatian gr̥st (Pl. gr̥sti) `hollow hand', poln. garść ds., russ. gorstъ ds.; russ.-Church Slavic pri-gъrъšča f. 'handful' (**gursṭiā*); Slavic **gъrtati* and **gъrnōti* (from **gъrtnōti*) in Serbo-Croatian grĉēm, grĉati 'scrape together', klr. pry-hortáty ds., poln. garnać ds.;

**gere-* in Lithuanian gretà Adv. 'side by side, abreast'; remains far off Old Indic gaṇáh 'troop, multitude, crowd', because not Indo Germanic (Kuiper Proto-Munda 54 f.).

root extension grem-:

Old Indic grāma-h m. 'heap, troop, multitude, crowd, village, congregational, parish, community, township';

Latin gremium 'armful; lap, bosom, womb, female genitals';

maybe alb. (grem-) greminē 'bottom, hole, abyss', gremis 'throw to the abyss, pile up'

Middle High German krammen 'snatch with the claws', Old High German krimman (kramm) 'press, grip with the claws', Old English crammian (engl. to cram) 'stuff, fill' (actually 'press'), Old Icelandic kremia 'press, clamp', krōm 'consuming illness, disease, malady', ablaut. krumma, krymma 'hand';

Lithuanian grumiúos, grūmtis 'with struggle somebody', grūmulas 'clump', gruñ(s)tas 'clod', grūmdau, -yti 'are pushing, filling, stuffing by force from above'; the same d(h)-extension in gr. γρόνθος 'clenched fist';

maybe alb. Geg grumull grumbull (**grem-ul*) 'mass, pile' [common alb. m > mb shift] : Lithuanian grūmulas 'clump'

Note: alb. shares the cognate with Baltic lang. not with Slavic lang. which means the alb. cognate is part of the inherited Illyrian Baltic lexicon.

russ.-Church Slavic gromada, gramada 'heap, mass', poln. Lower Sorbian also 'village community, local meeting'.

Maybe alb. (**gramada*) gërmadha 'ruins, mass of stones'

References: WP. I 590 f., WH. I 621 f., Trautmann 94, 102, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 433<sup>5</sup>, 715, 746<sup>8</sup>.

Page(s): 382-383

---

Root / lemma: ger-2

Meaning: to scream (in expr. forms)

Material: A. Old Indic járatē 'it rushes, sounds, crackles, shouts', jarā 'the rustling, murmuring' (or to **gār-* or **g<sup>w</sup>er-*); perhaps gargara-h 'a music instrument' (yet see also **gal-*);

alb. ngurónj 'howl' (from wind); [actually hunguronj 'howl']

Old Norse kæra, kærdǫa 'bring forward a matter, lodge a complaint, make a complaint to the proper authorities, accuse' (derived from a lengthened gradeen i-stem **gēri-*); with consonant increase Old High German carron 'squeak, screech, clash, jangle, squeal, grate, jar, resound, rattle, creak' (schw. V.), cherran (stem V.) 'cry, creak', Middle Low German kerren, karren 'creak', Old English ceorran 'creak' (ceorung 'lament, grumble, growl, complain, repine, snarl'), Norwegian karra 'coo, gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker', Old Norse kurra 'growl, murmur', kurr 'murmur, rumor';

Lithuanian gùrti 'shrill, shriek, scream';

B. Here the name of crane:

1. Lithuanian géršė 'crane, heron'; after Risch (briefl.) contaminated from gėrvė and gėnšė;

2. With formants -en-, to part with -u- and -g- extended:

Armenian krunk 'crane' (**geru-n-g-*); compare under Old High German kranuh;

gr. γέρην γέρανος Hes., γέρανος m. 'crane' and 'crane for lifting weights, esp. used in the theatre, quern, a fish';

gall. tarvos trigaranos (Inscr. about a bull with three plumes on the back); cymr. corn. bret. garan (**gerenos*) 'crane';

Old High German kranuh (-ih), Old English cranoc, cornuc, Middle Low German kranek m. (**grānug-*);

Old English cran, asächs. kranō, Middle High German krane, Modern High German Krahn (**grānon-*) m.; in addition Old Icelandic trani 'crane' (with t- instead of k- after trami 'evil spirit, demon, evil supernatural being; devil');

Lithuanian garnỹs m. 'heron, stork' (**gor-n̄-ios*); Latvian gārns m. 'heron'.

3. With formants -ōu- : -ū-:

Latin grūs, Gen. gruis f. (later also m.) 'a crane', therefrom gruere 'of crane's call';

Modern High German westfäl. krūne 'crane'; see below Old High German kron;

Lithuanian gėrvė, Latvian dzeīve, Old Prussian gerwe f. 'crane' (**gerəuīā*); russ.-Church Slavic žeravъ m. (**gerōyjos*), Serbo-Croatian žerâv, wruss. žórou (Gen. žóraula); besides Serbo-Croatian ždrâlj (from **žbravlb*) and russ. žurávlъ (Gen. žuravlja).

C. from the same ōu- : ōu- : ū- extension also Old High German krōn 'chatty, loquacious, talkative, garrulous, gossipy, prattling, logorrheic', nld. krōlen (**krauljan*) 'loud cry', holl. kruilen 'coo', krollen 'cry like cats', Middle Low German krūschen 'screech, shriek, scream, squawk, cackle, croak, yell'.

With i-extension redupl. Latin gingrīre 'cackle, esp. from to geese';

perhaps (?) here gr. γίγνῃς, γίγνῃς m. 'Phoenician flute' etc.;

Middle Irish grith, cymr. gryd 'scream' (**grī-tu-s*), Middle Irish grinnigud 'creaking of the arrow' (**grī-n-d*) (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-);

Maybe alb. (**grī-n-d*) grindem 'scream, quarrel'

Middle High German krīschen 'screech, shriek, scream, squawk, cackle, croak, yell', Middle Low German krīten 'cry, howl', Middle High German krīen 'sharp cry', Modern High German kreißen, Middle High German krīsten, Modern High German kreisten.

D. grā- in West Germanic nord. **krā-* (with ō not changed to old ā through recent imitation of the of a- a colored raven's croaking): Old High German krāen, Modern High German krāhen, Middle Low German kreien, Old English crāwan ds., Old High German hanacrāt 'cock crow, call of a rooster; dawn, time of morning when roosters crow', Old High German krā(w)a, krāia, Modern High German Krähe, Old Saxon krāia, Old English crāwe ds., Lithuanian griju, russ.-Church Slavic grajō, grajati 'croak, caw'.

With guttural extension:

Old Norse krāka 'crow', krākr 'raven', Old English **crācian*, cracettan 'croak, caw (of raven)', Modern High German krächzen; Germanic -k- from Indo Germanic -g because of

nir. grāg ` croaking ' ( **grāggo-*); Middle Low German krakelen ` chatter, prattle, jabber; talk rapidly; talk nonsense '.

With Indo Germanic k-: Latin grāculus `jackdaw', gracillō, -āre `gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker (from chicken)';

Old High German kragil, Middle High German kregel ` gabby, gossipy, loquacious, garrulous, blithering ', Old High German kragilōn ` babble, chatter ', Middle High German kragelen, kregeln ` gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker '; russ.-Church Slavic graču, grakati ` croak, caw ', gr̥kati ` coo (from the dove)'.

E. With formant -g-, and from other hearing impressions:

Old Indic garjati ` rages, roars, hums, bellows';

Armenian karkač `din, fuss, noise';

Old English cracian, cearcian ` ring out; sound ', Old High German krāhhon `crack, creak';

Lithuanian gīrgždžiu, gīrgždėti `creak'.

In addition perhaps russ. gróchoť `din, fuss, noise, crash, blast, loud laughter ' as new onomatopoeic words.

References: WP. I 591 ff., WH. I 583, 601 f., 615, 624, Specht Dekl. 48, Trautmann 87, 94.

Page(s): 383-385

---

Root / lemma: ger-3

Meaning: to turn, wind

Material: A. Old Indic guṇá-h ( **gr-nó-s* ) ` the single thread of a string, line, cord; stain ' ( dvi-, tri-guṇa- actually ` consisting of two, three threads ');

Maybe alb. guna ` fleecy attire of the shepherd '

Old Indic gárta-h ` carriage seat of the chariot' ( `*from rods twisted seat, carriage basket ' ), compare with formants -mo- Old Norse karmr ` parapet, defensive wall, protective wall in front of a trench ', Swedish karm ` back, part of a chair support from wickerwork, carriage basket ' ( **gor-mo-s* ` wickerwork ' ).

1. guttural extensions:

a. In Indo Germanic -g presumably gr. γυργαθός `wicker-basket, creel, twisted basket from willows, weir, fish-snaring net ' (-u-reduced vowel, ending as in κάλαθος `basket narrow at the base, esp. for wool, for fruit, (carried in procession in honour of Demeter), capital of a column, in this form, wine-cooler, mould for casting iron, reservoir of an oil-lamp ');

Old Norse kraki `pole with hook; thin person '; Old High German krācho (**krēkan*-), kracco (as **kraggan*-, gemination form to Germanic **krag*- see below) `hooked device ', Old Norse krākr and changing through ablaut krōkr `bend, bay, hook ' (out of it Middle English crōk, nengl. crook `curvature etc.'), krøkja `crook, snatch ', Swedish kräka, Norwegian dial. kreka krak `grovel, truckle, creep ', kreken `weak, old age'. Besides in Germanic -g (probably = Indo Germanic -k) Old High German krāgo `hook '; perhaps also Old English crōg, Old High German kruog `crock, pitcher, jug', if not in any leaning relationship to gr. κρωσσός (see below under greu-g). compare from the root form gr-ei- the same extension in Old Norse krīkr `bend, bay', -kriki (from which Middle English crike, creke, nengl. creek) `curvature, bay'; perhaps Latvian gredzens `ring'.

b. In Indo Germanic -k. Old Church Slavic szgrъčiti se `draw together, collect, assemble ', Bulgarian gъrča se `bend, curve, crook, pull myself together ', gъrča `wrinkle', zgъrčen `withered, shriveled, shrunk, dwindled ', serb. gřč `cramp'.

Maybe nasalized alb. ngërç `cramp', ngërth `kink', ngërthej, kthej `turn', kthetër `claw' = Old Indic granth-, grathnāmi, Fut. granthiṣyāmi `coil, bind, wind, tie, knot, fasten, join, attach, tie a knot ' (common -k > -th Albanian Celtic Old Indian) see below.

Maybe alb. m. grethi, f. grenza `wasp, insect striped with rings '.

Maybe alb. gërshet `plait, braid, three or more interwoven strands (of hair) ', Geg gërshana, Tosc gërshëre `scissors for cutting the braid '.

Note:

In Alb. highland it was a taboo cutting the hair, hence men like Aryan Persians had long hair = an old custom of matriarchy when men identified themselves with the mother goddess. In South Albania men still wear a womanish kilt like Scottish Celts.

c. Nasalized:

In Indo Germanic -k certainly Old Norse krā 'point, edge, angle' ( **kranhō* ) and probably also Germanic forms in -g. Old Norse kringr m. 'ring' = Middle High German krinc, -ges 'ring, battlefield', Modern High German Kring, Old Norse kringla 'ring of a circle, circle, compasses, instrument for drawing circles and measuring, calipers', Middle Low German kringel(e) 'ring, round pastry, cake', Middle High German kringel (and changing through ablaut krenge) ds., Modern High German Kringel, Middle High German kranc, -ges 'circle, ring, district, region, area', Modern High German Swiss chrangel 'curvature', Middle High German krangel 'need, tribulation' (from 'entanglement, curvature') and 'ring, circle'; Old Norse cranga 'grovel, truckle, creep, trudge, lumber', with figurative meaning krangr 'weak, fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated'; Old English cringan 'fall'; in Indo Germanic -g. Old English cranc-stæf 'a weaver's device', crencestre 'weaver', Middle English crinkled 'twiddled, twisted, rotated, revved, revolved', engl. crinkle 'bend, curvature, crease, rumple, wrinkle; make a rustling sound', crank 'lever, handle, curvature' (as Modern High German Swiss chrank), older also cranke 'spool', mndd. krunke 'crease, wrinkle, frill, ruffle; frizziness, curliness; ruff', holl. kronkel 'crease', krinkel 'loop, noose, snare, crease, wrinkle', Norwegian krenkja 'dislocate, luxate, crick'; with the meaning-development to 'bent from disease, malady': Old High German krankolōn 'stumble, trip; transgress, go astray, lose one's way, become weak', Middle High German krank 'narrow, tight, slim, slender, thin, small, weak', Modern High German krank, Old English cranc 'weak, fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated', as well as Old English crincan 'fall in battle, die in battle, die in combat, die in war' ('*bend in agony'); in Indo Germanic -g (not -g) point at Baltic **grenžiō* 'turn, twist, rotate' in Lithuanian gręžiù, gręžti 'turn, twist, rotate, drill, wimble, bore a hole' (lter. grąžyti), grįžtù, grįžti 'retrovert, turn back, return, go or come back', grįžtē 'roll of flax' = Latvian grīzte 'the twisted together', Latvian grīžu 'turn, rotate' (= Lithuanian gręžiù), Lithuanian grąžtas 'borer', Old Prussian granstis ds. (Lithuanian grąžulas 'shaft, pole, rod, beam; long revolving bar used to transfer motion or torque to gears or other parts' presumably likewise from 'cord, rope, hank, halter, rope with a noose for hanging criminals').

2. Dental extensions:

a. gr-et(h):- Old English cradol m. 'cradle' ( **kradula*- 'the plaited'), Old High German kratto 'basket' ( **kraddan*-), krezzo, Middle High German krezze, Modern High German Krätze 'pannier' ( **krattian*). (common -k > -th Albanian Celtic Old Indian)

b. Nasalized:

Old Indic granth-, grathnāmi, Fut. granthiṣyāmi `coil, bind, wind, tie, knot, fasten, join, attach, tie a knot ', participle grathitá- `winded, knotty, conglobated', granthí-ḥ m. `knot, joint, intumescence ', grantha-ḥ `knot', grathín- `scheming, deceptive', grathila- `raving, mad'; but ghatā- `bulk, mass, troop, multitude, crowd' is not a root. (Kuiper Proto-Munda 55 f.). (common -k > -th Albanian Celtic Old Indian)

c. ger-d, gr-ed-, nasalized grend-:

Old Irish grinne (**grend-n̥io-*) `bundle, fagot, bunch, fascis'; (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Old Norse kartr, Old English crætm. `cart ' (probably `twisted carriage basket '), probably also Old Norse kart-nagl `deformed, twisted nail', Norwegian kart m. `unripe fruit, knag', East Frisian kret `shrunk fruit', Middle High German krenze `basket', Old High German kranz, Modern High German Kranz,

Lithuanian grandis (reduced grade grundis) `bracelet, iron ring, hoarfrost of wheel, round cheesecake ', Old Prussian grandis `the ring in the plow which connects the plow crossbeam with the front rack ', Latvian grūods `stark twiddled, twisted, rotated, revved, revolved, drall'; poln. grędać się `turn, rotate '.

3. Labial extensions:

a. ger-b<sup>h</sup>-, gr-eb<sup>h</sup>-:

Old Indic grapsa-ḥ, glapsa-ḥ `bundle, tussock ', next to which with Middle Indic development from **grpsa-ḥ* guccha-ḥ and as hypersanskrit. back-formation gutsá-ḥ `tussock, bundle, bunch '; belongs probably better to S. 455.

Middle High German krēbe m. (**kreḇan-*) `basket; intestines, entrails ', Old Saxon kribbia, Old High German krippa, Old English cribb `crib, manger ', in Modern High German (and Holl.) also `wattle fence on shores, fish snaring net, verge of a roof with brushwood bundles ' (tiefstufige additional form Middle Low German krübbe, Old English cryb; with Germanic -pp-: Modern High German Swiss chrüp(e) `crib, manger ', as on the other hand also Old High German kripfa);

Middle Low German kerve `weir, net', Old Norse kiarf, kerf(i) n. `bundle, fascicle, sheaf ', Old Swedish kærve `grain bundle, fascicle, sheaf ', Swedish dial. karv `basket', isl. karfa, körv 'basket' (but Modern High German Korb, Middle Low German korf nevertheless probably only loanword from Latin corbis).

In addition behaves perhaps gr. γρίφος 'shopping bag, fishing net; somewhat complicated, riddle' (whereas with π: γρίπος 'fishing net', γρίπεύς 'fisherman'), as scrībō, σκάρ-ι-φος to *sker- 'cut, clip'.

b. gerb-, with revelation of the meaning 'crinkle, wrinkle, shrivel, shrink due to excess dryness, wrinkle up, cramp', but also for other kinds of bending:

Old Irish gerbach 'wrinkly';

Old Prussian garbis 'mountain', Lithuanian gárbana (see below) and garbanà f. 'hair lock';

Maybe poln. garbic się 'to hump': alb. kërrus 'to hump', kurriz '(hunchbacked) spine'

Note:

Root / lemma: ger-3: 'to turn, wind': Root / lemma: (s)ker-3: 'to turn, bend'.

in addition ablaut. Old Church Slavic grъbъ 'dorsum, cramp', grъbo-nosъ 'crooked-nosed', russ. gorb 'hump, hunchback, hunch, outgrowth, elevation, back', sloven. gr̂b, gr̂ba 'hunch, hump, hunchback, wrinkle', gr̂bati 'make hunchbacked, crook, furrow';

nisl. korpa f. 'wrinkle, crease', korpna 'contract, shrivel';

a heavy basis, perhaps **gerəb-* (?), seems the base from Armenian karth 'fishhook, hook; knee bow, popliteus, shinbone, leg' (**g̃rpti-*) and Lithuanian gárbana f. 'curl'; Berneker 368.

c. Nasalized:

Old High German krim(p)fan, Middle High German krimpfen, Middle Low German krimpen 'shrink up, shrink' = Old Norse kreppa (krapp) 'pull together', Middle High German krimpf 'crooked; cramp'; Old English crompeht 'crumpled, wrinkled', Old High German krampf 'writhed, crooked, humped', substantivized krampf(o) 'cramp', krampf 'hook', nnd. (and as loanword Modern High German) Krampe 'hook for closing', Old Saxon kramp(o) 'cramp', Kaus. Middle High German krempfen (**krampjan*) = Old Norse kreppa (schw. V.) 'pull together', New Swedish krumpen 'wizened', Old Norse kropna

(**krumpna*) `shrink up, become stiff', Old English crump, Old High German krumpf `writhed, crooked, humped'.

Besides Old English crumb, Old Saxon krumb, Old High German krump, Modern High German krumm presumably for Indo Germanic u-root from gr. γρυμπάνειν γρυπτοῦσθαι, συγκάμπτειν Hes., γρῦπτός `crooked' (see S. 389 under B. 2.);

Latvian grumbt `gotten wrinkled', grum̃bulaĩns `jolting';

Maybe alb. grumbullonj `pull together', grumbull `pile, heap'

Lithuanian grumbù, grubaũ, grùbti (analogical nasalized form for **grumbaũ*, **grum̃bti*) `jolting, hard or become insensible', grubùs (for **grumbùs*) `jolting, hard';

Old Church Slavic grъbъ `ιδιώτης, unlearned, untaught, ill-mannered', russ. grúbyj `rough, coarse, raw', poln. gręby `wrinkly, rough, adverse', poln. grąba, gręba f. `elevation, hill, boundary';

d. gřep- or g(e)řep- (compare above S. 387 **gerəb-*) in Middle Low German krappe `hook, claw, talon';

maybe alb. gřep `hook' holl. krap f. `cramp', Old High German krāpfo `bent claw, talon, hook', Modern High German Krapfen `hook; pastry of such form' (Germanic pp; besides Germanic -bb- in:) Old High German krāpo, Middle High German krāpe `hook', Swedish dial. krabbe `hook for the search in water'; maybe alb. Geg krrabë, Tosc kërrabë `crooked stick of the shepherd'

Old Norse krappr `eng', holl. krap ds., Modern High German Bavarian krapf `unprepossessing, small', Swiss chräpf `strong' (**thickset*); Old High German Modern High German Kraft (from cramping the muscles), Old Saxon kraft, Old English cræft `power, skillfulness, art', Old Norse krǫptr, kraptr m. `power, witchcraft', compare Old Norse krǫff. `demand', krefja `arrogate', Old English crāfian ds.; Norwegian krav m. `Ice crust' (besides Old Norse krap n., krapi m. ds.; `wither, shrivel, shrink due to excess dryness, wrinkle up'; nord. -p- probably for root form with Indo Germanic b).

4. s-extension **gre-s-*, only Germanic: Old High German kresan `grovel, truckle, creep', Norwegian Dialectal krasen `weak, frail'; presumably Old Saxon Old High German kresso `goby, small fish', Modern High German Kresse, Kressling ds.; **ger-s-* probably in Norwegian karra `shrivel, shrink due to excess dryness, wrinkle up, friz, curl'.

Besides from the i-extension **gr-ei-* also **gr-ei-s-* in Middle High German krīsen, kreis `grovel, truckle, creep'.

B. root form gr-eu-; grū-mo- `scraped together':

gr. γρῦ `little dirt under the nail' (i.e. `what settles while scratching under the nail');

Norwegian kryl `hump, hunchback' (**krū-li-?* **krūvila-?*), dial. also skryl, kryla `krummrückig sein' (also gryla), Swedish dial. krylas i hop `creep together', Norwegian dial. krylt (grylt, skrylt) `hunchback person' (the forms with g- belong together with Old Norse grūfa `sich vornüberbeugen, auf der Nase liegen', Modern High German Swiss grüben, gropfen, gruppen `crouch down, stoop' to a versch. root with Germanic g-); with the meaning `crooked claw, talon, mit gekrallten Fingern zusammenscharren': Old Saxon krauwil, Old High German krouwil `claw, talon, fork with crooked points', Modern High German Kräuel ds., Old High German krouwōn, Modern High German krauen, Old Frisian krāwia actually `scratch, scrape with crooked fingers'; with formants -mo-: gr. γρῦμέα, -εἰᾶ, -αῖα `junk, trash, trumpery, of fish small fry, also pouch, bag or chest for old clothes' (similarly the *tā-*derivative γρῦτη `junk, of fish small fry, woman's dressing-case or vanity-bag, prob. a workman's tool-bag, frippery', γρῦτοδόκη `lumber room'), actually `scraped together';

Latin grūmus `a little heap, hillock of earth' (as earth scraped together);

Middle High German Modern High German Krume; with ū: Old English crūma m., mnl. krūme (ablaut, krōme), holl. kruim `crumb' (`what one scratches from the hard crust'), isl. krumr, kraumr, Swedish krām, inkrām (inkrom) `intestines, entrails of birds and fish, crumbs'.

1. guttural extension greu-g- in: Old Irish gruc, nir. grug `wrinkle' (**gruggu-*), Middle Irish grucānach `corrugated'; maybe alb. (**greu-g-*) krunde `crumb, bread crumbs' common alb. -g- > -d-.

Old High German kriochan `grovel, truckle, creep', Modern High German kriechen, ablaut. krauchen `duck, slip, crouch, grovel, truckle, creep', Krauch `road curve' (Middle English crouchen, engl. crouch `duck, stoop', is French loanword), Middle Dutch kroke `wrinkle, crease ', holl. kreuk ds. (**krukī*), Middle Dutch crooc `hair lock ' (**krauka*-), Norwegian krjuka (krauk-) `shrink up, grovel, truckle, creep ', krūka `crouch, squat ', krækla, krykla `crippled tree, invalid creature, osseous fragility '; in addition probably as `staff with crooked handle, grasp' Norwegian dial. krykkia, Old English cryce f., nengl. crutch, Old High German krucka, Middle High German krucke, asächs. krukka `crutch ' (Germanic **krukjō*); perhaps Middle High German krūche (Modern High German Krauche), Old Saxon krūka, Old English crūce `crock, pitcher' (compare above Old High German kruog), Old English crocc, crocca, Old Norse krukka `pot, pan', therefore certainly also old close relationship to gr. κρωσσός `crock, pitcher' from *κρωκίός (about Old High German krūsel `crucible, melting pot ' etc. s. Falk-Torp under krus m. addendum) stands to the consideration. About Modern High German Kriechbaum s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> under Krieche.

2. Labial extensions:

greu-p-: gr. γρῦπτός `hook-nosed, aquiline, hooked, writhed, crooked, humped, with a curved nose ', γρῦπτόω `bend, crook ', γρύψ, γρῦπτός m. `griffin (Griffin (after the crooked beak and the crooked claws), a bird, part of a ship's tackle, or anchor '), nasalized γρυμπάνειν γρυπτοῦσθαι, συγκάμπτειν Hes., wherefore probably at first Old English etc. krumb `crooked' (see above S. 387).

greu-b-: here perhaps Scots Gaelic grobán `top or point of a hill' (**grubb*-);

Old Norse krjūpa, Old English crēopan, Middle Low German krūpen `grovel, truckle, creep ' (*curve like a worm '), Old English cryppan `bow, bend', Modern High German Dialectal sich krüpfen `crook oneself ' (Swiss chrüpfen `somewhat a bit bend so that it gets a roundish deepening '), Middle Low German kroppen `bend crooked ', Norwegian krøypa (**kraupjan*) `crook'; Old Norse kryppa f. `hump, hunchback ', kryppil, Old English crypel `cripple ', Middle Low German kröpel ds. (holl. kreupel, Middle High German krüp(p)el, Modern High German Krüppel from Ndd.), zero grade Old English créopel `cripple '; Old English cropp `bundle of berries or flowers, ear, goiter, crop '; with expressive intensification: Old High German kropf `crop, bird's head ', Middle Low German krop `swelling, blister, hunch, outgrowth, crop, Bird's head; trunk, (toter) body', only in latter meaning Old Norse kroppr `trunk'; maybe alb. Geg kryja, Tosc krye ` (round) head ' with simple b: Old Norse krof n. `trunk, killed animal body ', kryfia `disembowel '; a **krufta*- `curvature, hill' in Middle Dutch krocht `hill, farmland, field in the dunes ', Old English croft `small field';

Lithuanian probably grubinėti 'stagger, stumble', grūb(l)as m. 'rough bumpiness, hillock'.

3. s- Extension greu-s-: Middle High German Middle Low German krūs 'frizzy, curly'; Middle Low German krūse 'chitterlings, belly fat' ('the frill, ruffle'); with Germanic -au- nnd. krōs 'Intestine of geese', Middle High German (ge)kroese, Modern High German Gekröse, nnd. krūse (**krūsi-*) 'wrinkle, crease, furrow, curl', holl. kreus 'fold in staves'; Old English créas 'dainty', West Frisian kreas 'frilly'; Old High German Middle High German krol (-l-) 'frizzy' (**kruzlá-*), Middle High German krol(le), krülle 'curl', Norwegian krull ds.; Norwegian Dialectal kruslen, krusken 'frail', nnd. krusch 'curled', Middle High German krūsp 'frizzy', Modern High German obd. kraust 'frizzy'.

References: WP. I 593 ff., WH. 623, Trautmann 94 f., 97, 99 f.

Page(s): 385-390

---

Root / lemma: ger-4, grēi-

Meaning: to grow; to awake

Material: Old Indic járate 'awakened', jā-gar-ti 'wakes', Perf. jā-gāra, participle jā-gr-váms- 'alert, awake, smart, keen, eager', jāgrvi- 'attentive, sleepless, alert, awake, smart', av. jaṣārayantəm 'the watching one', Perf. jagāra, participle Perf. Akt. jagāurvah-, jigāurvah- 'awake, watchful, wakeful', Kaus. ā-garayeiti 'arouses, awakens', with fra- inchoativ fra-yrisəmnō 'awakening' (**gr̥-sk-*), Kaus. fra-yrā-yrāyeiti, dissimil. fra-yrā-rayeiti 'awakens', Middle Persian vīgrās 'awake', vīgrāsēnāg 'livener';

gr. ἐγείρω 'awake' (whether ἐ- Adv. **e?* compare ē or ō in Avestan ā-garayeiti and above S. 280; different Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 648<sup>3</sup>), Aor. ἔγρετο, ἐγρέσθαι, Perf. ἐ-γρή-γορα (for ε-γῆ-γορα - compare Old Indic jā-gāra - with dem ρ from ἐγρέσθαι; Med. (late) ἐ-γῆ-γερ-μαι; of Perf. proceed from ἐγρηγορτί 'on guard', ἐγρήγορσις; ἐγρήσσω 'watch' to *γρη-τ- (compare Avestan fra-zrātō 'by awakening'); barely from *ἐγρήσκω (Schwyzler Gr. I 708<sup>2</sup>);

alb. Tosc ngrē (from which ngrē), Geg ngrēi 'lift up, arouse, erect, awake, stretch a gun' (**n-grē-n-iō*), participle n-gritë (*-gr̥-t-); presumably Old Norse karskr, kerskr 'fresh, agile, lively', Middle Low German karsch 'fresh, alert, awake, smart', Alemannian chärzsch.

References: WP. I 598 f., WH. I 429 f.

Page(s): 390

---

Root / lemma: g(e)u-lo-

Meaning: glowing coals

Note:

Root / lemma: g(e)u-lo- : glowing coals derived from Root / lemma: ker(e)-3 : to burn

Material: With *-*suffix:

Irish gúal 'coal' (< **geulo-* or **goulo-*);

Old Icelandic kol n. 'charcoal', Old English col m. 'coal', engl. coal, Old Frisian kole f., Old High German kolo m., also kol n., Middle High German kol n., kol(e) m., kole f., Swiss cholle 'gleam'.

In addition with *-*suffix (or previously reshaped from **gulo-* after Armenian hur 'fire'):

Armenian krak 'fire, glowing coals' (< **guro-*, **gurā-*), krak-aran 'stove, hearth, fireplace, glowing frying pan'.

References: WP. I 563. other possibilities by W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 479.

Page(s): 399

Root / lemma: gē(i)- : gō(i)- : gī-

Meaning: to sing, to cry

Note: onomatopoeic word

Material: Old Indic gāyati and gāti 'sings', gātú- m. and gītí- f. 'song', gītá- 'sung, chanted', gāthā 'song, verse' = Avestan gāθa 'song of religious content';

Old Russian gaju, gajati 'crow, squawk', russ. gajb m. 'Jackdaw's croaking, clamor', gákatb 'groan, croak, caw' etc.;

Baltic **gēidō* in Lithuanian giedu and giestu, giedóti 'sing, cackle, crow, squawk', Latvian dziēdu, dziēdāt 'sing'; in addition Lithuanian gýstu, gýdau, gýsti 'to sing, begin crow', gaidỹs m. 'rooster, cock', giesmė f. 'Kirchenlied', Latvian dziēsma f. 'song', gaĩlis m. 'rooster, cock'.

Maybe Latin gallus 'rooster, cock' : alb. gjel 'rooster, cock' Tocharian A kāk, B kāka 'he shouted' (redupl., to Old Indic gātī), present 3. Pl. keneñic (**gēi-n-?*), Pedersen Tochar. 183, 263.

References: WP. I 526 f., Trautmann 76, W. Schulze KZ. 27, 425 = Kl. Schr. 52.

Root / lemma: gēu-, gēu-, gū- (**sgēu-*)

Meaning: to bend, curl; a kind of vessel

Note:

Root / lemma: gēu-, gēu-, gū- : to bend, curl; a kind of vessel probably derived from Root /

lemma: (s)keu-2, (s)keuə : (s)kū- : to cover, wrap

Phonetic evidence: Middle High German kobe 'stall, pigpen, cage, cavity' : klr. kúča 'pigpen' (Trautmann 145)

Material: Unextended probably in goṽə- : gū- 'hand', see there; further Norwegian kaa 'turn, twist the hay', Old Norse kā 'disturb the peacefulness' (**kawōn*); kā-beinn 'bowlegged' (**goṽo-*; Old Irish gāu, gō 'lie, falsity', whether from **gōṽā*, here, otherwise to connect with Latin haud); about gr. γύης, γυῖον see below S. 398, about γύαλον see below S. 397.

a. More dental extensions :

gud-, geud- (occasionally gū-ed-?), before all in Germanic; gudo-m 'intestine'.

Old Indic gudām 'intestine'; maked. γόδα ἔντερα Μακεδόνες Hes.;

ndd. kūt 'intestine', Modern High German Bavarian kütz 'a part the bowels'; ndd. kūt, küte also 'Intestine of smaller animals, roe bags; calf; bag, pouch', Middle Low German kūt 'soft parts in the animal body, roe bag, calf', holl. kuit (**kūt-*) and kiete (**keot-*) 'roe; calf', engl. Dialectal kyte, kite 'belly, stomach' (compare to meaning under qipus);

Old Frisian kāte (**kaut-*) 'ankle', Middle Low German kōte, kūte 'hoof, talon, the foot joint of horses', ndd. (and borrowed Modern High German) Kote, Köte 'ankle, shackle of the horses', Demin. Middle Low German kötel, Low German Kötel (from **kutil*) 'plump excrements, e.g., from nanny goats, horses', Middle Dutch cotel, holl. keutel 'ds., cone, toddler';

Norwegian dial. kyta 'hump, hunchback, puffed out fold, hump in an plump body, sacklike extension of a net', Swedish dial. kūta 'go or run with stooped back', Modern High German kauzen = crouch ('together bend'), geminated Swedish kott(e) 'pine cone', dial. kutte, kutting 'small squabby knave, boy'; with the concept of the incurvation, cavity: ndd. kūte 'pit, pothole', Middle High German kūz, Modern High German Kauz 'Grube als Gerichtsstätte' (formal = Norwegian dial. kūt 'deformation in growth', Swedish dial. 'tuber, bulb, hump, hunchback'; Middle High German kūte 'pit, pothole, hole', Modern High German Dialectal Kaute ds. probably from Ndd.); Norwegian dial. køyta 'degradation in the surface of the earth, pool; the vessel in what one carries fish' (**kauti*-) = Middle High German kæetze, Modern High German Dialectal Kötze 'woven basket', Old English cȳte 'cottage, house, lair' (ȳ = īe) = Norwegian køyta 'wood hut from branches', compare Modern High German dial. kieze 'bast basket' (-eu-), Old English cȳt-wer 'fish snaring net' with expressive gemination Middle Low German etc. kutte 'female pudenda' (Middle High German kotze 'courtesan'); hole = schlechte Wohn- oder Liegerstatt: ndd. (and borrowed Modern High German) koť, kote 'sheds, stable, hut, stall, cottage', Middle Dutch coť, cote 'cave, lair of wild animals, stable, bad hut', Old English coť '(robber-) cave, house, lair', Old Norse koť 'small cottage', kytia ds.; nasalized Old Norse kunta 'vulva' from Middle Low German kunte 'female pudenda; also buttocks', Norwegian Swedish kunt 'Ranzen' (from birch bark)'; also Avestan gunda-, gundā 'Teigballen'?

gū-t, geu-t; about gū-et- see distinctive article; gut-r 'throat'.

Latin guttur (**gūtr*, formation as Hittite kuttar); n. (by Plautus m.) 'gullet, throat', guttura (Plin.) 'thick neck, swellings in the neck';

Maybe alb. gushë 'neck, throat' in addition as 'sacklike skin growth in the neck':

geut- in Old English cēod(a) m. 'sack, bag, pouch', Old High German kiot ds., Middle Low German kūdel 'pouch', Middle High German kiutel 'dewlap', Unterkinn', Modern High German Keutel 'fishnet, intestine, swelling, lump, growth';

gut- in Middle Low German koder m., Modern High German dial. Köderl, Goderl (**gut-ro*-) 'Unterkin', goitre'; maybe alb. kodër 'round' hill'

ndd. koden ds., engl. cud 'cud, the inner gullet from ruminants', Dutch kossem 'Unterkin' (**gutsmo*-), Norwegian kusma 'parotitis, mumps'; Middle High German kuteln, Modern High German Kutteln 'Kaldauen'; maybe alb. (**kuta*) shyta `parotitis, mumps' with expressive dd: Old English codd m. `husk, pod, sack, bag', Old Icelandic koddi `pillow, cushion, testicle'; perhaps Old High German kutti `herd', Modern High German Kette, Bavarian kütt `troop, multitude, herd of warrantable animal';

Hittite ku-u-tar (kuttar), Dat. ku-ut-ta-ni (kuttan) n. `nape, upper arm' (= Latin guttur, see above); kuttanalli `necklace'.

b. guttural extensions; gugā `ball'.

Middle High German kugel(e), Modern High German Kugel, Middle Low German holl. kogel ds., Modern High German dial. Kogel `round brow, edge of a hill or cliff' (Persson Beitr. 113); rhein. Klugel, Krugel after Persson probably previously through amalgamation with kliuwel and Klüngel, with gg: Old English cyćgel, engl. cudgel (**kuggila*) `cudgel, club', Old Norse kuggr from Middle Low German kogge, engl. cog `wide, ungainly sea ship'; with Germanic k: isl. kjūka `knuckle'; Norwegian kjūka `clump', kokle, kukle `clump', kokla (and kogla), kokul `Fruchtzapfen der Nadelbäume'; Old English cyćel, nengl. dial. kitchel `small cake'; in addition Old Norse kjūklíngr with `gosling', Old English ciećen, nengl. chicken, Middle Low German kūken, Modern High German Küchlein `chicken'; with Germanic kk: Old High German coccho, Modern High German Dialectal Kocke `heap, haycock, haystack, dunghill', Danish kok(k) `heap, haycock, haystack';

Lithuanian gugà f. `knop, knob, hump, hunchback, hill', gaũgaras m. `summit of a mountain';

russ. gúglja, poln. guga `swelling, blister' (Persson Beitr. 937); but Lithuanian gúogė, gógé f. `head', gõgas m. `withers of the horse', probably not from lengthened grade **gō[u]-g*; different above Trautmann KZ. 43, 176;

maybe alb. (**kok*) kokě f. `top, head': Lithuanian gógé f. `head' and Danish kok(k) `heap, haycock, haystack';

with -ġ:

npers. gūzak `ankle' (?);

Lithuanian gūžas `knag, swelling, blister, craw ', gūžys `craw ', gaūžė `head', Latvian gūza, guza `crop, goiter', guzma `heap, hunch ', gūža `hip, haunch, loin, club, mace, joint of the roast ';

similar to

Lithuanian: gūžė `head of cabbage' [f ē] 2

Lith. accentuation: 1/2/4

Latvian: gūža `thigh, ham' [f jā]

Proto-Slavic reconstruction: gyža

(Old) Church Slavic: RuCS gyža `unripe grape' [f jā]

West Slavic: Cz. hyže `tip of the shin-bone' [f jā]; OPI. giža `leg of pig or cattle, ham' [f jā]

South Slavic: SCr. gi (d) ža (dial.) `stump of a vine' [f jā]; Bulgarian giža `vine, stump of a cut off vine' [f ā]

Maybe alb. gic `piglet, roast of a pig?'

Old Czech hýžě `hip, haunch, thigh', poln. giža, giza `capitulum, head of a bone, end of a bone in the shinbone ' (also Church Slavic gyža vinьnaja `grapevine ', serb. gidža ds. as `knag, gnarl of a plant'); probably here as to **geng-* (see there), poln. guz `swelling, blister, hunch ', guza `buttocks ', sloven. gúza `buttocks, hunch ', as partly probably also other, in itself also with guz = gqz- attachable words (see **geng-*); ambiguous are also the words with Baltic (gunž-) gūž- as gunžys, gūžys `crop by birds, head of the femur ' etc.; s. Mühlenbach-Endzelin Latvian-D. Wb. I 685, 687;

besides Latvian gūza, guzma stand kuza `heap', kuzma `crop of chickens ', the formant with guza etc. stand in connection, in anlaut. k- but one with Avestan fra-, apa-kava- `in the front, behind with a hump ' and the family geu- `bend, curve ' are coherent word to the prerequisite;

about that from Slavic guz- not certainly to separative gqz- see below geng-.

c. Labial extensions; gupā `burrow '.

Gr. γύπη `earth hollow, cave, hiding place, nook, hideaway, vulture's nest ' (Hes.); γύψ, γυπρός `vulture' (from the crooked beak or the crooked claws, as γρύψ to γρυπτός `writhed, crooked, humped ');

Maybe alb. (**gupos*) gjyp `vulture'

Old High German chubisi 'a hut, cot, cottage of shepherds, peasants ', Middle High German kobe 'stall, pigpen, cage, cavity', Modern High German Koben 'small, miserable room or edifice, building, pigpen' (in addition Middle High German kobolt, Modern High German Kobold, z.B. Kluge<sup>11</sup> 315), Old English cōfa (engl. cove) 'chamber, hideout, cave' (out of it Old Norse kofi 'chamber, cell '), westfäl. küffe (**kufjō*) 'miserable cottage'; basic meaning 'hole in the earth as residential pit', actually 'arch, curvature ', ndd. Kübbung 'annex '; Middle High German Modern High German Kober 'basket'; holl. kub, kubbe 'fish snaring net'; Middle High German kobel/m. ' (arched) box, narrow miserable house, stable '; whereas derive Middle High German kobel/n. 'rock canyon ', kofel 'brow, edge of a hill or cliff ', Modern High German Bavarian-allem. Kofel, Kobel, Gufel, rätorom. cúvel, Italian cóvolo 'cave, Felswand ' from Latin **cubulum* (to cubāre) ' Lagerstätte des Viehs ' (Zinsli, on the ground of Grat 322) and Old High German miluh-chubilī 'milk tub ', Middle High German kübel, Modern High German Kübel probably from Middle Latin cupellus;

Old Norse kūfr 'round cusp, peak, heap',

Maybe alb. kufi 'boder, edge '

Norwegian kūven 'roundish, arched' (therefrom Norwegian kuva, kyva 'round off, make blunt, dull', compare also Swedish kuffa 'soften, bump, poke = ndd. kuffen 'bump, poke, slap'), holl. kuif (Middle Dutch **cūve*) 'plume, tuft, shock of hair, crest, treetop ' (compare in similar meaning frühModern High German Kaupe 'plume, actually, crest, on the head of the birds ' from Old High German **kūba*, probably from the rom. family of cūpa, also Old English cȳf 'barrel, vat, cask', Old Saxon kūvīn 'barrel, vat, cask', compare French cuve from Latin cūpa 'tub ');

Maybe alb. Tosc kuvli 'box '

Germanic **kubb-*: west Flemish kobbe ' Federhüschel, buschiges Haar, Hutkopf ', Old Icelandic kobbi m. 'seal ', Bavarian koppen 'tangled crown of a conifer ', engl. cub 'young animal ', cob 'round clump, head, spider', presumably also isl. kubbur, kubbi 'clot, chunk, stump' (in addition Swedish isl. Norwegian kubba 'cavitate ');

Germanic **kūp-*: Norwegian dial. kūp 'hump, hunchback ', Swedish kupa 'half-spherical case, beehive ' ; Swedish kypa 'round vessel from straw', ndd. küpe 'big pannier ', engl. dial. kipe (Old English **cȳpe*) 'plaited fish snaring net, basket'; changing through ablaut Norwegian dial. kaup 'wooden jar ', kaupa 'tuber, bulb';

whereas derive probably from Latin cuppa f. 'goblet': Old English copp m. 'acme, apex, goblet' (Middle English also 'head'), cupp m., cuppe f. 'goblet', Modern High German (actually md.) Koppe 'crest of the birds', Koppe, Kuppe, 'round mountain top', Middle High German kuppe, Old High German chuppa 'headpiece' (with expressive intensification Old High German chuppha ds., Middle High German kupfe, kuffe, gupfe ds., gupf, gupfe m. 'summit of a mountain, point of the tower', wherein g- probably substitution for roman. c-; Old Norse koppr 'head, vessel', Helmknopf, 'eye socket' is loanword from Middle Low German kopp); Old Frisian Middle Low German kopp 'goblet', Old High German kopf, chuph 'goblet', Middle High German kopf 'drinking vessel, cranium, head' (similarly rom. testa 'head' from Latin testa 'shard, bowl', Middle Latin testa capitis), Modern High German Kopf.

Nasalized Germanic **kumb-*: Old English cumb (engl. coomb) 'paten' (in the meaning 'valley' from abrit. **kumbo-s* 'valley'), Middle Low German kumm(e) f. 'round, deep vessel, tub, paten', Modern High German Kumme 'deep bowl', Swiss chumme 'cistern'; **kump-* (from **kumb-* with consonant-sharpening) Middle Low German kump, Middle High German kumpf 'vessel, cup', Modern High German Kumpf.

In addition perhaps npers. gumbed 'bulge, cupola, goblet'; further presumably Lithuanian gum̃bas m. 'bulge, swelling, lump, growth, knag'; Latvian gum̃ba 'swelling, lump, growth';

Old Church Slavic gъba 'sponge, fungus', Serbo-Croatian gŭba 'sponge, leprosy', sloven. gôba 'sponge, fungus', gôbec m. 'muzzle', ačech. húba 'sponge', newer 'muzzle, lip', russ. gubá 'tree-fungus'; besides gúba 'lip'; in Slavic lies intonation change before, the meaning 'muzzle' is everywhere newer.

Under a basic meaning 'save, store' was connected with Modern High German Koben Avestan gufra- 'deep; mysterious, wonderful', ostensibly originally 'sunk in a pit'?

d. With -s-suffixes; geu-lo-s 'round vessel'.

Old Indic gōla-h 'ball', gōlā, gōlam 'ball, round water jug'; perhaps Old Indic gula-h, gulī, gulikā 'ball, globule, sphere' (or as ge- to **ge-* 'clench');

Armenian kalum 'I take, catch' (**guleō*);

gr. γυλιός 'long-shaped wallet, hedgehog' (also γογ-γύλος? s. gong-; about γωλεός see below *gol- 'lie');

gr. γύαλον `cubical stone', later `gorge, ravine, gulch', meg. γυάλας `drinking cup', ἐγγυαλίζω `put into the palm of the hand, put into the hand' (compare to latter ἐγγυάω under **gou̯e-*) can also as **γυσσαλο-* derive from the s-extension **g(e)u-s-*;

Latin vola f. `the hollow of the hand, the palm, or of the foot, the sole' (**gu-elā*);

Old High German kiol, Old English cēol, Old Norse kjōll m. `(*roundish) vehicle, ship' (the newer meaning `keel' through influence of Old Norse kjōlr `keel'; Germanic **keula-* = Old Indic gōla-), Old High German kiulla `pouch'; Old English cȳll(e) `hose, vessel', borrowed from Latin culleus; from which Finnish keula `wheel of the prow', Old Norse kýll m. `sack, bag, pouch' (Dutch kuij `the middle, sacklike part of a net' but after Franckvan Wijk Wb. 356 from Old Dutch kuide from the t-extension the root); Old High German kūli, Middle High German kiule, Modern High German Keule (proto Germanic **kūlōn-*) `stick with a thick spherical end', Middle Low German kūle `club, mace, joint, clavate vessel, testicle, swelling, lump, growth, polliwog; (konkav:) `pit, pothole, cave' (latter meaning also in Middle High German kūle, Modern High German (md.) kaule and Old Swedish kūla), Middle High German kūle, Modern High German Kaule `ball, spherical object', Modern High German Kaulquappe (of spherical appearance), Old Norse kūla `swelling, blister, ball'; Modern High German Dialectal kulle `ball, pulley, roller', kullern, kollern `roll, make into a ball' (: gr. γυλλός κύβος ἢ τετράγωνος λίθος Hes. with coloring of the meaning round?); presumably also Old Norse kollr m. `rounded acme, apex, head', Middle Low German kol, kolle m. `head, uppermost part of plants', Modern High German küllbock and (zero grade) kielbock `hornless he-goat; billy goat', compare alb. tsjap gul `hornless he-goat; billy goat'; Norwegian køyla (**kauliōn*) `gully, canal'.

e. With n-suffix; gou-no-m `curled, arched'.

Avestan gaona- n. `hair (esp. the animal); (hair)farbe' (compare above Lithuanian gaurai etc.); particularly Germanic formation Old Norse kaun n. `swelling, blister', mnl. coon f. `jaw, mandible, lower jaw bone', nld. koon `cheek' (**kaunō*); in addition Gothic kuna-wida `manacle' (`crooked rope', to Old High German widi `rope').

f. With r-suffixes; geu-ro-s, gou-ro-s, gū-ro-s, gur-no-s.

Armenian kuṛn Gen., kṛan `back' (= Lithuanian guṛnas), kr-ukn, Gen. krkan `calcaneus', kur, Gen. kri `boat, barge', also Becken, paten, Pfanne; kray (**gūrāti-*) `turtle, tortoise'; o- grade kor (**gou-ero-* or -ero-) `writhed, crooked, humped, bent, curved; inverted ', korī `canal', koriz `swelling, lump, growth; kernel, seed ';

gr. γῦρός `round, veer ', γῦρος `roundness, circle, round pit, pothole', γῦρόω `curve ', γυρίω or γύριω `polliwog ' (as Middle Low German kū-le, Modern High German Kaulquappe, see above);

Middle Irish gūaire `hair' (originally `* curly hair', compare:) nir. guairneán `whirlwind';

Norwegian kaure `frizzy curl (esp. from wool)', kaur `curled wave ' (Indo Germanic **gou-ro-*; besides Germanic **kaυ-ara-* in:) Old Norse kārr m. `frizzy curl ', kāri `the gust of wind curling the water ', Norwegian kåre `shavings '; with -eu- Germanic loanword Finnish keuru `arched '; with ū (compare γῦρός and the ū included Armenian words) Norwegian kūra `squat; rest', Middle Low German kūren `waylay (for the hunt)', Modern High German kauern; with application of coagulation of the milk Norwegian kjøre (**keuran-*) `cheese in the first state ', kūr (**kūra-*) `ds., coagulated milk', køyr (**kauri-*) `cheese mass of sour milk ', kaara (**kaυarōn*) `curdle, coagulate, harden, become caseous ' (doubtful whereas sloven. etc. žūr `wheys' because of the ĝ indicating additional form sloven. zūra, zōra `wheys');

maybe alb. hirra `whey');

Lithuanian gaũras m., mostly Pl. gauraĩ `hair in the body, flax fiber ', Latvian gauri m. Pl. `pubic hair' (compare above Avestan gaona- n. `hair'); Lithuanian guĩnas m. `hip, haunch, ankle ', Latvian gūrus `hip, fork in the spinning wheel ' (= Armenian kuĩn); Lithuanian gūrinti, gūróti `get writhed, crooked, humped ', Latvian gūrāties, guōrīties `loll oneself, stretch oneself'; Lithuanian káлно gūras m. `mountain projection '; serb. gūra f. `hunch ', gūriti se `shrink up, crook'; if here Serbo-Croatian žúriti se `hurry '?; s. also under ĝeu- `expedite, hurry'; also Bulgarian gúrkam, gúmъ `dive in the water '?; the intonation required **gōurā* or **gouērā* (compare above Old Norse kārr etc.).

maybe alb. gurra `rapid'

g. With s-suffixes:

npers. gōšā `angle, point, edge';

gr. γῦς `the crooked piece of wood in a plow ', ἄροτρον αὐτόγυον `Pflug, an dem Krummholz und Scharbaum noch aus einem Stück bestanden ' (s-suffix doubtful), wherefore γύης `piece of wood as field measure' (*γυ[σ]ᾱς-, but also *γυFᾱς- possible);

gr. γυῖον `limb, the feet, womb, hands, the hand, (so prob. as device on signet); the whole body';

maybe alb. gji `womb'

gr. μητρός γυῖα `lap', γυιόω `lame', from which γυιός `lame' (Grdf. *γυσ-ιον; or γυF-ιον?
ders. doubt by γύαλον, see above), γαυσός `crooked, bent outwards, writhed humped (from legs)', γαυσόομαι `to be bent' (but γαυσάδας ψευδής Hes. perhaps Gaelic, to Old Irish gáu `lie, falsity'?) can σ have preserved after other Adj. in -σός for `stooped, writhed, crooked, humped', yet αυ is also difficult, because an ablaut **gēu-* : gəu- in spite of the frequent grade **gū-* stands not certainly; unclear hom. ἀμφίγυος `with a limb at each end, double-pointed, or bending both ways, elastic', epithet of spear, and ἀμφιγυήεις `he that halts in both feet, the lame one', epithet of Hephaistos;

maybe also alb. gënjej `lie'

Middle Low German nnd. kūse `stump, club, mace, joint; grinder, molar tooth', Norwegian dial. kūs `hump, hunchback'; Swedish kusa `pudenda'; Old Norse kjōss f. `pouch', kjōss m. `bay, cavity', farø. kjōs f. `craw', Swedish kjusa `valley gulch', kjus `point, edge of a poke', Norwegian kýsa (**keusiōn-*) and køysa (**kausiōn-*) `crest, bonnet, cowl'.

References: WP. I 555 ff., WH. I 112 f., 311, 629, 852, Trautmann 80, 100 f.

Page(s): 393-398

---

Root / lemma: ghab<sup>h</sup>(o)lo-, -lā

Meaning: bifurcation

Material: Old Irish Middle Irish gabul `forked bough, fork; fork point the thighs, vulva', cymr. gaffl `fork; thigh fork, vulva', abret. Plur. gablau `fork', nbret. gavl, gaol `bifurcation' (with ̄umlaut from a to e acymr. gebel `a mattock, pickaxe', cymr. gefail [-̄stem] `pliers', bret.
gevel m., acorn. geuel-hoern gl. A pair of snuffers), (gall-)Latin gabalus `cross, gallows'; the brit. forms prove a Celtic **gablo-*; the medial a in gabalus is probably Latin; v. Wartburg separates gallorom. gabalus `spear, javelin' (older `fork'), places that in **gab-lakkos* `spear, javelin' (cymr. gaflach ds.), from gabulum `gallows', but u in Old Irish gabul (**ghab<sup>h</sup>lo-*) is only epenthesis;

Old High German gabala 'fork', Middle Low German gaffel(e) f., Old English gafof, geafel f. ds.; Old Icelandic gaflak, Old English gafeluc 'light spear, lance' derive from an Old Irish **gablach*; here probably the PN Illyrian Gabuleo, Venetic Τρι-γάβολοι.

References: WP. I 533 f., WH. I 575, Krahe Würzb. Jahrbücher 1, 215.

Page(s): 409

---

Root / lemma: ghab<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to grab, take

Note:

Root / lemma: ghab<sup>h</sup>-: 'to grab, take' derived from the extended labials: geleb(h)-, glēb(h)- (: gleb(h)-) and gleb(h)- (: glb(h)-) of Root / lemma: gel-1: 'to curl; round' [see above].

Note: with ē-forms durative 'have on, wear, hold on, possess, adhere to', could be onomatopoeic words (imitation of of snatch sound), what would explain the frequent coincidence with the synonymous roots qagh- and qap- (compare also Vendryes MSL. 18, 310); on the other hand place EM<sup>2</sup> 150 for qap- (also also for ghab<sup>h</sup>-) put a vocalism ē : ō : ə (against it Reichelt KZ. 46, 339, WP. I 344, WH. I 159), so that its root must be assumed as ghab<sup>h</sup>- and Old Indic gābhasti-h 'hand' then was to be kept away.

Material: Old Indic gābhasti-h m. 'forearm, hand';

Latin habeō, -ēre 'hold, possess, have', etc.; dēbeō 'to owe, to be indebted to somebody for anything; to be due to do a thing, be morally bound to or be bound by logic or necessity or law to; to have to pay because of fate, to be destined to give, have to ' (**dē-habeō*), praebeō 'to offer, hold out; to provide, supply, allow; bestow; with reflex. to present or show oneself in a certain character, behave as ' (older prae-hibeō = Umbrian pre-habia, pre-hubia 'to hold forth, reach out, proffer, offer, tender'), habē-nā f. 'a strap; a bridle, reins', habilis 'easily managed, handy; suitable, fit, convenient', etc.;

Maybe abbreviated alb. (**habeō*, kapem) kam 'hold, possess, have' similar to poln. jestem 'I am': alb. jam 'I am', common alb. h- > k-; -b- > -mb- > *-m-*s found in corn. caf(f)os, cafes, Middle Breton caf(f)out, bret. kavout 'have'.

Note:

Also zero grade in alb. preterite (ha)pata 'I held, possessed, had'

Oscan io-inflection: ha[íar] `have, hold, support, carry, wear', haffiest `have, hold, support, carry, wear' (**ghab<sup>h</sup>-*), in addition Präter. stem hip- (**ghēp-*, probably through influence of Latin capiō: cēpī, different EM<sup>2</sup> 442) in Konj. Perf. hipid, Fut. exakt. hipust `will hold, possess, have';

Umbrian habe `have, hold, support, carry, wear', Imper. habitu, habetu `have, hold, support, carry, wear' (**habē-*) besides habiest `they have, hold, support, carry, wear' (**habīō*) and sub-ahtu, subotu `send different ways, send out, send forth, send about, scatter, distribute' (**sub-hab<sup>h</sup>-tōd*), etc.; to Umbrian -b- compare Devoto, Tabulae Iguvinae 172 ff., v. Blumenthal, Iguv. Taf. 66<sup>2</sup>;

Maybe alb. Tosc (**(h)ap*) jap, Geg ep (nasalized) nep `give': Old High German geban `give'.

Old Irish gaibid `takes, seizes etc.', later also `attains, gets' (**ghab(h)-í-ti*), verbal noun gabal f. (Celtic **gabaglā*, the ending probably attributed to **kaglā*, cymr. cael `attainment'; see below qagh- `catch') `the taking' = cymr. gafael `the holding on' (f = v), corn. gave f. `the holds, the seizing', abret. an-gabol `the grabbing, resumption'; otherwise mostly in Brit. beginning k (attributed to qagh-): mcymr. and cymr. caffael `attainment' (besides cael, see above); das ff derives from the s-subjunctive (v + h > ff); with other suffix corn. caf(f)os, cafes, Middle Breton caf(f)out, bret. kavout `have';

about the striking congruities Irish compounds with gaib- with Latin compositions of habēre s. Pedersen KG. II 532;

here also gallorom. **gabella* `fascicle, sheaf, bunch, bundle' from gall. **gabaglā*,

Gothic gabeif f. `richness' (**ghab<sup>h</sup>ī*), gab(e)igs `rich' (**ghab<sup>h</sup>īko-*), Old High German kepi f. `richness', kepic `rich', Old English giefig, Old Icelandic göfugr ds.; gæfa f. `luck', gæfr `generous, pleasant, helpful' (Germanic **gēbiz*), Middle High German gæbe ds., Modern High German gäbe `give'; in addition also the Germanic matron's name Ala-gabiae `the all giving ones', GN Fria-gabis `dear giver'; about den GN Garman-gabis s. Gutenbrunner Germanic God's names 90 ff.; Gothic PN Gaf-ildo, Old High German Gab-ward, Germanic neologism (as replacement for dō- `give') is Gothic giban (Präter. gaf, Pl. gebum), Old Icelandic gefa (Proto Norse 1. Sg. present gifu, 3. Sg. Präter. gaſ), Old English giefan, Old High German geban etc. `give'; Gothic giba f., Old Icelandic gjöf, Old English giefu, Old High German geba f. `gift'; after Kretschmer Gl. 19, 208 derives the vowel of Germanic **zēðan* of contrasted neman 'take'; Old High German PN Gibicho, Old Icelandic Gjúki;

Germanic **kaþiṣiō* f. in Old English cefes, cyfes 'bondmaid, concubine', Old High German kebisa 'concubine, mistress', besides Old Norse kefser m. 'captive', would lead back (doubtful) to a Indo Germanic additional form **gab<sup>h</sup>-*;

Lithuanian gābana, gabanà f. 'armful, armload (hay)'; besides gabenù, gabéti 'take away', Präter. dial. at-gébau 'has brought' (compare Latin capiō: cēpi), gabùs 'gifted, talented', gebù, gebéti 'to be able, be used to, be accustomed to'; with ō: gobùs 'greedy', gōbis m. 'greed, lust', dial. guōbti 'snatch', etc.;

Slavic (originally iterative) **gabajō*, **gabatī* in poln. gabać 'assail, gripe', wruss. habác 'take, gripe', etc.; Old Church Slavic gobino 'fullness, wealth', gobъzъ 'rich' are Germanic loanword About the expressive character of ch- in russ. chábítъ 'grab quickly', chopítъ 'grasp, catch' etc. s. Machek Slavia 16, 178, 208 ff.

References: WP. I 344 f., WH. I 158 ff., 630 f., Trautmann 74, Feist 175 f., 214.

Page(s): 407-409

---

Root / lemma: ghaido- or ġhaido-

Meaning: goat

Material: Latin haedus, -ī m. 'a young goat, a kid' from **ghaidos* (dialect (h)ēdus, faedus, fēdus);

Maybe abbreviated alb. (**ġheida*) dhija 'a goat' common alb. ġh- > d-; -d- > -j-s.

Gothic gaits and Old High German geiz f., Old Icelandic geit f., Old Swedish gēt f., Old English gāt f., Old Saxon get f. (consonant stem) 'goat', originally used for both genders.

From **ghaido-* derived **ghaidīnos*: Latin haedīnus 'of a kid', Old English gæten, Old High German geizīn 'of or pertaining to goats', Gothic gaitein n. 'kid', Old High German geizīn n. 'he-goat; billy goat'.

Old High German ziga, wherefore Old English ticcen and Old High German zicchīn with hypocoristic consonant stretch, is not 'through causing taboo Lautumstellung' from Indo Germanic **ghid<sup>h</sup>ós* originated, rather as Auslautsdublette to gr. δίζα αἴξ. Λάκωνες (Hes.) < **digia*, Armenian tik 'hose (from goatskin)' to stellen.

Daß alb. qith 'kid', Middle Irish cit 'sheep', Old Norse kið 'Tierjunges', Old High German kizzi(n), chizzi n. (Germanic **kittīna*) 'caressing alteration' are from ghaido-, is a unnecessary assumption. Rather the named words are directly an enticing (or frightening) shout, call, as kitz, gitz, hitz, hetz usw. is attested to have evolved from most different languages and dialects.

References: WP. I 527 f., WH. I 632, 868.

Page(s): 409-410

---

Root / lemma: ghais-

Meaning: to stick to

Material: Latin haereō, -ēre, haesī, haesum `to hang or hold fast, to hang, stick, cleave, cling, adhere, be fixed, sit fast, remain close to any thing or in any manner; to hold fast, remain attached or fixed, to keep firm, adhere; to hold fast, remain attached or fixed, to keep firm, adhere ' (**ghaiseiō*), haesitāre `hesitate', Maybe alb. nasalized (**gher-*) nder `hang, hesitate ' common alb. gh- > d-.

presumably to Lithuanian gaištù, -aũ, gaišti `purl, border, hesitate, dwindle ', gaišinti `while, spend time, destroy'.

References: WP. I 528, WH. I 632.

Page(s): 410

---

Root / lemma: ghait-ā, -es-

Meaning: curly or wavy hair

Material: Von **ghait-[e]s-* from: Avestan gaēsa- m. `curly hair, curls ',

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in -h₂ʷah₁ʷe- > Avestan -ae- npers. gēs `droopy hair, curls ', Avestan gaēsu- `frizzy haired, curly haired; (from camel:) rat's hairy tail ';

gr. χαίτη `loose, flowing hair, used esp. of back hair, of a horse's mane, of a lion's mane, of a hedgehog's spines, crest of a helmet, of trees, foliage, of human hair '; in addition probably the maked. PN Γαιτιάς;

Middle Irish gaīset f. (from **ghait-s-*) `stiff hair, bristle'.

References: WP. I 529.

Page(s): 410

---

Root / lemma: ghayō-

Meaning: false

Material: Latin haud Concept of negation 'not', maybe from **hāuidom > *hāudom (> haud* as nihilum > nihil), neutr. adjective 'incorrect (it would be)';

Old Irish gāu, gāo, gō f. 'the inaccurate, lie, falsity', gū-forcell 'wrong testimonial', mcymr. geu, ncymr. gau 'incorrect', Subst. 'lie, falsity', corn. gow m. ds., bret. gaou ds.; derived mcymr. geuawc, ncymr. euog 'culpable'.

Quite zweifelhafte equation. If Celtic forms must be assumed with āu, they could go back to Indo Germanic **gōu-* (to geu- 'bend', S. 393). compare to vocalism Pokorny ZceltPh. 11, 19, to meaning Frisk Göteborgs Högsk. Arsskr. 41 (1935), 3. Abt., S. 11.

References: WP. I 530, WH. I 636 f., 869.

Page(s): 414

Root / lemma: gha gha, ghe ghe, ghi ghi

Meaning: to cackle (of geese)

Note: (compare ghans- 'goose'). Sowohl Urverwandtschaft as newer creation are possible.

Material: Old Irish gigren, giugrann 'goose', cymr. gwyrain 'Red Grouse, wild chicken' (basic form seems **gigur . . . ??*); Middle Irish gēd, cymr. gwydd, acorn. guīt, bret. goaz, gwaz 'goose' (**gigdā* because of Middle Irish Gen. gēoid), to d-forms compare Old English ganot under **ghans-* 'goose';

expressive alb. gogësinj 'belch, burp' (, G. Meyer Wb. 126);

Middle High German gāgen, gāgern (also gīgen) 'shout, cackle like a goose' (Modern High German Gāgag, Gīgag for 'goose'), Old High German gackizōn, gackazzen 'mutter, mumble, speak in a low tone; bleat, as a he-goat, shout', Modern High German gacksen, gatzen, gackern, Tirol etc. gaggezen, Swiss gaggelen, gagelen 'gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker, laugh shakingly', mnl. gagelen, Middle English gagelin, nengl. gaggle 'gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker'; similarly Old High German gickazzen, Middle High German giksen, gēksen, Modern High German gicksen 'blurt fine inarticulate tones' (i depicting not real Ablaut, but the higher tone); Old Icelandic gaga and nisl. gagga 'deride';

Lithuanian gagù, -ėti ` chatter ', gagà ` eider', gagõnas `jabberer' (somewhat similarly gegẽ `cuckoo'); Latvian gâgât ` shout like goose ', gâga ` kind of duck ', gâgars `goose ' (Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 74 f.);

Maybe alb. expressive gogësinj `burp, belch, yawn' (**gha-ghans*) `*onomatopoeic cry of goose', gagaç `stutterer', guguçe `dove kind ' (Slavic origin) also alb. ga ga `cry of goose' : gegẽ `Albanians (neighbouring the Slavs) *stutterers ', geg ` North Albanian speech (according to Slavs) unknown speech '

Note:

From Root / lemma: gha gha, ghe ghe, ghi ghi: `to cackle (of geese)' derived the new

Root / lemma: ghan-s-: `goose'.

Maybe alb. për-gjigjem, Geg gjegj `answer' russ. gogotáť ` gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker, chatter; laugh loudly ', Dialectal ` neigh ', Czech old hohtati `howl', poln. gogotać `glucken', Upper Sorbian gagotać, gigotać (because of g instead of h newer sound imitation) ` chatter '; russ. gágatb ` chatter, from geese ', gága `eider duck', gagára `aquanaut ' etc.

In bird's names except not named here:

Old Icelandic gagl ` greylag goose ';

Lithuanian gaĩgalas `drake, male duck ', Latvian gaigale ` a gull kind ', Old Prussian gegalis ` aquanaut ', See N Gaygelith; russ. gógolb ` common goldeneye, Golden Eye ', poln. gogoł, gagoł ` European goldeneye ', old gogolica ` a coot, a water-fowl ' (Berneker 318).

Maybe alb. gogol `ghost'

References: WP. I 526, Trautmann 74 f.

Page(s): 407

---

Root / lemma: ghe<sup>bh</sup>-el-, -el-, -lo-

Meaning: weathercock; head

Material: Gr. κεφαλή ` head, end, acme, apex ', maked. κεβλή, κεβαλή, PN Κέβαλος; unclear γαβαλάν ἐγκέφαλονῃ κεφαλὴν Hes.; compare in addition Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 70 f., Pisani RIETBalk. 1937, 15 ff.;

Gothic gibla m. 'gable, pinnacle', changing through ablaut Old Norse gaff m. 'gable; point of an island'; Old High German gibil m. 'gable, pole of the earth'; gibilla f., gebal m., Middle High German gebel 'cranium';

Tocharian A śpāl- 'head' (: gr. κεφαλή), Instr. śpālyo-.

References: WP. I 571, Feist 214, W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 252, 261.

Page(s): 423

---

Root / lemma: ghed<sup>h</sup>-, ghod<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to join, make a bond

Material: Old Indic gádhya-h 'stick firmly'; ā-gadhita-h 'clipped, clinged', pāri-gadhita-h 'clasps' (from sexual union);

Old Frisian gadia 'unite', Middle Low German gaden (**gadōn*) 'suit, please, be married', Old High German bigatōn, Middle High German gaten, gegaten intr. 'gather, so that it fits', trans. 'Gleiches zu Gleichem gesellen, zusammenbringen', refl. 'sich fügen', Old High German gi-gat 'fitting', Old Saxon gi-gado 'ilk', Old English (ge)gada 'comrade, husband', Modern High German Gatte; Gothic gadiliggs 'cousin', Old Saxon gaduling 'kinsman, relative', Old English gædeling 'comrade', Old High German gatulinc, gatilinc 'kinsman, relative, cousin, journeyman'; Old English geador, tō gædere (engl. together) 'together', Old Frisian gadur, Middle Low German gader, Middle High German gater ds., Old English gadrian, gæd(e)rian (engl. gather) 'gather, collect', Old Frisian gaderia, Middle Low German gad(d)eren ds., Middle High German vergatern 'be united, merge', Modern High German vergattern ds.; in addition presumably also Old High German gataro, Modern High German Gatter (umgelaute) Middle High German geter, Modern High German Gitter), Old Swedish gadder, Middle Low German gaddere 'Gitter'; with lengthened grade: Gothic gōþs, Old Icelandic gōðr, Old English gōd, Old High German guot, Modern High German gut (Germanic **gōða*- 'fitting'); Old Icelandic gōða 'gut machen' etc.

Old Church Slavic godъ 'time, right time', godina 'ῥπα', godънъ 'compliant', russ. gódnyj 'suitable', Old Church Slavic u-goditi 'please', maybe alb. Geg godit 'strike (chime?)', goditun 'suitable' russ.-Church Slavic goditi ds., Church Slavic ugoda 'satisfaction', russ. výgoda 'benefit, advantage', Old Church Slavic negodovati 'be undisposed', iter. Old Church Slavic ugoždq, ugožditi 'it make right, please ' (etc., Berneker 317 f., where also about poln. loanword Lithuanian gãdas 'association ', gãdytis 'occur, meet ' among others).

In addition perhaps Lithuanian dial. guõdas, Latvian gũods 'honour, fame; decorum, courteousness; festivity, feast '; whereas are Latvian gãds, sagãds 'stock, acquired property ', gãdāt 'care, worry' probably from borrowed Russ.;

here (compare Van Windekens Lexique 32) Tocharian AB kātk-, is softened A kāck-, B kācc- 'rejoice ' (compare above Middle Low German gaden 'please '); different Pedersen Tocharian 172.

References: WP. I 531 ff., Trautmann 74, Feist 218.

See also: see also under ghend-.

Page(s): 423-424

---

Root / lemma: ghed-

Meaning: to defecate; hole

Material: Old Indic hadati, hadate 'defecates', Avestan zaōah- m. 'rump';

Armenian jet (o-stem) 'tail (of animals)';

gr. χέζω 'defecate ', Perf. κέχοδα; χόδανος 'rump';

Phrygian ζέτνα πύλη (leg. πύγη?);

alb. dhjes 'defecate ', ndjete 'hideous, disgusting', fem. 'repugnance'; ndotem 'be stained, smeared ', Geg ndishem 'hideous'; common alb. gh- > d-.

Old Norse gat n. 'hole, aperture ', Old English geat 'door, aperture ' (out of it nir. gead 'the bottom '), Old Frisian jet n. 'hole, aperture ', Old Saxon gat 'hole', Middle Low German also 'anus', ndd. Kattegat 'Katzenloch '.

References: WP. I 571 f.

Page(s): 423

---

Root / lemma: ghegh-

Meaning: to curve, bend

Material: Armenian gog `cavity, lap, bosom, belly' etc., as adjective `hollow, concave', gogem `hollow out'; gugem (**ghōgh-*) `hug, embrace, hold tight, care';

Norwegian gagr `crooked back ', Old Icelandic gag-hals `with neck crooked backward ', ablaut. gægiask `be stretched ', etc.;

Lithuanian gõgas m. `withers of horse '.

References: WP. I 570, Lidén Armen. Stud. 93 f.

Page(s): 424

---

Root / lemma: gheĩ<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to yearn for

Material: Old Irish gĩall = cymr. gwystl, acorn. guistel `captive ', bret. goestl `pay, caution', gall. in Congeistlus MN. (cymr. cyngwystl `commitment ') = Old High German gĩsal, Modern High German Geisel, Old English gĩsel, Old Icelandic gĩs/ds.; the precise concordance between Germanic and Celtic speaks perhaps for borrowing on the part of Germanic; Gothic PN Gĩsla-mun-dus; besides without l Gothic PN Anda-gĩs, Old English Gĩs-wulf, Old High German Gĩsi-ulf, compare Middle Low German gĩse `captive'.

With ablaut here Irish gell `sacrifice, pledge, deposit ' (**ghistlo-*), whereof the verb Old Irish gell-, gill- `to pledge, promise' (3. Sg. Konj. gellaid, 3. Pl. Fut. gillfit), with ad- `swear, vow, promise ' etc.; from gĩall `captive' derives the verb giall-, gẽill- `serve, obey ', e.g. 3. Sg. giallaid, Fut. 3. Pl. gẽillfit.

Old High German Middle High German gĩt `covetousness, greed, avarice ', Old High German gĩtag `greedy, avaricious, stingy', Middle High German gĩten and gĩt(e)sen `be greedy, avaricious ' (from latter z from Middle High German gĩze, German Geiz `greed '), Old English gĩtsian `lust, crave', gĩtsung `greed ';

Lithuanian geidžiũ geĩsti `lust, crave, long, want, wish', geidāju, -ti `wish, long, want', gaĩdas `violent wish, desire', dial. gidis `greedy '; lett. gaidu, gaidĩt `wait, hold on' (originally iterative), gaĩda `expectation ', dzĩdris (?) `thirst '; Old Prussian gẽĩdĩ, giẽide `sie warten ', sengijdi `he attains ', sengidaut `erlangen';

Old Church Slavic židq, žbdati (thereafter also žbdq) `wait, hold on'; russ. ždu, ždátʹ `wait, hold on'.

References: WP. I 553, Trautmann 82, Pokorny Urillyrier 56<sup>1</sup> WH. I 576, 632, 641.

See also: compare gheĩgh-

---

Root / lemma: gheĩ<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to wish for

Note: only Aryan and Slavic

Material: Old Indic gṛdhyati 'is greedy, demands violently' (= serb.-Church Slavic žľžďq), gṛdhnũ-h 'greedy', gṛdhra-h 'greedy; vulture', gardha-h (= Old Church Slavic gladъ) m. 'anxiousness, concupiscence, solicitousness', Avestan garəða- ds.;

Slavic **žildiō* 'demand' in:

serb.-Church Slavic žľžďq, žľďěti 'long for, ask, demand, call for, wish for, desire, require, expect', Serbo-Croatian žúďim, žúďjeti 'long, want, long for, yearn for';

Slavic **galda-* m. 'hunger' in:

Old Church Slavic gladъ, Serbo-Croatian glâd (Gen. glâda); Czech hlad, russ. gótod (Gen. gótoda).

References: WP. I 633, Trautmann 87 f.

Page(s): 434

---

Root / lemma: gheĩġh-

Meaning: to yearn for

Note: (see also that similar to gheĩ<sup>h</sup>-)??

Material: Old Indic jēh- only in jēhamāna-h 'gälmend, den Mund aufsperrend, klaffend, lechzend'; perhaps secondary to jīhītē, S. 418;

Gothic faihu-geigan 'lust, crave', ga-geigan 'gain', nasalized Old High German gingēn 'after etwas verlangen', gingo 'das Verlangen'; after Wissmann Nom. postverb. 41 though to ġhei-gh-, above S. 421.

Lithuanian āpmaudą giēžti 'hold a grudge, nurse a grievance', giežiúos 'long, want violently', pagiēžti 'ask for revenge', pagiežà 'thirst for revenge'; whether Lithuanian giēžti, pa-giēžti intr. 'im Halse kratzen' would be with it.

References: WP. I 552; different Feist 136 f.

Page(s): 427

---

Root / lemma: gheis- and ġheiz-d-

Meaning: confused, shocked

Note: original resemblance with ġhei-, ġhei-s- in Old Indic hinōti etc. is very probably

Material: Avestan zaēša- 'gruesome'

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in -h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>ah<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Avestan -ae- zōišnu- 'frightening, shuddering, shaking together (before frost)', zōizdištō 'of the ghastliest, most hideous ones' (Superl. to a verb **zōiždā-* 'make shudder'; see below ġheiz-d-);

Gothic us-geisnan 'erschrecken (intr.), außer Fassung geraten', Kaus. us-gaisjan 'erschrecken (tr.), außer Fassung bringen' (but Old Icelandic geisa 'hervordringen, heranstürmen' from **ga-eisa*);

Old Icelandic geiskí n. 'fear, horror'.

root form ġheiz-d<sup>h</sup>-: Old Indic hēḍ- 'be angry with' (áhēḍant-, áhēḍamāna-ḥ, Perf. jihīḍa), hēḍa-ḥ m., hēḍaḥ n. 'anger' (here also hēlatē 'is improvident', hēlayati 'deride', see below ġhēi- 'yawn'), hīḍati 'excited, aroused, aggrieved', Med. 'is excited, aroused, angry'; Avestan zōiždišta- (see above);

Old High German geist (= Old Indic hēḍa-ḥ) m., Old Saxon gēst, Old English gāst (gæst) m. 'ghost (in contrast to the body); überirdisches gespenstiges Wesen' (so esp. engl. ghost 'ghost'), Old English gæstan (**gaistjan*) 'frighten' (tr.), engl. aghost 'agitated, angry, irate', ghastly 'grisly, terrible, dreadful'.

That in the meaning exact attuning Old Church Slavic žasnŭti 'frighten (intr.)', stupefieri 'frighten' (tr.), užasъ 'fright' from **g(h)ōs-* attunes in vowel and not in guttural.

References: WP. I 553 f., Feist 531 f.

Page(s): 427

---

Root / lemma: ghel(ē)ġh-

Meaning: a kind of metal

Material: Old Church Slavic **želězo* in želez(ь)нъ 'iron', Serbo-Croatian željezo, russ. želězo 'iron';

Lithuanian geležis and žem. gelžis (therefrom geležinis, gelžinis 'iron'), Latvian dzēlzs, East Latvian dzelezs, Old Prussian gelso f. 'iron';

Whether in connection with gr. χαλκός, Cretan καυχός `copper, bronze'? That κ from χαλκός standing comparison not in the way, because καυχός in *χαλχός points as common primary grade. The word probably derives from a foreign cultural circle; also the unique gradation of the 2nd syllable in Balto Slavic would be based on different substitution in the borrowed; χαλκός (έρυθρός Ilias I 365) as `red metal' perhaps to χάλκη, χάλχη, κάλχη `murex, snail emitting purple dye', which is likewise borrowed; in Balto Slavic the name would be figuratively transferred from bronze to the iron.

References: WP. I 629, Specht Dekl. 27, Trautmann 83.

Page(s): 435

---

Root / lemma: gheled-

Meaning: ice

Material: Npers. žāla (**žalda*) `hail, hoarfrost';

gr. hom. χάλαζα `hail';

Old Church Slavic žlědica `frozen rain', sloven. žlêd `glazed frost, ice', klr. oželéda `rain with snow, ice on trees', poln. żłódź `sleet, smooth ice'.

References: WP. I 629 f., Specht Dekl. 17.

Page(s): 435

---

Root / lemma: ghelġh-

Meaning: gland

Note:

Root / lemma: ghelġh-: `gland' derived from an extended Root / lemma: gel-1: `to curl; round, *gland, growth, ball'.

Material: Armenian getj-kh `glands' (the obvious anlaut can be explained through dissimilation, s. Meillet MSL. 13, 244f., Lidén Arm. Stud. 71 under A. 1. 2);

East Lithuanian gėležuones, gėležaunės, gėležūnes `glands, craw';

Slavic **želza* in Church Slavic žlěza, russ. železá, sloven. žlěza, ačech. žléza, nowadays žláza `gland' (about Czech hlíza `abscess' s. Meillet aaO.), poln. zołza ds.

References: WP. I 612, 632, Trautmann 84.

Page(s): 435

---

Root / lemma: ghel-ond-, ghol-nd-

Meaning: stomach; bowels

Note: (A supposition about the old paradigm by Petersson Heteroklisie 228<sup>1</sup>)

Material: Gr. χολάδες f. Pl. `intestines, entrails, Gedärm', χόλικες ds.;

Maybe abbreviated alb. zorra `intestine, entrail' common alb. gh- > d-, z-; l/rs.

Old Church Slavic **želǫdъkъ* `stomach', russ.-Church Slavic želúďъkъ, Serbo-Croatian žèludac, Czech žaludek, poln. żółdek ds.

References: WP. I 631 f., Trautmann 82.

Page(s): 435

---

Root / lemma: ghel-ōu-, ghelū-

Meaning: tortoise

Material: Gr. χέλυς `turtle, tortoise, Lyre', χελώνη ds., Aeolic χελύννα, χελεύς κιθάρα Hes. (Kuiper Notes 48);

Slavic želū- f. `turtle, tortoise' in:

Church Slavic želъnъ, russ.-Church Slavic želъnъ, Serbo-Croatian žèlva, Czech želva, russ. žolъnъ f., poln. żółw.

References: WP. I 631, Trautmann 84, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 120.

Page(s): 435

---

Root / lemma: ghel-tō (Germanic) and ghel-d<sup>h</sup>ō (Slavic)

Meaning: to cost, pay

Material: Gothic fra-gildan `repay, compensate', us-gildan `repay', Old Icelandic gjalda `defray, pay, repay, be worth', Old English gieldan, Old High German geltan `defray, repay, serve, sacrifice' (proto Germanic **zelđō*), Old Swedish gjalla ds. (**žélpō*); Gothic gild n. `tax, interest', Old Icelandic gjald `payment, earnings, punishment', Old English gield `payment, tribute, tax, sacrifice, oblation, brotherhood', Old Icelandic gildi `membership', Old English gilde n. ds., gilda m. Gildenbruder ` (out of it Middle Irish gilda `squire'), Middle Low German gilde, out of it Modern High German Gilde, Old High German gelt `payment, repayment, sacrifice, oblation etc.', Modern High German Geld, Gothic gilstr n. `tax', Old High German gelstar (**geld-tra-*) `sacrifice, oblation, tax'; from nnd. gellen = gelten derives Lithuanian geliúoti `be valid';

Old Church Slavic žlědŏ žlěsti (žladŏ žlasti) `repay, pay, atone' would be, if common origin, d(h)o-present besides Germanic -to-present.

References: WP. I 632, Trautmann 82 f.

Page(s): 436

---

Root / lemma: ghelunā

Meaning: pine-tree

Material: Armenian jetun `palate, ceiling';

gr. χελῦνη `lip, upper jaw', in addition perhaps also χεῖλος `lip', Aeolic χέλλος, if from *χελFος (Solmsen KZ. 29, 352);

Old Icelandic giplnar `pine tree', Swedish gäl `gill, pine tree', Danish gjælle ds.

References: WP. I 632.

Page(s): 436

---

Root / lemma: ghel-

Meaning: to call, cry

Note: also in bird name, with -b-, -b<sup>h</sup>- and -d- extended. compare the similar to onomatopoeic words gal-, qel-.

Material: Old Indic pra-galbhá-ḥ `courageous, determined' (: Old High German gelbōn);

gr. χελιδών `swallow', older χελιδFών; the high-pitched sound coloring -ī- reminds anMiddle High German glīen `cry, esp. from bird of prey', redupl. gr. κίχλη, syrak. κιχήλᾱ `choke';

Note:

Maybe alb. (**ghalandus*) dalëndyshe `a swallow' : Latin harundo -inis f. `a reed; meton., for an object made of reed, a fishing rod; limed twigs for catching birds' : hirundo -inis, f. `swallow'. Similar phonetic setting alb. dimën `winter' : Latin hiemo -are `to winter, spend the winter' [see Root / lemma: ḡhei-2 : ḡhi- : `winter; snow' common Latin gh- > h- : alb. gh- > d-, see Root / lemma: aro-m : `reed'.

Old Icelandic gjalla (stem V.) `resonate', Old English giellan (stem V.) `cry', Old High German gellan `sound, clink, cry', Modern High German gellen (-ll- from -ln- or rather pure sound echo consonant increase); Old Norse gala (preterit gōl) `cry, crow, cackle, sing', Old English Old Saxon Old High German galan `sing; also enchant, fix a spell upon, bewitch, enchant ' (Germanic present with -a- due to a Perf. with Indo Germanic ō); Gothic gōljan 'greet ' (actually 'shout', as Old Frisian gēla 'hunt, chase' actually 'das Wild durch Geschrei aufstöbern'; lengthened grades iterative, presumably denominative) Old Norse gōla 'make happy, please, comfort', Old Saxon gōlian 'gladden'; Old High German guol- /līh 'boasting', ur-guol 'illustrious'; Old High German Old Saxon galm, Middle High German galm, gelm m. 'clangor, din, fuss, noise', Old High German nahti-gala f. 'nightingale', Old Icelandic galdr m. 'singing, magic song', Old English gealdor n. 'magic song', Old High German galdar, kalter and galstar n. ds., Old Icelandic gallr, gjallr 'clinking';

ō-grade (as Gothic gōljan) russ. galit'sja 'deride', dial. galúcha, galb f. 'fun, laughter', nagálit'sja 'taktmäßig schreien, singen, bei der Arbeit' etc.

b- and b<sup>h</sup>-extension:

Old English *gielpa*n (stem V.) 'brag, boast', Middle High German gelpfen, gelfen 'cry, sing, brag, boast', Old Icelandic gjalp n. 'boastfulness', Old English gielp ds., Old Saxon gelp 'Trotzrede', derision, ridicule', Old High German gelph 'Trotzrede, boastfulness', adj. 'lustig, minxish, wanton', Old High German gelbōn 'jemd.' deceive', Old Saxon galpōn (schw. V.) 'loud cry, brag, boast', Danish gylpe, gulpe 'shout, cry like a raven' (with Germanic þ Old Icelandic *gjalf*r 'Wellengetöse', gylfi 'king, prince, lord', gylfin n. 'fiend, demon', gylfra f. 'witch', gylfringr m. 'sword', Middle Low German gelve 'surge', Dutch golf 'wave', dial. galveren, golveren 'sound, howl');

Lithuanian guľbinti 'vaunt, praise'; about guľbas 'swan' s. S. 431;

perhaps after Machek (Slavia 16, 198) here with expressive ch-Slavic **chľbity se* 'boast', **chľba* 'boastfulness' in Czech chľubiti se, chľouba (old chľúba), etc.; possibly also Slavic **chorbъ* (from **ghob<sup>h</sup>-lo-*) 'valiant' in Old Bulgarian chrabъ, chrabъ 'warlike' etc. (compare above Old Indic pra-galbhá-h).

Dental extension Germanic gelt-: isl. gelta (**galtjan*) 'bark, bay', Old High German gelzōn 'utter the voice, squeal'.

References: WP. I 628.

Page(s): 428

---

Root / lemma: ghend<sup>h</sup>- (ghond<sup>h</sup>-)

Meaning: boil

Material: Gr. κανθύλη `ulcer, swelling, lump, growth', κονθηλαί αί ανοιδήσεις Hes.;

Gothic gund n. `cancerous ulcer', Norwegian dial. gund m. `scurf', Old English gund m. `pus', Old High German gund m. `pus, pustulating ulcer'.

References: WP. I 588.

Page(s): 438

---

Root / lemma: ghend- and ghed-

Meaning: to grab, grip

Note: For concurrent the unnasalized and the nasalized root form s. Brugmann II<sup>2</sup> 3, 293f., IF. 32, 321

Material: Gr. χανδάνω (**ghend-*) `take in, hold, contain, take; to be capable, able; catch', Aor. ἔχαδον (**ghnd-*), Fut. χείσομαι (**ghend-s-*), Perf. with present-meaning κέχονδα;

alb. gjëndem (**ghend-*) `be found', gjënj, gjenj, Geg gjëj `find' (G. Meyer BB. 8, 187, Alb. Wb. 140, Alb. stem III 10; gjet `find, regain', s. Schmidt KZ. 57, 20ff.);

Latin praehendō, -ere, -ī, -sum `catch, capture, take hold of, arrest, occupy, handle, gripe', praeda `spoils of war, plunder, booty; of animals, prey; in gen., plunder, gain'. Ablat. old praidad (**prai-hedā*); hedera `ivy' (`clasping'; from **ghedes-ā*);

Old Irish ro-geinn `findet Platz in' (**ghnd-ne-t*), cymr. 1. Sg. gannaf, verbal noun genni (from **gannim*, Indo Germanic **ghnd-n-*) `enthalten sein, Platz haben'; (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), in addition Middle Irish geind f. (Old Irish **gend*) `wedge', bret. genn m. ds., mcor. Pl. genow, corn. gedn, ncymr. gaing ds. (with secondary -ng);

Gothic bi-gitan `find', Old Icelandic geta `reach; bring forth, assume', Old English be-gietan `receive, produce', for-gietan `forgotten' (engl. get, beget, forget Scandinavian loanword), Old High German pi-gezzan `obtain', fir-gezzan `forgotten' (in addition as Causative Middle High German ergetzen `make forget, compensate'), Modern High German ergötzen, Old Saxon bi-getan `gripe', far-getan `forgotten'; Middle Low German gissen, Swedish Norwegian gissa `advise, assume' (engl. guess nnd. or nord. loanword); perhaps here (as with cymr. genni the form related **ghend-nō*): Gothic du-ginnan, Old English on-, bi-ginnan, Old Saxon Old High German biginnan `take hold, take in hand, begin' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (other interpretation attempts s. by Feist<sup>3</sup> s. v.; therefrom noteworthy by Wiedemann BB. 27, 193 as **ghen-ūō* to alb. zē, Geg zâ` touch, catch, start, begin, occupy, conceive [from the woman], hire ' from proto alb **zenō*;

common alb. gh- > d-, z-.

perhaps also Old Church Slavic gadati` assume, mean' ('grasp spiritually'), russ. gadátʹ ` conjecture, create, invent ', Czech hadati` advise, mean', etc.

References: WP. I 589 f., WH. I 638, Thurneysen Gr. 353, Berneker 288 f.

Page(s): 437-438

---

Root / lemma: ghen-

Meaning: to crack open, grind, scratch

Material: Only in den extensions ghnēgh- : ghnəgh-, ghnəd(h)-, ghnei-, ghneu-.

guttural extension ghnēgh-:

Avestan aiwi-ynixta- ` gnawed, corroded '; Old Norse gnaga` gnaw', Old English gnagan, ginagan (with anaptyktischem vowel), late nagan ds. - Besides with Indo Germanic g in anlaut and Franconian cnagan, Dutch knagen ds.;

Latvian grīēga` someone who eats with long teeth ' (the softening after Endzelin Latvian Gr. 136 f. characteristic for scornful expressions). compare also Mühlenbach-Endzelin Latvian-D. Wb. I 634.

Dental extension ghnəd(h)-:

with intensive consonant stretch Old English gnætt m. ` mosquito ', engl. gnat` mosquito ', ndd. gnatte` small mosquito ', Danish dial. gnat` small piece', Middle High German gnaz, -tzes` scurf, niggardliness ', Modern High German Gnatz, Gnätze` scurf, skin rash '; Old Icelandic gnotra` clatter, rattle, clash (of skeleton)', engl. dial. to gnatter, Swedish gnat` Genörgel, Gezänk`, gnatig` peevish, immer grumpy, surly, sullen ', Modern High German gnatzig` übellaunisch` (compare kratzig` in the same meaning).

further with dd: Old Norse gnaddr` the young from animals or people ', Old Icelandic gnadda` murren, mit übellaunischen Worten quälen`, Norwegian dial. gnaddra` drone, grumble, growl ', ndd. gnadderig` übellaunisch`, morose '.

Persson Beitr. 95 f., 811.

i-extensions ghnei-, ghneid(h)-:

Gr. χνίει ψακάζει, θρύπτει (l. θρύπτει), χνιαρωτέρα χνωω[δεσ]τέρα Hes.;

Old English gnīdan 'rub, grind', Old High German gnītan, Middle Low German gnīden, from which probably Old Swedish gnīdha, Swedish gnida, Danish gnide borrowed is; compare also (likewise borrowed?) the rare Old Icelandic gniðaðs; Old Icelandic gnīsta tönnum 'clatter with the teeth', Middle High German gnīst 'ground', Tirol Gneist 'chopped or scraped stuff'; Norwegian dial. gnita 'kleines abgesprungenes Stück', Middle Low German gnitte 'small mosquito', East Frisian gnid, gnit 'sundries, small stuff; a kind of small gnats', Modern High German Gnitze 'small mosquito'; Latvian gnīde 'rough, shabby, dirty skin'; Old Church Slavic gnijǫ, gniti 'blight, decay', russ. gnitʹ, Bulgarian gnija, Serbo-Croatian gnijiti and gnijiliti, Czech hníti, poln. gnić ds.; Old Church Slavic gnilъ 'rotten', russ. gnil, Serbo-Croatian gnjio, Czech hnílý, poln. gniły ds., Old Church Slavic gnojъ 'manure', russ. gnoj 'pus', Serbo-Croatian gnôj 'ds.', Czech hnůj 'crap, muck, manure', poln. gnój ds.

Maybe alb. (**gnola*) njolla 'stain, dirt' common alb. gn- > nj-.

hereupon ghnīdā 'nit, louse':

Old Icelandic, Norwegian dial. gnit f., Old Swedish gnether, Swedish gnet, Danish gnid, Latvian gnīda 'nit, louse, greedy, stingy person' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 633), Lithuanian glinda (dissimilated from **gninda*?); russ. gnída, sloven. gnjida, Czech hnída, poln. gnida, about Latin lēns, -dis f. ds. compare WH. I 783f. and Specht Dekl. 44.

u-extensions ghnēu-, ghneud<sup>h</sup>-, ghneus-:

Gr. χναύω 'nibble, scour, scratch, gnaw', χναῦμα 'slice, tidbit', χναυρός 'dainty', χνόος, χνοῦς 'that what can be scraped off, dust, foam, froth, underfur';

Old Icelandic g-nūa 'rub' (also gnýja 'rant, make a noise, roar', gnýr 'din, fuss, noise'?), Old Icelandic gnauð 'noise, rattle', gnyðr 'nag, growl', Old English gnēaþ 'stingy, tightfisted', Middle Low German gnauwen 'growl';

Lithuanian gniūšai 'vermin, pest', Old Church Slavic gnusъnъ 'disgusting', gnōšati, gnušati se 'be disgusted', russ. gnus 'vermin, pest', Serbo-Croatian gnūs 'disgust, repulsion, loathing, smut', Czech hnus 'disgust, repulsion, loathing, smut', hnusný 'disgusting', poln. gnuśny 'idle, blight, decay'.

References: WP. I 584 f., WH. I 783, Trautmann 93.

Root / lemma: gher-1

Meaning: expr. root

Note: mostly only newer parallel Wortschöpfungen, frequent, often with expressive vowel change and Gemination

Material: Old Indic gharghara-ḥ ` rattling, clashing, gargling, gurgling ', m. ` rattling, laughter ', ghargharita- n. ` grunting ', ghurghura-ḥ ` a gargling sound ', ghurghurī ` cricket ', ghurghurāyatē ` whizzes, hums ';

Maybe alb. gurgullon ` water sounds ', gurrē `water spring'

Latin hirrīre ` whimper, growl ' ( `rr' with i vocalized as reproduction of of high tone);

Old English gierran stem V. ` sound, clink, creak, babble, chatter ', Modern High German girren (Middle High German also garren, gurren), Swedish Norwegian garpa `rant, roister, brag, boast', Old Icelandic garpr `intrepid pugnacious person'; Norwegian dial. garta `joke, chat, prate, grunt'; Old English gierman, Norwegian garma `roar, bellow', Old Norse garmr `dog'; further Old English gryllan `gnash, rage ', Middle High German grellen stem V. `piercingly, before rage shouts ', grel `rough, grell, angry, irate', Dutch grollen `murmur, be angry, irate', Middle High German grüllen `scoff ', Modern High German grollen;

russ.-Church Slavic gъrkati `coo ', Czech hrčeti `rattle, clash, purr, murmur', hrkati `crack, creak, burr '; slov. grgati `gargle, coo ';

Maybe alb. grykë `throat ': russ.-Church Slavic gъrkati `coo ' here perhaps ghrē-d- in Gothic grētan, Old Norse grāta, asächs. grātan, Old English grætan (gréotan after réotan ds.), Modern High German Alemannian grātsə `weep, cry, lament '; ablaut. causative Old Icelandic greta `reduce to tears, bring to tears', Old English grætan `assail, greet ', asächs. grōtian `call ', Old High German gruozen, Modern High German grüßen, Old Norse grātr m. `weeping, cry ', Old High German grāz `fury';

ghrē-d<sup>h</sup> - in Old English grædan `call, shout, cry'.

References: WP. I 605.

Page(s): 439

---

Root / lemma: gher-2

Meaning: to stroke roughly, rub

Note: compare also the extensions ghrēi-, ghrēu-, ghrem-, ghren-, as well as above grōd-

Material: Gr. κέγχρος `millet, sorghum, ordure', κάχρυς `parched barley, winter-bud barley' (diss. from **gher-ghro-* and **ghḡ-ghru-); χέραδος n. and χεράς, -άδος f. `detritus, gravel' (*gherəd-* or **gherḡd-*?); χερμάς, -άδος f. `large pebble or stone, esp. for throwing or slinging, sling-stone';

Latin furfur, -uris m. `husk of grain and the legumes; the bran; scales, scurf on the skin' (reduplicated form, originally **for-for*); vowel gradation as in Lithuanian gurūs `crumbly', gūrti `crumb, spall, crumble'. common Illyrian gh- > d- then Latin d- > f-.

s-extension:

Old Indic gharṣati `grates', ghṛṣṭa-h `chafed, grated'; russ. goróchʹ `pea', Serbo-Croatian grāh `bean, pea' (the Slavic intonation development from a zero grade basic form **ghōrso-s* or from **ghorəsos*).

Maybe abbreviated alb. (**ghōrso-s*) groshë `bean, pea'

References: WP. I 605 f., WH. I 545 f., 570.

Page(s): 439-440

---

Root / lemma: gher-3, ghrē-: ghrō-: ghrə-

Meaning: to come out, stick out

Note: (probably identical with ghrē-: ghrō-: ghrə- `grow, be green', see there); s. also under ghers-.

Material: a. Gr. χαρία βουνός Hes., χάρμη `joy of battle, lust of battle, battle; upper lance point', ἄγ-χαρμον ἀνωφερῇ τήν αἰχμήν Hes., χοιράς `like a hog or a hog's back, low rock rising just above the sea like a hog's back; in pl., scrofulous swellings in the glands of the neck, etc.; sow' (**ghorjo-*);

at most (yet quite doubtful) here Norwegian dial. gare `cusp, peak', gara `prick, bump, poke'; from the heavy basis: Middle High German grāt, Pl. græte m. `fishbone, ear of corn, mountaintop, mountain peak, summit, mountain ridge', Modern High German Grat, Gräte (**ghrē-tí-*); with reduplication-grade: poln. groń, Czech hroń `arrowhead, spear, lance';

b. with -d-suffix: Old High German Middle High German graz n. 'sprout, twig, scion, branch of conifers' (also probably turned into mental Old High German grazzo Adv. 'violent, stern', Middle High German graz, grāz 'fury', graz 'furious, angry, irate');

c. with -n-suffix:

Gothic **granō* (Isidor Orig. XIX 23, 7), Old High German grana, Old English granu, Old Icelandic grǫn f. 'whisker, moustache; mouth, fir, spruce', Middle High German gran, grane 'cusp, point of the hair, beard hair, fishbone', Modern High German Granne 'ear of corn', dial. 'back bristle of pig', and 'fishbone'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Slavic **granь* 'sharp point, edge, border', e.g. in russ. granь f. 'limit, boundary; landmark, territorial marker; facet', Czech hrana 'point, edge, border' etc.; in addition also russ. gránka 'tussock', klr. hránok 'bough, twig, branch', bg. Serbo-Croatian grána 'twig, branch';

d. with -en-dh- suffix:

Alb. krande 'straw, splinter, deadwood', Tosc krende 'twig, branch' (**ghrendh-* or **ghrendh-), etc.; : alb. (*grendu*) krunde 'bran' gall. grennos 'beard' (Wartburg), Middle Irish grenn 'beard' (**ghrendh-no-s*); cymr. grann 'eyelid, cheek', bret. grann 'eyebrow' (with unclear a; or has it originated from **ghr̥ndh-no-s*?). (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

References: WP. I 606, WH. I 413 f.

Page(s): 440

---

Root / lemma: ghers-1, ghres-

Meaning: disgust, horror

Material: Avestan grāhma- 'sinner, delinquent' (?);

Armenian garšim 'have loathing before';

[Middle Irish goirt 'bitter' (**ghorstis*), Old Irish gortae 'hunger'; better to g<sup>w</sup>her-];

Middle High German Middle Low German garst, Modern High German nl. garstig 'spoil, rancid'; Old High German gerstī 'Bitterkeit'; Old Icelandic gersta 'stir, tease, irritate, embitter'; s. also g<sup>w</sup>her-;

Lithuanian grasà f. `threat, austereness, severeness', grasùs `threatening, disgusting', gresiù, grēsti `threaten, outgrow', gristù, gristi `become disgusted with', grasinù, grasinti `threaten', Latvian grasāt, grasīt `threaten'.

Maybe alb. (**garsinù*) kërcënoj `threaten'

References: WP. I 610 f., WH. I 461, Trautmann 95.

Page(s): 445

---

Root / lemma: ghers-2

Meaning: used in names of weeds

Material: Old High German gers, giers, girst (Grassmann, Dt. Pflanzennamen 100 ff., Björkmann ZfdWtf. 3, 268) `Giersch, Aegopodium Podagraria';

Lithuanian gařsas m., garšvà f. `Angelica Archangelica'; gařšvé f. `Giersch', Latvian gārsa, gāřša, gāřši ds.; in addition also Lithuanian gīrsa f. = dirsé `darnel' (oat), Latvian dzirši `darnel' (these after Endzelin KZ. 44, 58 to Latin hordeum [see below gherzd(h)] `barley'; compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 555, 618 f.).

References: WP. I 611, Trautmann 79 f.

Page(s): 445

---

Root / lemma: gherto-

Meaning: milk, butter

Note: only Aryan and Celtic

Material: Old Indic ghṛtām `skimmings, butter, melting butter'; after Uhlenbeck to jígharti (gharati) `sprays, sprinkles', npers. ā-yārdan `blend, mix, soak';

Middle Irish gert `milk'.

References: WP. I 607, II 166.

Page(s): 446

---

Root / lemma: gheub(h)-

Meaning: to bend, move

Material: Norwegian dial. gūva `sit sunk down', Swedish jordgubbe `Fragaria ananassa; strawberry', Old Danish gubbe `larynx, breast', nnd. (Estland) gubbe `small haycock, haystack'; Old English géap 'crooked, cunning' (but géap 'wide, capacious, open', Old Icelandic gaupn 'hollow hand' see below ghēu- 'yawn, gape, stare with an open mouth'), Old Icelandic gumpr (from Old Swedish gumper), Swedish gump, Danish gump 'rump', Middle High German guffe, goffe ds. (but about Middle High German gupf 'summit of a mountain' see below geu- 'bend'), Old English gupan Pl. 'buttocks, haunches', Old High German goffa 'rump', further in addition the intensive formation isl. goppa, Swedish guppa, Modern High German gupfen 'jump up and down, swing';

Latvian gubstu, gubt 'bend down, sink', guba f. 'heap', Lithuanian gubúotis 'interweave, intertwine', gaubiù, gaūbti 'cover, wrap up, curve', gaūbtis 'crook oneself', gubà 'haycocks, heaps of standing sheaves', gubùs 'adroit, expert, skillful' (compare the meaning from Old English géap), Lithuanian dvigubas 'twofold', Old Prussian Gen. Sg. f. dvigubbus ds.;

Old Church Slavic gъnqti 'fold', russ. gnutъ 'bend, crook', klruss. hnúty ds., Serbo-Croatian năgnêm, năgnuti 'incline', sloven. gánem, gániti 'move, bestir', Czech hnouti ds., in addition Old Church Slavic negъbljъ 'unmoved' (from **gubja-*), russ. Church Slavic гъbežъ 'bend', Czech příheb m. 'flexible place, joint' (from -gъbъ, compare Lithuanian -gubas) and changing through ablaut Old Church Slavic sugubъ, dvogubъ 'double', russ. gubá 'bay', sloven. gúba 'crease', poln. przegub 'joint, curvature'; iterative Old Church Slavic gybljъ gybatì 'be destroyed, perish', prěgybajъ, prěgybatì 'bend, bow', russ. gíbnutъ, gínutъ 'spoil, perish', gibátъ 'bend', Serbo-Croatian gîbljêm (gîbâm) gíbatì 'move, weigh, rock, sway', Czech hynouti 'be destroyed, perish, go to waste, run wild', hýbatì 'move, drive, push'; causative Old Church Slavic pogubljъ pogubiti 'wreck', russ. gubítъ 'spoil', Serbo-Croatian gùbîm, gùbiti ds., Czech hubiti 'spoil, exterminate', poln. gubię, gubić 'lose, spoil', Old Church Slavic paguba 'ruin'.

Maybe alb. Geg (**gub-*) hup, Tosc humb 'lose': Czech hubiti 'spoil, exterminate'; common alb. -b > -mb, also alb. gaboji 'get lost, err'.

References: WP. I 567 f., Trautmann 100 f.

Page(s): 450

---

Root / lemma: gheugh-, ghūgh-

Meaning: to conceal

Material: Old Indic gūhati, guhati 'hidden' (Aor. aghukṣat), gúhā 'hideout, cave', góha-h 'hideout, lair'; common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

Avestan guz- (guzaēta, fra-guzayanta) 'conceal, hide', Old pers. yadiy apa-gaudayāhi 'if you hide';

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $-h_2^w a h_1^w e-$  > Avestan -ae-

Old Icelandic gýgrf. 'Unholdin', giantess' (**gūgī-z*, compare formal Lithuanian gūžė), Old Danish gyg 'a subterranean, an underground', gyger 'murderer, robber';

Lithuanian gūžti 'patronize, guard, cover', also 'brood, hatch, cover warmly', gūžỹnė 'blind man's buff', gūžis, gūžtā 'Brutnest', gūžė 'heidnische Reisegöttin'; in addition gūžas, gūžūtis 'stork' (as 'the nest builder').

References: WP. I 566 f.

Page(s): 450

---

Root / lemma: gheueiā (ǵheueiā)

Meaning: pit, hollow

Note: Only gr. and Latin

Material: Gr. χείᾱ, Hom. χείῃ 'cave, hiding place, nook, bolt-hole' =

Latin fovea 'pothole, cave a small pit, esp. for taking wild beasts, a pit fall; a snare, conspiracy

'; favissae 'underground reservoirs or cellars near the temples, for water or for sacred utensils no longer in use; subterranean chambers', with etrusk. suffix, could be hybride formation.

Common Illyrian gh- . d- then Latin d- > f-

References: WP. I 564, WH. I 467 f., 538.

Page(s): 451

---

Root / lemma: ghe-, gho-

Meaning: an enclitic particle

Note: It seems two groups have to be separated, single-linguistic but to have partly begun at another place: 1. ghe, gho, 2. with palatalem gutturals, the in europ. languages as ǵ, in Aryan as ǵh appears (as in the cases like gr. γένυς: Old Indic hānuh), thus showed one of the normal so-called voiced-aspirated various articulation kind, and the vowel i or e.

Material: 1. -ghe, -gho:

Old Indic gha (**gho*), ha (**ghe*) behind negation (ná gha), personal pronoun (e.g. vayám gha), dem so/to-Pron. (sá gha, sá ha), to the question pronoun (e.g. kám ha), to the relative pronoun (yó gha, yó ha), also behind other parts of speech; Old Indic hánta `well, on take, there take, see there ';

Umbrian -hont (e.g. era-hunt `by the same way, by the same piece of work; at the same time, likewise'), compare also Latin hic `this, this one; this present ' from **gho* or **ghe* + **ke*;

cymr. a(g) `with' from **ad-ghe*; see above S. 3;

Old Church Slavic -go, -že behind negation (ní-že `not; and not, nor; rarely not even ', ne jedinъ že `not only one, not one, i.e. no one, none; not at all, naught '; compare also Old Church Slavic neže, serb. něgo `as' in comparative and serb. něgo `however, but', Czech než(e) `yet', where ne- rather the negation has arisen as indicating the positive meaning of Pron.-stem ne-), behind the relative pronoun (iže), lengthened grade (**ghō*) Upper Sorbian kdy-ha `when, then ' (; Berneker 316);

Lithuanian -gu (**ghō*), -gi (these with dem vowel i the 2. group) in negi, neigi, negù `not', behind Pers.-Pron. (e.g. tu-gu, tu-gi `thou at least, for thy part ' : Boeot. touga : gr. σούγε), Old Lithuanian also -ga, -ge, dem so/to-Pron. (e.g. tie-gi), to the question pron. (kaip-gi `as'), -gu also interrogative particle (compare also Old Lithuanian an-gu `if', Old Prussian an-ga `if'), Old Prussian beggi `for', kāigi `as', neggi `also not, still', niqueigi `never more '; gr. οὐχι see below.

2. -ġ(h)ī:

in Old Indic hí, Avestan zī emphasizing particle (ná hí, nahí, Avestan nōit zī, Old Indic kár-hi `when?', tár-hi `damals' ), behind the first word of the sentence `then yes ';

gr. οὐ-χι, μή-χι `not', ἤ-χι `where', ναί-χι `certainly, indeed' (-χ- instead of -γ-, compare under γε, presumably through hybridization with a particle the 1. group);

Latin **nē-gi* (after Holthausen KZ. 47, 309 = Old Saxon nec `and not'), assumed through negōtium, originally sentence compound neg'ōtium est (compare haud-ōtium est by Terenz) and negāre (compare Modern High German verneinen, bejahen);

klr. Bulgarian serb. -zi behind personal pronoun

3. -ġ(h)ə

in gr. ἐμε-γέ = Gothic mi-k, Old High German mi-h = Armenian is`me' (at first from **in-* c), ἐγώ γε, ἔγω-γε, σύ γε, Gothic þu-k, si-k, Old High German di-h, si-h, after so/to-Pron. ö γε, after the relative pronoun ὅσσα γε, ὅτινα γε, further γε, Doric Boeotian el. γὰ also behind other parts of speech. In Baltic as well as also (besides in the with ī vocalized form) in Slavic the guttural of the 1. group has become dominant, as well as in gr. -χι;

Venetic me-χo`me' has related o from eχo`l';

Tocharian strengthening particle A - k, B - k(e) from \-ghe* or -ġhe (compare Pedersen Tocharian 136);

Hittite am-mu-uk (ammuk) `me', tu-uk (tuk) `you': Gothic þuk (**tu-ge*), etc., s. Pedersen Hittite 73 f., 166 f.

Maybe alb. (**mu-uka*) mua`me' : Rumanian mie`me', (**tu-uk*) ty`you', nasalized (**mu-uka*) Alb. Arbëresh uth, alb. unë`l' common alb. -k > -th.

References: WP. I 541 f., WH. I 644, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 606, 624.

Page(s): 418

---

Root / lemma: ghlā<sup>dh</sup>-

Meaning: `brilliant, smooth, shining'

See also: see below ghel- `gleam'

Page(s): 451

---

Root / lemma: ghleu-

Meaning: to be joyful, to joke

Note: extension from ghel- `cry' or ghel- `gleam'?

Material: Gr. χλεῦν f. `joke, derision';

Old Icelandic gl̥w n. `pleasure, joy', Old English glēo, glieg, glīw n. `game, pleasure, joy'.

With dental extension:

Old Lithuanian glaudas m., glauda f. `pastime, entertainment', gláudoti` joke', Latvian glaudât ds. [glaudas` cuddle, caress' belongs but originally to glāūstī, Latvian glāūst` cuddle, embrace, caress', Lithuanian glaudūs` sich anschmiegend, einschmeichlerisch'; see below gel-1, extension gl-eu-].

With m-derivative (nominal formation ghloumos):

Old Icelandic glaumr `loud jubilation ', gleyma `make forget, make cheerful, make noise ', Old English glēam `jubilation, pleasure, joy'; ablaut. Old Icelandic glymr `row, din, fuss, noise', glymja `sound, clink', Middle High German glumen `din, drone';

Old Church Slavic bezъ gluma `firm, unchangeable, constant, immovable, uniform, steady, fixed, stable, invariable, regular, persistent; consistent, harmonious; unanimous; sure, steadfast, constant, faithful, unchanging ', glamiti se `to talk idly, prate ', russ. głum `joke, derision ', głumit'sja `mock, sich lustig machen about', Bulgarian glúma `fun, joke, derision ', glumjá se `joke, fool ', Serbo-Croatian glúma f. `joke, comedy ', Czech (old) hluma `an actor ', poln. dial. w głum `in Nichts ', eigtl. `in Scherze '.

Maybe alb. (**hluma*) lumë `blessed, happy, lucky, fortunate ' common alb. gl- > l-.

With p-derivative:

Slavic **glupъ*, russ. głupyj `stupid, clownish ', Specht KZ. 68, 123.

References: WP. I 660 f., Trautmann 91.

Page(s): 451

---

Root / lemma: ghoilo-s

Meaning: foaming; turbulent; roaming

Note:

Root / lemma: ghoilo-s : foaming; turbulent; roaming, derived from Root / lemma: g<sup>h</sup>el-1 : to stick; pain, death : Lithuanian gėlti `prick'.

Material: Perhaps Middle Irish gāel `kinship', nir. gaol also `friendship, love';

Old High German geil, Old Saxon gēl `minxish, wanton, luscious, strong', Modern High German geil (Middle Low German geile `testicles', Modern High German Biber-geil, Middle Low German geile, Modern High German Geile `dung, manure '), Old English gāl `funny, lascivious, stout, proud', Middle High German geilen `ridicule, make fun of ' = Gothic gailjan `gladden '; Old High German keilīf. `lasciviousness '; changing through ablaut and partly with the meaning `foaming ' Old Icelandic gil-ker `fermenting vat ', Norwegian gīl, gīl n. `fermenting beer ', Dutch gijl ds., gijlen `ferment, seethe', also, as Middle Low German gīlen `covetous ';

Old Lithuanian gailas 'violent', Lithuanian gailùs 'irascible, irritable; sharp, biting (from vinegar, lye); bitter (from tears); pitiable, pitiful' (in latter meaning with ablaut to gilùs 'painful, sore', géliti 'prick, schmerzen' after Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 75?);

Old Church Slavic dzělo (zělo), Old Czech zielo, weißruss. do zěla 'very'.

References: WP. I 634, Feist 185, Trautmann 75.

Page(s): 452

---

Root / lemma: ghom-

Meaning: stall

Material: Armenian gom 'Höhlenstall';

Danish gamme 'sheepfold, shed', Swedish dial. gamme 'crib, manger', Old Norse gammi m. 'Erdhütte', Swiss gämmeli 'Viehhütte', pomm. gamm 'Haufe von Ziegelsteinen, die zum Trocknenaufgesetzt werden'.

References: WP. I 637, Holthausen Awn. Wb. 80.

Page(s): 452

---

Root / lemma: ghosti-s

Meaning: stranger; guest

Note:

Root / lemma: ghosti-s: stranger; guest, derived from Root / lemma: ghōs-: to eat see below.

Material: Latin hostis m. f. 'a stranger; but esp. an enemy, foe, opponent (Old Latin), fiend' (in addition hospes, -pitis 'a host, hostess; a guest; a guest-friend, friend; a stranger; used also like adj., foreign', Paelignian hospus 'guest's friend' from **hosti-pot-s* 'master of the guest');

It is a compound of Root / lemma: ghosti-s: stranger; guest + Root / lemma: poti-s: owner, host, master, husband: gr. kor. ξένος 'foreigner': Old Bulgarian gospodъ 'master': Paelignian hospus 'guest's friend'.

Gothic gasts, Old Icelandic gestr (Proto Norse -gastik) 'guest', Old High German Old Saxon gast, Old English giest 'stranger, guest';

Old Bulgarian gostъ 'guest' (borrowing from Germanic according to Solmsen Unt. 203); to gostъ probably also Old Bulgarian gospodъ 'master, mister' etc. as Kurzung from gostъpotъ.

Maybe alb. gosti 'feast, party' a Slavic loanword.

Barely credible is the apposition from gr. Attic ξένος, Ionian ξείνος, kor. ξένος 'foreigner, stranger, guest's friend' due to a present **ghs-en̥-ō*, lengthened grade of alb. (h)uai, Geg (h)uj 'strange' (from **ghsēn*-? s. Jokl IF. 37, 93);

Maybe the transposition of Alb. Geg (**heuva-*) huej, Tosc huaj 'foreigner, stranger, guest's friend'.

quite incredible Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 329; about New Phrygian ξευε vocative (**ghs-en̥e*?) s. v. Blumenthal Gl. 20, 288.

References: WP. I 640, WH. I 660 f., 662 f.

Page(s): 453

---

Root / lemma: ghou-ro-s

Meaning: frightened

Material: Old Indic ghōrá-h 'dreadful, imposing, venerable', n. 'scary force, might, magic power';

Maybe alb. gjor 'pitiful person'

Gothic gaurs 'grieving', gauriþa 'sorrow', qaurjan 'mortify', Old High German gōrag 'woeful, wretched, miserable, arm, small'; Old Icelandic gaurr m. 'pitiful person' (Johansson KZ. 67, 221); perhaps here with ablaut and n- further formations: Old English gyrn, gryn n. 'mourning, grief', also gnorn, grorn m., gnyrn f. ds., gryre m. 'horror', with variant assimilation and dissimilation, in addition Old Saxon gornōn, gnornōn, grornōn 'grieve', gruri m. 'horror'; klruss. žuryty 'afflict, sadden', žurba 'care', russ. žurítъ 'scold'.

References: WP. I 636, Feist 208.

Page(s): 453-454

---

Root / lemma: ghous-

Meaning: to sound; hear

Note: Only indoiranisch.

Material: Old Indic ghōṣati ` sounds, announces aloud, hears ', ghōṣáyati ` findet Erhöhung bei' (Akk.) ' (Geldner Rigveda in Auswahl I 58), ghōṣa-ḥ m. ` sound, clamor, shout, call, din, fuss, noise', Aśvaghōṣa EN ` ear of the horse ', Harighōṣa EN ` Yellow ear ' (= Avestan zairigaoša);

Avestan gaoš- `hear', Kaus. in gūšayaī-uxōa- ` sein Wort zu Gehör bringend ', npers. niyōšīdan `hear, listen, eavesdrop ', Baluchi gōšay `hear', niyōšay `hear, listen, eavesdrop ';

Maybe alb. Geg nigjoj, ndëgoj (**ndë-ghosa*), Tosc dëgjoj, alb. Greece dëlgonj, alb. Arbëresh dilingonj, ndëlgonj, ndlëgonj, glëgonj ` I hear ' [common alb. gh- > gl- > gj- : lith. gh- > dz-].

afgh. ngvaṭal ` listen, obey ', Old pers. gauša-, Avestan gaoša- m. `ear', npers. gōš `ear', skyth. EN Ὠπαθαγωσος ` rattling, clashing by the war chariot ', Avestan zairi-gaoša- `with yellow ears'; about Latin heus ` hallo! ho, there! hark!' s. rather WH. I 643 f.

References: WP. I 569, WH. I 643 f.

Page(s): 454

---

Root / lemma: ghou(ē)-

Meaning: to notice, pay attention

Material: Latin faveō, -ēre, fāvī, fautum ` to favor, be well disposed, be inclined towards, favor, promote, befriend, countenance, protect; be favorable to, help, support, with dat.; with infin., to be inclined to do. Esp. as religious t.t., to speak no words of bad omen; hence to be silent; be quiet in worship ' ; favēre from **fovēre* because of Umbrian fons `favēns', foner ` favorable, propitious ' from **foyenis*; [Illyrian Latin gh- > d- > f-]

Old Icelandic gā (**gawōn*) ` look out, take care ', Gothic gaumjan ` remark, see, raise up one's attention ', Old Norse geyma `heed, care, worry for, beware', Old English gīeman, Old Saxon gōmian, Old High German goumen ds., Old Icelandic gaumr m. and gaum f. `attention', Old High German gouma ` paying attention, observance, feast ', Swiss gaume `baby sitting' (from dem Germanic Latvian gaūme `taste', gaūmēt ` memorize, observe, taste '), Old Saxon gōma `repast, meal, guest's meal ', whereof Old Saxon gōmian ` host '. (The meaning relations are still to be cleared in detail; s. Slotty IF. 46, 369.) In addition changing through ablaut Old English ofergumian `neglect', Old Saxon fargumōn ` neglect ', isl. guma ` pay attention ';

Old Church Slavic govějŕ, gověti 'worship; revere, live a god-fearing life', russ. gověť 'fast', sloven. dial. goveti 'remain grumpily silent', Serbo-Croatian gòvijêm, gòvjeti 'obey', Czech hověti 'favor, spare, look after, look up; satisfy, show indulgence'; from dem Russ. derives Lithuanian gavėti 'fast', Latvian gavēt ds.

References: WP. I 635 f., WH. I 465.

Page(s): 453

---

Root / lemma: ghōs-

Meaning: to eat

Material: Old Indic ghas- 'eat, consume' in 2. 3. Sg. Aor. ághas, 3. Pl. ákṣan, Perf. jaghāsa, jakṣuḥ, (common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-) from which after Wackernagel KZ. 41, 309 present jakṣiti, particle Perf. **gd<sup>h</sup>a-* in agdhād 'uneaten food', later jagdhá-, ságdhi- f. 'shared meal', later jagdhi- s. Wackernagel aaO., ghasmara- 'voracious', ghasana- n. 'the consuming', ghāśi- m. 'nourishment, food'; Avestan gah- 'eat, devour (from daēvischen creature)'; about Latin hostia 'sacrificial animal, sacrifice, oblation', hostīre 'repay' s. WH. I 661 f.;

about angebl. Latvian gōste 'feast' s. WH. I 637.

Maybe alb. gosti 'feast', ngos, ngop 'sate, feed' Latin loanword.

References: WP. I 640.

Page(s): 452

---

Root / lemma: ghreb<sup>h</sup>-1, gherb<sup>h</sup>-; root widening ghreb<sup>h</sup>ā-

Meaning: to grab

Note: compare also ghreb<sup>h</sup>-.

Material: Old Indic grabh-, grab- 'gripe, catch, obtain, seize, touch, attain, arrest', Aor. agrabham, Perf. jagrābha, Pass. grhyáte, grbháyant, grābha- m. 'the griping', grāha- 'filled goblet'; grāpsa- 'bush, tussock', grbh- 'griping, handle, grasp', grh- (as 2. composition part) 'griping', grbhá- m. 'handle, grasp', grbhi- 'in recollecting, containing', grābhá- m. 'seizer, handful';

Avestan grab- 'grasp' in hāngrabəm (čāsmainī) 'I captured (with the eye)', Perf. jigaurva, gaurvayeiti (compare Old Indic grbháyant) 'seizes, holds firmly, agrees, perceives ', participle Perf. Pass. gərəpta-, grab- ` structure of words, sentence ' ; Akk. gərəbām ` the holding on, seizing ' ; npers. giriſtan ` gripe ', gīrad ` seizes ' ;

Old Norse grāpa ` snatch, grasp ' (p in support in grīpā?), Old English græppian ` gripe ', engl. grapple ` grip, grasp ' ; besides Swedish grabba ` grapple, pack ' , Middle Low German grabben, grabbelen ` catch fast, heap ' (out of it engl. grab, grapple), Middle High German grappeln ` grope ' , Norwegian dial. grafsa, grapsa ` scratch, scrape ' , deutsch grapsen, in addition nasalized Swedish dial. gramma ` snatch ' , Swiss grame ` creep ' , Swedish gramsa ` take with full-hand ' , Swiss gramse ds.; asächs. garva ` fascicle, sheaf ' , Old High German garba ` a handful, bundle ' , Middle High German Modern High German Garbe;

Lithuanian grabūs, grabnūs ` adroit, skilful in the stealing ' , grabinėti, grabaliótī, grabóti ` grope, reach for something ' , grabstýti ` gripe, pack ' , lengthened grade grébiu, grébti ` rake, gripe, rob ' ; previous iterative. gróbiu, gróbtī ` gripe, snatch, rob ' , grōbis m. ` robbery, booty ' ; Latvian grebju, grebt also ` grasp ' , grabas f. Pl. ` the bundled together ' , greblis ` small rake ' , grābju, grābt ` grasp, catch, rake ' , grābāt iterative in addition ` rake, gather together ' ;

Old Church Slavic grebŏ, greti ` oar, row ' , russ. grebú, grestí ` pile, rake, oar, row ' , Bulgarian grebá ` rake, scratch, scrape, comb, oar, row, (water) scoop ' , grebló ` rake, rudder ' ; iterative Old Church Slavic grabljŏ, grabiti ` rob ' , Serbo-Croatian grābiti ` grasp, pile ' , Czech hrabati ` scratch, dig, burrow, rummage, rake ' , etc.

Maybe alb. grabit ` rob ' a Slavic loanword.

root extension ghre<sup>bh</sup>ā-

Old Indic grbhñāti, grbhāyāti ` seizes, sticks, attains ' ; innovations are: ágrabhīt ` griped ' , Infin. gráhītum, participle grbhītā- ` reigned, caught, held on ' , grábhīṭṛ, grahīṭṛ ` seizer ' ; Avestan gərəwnāiti, gəurvāyeiti, Old pers. garbāyaiti ` seizes, conquers, agrees, perceives, understands ' .

References: WP. I 652 f., Trautmann 95 f.; different Kuiper Nasalprä. 232.

Page(s): 455

---

Root / lemma: ghre<sup>bh</sup>-2

Meaning: to scratch, dig

Note: (Not always certain from ghre<sup>h</sup>-` gripe, rake ' to divide; identical with it?; see Persson Beitr. 728 A. 1).

Note:

Root / lemma: ghre<sup>h</sup>-2: to scratch, dig; derived from Root / lemma: ghre<sup>h</sup>-1, gher<sup>h</sup>-; root widening ghre<sup>h</sup>-ā-: to grab.

Material: Gothic graban `dig', Old Icelandic grafa `notch, dig, prick ornaments ' (Plur. preterit Old Icelandic grǫfum indicating to a present grafa, really records Old Norwegian and Old Swedish (græva)), Old English grafan ds., Old Saxon bigraþan `bury', Old High German graban `dig, bury, engrave ' ; Old Frisian grēva schw. v. s. meaning, Dutch groeven `trickle, groove, make furrows or channels ' ; iterative to graban:- Old High German grubilōn `dig naggingly, rummage through, investigate ', Middle High German grübeln ds.; Gothic grōba f. `ditch, trench, channel'

Maybe alb. gropë `ditch, trench, channel'

Old English grafu, Old Icelandic grǫff. `pit, pothole, grave' (Germanic **grabō*); Gothic grōba f. `pit, pothole, cave', Old Icelandic grōf ds., Old High German gruoba `pit, pothole, cave, gullet' (Germanic **grōbō*); Old English græfn. `ditch, trench, channel, grave', Old Frisian gref, Old Saxon graf, Old High German grab `grave'; Old Icelandic grǫptr m. `graving, grave, burial, funeral ', Old English græft m. `sculpture, engraving ' (Germanic **graftu*), Old Frisian greft f. `ditch, trench, channel ' (Germanic **grafti*), nld. gracht ds., Old High German grafft f. `monumentum, sculpture, engraving ' (but Old High German gruft is folk etymology reshuffling from gr.-Latin crypta);

Latvian grebju, grebt `hollow out, dig with a chisel; scrape, excavate, seize ', greblis m. `gouge, type of chisel ' (also rake, see below ghre<sup>h</sup>-` gripe ');

Old Church Slavic pogrebq, pogreti `bury', Serbo-Croatian grēbēm, grēbsti `dig, scratch, scrape', with prefix po- `bury', Czech (old) hřebu, hřebsti `dig, bury', poln. grzebe, grzesc `scratch, scrape, dig, bury'; zero grade Slavic **gr̥bēti* in Old Czech hřbieti `lie buried ', nowadays pohřbiti `bury'; iterative Old Church Slavic pogřebati, gribati `bury', russ. pogrebátʹ ds., Serbo-Croatian (old) zagribati `bury ', Czech hrěbati `upbraid, rebuke', poln. grzebię, grzebać `curry, scratch, scrape', with po- `bury'; Church Slavic grebenʹ `comb', russ. grébenʹ ds., Serbo-Croatian grēbēn `comb, sting, prick, carding, ridge ', Czech hřeben `comb, garden rake '; poln. grzebień ds.; Old Church Slavic grōbʹ `grave', Serbo-Croatian grōb (Gen. grōba), Czech hrob, russ. grob (Gen. gróba).

Maybe alb. (**hřeben*) krehën `comb' : Russian: grébeń `comb'.

Maybe alb. graba `erosion, hollowing out', also a zero grade noun **graba, grath* `tooth, prong (for digging) ', grehull `thicket'.

References: WP. I 653 f., Trautmann 96.

Page(s): 455-456

---

Root / lemma: ghrædh-

Meaning: to march

Material: Avestan aiwi-gərəδmahi `we begin, advance, go forward, march, proceed ', gərəzdi- f. `(*lineup =) the captured, gained '; but Middle Indic (Aśoka-Inschr.) adhigicya `initiating, commencing ' = Old Indic adhi-kṛtya-, S. LéviGA 1912;

Latin gradior, -ī `to take steps, step, walk, go, advance ', gradus, -ūs `a step; a step as made, a pace; an approach; a step as climbed, a stair; hence any tier, gradation; a braid of hair; abstr., degree, stage; rank, position; milit., station, post', grallae `stilts ' (Latin grad- from **ghrædh-*, ablaut grade as in Lithuanian gridiju);

Gothic griþs (only Akk. Sg. grid) `footstep, grade' (but Middle High German grit `footstep ', griten `spread the legs apart ', Modern High German Bavarian gritt, gritten ds. and - indeed definitely the ī-row belonging - graiteln `lock the fingers or legs apart ' belong to Germanic **grī-* `straddled, gaping ', the strange link so far is missed);

Lithuanian gridiju, -yti (Juškevicz) `go, wander, err about '.

Present nasals:

Old Irish in-grenn-, to-grenn- `pursue ' (-enn- from -ndh-n-, themat. *n-*present, 3. Sg. **ghrṇ-dh-ne-ŋ*), (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), compare Thurneysen KZ. 63, 114f., Kuiper Nasalprä. 170 f.;

Old Church Slavic grędŏ, gręsti `go, come ', russ. grjadú, grjastí `go, march ' etc.

References: WP. I 651 f., WH. I 615 f., Trautmann 98.

Page(s): 456-457

---

Root / lemma: ghreib-

Meaning: to grab

Note: compare also ghræbh-.

Material: Gothic greipan `grasp ', Old Icelandic grīpa `grasp, gripe ', Old English Old Saxon grīpan ds., Old Frisian grīpa, Old High German grīfan ds., in addition as iterative

Old English grāpian, Old High German greifōn `caress', and Nom. agentis Old Icelandic greip f. `handle, grasp, span, hand', Old English grāp `fist, handle, grasp', Old High German greifa `fork', Old English gripa m. `handful, fascicle, sheaf'; in addition Old Icelandic gripr m. `preciousness, valuable possession', Old English gripe m. `handle, grasp, attack, jewel', Old Frisian bi-grip m. `statute; agreement', Old High German ana-griff `attacking, specially of a free girl without agreement of her parents', Middle High German grif `snatch, palpation, grasp', Middle Low German grīpe, grēpe `handle, grasp, fork';

Maybe alb. grep `hook' from a Romance derivative also Italian grappa `hook'.

Lithuanian griebiù, griēbti (besides greibiù, greĩbti) `snatch at, seize, gripe', intensive graibaũ, graibýti, gribšnis m. `quick grasp, grabbing', Latvian griba f. `wish, volition', gribēt `want' (originally `reach for something').

References: WP. I 647, Trautmann 96.

Page(s): 457-458

---

Root / lemma: ghrem-1

Meaning: to scratch, rub

Note: extension from gher- ds.

Material: Gothic gramsta Dat. Sg. `wooden splinter' (Persson Beitr. 99); East Frisian grum `residuum, smut' (such meaning also by ghrēu- and ghrēi-), mnl. nnl. grom `intestines, entrails, smut', Low German nl. groom ds., Norwegian Dialectal grumen `cloudy, mixed with deposit, residuum', ablaut. West Frisian gram, grim `intestines, entrails, esp. from fish', Modern High German Bavarian gramel `cracklings', Old Icelandic grōm, grōmr `smut'; Modern High German Swiss grummen `pick out, pick up, collect; pinch, rummage' (Falk-Torp under grums);

Maybe alb. grumbull `pile, collection', grumbulloj `collect'.

Lithuanian grémžiu, grémžti `scrape', grámdau, -yti `scratch, scrape', Latvian greņžu, greņžt `gnaw, bite', grāņstīt `snatch' (against another division of Baltic words see below ger-, grem- `catch'); different Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 637, 649. compare Lithuanian gréndžiu, gręsti under ghren-.

References: WP. I 655.

Page(s): 458

---

Root / lemma: ghrem-2

Meaning: heavy sound, thunder, grumble

Material: Avestan gram- 'become angry, feel rage' (only in participle present grəmantəm 'of those who are to us grimm' and participle Perf. Pass. granta- from **ghramita-* 'becomes angry'), npers. γaram 'fierceness';

gr. χρεμίζω, χρεμετίζω 'neigh', χρόμαδος m. 'creakiness', χρόμος (= Old Church Slavic gromъ) 'noise, neighing' (Hes.);

Old Icelandic gramr 'enraged, hostile', Old English gram, Old Saxon gram, Old High German gram ds., Middle High German gram 'angry, irate, uncourageous', Gothic gramjan 'enrage', isl. gremia 'make angry, irate', Old English gremman 'infuriate, revile', Old High German gremmen 'enrage, infuriate', Middle High German gremen 'cause grief', refl. 'grieve', Old High German gramiz 'becomes angry, sad, infuriated', Old Icelandic grimmr 'fierce, grim, hostile, excited, aroused', Old English Old Frisian Old Saxon Old High German grimm 'wild, cruel, savage'; Old English grimman 'rage', Old Saxon grimman 'wheeze, rage, bawl, blaster', Middle High German grimmen 'rage before anger or pain', zero grade Old High German umbegrummōn 'gnaw at', Middle High German Middle Low German grummen 'drone, grumble, murmur', Modern High German grummen, grummeln 'murmur, scold, grumble, sound vaguely', Norwegian grymta 'grunt', Old English grymettan 'growl';

Lithuanian gramù, gramėti 'fall with noise', grumiù, grumėti 'thunder', grumenù, grumėnti 'drone vaguely, grumble, murmur, threaten'; with extension -zd- (see Persson Beitr. 349) grumzdžiù, grum̃sti 'gnash, creak, threaten'; Latvian gremju, gremt 'mumble, murmur, threaten, grumble, rumble; talk with passion', Old Prussian grumins m. 'distant thunder', grīmons 'sung, chanted', grīmikan 'ditty';

Maybe alb. gumëzhit 'sound' a Slavic loanword.

Old Church Slavic възгрьмитъ, -грьмѣти 'thunder', russ. greměť 'thunder, clang, clink', Serbo-Croatian gimî, gîmljeti, Czech hřmítí, poln. grzmieć 'thunder', wherefore the intensive in Church Slavic grīmati 'sound, clink', Serbo-Croatian dial. grimăt, Czech hřīmati 'thunder, fulminate'; Old Church Slavic gromъ, russ. grom 'thunder', Serbo-Croatian grôm 'thunder, lightning', Czech hrom 'thunder', poln. grom 'thunder, thunderbolt'.

References: WP. I 655 f., Trautmann 97.

Page(s): 458-459

Meaning: beam

Material: Latin grunda f. ` a gutter ', suggrunda f. ` the lower border of a roof, the eaves; rafter ' from **ghrondhā*;

Old Icelandic grind f. ` latticework, grid door, harbour ', Old English grindel, Old Saxon grindil `bar, bolt', Old High German grintil `bar, bolt, crossbeam of the plow ', Middle Low German grindel, grendel `transom, bar, bolt, crossbeam of the plow ';

Lithuanian grindis, griñdas, grindà `planking board ', Pl. griñdos `board layer, boarded floor ', grindóti, grindyti, grindžiù grĩsti `cover with boards ', grandà `bridge plank ', Latvian grida, also grids `floor, plank ', gruõdi m. Pl. `planks, balks, beams ', Old Prussian grandico f. `plank, balk', grandan (Akk.) `man, husband' (to meaning compare E. Lewy IF. 32, 162 with Lithuanian);

Slavic gręda in russ. grjadá `bed, row', Serbo-Croatian gréda `balk, beam', Czech hřada `shaft, pole, balk, beam, scaffold, trestle', poln. grzęda `shaft, pole, furrow, bed'; besides Slavic gręda in sloven. grêd, Gen. gredî `shaft, pole'.

References: WP. I 657, WH. I 623 f., Trautmann 98.

Page(s): 459-460

---

Root / lemma: ghren-

Meaning: to rub, stroke roughly

Note: extension from gher-2 ds., mostly with dental extension (originally present?)

Material: Gr. χαίρω `touch slightly; smear, paint; besmear, anoint; stain; defile; esp. of moral pollution '; in addition with formants -tu- (-to-), Old Icelandic grunnr m. (nn from nþ) `bottom, ground' (basic meaning `sand, sandy soil' as `* the pulverized ground '), grunn n. `shallow place in the water ', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), grund f. (m. gramm. variation) `field, earth', Gothic grundu-waddjus `foundation wall ', Old English Old Saxon grund, Old High German grunt `ground, bottom'.

ghren-d-*:

Gr. χόνδρος m. `a grain or lump of salt; in pl. groats of wheat or spelt: gruel made therefrom ' (diss. from **χρόνδ-ρος*);

alb. (-d- or -dh-) grundë, krundë, krunde `bran ' (**ghr̥n-d[h]ā*);

maybe alb. Geg grind `quarrel, fight, crush', alb. Tosc grinj `grind'

Latin frendō, -ere `crunch, gnash the teeth'; common Illyrian gh- > d-, from there Latin d- > f- shift.

Old Icelandic grotti m. `mill'.

ghren*-d<sup>h</sup>-:

Old English grindan `grind, crunch', engl. to grind `ds., sharpen' (Old English grindan with tōpum), engl. to grind one's teeth `gnash the teeth'; Modern High German (nnd.) Grand `sand', nnd. grand f. `coarse sand, meal, flour, bran', Old High German in grente `in earth full of clay', Old Icelandic grandi m. `sandbank, gravel'; nnd. grind f. `pebble sand; scurf', nld. grind, grint `coarse meal, flour, sand', Old High German Middle High German grint `crust, scab, eschar, scurf', Gothic grinda-fraþjis `pusillanimous' (from an adj. **grinds* `pulverized');

Lithuanian grėndu, grėsti and grėndžiu, grėsti `rub hard, scour, clean' (zero grade present), lter. gránd-aunder -yti (compare grémžti above under ghrem-1); russ. grjada.

References: WP. I 656 f., WH. I 545 f., Trautmann 96 f.

Page(s): 459

---

Root / lemma: ghrēi- : ghrēi- : ghrī- and (Lithuanian) ghrei-

Meaning: to smear, etc..

Note: extension from gher- `rub'; much less productive than u-extension ghrēu-.

Material: Gr. χρίω `anoint, smear, color, rub, scratch, prick' (**χρίσ-ιω* or χρί-ιω, compare ἐχρίσθην, χρίστός), χρίσις `smearing; anointing; colouring, varnish, wash; colour-washing', χρίμα, new χρίσμα `ointment; anything smeared on; anointing, unction; of spiritual grace; coating of wall, plaster', ἐγχριώ `to rub, anoint; sting, prick'; χρίμπτω `wander above the surface, scratch' etc.; Med. `bring near; touch the surface of a body, graze, scratch; draw near, approach';

Old Icelandic grīma `mask, helmet; riddle', engl. grime `dirt, smut', Old English Old Saxon grīma, -o m. `mask, helmet; ghost', Middle Low German grīmet `lined in black', ablaut. grēme f. `smut';

Lithuanian griejù, griėti `skim the cream' (older present form grejù), graīmas `cream'; with transference in the mental area (compare similar under ghrēu-) here Germanic grīs- in Old English ā-grīsan `shudder, fear, dread', grīslīc, Old High German grīsenlīh `terrible, grisly', mnl. grīsen, Middle Low German grīsen, gresen 'shudder', greselīk 'eerie' (different Wood Mod. Phil. 5, 265: to Old Indic jī-hrēti 'feel shame', wherewith Johansson IF. 2, 44 are connected under a basic meaning '*cover', Old Icelandic grīma etc.); after Kluge<sup>11</sup> s. v. Griesgram here Old English grist n. 'milling', Old Saxon grist-grimmo 'bruxism', Old High German grist-grimmōn ds. (besides grus-gramōn ds.); out of it Middle High German grisgram ds.; perhaps also Old English gristle f. 'gristle', Old Frisian Middle Low German gristel ds., also Old English grost, Middle High German gruschel ds.

References: WP. I 646 f.

Page(s): 457

Root / lemma: ghrēu-1: ghræu-: ghrū-

Meaning: to fall down

Material: Hom. Aor. ἔχραον (ἔχραFov) 'attacked, pressed', ζαχρηής 'attacking violently, furious, raging' (-χρᾱF-ής);

Latin ingruō, -ere 'to fall upon, assail, attack', congruō, -ere 'to run together, come together, meet; in time, to coincide; in gen., to be suited to, correspond with, agree';

Lithuanian griáuju, grióviau, griáuti 'break down (trans. intr.); thunder' (iau from ēu, out of it í from:); griūvù (griūvù, Trautmann 100), griuvaũ griūti 'collapse, fall in ruins' (griūvù = Latin -gruō from **ghruuō*); Latvian grāuju, grāvu, grāut 'shatter', grūstu, grūvu, grūt 'collapse', grūveši m. Pl. 'rubble'; double anlaut besides greu- (see there)?

Russ. dial. grúchnutʹ ša 'collapse with noise', klr. hrúchnuty 'rumble; crow', Serbo-Croatian grûhām, grúhati 'crack, creak', sloven. grûh 'scree, stone fragments', grúša 'coarse sand, grit', poln. gruchnać 'fall down with crashing sound; hit fast' (gruchać 'coo like the pigeon').

References: WP. I 647 f., WH. I 700 f., Trautmann 100. from zum Folgenden?

Page(s): 460

Root / lemma: ghrēu-2: ghræu-: ghrū-

Meaning: to rub

Note: extension from gher- 'rub'

Material: Gr. *χραύω, Konj. Aor. χραύση 'scratch, scrape, graze, wound slightly, injure', ἐγχαύω 'hit in', Cypriot χραύομαι, χραύζομαι 'bump, stumble, of lands, touch, be adjacent to', ἀχραής 'untouched, clean, pure cold water'; with gradation **ghrāu-*: χρώς 'surface of a body (*which one touches)', hence 'skin, complexion' (Nom. χρώς from **ghrā[ul]-s*, Gen. χρoός thereafter from **ghrēu-ós*; besides then later χρωτός), χρῶζω and χρoῖζω `touch or coat, color, stain, blemish the surface of a body', χρῶμα, -ατος `skin, complexion, paint, color, makeup', χρoιά, Attic χρoά `body surface, skin, paint, color' (**χρωF-lā*);

gall. **grava* `gravel', cymr. gro, acorn. grow, mcor. grow `sand', Middle Breton grouanenn ds., (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), nbret. gro(a) f. `sand beach', groan, grouan `engrave' (vocalism unclear);

Old Icelandic grjōn n. `cereal (*crushed corn, grain)', Middle High German grien m. n. `gravel sand, sandy bank', Middle Low German grēn `grain of sand' (**ghrēuno-*; also Norwegian isl. grugg n. `residuum' from **gruwwa-* as `sandy residuum').

Because the extended root ghreu-d- plural applied is on the mental area (`touch hard in the mind'), one also assumes affiliation from Old High German ingrūēn, Middle High German grūen, grūwen `shudder, fear, dread', Middle High German griul, griuwel `fright, horror', Old High German grūsōn, grūwisōn `feel fright', Modern High German `graus, grausen etc., Old High German grunn, -nnes `misery, woefulness', griuna `eagerness, vehemency, fierceness, atrocity' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

extension ghreu-d-:

Old High German **firgriozan* `grind', participle firgrozzen, Middle High German ver-, durch-griezen `grind in small parts'; Old Icelandic grjōt n. (a-stem) `stone, semolina', Old English grēot n. `sand, dust, earth', Old Saxon griot n. `sand, bank, border, shore', Old High German grioz, Middle High German griez m., n. `grain of sand, sand, semolina', Modern High German `semolina' (Germanic **greuta-* `rock, sand, gravel' also in VN Greutungī `shore inhabitant' and in Finnish riutta `sandbank, cliff');

Old Icelandic grautr m. `cereal, grain' (`ground, scrunched, crushed, crunched roughly'); Old English grēat `coarsely granulated, big, large, thick' (engl. great), Old Frisian grāt, Old Saxon grōt, Old High German Middle High German grōz `big, large', Middle High German also `coarse, thick' (Germanic **grauta-*); about Old Icelandic grotti `mill' see below ghren-;

Old English grytt `cereal, grain' (engl. grits `ds., coarse sand'), Old High German gruzzi, Middle Low German grütte `cereal, grain' (Germanic **gruṭia-*); Old English grūt (Dat. grȳt) f. `coarse meal, flour, grape marc', Old Frisian grēt `sand', Middle High German grūz m. `sand, grain', Modern High German Graus `grain of sand, rubble, detritus

', Middle Low German grūt ` brittle as ferment, yeast, substance which causes fermentation ', Dutch gruit ` malt, yeast, residuum ', Norwegian grūt n. ` residuum '; Old English grot n. ` coarse meal, flour' (Germanic **gruta-*); with formants -to- or -so-: Middle Low German grūs, grōs ` crumbled stones, gravel ';

Balto Slavic **grūdiō* ` stamp ' in Lithuanian grūdžiu or grūda, grūsti ` stomp (barley for the pearl barley preparation); bump; touch ' ; ablaut. graudūs besides ` brittle ' also ` stirring, wistful ', Old Prussian engraudīsnan Akk. Sg. ` pity ', grūdas ` corn, grain'; Latvian grūžu, grūdu, grūst ` bump, poke, stomp', grūdenes f. Pl. ` pearl barley ' ; ablaut. grāuds m. ` corn, grain', graužu, graudu, grāust ` rumble, thunder ', graudiens m. ` lightning strike ', graušļi Pl. ` rubble, debris ';

Church Slavic gruda ` clod of earth', collective grudije and (deriving from an already collective **ghrōud-d<sup>h</sup>ā*) gruzdije; Serbo-Croatian grūda ` clump' etc. (ū proves initial long diphthong ōu); with -mēn: Serbo-Croatian grūmēn ` clod', russ. grum ds.; here also with transference on the mental area russ.-Church Slavic съ-grustiti śa ` grieve ', russ. grustь f. ` distress, sorrow ', sloven. grūst m. ` disgust, repulsion, loathing ' (û from short diphthong, Indo Germanic əu, the old sensory meaning still in grūšč m. ` grit, mountain rubble '), with weak grade ŭ: Serbo-Croatian grst f. m. ` disgust, repulsion, loathing ' (proto Slavic **grьstь*), gīstīti-se ` be disgusted ', as well as **grьdъ* in Old Church Slavic grьdъ ` horrendus, terribilis', Serbo-Croatian gīd ` hideous, unsavory, distasteful, nasty ', from which also Old Church Slavic grьdъ ` stout, proud' (originally ` feeling disgust, fastidiously '), russ. górdyj ds., Serbo-Croatian gīd ` stout, proud, terrible', etc.;

Maybe nasalized alb. (**krude*) krunde, crumps `debris ' about Latin gurdus s. WH. I 627.

extension ghrēuġ(h?):-

Lithuanian gráužas ` gravel ', gružótas ` uneven, bumpy ' (is Latvian gruzis, Pl. gruži ` rubble, horror, dismay ' nnd. loanword?);

poln. gruz ` rubble, mortar', Pl. ` debris, ruins ', klr. kruż ` debris ', Pl. ` rubble ' (barely from Middle High German grūs ` horror, dismay ' because of:) poln. gruzla ` clump', Upper Sorbian hruzła ` clump, clod '.

extension ghreu-b<sup>h</sup>:-

presumably in Germanic groups from Modern High German Griebe `cracklings' (Old High German griubo, griobo), Griebs, perhaps also grob; compare with Germanic p, Norwegian Dialectal grūpa, graup `grind coarsely, crush', gropa, grypja ds., grop n. `crushed grain, coarse flour'.

References: WP. I 648 ff., Trautmann 99.

Page(s): 460-462

---

Root / lemma: (ghrē-) ghrō- : ghrē-

Meaning: to grow, be green

Note: only Germanic (and slavisch?)

Material: Gothic gras n. `grass, herb', Old Icelandic Old Saxon gras, Old English græs, gærs ds., Old High German gras, Modern High German Gras; full grade Middle High German gruose f. `young plant shoot, plant juice', Middle Low German grōse f. `plant juice', mnl. groese `young vegetation, young grass'; without the s-derivative: Old Icelandic grōa `grow, be healed', Old English grōwan `be green, bloom', engl. grow, Old High German gruoen, gruowan, Middle High German grüezen `grow, thrive, be green'; Old Icelandic grōði m. `growth', Middle High German gruot f. `greenery, fresh growth'; Old High German gruoni, Middle High German grüene, Old English græne, Old Icelandic grōnn `green, fresh, good'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Grōnaland `Greenland'.

With dental extension: Old English græd m. `grass', Middle High German graz, -zzes `young branches of coniferous wood' from ghrē-t-, ghrē-t-; probably to ghrē-: ghrō-: ghrē- `project, protrude, e.g. from plants shoots, plants prickles, beard hair' and its light basic root gher- ds. (see there would be to be covered by Latin herba `vegetation; a green plant; a blade or stalk, esp. of corn or grass' to the latter, if from **gherz-d<sup>h</sup>ā* `barley' with suffixal of the same kind to **gher-d<sup>h</sup>ā*.

Berneker 355 considers doubtingly for Old Church Slavic grozdъ `grape', groznъ ds. a cognate of **ghras-d<sup>h</sup>o-*, -nu- as base; the meaning would be justified at most through russ. gránka `bundle': Bulgarian Serbo-Croatian grána `twig, branch'.

References: WP. I 645 f., WH. I 616 f., 639 f.

Page(s): 454

---

Root / lemma: ghroud-

Meaning: a protruding body part

Note: only Celtic and Germanic

Material: Old Irish grūd (n. es-stem) 'cheek', cymr. grudd ds., corn. grud 'maxilla';

Old English grēada m. 'bosom'.

References: WP. I 658.

Page(s): 462

---

Root / lemma: g(l)eu-, ġ(l)eu-

Meaning: to chew

Material: Npers. jāvīdan 'chew', afgh. žōvał, žōyał ds., 'bite, gnaw ' (iran. **jyav-*);

Armenian kveni 'larch, any of a number of cone-bearing trees which yield a heavy solid wood ';

Old Icelandic tyggja, -va 'chew' (for **kyggja* after tōgla 'chew'), Swedish tugga, Old English cēowan, nengl. chew [common Illyrian-alb. kh- > t-, gh- > d-s];

Middle Low German keuwen, Old High German kiuwan, Middle High German kūwen 'chew' (**kewian*); Old High German kewa, Middle High German kiuwe f. 'jaw, mandible, lower jaw bone'; derived: Old English cēace, Old Frisian ziāke f. (**keukōn*) and Old Frisian kēse 'molar tooth', Middle Low German kūse, mnl. kūze, changing through ablaut mnl. kieze ds.;

Balto-Slavic **žiauīō* 'chew' in:

Lithuanian žíaunos f. Pl. 'jaws', Latvian žāūnas f. Pl. 'jaws, maxilla, gill';

r.-Church Slavic žuju (**zjou-*) and žbvq, žbvati (**zjbv-*), Old Czech žiji, žvāti, russ. žujú, ževátʹ 'chew'; in addition (from Balto-Slavic **žíaunā*) Bulgarian žúna f. 'lip' and Serbo-Croatian žvǎlo n. 'pharynxes, throat, gorge', žvǎle f. Pl. 'set of teeth in the bridle'; russ. žvákátʹ 'chew', žvak 'larch resin as a tooth cleaning material';

Tocharian AB św-ā-tsi 'eat' (Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 43); compare further gʷīū- 'resin'.

References: WP. I 642, WH. I 601, Trautmann 372, Lidén Ann. Acad. Scient. Fennicae 27, 119.

Page(s): 400

---

Root / lemma: glag- or glak-

Meaning: milk

Grammatical information: Nom. glakt n.

Note: only gr. and Latin

Material: Gr. γάλα, γάλακτος n. 'milk'; originally probably *γλακτ, Gen. *γλακτός (compare γλακτο-φάγος), out of it *γλάκ, *γλακτός (hence γλακῶντες μεστοὶ γάλακτος Hes. and γλακκόν γαλαθηνόν Hes., probably a Kinderwort with hypocoristic gemination as μικκός), further *γλά, with vocal development in monosyllabic word (probably in the child's mouth, whence also the initial stress:) γάλα, whereupon also γάλακτος instead of *γλακτός. The form hom. γλάγος (περιγλαγής, later γλαγάω), on the other hand dissimilated Cretan κλάγος, goes back perhaps to Nom. *γλαγ < *γλακ.

Latin lac, lactis n., with dissimilation reduction of anlaut. Gutturals from **glact* = gr. γάλα; old- and late Latin *l-*stem lacte, compare Pl. lactēs f. 'milk of the male fish'; derived dēlicus (**dē-lac-os*) 'put away from the breast, weaned; the weaned mother's milk'?

About altchin. lac (**glac*) from Indo Germanic **galakt* s. Karlgren DLZ. 1926, 1960 f.

References: WP. I 659, WH. I 337 f., 741 f.

Page(s): 400-401

---

Root / lemma: gleġ-

Meaning: soft, tender

Material: Nasalized in Old Icelandic klækkr 'soft, pliable, flexible, sentimental' (from **klīnkʷaz*), Old Icelandic klækka 'become soft, show faintheartedness or grief, groan, moan', Swedish kläcka 'frighten' (**klīnkwan*), Old Danish kliunka ds., Danish klynke 'whimper', compare in addition the causative Old Norse klækka 'soft make', Swedish dial. kläcka 'melt' (**klānkʷjan*); nnd. klinker 'tender, weak, lean';

Lithuanian glėžnas 'tender, soft, flabby', glėžnūs ds., glėžtū, glėžaũ, glėžti 'soft, slack, become wilted', Latvian glēznš;

Bulgarian glézъ, glezíl 'forgive, coddle', razgléza 'corruptness, unmannerliness'.

References: WP. I 661.

Page(s): 401

---

Root / lemma: gleub<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to cut, slice, pare

Material: Gr. γλύφω `carve from, carve out, cut out with a knife; engrave; to note down [on tablets] ', γλυφίς, -ίδος f. `incisure, notched end of the arrow; but perh. of notches or grooves for the fingers; poet. for the arrow itself; also in pl., notches in the arrow-head; pen-knife; chisel; in Architecture, capitals of columns; in pl., a lurking-place, den, hole, cave ';

Latin glūbō, -ēre `to deprive of its bark, to bark, peel; to cast off its shell or bark ', glūma `a hull or husk, esp. of corn '(forms -smā, glūbō with ū = eu, as Modern High German klieben);

Old High German klioban, Old English cleōfan, Old Norse kljūfa `split', Old Norse klauff. `cleft, gap, the cloven hoof', zero grade Old Norse klofna, -aða `be split', klyfia klufða `split', klofn. `cleft, gap, cleft, fissure', klofi m. `door latch, clamp ', = Old Saxon klobo m. `cloven stick, hook for fowling ' = Old High German klobo `cloven stick for catching or capturing, hook ', Old English clōfe f. `buckle ', clufu f. `onion, bulb', Old High German klobo-louh, Modern High German with dissimilation Knoblauch, Old High German kluppa f. `pliers, tongs, split wood for clamping ', Modern High German Kluppe ( **klubjōn-*), Old Norse klyff. `the split packsaddle ', Old High German kluft, Modern High German Kluft, after Wissmann (Nom. postverb. 129 f.) with expressive lengthened zero grade ū: Old High German klūbōn `to pick to pieces; defoliate ', Modern High German klauben (in addition probably with Germanic intensive consonant increase Old Norse klýpa `clamp, nip, pinch');

Old Prussian gleuptene `mouldboard, curved metal blade on the front of a plow which loosens the earth '; but Lithuanian glaudýti `take out its shell or pod ' has probably -d from gvaldýti `take out its shell or pod, core ' referring, exactly in such a way, as gvalbýti ds. -b- is covered by **glaubýti*.

References: WP. I 661, WH. 1 610 f.

Page(s): 401-402

---

Root / lemma: glōgh- : glēgh-

Meaning: spike

Material: Gr. γλῶχες `spike of the ear ', γλωχῖς, -ῖνος f. `cusp, peak', γλῶσσα, Attic γλῶππα, Ionian γλάσσα `reed' (originally Nom. **γλῶχιᾱ* Gen. γλαχιᾱς);

serb.-Church Slavic (etc.) glogъ `thorn';

Maybe alb. -mb- formant glem, gjemb `thorn ' similar to alb. delme `sheep ', zjarm `fire '

perhaps Old Norse kleggi `gadfly, brake' as `piercing little animal ', or as **klajjan-* `the sticking, the clinging ' to Indo Germanic glei-, s. gel-1 `clench ' extension g-le-, S. 363.

References: WP. I 662, Trautmann 91, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 474, 3.

Page(s): 402

---

Root / lemma: gol-1, lengthened grade gōl-, reduktions stem gol-

Meaning: to lie; den (of animals)

Material: Armenian kalať `cave, hiding place, nook, bolt-hole or lair of a wild animal';

gr. γωλεός `cave, pit, pothole';

Old Swedish kolder (= Old Icelandic **kollr* from **kolþaR*), Norwegian dial. kold, kuld m. and f. (**kolðǫ*) `birth of animal young, a full packed egg, children from the same marriage (actually of the same bed ';

Lithuanian guõlis `lair, camp, night campground ', Latvian guõl'a `lair, nest '; Lithuanian guliù (gulù), guõlti `lie down, go to bed, go to sleep, lay down in bed and go to sleep ', Latvian guõlt `lie down to sleep ', Lithuanian guliù, guõlėti `lie', Latvian gula `lair, camp, night campground ', Lithuanian gulta, gultė `lair (of an animal) ';

guõlis (and at most in **gõleĩ-ós* traceable back to γωλεός) with frequent lengthened grade in i-stem; Baltic gul-, Armenian kať from reduplication-stem gol-.

Because of Lithuanian gvalis (Szyrwid) = guõlis, gvalà, gvalù Adv. `lying ', gvalĩsčias = guõlsčias `lying', gvalini torà = gulsčiu kartėly tvorà (Kvé-darna, where uo would have led to ũ) after Trautmann KZ. 42, 373 will place the root as **gulo-* (lengthened grade **gōl-* from **gūōl-* with Indo Germanic loss of u; gul- then = Indo Germanic **gul-*); it seems Lithuanian gval-forms demand a single-linguistic explanation. compare but Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 93 f.

References: WP. I 639 f., Trautmann 93 f.

Page(s): 402

---

Root / lemma: gol-2

Meaning: branch

Material: Armenian koťr `bough, twig, branch'; russ. gol'já `twig, branch' (etc., s. Berneker 326).

References: WP. I 640, Meillet MSL. 11, 185.

---

Root / lemma: gou̯ə- (or ga̯u̯ə-?;) gū-

Meaning: hand; to grab

Material: Avestan gava Du., gavō Akk. Pl. `hands'; Avestan gūnaoiti `supply, gain', gaona- m. `profit, gain' (see below Lithuanian gáunu);

gr. *γυFā assumed from ἐγ-γυάω ` to give or hand over as a pledge; to have a thing pledged to one, accept as a surety; of a father to give his daughter in marriage, to plight, betroth; to have a woman betrothed to one; also to pledge oneself, give security; to promise or engage that; to answer for'; Med. `to pledge oneself'; postverbal ἐγγύη `a pledge put into the hand: surety, security', ἐγγυος `giving security', Subst. `bondman, guarantor'; ὑπόγυος, ὑπόγυιος `(under one's hand, imminent, nigh at hand =) willing, ready; recent; sudden, actual, present'; ἐγ-γύ-ς `of Place, near, nigh, at hand; of Time, nigh at hand; of Numbers, etc., nearly; of Relationship, akin to' (as Latin comminus), ἐγγύθι `hard by, near; of Time, nigh at hand', ἐγγύθεν `from nigh at hand; with Verbs of rest, hard by, nigh at hand; hard by him' and μεσσηγύ, -γύς `of Space, in the middle, between; of Time, meanwhile' (`between the hands'); ἐγγυος `secured, under good security; reliable; giving security for', actually `in the hands (?)', s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 620<sup>3</sup>; compare but ἐγγυαλίζω `properly, to put into the palm of the hand, put into one's hand' (above under gēu- S. 397), γυῖον a limb; the hand' (under gēu- S. 398);

Lithuanian gáunu, gáuti `obtain, receive' (gáudyti `readjust'), Old Prussian po-gaunai `receives', Inf. pogaut, participle Perf. gauuns `receive', Latvian gūnu, gūt `catch, capture', gūvejs `gainer', Lithuanian gaũklas m. `acquisition', guvùs, gavùs `agile, skilful';

Old Church Slavic o-, po-gymati `touch' (due to a **gy-mā* `giving a hand'?).

References: WP. I 636 f., Trautmann 101.

See also: see also under geu-1.

Page(s): 403-404

---

Root / lemma: gōu-, gou̯ə-, gū-

Meaning: to call, cry

Note: (onomatopoeic)

Material: Old Indic gavatē (only Dhatup.) `sounds', Intens. jōguvē `allow to sound loudly, spoken loudly', jōgū- (Gen. Pl. jōguvām) `loud singing', gaṇ-gū-yāti `exclaim shouts of happiness';

gr. γό[F]ος `weeping, wailing', γοάω `wail, groan, weep', γόης, -ητος `magician (enchanter, sorcerer)'; perhaps here Latin gāvia f. `seagull' (? s. Persson Beitr. 897 f.).

Old High German gikewen `name, call', Old English cīegan `call, shout, cry' (**kaujan*); Old High German kūma f. `lamentation', kūmo `with grief, with pain', Modern High German `with difficulty', in addition Middle High German kūme (**pitiable, mournful*) weak, fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated', Old High German kūmīg `weak, sick', Middle Low German kūme `faint, languid', Old English cyme `fine, beautiful', Swedish (gotl.) kaum n. `misery'; Norwegian dial. kauka `entice the cattle with calls'; as base from animal names in Middle Dutch cauwe `jackdaw', Old High German kaha, kã `crow', Danish kaa `jackdaw' (**kavã*) and in Old English cȳta m. `bittern', Middle High German kūze, Modern High German Kauz `owl', compare with identical forms isl. kýta `quarrel, squabble', Middle Low German kūten (out of it Middle High German kūten, kiuten) `babble, chatter'; ndd. köter from proto Germanic **kautāri*, or as `farm dog' to ndd. kot `cottage' (above gēu- S. 394);

Lithuanian gaujà `pack of dogs, wolves', gaudžiù, gaūsti `dull sound, clink' (**goud̥iet̥*), ablaut. gúodžiu, gúosti `comfort', reflex. `complain, bemoan' (**gōud̥iet̥*); gaudūs `wistful', Latvian gauda `lament', gāust `lament', gavilēt `jubilate' (the Baltic words could also belong to **ghau-* `call, shout, cry', as also e.g. Old Norse gauð `bark');

Slavic **gṛdṇ*, **gṛsti* (shaped as **gr̥dṇ* and Latin jungō) in russ.-Church Slavic gudu, gusti, κῑθαρῖζειν', klr. hudú, hustý `play', Serbo-Croatian old gúdēm, gústí `play; dull sound', poln. old gędę, gąść `fiddle, play';

Old Church Slavic govorъ m. `din, fuss, noise', govoriti `rant, roister' (russ. etc. also esp. `speak'), wherefore ablaut. russ.-Church Slavic gvorъ (**gv̥vorъ*) m. `vesicle, blister', poln. gwar (**gv̥v-arъ*) m. `din, fuss, noise, noise', lengthened grade Czech havořiti `talk, chat, prate', klr. hava `crow' (compare above Germanic **kǣuā*), sloven. gāvēc `lapwing, European plover; plover, type of shorebird', and due to a **gou-tā* `discourse' with the same forms as govorъ also russ. gútor `conversation, entertainment, humorous speech'.

References: WP. I 634 f., WH. I 584 f., Trautmann 80 f.

---

Root / lemma: gras- : grōs-

Meaning: to gnaw, to devour

Material: Old Indic grásatē `gobbles (esp. from animals), devours' (**grasō*), grāsa-h `mouthful, morsel, bite of food';

gr. γράω `gnaw, devour' (= Old Indic grásati) γράσις `grass, green fodder' (Attic κράσις through assimilation in voiceless internal consonance), γάστρις `gormandizer, gourmand, voracious eater', γράσος m. `smell of a goat: hence, of men' from *γράφ-σος (originally he-goat; billy goat as nibbler, as τράγος : τρώγω, τραγείν), γαστήρ f. `belly' (*γράφ-τήρ `devourer', compare κραστήριον `rack, manger (of horse); in pl., bed-posts', assimil. from γραστ-; γάστρα `the lower part of a vessel bulging out like a paunch'); redupl. due to a *γαγ-γράφειν `devour': γάγγραινα `gangrene, the eating ulcer'; γρώνος `eaten out; eroded, hollowed' (**grōs-no-s*), γρώνη `cavity, kneading or dough trough; dough tray; hutch' (compare τρώγλη `cave': τρώγω);

Latin grāmen (**grasmen*) n. `grass, turf; any plant or herb' (esp. as feed herb); about Germanic gras compare under ghrē-.

References: WP. I 657 f., WH. I 616 f.

Page(s): 404

---

Root / lemma: gred- : grod-

Meaning: to scratch

Note: Only alb. and Germanic

Material: Alb. gërrusë, gërresë, krūs(ë) `rasper' (from its first grade derives Latin grosa ds.), to lengthened grade present gërruanj, kruanj, kruj, also gërruëj, gërüj `scratch, scrape' (from **grōd-*, Indo Germanic grēd-);

Old Norse krota (**grd-*) `engrave', ablaut. (with intensive gemination) Old Swedish kratta `scratch, scrape', Old High German krazzōn, Middle High German Modern High German kratzen ds. (Germanic **krattōn*), besides j-verbs mnl. cretten (and cretsen), Middle High German kretzen ds., kretze `scabies';

here with expressive vocalism Old High German krizzōn, Middle High German kritzen `carve, scribble', also Middle High German krīzen `draw a circle', with secondary ablaut Old High German Middle High German kreiz (**kraitā-*) `circle' (*`carved magic circle'); expressive probably also the s-extension in nld. kratsen, krassen `scratch, scrape'.

References: WP. I 607, 651, WH. I 622 f., Wissmann Nom. postverb. 175 f.

Page(s): 405

---

Root / lemma: grem-

Meaning: damp; to sink

Material: Latin grāmia f. Pl. ` a viscous humor, rheum, that collects in the corners of the eyes ', oculi grammōsi `eye drip; pus in the eye ';

Old Icelandic kramr `humid, wet, half-melted (of snow)', perhaps also Gothic grammiþa ` dampness ', if for **krammiþa*;

Old Church Slavic grьměždь ` pus in the eye ';

Balto-Slavic root extension gremd-:

in Lithuanian grimstù (**grimzdù*), grimzdaũ, grimsti `under-, sink ', gramzdėti ds., causative gramzdinù, gramzdinti ` sink ', gramzdùs ` deeply sinking, pensive ', Latvian grimstu, grimt ` sink ', causative grēmdēt ` sink ';

Old Church Slavic pogręznoti ` sink in the water ', Church Slavic gręza `ordure', russ. grjáznutʹ ` sink in ordure ', grjazʹ `ordure, smut', Serbo-Croatian grěznuti ` sink in ', poln. grzęznąć, grząznąć ` submerge '; causative Old Church Slavic pogrōžq, pogrōziti ` sink, submerge ', russ. gruzítʹ ` sink, immerse, freight '.

References: WP. I 654 f., WH. I 617, Trautmann 97 f.

Page(s): 405

---

Root / lemma: greus-1

Meaning: to crackle, crush

Note: (and other onomatopoeic words)

Material: Gothic krius-tan ` gnash ', krusts ` the creakiness ', Old Swedish krýsta ` gnash of teeth ' and `squeeze', Old High German krustila, Modern High German Krustel, Krostel ` crash, rumble of the leg ';

Old High German krus-k ` bran ', Modern High German Krüsche ` bran ' (also Grüsch, Grüst through hybridization with Gries, Grütze ` cereal, grain ');

Old High German kros-pel, Modern High German Kruspel, Krospel `gristle', kruspeln ` crunching to bite ';

maybe alb. kruspull 'bent'

Lithuanian grukšėti 'gnash, rustle, crackle, of sand' (k-insertion?; about gráužas 'horror, dismay, gravel' s. in the end from **ghrēu-2*); serb. grúhati 'crack, creak (from the cannon), hit with crack; husk by hitting', grúšiti 'bump, poke, shuck, husk', sloven. grûh 'stone rubble', grúša 'coarse sand', russ. grúchnut'sja 'collapse with noise', etc.

References: WP. I 650 f.

Page(s): 405-406

---

Root / lemma: greus-2

Meaning: to burn, smoulder

Material: Gr. γρῦνός or γρουνός 'dry wood, torch; fagot, firebrand', Γρύνειον, Γρῦνοι 'town in Aolis';

Lithuanian gruzdėti, grūzti, Latvian gruzdēt, grust 'smolder, gleam'; yet is quite doubtful, whether gr., badly attested words originally rather stand for 'spinney'.

References: WP. I 651, Persson Beitr. 129.

Page(s): 406

---

Root / lemma: greut-

Meaning: to press; curds

Material: Irish gruth (**grutus*) 'coagulated milk, curd';

Old English crūdan 'urge, press, push', engl. to crowd 'urge, press, push', mnl. kruden, Middle High German kroten 'urge, press, push', Old English croðn., Middle High German krot 'crush, crowdedness', Middle English crudes, curdes, nengl. curds 'curd'.

References: WP. I 650.

Page(s): 406

---

Root / lemma: grēb(h)o-s : grōb(h)o-s

Meaning: hornbeam

Note:

Root / lemma: grēb(h)o-s : grōb(h)o-s : 'hornbeam' derived from zero grade of Root / lemma: gerēb(h)- : 'to scratch, write (carve wood)'

Grammatical information: m.

Material: Maked. (Illyrian) γράβιον 'torch' (' oak wood '?);

Venetic PN Grēbia, Illyrian VN Grabaei, PN Γράβος, Γράβων;

Umbrian GN Grabovius (== poln. grabowy, see below) 'Oaken God' (Old Umbrian Krapuvi, New Umbrian Grabovie, Dat.) borrowed from Illyrian grāb- (older grēb-); likewise Illyrian loanword is Latin grabātus 'bed' (*from oak wood) from gr.-Illyrian κράβ(β)ατος ds.

Maybe alb. krevat (krabat) 'bed'

grōb(h)o-s:

Balto Slavic graba- m. 'hornbeam' in:

Old Prussian wosi-grabis 'Spindle-tree', Latvian PN Gruōbina (gruōbas);

Serbo-Croatian grāb, russ. grab, poln. grab 'hornbeam', grabowy 'belonging to beech'; perhaps to gerēb<sup>h</sup>- 'crack, split'.

References: WH. I 171, 614 f., 855, Krahe IF. 59, 63 ff.

Page(s): 404

---

Root / lemma: grōd-, grəd-

Meaning: hail

Material: Armenian karkut (with metathesis from reduplicated **gagrōdo-* s. Meillet MSL. 10, 280) 'hail';

Latin grandō, -inis f. 'hail';

Lithuanian grúodas (Balto Slavic **grōda-*) 'hard-frozen street excrement, stone frost, frost without snow; mallenders';

Old Church Slavic gradъ, russ. grad, Serbo-Croatian grād, poln. grad 'hail'.

References: WP. I 658, WH. I 618, Trautmann 99.

Because of Armenian word anyhow difficult seems and could be kept away, is perhaps a basic form **ghrōd<sup>h</sup>-*, ghrēd<sup>h</sup>- must be assumed, to gr. χερμάς `pebble ' (see gher-2), compare Modern High German Hagel: gr. κάχληξ `pebble ', etc.

Page(s): 406

---

Root / lemma: gru-

Meaning: grunting (of pigs)

Note: (gru-d-, gru-n-d-)

Material: Gr. γρῦ `a grunt, as of swine', γρύζω (**γρυῖω*) `to grunt, grumble, mutter', γρύλος, γρύλλος `piglet', γρυλίζω `to grunt, of swine', γογγρύζειν τονθορύζειν, τὸ τὰς ὕς φωνεῖν Hes.;

Latin grundiō, with volkssprachl. assimilation grunniō `grunt' =

(with in onomatopoeic words faltering consonant shift in anlaut) grunnen, Old English grun(n)ian, (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), intensive Old High German grunzian, Modern High German `grunt ', Old English grunnettān ds., engl. to grunt ds.;

Old Norse krytia (preterit krutta) `growl, murmur', krutr m. `clamor', Danish krotte `drone, grumble', engl. crout `croak, caw ', whether not rather to ger-2 C.

References: WP. I 658, WH. I 624.

Page(s): 406

---

Root / lemma: gves-, gvos-, gus-, extended gvoz-do-

Meaning: branches, leaves

Material: Norwegian Danish kvas `small, chopped branches ';

1. with -d-extension:

alb. Geg ghethi `leaf', Tosc gjethe `foliage, twig, branch' (collective Pl. to a Sg. **gath* from **gvoz-d-*); [common alb. gy- > gh- > gl- > gj-: lith. gh- > dz-].

Old High German questa f., Middle High German queste, koste, haste, quast m. f., `foliage bunch, sprinkling whisk, besom ', Modern High German Quaste f., asächs. quest `foliage bunch ', Old Swedish kvaster, koster, Swedish qvast, Norwegian Danish kost `foliage bunch, rice broom '; aserb. gvozd m. 'wood, forest', apoln. gwozd 'mountain forest', gozd 'dense wood, forest', etc.;

2. with ~~-t~~-extension:

gr. βόστροχος 'a curl or lock of hair, anything twisted or wreathed, of a flash of lightning';

3. with ~~-p~~-extension:

Old Indic guṣpitá- 'interlaced, intertwined';

Latin vespicēs Pl. 'dense shrubbery';

Middle Dutch quispel, quespel, Middle Low German md. quispel 'tassel, whisk'.

References: WP. I 644 f., Berneker 365.

Page(s): 480

---

Root / lemma: g~~u~~et-

Meaning: swelling

Note: (extension from gēu- 'bend'? see there)

Material: Latin botulus 'intestine, sausage' (Oscan-Umbrian loanword);

perhaps Old Irish bél 'lip' (**g~~u~~et-lo-s*), whether not from **beklo-s* to gall. beccos 'bill, beak, neb';

Gothic qīpus 'stomach, womb', qīpuhaftō 'pregnant'; Old Icelandic kviðr m. 'belly, womb', kviðugr 'pregnant', Old English cwið(a) m. 'womb', Old High German quiti 'vulva', quoden 'interior of the thigh'; in addition further Old English cwidele f. 'pustula, varix', Old High German quedilla ds., nnd. quadel 'inflamed swelling of the skin', zero grade Middle High German kutel, Modern High German Kutteln 'tripe'.

References: WP. I 560, 671, WH. I 112 f.

Page(s): 481

---

Root / lemma: g~~u~~ozd(h)o-, g~~u~~ozd(h)i-

Meaning: nail, penis

Material: Gallorom. bottos 'hub of a wheel' (M-L. 1229a), cymr. both 'hub of a wheel, shield boss ', Middle Irish boṭ, nir. bod m. 'tail, penis';

Maybe alb. bisht 'tail' [common celt. kw- > p-, gw- > b- initial shift].

Old Bulgarian gvozdb 'nail', poln. g(w)ózdź ds., Czech hvozděj 'punch wood'; in addition poln. g(w)óździk 'carnation, clove', Czech hvozdík ds.

Maybe alb. (**gvozdz-*) gozhdë 'nail' a Slavic loanword.

References: Pokorny ZceltPh. 16, 405, WH. I 574, 636, Berneker 365 f.

Page(s): 485

---

Root / lemma: geli-, glī-

Meaning: mouse

Material: Old Indic girí-ḥ, girikā f. 'mouse' (Lex.);

gr. γαλέη (**gelei-ā*, originally 'the murine'?) 'weasel, marten', from which borrowed Latin galea originally 'crest of the weasel fur', then 'a helmet (usually of leather), head-piece, morion; the crest of the Guinea fowl' (also galērus 'a helmet-like covering for the head, made of undressed skin, a cap, bonnet, hat; so of a priest's cap; wig, a kind of peruke; a rose-bud; a conical cap of leather, fur cap' is uncovered to be borrowed from gr. *γαληρός); to γαλέη also γαλιάγκων (γαλι- = Old Indic giri-), further γαληόψις, γαλεόβδολον 'brownwort, Scrofularia peregrine; deadnettle', actually 'eye of the weasel', probably also γάλιον ds.;

Latin glīs, glīris 'dormouse' (this inflection presumably after mūs, mūris); rom. also **glēre*, compare French loir besides liron.

common rom. gl- > l-

Maybe alb. gjer (gler) 'dormouse' common alb. gl- > gj-

References: WP. I 630, WH. I 579, 607, different EM 409.

Page(s): 367

---

Root / lemma: gāb-

Meaning: to show, to watch

Material: It derived, if one might place with Zupitza gutturals 194 Old Icelandic kōpa (pÞ) 'stare, gawk', Old English cæpan 'observe, look out after, provide for, protect', changing through ablaut Old English capian up 'look up to', asächs. upcapen 'stand out, project, reach upward ', Middle Low German kapen `gawk, see, show', Middle High German kaffen ds., Old High German (with intensive gemination) kapfēn `see, show, peer ' (out of it back formation Old High German kapf `place, one looks out from, summit ') and Old High German ūfkepfen `look up' to russ. zabota `care, worry ', zabotit'sja `are worried, are concerned '.

Everything quite uncertain. The beginning of a root, with voiced-nonaspirated initial and final sound, has from the start little likelihood for itself (compare Meillet Introduction<sup>7</sup> 173 f.).

References: WP. I 530.

Page(s): 349

---

Root / lemma: gār-

Meaning: to call, cry

Note: besides single-linguistic **garr-* through expressive consonant increase in onomatopoeic words

Material: palatal is proved through osset. zarin, zarun `sing', zar `song' and through Armenian cicaṛn `swallow', cicaṛnuk `nightingale ' (redupl. **ḡoi-gār-ōn* or -no-, Petersson KZ. 47, 287);

Maybe alb. cicēron `(bird) sings'

gr. γῆρυς, Doric γᾶρυς `voice'; γαρριώμεθα λοιδορούμεθα Hes., with rr as Latin garriō, -īre `babble, chatter, chat, prate, chatter (seldom of frogs; of the nightingale:)', garrulus `gabby, gossipy, loquacious, garrulous, blithering ';

Old Irish gar- `call, shout, cry' in ad-gair `accuses' (**ḡar-e-ṭ*), ar-gair `prohibits', do-gair `calls' etc.; cymr. gair `word' (**ḡar-io-*), dyar `din, fuss, noise, sadness': Middle Irish do-gar `sad ' (**du(s)-ḡaro-*); Old Irish fo-gor `sound, tone, sound' (**upo-ḡaro-*), abret. ar-uuo-art `enchant, bewitch, fascinate '; Old Irish gairm n. (Celtic **gar-(s)mn*), cymr. corn. bret. garm ds. (: Old Saxon karm `lamentation '); lengthened grade Old Irish gāir f. `clamor', gāire `laughter ', cymr. gawr `clamor, fight, struggle';

Old High German chara f. `lamentation ', Modern High German Kar-freitag, Gothic kara f., Old English cearu f. `care ' (therefrom Old High German etc. karōn `bemoan, lament', Old High German charag `grieving ', Middle High German karc `smart, cunning, stingy', Modern High German karg, Old English cearig `sad, afflicted ', engl. chary `careful, cautious '), Old Saxon karm (see above), Old English cearm, cierm m. `clamor'.

References: WP. I 537, WH. I 583.

See also: compare die similar to onomatopoeic words **ger-* and **g<sup>w</sup>er-*.

Page(s): 352

---

Root / lemma: ġeb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: branch; stick

Note: only Germanic and Baltic

Material: Old Icelandic kafi m. 'sliced piece', kefli n. 'cable, bit of wood, toggle', rūna-kefli 'rune stick'; Middle Low German kavele f. 'piece of wood (for drawing lots)', Old Frisian kavelia 'raffle', Dutch kave m. 'allotment, lot, fate', Modern High German dial. Kabel f. and m. ds.;

Lithuanian žābas m. 'bough, deadwood, bridle, rein', žabà f. 'rod', žābaras 'thin bough', žabóju, žabóti 'bridle', žaboklas m. 'rein', ĩ-žaboklis 'toggle', ablaut. žúobris (žuobrys) 'plowshare', Latvian žabuôt 'put a gag (stick) in the mouth of an animal'.

References: WP. I 571, Trautmann 364.

See also: compare also ġegh-, S. 354.

Page(s): 353

---

Root / lemma: ġegh-, ġogh-

Meaning: branch; bush

Note: (compare also ġeb<sup>h</sup>-)

Material: Norwegian dial. kage m. 'low bush' (Germanic **kagan-*), Swedish dial. 'stump (out of it engl. cag 'stump')', Modern High German dial. kag m. 'cabbage stalk, stump, Dutch kag, kegge f. 'wedge' (Germanic **kaziō*), Old High German kegil 'picket, pole, peg, plug, nail' (Germanic **kazila-*); in addition with expressive consonant stretch (g : gg : kk):

Old Icelandic kaggi 'keg, chubby person', Middle Low German kāk 'tree trunk, pillory', Old High German slito-chōho f. 'tub', Modern High German (High German) kueche 'sledge skid'; dissim. Kufe ds.;

Lithuanian žāgaras 'thin twig, branch', Pl. 'deadwood, shrubbery, bush', žāgrė 'plough', žiōgris 'fence', Latvian žagari 'deadwood', žagas Pl. f. 'loose foliage';

Maybe alb. dh<sub>1</sub>ega 'twig, branch' [common alb. ġ- > d-].

unclear is the origin of Old English cæg(e) f. 'key, solution', Old Frisian kei, kai (**kaiga-*), Middle Low German keie ds.; dubious from Armenian cag 'elevation, acme, apex, end' (Petersson Heter. 89 f.).

References: WP. I 569 f., Kluge<sup>11</sup> 334, Martinet Gémination 116.

Page(s): 354

---

Root / lemma: ġeid-

Meaning: to suck

Material: Gr. hom. νεογιλλός 'new-born, young, sucking not for long (of animal young)', Γίλλος, Γιλλῖς, Γιλλίων (from a *γιλλός from *γιδλός 'sucking, suckling');

Lithuanian žindù žįsti 'suck'.

References: WP. I 552, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 323.

Page(s): 356

---

Root / lemma: ġeis-

Meaning: gravel

Note: (gei-s-, if nld. kei 'stone' < **keie* < **kaijo* belongs here or kei < **kagi* to kegel? s. Franck-v. Wijk 298)

Material: Middle High German kis m. n. 'gravel', Old English ciosol, cisel m. ds., Old High German kisili, kisel, kisilinc 'pebble, small stone', nnd. keiserling, keserling, kiserling ds.;

Old Prussian sixdo f. 'sand', Lithuanian žiezdrà, 'gravel, corn, grain', žięzdros 'gravel, coarse sand', žięgzdros ds., also m. žięgzdrai

Dubiously the affiliation of supposedly Phrygian γίσσα 'stone' by Steph. Byz. s. v. Μονογίσσα.

References: WP. I 553.

Page(s): 356

---

Root / lemma: ġel-, ġelə-, ġlē-, (also **gelēi-* :) ġ(e)lei-

Meaning: light, to shine; to be joyful

Material: Armenian catr, Gen. catu 'laughter' (probably with u from ō = gr *γαλώς, therefore γέλως), cicatim 'laugh', perhaps (after Petersson KZ. 47, 289) also catik (Gen. catkan) 'flower, blossom';

gr. γελάω, ἐγέλα(σ)σα ` laugh ', γελαστός ` laughable ', Doric (Pind.) γελᾶνής ` laughing, cheerful ' (*γελασ-νής due to being reshaped from *γέλας, n. to m. γέλως, originally s-stem as κρέας, Indo Germanic **gēle-s*, Aeolic to γέλος n.), γέλως, -ωτος, Akk. γέλω m. ` laughter ' (probably after γελάω colored *γαλώς = Armenian catr ds.); γελεῖν λάμπειν, ἀνθεῖν Hes.; with reduced grade the 1. syllable Γαλα-τεία Nereid name (?), γαληνός ` cheerful, peaceful' (*γαλασνός), γαλήνη (Aeolic zero grade γέλᾶνα) ` cheeriness, calm (at sea) '; with zero grade the 1. syllable γλῆ-νος n. `superb example, splendour piece; things to stare at, shows, wonders ', γλήνη ` the pupil of the eye, eyeball '.

ḡlei- in γλαινοί τὰ λαμπρύσματα Hes., at first to Old High German kleini `gleaming, dainty, fine' (Modern High German klein, in old meaning still in Kleinod and Swiss chleīn and chīlīn, with unexplained ī), Old English clæne `pure', engl. clean; with formants -λο-: ἀγλα[F]ός ` of persons, famous, distinguished; of objects, events, splendid; lovely bright, superb, pretty ' (*ἀγα-γλαFός?), ἀγλαῖα ` splendour, beauty; joy, triumph; pl., festivities, merriment; adornment, of a horse's mane, colours of oyster's shell; one of the Graces, who presided over victory in the games ' (here also ἀγάλλω ` glorify, adorn, Med. be adorned, be glad ', with ἀ- == η `in'? An other attempt by Boisacq 5); about Old English clæne `pure', Old High German kleini `gleaming' see above; the Celtic and Balto-Slavic color adjective Old Irish gel `luminous, white', glan `pure', Lithuanian gel̃tas `yellow, blond' etc. might be placed because of the Germanic parallels preferred to color root ḡhel- (see there); only if galbus was genuine Latin, it would have to be put together with Lithuanian gūlbis etc. here.

References: WP. I 622 ff., 628, WH. I 578 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 682, Specht Dekl. 123, 144.

Page(s): 366-367

Root / lemma: ḡem<sup>bh</sup>-, ḡm<sup>bh</sup>-

Meaning: to bite; tooth

Comments:

Root / lemma: ḡem<sup>bh</sup>-, ḡm<sup>bh</sup>- : `to bite; tooth ' : Root / lemma: ḡep(h)-, ḡe<sup>bh</sup>- : jaw, mouth' derived from Root / lemma: ḡh<sup>dh</sup>em-, ḡh<sup>dh</sup>om-, Gen.- ablative ḡh(ō)m-és Meaning: `earth, man, dragon ' because the ancients believed that their ancestors killed the dragon, planted his teeth in the ground and fierce men were born from the ground. snake peeled its skin and was reborn again, that is why warriors venerated the snake as the source of immortality in battle.

Material:

Old Indic jámbhatē, zero grade jábhatē `snaps', Kaus.-Iter. jambhátyati `crunched', Avestan həm- zəmbayati ds.; Armenian perhaps camem `chew', cameli `maxilla, cheek, mouth'; alb. dhëmp, dhemb `it hurts me', Lithuanian žembiù `cut up', Old Church Slavic zębq, zębsti `tear';

Old Indic jámbha-ḥ m. `tooth, Pl. teeth' (jambhya-ḥ `incisor tooth or molar'), gr. γόμφος `tooth', also `peg, plug, nail'; γομφίος scil. ὀδοῦς `incisor tooth', alb. dhëmb, Geg dâm `tooth', Old Church Slavic zъbъ `tooth', Latvian zûobs `tooth', Lithuanian žañbas `sharp edge'; žañbis `wooden plow';

Old High German kamb, Old English comb `comb' (`dentated'), Old Norse kambr `comb, jagged edge' (: Lithuanian žañbas), jagged ridge', Modern High German `ridge, mountain range' (but about nnd. kimme see above under gem-), Old English cemban, Old High German kemben `comb', Swiss chambe Kamm bei Hähnen; in addition Bavarian sich kampeln `(quarrel =) tear, rend, fight, squabble', with expressive p;

Tocharian A kam, B keme `tooth'.

Under a meaning mediation `tooth' - `like a small tooth of protrudent plant shoot' one lines up the family of Lithuanian žėmbu, žėmbėti `germinate', Old Church Slavic pro-zębatī, pro-zębnōtī ds., Latin gemma (**gem<sup>b</sup>nā*) `eye or bud in the grapevine or in trees; gemstone, precious stone', Old High German champ `the stalk of a cluster of grapes and similar plants; a bunch of berries, cluster of grapes', Modern High German Kamm (`dentated device'); the Lithuanian glottal stop is explainable through a lengthened grade present formation like sérgmi, gélbmi, gélbu.

References: WP. I 575 f., WH. I 588, Trautmann 369, Specht Dekl. 86 f.

See also: see also under ġep(h)-, ġeb<sup>h</sup>-.

Page(s): 369

---

Root / lemma: ġem(e)-

Meaning: to marry

Material: Old Indic jārā-ḥ `suitor, lover' (**ġm̃-ró-s?*); Old Indic jāmātar-, Avestan zāmātar- `man's daughter', created after other relationship names in -tar- extension, with ā the second syllable after mātar-; the basic root has been abbreviated **jāma-*, compare Avestan zāmaoya- `brother of son-in-law', also Old Indic jāmí-ḥ `connected, related by blood ', fem. nachved. `feminine relatives, esp. daughter-in-law ', ved. ví-jāmi-h) `relative by marriage ', jāmā `daughter-in-law ';

gr γαμέω `marry ' (Akt. of man, husband, Med. from the wife, woman), ἔγλημα (Doric ἔγᾱμα), γεγάμη-μαι; γαμέτης `husband ', γαμετή, γαμέτις, -ιδος `wife', γαμήλιος `nuptial ', γάμος m. `wedding '; γαμβρός (**ĝem-ro-*) `son-in-law';

Maybe alb. dasmē `wedding': gr. γάμος m. `wedding' common alb. ĝh- > d- phoentic mutation.

Latin gener-, īds. (for **gemer* after genus, gēns).

References: WP. I 574 f., WH. I 590 f.

Page(s): 369-370

---

Root / lemma: ĝen-1, ĝenə-, ĝnē-, ĝnō-

Meaning: to bear

Material: thematic present Old Indic jānati `generates, bears ', Old Latin genō, gr. γενέσθαι (ἐγένοντο = Old Indic ajananta), compare Old Irish -genathar Konj. (to Indik. -gainethar `it is born ' from **ĝn-je-tro*), also cymr. genni `be born', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), bret. genel `to give birth to children '; redupl. present unthematic Old Indic jajanti, Avestan zīzənti (v. 1. zazənti), themat. Avestan zīzanənti `they bear '; Konj. zīzanāt `she should bear ', kaus. Aor. Old Indic ájījanat `gave birth to ', Old Irish Fut. gignithir (**ĝi-ĝenā-*) `he will be born ' and with (old) zero grade the root gr. γίγνομαι `to come into being; of persons, to be born; of things, to be produced; of events, to take place, come to pass, come on, happen, and in past tenses to be; to come into a certain state, to become ', Latin gignō, -ere (genui, genitum) `produce, bring forth';

Perf. Old Indic ja-jñ-é `I am born ', 3. Sg. jajāna, 3. Pl. jajñúr, gr. γέγονα, *γέγαμεν, γεγάως (Schwyzer Gr. Gr I 767, 769), Old Irish rogēnar (**ge-ĝn-*) `be born ';

n-present Avestan zā-n-aite `they are born ?' (**ĝn-nā-m*), Armenian cnanim, Aor. cnay `is born; generate, bear ' (I 456; **ĝnə-n-), gr. γεννάω `of the father, to beget, engender; of the mother, to bring forth, to produce ' (*ĝn-nā-?* different Meillet BSL. 26, 15 f.; postverbal is γέννα `birth, origin, source, beginning; an ancestor; descent, birth; offspring, a generation; a race, family', whereof γενναῖος `suitable to one's birth or descent; of persons, high-born, noble by birth; so of animals, well-bred; noble in mind, high-minded, of things, good of their kind, excellent, notable, genuine, intense '); compare Schwyzler Gr. Gr I 694 Kaus.-Iter. Old Indic janáyati ` generates, bears ' = Old English cennan ` produce ' (**ǵonéjō*); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), jo-present Old Indic jāyatē ` is born ' (therefrom jāyā ` woman '), npers. zāyad (**ǵen-əjō*, besides ǵn-jō in: Avestan zayeite ds.; with lengthened grade of 2. Basis vowel **ǵnē-jō*: Irish gnū `I make, do' (**engender, create* ');

ske-present Latin nā-scor (**ǵn-skō-r*) ` is born ';

common lat ǵn- > n-

to-participle and similar: Old Indic jātá-h ` born ' (jātá-m `gender, sex, kind of'), Avestan zāta; Latin nātus (cognātus, agnātus) ds., ` born m., a son ';

Maybe alb. kunat `brother-in-law', kunata `sister-in-law' from Rumanian cumnat `brother-in-law', cumnată `sister-in-law'; from Latin cognātus `related, connected by blood; m. and f. as subst. a relation either on the father's or the mother's side. Transf., akin, similar'.

Paelignian cnatois ` the rump, the buttocks ' (**ǵn-tós*; so probably also :) gall. Cintu-gnātus ` firstborn ' (could be in itself also = gr γυνωτός), f. gnātha `daughter'; Old Norse kundr `son', Gothic -kunds (himina-) ` be a descendant of ', Old English heofon-kund, with þ Old Norse ās-kunnr ` of divine origin '; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), zero grade Latin genitus (**genə-* or **gene-tos*, as :) gall. geneta `daughter', expressive cymr. geneth (**genetta*) ds., Old Irish aicned `nature' (**ad-ǵenə-tom* or \-ǵene-tom*); Lithuanian žentas `son-in-law' (**ǵenə-to-s*), gentis `kinsman, relative' (with g after gimti ` be born '), Old Church Slavic zētb m., Serbo-Croatian zēt `son-in-law, sister's husband ' (**ǵenə-ti-s*);

Maybe suffixed alb. Geg (**ǵen-tar*) dhândër, Tosc dhëndër ` son-in-law ' [common alb. ǵ- > d-]. Phonetically alb. dhândri ` son-in-law ': Old Indic jānitrī `progenitor'.

with reduced e Old High German kind `kid, child' (**ǵén-tom*), Old Saxon kind (**ǵéntóm*) ds.;

with full grade the second base syllable gr. -γυνωτός ` born ' (δίο-, κασί-; proto gr. -η-; γυνήσιος ` of or belonging to the race, i. e. lawfully begotten, legitimate '), with ō-grade Old Indic jñātí-h m. `kinsman, relative' (originally f. ` kinship'), γυνωτός `kinsman, relative, brother ', γυνωτή ` sister ', mcymr. gnawt `kinsman, relative', Gothic **knōþs* (Dat. knōðai) `gender, sex', Old High German knōt, knuot `gender, sex' (compare also Old High German knuosa/n. 'gender, sex, stem', Old English cnōs/n. 'progeny, gender, sex, family'), Latvian znuōts 'son-in-law, brother-in-law'; from the light basis Avestan -zanta-, -zənta- 'born' (compare φέρτρον : bharí-tram); also acymr. -gint 'kid, child' from gen-t-.

compare an other Aryan forms : Avestan fra-zaintiš 'progeny' (against Old Indic prá-jāti-h); Avestan zəθra- n. 'birth, origin' (Aryan **žan-tha-m*); zəθra- n. 'birth' (against Old Indic jānitram 'birth place'); zantu- 'district, administrative district' = Old Indic jantú-h 'creature'; Avestan zəhyamna- participle Fut. (against Old Indic janišyatē, Aor. ájaništa); Old Indic jánman- n. besides jániman- n. 'birth, gender, sex, lineage'.

Gr. γενετή 'birth', Latin Genita Mana 'name of a divinity', Oscan Deívaí Genetaí 'goddess of birth', wherefore Latin genitālis 'of or belonging to generation or birth, causing generation or birth, fruitful, generative, genital';

gr. γένεσις 'origin, source, beginning; an ancestor', Latin genetīvus 'of or belonging to generation or birth'; with reduced æ. Avestan frazaintiš (see above), Latin gēns (or from **gnti-*) 'a clan, stock, people, tribe, nation. Transf., an offspring, descendant; a district, country' (then probably ingēns as 'monstrous, vast, enormous'), Germanic kindi- in Gothic kindins (**gēnti-no-s*) 'provincial governor', Old Norse kind f. 'entity, gender, sex, descendant'.

ǵnti- in Old Indic jāti-h 'birth, family' = Latin nāti-ō 'birth, gender, sex', Umbrian natine 'a birth, origin, people, nation', Old English (ge)cynd f. 'kind of, nature, quality, origin, source, beginning; an ancestor, descendant' (engl. kind);

*tu-*stem Latin nātū (maior-) 'from birth', therefrom nātūra 'birth; nature, natural qualities or disposition, character; an element, substance, essence, nature';

praegnās 'pregnant', new praegnans, from \-gnātis*.

ǵenə-ter- in Old Indic janítar- 'progenitor, father', jānitṛ- 'begetter, mother', gr. γενετήρ, -ῆρος, γενέτωρ, -ορος 'progenitor, father', γενέτειρα 'mother', alb. dhëndër, dhândër 'son-in-law, bridegroom' (**genə-tr-*), Latin genitor, genetrīx (: Old Indic jānitṛ) 'progenitor';

Armenian cnaut 'progenitor, father' (**genə-tlo-*);

Old Indic jāniman- (and jānman-) n. `birth, gender, sex, lineage ', Latin germen `germ, sprout, scion, shoot, twig, branch', germināre `sprouted out ', germānus, -a (-m- from -mn-) `brother, 1. sister (having the same father and mother)' (**ĝen-men*).

ĝenos- in Old Indic jānaḥ (Gen. jānasaḥ) n. `gender, sex', Armenian cin `birth', gr. γένος `gender, sex', Latin genus `birth, descent, origin; race, stock, family, house; hence offspring, descendants; sex; in gen., class, kind, variety, sort; in logic, genus; of action, etc., fashion, manner, way ' (generāre `produce ').

ĝon-os in Old Indic jāna-ḥ (Gen. jānasaḥ) m. `gender, sex', Avestan (in compound) zana- `people, humankind ', gr. γόνος m., γονή f. `birth, parentage, ancestry';

Maybe alb. Geg zana `nymph, goddess';

-ĝeno-s, -ĝno-s, -ĝenjos, -gnios as 2. composition part e.g. in Latin capri-genus `proceeding from a goat, of the goat kind ', indigena m. f. `born in a country, native, indigenous ' (= Armenian əndo-cin, əndo-cna-ç, `born in the house of the appropriate patron '), alienigena m. f. `born in a foreign land; foreign, alien; and subst., a stranger, a foreigner, an alien '; gall. Boduo-genus, Litu-genius; Old Irish ingen, ogom inigena `girl'.

ĝenā in ncymr. adian `progeny ' (**ati-ĝenā*), anian, bret. dial. agnen `nature' (**nde-ĝenā*), Loth RC 36, 106; 39, 63; with gr. -γενής, thrak. -zenes (Διογένης = thrak. Diuzenus, Διζένης), compare venet. volti-χenei and volti-χnos, Illyrian PN Anduno-cnetis (Gen.), Volto-gnas; Messapic oroagenas `inhabitant of Uria ';

gr. νεο-γνός `new-born ', Gothic niu-kla-hs `under-age ' (dissim. from niu-kna-, with formants -ko-), also aina-kla- `isolated, occasional, sporadic (from \-kna-*) and Latin singulus (from **sem-gno-*) as well as Latin malignus, benignus, prīvignus (`separate, i.e. born in other matrimony, stepchild '), Celtic -gnos in people's name, originally Patronymica, e.g. gall. Truticnos (= Drūtignos), latinis. Druti filius, ogom Gen. Coimagni, Irish Coim-ān, gall. Ate-gniā; gr. ὁμόγνιος `of the same descent '; about Cypriot ἱνίς `kid, child' (barely **ēv-γνίς*) compare Schwyz Gr. Gr. I 450<sup>3</sup>;

*ĝn-io- (wherefore the above -gnio- additional weakening) in Latin genius `the superior or divine nature which is innate in everything, the spiritual part, spirit; the tutelar deity or genius of a person, place; the spirit of social enjoyment, fondness for good living, taste, appetite, inclination; of the intellect, wit, talents, genius ', originally the personified fertility (at most zero grades **ĝen-ios*), Gothic kunī (**ĝn-io-m*), Old High German (etc.) chunni 'gender, sex', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), compare Gothic sama-kunjans Akk. Pl. 'the same gender': gr. ὁμό-γυιος; Latin progenies 'progeny ', Old Irish gein (**ĝenen* < **ĝen-n*) 'birth', Old English cyne- in compound 'royal ', Old Norse konr 'son, noble-born man, husband' (Germanic **kuninga-z* in Old High German etc. kuning 'king', i.e. 'sprung forth from, belonging to a noble gender').

ĝn- in Old Indic jā-s 'descendant ', pra-jā 'progeny ', jās-patiṣ 'paterfamilias, male head of a family ' (Meillet MSL. 10, 139); about Latin ingenuus 'free-born, born of free parents; worthy of a freeman, noble, upright, frank, candid, ingenuous ', genuīnus 'innate, native, natural; genuine' s. WH. I 593 f.

References: WP. I 576 ff., WH. I 590 ff., 597 ff., 868, Trautmann 370, Meillet Cinquantenaire 172 ff.

Page(s): 373-375

Root / lemma: ĝen-2, ĝenə-, ĝnē-, ĝnō-

Meaning: to know

Note: for the avoidance of the homonyms 1. ĝen- are often used with various with ĝnō- verbal forms.

Material: Old Indic jānāmi 'I know', anu-jñā- 'acknowledge, admit, grant', Avestan paiti-zānənti 'they take care of somebody ' (themat. 2. Pl. paiti-zānatā 'you recognize, take up, absorb, take in '), Old pers. 3. Sg. Impf. a-dānā 'he knew ' (Indo Germanic **ĝn-nā-mi*, besides enclitic **ĝn-nāmi* in:) Avestan zanā-t, zanān, afghan. pē-žanī 'distinguishes, recognizes';

Armenian Aor. cancay 'I recognize' (an-can 'unacquainted ') insecure basic form (to present **ĝn-nā-mi*? or from **ĝn-?* as:) canaut 'known';

Old Irish itar-ĝninim, asa-ĝninaim 'to taste, savor; to taste, smack, or savor of, to have a taste or flavor of a thing ' (Fut. -ĝēna from **ge-ĝnā-*, Pert ad-ĝēn-sa 'become acquainted with, acquire knowledge of, ascertain, learn, perceive, understand ; perf., to know ' from **ge-ĝn-*; in present stem ĝnin- is the Vok. still unsolved; compare Pokorny IF. 35, 338 f., Marstrander Prés. nasalized 23);

Maybe alb. (**gina*) di 'know' : Old pers. 3. Sg. Impf. a-dānā 'he knew' common alb. g- > d-.

Gothic kunnan 'know, have knowledge of' (kann, preterit kunþa; originator of the zero grade plural forms kunnum, kunnun from **ġn-nə-més*); besides weak Verb ana-kunnan 'recognize' etc. = Old High German kunnēn 'know' (already proto Germanic, Wissmann Nom. postverb. 146 f.); besides zero grades ōn-Verb Old Norse kanna 'examine'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Maybe alb. Geg njof, Tosc njoh 'recognize'

Old High German (etc.) intense Verb. kunnan (kann) 'know, have knowledge of, to be able' (in the older linguistic times only from insubstantial können 'can, be able to; may, might' = kennen 'know', contrary to mögen); in addition das Kaus. Gothic kannjan (**ġon-*) 'announce, make known, disclose', Old English cennan 'apprise, inform, define, impute', Old High German ar-kennen 'recognize', bi-kennen 'avow', Modern High German kennen.

Lithuanian žinaũ, žinóti, Latvian zināt 'know, have knowledge of' (žino = **ġen-*, thereafter Pl. žinome, Inf. žinóti, participle žinótas) == Old Prussian posinna 'I avow' (Inf. posinnat, participle posinnāts), ersinnat 'recognize';

sko-present Old pers. (Konj.) xšnāsātiy 'he should recognize'; gr. γινώσκω, epir. γνῶσκω 'recognize', Latin nōsco (gnōsco) 'recognize', ignōsco 'to pardon, forgive, excuse, overlook, allow, indulge, make allowance' (compare Old Indic anu-jñā-); alb. njoh 'I know' (**ġnē-skō*, 2. 3. Sg. njeh through umlaut); s. also under Lithuanian pažįstu, Perf. Old Indic jajñāu, Latin nōvī, Old English cnēow (cnāwan) 'recognize'; gr. Aor. ἔγνω, Old Indic Opt. jñā-yāt, gr. γέγνω 'to call out so as to be heard' (also formally become present γεγνέω ds., γεγνώσκω); in addition io-present Old Indic jñāyāte (Pass. to jānāti), Old High German knāu (ir-, bi-, int-) 'recognize' (**ġnē-iō*), Old English cnāwan (engl. know) ds. (to w compare Latin nōvī, Old Indic jajñāu), with Old High German urknāt 'cognition', and Old Church Slavic znajo, znati 'know, have knowledge of' (**ġnō-iō*);

Desid. Old Indic jijñāsati, Avestan zixšnāñhəmnā 'the yearning to enquire'; Lithuanian pažįstu, -žinaũ, žinti 'know'; after Leumann IF. 58, 118 derived from **ġn-skō*; different Persson Beitr. 341;

Kaus. Old Indic jñāpayati (the p-form would be old, if Charpentier IF. 25, 243 places rightly Armenian canaut 'known', i-stem = Old Indic jñapti-ḥ 'cognition, knowledge'); but jñapta- rather retrograd from kausat. jñāpita-, IF. 57, 226 f.

to-participle ġnō-tó-s (if that has maybe covered ō secondarily from the verbal forms): Old Indic jñātá-ḥ 'known', gr. γνωτός (newer γνωστός) ds. (ἀγνώς, -ῶτος 'unacquainted'), Latin nōtus, Old Irish gnāth 'habitual, customary, known' (cymr. gnawd 'consuetude'; in addition cymr. gnaws, naws 'nature', bret. neuz 'appearance', as brit. loanword Old Irish nōs 'custom'), gall. Κατου-γνώτος, Epo-so-gnātus; Old Indic ajñāta-, ἄγνωτος, ignōtus 'unacquainted', Old Irish ingnad 'strange'; besides **ġnō-tó-s* (colored from **ġnē-tós* after ġnō?) in Latin nota 'distinguishing mark, sign, spot, stain' (substantive Fem. of participle), Denom. notō, -āre 'mark, observe; reprove, reprimand; rebuke', hence probably also in cognitus, agnitus, compare with the same vowel gradation gr. *ἄ-γνο-φος in ἀγνοέω 'not to perceive or recognize; to be ignorant of; not to discern; fail to understand', ἀγνοῖα, ἄγνοια 'want of perception, ignorance; mistaken conduct, a mistake'; better about ἀγνόεω (stands for *ἀνόεω) and Latin nota (to ὀνοσθαι 'rebuke') currently Leumann Homer. Wörter 228<sup>23</sup>; Tocharian A ā-knats, B a-knātsa see below.

ġnē-to-s in mcymr. yngnad, ynad 'judge' (**en-ġnē-to-s*), dirnad 'power of judgement' (**dē-pro-ġnē-to-*), Loth RC 47, 174 f.

ġñ-tó-s in Lithuanian pažintas 'known', Gothic kunþs, Old English cūþ, Old High German kund 'known', Gothic unkunþs 'unacquainted'; with lengthened grade the 1. syllable Avestan paiti-zanta- 'recognized' (as ā-zainti- 'knowledge').

ġnō-ti- in Old Indic pra-jñāti-ḥ f. 'cognition', gr. γνώσις f. 'cognition', Latin nōti-ō f., Old Church Slavic Inf. znati, russ. znatʹ f. 'the acquaintance, friends'; compare Old High German urchnât f. 'a knowing, knowledge' (**ġnē-ti-s*);

ġñ-ti-s in Old High German kunst (-sti- for -ti-) 'art, knowledge, wisdom' (Gothic kunþi 'knowledge, cognition' from **kunþia-* n.), Lithuanian pažintis f. 'cognition';

ġnō-ter- in Old Indic jñātár-, Avestan žnātar- 'connoisseur, expert', compare gr. γνωστήρ, Latin nōtor 'one who knows a person or thing, a voucher, witness; connoisseur, expert'; compare Old Indic jñāna-m (**ġnō-no-m*) 'knowledge, cognition'.

ġnō-mḡ in gr. γνῶμα 'purpose; judgement; a mark, token' (out of it Latin grōma 'A surveyor's pole or measuring-rod; the centre of a camp, where the measuring-rod was planted, so as to divide the camp into four quarters by streets meeting at that point' and, of Akk. γνώμονα from, also norma `a square, employed by carpenters, masons, etc., for making right angles; a rule, pattern, precept'; Old Russian znamja (Old Church Slavic znamenije, znakъ) `mark, token, sign' (influenced by a corresponding Latin **gnōmen* is **cognōmen*, agnomen); gr. γνώμη `opinion' (probably for **gnō-m[η]ā*), compare Lithuanian žymė `mark, sign' (**žīmē*); γνώμων `one that knows or examines, an interpreter, discerner'.

ġnō-tel- in sloven. znâtelj `connoisseur, expert', russ. znâtelъ `confidant'; also Old Indic jñātār- could belong here instead of ġnō-ter-.

ġene-tlo- : ġnō-tlo- `mark' in Lithuanian žėnklas `mark, token, sign'; Old Prussian ebsentliuns `identified': Old Indic jñātra- n. `ability of the recognizing';

Germanic **knōbla-* in Old High German beknuodilen `become perceptible', einknuadil `distinguished by a mark, remarkable, noted, eminent, distinguished, prominent, extraordinary'; compare Latin (g)nōbilis `that can be known or is known, knowable, known; wellknown, famous, noted, celebrated, renowned' (adjective of a **ġnō-d<sup>h</sup>lom* `distinguishing mark');

ġnō-ro- in gr. γνώριμος `well-known; familiar, acquaintance; notable, distinguished', γνώριζω `make known' (to **γνώρον*), wherefore with ablaut *ġñ-ró-: Latin gnārus `a thing expert, skillful', ignārus `ignorant' (ignōro rather from **ignāro* after nōsco colored as with the ablaut grade from γνώριμος), gnāuris Gloss. `knowing or acquainted with a thing; skilful, practiced, expert', ignāurēs `ignorantly', nārrāre `create knowledge, tell' = Umbrian naratu `a relater, narrator, historian', naraklum `a declaring, announcing; a declaration, announcement made by the augur respecting what he has observed'; as final ending from compounds Old Indic -jnā-, Avestan uxḍa-šna- `knowing the speech'.

Here presumably Indo Germanic ġnē-uxos `expert who knows about how one has to do it, skillful' in Old Norse knār `proficient, strong' (Old English gecnæwe `admitted, known' is against its new formation from cnāwan); compare (from **ġñ-uxo-s*?) Latin nāvus (old gnāvus) `busy, diligent, assiduous, active', ignāvus `inactive, lazy, slothful, idle, sluggish, listless, without spirit, cowardly, dastardly', next to which with **æu-* mcymr. go-gnaw `familiar with' (**upo-uks-ġnəuxo-?*), Middle Breton gnou `manifesto, obvious', abret. inschr. Bodo-cnous (i.e. -gnous, Loth RC 18, 93), Middle Irish gnō `distinguished', nir. gnō `business, affairs'. A similar meaning-development in the Germanic family Old Icelandic kānn `reasonable, smart, proficient', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old English cēne `bold, audacious', Old High German kuoni `bold, pugnacious'.

(lengthened grade as γέγωνα), compare with zero grade Lithuanian žýné 'witch' ('the clever'), žýnis m. 'sorcerer';

Tocharian AB knā- 'know, have knowledge of, recognize', A ā-knats, B a-knātsa 'ignorant'.

About Hittite ḫa-an-na-i 'adjudicates' s. Pedersen Hittite 201 (a little plausibly).

Note:

Common IE ḫ- > k-.

References: WP. I 578 ff., WH. I 613 f., II 176 ff., Trautmann 370 f., Feist 316 f., Meillet Cinquantenaire 172 ff.

Page(s): 376-378

---

Root / lemma: ḡenu-1, ḡneu- (**ḡḥenu-*)

Meaning: knee, joint

Grammatical information: n. inflection ḡonu, ḡenués, ḡnub<sup>h</sup>ís etc.; besides the n-stem according to Old Indic jānuni 'both knees' and gr. γόνατος etc. from ḡonuḥ-

Comments:

Root / lemma: ḡenu-1, ḡneu- : 'knee, joint' > Root / lemma: ḡen-1, ḡenə-, ḡnē-, ḡnō- : 'to bear'. (the euphemism of lower part of the body)

Material: Old Indic jānu n. 'knee', Pahlavi zānūk, npers. zānū 'knee'; Avestan Akk. Sg. žnūm, dat. abl. pl. žnubyō; Old Indic jñu-bādh- 'the bending knees', abhi-jñú 'up to the knee', pra-jñu-ḥ 'saber-legged', Avestan fra-šnu- 'holding the knees forwards' (:gr. *πρό-γυυ);

Armenian cunr 'knee' (r-extension to old u-stem **ḡōnu-*), Pl. cunk-k, Gen. cng-aç with g-extension (**ḡon-g-o-*, compare γνύ-ξ);

Maybe alb. Geg (**ḡōnu-*) gjuni, Tosc gluri 'knee'.

gr. γόνυ, Gen. (Hom.) γουνός (**ḡonuós*), Pl. γούνα, Aeolic γόνα 'knee' (compare also γευνῶν γονάτων Hes.), besides Gen. Sg. γούνατος (for *γονFατος); lengthened grade γωνία 'point, edge' (*γωνFία), zero grade (compare under πρόγυυ γυυ-πετεῖν 'drop to one's knees', γνύξ 'on the knees', ἰγνῦη (besides ἰγνύς, Specht KZ. 59, 220) 'popliteus, the part behind the thigh and knee, ham' (*εγγνῦᾱ, -γνύς); πρόγυυ 'with stretched out knee' II. 570 stands for *πρόγυυ (= Old Indic pra-jñú-ḥ);

Latin genū, -ūs `knee; of plants, a knot, joint ', geniculum `knee, a little knee, a knot or joint on the stalk of a plant; angle ';

Gothic kniu n., Old High German etc. knio, kneo ( **kniwa-*, Indo Germanic **ĝneuo-*) `knee' (Old Norse knē also from `knot in the straw', as Old English cneoweht `knotty, from plants ' ; Latin geniculum also `a knot or joint on the stalk of a plant ' ; but Latin genista is Etruscan); an extension with Germanic t in oberschles. knutzen `squat on the knees ' and perhaps in Gothic knussjan `kneel ', kniwam knussjands `bending in the knees together ', if in a tu-stem **knussus* from this verb **knutjan* `based on ';

Illyrian FIN Genusus, Low Italian PN Genusia, Messapic PN tri-gonoχoa, Ligurian PN Genua, adjective derivative Genava `Geneva ';

Tocharian A kanwem, B kenīne Dual. `the knees';

Hittite gi-e-nu (genu) `knee'.

Note:

Pronunciation of the labialized laryngeal: Hittite gi-e was gje- as in Albanian gju-

References: WP. I 586 f., WH. I 592 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 463, 518.

Page(s): 380-381

---

Root / lemma: *ĝenu-2*f. and (ĝenæ<sup>dh</sup>- : ) ĝonæ<sup>dh</sup>-

Meaning: chin

Note:

Root / lemma: *ĝenu-2*f. and (ĝenæ<sup>dh</sup>- : ) ĝonæ<sup>dh</sup>- : chin' derived from Root / lemma: ĝenu-1, ĝneu- (**ĝhenu-*) : knee, joint'.

Material: Old Indic hānu-ṣ f. `mandible ', Avestan zānu- ds., in compounds (with secondary Aryan ĝh-, Güntert WuS. 11, 124 f.);

Phrygian α-ζήν Akk. ḏ-ζένα `beard' (prefix α- and **ĝen-*); (common Occidental Romance vowel prefix)

gr. γένυς, -υος f. `chin, mandible' (with secondary ū-stem; compare γένειον `chin beard' from **γενεῖον*, γενῆϊς, Attic γενῆς f. `edge of the hatchet ' from **γενεῖς*);

Latin gena f. `cheek' (fur **genus* after mala), genuīnus (dens) `grinder, molar tooth ';

Old Irish g(u)n 'mouth', cymr. gen 'cheek, chin', Pl. geneu, acorn. genau, bret. genou (older Pl. **geneues*);

Gothic kinnus f. 'cheek' (**genus*, **genues*, -nn- from -nu-), Old Norse kinn f. 'cheek, mountainside', Old English cinn, Old High German kinni n. 'chin'; (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Tocharian A śanwe-m Dual f. 'mandible, lower jaw bone' (e-extension from ġenu-).

gonæd<sup>h</sup>- in Lithuanian žándas 'mandible', Latvian zuōds 'chin, sharp edge'; maked. κάναδοι σιαγόνες, γνάθοι (compare Specht KZ. 59, 113<sup>1</sup>);

zero grade gr. γνάθος f., γναθμός m. 'mandible' (**gnæd<sup>h</sup>*-); unclear is Armenian cnaut 'mandible, cheek'.

References: WP. I 587, WH. I 589 f., Specht Dekl. 87, 253, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 463.

Page(s): 381-382

---

Root / lemma: ġep<sup>(h)</sup>-, ġeb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: jaw, mouth

Note:

Root / lemma: ġep(h)-, ġeb<sup>h</sup>-: jaw, mouth' : Root / lemma: ġemb<sup>h</sup>-, ġm<sup>h</sup> -: to bite; tooth' derived from Root / lemma: ġenu-2 f. and (ġened<sup>h</sup> -: ) ġonæd<sup>h</sup> -: chin' : Root / lemma: ġenu-1, ġneu- (**ġhenu-*) : knee, joint'.

Material: With ph. Avestan zafar-, zafan- 'mouth, jaw', participle Med. vī-zafāna, compare s-stem (besides r/n-stem) in θrizafah- besides θrizafan-;

Maybe alb. Geg za 'capture, bite'.

with b<sup>h</sup> : gallorom. expressive **gobbo-*, Old Irish gop, nir. gob 'bill, beak, neb, mouth';

Maybe alb. gop 'vagina'.

Germanic with ph or to partial b<sup>h</sup> Old Norse kjaptr or kjǫptr (**keþuta-* or **kefuta-*) 'muzzle, mandible, jaw', Middle High German kivel, kiver 'jaw' (**kefra-*) Modern High German dial. kiefe 'gill', ndd. keve 'jaw, gill', wherefore the verbs Norwegian kjava 'quarrel, argue' ('move the jaws')

Maybe alb. (**zifem*) zihem 'quarrel' [common alb. ġ- > -z-; -f- > -h-]

Middle Low German Low German kibbelen, kabbelen, kevelen `babble, chatter loudly ', Middle High German kibelen, kifelen `quarrel, squabble', kiven, kiffen `gnaw ', kifelen `gnaw, chew '; lengthened grade Old Norse kāfl, Old Saxon cāfl, Old English cēafl (engl. jowl, jole) `jaw ' (**kēfala*-).

In addition as `nibbler ':

Old High German chevaro, kevar, Middle High German kevere `beetle, chafer' (**kebran*-); changing through ablaut Old English ceafor (**kaḅra*- or **kaḅru*-), nnd. kave/ds.;

Lithuanian žėbiū, žėbti `eat slowly ', žėbiu, žėbeti `eat, peck ';

Old Church Slavic o-zobati `λυμαίνεσθαι ', serb. zòbati `eat, devour ', zôb f. `oat ', russ. zobátʹ `eat, peck ', zob m. `bill, beak, neb';

Czech žábra `gill of the fish ', russ. žábry ds. could have covered ž from the e-grade and contain a variant with g-.

from ġemb<sup>h</sup>- `bite' as a nasalized form belongs to our root?

References: WP. I 570 f., Trautmann 364, Benveniste Origines 10 f., Kluge<sup>11</sup> s. v. `beetle, chafer' and `jaw '.

Page(s): 382

---

Root / lemma: ġers-

Meaning: to turn, bend

Material: Armenian car `tree', Pl. `brushwood ' (**ġrso*-); caray (**ġr-āti*-) `servant, farmhand'; cur `slant, skew, crooked' (**ġorsos*);

gr. γέππον n. `anything made of wicker-work; oblong shield, covered with ox-hide; wattled screens or booths, used in the Athen. market-place, generally, wattles; wicker body of a cart ' etc., also `penis' (**rod*) (*γερσιον);

Maybe alb. kar `penis' : Gypsy kar `penis'.

Latin gerra `anything made of wicker-work ', Pl. gerrae `wattled twigs; trifles, stuff, nonsense ' is gr. loanword; zero grade γάρρα ράβδος and γάρσανα φρύγανα. Κρήτες Hes.;

from Gr. γέρδιος derives Latin gerdius `weaver '; cymr. gyrr m. 'drive, impel, drift, propel, push, thrust, livestock drive' (**ġersio-*), therefrom gyrru ds.?

Old Norse kjarr n., kjorr m. (**kerza-*, kerzu-) 'shrubbery, bush', Swedish dial. kars, karse m. 'basket from withe, small bag, net bag', Old Norse kass(i) m. (**kars-*) 'wicker basket, back basket', Swedish kärsa f. 'creel, net bag', Norwegian kjessa 'basket, bast netting' (**karšiōn*).

In addition probably Middle High German kerren 'turn' (**karzjan*) = Old English cierran 'wend, in a certain position bring, intr. turn', becierran 'turn', cierr m. (**karzi-*) 'time, one time, business'.

References: WP. I 609 f., WH. I 594, 596, Loth RC 40, 375 f.

Page(s): 392-393

---

Root / lemma: ġer-, ġerə-, ġrē-

Meaning: to rub; to be old; grain

Note: also, esp. in formations with formants -no-, 'corn, grain, seed' (only NW-Indo Germanic); the oldest meaning seems to have been 'rub' (hence 'fruit grater, neatly pulverized, ground into fine particles; crushed'), intr.-pass. 'become faded, from age or disease, malady'.

Material: Old Indic jarant- 'fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated, old, graybeard' (= osset. zāron 'old', gr. γέρων; compare also npers. zar 'graybeard, hag'), jarati 'makes fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated, allows to grow old' (**rub*, chafe'), jarāṇá- 'frail, old', jarás- f. (Nom. Sg. jarāḥ, Indo Germanic -ōs) and jarā- 'age, grow older, senescence, aging process, process of growing older, age'; redupl. jarjara- 'frail, breakable, decrepit' (: gr. γεργέριμος); lengthened grade jāra- 'aging, maturing; growing older' (= npers. zār 'weak, woeful, wretched, miserable', zār 'graybeard, hag'; also in Aor. jāriṣuh); heavy basis in Old Indic jarimán- m. 'old age, senility', jīryati, jūryati 'become fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated, rotten, decayed, decomposed; brittle, grows old', participle jūrṇá-, jīrṇá- 'fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated, decrepit, antiquated, worn out, old, decompose, rotten, decayed, decomposed; brittle, old'; Avestan azarəšant- 'not aging, maturing' (participle of s-Aor.), azarəma- 'not decreasing, lessening, diminishing, declining' (from **zarəma-* m. 'the abandoned, depraved, unkempt, withered, shabby, dilapidated, neglected'), zairina- 'attritional, tiring, languishing, wearying, exhausting', zarəta- 'altersschwach' (probably = Old Indic **jīrta-*), with formant u (: gr. γράϋς? Old Norse kǫr, see below) zaurvan- m. 'hoariness, old age, grayness, senility ', zaurura- ` decrepit, infirm, feeble, weak, frail, aged, fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated ', perhaps also zrvan- : zrūn- `time';

Armenian cer `old, graybeard' ( **ġero-*);

gr. γέρων `graybeard' (γέροντ-), γερούσιος `pertaining to the council of the elders, senatorial ', γερούσια ` Council of Elders, senate, esp. at Sparta, sacred college ', γέρας n. (Indo Germanic **ġerə-s*, from the heavy basis) originally `*age, * age prerogative ', hence `honorific title; award, prize, honorary position, guerdon, reward, recompense, prize, trophy ', γεράρος `venerable, stately, respectable ', later also `old, senile ', γεραιός `old' probably from **γερασ-ιός*; in the meaning `age' is γέρας replaced through γήρας; η from γηράσκω `grown old ', participle present γηρᾶς `aging, maturing; growing older ', themat. Impf. ἐγήρᾱ, etc. auf γήρας (for γέρας) figurative, also in γηράω `get old, grow old, mature, ripen ', γηραλέος (by Hes. also γεραλέος) `old'; Attic γραῦς, Gen. γρά(*F)ός (hom. Dat. γρηῖ) `old wife, woman' (hom. γρηῦς probably later inscription of a right one **γρη(F)ίς* after the usual one γραῦς); perhaps in relationship to Avestan zaurvan- m. `hoariness, old age, grayness ', perhaps originally Nom. **ġer-us* : Gen. **ġerə-u-ós*, from which γράFός; s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I, 574; redupl. γηγέριμος `dropping by itself or ripe fig or olive ' (see above);

Old Norse karl `man, husband, old man, husband, husband, free man, husband' = Old High German kara ds., with ablaut Old English ceorl `free man of the lowest class, husband ', engl. churl `rude person, person from the country, fool ', Middle Low German kerle `free, common man, husband, sturdy man, husband', Modern High German (from Ndd.) Kerl, basic meaning probably `aged man, husband';

Old Church Slavic zbrěti `ripen', zbrěb `mature, ripe, mellow, seasoned ', causative szori `ripe '.

In the meaning `corn, grain, seed ':

Latin grānum `corn, grain, seed ' ( **gr-nóm*, = Old Indic jīrṇá-, see above) = Old Irish grān, cymr. etc. grawn (Sg. gronyn) ds. (borrowing from Latin is not provable) = Lithuanian žirnis, Latvian zīrnis m. `pea', Old Prussian syrne f. `corn, grain'; Old Church Slavic zrěno, serb. zrno n. `corn, grain'; Gothic kaurn, Old High German Old English Old Norse korn, Modern High German Korn, Old English cyrnel `seed ', next to which zero grades Old High German kerno, Old Norse kjarni m., ds. (probably also Modern High German Dialectal kern `milk cream, milk skimmings ' granular becoming as in butter, Middle High German kern `churn, vessel in which butter is made ', Old Norse kjarni, kirna ds., Old English ciern, engl. churn ds.).

Maybe alb. (**kjern*) thjerrë `lentil' not from Armenian siser̄n `chickpea'

**grāros* (**gr̄-rós*) `pulverized, ground into fine particles; crushed' is continual probably in Latin glārea (**grārejā*) `gravel'; d-present **grō-dō* perhaps in Gothic gakrōtōn `crunch'.

References: WP. I 599 f., WH. I 605 f., 618 f., Trautmann 371 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 514, 574, 682 under Anm. 5.

Page(s): 390-391

---

Root / lemma: ġeus-

Meaning: to taste; to enjoy [to savor, enjoy, taste', in the Germanic and Celtic 'choose', in Indo Iran. and Alban. 'love']

Material: Old Indic jōṣati, juṣātē `tastes, enjoys, loves', jōśāyatē `where one finds pleasure', jōśa-ḥ `contentedness, approval, sufficiency', Avestan zaoš-, Old pers. dauš- `where one finds flavor', Avestan zaošō `pleasure', zuštō `liked, beloved, fancied, desirable, worth having, welcome, wanted'; khotan-sak. ysūṣḍē `he appraises, appreciates', ysua, ysuyān (ys = z) `treat, delight';

gr. γεύομαι `feel, enjoy the taste of; experience, have enjoyment of, enjoy the company of' (therefrom γεύω `allow to taste');

alb. desha `I loved', present do, dua (**ġēus-n-*, Jokl IF. 37, 101 f.);

Also alb. Geg me dashtë `to love'.

n-present Latin dēgūnō, -ere `taste' (**ġus-nō*);

Old Irish asa-gū (**ġus-s-ḥ*) `he wishes' (ad-gūsi, asa-gūssi `he wishes', s. to form Pedersen II 549), do-goā (**ġus-ā-ḥ*) `he chooses', verbal noun toġu `choose', preterit dorōigu `elegit' (**to-ro-ġi-ġēus-ḥ*), Pokorny IF. 35, 177 ff., etc. (see Pedersen aaO.);

Gothic kīusan `assay, try, test, check', Old Norse kjōsa `choose, wish' (also `affect through sorcery', Old High German Old Saxon kiosan `taste, assay, try, choose', Modern High German kiesen, Kaus.-lter. Gothic kausjan `assay, try, taste' (= Old Indic iōśāyatē); compare Old English wæl-céasig `choosing corpses' (of raven).

noun actionis of ti-: Old Indic júṣṭi-ḥ Liebeserweisung, favour', Gothic ga-kusts f. `examination', Old Frisian kest, Old English cyst m. `object of a choice, exquisiteness, excellence' (but gr. γεῦσις previously single-linguistic formation from γεύομαι): of tu-: Latin gustus, -ūs `a tasting of food, a partaking slightly or eating a little of any thing, a light dish at the beginning of a Roman meal, an antepast, whet, relish, taste, flavor ', Celtic **gustu-* 'choice ' in names Irish Oengus, Fergus, acymr. Ungust, Gurgust and in Old Irish guss 'skillfulness, power ', Gothic kustus 'examination ', Old High German Old Saxon kust m. 'examination, appraisal, choice, excellence ', Old Norse kostr, -ar 'choice, capriciousness, (good) quality '; derivative of participle **gus-tós*: Latin gustō, -āre 'taste, eat, drink; relish, enjoy ' = Old High German Old Saxon kostōn 'taste, try, assay, test ', Old English costian 'try, assay, test, plague', Old Norse kosta, -aða 'assay, try, exert oneself, strive '; previous noun actionis is **kuriz* in Old English cyre m. 'choice, judgement', Old High German kuri f. ds. (Modern High German Kur-fürst 'prince elector, elector, electoral prince, one of the princes of the Holy Roman Empire entitled to elect the emperor', Will-kür 'capriciousness, despotism, arbitrariness'), with intersection in neuter Old Norse kør 'choice ', Old English ge-cor 'verdict ', derived Old High German korōn 'taste, sip; have some experience of; enjoy, try'.

References: WP. I 568 f., WH. I 628 f., Feist 312 f.

Page(s): 399-400

Root / lemma: ḡeu-, ḡeyə- (besides geyə-)

Meaning: to advance; to hurry

Material: Old Indic junāti 'drive, hurry, set in motion, stir into action as if by fanning; arouse, instigate ', jávate 'hurries ', jūtá-ḥ 'hurrying', jū- 'quick, fast', jūtí 'quickness, encouragement ', javín 'hurrying', javá-ḥ 'hurrying, quick, fast', javiṣṭha-ḥ 'the fastest', m. 'haste, hurry, quickness ', javas- 'quickness ', javana-ḥ 'driving, animating, inciting ';

Avestan zavah- n. 'power, strength ', zāvar- n. '(physical) power, strength ' (esp. of the feet and the horse), npers. zōr 'power ', Baluchi zūt 'quick, fast', Avestan zəvištya 'the hastiest, most fastest, the most conducive ', uzutay- 'hurrying out, foaming ';

besides auf Indo Germanic geyə- weisend: Avestan java 'hurry '; npers. zūd 'quick, fast' could belong to Aryan ḡ or ž, perhaps to Old Norse keyra 'drive, ride, push, throw, ride';

Serbo-Croatian žuriti se 'hurry ', from Trautmann 80 to güriti se 'brew ' placed, perhaps in spite of unclear anlaut here.

References: WP. I 555.

Page(s): 399

Root / lemma: ġēi- : ġī-

Meaning: to sprout

Material: Armenian ciṭ, ciuṭ, ceṭ `stem, stalk', ən-ciuṭ `sprout, germ, sprout';

Gothic keinan, us-keinan `germinate', us-kijans `germinated, sprouted'; Old High German chīnan `germinate, split, open', Old English cīnan `break, crack, be open'; Old High German chīmo m., asāchs. kīmo `germ, sprout'; Old English cīð, Old Saxon kīð m. `germ, sprout, young shoot', Old High German frumakīdi `first shoot'; Old Saxon kio, Old English cēon, cīun `gills' (probably **kijan-*).

Here probably with a previous form the bursting bud, sprout in general meaning `break, crack, sich split' Old High German kīl, Modern High German Keil, Middle Low German kīl, Norwegian kīle m. `wedge' (or this meaning of the sharpness deriving from the plant bud? formally from **kī-ðlā-*, compare **kī-þla-* in:) Old High German kīdel, Modern High German Dialectal keidel m. `wedge'; Old Icelandic kīll m. `narrow sea bay' (**cleft, fissure*), changing through ablaut Norwegian keila f. `small gully, canal', Middle Low German kēl m. `narrow Meerbucht'; with ī Old English cinu f. `cleft, col, gap', Danish Dialectal kin `col, gap'; perhaps Old Middle High German chil `leek', Middle High German kil m. `onion, bulb of the leek', Modern High German Kiel m. ds. (compare Bavarian auskielen from acorn, onion, `germinating the peel, break through skin');

Latvian zēiju, ziēt `flourish, bloom, appear, come into view', next to which with ā- extension (probably originally ā-present) Lithuanian žýd(ži)u žydėti `bloom, blossom', pražýstu, -žýdau, -žýsti `blossom', žiedas `bloom, blossom, ring', Latvian ziēdu (ziēžu), ziēdēt `bloom, blossom'.

References: WP. I 544.

Page(s): 355-356

---

Root / lemma: ġhaiso- (or ġhaiso- : ġhēiso-)

Meaning: stick; dart

Material: Old Indic hṛ́ṣas- n. `projectile' (yet see below ġhei-1 `stimulate, invigorate');

gr. χαίος m. (?) `shepherd's crook; crosier';

gall.-Latin gaesum, gall.-gr. γαῖσον `heavy iron spear, lance' (gall. gaesātī `mercenaries'); Old Irish gaē `spear, javelin' (gāide `lance'); fo-gae, Middle Irish fo-ga `spear, lance' = cymr. gwayw (see in addition Thurneysen IA. 26, 25, compare also abret).

guu-goïuou ` a little sharp point or sting, a weapon used for fighting at a distance; a missile weapon, missile, as a dart, spear, javelin ', BB. 17, 139), Middle Breton goaff, corn. gew, Old High German Old Saxon gēr, Old English gār, Old Icelandic geirr m. ` throw spear ' (**gaizas*); Gothic PN Rada-gaisu-s, wand. Gaisa-rīk-s.

In addition as -ilōn-derivative Old High German geisila, Modern High German Geißel `lash, scourge, bullwhip, horsewhip; spur', Old Icelandic geisl, geisli m. ` stick of the snowshoe runners '; with ablaut (Indo Germanic ē/? ?) langob. gīsil ` arrow shaft ' (but about Old High German gīsal ` captive = Bürgschaftsgefangener ' see below ghed<sup>h</sup>- `lust, crave'), Old Icelandic gīsl(i) `staff'.

References: WP. I 528, WH. I 575 f.

Page(s): 410

---

Root / lemma: ġhalg(h)-

Meaning: (flexible) twig

Material: Armenian jaṭk `twig, branch, horsewhip, stalk, captive' (< **ġhalgā*, Petersson Heteroklisie 155 expounded den variation from g and gh from a paradigm **ġhólgh*, **ġhlgnés*);

Gothic galga m. `picket, pole, cross', Old Icelandic galgi `gallows ', Old English gealga, Old Frisian galga, Old Saxon Old High German galgo `gallows, cross', in addition further formations Old Icelandic gelgia `twig, branch, shaft, pole, stick' (the oldest kind of the gallows was a pliable branch in which the criminal would be hanged);

Lithuanian žalgà and žalgas m. `long, thin shaft, pole', Latvian žalga f. `long rod, fishing rod'.

References: WP. I 540, Trautmann 364.

Page(s): 411

---

Root / lemma: ġhal-, ġhal-ar-

Meaning: flaw, defect

Material: Old Irish galar n. `disease, malady, distress ', cymr. corn. galar `sorrow, mourning, grief, affliction, distress, lamentation, a striking or beating accompanied by a loud noise, a banging, rustling, roaring ';

Old Icelandic galli m. 'blemish, fault, error, damage' (but gealla m. 'sore-grated place of the horse', engl. gall ds., Middle Low German galle 'damaged place', Middle High German galle 'swelling, tumefaction of the horse, damaged place in the rock', Modern High German galle 'swelling, lump, growth, flaw in rock, in farmland etc.' are with Galle = Gall-apfel borrowed from Latin galla);

Lithuanian žalà 'damage, injury', žalingas 'wicked, harmful', Latvian zalba, zolba 'damage, injury in the body' (or borrowed from Russian? s. Endzelin KZ. 44, 66); perhaps also klruss. zolak 'the most painful place of a wound', russ. nazóla 'ruefulness, distress, anger, irritation'.

Pedersen (Hittite 46) compares with Old Irish galar Hittite kal-la-ar (kallaṛ) 'evil, bad'.

References: WP. I 540, WH. I 580.

Page(s): 411

---

Root / lemma: ġhan-s-

Meaning: goose

Note:

Root / lemma: ġhan-s-: 'goose' derived from Root / lemma: gha gha, ghe ghe, ghi ghi: 'to cackle (of geese)'.

Material: Old Indic hamśá-ḥ m., hamśī f. 'goose, swan'; soghd. z'γ 'sorte d'oiseau';

Latin ānser, mostly m. 'goose' (originally **hanser*, to stem formation compare Slavic **žansera-* (**gansera-*) 'gander' in Old Czech húser, polab. ġúnsgarr, etc.);

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin ġh- > h-.

gr. χῆν, -ός, m. f., Doric Boeotian χᾱν 'goose' from **χανς*, χανσός (here, as in Germanic and in Lithuanian Gen. Pl. žąsų, still the old conservative inflection);

Maybe zero grade in alb. (**he-nos*) rosa 'duck' common alb. n/r rhotacism; also gn- > n- italic-illyrian.

Old Irish ġēiss 'swan' (**ġansī* = Old Indic hamśī, not reshaped from a conservative stem);

Old High German gans (i-stem has changed), Old English gōs (Pl. gēs from **gans-iz* = gr. χήνες), Old Icelandic gās (Pl. gæss) 'goose' (from Old English gōs derives Middle Irish goss);

Lithuanian žasīs f. 'goose' (Akk. žāsī = gr. χήνα, Gen. Pl. conservative žāsū, dial. also Nom. Pl. žāsės), Latvian zūoss, Old Prussian sansyds;

Slavic **gops* (with probably auf Germanic influence based g instead of z) in russ. gusb, sloven. gós, poln. gęś 'goose' ;

Specht Dekl. 204 will also Lithuanian gén-š-e, gen-ž-ė f. 'egret, heron' here place.

Old English gan(d)ra 'gander' (engl. gander), Middle Low German ganre ds. is applied as Mask.-formation of stem **gan-* after kind of from Old High German kat-aro 'tomcat, male-cat'; if ein **ganezan-* the basic lies, stand Swiss gann, ganner 'appellation from aquanauts' as **ganzá-* with it in Suffix ablaut. (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Besides certainly of the abbreviated stem ghan- (wherefore ghan-[e]s- as Indo Germanic **mēn-ōt-*: **mēn-[e]s-* 'month') on the exterior formation with -d-: Germanic (zuerst by Plin.) ganta 'a kind of goose' (out of it prov. gante 'wild goose, stork'; the meaning 'stork' shows also Lithuanian gañdras, Old Prussian gandarus, from Germanic **gan[d]ro*), Old English ganot 'a wild water bird, e.g. a coot', Old High German ganazzo 'gander', also ganzo, Middle Low German gante ds. (A derivative therefrom with similar meaning as Tirol gänzen 'flirt', gänsern 'act as a goose', also 'wish, adore cravingly', siebenbürg. goaseln 'philander, flirt' is nisl. ganta 'philander, flirt', ganti 'an idler, loafer, man about town, a city buffoon, droll, jester, clown, pantaloons, parasite', Swedish mdart. gant, Danish gante 'dandy, fop, man excessively concerned with his clothes and appearance', wherefore as fem. Norwegian gjente 'girl'.)

Maybe alb. gocë 'girl'

There Indo Germanic ghan-s-, -(ə)d- with gr. χανέιν (see ghan-) and generally with the family 2. ghē- 'yawn' zusammenhängt, also from dem heisern Anfauchen of animals by open bill, beak, neb den Namen hat, is um so glaublicher, as also ghē- 'yawn' originally identical Ausatmen beim Gähnen identified hat. A similar Lautnachahmung (partly also base from Wasservogelnamen) see below gha gha-.

References: WP. I 536, WH. I 52, 583, Trautmann 365 f., Specht Dekl. 47, 204.

Page(s): 412

---

Root / lemma: ghan-

Meaning: to yawn

Material: Gr. hom. ἔχανον Aor. (actually Imperf. to *χα-vā-μι, *χά-vω), κέχηνα Perf. (Doric κεχᾶναντι) `yawn, gape' (thereafter later present χαίνω), τὸ χάνος `yawn', by comedian also `mouth', ἀχανής (ἀ- copulativum) `wide open, enlarged', etc.; besides χανύω, χανύσσω `speak with open mouth' Hes.; different about gr. ἀχανής Specht Dekl. 282 f., the in ἀ- sees the anlaut of the root; about χαν-δόν `with mouth wide open, greedily' s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 626;

Old Icelandic gan n. `yawn' (probably = τὸ χάνος), Norwegian Swedish gan `gullet, jaw', also `gill, head and entrails of small fish'; Old Icelandic gana `gape, stare with an open mouth, lust, crave, glotzen', gōnir `mock' . Also the name of the goose, Indo Germanic ghan-s-, ghan-[ə]d-, is placed here, see there.

References: WP. I 534, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 694, Wissmann Nom. postverb. 149 f.

Page(s): 411

---

Root / lemma: ghasto-1, ghazd<sup>h</sup>o-

Meaning: twig; pole

Root / lemma: ghasto-1, ghazd<sup>h</sup>o- : (twig; pole) derived from Root / lemma: ak-, ok-, (ak-sti-): (sharp; stone)

Material: Latin hasta `shaft, pole, staff, spear, javelin, spear, lance', Umbrian hostatu, anostatu `armed with a spear' (o not satisfactorily expounded), Middle Irish gass `lap, scion, shoot, rod' (< **ghasto-*); besides **ghazd<sup>h</sup>-* in Middle Irish gat `with', Middle Irish tris-gataim `drill through, pierce'; perhaps in addition Old Irish gataid `steal, rob' as `prick, stab with a sharp object'? (Thurneysen KZ. 63, 114<sup>4</sup>);

maybe alb. full grade heshta `spear' is older than Latin hasta `spear'

Gothic gazds m. `sting, prick', Old Icelandic gaddr `sting, prick, cusp, peak', Old Saxon fiurgard `poker, tool used to arrange hot coals', Old High German gart m. `stimulus'; in addition with iā-derivative Old English gierd f. `rod', afr. ierde `horsewhip, measuring rod', Old Saxon gerdia `horsewhip, rod, staff, ray', Old High German gartia, gertia `rod, scepter'.

References: WP. I 541, WH. I 636, 869.

Perhaps identical with:

---

Root / lemma: ġhasto-2

Meaning: hand, arm

See also: s. more properly under ġhesto-2.

Page(s): 413

---

Root / lemma: ġhau-, ġhauə-

Meaning: to call, *priestess, *goddess

Alb. shows that Root / lemma: ġhuen- : 'to sound' derived from Root / lemma: ġhau-, ġhauə- : 'to call'

Material: Old Indic hávate 'call, shout, send for, call out to, summon' (other phrase formations in hváyati, huvé, hóma, juhūmás), Pass. hūyáte, participle hūtá- 'loaded, charged, filled with emotion, called', hávītave Infin., hávīman- n. 'appeal, request, plea; prayer', háva- m. n., havás-, hávana- n. ds., hóman n. 'caller of the price', hvātar- 'caller';

Avestan zavaiti 'calls, shouts, curses' (besides the present zbayeiti, zaozaomi), participle zūta- 'call', zavana- n. 'shout, call, appeal, request, plea; prayer', zavan 'shout, call', zbātār- m. 'shouter, caller'; [common alb. Romanian Iranian -v- > -b-].

Maybe Albanian zana 'nymph', alb. geg (**ġhâ-*) zâ, zani 'voice, call'

Lithuanian žavėti 'conjure, perform magic', Latvian zavēt ds., actually 'somebody to curse something' (compare Avestan zavaiti 'enchanted, spellbound, bewitched');

Old Church Slavic zovŕ, zъvati 'call, shout, cry', Serbo-Croatian zòvêm, zvăti 'call, shout, cry', Old Czech zovu, zvati, russ. zovú, zvát ds.; in addition sloven. zòv m. 'shout, call (whether not noun post-verbal, = Old Indic hava-h, m. 'shout, call').

Armenian jaunem 'consecrate, sanctify, bless; ordain', n-zovk 'curse';

gr. καυχάομαι 'praise, oneself, boast, brag' (**ġhaughau-*, compare Avestan zaozaomi), from which back formation καύχη f. 'boastfulness';

maybe gemination alb. (**ġhaughau-*) gegë 'northern alb. people.

Old Irish guth m. 'voice' (**ġutu-s*); in addition gall. gutwater name a class of priests, probably from **ġhutu-petēr* 'father (that is to say master) of calls (a god)', Loth, RC 15, 224 ff., 28, 119 ff., Rev. Archéol. 1925, 221;

Here probably (as **ghu-tó-m`angerufenes creature`*):

Germanic **gudā-* n. `god' (compare Old Indic puru-hūtá-ḥ`loud call', ved. epithet of Indras) in Gothic gub m. `god' (the originally neutral form still in Pl. guda and in galiuga-gub`idol`), Old Icelandic goð, guð n. `heathenish god'; guð m. `(Christian) god', Old English engl. Old Frisian asächs. god ds., Old High German got ds.;

therefrom derived Old High German gutin(na), mnl. godinne, Old English gyden`goddess`; Gothic gudja m. `(originally heathenish) priest', Old Icelandic goði m. `heathenish priest' (Proto Norse guðija), gyðja f. `priestess'; Middle High German goting`priest`; previous Christian formations are Old High German **gotfater, gotmuoter*, Old English godfæðer, Old Norse guðfaðer, guðmōðer`godfather, godmother`, in addition of the name indicating fondness also Swedish gubbe`graybeard`, gumma`hag`, Old High German **goto, gota*, Middle High German gōt(ḥ)e, got(ḥ)e`godfather, godmother`.

References: WP. I 529 f., Trautmann 367; ausführl. Lithuanian by Feist 227 f.

Page(s): 413-414

---

Root / lemma: ghāgʰh-

Meaning: young of an animal or bird

Material: Npers. zāq`young animal, esp. young chicken` (q Arabic spelling for y);

[Armenian jag`the young of an animal, esp. a bird, nestling, chick` is pers. loanword];

alb. zok, zogu`bird, young bird, the young of the donkey`.

References: WP. I 531.

Page(s): 409

---

Root / lemma: ġ(h)eġh-

Meaning: ferret

Material: Old Indic jáhakā`polecat` (or `hedgehog'?), Lithuanian šėškas`polecat` (originated through double assimilation from **žežkas*); compare Lithuanian oška`goat` compared with Old Indic ajikā ds.

References: WP. I 570, W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 630; different Mühlenbach-Endzelin III 820.

Page(s): 424

---

Root / lemma: ġhei-1, ġhēi-

Meaning: to drive; to throw; to wound

Note: from the meaning 'projectile' or at most verbal 'whereupon toss, fling, meet' could have derived 'wound, hurt' (group B) (root form ġhei-s-).

Material: A. ġhei- 'antreiben':

Old Indic hinōti, hinvati (participle háyant-) 'set in motion, motivate, energize, stimulate, hurl, sling, fling', participle hitá-h; hēmán- n. 'eagerness'; hēti-h m. 'projectile' (compare Germanic **gaidā*);

Avestan zaēni- 'astir, keen, eager', zaēman- 'active, awake', n. 'wakefulness, agility, liveliness, lively being, aroused being', zaēnahvant- (from a **zaēnah-* n.) 'waking, watchful, wakeful'; zaēna- m. 'weapon', zaya- m. '(*weapon), tool, piece of armament, weapons', zayan- 'armed'.

Also Old Indic háya-h 'steed' = Armenian ji, Gen. jioy ds. here as 'the living, the energetic'?

langob. gaida f. 'spear, javelin', Old English gād f. 'sting, prick, cusp, peak, stick', PN Old High German Gaido; in addition Old Icelandic gedda f. 'pike' < geiðida, compare lapp. kaito ds.;

Gothic langob. gain- 'weapon' in PN (Gainhard, Gainwald), Old English gæin- in PN; Gothic **gails* m. 'spear, javelin' in PN Gēl-mīrus, Old English Gāl-frið, Old High German Geil-muot.

B. ġheis- 'wound, hurt':

Old Indic hēsas- n. 'projectile' (but it could also be Indo Germanic **ġhaiso-s*, see there); in addition probably hīsati (previously nachved. hinásti) 'hurt, harm, injure';

Old Irish gōite 'a wounding, wound', Middle Irish gāetas 'strike down, knock down, cut down, cut off, kill, slay' (**ġhoizd-*);

Lithuanian žeidžiù, žeidžiaũ, žėisti 'wound, hurt', žaidà 'wound'. The same d- extension by ġheis: ġheizd- 'angry, furious'.

References: WP. I 546, Pokorny Urillyrier 64, Holthausen Gothic etym. Wb. 34.

See also: compare still ġheis-, ġheizd- 'be angry, furious', as well as ġhaiso-.

Page(s): 424-425

---

Root / lemma: ġhei-2: ġhi-

Meaning: winter; snow

Note: after Specht Dekl. 14, 330 f. older -men- stem, with already Indo Germanic change of mn to m.

Material: A. ġhei-men-, **ġheimn-*:

The r-extension is analogical after **s<sub>e</sub>mero-* 'summers'.

Old Indic hēman (Lok.) 'in winter', hēmantá-h m. 'winter' (: Hittite gimmanza ds.);

Latin hiems, -is 'winter';

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin ġh- > h-.

gr. χεῖμα n. 'winter, winter storm, coldness', χειμών m. 'winter storm, winter weather, winter' (in addition also χεῖμαρος 'spigot', it would be pulled out if the ship was brought in the land);

alb. Geg dimën m., Tosc dimër(ë) 'winter' (older Akk. **ġhei-men-om*);

alb. Tosc dimër(ë) 'winter' = Armenian ձմեռ dzmer 'winter' = gr. χεῖμα n. 'winter'.

Also alb. Geg (**χειμαρος*) dzborë, Tosc dëborë 'snow' = Armenian (**dzemon*) ձյուն dzyoun 'snow' = gr. χιών chiôn 'snow'.

alb. (**χειμαρος*) dëborë, dzborë, bdorë, vdorë 'snow' [shift -m- > -mb- > -b- like Latin hibernus (< **gheimrinos*) 'cold'].

Balto Slavic **žeimā* (from **žeimnā*) in Lithuanian žiemà, Latvian zīma, Old Prussian semo 'winter' and Old Church Slavic zima, Gen. zimy, russ. zimá, Bulgarian zíma, Serbo-Croatian zíma, sloven. zíma, Czech zima, poln. zima 'winter'.

Hittite gi-im-ma-an-za 'winter' see above.

In addition ġheim(e)rinós and ġheimínós 'wintery'.

In gr. χειμερινός, Latin hibernus (< **gheimrinos*), Lithuanian žiemínis, Old Church Slavic zimъnъ, russ. zímniĭ, Serbo-Croatian zîmnî, Czech zimní (Czech zimný 'cold'), poln. zimny 'cold, wintery' (compare with ablaut. i in the root syllable Armenian jmeŕn 'winter').

To **ghe-* allein: Avestan zayan-, zaēn- m. 'winter', npers. dai, Avestan zayana- 'wintery' and with Vrddhierung Old Indic hāyana- 'annual, yearly', hāyaná- m. n. 'year' (rhyme meaning to Avestan hamana 'summery').

Note:

Gr. ἔτος 'year' : Latin annus 'year' (**atnos*) 'year' : Old Indic hāyana- 'yearly', hāyaná- m. n. 'year' prove that Root / lemma: en-2 : 'year' : Root / lemma: at-, *atno- : 'to go; year' : Root / lemma: yet- : 'year' [prothetic y- before bare initial vowels] derived from Root / lemma: ghei-2, ghi-, ghei-men-, *gheimn- : 'winter; snow'

B. ghīōm, ghīōm, Gen. ghiemós, ghimós, also ghīomós (m from **mn*?).

Avestan zyā f. 'winter' (Akk. zyām, Gen. zimō);

Armenian jiun 'snow' (< **ghīōm*), Gen. jean (< ghīōn-, s. Meillet Esquisse 45);

gr. χιών (*χιώμ), χιόνος 'snow';

Ligurian mōns Berigiema ('schneetragend'), with a reshaped ending;

Middle Irish gem-adaig 'winter night' (gam 'winter' is reshaped after sam 'summer', compare Thurneysen KZ. 59, 2, 8; 61, 253); acymr. gaem, ncymr. gauaf, acorn. goyf, bret. goañv, gall. winter month Giamon[fios], Eigenname Giamillus, other formations Middle Irish gem-rad n., mcymr. gaeaf-rawd 'winter' (**ghīemo-rōto-*, to ret- 'run'); also Irish gamuin 'one year-old calf';

Old Icelandic gōi f. and gæ f., gōi-mānaðr 'the month from middle of February till the middle of March', isl. gōa, under f., Norwegian gjø f., Swedish göjemånad (gō- < giō- after Bugge Ark. f. nord. Fil. 4, 123 ff.).

doubtably the apposition from Old Norse gamall 'old', gemlingr 'one year old sheep', Old English gamol 'old', gamelian 'grow old', Old Saxon gigamalod 'aged', Old High German only in proper name as Gamalbold, Gamalberht, Gamalberga etc. as 'aged', compare Latin annōsus.

C. ghimo- (from ghi-mn-o-?):

Old Indic himá- ḥ m. 'coldness, frost, snow', hímā f. 'winter', Avestan zəma- m. 'winter storm' (compare den Gen. from zyā : zimō under B.);

gr. δούσιμος `wintery, stormy', ό χίμαρος `he-goat', ή χίμαρος `the one-year-old (nanny goat)', χίμαιρα `goat'

Maybe alb. geg (**ǵhein-*) dhěj, tosk dhi Pl. dhen `goat' [common alb. ǵh- > dh-].

Latin bīmus (< **bihimos*), trīmus, quadrīmus `two years old or lasting two years' (compare ved. śatá-hima- `hundred-year-old'), Norwegian dial. gimber, Swedish dial. gimber, Danish gimmerlam `female lamb', dial. but `one-year-old lamb' (Pedersen KZ. 32, 248), and frk. (Lex Salica) ingimus? `porcus anniculus'. The forms with y: Old Icelandic gymsbr `one-year-old sow', Norwegian gymsbr, Swedish gymmer `lamb' are based probably on influence of not related - by the way, uninterpreted - Old Icelandic gymsbill, PN Gumbull, Old Swedish gummerlamb `aries, ram', isl. gummarr, Norwegian gumse, Swedish gumse `aries, ram', see Hellquist SvEO. 210.

References: WP. 1 546 ff., WH. I 106, 645 f., Trautmann 367, Specht KZ. 53, 307 f.

Page(s): 425-426

---

Root / lemma: ǵhel-1 (and ǵhel-?), also as i-, u- or *n-*stem; ǵhele-: ǵhlē-, ǵhlō-: ǵhlē- (**ǵhwel-*)

Meaning: to shine; green, gold, blue, yellow, moon

Note:

Root / lemma: ǵhel-1 (and ǵhel-?), also as i-, u- or *n-*stem; ǵhele-: ǵhlē-, ǵhlō-: ǵhlē-: to shine; green, gold, blue, *sun; derived from Root / lemma: ǵel-, ǵele-, ǵlē-, (also **ǵelēi-*): ǵ(e)lēi-: light, to shine; to be joyful.

Material: In view of the frequent cases, where Indo Germanic palatals in Balto-Slavic are represented by velar, instead of through a concurrence of ǵel-, ǵhel- and ǵhele- agreeable with Persson (Beitr. 790) and Kretschmer (Gl. 21, 115) the Balto-Slavic **ǵel-* is defined through borrowing from a Centum language (Venetic-Illyrian?).

Note:

The extended root (**ǵhwel-*)-nta, -na, -ta formants follow the model of Illyrian - Anatolian attribute nouns, adjectives. (see alb. numbers).

Old Indic hári- `blond, yellow, golden, green yellow, pale', hariṇá-ḥ `gazelle', harít- `dun-colored, light grayish brown', háríta- `yellow, green', híraṇya- n. `gold, medium of trade', hiranyáya- `golden'; about haṭaka- n. `gold' s. Kuiper Proto-Munda 30; in addition being based on velar root Old Indic ghoṭa- `horse' as originally `fox'? (Sommer IF. 31, 364 under A. 3);

the normal development in Latin helvus 'honey-yellow, golden' (**ǵheluos*) = gallo- Latin gilvus 'light yellow' (with dial. i from gall. **gelvos*);

in addition Latin (h)olus, -eris (from **holos*, **heleris*) n., dial. folus, old helus, helusa 'herbage, vegetables, cabbage';

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin ǵh- > h-.

Avestan zari- 'yellow, yellowish, golden', zairita- 'yellow, paled-yellow', zaranya-, Old pers. daraniya- n. 'gold', zaranaēna 'from gold, golden', zāra- m. 'gall' (= gr. χολή), named after the color as gr. χόλος, Latin fel, [common Latin ghw- > ph- > f], Old Norse gall usf.; with velar root anlaut ǵerǵō-kǵrǵta- 'cutting out the gall' ? (see Bartholomae Altiran. Wb. 523 with Lithuanian);

Note:

From Root / lemma: ǵhel-1 (and ghel-?), also as i-, u- or n- stem; ǵhele-: ǵhlē-, ǵhlō-: ǵhlē-: 'to shine; green, gold, blue, *sun' derived Root / lemma: dhel-1, dhelo-: 'curve; hollow', Root / lemma: dhel-2: 'light, shining', Root / lemma: dhel-3: 'to tremble' [common alb.-Illyrian ǵh- > d-].

thrak. ζηлта 'gold' (?), Phrygian ζέλκια λάχανα Hes.; Phrygian γλουρός χρυσός and γλούρεα χρύσεια Hes. (borrowed from gr. χλωρός??);

alb. dhelpërë, dhelpnë, dhelbun(e) 'fox', actually 'the yellow one' (see Jokl Linguist. kulturhist. Stud. 297 ff.);

Wrong etymology:

Alb. alb. dhelpërë, dhelpnë, dhelbuna 'fox' derived from the transposition of Griko Salentino lipunèddha; alipúna 'fox', from earlier Greek αλεπού 'fox'.

gr. χόλος 'gall, rage, fury', χολή 'gall, rage, fury', χολ-έρα 'stomach disease', χλωρός 'pale green. green yellow, fresh, strong' (:Old Icelandic glōr 'radiance');

Latin fel, fellis (**fel-n-is*) n. 'gall' (older n- stem as Old High German galla), f probably dialect; WH. I 474, EM<sup>2</sup> 342 would be placed to fel and Lithuanian gėltas 'yellow' etc. (see below) a root **ǵ<sup>w</sup>hel-* (??);

Note:

Latin fel, fellis (**fel-n-is*) n. 'gall' derived from root **del* because of common Latin d- > f-.

here also Latin galbus 'xanthous bird', galbinus 'green yellow', whether Celtic or Illyrian loanword (**gh<sub>e</sub>l-b<sup>h</sup>o-* or **gh<sub>o</sub>l-b<sup>h</sup>o-*, further to Lithuanian gūlbis see below);

Maybe alb. (**gelben*) gjelbër 'green' < Rom. galben 'green' < galbinus 'green yellow'.

Old Irish gel 'luminous, white', nir. gealach f. 'moon'; cymr. gell 'yellow', bret. gell 'brown' (**ghel-no-*);

in addition **ghle-* in Irish cymr. corn. bret. glan 'pure, clean', Celtic FIN Glanis, Glanā, Irish glain 'glass, crystal' (**ghlani-*), cymr. glain 'gemstone, jewel' (**ghlaniō-*); also in isl. glana 'clear up', glan 'radiance', Norwegian dial. glana 'shimmer, gleam, shine, clear up', Swedish dial. glana 'shine weakly, stare, peek', asäch. FIN Glanā (further see below den s-extensions).

Old Icelandic gall n. 'gall, poison' (**gallōn-*, Indo Germanic **ghol-n-*), Old English gealla m., Old Saxon galla, intense f., Old High German galla, weak f. 'gall'; zero grade Old Icelandic gulr 'yellow', besides full grade Old English geolo, Old Saxon Old High German gelo, Gen. gelwes ds. (< **gelua-*);

Gothic gulþ n., Old Icelandic gull, goll n., Old English Old Frisian Old Saxon Old High German gold n. 'gold';

Ablaut grade **ghlē-* in Old Icelandic glāmr 'moon', glāmsýni 'optic deception, illusion', Swedish glåmig 'gray-yellow in the face, with sunken eyes', Old Icelandic glætr 'bright' (**glēja* = Lithuanian žlėjà under).

**ghlō-* (as in gr. χλωρός) appears in Old English glōm 'twilight, dawn, dusk' (yet ō before m is ambiguous), Old Saxon glōian, Old High German gluoen 'burn', glūhen 'shine', Old Icelandic glōð 'blaze, glow, glowing coal', Old English glæd f. 'blaze, glow, flame, glowing coal, coal', Old Frisian glēd 'blaze, glow', Old High German gluot 'blaze, glow, glowing coals'; Old Icelandic -glōr n. 'radiance' (: χλωρός), Old Icelandic glōra 'sparkle, glitter'; s. also under S. 433 ghlōu-;

Lithuanian želiù, žéliau, žélti, Latvian zel u, zeļt 'be green'; ablaut. Lithuanian žālias, Latvian zaļš, Old Prussian saligan 'green', Lithuanian žolė, Latvian zāle f. 'grass, herb', Old Prussian sālin Akk. 'herb', Lithuanian žālas 'red' (from cattle); Lithuanian žilas 'gray', Latvian zils 'blue', Lithuanian žėlvas 'greenish', Latvian zēlts (previous Neutr.) 'gold',

East Lithuanian želtas 'golden'; Lithuanian žlėjà 'twilight, half darkness, dusk' (**ġhlējā*), Trautmann Bsl. Wb. 364 f., 368, 372; Lithuanian tulžis 'gall', through Metath. from **žultis*; Latvian žults ds. (**ġhl̥t̥*); to u-stem in Lithuanian žalvas, želvas (= Latin helvus) 'green', žaliūkė 'green frog', etc. s. Specht Dekl. 120;

Old Church Slavic zelenъ 'green', Serbo-Croatian zelen, Czech zelený, russ. zelénij, poln. zielony ds. (compare Old Indic híraṇya- 'gold'; in addition Old Church Slavic zelije n. 'vegetables', russ. zelje 'herb, medicinal herbs', Serbo-Croatian zélje 'herbage', Czech zelí n. 'herb, cabbage'); in addition also russ. zoťá 'ash', Bulgarian zolá 'Holzasche', out of it cooked lye'; Old Church Slavic zlakъ 'herb', russ. zlak 'grass', Bulgarian zlakove 'grasses, herbs';

Slavic **zolto* in Old Church Slavic zlato 'gold', russ. zótoto, Serbo-Croatian zlâto, Czech zlato, poln. złoto ds., besides Slavic **zoltъ* 'golden' in russ. zótotoj, sloven. zlât, Czech zlatý, poln. złoty 'golden';

Old Church Slavic zľčъ 'gall' (**ġhl̥-k̥i-s*); Bulgarian zľčka 'chicory' (z in folk etymology connection with zelenъ etc.?); compare under Old Church Slavic žľtъ ds. with velar anlaut.

Besides anlautendes Balto-Slavic g- in:

Balto Slavic **gelta-* and **gilta-* 'yellow' in: Lithuanian geltas 'yellow' (therefrom gelšvas 'yellowish');

Latvian dzelts 'yellow', dzeltēt 'become yellow'; therefrom derived Old Prussian **geltaynan* (Hs. gelatynan); Lithuanian geltónas; Latvian dzeltains and dzeltāns 'yellow'; serb.- Church Slavic žľtъ, Serbo-Croatian žút (f. žúta); Czech žlutý, russ. žólt (f. želtá); in addition Old Church Slavic žľtъ, žľčъ 'gall', russ. žolčъ, Bulgarian žľčka ds. and 'chicory', Serbo-Croatian žuč, Czech žluč, poln. żółc ds.; compare above with palatal anlaut Old Church Slavic zľčъ ds.;

besides the t-suffix in Farbadjektiv in n-suffix in animal names Balto-Slavic **gilnā*- f. 'woodpecker' in Lithuanian gīlna 'fieldfare', Latvian dzīlna 'woodpecker'; Slavic **žľna* in russ.- Church Slavic žľna, Serbo-Croatian dial. žlná 'black woodpecker', poln. żółna 'woodpecker', russ. žetná 'black woodpecker'; with other suffix Czech žluva f. 'oriole, songbird' (from Slavic žь/va, compare in addition above Latin helvus and with palatal. anlaut Lithuanian želvas 'greenish', in addition žalvé f. 'panicle, loose cluster of flowers', želvỹs m. 'green stem');

here probably also (compare but ohen S. 428 under ġet) Old Prussian gulbis, Lithuanian gūlbis m. (**gob<sup>h</sup>io-*) gulbé f., Latvian gūlbis 'swan' and 'white cow' (hence not to ġet 'call, shout, cry');

further with unexplained k-:

Slavic **къ/рѣ*, **къ/рѣ* in Upper Sorbian kotř, Kashubian kôtp ds., russ. kótpik m. 'spoonbill, large wading bird with a long bill with a broad flat tip';

in addition further russ. gotubój, Old Prussian golimban 'blue', Lithuanian gelumbė f. 'blue kerchief, cloth', Old Bulgarian golqbb 'dove', Serbo-Croatian gölūb m. ds., Czech holub ds., etc.; to this formation compare Latin columba, palumbēs ds.;

Root extensions with Dental:

ġhləd- in Old English glæterian 'become bright, begin to shine, derive lustre', participle 'yellow'; Middle Low German glate, Middle High German glaz m. 'baldness'.

ġhlend(h)- 'gleam, see, show, glance, look' in:

Old Irish as-gleinn 'he guides', in-glennat 'trace out, find out, discover, investigate, search into', fo-gliunn 'I learn', bret. goulenn 'long, want'; Old Irish do-gliunn 'I collect' (verbal noun díglaimm), bret. dilenn 'choose, select, pick', gallorom. glennāre 'Ähren lessen' (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), (glenn- < **glendn-* s. Pedersen KGr. I 157, II 539), glése 'gleaming' (< **glendtio-*); bret. glein 'clear, bright' (**glandio-*, Indo Germanic **ghlnd<sup>h</sup>io-*);

Norwegian dial. gletta 'peek', glett 'clear Fleck am sky, heaven', Swedish dial. glänta 'gleam out, slightly opened', Middle High German glinzen 'shimmer, gleam', Old High German Middle High German glanz 'gleaming', Middle High German glanz, glunz 'radiance', Old High German Middle High German glenzen 'gleam'; Swedish glindra 'glint, glitter', Middle High German glander 'gleaming, glimmering', glander m. n. 'radiance, shimmer'; compare with other meaning under ġhlend(h)-;

Balto Slavic **glendīō* 'look, see' (with anlaut. Velar) in:

Latvian (Curonian) glendi 'search, seek';

Slavic **ględjǫ*, **ględęti* in:

russ. gljaděť 'see, show, glance, look', Serbo-Croatian glédĭm, Czech hledím, hleděti ds. and as originally iterative Old Church Slavic ględati 'look at, see', Bulgarian glédam, Serbo-Croatian ględâm, ględati, Old Czech hladati, poln. glądać 'see, show' (Trautmann 92 f).

Here ghlād<sup>h</sup>-, ghlęd<sup>h</sup>- 'gleaming, smooth'?

Latin glaber 'smooth, hairless, naked, bald, bleak' (**ghlęd<sup>h</sup>-ro-*);

Old Icelandic glaðr 'smooth, gleaming, blithe, glad', gleðja, glaða 'cheer, entertain', Old English glæd 'gleaming, glimmering, blithe, glad, joyful, gratifying, pleasant', gladian 'gleam, shimmer, make shine, caress, comfort, cheer', Old Frisian gled 'smooth', Old Saxon gladmōd (= Old English glædmōd) 'cheerful', Old High German glat 'gleaming', Middle High German glat 'gleaming, smooth'; with intensive gemination Middle High German glatz 'bald head, baldness' (compare Middle High German glitze 'radiance; bald head');

Lithuanian glodūs, glōdnas 'smooth, appurtenant; (about clothing) slinky, tight, form-fitting; adjacent, near, adjoining; enclosed, gentle', glódžiu, glósti 'polish, smooth', Latvian glaštu, glāstīt 'caress', Old Prussian glosto 'whetstone';

Old Church Slavic gladъ-kъ 'smooth, even', russ. gládkiĭ 'smooth', Bulgarian gladъkъ 'smooth, polished', Serbo-Croatian gladak, Czech hladký, poln. gładki 'smooth, beautiful, cute'; causative russ. gláditi 'smooth, iron, caress', Bulgarian gládja, Serbo-Croatian glăditi, Czech hladiti, poln. gładzić ds. (Trautmann 91).

Maybe alb. për-këdhel: Slovenian gladiti, po-gladiti: Albanian Kosovo gëdhel 'caress', truncated alb. dhelë 'caress': Rom. gudura 'caress': magj. gedel 'caress'.

further with nasal infix ghlend(h)- 'glide, slide' in nnd. glandern 'sled, travel by sled, slide, skate, skid', glander 'floe, floating mass of ice' (perhaps also Old English glendrian, glentrian 'consume, plunge down, fall' as 'glide, let slide'); Norwegian gletta, Swedish mda. glinta 'glide, slide' (compare above gletta 'peek'); about Lithuanian glembù, glèbti ` become smooth, soft ' see below gel- `clench '.

Lithuanian galándu, galásti 'sharpen, carve, cut', Latvian galuods 'whetstone', Old Prussian glandint 'comfort', glands 'consolation' (compare to meaning above Old English gladian 'caress, comfort'; compare above ghlend(h)- 'gleam');

Maybe alb. glemb ` sharp thorn (smooth, sharp) ' : Old Prussian glosto `whetstone'.

s- and st- extensions:

Irish glass `green, gray, blue', cymr. glas `blue', bret. glaz `green', gall. glastum n. 1. ` woad, type of plant, Isatis tinctoria, Asp of Jerusalem', 2. ` blueberry ' (M.-L. 3779b); with plain -s- gallorom. **glasina* ` blueberry ' (M.-L. 3779a); to Irish glass still Old Irish glaiiss f. `river', Middle Irish glaisīn ` woad, type of plant', mcor. glesin ` vermilion or a color like vermilion ', in addition

Middle High German glast ` radiance ', glanst ds., glanster `spark', glasten `gleam', ablaut. glosten, gluster;

Latin-Germanic glēsum ` amber ' = Old English glæm m. ` amber, resin ', Old High German glās ` amber ', Old Icelandic glæsa ` make gleaming, decorate, furbelow, embellish, ornament ', ablaut. Norwegian dial. glōsa `sparkle, glitter, gleam, shine, glance, look', Old Icelandic gløsi-ligr `gleaming'; Old Icelandic glær n. `glass', Old English with s: glæs n. `glass', Old Frisian gles, Old Saxon glas, gles n. `glass', Old High German glas `glass'; Old Saxon glasō `grey horse ', Middle English glaren `gleam', Middle Low German glaren `gleam, glow'.

ghlei- lies before in gr. (poet.) χλιώ ` become warm or soft, indulge oneself, live lusciously ', χλιαίνω ` make warm, soften ', χλιαρός `warm, lukewarm';

Irish glé, cymr. gloew `gleaming, clear, bright' (< **ghlei-uo*), gled (**ghlijā*) `green lawn', Middle Irish gléinech `clear, bright', mcymr. try-lwyn `very distinct';

Old Norse gljā `glint, glitter ', Old Frisian glīa `glow', Old English glæm `radiance ', Old Saxon glīmo `radiance ', Old High German glīmo, gleimo `firefly ', Middle High German glīmen `gleam, shine, gleam', glimmen `glow, gleam', Norwegian dial. glīna `gleam, stare', Swedish glina `smile ', glēna `gleam, shine, clear up, laugh '.

ghleid-:

Gr. χλιδή `softness, luxuriance, richness ', χλιδᾶν `mushy, softish, delicate, mollicoddle, be luscious ';

Gothic glitmunjan `gleam', Old Icelandic glita, glitra `glint, glitter ': full grade Old Saxon glītan `shine ', Old High German glīzzan `gleam', glitzen intensive in addition, Old Icelandic glit n., Old High German glīz `radiance, lightning', glizemo ds., Old English glitenian, Old High German glizinōn `shimmer'.

Here probably also ġhleid<sup>h</sup>- `glide, slide':

Old English glīdan `slide, fall', glidder `slippery', Old Frisian glīda `glide, slide', Old Saxon glīdan `labi', Old High German glītan `glide, slide'; Old English ā-glædan `glide, make slide', asäch. bi-glēdian ds., Old Icelandic gleiðr `with spreaded legs'.

About Lithuanian glītūs `smooth' see below glei- by gel- `clench'.

ġhleis-

Gall. glīso-marga f. `bright marl', gallorom. **glīso-*, older **glēso-* (Indo Germanic **ghlei-s-o-*); compare cymr. glwys `beautiful', abret. glois, gloes ds. (**ghlei-st-o-*); Old Icelandic glissa `laugh scornfully', Old English glīsian, glisnian `gleam, shine', Old Frisian glisia `shimmer, blink', Middle High German glistern `sparkle, glitter', Norwegian Swedish glīsa `gleam, shimmer'; nasalized Middle High German glinsten `gleam', glinster `radiance'.

ġhleu- and ġhlōu-: ġhlū- perhaps in gr. χλό(F)ος, χλοῦς `greenish-yellow or light green colour: hence, pallor', χλόη `the first green shoot of plants in spring, young green corn or grass', χλο(F)ερός `green, fresh, strong'; further in Irish gluair (**ghleu-ri-*) `clear, bright, pure, clean'; cymr. glo `coal', corn. glow, Middle Breton glou, abret. glaou (see Pedersen KGr. I 63).

Gothic glaggwō `clear', glaggwaba `carefully', Old Icelandic glōgggr, gløgggr `clear, bright, distinct, painstaking, stingy', Old English glēaw, Old Saxon glau, Old High German nnd. glau `clear-eyed, hawk-eyed, smart', Old Icelandic gluggi `light opening, window'.

(To arrangement of these words with Lithuanian žvelgiù, žveĩgti `glance, look' compare Trautmann 374.)

ġhlōu- in Old Icelandic glōa `glow, gleam, shine', Old English glōwan `fulminate', Old Icelandic himinglæva `daughter of Ägirs and Rān' (impersonating the surge); -glō- f. `sun', -glōa f. `moon'; s. also above S. 430 under ġhlō-.

ġhlū-: Norwegian dial. glȳma `dim, lookthreatening or sneaky', Old Swedish glūna `look askance', East Frisian glūmen `see and lurk hidden and secretly after something'; Old Icelandic glūmr m. `bear'.

In addition s-(st) extensions:

Irish gluss ( **ghlustu-*) 'light, brightness';

Old Icelandic glys 'radiance, frippery', nisl. glosa 'shine', Middle High German glosen, glosten 'glow, gleam', gloste 'blaze, glow', Middle Low German glūren 'lurk', engl. to glower 'look dim, scowl', steir. glören 'stare', Norwegian dial. glȳra 'look sideways, squint, blink', Old Icelandic glyrna f. 'eye', Norwegian glōr ds.

ghlūd-: Middle English glouten, engl. to glout 'stare, look grievingly or sullenly', to gloat (< **glotian*) 'feel or express triumphant and malicious satisfaction at another's misfortune, exult, look, gaze malicious', Old Icelandic glotta 'grin', Middle High German Modern High German glotzen.

References: WP. I 623 f., 624 ff., WH. I 473 f., 514, 578 f., 600, 607 f., 639, 654, 868, Trautmann 83 f., 88, 364 f., 368, 372, Persson Beitr. 170 f., 790 ff., 876 f.

Page(s): 429-434

---

Root / lemma: ghel-2

Meaning: to cut

Material: Old Indic halá- m. n. 'plough' (originally 'bough, twig, branch?'); huḍu-, huḍa- m. 'aries, ram' (**ghlḍu-*);

Armenian joť 'picket, pole, stick' etc., jlem 'groove, plow';

gr. γάλλος 'priest of Cybele, the castrator' (from Phrygian, whence also Hittite iskalla- 'shred, tear', Iskallis name of Attis?), out of it Latin gallus ds.;

acymr. gylym, mcymr. geleu, gelyf 'knife, dagger' (Vendryes Ét. celt. 4, 60) from **ghel-mo-* = Old English gielm;

Gothic gilpa f. 'sickle'; Old English gielm m. 'fascicle, sheaf'; Old Icelandic gpltr, galti 'boar', gylr, gylta 'sow; axe', Old English gielte 'young sow', Middle Low German gelte 'a castrated mother's pig', Old High German galza, gelza f. 'castrated swine'; Old High German Middle High German galt, Old English gilde, Old Norse geldr, Old Swedish galder 'giving no milk, barren, infertile', Old Icelandic gelda 'castrate'; Swiss galt also 'not giving milk', galdvee = 'Jungvieh'.

Lithuanian žúolis 'piece of wood, tree trunk' (ghōlī-).

the above equation always doubtful.

References: WP. I 626 f., Petersson Heterokl. 155 f., ЛУН. I 581.

Page(s): 434

---

Root / lemma: ġhengah-

Meaning: to march, step

Material: Old Indic jámhas- n. 'footstep, flapping', jáṅghā 'shank, leg, shin bone', Avestan zangəm 'ankle of the foot', -zangra- (in compounds) ds., zero grade Old Indic jaghána- m. n. 'buttock, pubic region': gr. κοχώνη 'place between thighs' (assim. from *καχώνᾱ);

Old English -gīht 'gait', Middle High German gīht 'gait, journey' (proto Germanic **ginxti-* from ġheng-ti-), with gradation o: Gothic gagg n., Old Icelandic gangr, Old English Old High German gang 'gait' and Germanic **gangjan* lter. (Gothic preterit gaggida 'walked', Old English gengan, Middle High German gengen, gancte 'leave; wade in') and thereafter also **gangan*, Gothic gaggan 'go' = Old Icelandic ganga (gekk), Old Saxon gangan (geng), Old High German gangan (giang), Old English gongan ds., wherefore Old High German gengi, Old English gege, Old Icelandic gengr 'feasible, able to be carried out', Gothic framgāhts 'advance', Old Icelandic gātt 'incision in doorposts', gætti 'door frame'; zero grade Old Frisian gunga 'go', Danish gynge, older gunge 'swing';

Lithuanian žengiù, žeñgti 'march, step, stride, strut', pražangà 'contravention, violation', žiñgsnis 'footstep'.

A duplicate Anlaut (through dissimilation?) perhaps in Old Irish cingim 'march, step, stride, strut' (3. Pl. cengait, Perf. cechaing), cymr. rhy-gyngu 'going pass', Old Irish cing, Gen. cinged 'warrior', gall. Cingeto-rīx, zero grade proto Celtic **kngsm̥* in Old Irish céimm (**kenksmen*), cymr. corn. cam, bret. comm 'footstep' (**kanksman*).

An other variant **ghenk-* is (under ōkú-s 'quick, fast') for Old High German gāhi 'rash, hasty, sudden' take into consideration.

References: WP. I 588, WH. I 217, Trautmann 370.

Page(s): 438-439

---

Root / lemma: ġher<sup>dh</sup>- and gher<sup>dh</sup>-

Meaning: to encircle, enclose

Note: because of Latin hortus (see ġher-4) extension from **ġher-4* 'catch';

Material: A. gher<sup>h</sup>- (here also about the original anlaut nothing conclusive about words of the centum languages):

here also about ursprüngl. Initial sound nothing to determining words of the Kentum spoke

Old Indic grhá- (**grdhá-*) 'house, dwelling', Pl. 'rooms', Avestan garəḍā- m. 'Höhle als Behausung daevischer Wesen' (an older meaning 'house, dwelling' could be proven through fiugr. loanword, as wotj. gurt 'residence, village', syrjän. gort 'house, dwelling' and 'underground dwelling, vault, sepulchre, grave',);

alb. garth, gardhi 'hedge' (**ghordhos*, Jokl Slavia 13, 297ff.);

Phrygian -gordum 'town, city' in Manegordum 'Mannesstadt' (besides Manezordum);

gr. (by Hes.) κορθίς σωρός, κορθέλαι σύστροφοι, σωροί;

Gothic bigairdan 'cincture', Old Icelandic gyrða, Old English gyrdan, Old Frisian gerda, Old High German gurtan ds.; Gothic gaírda f., Old Icelandic gjǫrð 'belt, girdle', ablaut, Old Icelandic gyrðell, Old English gyrde, Old Frisian gerde, Old High German gurtil(a) ds. (Middle High German gurt is nomen post-verbal); Gothic gards m. 'house', Old Icelandic garðr m. 'fence, paddock, courtyard, homestead', Old English geard, Old Saxon gard 'enclosed, fenced property', Plur. 'dwelling', Old High German gart m. 'circle' in mittilgart 'circle; territory, region; sphere', heimgart 'forum' etc.; Gothic garda 'hurdle, stockyard', Old Frisian garda 'garden', Old Saxon gardo, Old High German garto ds. (or from Indo Germanic **ghor-tó-*; compare χόρτος under gher-4);

Lithuanian gārdas m. 'corral, pen, fold', gardis f. 'gate, trellis, grate';

Slavic **gordъ* in Old Church Slavic gradъ 'castle, town, city, garden', russ.- Church Slavic ogradъ 'garden' (therefrom Old Church Slavic graždъ m. 'stall'), russ. górod 'town, city', Bulgarian gradъ, Serbo-Croatian grād, sloven. grád ds., Czech hrad 'castle, palace', poln. gród ds.; zero grade Slavic žrdъ in Old Church Slavic žrdъ 'wood', russ. žerdъ 'long, thin shaft, pole', poln. żerdź, sloven. žrd 'point tree';

Tocharian B kercīye 'palace' absents (Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 34f.);

Hittite gurtas 'fortress' (Benveniste BSL. 33, 139)?; s. also gher-4.

about Latin urbs 'town, city', ostensibly from **ghord<sup>h</sup>os*, s. Georgiev IF. 56, 200.

B. gher<sup>h</sup>-:

Phrygian -zordum 'town, city' (in Manezordum, see above);

Lithuanian žárdas 'rack for the drying of grain or flax sowing, pinfold, place for housing stray animals, animal pound', Latvian zārds 'rack for drying, wooden layer, pyre', with intonation change Lithuanian žārdis 'horse garden' m., Prussian sardis 'fence' (= 'unfenced horse garden');

russ. zoród 'barn, haystack', weißruss. azoród 'dry hurdle'.

References: WP. I 608 f., WH. I 242 f., Trautmann 78 f., 366.

Page(s): 444

---

Root / lemma: gher-1

Meaning: to yearn for

Note: partly with forms from a basis **gherē(i)-*: gheri- (see Persson Beitr. 728)

Material: Old Indic hāryati 'finds pleasure, desires'; Avestan zara- m. 'striving, purpose';

Oscan herest (for **heriest*), Umbrian heriest 'volet', heris-heris 'conj. and adv. prop., will, choose, take your choice, hence, as disjunctive conjunction, to introduce an alternative as a matter of choice or preference, or as not affecting the principal assertion, either ... or, be it ... or, in general but where the alternatives are necessary and exclusive, that is, where one must be right and the other wrong', Oscan heriam 'a judgment, decision of an arbitrator, mastery, dominion, authority, power, will, free-will, choice, pleasure, denoting or containing power', Herentateis 'Veneris', prälin. Herentas, sabin. horetum 'a decree, decision, ordinance, vote, resolution, principle, doctrine, dogma'; Latin horior, -īrī 'actuate, encourage', horitor, syncopated hortor, -ārīds.

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin gh- > h-.

gr. χαίρω (**χαρι-ω*), χαρῆναι 'be pleased', χάρις f. 'pleasantness, agreeableness, favour', χαρᾶ 'pleasure, joy', χαροπός 'glowing joy of battle', χάμμα n. 'pleasure, joy, pleasure'; also χάρμη 'fight, struggle', originally 'joy of battle, lust of battle'? χαρτός 'joyful, gratifying' (?); after Pedersen 5<sup>e</sup> décl. Latin 73 here χρή etc. S. under gher-6, here after Leumann Homer. Wörter 318<sup>109f</sup> also δυσχερής 'unfriendly, unpleasant', εὐχερής 'unworried, undisturbed, light' (previously later in χεῖρ 'hand' attribute);

Old Irish gor 'godly, pious', goire 'devoutness, piety'; Middle Irish do-gar 'unlucky', so-gar 'very lucky' (: gr. χαρᾶ); cymr. dyar 'sad', hyar 'pleasant' (I. Williams RC 40, 487);

Maybe alb. gjurē ` poor, wretched '

Old High German ger ` yearning', gerōn `lust, crave', Old High German girīg, Old Saxon gerag ` greedy '; Gothic faīhu-gairns ` avaricious, greedy', Old Icelandic gjarn, Old English georn `wherefore willing, inclined, whereupon eager, avid', Old High German Old Saxon gern ` eager, avid, eager after something', Adv. Old High German gerno, Modern High German gern, Denom. Gothic gairnjan, Old Icelandic girma, Old English giernan, Old Saxon girnean `lust, crave'.

Perhaps here as d<sup>h</sup>-formation from the basis ǵh(e)rē: Gothic grēdus `hunger', grēdags ` hungry', Old Icelandic grāðr, grāði m. `greed, lust, hunger', Old English gnæd `greed, lust', Modern High German jrāt `hunger' (Berlin), Old English grædig, Old High German grātag ` greedy '. In addition as **ghræd<sup>h</sup>*- Germanic **graða-* `eager, avid, rutting, in heat' in Old Icelandic graðr `not castrated', graðungr `bull'? In Middle High German grīt m. `eagerness', grītec `eager, avid', Old Icelandic grīð f. `vehemency', grīðjungr m. `bull' ein ablaut. Indo Germanic **ǵh[e]rēi-d<sup>h</sup>*- or **ǵh[e]rī-d<sup>h</sup>*- to search, could be possible.

Middle Irish grād n. `love' is from Latin grātum facere alicui and similar change of direction or position borrowed (d instead of th after grad `step; position').

References: WP. I 600 f., WH. I 657 f.

Page(s): 440-441

---

Root / lemma: ǵher-2

Meaning: to scratch, scrape

Material: Gr. χαράδρᾱ `Erdriß, crevice, gorge, ravine, gulch'; χαράσσω, Attic -ττω `whet, sharpen, notch, incise', χάραξ, -ακος `picket, pole, vine-prop, pole, pale, used in fortifying the entrenchments of a camp, cutting, slip, esp. of an olive, a seafish, one of the breams, Sargus', χαράκτηρ `engraver, one who mints coins', then `mark engraved, impress, stamp on coins and seals, distinctive mark or token impressed (as it were) on a person or thing, by which it is known from others, characteristic, character' (Kretschmer Gl. 20, 254);

Lithuanian žeriù, žeĩti `scrape, scratch', žarstýti `scratch often, scrape'.

References: WP. I 602.

Page(s): 441

---

Root / lemma: ǵher-3 and ǵherē-, ǵhrē-

Meaning: to shine, shimmer

Material: Old Icelandic grár ( **ǵhrē-ȳo-s*), Old English græg ( **ǵhrē-ȳio-s*), engl. gray, Old Frisian grē, Old Saxon grā, grē, Old High German grāo (Gen. grāwes) `gray';

Lithuanian žerū, žerėti `shine in brilliance ', žėruóti `glow, sparkle, glitter', ablaut. žarijá f. `glowing coal', Old Prussian sarí f. `blaze, glow';

Old Church Slavic zъrjō, zъrěti `see, glance, look', russ. zrěť, sloven. zrėti, Czech zřítí, poln. źrzeć ds., Old Church Slavic zorja `shine, radiance ', zarja `ray', kluss. zórja `star, stars, aurora', russ. zařá `redness in the sky, heaven', Serbo-Croatian zòra `rosy dawn', Czech zoře `aurora', záře `shine, radiance, ray', poln. zorza `aurora'; Old Church Slavic pozorъ `sight, spectacle ', russ. pozór `sight, shame', nadzór `custodianship ';

Maybe alb. zor `difficulty, shame'

Czech pozor `attention, Acht ', názor `outlook, conception'; here also Old Church Slavic zrakъ `sight, form, kind of', russ. dial. zórok `look, front ', Serbo-Croatian zrák `light', Czech zrak `vision, face, eyesight', poln. wzrok `eyesight, face'; ablaut. Old Church Slavic zъcalo n., Serbo-Croatian dial. zřcalo, Czech zrcadlo `mirror'; about Latin grāvastellus s. WH. I 620.

root extension ǵhrēi-:

Old Irish grían f. `sun' ( **ǵhrēinā*);

Old Frisian Old Saxon Old High German Middle High German grīs `gray', Modern High German greis `gray, old', wherefore probably also Old Icelandic grīss `piglet', Old Swedish grīs ds., Swedish Danish gris `piglet, swine'.

root extension ( **gherēu-*) : ghrū-.

In Old Icelandic grýjandi f. `aurora', Old Swedish gry `(of days) fright', Danish gry ds., gryn. `fright'; here also Old Icelandic grey n. `bitch, wimp ', greyhundr `greyhound', Old English grēghund `greyhound'?

References: WP. I 602 f., Persson Beitr. 300 ff., Trautmann 366.

Page(s): 441-442

---

Root / lemma: ǵher-4

Meaning: to gripe, grab, enclose

Note: extended ǵherd<sup>h</sup>- (see below)

Material: Old Indic hárati ` brings, carries, gets, takes ', háraṇa- n. `the bringing, receiving, donation ' etc., hāras- n. ` receiving, griping, handle, grasp, power, force, might';

gr. χότρος m. ` enclosed place (v. sub fin.), but always with collat. notion of a feeding-place: in ll., farmyard, in which the cattle were kept, generally, any feeding-ground, pasturage, fodder, provender, esp. for horses and cattle, courtyard, meadowland '; doubtful, whether here χορός ` dancing place, place for dancing ' as originally ` inserted place'; about χόριον ` placenta, afterbirth ', etc. see below gher-5, about χείρ `hand' under ghes-;

Oscan heriad ` furred, ', [h]erríns ` wrinkled, to drawn together in wrinkles ', Latin cohors ` fenced courtyard, stockyard, troop, multitude, crowd, cortege ', from **co* + Indo Germanic **ghrtís* ` summarization', in ablaut to hortus `garden as fenced place' (in old latin also villa), Oscan húrz ` hortus lucus '; dubious is Latin hīr, īr ` palm of the hand ', s. WH. I 649;

Irish gort ` cornfield, the standing corn, growing corn, crop in a field, a field, ground, soil ', gall. gorto- and gortīā ` hedge ' (v. Wartburg), cymr. garth ` corral, pen, fold, hurdle, paddock ' (das a after Old Icelandic loanword garðr), bret. garz ` hedge, fence', in addition Irish lub-gort `garden', acymr. Plur. luird, ncymr. lluarth, acorn. luworth-guit `wild garden', mcor. lowarth `garden', bret. liorz ds.

Maybe Albanian gardh ` fence ' : Welsh garth `fold, enclosure' common Illyrian Celtic -th suffix.

Is not to be decided, whether Gothic garda ` hurdle, stockyard ', Old Frisian garda, Old Saxon gardo, Old High German garto `garden' in Indo Germanic **ghor-tó-* or in **ghord<sup>h</sup>o-* are based on (see below *gherd<sup>h</sup>-). - Norwegian gaare ` annual ring (in a tree) in wood', Swedish gåra, nisl. gāri ` col, gap in wood' Ablauts form to χορός as ` place for dancing, choir, band of dancers and singers ', is incredible.

Doubtful, whether here Lithuanian žāras `run, flow, way, circle, turn ' (Wackernagel AIGr. 251); compare above gr. χορός; Hittite gurtas `fortress' (Benveniste BSL. 33, 139)?; s. also gherd<sup>h</sup>-.

References: WP. I 603 f., WH. I 242 f., 660, 857.

Page(s): 442-443

---

Root / lemma: gher-5, ghor-nā

Meaning: bowels

Material: Old Indic híra-h m. 'band, strap', hirā f. 'vein';

Latin haru-spex 'a soothsayer, diviner among the Etruscans, who foretold future events from the inspection of the entrails of victims' actually 'intestinal beholder', hīra 'jejunum, middle part of the small intestine', Pl. 'intestines, entrails', hillae 'the smaller and anterior intestines of animals (other than men and sheep), a kind of sausage, smoked sausage' (Ī Sabine for ē), hernia 'medical condition in which an organ protrudes through an opening in its surrounding walls, break';

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin gh- > h-.

gr. χορδή f. 'intestine, catgut, gut string, string made from animal intestines, sausage'; dubious χόριον 'placenta, afterbirth, meal from milk and honey, skin, leather';

Old Icelandic gorn f., Pl. garnar 'intestine', Pl. 'intestines, entrails' (**ghornā*), Old English micgern n. 'fat, lard, suet', Old Saxon midgarni, Old High German mitti(la)-garni ds.; Old Icelandic garn n. 'thread, string, lift (in weaving)', Old English gearn ds., Middle Low German garn, Old High German garn 'thread, string';

Lithuanian žarnà, Akk. žárnā 'intestine, small intestine', Latvian zārna f. 'intestine', Pl. 'intestines, entrails'.

Note:

Maybe alb. zorrë (**ghornā*) 'bowel', Pl. 'intestines, entrails'.

Albanian proves that Root / lemma: *g<sup>w</sup>er-1, g<sup>w</sup>erē- 'to devour; throat' derived from Root / lemma: *gher-5, ghor-nā 'bowels'. [common alb. gh- > z-].

whether Armenian jar 'twiddled, twisted, rotated, revved, revolved' belongs here, to modify meaning according to the root.

References: WP. I 604, WH. I 635 f., 869, Trautmann 367.

Page(s): 443

---

Root / lemma: gher-6 (gherē- : ghrē-?)

Meaning: short, small

Material: Gr. χείρων (Aeolic χέρρων) from *χεριων 'bad', in addition Superl. χείριστος and hom. Kompar. χερείων, χέρηες etc. (see Leumann Mus. Helv. 2, 2 ff., different Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 538), χερύω, -όομαι `dazzle, blind with bright light'. In addition perhaps χρή `it is necessary', χρεώ `necessary, necessity, need, desire', *χρήος, χρεῖος, χρέος, χρέως `necessary, desire, blame', χρήσθαι `take advantage of, utilize etc.' (< *χρηῖσθαι), besides dial. χρη-εῖσθαι, χρήμα `thing (the man used), event', Pl. `fortune, currency, possession'; s. different under gher-1;

Old Irish gair `short' (**gh<sub>eri</sub>-s*), gaire `life shortness, near proximity, shortly', Old Irish garait, nir. goirid `short'.

root extension gheres-, ghres-, ghers-:

Old Indic hrasvá- `minder, short, small', compounds hrásīyañs-, Superl. hrásiṣṭha-, hrasati `abate, reduce, become shorter', Kaus. hrāsayati `decreases', Avestan zara-hehīš `the small, weak' (for zra . .);

Middle Irish gerr `short', gerraim `I shorten, abscise, remove, cut off', gerrān `(castrated) horse'.

References: WP. I 604f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 538 under Anm. 10, 539, 675 under Anm. 8.

Page(s): 443

---

Root / lemma: gher-7

Meaning: `gaze, stare'

See also: s. ghers-.

Page(s): 443

---

Root / lemma: ghers- and partly gher-

Meaning: rigid, *pig

Note: (see also gher-3)

Note:

From an extended zero grade of Root / lemma: eghi- (*eghi-no-s): `hedgehog (*serpent eater)' derived Root / lemma: ghers-, gher-: `rigid, *pig' > Root / lemma: porko-s: `pig': Illyrian-italic-celtic gh<sup>w</sup>h- > p-; also (*eghi-no-s) > (*ghers) abbreviation and rhotacism n/r.

Note:

Root / lemma: eghi- (*eghi-no-s): `hedgehog (*serpent eater)' derived from Root / lemma: ang<sup>w</sup>(h)i- (*eg<sup>w</sup>hi-, og<sup>w</sup>hi- and eghi-): `snake, worm, (*hedgehog = snake eater)'

Material:

Old Indic hárṣatē, hṛṣyati ` becomes stiff, ruffles, shudders, is excited, is glad, is aroused ' ; Latin horreō, -ēre ` to stand on end, stand erect, bristle, be rough, tremble, shudder, quake, shudder at, tremble at, be afraid of, dread ' (= Avestan zaršaya-); in **gher-kʷo-* with dial. i from e before r + gutturals (e.g. stircus : stercus) based on Latin hircus, sabin. fircus `he-goat' (hirquīnus, hircīnus `of he-goat; billy goat ') = Oscan-sab. hirpus `lupus' (whereof the people's name Hirpinī); in addition also hirtus `bristly', hirsūtus `struppig, rough'; based on parallel to **ġhers-kʷos* (as Oscan-Umbrian loanword) hispidus `rough'; mars. sabin. herna n. Pl. ` rocks ' (**ġhers-no-*);

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin ġh- > h-.

Maybe Latin horreō, -ēre ` dread ' > alb. n. urrejtja, v. urrej ` hate ': Sardinian Campidanese n. tirriu ; tirria, v. tirriai : Romanian n. ură, v. urî ; urgisi : French n. horreur, v. horreur ` hate '.

Probably Latin horreō, -ēre ` dread ' (**ghorreō*) : Basque n. gorroto, v. gorrotatu : Hungarian n. gyűlölet, v. gyűlöl ` hate ' as in: Proto-Altaic: **gǎli* Meaning: to hate, wild : Turkic: **K(i)al* : Mongolian: **galžaγu* : Tungus-Manchu: **galu-* : Japanese: **kíráp-*.

Avestan zaršayamna- ` die Federn aufsträubend ' (zarš- = zrš- = Latin horreō); zarštva- n. ` stone ';

Armenian jar (-i, -iv) ` mane of horse ' (**ġheri-*);

Maybe from Armenian jar (-i, -iv) ` mane of horse ' > turk. yele ) ` mane of horse ' > alb. jele ` mane of horse '.

gr. χέρσος (Attic χέρρος) f. ` mainland, continent or the main part of a continent as distinguished from islands or peninsulas', nachhom. also Adj. ` barren, dry, tight, firm';

Maybe alb. (**ġher*) djerrë ` barren, dry land '.

gr. perhaps lengthened grade noun from the s- loose root form ġher- (or gher-): χῆρ χηρός `hedgehog' (= Latin ēr, ēris ds., ērīcius, ērīnāceus, hērīnāceus ds.);

Maybe Latin ērīcius, ii, m. [er], ` a hedgehog, urchin ' : Romanian (**ērīcius*) arici `hedgehog': Albanian (**ērīcius*) iriqi `hedgehog' [conservative singular definite form (alb. phonetic trait)].

gr. χοῖρος (< **ĝhorios*) 'piglet' (as pig), χοιράς 'inflated gland in the neck; cliff' (or to gher-3 'project, protrude', see there);

alb. derr 'swine' (< **ĝhōr-n-* with lengthened grade as in χήρ), derk 'piglet, sow' (< **ĝhōr-ŋ-k*);

Note:

Common alb. shift ĝh- > d-; also alb. (**derk-us*) derkuc 'piglet', (**ĝhork-os*) dosë 'sow' : Latin hircus, sabin. fircus 'he-goat' proves that solidified -us : -os ending was attested also in proto alb.

Unique similarity Albanian derri : Basque txerri 'pig'

Old Irish garb, cymr. garw 'rough' (ghŕ-uo-); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old English gorst 'gorse' and the etymological cognate group ĝherzd- 'barley'.

compare in allg. Fick I<sup>4</sup> 219, 435, II<sup>4</sup> 107, III<sup>4</sup> 130 (and Falk-Torp under gjørs m. Lithuanian about the fish names Norwegian gjørs 'Pike Perch', Swedish gers 'ruffe, perch, chub', prakrit. jhaṣa- 'a kind of fish').

References: WP. I 610, WH. I 413 f., 650, 659.

Page(s): 445-446

---

Root / lemma: ĝherzd(h), Gen. ĝhrzd(h)-es, ĝherzdā

Meaning: barley, grain, spike

Material: Gr. κῆ n. (conservative stem, as alb. drith) 'barley', probably from Indo Germanic **ĝhrzd<sup>h</sup>*, from which proto gr. **kŕth*, κῆ, mostly Pl. 'barley', Sg. (later covered) 'barley';

alb. drith (**ĝhrzd<sup>h</sup>*), drithë m. n. 'barley, corn, grain';

Maybe alb. drizë 'bush'.

Latin hordeum (dial. fordeum) n. 'barley' (from **ĝhrzd(h)ejom* 'grain awn', substantive adjective); zero grade: Old High German gersta 'barley' (**ĝherzdā*).

In addition perhaps gr. (**ákherdo*-s) ἄ-χερδος f. 'wild pear tree, hawthorn', maked. ἄ-γέρδα, gr. ἄ-χράς 'wild pear tree' (ἄ < **sm̥*-), alb. dardhë 'pear, pear tree' (**ghor*-d<sup>h</sup>-) and the antike VN Δάρδανοι;

alb. dardhë 'pear, pear tree' = Armenian tandz 'pear' only under assumption a of guttural change (above S. 18, Anm. 1) has made Lithuanian girsā 'darnel' here place (see below ghers-2).

References: WP. I 611, WH. I 414, 657, Specht Indog. Dekl.

Page(s): 446

---

Root / lemma: ghéslo-

Meaning: thousand

Note:

Root / lemma: ghéslo- : 'thousand' derived from Root / lemma: ghesor-1, ghesr- : 'hand, *hand count' [r//allophones]

Material: Old Indic sa-hásram n. 'thousand' (sm̥-ghéslom, to sem- 'one'), sa-hasriya- 'tausendfach', Avestan hazanrēm n. 'thousand', npers. hāzar, from which borrowed Armenian hazar, sogd. z'r (= **zār*), afgh. zār, Perhaps also Latin mīlle 'thousand; a thousand', whether from **smī ghzhlī* (ghslī) 'one thousand'; **smī*: gr. μία.

gr. Ionian χείλιοι, Aeolic χέλλιοι (χελληστus 'a division of the people at Ephesus'), Attic χῖλιοι (*χέσλιοι).

The basic word component **χεςλο-* has been found in Sakisch ysāra and in loanwords of Finno-Ugric languages (Jacobsohn Arier and Ugrofinnen 105 ff.).

References: WP. I 633, II 488, 491, WH. II 88 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 593.

Page(s): 446

---

Root / lemma: ghesor-1, ghesr- (**ghestor*), (**ghestān*)

Meaning: hand

Note:

Both Root / lemma: ghesor-1, ghesr- : 'hand' and Root / lemma: ghesto-2 : 'hand, arm' derived from an extended archaic root ghes + reduced form of the common PIE suffix variants -tar, -ter, -tra, -tre.

Material: Armenian jeṛn (**ġhes-r-n*), Pl. jeṛ-k 'hand' (Meillet Esquisse 83);

gr. χεῖρ f. 'hand', Gen. χειρός, Doric χηρός, Dat. Pl. χερσί (thereafter the form χερ-); Tocharian A tsar, B ṣar 'hand' (after Pedersen Tochar. 236 from **kesar* =) (common labialized gr. - Tocharian kʷ -> t).

Hittite ki-es-sar (kessar) n. and ki-es-si-ra-as (kesseras) m., f., Dat. Sg. ki-is-sa-ri (kesri = gr. χεῖρι?);

The earlier Hittite form was probably ġhes-tar > ġhessar common Illyrian suffix -tar, -tor.

about Latin īr, hīr 'hohle hand' (from Oscan-Umbrian **hēr* < **ghēsra*?) s. WH. I 649.

Maybe alb. (**ġhestor*) dorë 'hand'

Note:

Clearly Root / lemma: der-1 (: dōr-, dər-) or dōr- : dər- : 'hand span' derived through Root / lemma: ġhesor-1, ġhesr- : 'hand'; Root / lemma: ġhesto-2 : 'hand, arm' through Illyrian intermediary.

Page(s): 447

---

Root / lemma: ġhesto-2 (**ġhes-tor*)

Meaning: hand, arm

Note:

Both Root / lemma: ġhesor-1, ġhesr- : 'hand' and Root / lemma: ġhesto-2 : 'hand, arm' derived from an extended archaic root ġhes + reduced form of the common PIE suffix variants -tar, -ter, -tra, -tre.

Material: Old Indic hástā-h m. 'hand', Avestan zasta-, Old pers. dasta- ds.;

Maybe alb. (**dasta*) djathta 'right hand'

Maybe Latin īr, hīr 'hohle hand'

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin ġh- > h-.

Maybe alb. (**ġhestor*) dorë 'hand'

Latin praestō ` at hand, ready, present, here ' from **prae-hestod* (EM 805f.)?; different see below stā;

Lithuanian pa-žastē, pa-žastis f. ` place under the arm, armpit '.

Note: common Baltic-Illyrian gh- > z.

There Armenian jein also in **gher-m* could also go back to gr. forms could have expounded better from **gher-s*, there further alb. dorë f. `hand', Pl. konson. duar required a basic form **ghēr-* (ghēs- has produced **dostrē*), with Belardi (Riv. Studi Orient. 23, 69 ff.) could be considered, if not for the Hittite and Tocharian metathesis from -rs- to -sr- is to be accepted, and to be placed the group 1 from 2 to separate and to gher- `grasp '.

References: WP. I 541, 603, WH. I 243, Trautmann 367, Duchesne-Guillemin BSL. 39, 211, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 446, 569, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 75.

Page(s): 447

---

Root / lemma: gheu-

Meaning: to pour

Material: Old Indic juhōti, juhutē `pours in fire, sacrifices ', Passiv hūyātē, hutá-ḥ `sacrificed ', hōman- n. `sacrificial downpour, sacrifice, oblation' (= gr. χεῦμα), hōma-ḥ m. ds., hōtar- `offerer, sacrificer, priest', hōtrā f. `oblation ', havis- n. ds., hāvanam n. `sacrifice, oblation';

maybe alb. dhjamë `fat' : gr. ὀημός `fat' [common alb. gh- > d-];

Avestan zaotar, zaoθr- m. `priest, priest of sacrifice ', Middle Persian zōt, Avestan zaoθra n., zaoθrā f. `liquid sacrificial donation, sacrificial drink, sacrificial downpour ', npers. zōr `holy water ', Avestan āzūtay- f. `fat, lard, luxuriance, abounding fullness, wealth';

Note:

First of all Old Indic then Avestan, Middle Persian, npers. and alb. seem to employ Root / lemma: gheu- : to pour + -tra suffix.

Armenian joyl `poured' (< gheulo-), jew `form, shape'; here also jor `valley' (< ghouer- o)?

Phrygian ζευμάν πηγὴν Hes. (= gr. χεῦμα); thrak. ζετραία χύτρη (**gheutr-*), FIN Γεῦδις, -ος;

gr. χέ(F)ω `pour', Aor. hom. ἔχευα < *ἔχευσα, Perf. κέχϋκα, χυτός `poured', χεῦμα `that which is poured, stream, cast vessels, bowls, river, libation, drink offering made to the gods', χόανος, χῶνος `a copper cup, mold', χοή `libation for the dead', χοεύς m., f. `measure for fluids', χοῦς ds., Gen. χοός and χοῦς, older dial. χοῦ m., f. `heaped earth', χῶμα `earthwall', χόω `pile up earth, pour'; χύτρος, χύτρᾱ `earthen pot, pan, χύτλον `anything that can be poured, liquid, fluid, water for washing, the bath, a mixture of water and oil, running water, stream', χύδην `as if poured out, in floods or heaps: without order or system, promiscuously, indiscriminately, in unfettered language, i.e. in prose, abundantly, rich' (to δ compare the root extension gheud-), κοχυδεῖν `stream forth copiously', κοχύ πολύ, πλήρες Hes.; χύσις `shedding, pouring out or forth, diffusion, e.g. of nutriment, melting, liquid poured forth, flood, stream, of dry things, heap, of fluency or copiousness of speech, quantity, abundance', χῦλός `juice, sap' (< **ghuslo-*, W. Schulze mündl.), χῦμός ds. (< ghu-smo); further here χῶομαι `rage against, be unwilling' (χωόμενος = συγχεόμενος a severe critic; the term is derived from the name of the Greek grammarian and critic Aristarchus, who was known for his harsh judgments)?

Latin fū-tis f. `watering can, canister used for pouring water', fū-tilis, futtilis `that easily pours out, a water-vessel, broad above and pointed below, used at sacrifices to Vesta and Ceres, that can not contain, brittle, untrustworthy, vain, worthless, futile', exfūti = effūsī, effūtiō `babble out'.

Note:

common Latin d- > f- shift. derived only from an intermediary Illyrian (**gheu-* > du- > fu-).

very dubious is the affiliation from Middle High German gūl `male animal, boar, horse', Modern High German Gaul (in Bayr. `stud', Swiss gūl `rooster, cock', compare Dutch guil `mare, has not given birth to young yet', s. Sommer IF. 31, 362 ff.), as `seed spiller, seed molder'.

Root extensions:

gheud-:

Latin fundō, -ere, fūdī, fūsum `pour, lay the bottom, make a foundation, found, begin' (about fūsus `spindle' s. WH. I 474);

Note:

According to phonetic laws Latin initial d- > f- hence Latin fundō cognate must have derived only from an Illyrian (**ǵheun-* > deun-) since there is no other cognate among IE lang. to start with d-; see maybe alb. dhjamë 'fat' : gr. ῥήμους 'fat', common alb. ǵh- > d-; also common alb. n > nd shift .

Gothic giutan 'pour', Old Icelandic gjóta '( boy) throw', Old English gēotan 'pour, flow, schütten', Old Frisian jāta, Old Saxon giotan, Old High German giozzan ds., nisl. gjóta 'cave, narrow alley', Old Swedish giuta 'mold', Old High German giozo 'running water', Old English gyte 'downpour, flood', Old High German guz 'a pouring out, a melting, founding, casting of metals', nld. gēte 'low waterway', Norwegian gota 'incised gully', Old Saxon gota 'canal', holl. goot 'gutter, gully', Modern High German Gosse, Old English gutt, engl. gut 'intestine'.

Maybe alb. gotë 'glass of water'.

gheus-

Middle Irish guss (**ghus-tu-s*) 'power, vehemency, rage, fury';

Old Icelandic gjósa, gaus 'burst out, break out, effervesce', geysa 'bring into motion, stir, agitate', Geysir 'the known hot jumping streams in Iceland', nisl. gusa 'effervesce', Old Icelandic gustr 'gust of wind', engl. gush, Middle Dutch guysen 'flow out', Old High German gussa 'inundation', urgusi 'overabundance'.

contrariness of irregular Anlautes (compare above S. 18 Anm.) perhaps here Lithuanian gausùs, gausingas 'rich, productive, fertile', gausinga upė 'plentiful amount of water of the main river', gausėti 'be provided with plentiful', gausakālbis 'who is able to speak a lot, well-spoken' (compare Norwegian dial. gausta 'fast and indistinct talk, as if one hastens to tell something'), Latvian gaũss 'long lasting'.

References: WP. I 563 ff., WH. I 563 f.

Page(s): 447-448

---

Root / lemma: ǵheu-, ǵheu-d-

Meaning: to disappear, get away

Material: Middle Irish gūass f. (**ǵhound-tā*) 'danger', guss ds. = cymr. gwst 'evil, wickedness, disease, malady' (**ǵhud-tu-s*);

Old English gíetan, ā-gíetan 'injure, slay';

Lithuanian žūvù, žūti 'perish', žudaũ, žudyti 'slay'; Latvian zũdu, zust 'disappear, get lost', zaudēt 'lose'.

References: WP. I 564, WH. I 568, Loth RC 45, 193 ff.

Page(s): 448

---

Root / lemma: ġhē-1, ġhēi-

Meaning: to be empty, lack; to leave, go out

Note: perhaps to ġhē-, ġhēi- 'yawn, gape' (compare ' yawning emptiness '); from ' stand gapingly ' can also be changed ' leave, depart '.

Material: With the meaning- coloring B:

Old Indic jāhāti ' leaves, gives up, abandons, leaves behind ' (jahimaḥ, Imper. jahihi, Aor. ahāt, ahāyi, participle hīná-ḥ), jīhītē ' goes, run into, bump into, come up against ', hīyatē ' become abandoned, falls behind '; hāni-ḥ f. ' lack; release, giving up, giving way, conceding ' (vihāyas- ' empty room ' because of prefixes, that also in vi-hā- ' gape '); compare S. 427;

Latin hērēs ' heir ' (**ghēro-* + ē-d[ō]-, ' das verwaiste Gut an sich nehmend '? , s. about the ending under ē-particle);

Note:

Common Old Indic : Latin ġh- > h-.

Avestan zazāmi ' I dismiss from, fire from ', with avā- ' leave, go away, scare, frighten ', with upa- and fra- ' leave, allow here, lead here, conduct here '; ā-zā- ' go near, approach ', uz-zā- ' jump, be elevated ' (uzayantō participle Nom. Pl.);

Maybe alb. Geg me zanë ' quarrel, capture, occupy '

gr. hom. κιχᾶνω (**κιχανFω*), Attic κιγχάνω (**ghə-n-υ-*), Inf. present hom. κιχήμεναι, participle present κιχείς ' reach, catch up, meet, attain, take '; with formant -α-: gr. χάζομαι, Fut. ep. χάσσομαι, Aor. ep. χασσάμην ' retreat, flee, cease, stop, halt, desist ', ἀναχάζω tr. ' drive back, repel ', intr. ' retreat, go back ', as Med. χαλάω ' reduce, decrease, become limp ' in partizip. Adj. **ġhə-lo-s* ' going away, leaving ' or ' gaping, loose, slack '? be based on, is perhaps mentionable; after Meillet Esquisse 36 rather to Armenian xat ' game ', xatāt ' peaceful, friendly ' (with Indo Germanic kh-);

Maybe alb. ndal 'cease, stop, halt, desist' [common alb. gh- > d-] : gr. χαλάω 'reduce, decrease, become limp'.

Old High German gān (= Old Indic hāna-m) 'go', Old Frisian Old Saxon Old English gān, Old Swedish Old Danish gā, Crimean Gothic geen ds.; about the additional form Old High German gēn s. Kluge<sup>11</sup> 193, Braune Old High German Gr.<sup>5</sup> p. 382<sup>1</sup>; Lithuanian by Feist, 182 b.

With the meaning- coloring A:

gr. *χήτις (Risch word formation d. hom. Spr. 74), Dat. χήτει 'in absence of, lack of', ablaut. (**ghē-t*) χατέω, χατίζω 'lack, need, long for, yearn for, lust, desire'; χήρος 'stolen; looted, empty, bare, lacking' (= Latin **hēro-* in hērēs), χήρᾱ 'orphan, widow'; with gradation χῶρος, χώρᾱ 'empty, free room, free country (in contrast to town, city), region', epid. χώρᾱ 'empty eye socket', χωρίς Adv. and preposition m.Gen. 'apart, separated; without; with exception from; besides', χωρίζω 'slit, separate', χωρεῖν 'catch, can absorb, from container' (actually 'make room') and 'withdraw, leave, depart; go forever';

Gothic gaidw n. 'lack', Old English gād, gæd n. 'lack, need, desire', Old Frisian gād 'necessary', Old Saxon Gen. Pl. metigēdeono 'lack of food, famine' (basic form **ghēi-tuó-*); in addition probably also Old High German geisini 'indigence, penury, necessity, want', Old English gæsne 'lacking, missing';

References: WP. I 542 ff., WH. I 451, 641 f.

Page(s): 418-419

---

Root / lemma: ghē-2: ghē- and ghēi-: ghī-

Meaning: to gape, yawn

Note: onomatopoeic for the yawning sound (in addition the further formation stem ghīi-ā); (see also under ghans- 'goose'; similarly, but with Velar, gha gha for gaggle, cackle, chitchat, talk, snicker and likewise, see there). Beside ghēi- also ghēu-: ghəu- (see there), either as other perception of yawning sound, or with originally formant u.

Material: Gr. χάσκω (ghē-skō) 'yawn, gape' (only present and Impf.; later replaced by χαίνω, see below ghan-), χάσμα 'gaping mouth'; χηραμός 'hole', χηραμός 'a big, giant shell', after χαραμόςή τῆς γῆς διάστασις Hes., χηλός f. 'hutch, chest; drawer'; χήμη 'the yawn, mussel living in the coral seas, mussel whose bowls have a leafy surface'.

Maybe alb. (ghē-skō) guaskë 'shell' a Greek loanword.

Von ghēi- from: Old Church Slavic zějǫ 'to gape wide' (**ghēiō*).

Von ǵhji-ā- from:

Latin hiō, -āre (**ǵhjiā-iō*) `yawn, gape, be open ', Oscan eehianasúm `ēmittendārum (an animal sacrificed, victim, sacrifice) ', Umbrian ehiato `let go, let loose, release, drop, let out ';

Lithuanian žió-ju, -ti `open', reflexive žiótis `yawn ' (žiótys Pl. f. `crack, deep cleft, gap; mouth, jaw '), wherefore Lithuanian žióvauti, Latvian žāvâtiēs `yawn ' (žāvas f. Pl. `yawns ') and with p: Lithuanian žiopsaũ, -sótĩ `sit there, remain with open mouth ';

Serbo-Croatian zjâm, zjâti `open the mouth', iterative Old Church Slavic zijaĵa, zijati, russ. zijaĵu, -âtʹ ds. and sloven. zêvati `hold the mouth open ', Czech zívatĩ, russ. zěvátʹ `yawn ' (sloven. zêv, poln. ziew, russ. zěv `jaw '); with p (compare under the root form ǵheip-): blg. zěpam, poln. ziepac `breathe with difficulty ', klr. zípaty `struggle for breath ', Czech zípati `pant, gasp'.

similarly, but after ē-verbs, Old High German gēn `yawn ' (would be Gothic **gijan, -aida*); besides with still the need for clarification (but barely deriving from the root form ǵhēu-) w in Hiat Old High German anagiwēn `gape, be open mouthed with astonishment, covet, desire ', gēwōn `open the mouth, yawn ' (Middle High German gewen, giwen ds.), Old English giwian, giowian `long, want, arrogate' (from `*with open mouth, greedy whereupon pant for, long for, desire '); in addition Old Icelandic gjā f. (**giwō*) on the one hand `col, gap, cleft, gap in the earth', on the other hand (from `pant for, long for, desire ' from) `voluptuous life', Middle High German giude (**giwiþō*) `loud pleasure, joy', giuden `boast, brag (*open the mouth wide); be in noisy joy, live wastefully ', Modern High German vergeuden; Old High German inginnan `open up, open, lacerate, split' from **ginȳan* is probably Causative to Old High German ginēn (see below) in formal connection with the similar sound biginnan. (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

sko-present: Latin hīscō, -ere (**ǵhī-skō*) `yawn, gape, be open '; similarly Old English giscian, Middle High German gischen `sob, weeping ' and Norwegian Dialectal geiska `stretch the legs ' (see Persson Beitr. 318).

n- present and related nouns: Old Icelandic gīna stem V., Old English tō-gīnan stem V. `gape, yawn '; with ī Old Icelandic gīne, Old High German ginēn, Middle High German ginēn, genēn, Modern High German gähnen = Old English ginian, gionian `be far open ',

Old Icelandic gina `yawn', gin n. `gullet', Old English gin n. ds.; with Germanic ai (Indo Germanic ǵhei-? or rather the preterite ablaut of stem V. gīnan?) Old High German geinōn, Swiss gäine, Gothic **gainon*, Old English gānian, but engl. yawn `yawn' for **yone* from Old English gionian, Old Church Slavic zinŭ, -ŭti (**ǵhīnō*) `yawn, gape'.

other nominal formation:

with u: Old English giw, gēow m. `vulture' (**gīwaz* `the voracious'); with m: Old Icelandic gīma f. `cleft, mouth', Swiss gīm ds.; Old Icelandic geimi m. `Meeresschlund'; nisl. geimr `big, empty room'; with r: Germanic **gīr(i)a* `greedy' (actually `*long for, desire'), in Norwegian Dialectal gīr m. `eagerness, ferventness, passion', Old High German gīri `eager, avid', gīr `vulture'; with l: Old Icelandic Norwegian gil n. `cliff crack', Swedish Dialectal gilja f. `defile, narrow passage between mountains', Old High German Middle High German gil `break, hernia'; Old Icelandic geil f. `defile, narrow passage between mountains, Engpaß'; Middle Low German gīlen `lust, crave, beg' (from **gīla* Adj. `yearning', compare to meaning above Old English gīwaz).

With meaning-development from `gape' to `stand crookedly (at first e.g. from woods)' probably to be added nnd. Dutch gillen `abscise slantwise', Dutch gillinghout `cut through wood at an angle', further isl. geila `separate' (`*make gape'), Old English gælan (**gailjan*) `hinder, hesitate'; from r-forms Low German gīren, Dutch (out of it Modern High German) gieren, Norwegian Dialectal gīra `deviate from the course'; Dutch geeren ds., Norwegian Dialectal geira `run crookedly'.

extensions with i-vocalism:

**ǵhei-gh-*: Old Icelandic Norwegian dial., geiga `deviate sideways', Old Icelandic geigr m. `damage' (originally outlook `*stand crookedly, gape' e.g. from woods); compare Modern High German Swiss Geigle `double branch in a tree which breaks up in any corner; Pl. the thighs', Modern High German Heugeige `Stecken mit seitwärts abstehenden Astresten zum Aufschobern des Heus'; Modern High German dial. geigen `move to and fro', Old Icelandic gīgja, from Middle Low German Middle High German gīge, Modern High German Geige as musical instrument; Old English for-, of-gægan `deviate from, overstep', gægl and gāgol `exuberant, bending', Old Frisian gēia `contravene, refrain from, desist from, penance, atonement pay for, atone'; Norwegian dial. giga, gigla, gigra 'lose stand, wobble, sway', engl. gig (nord. loanword) 'light cart, light racing boat', whirligig, Danish gig 'spinning top as plaything'; ndd. giggelen, engl. to giggle 'titter, laugh in a foolish high-pitched manner, furtive, sneering laugh'; as 'sticking out freely, movable sail pole' here Dutch gei 'Raa' (basic form *geig(*j)a?*), ndd. gīk, Dutch gijk ds. and Middle Low German geck from revolvable things (e.g. lid, top, cover, shutter, Pumpstangen), also 'fool' (Modern High German Geck); here (after Wissmann Nom. postverb. 41) Gothic geigō f. 'greed, lust', ga-geigan 'gain', faihu-geigan 'lust, crave'; s. S. 427.

similar is (from ghjiā from) with gh shaped Lithuanian ziógauti 'yawn', žiógas 'locust, grasshopper', žiōgris 'palisade, fence made from stakes; protective fence made from poles that are inserted into the ground'.

ghei-p- (in Germanic perhaps partly also ghei-b<sup>h</sup>-):

Maybe with b- formant alb (**ghēi-bo-n*) zhgabonjē, shqiponjē 'greedy, voracious' eagle, vulture': Old English giw, gēow m. 'vulture': Old High German gīr 'vulture'

Latin (Gloss.) hippitāre, exippitāre (**hīpitāre*) 'hietare', gape; yawn' (span. hipar 'sob, weeping'); Czech zípatí 'pant, gasp' (etc., see above);

Old English gīfer 'devourer', Old Icelandic gīfr m. 'fiend, demon'; Modern High German dial. geifen, geiben, geipen 'yawn, gawk, desire greedily'; from 'stand crookedly, stand loose' Norwegian dial. geivla 'deviate sideways; shiver', also geivra; from stretching the mouth ndd. gib(b)elen 'mocking laugh', Modern High German geifeln 'mocking laugh', engl. to gibe, jibe 'mock'.

In Germanic also:

ghei-b-, Germanic **gīp-*: Old Icelandic gīpr m. 'muzzle, jaw', FIN for Gipa, Norwegian Dialectal gipa 'make gape, struggle for breath' = Old English gīpian 'struggle for breath'; Middle Low German gippelt 'crazy, stupid'; Swedish dial. gippa 'crack, col, gap'; with ī schwed dial. gipa 'stretch the mouth', ndd. gīpen 'struggle for breath'; Modern High German Bavarian gaif(f)en von einem nicht festsitzenden, schlotternden Schuh; with the meaning 'twist mockingly the mouth'.

With Germanic ai: Old Icelandic geipa 'babble, chatter', Norwegian dial. geipa 'chatter; open the mouth wide; sit or go with spread legs';

Old Icelandic geispa `struggle for breath', Middle English gaspen < Old English **gāspian*, probably from **gaipsōn* (through amalgamation from **gaip-* and **gais*).

gheis-: isl. gisinn `leaking, cracked from dryness' (participle from **gīsa* =) Norwegian dial. gīsa `grin, blink'; Norwegian dial. gīsta `get split, become thin, of the wood', Old Swedish gīstinn `leaking, cracked from dryness'; from this meaning further Middle Low German gēst, Old Frisian gēst, gāst `the higher dry land in contrast to marsh depression' (related u-forms Low German gūste, Dutch gust `infertile, dry, gelt' from the basis ġhēu-?? S. Persson Beitr. 318).

extensions with ē- : æ-vocalism (fast only Germanic):

**ġhægh-* (: ġhēgh-):

Old English gēag/m. n. `mandible, lower jaw bone, throat', Pl. `grinder, molar tooth', Middle Low German gāgel, gēgel/m. n. `palate, gums' (**gāgula-*, -ila);

Modern High German dial. gagen, gageln, gagern `spread themselves (from the legs, the fingers), wobble, gesticulate, flutter', gackelicht `foolish, loony', Middle High German gagen, gageren `move to and fro, thrash, wriggle', Old Icelandic gagr `writhed, crooked, humped, crooked behind', gaghals `back crooked neck', Norwegian dial. gag `crooked backward (e.g., from crooked standing off device parts)', engl. gag-toothed (nord. loanword) `with protruding teeth': ablaut. Old Icelandic gægjask `prestretch oneself to look', and (both with consonant-sharpening) md. gāken `gawk'. `'

Maybe alb. guak `gawk', expressive form alb. (**ġhə-skō*), gogësj `yawn, gape'

Old Icelandic gǫggrar Pl. `cliff gaps' (**gegura-*) compares Lidén Armen. Stud. 70 f. probably more properly with Armenian gez `col, gap, crack, incisure'.

**ġhēp-*:

Old Indic hāphikā `echo, resound, ring' (with new ph instead of p, Persson Beitr. 565).

**ġhəb-*: Old Icelandic gap `wide aperture, hole, chaos; shout, call, scream', gapa `open the mouth, cry', Old English gapan, nnd. gāpen, Middle High German Modern High German gaffen `look with open mouth'.

**ġhəb<sup>h</sup>-*:

Old English geafflas Pl. `jaws ' (in the meaning directed after *ceaffl` jaw '`, see below ġeph-), Old Danish paa gaffe`weit offen', Swedish på gavel ds.*

Maybe Latin (**gnoffula*) offula (-ae) [n] `slice ' : alb. *nofulla` jaw ' : Rumanian *falcă` jaw '.

Old Icelandic *gabba` play jokes, play a joke on, fool '`, Old English *gabbian`babble; deride, mock '`, *gaffetung` derision '`, *gafspræc` brainless speech '`, Dutch *gabberen` trifle, joke ' (probably from Ndd. derive Lithuanian *gabl(i)ó-ju, -ti` banter, vex '`, *gablỹs` one who teases, vexes '`, s. Berneker 287 f. - also about poln. gabać` stir, tease, irritate, banter').****

References: WP. I 548 ff., WH. I 647 ff., Trautmann 368, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 694.

See also: compare still ġhē-1` empty, bare, lacking sein, fehlen'; Specht (Dekl. 282) places eine root **aġh-ē-* etc. an; see above under ġhan-.

Page(s): 419-422

---

Root / lemma: ġhēlā

Meaning: wine

Material: Old Indic hālā`alcohol';

gr. *χάλις, -ιος` unmixed wine '`, χαλί-κρητος ds.; maked. κάλιθος οἶνος. 'Αμερίας Hes.;*

thrak. ζίλαι ό οἶνος Hes. (**ġhēl-*).

Maybe alb. (**ġhēlā*) gjella` food, dish '.

References: WP. I 631. very dubious.

Page(s): 434

---

Root / lemma: ġhēu- : ġhō(u)- : ġheu-

Meaning: to yawn, gape

Note: (see above ġhēi-)

Material: Gr. χάος n. `the empty room, airspace' (later also `cleft, gap'; probably from **χαFος*), *χαῦνος` gaping, lax '`, χαυλι-όδοντ- `with spread teeth';*

whether here also Gothic gawi`land, region', Old High German gawi, Modern High German Gau, Old English gē, etc. from **ġhēuīom* with similar meaning-development as by gr. χώρος, χῶρα (see below ġhēi- `lack; abandon ') and Armenian gavar` portion of land, area, region'? or from Germanic **ga-awja* (to ak"ā, above S. 23) `scenery in the water '?

Old High German goumo m. (**ġhæu-men-*), giumo (**ġhēu-men-*) `palate', ablaut. Old Norse gōmr `gums, palate', Old English gōma (engl. gums `gums'), Old High German guomo (**ġhō[u]-m-*) `roof of mouth = palate'; about Lithuanian gomurỹs see below; in addition probably Old Icelandic geyja `bark, bay, scold, chide, mock', Old English gíegan `cry', Old Icelandic goð-gā `blasphemy', hund-gā `bark' and further formations Old Icelandic gauta `babble, chatter, brag, boast', nld. guiten `scold, mock', Modern High German dial. gauzen, gäuzen `bark, bay, cry', Gothic gaunōn `wail, grieve', Old Icelandic gaula `howl'; about Lithuanian gaũsti see below gou- `call, shout, cry'.

In spite of the non-palatal root initial sound (see above about Lithuanian gomurỹs) it could belong here, because many originally palatal gutturals appear in Lithuanian as g, k.

further in the meaning `yawn' with k-forms (: gr. χαυλί-) perhaps here Middle High German gie/m. `jaw, gullet', Old Norwegian -gjōl in place names? as well as Norwegian dial. gyl `cleft, gap, cliff gap' (**gulja*; so also Swedish göl `puddle, slop, pond', Middle High German gülle `puddle, pool, slop', Middle Low German göle, goel `swamp, marsh' as `the cavity in which water is collected '?).

Modern High German Gosche, Gusche, nld. goske, guske `big muzzle' as sk-formation belongs here however, they would possibly be used with Old Indic ghóṣati `calls, shouts, howls' are related (see Persson Beitr. 116 f.), it is not likely a trivial expression without pursueable history;

Maybe alb. gusha `throat'

Baltic **gāmurja*- m. `palate' in Lithuanian gomurỹs, Gen. gómurio m., also gomerė (Akk. gómere) f.; Latvian gāmurs m. `windpipe, larynx' (only by Miežinis doubtful guomurs); a sound equivalent to Modern High German Gaumen produced Lithuanian Latvian úo (Baltic ō); perhaps in vocalism it influenced German; to g- compare above S. 18 Anm.

An extension ġheub<sup>h</sup>- in Old Icelandic gaupa f. `lynx, wildcat' (probably actually `the thirsting, the greedy', as Old English earn-géap `noble falcon'), ablaut. Norwegian dial gōp `gorge, ravine, gulch, abyss'; Old English gēap `wide, capacious'; gēopan `intertwine, entwine; devour, swallow up, engulf, consume', Old Icelandic gaupn f. `the hollow hand', Old High German goufana ds., wherefore Lithuanian žìupsnis `a little less than a handful'; compare still Persson Beitr. 835 m. A. 2.

Maybe alb. gop `vagina, hole'

References: WP. I 465 f., WH. I 470, Trautmann 77.

Page(s): 449

---

Root / lemma: ġhðem-, ġhðom-, Gen.- ablative ġh(ð)m-és

Meaning: earth, man, dragon

Note: It was developed from the zero grade, from where the simple anlaut ġh- also in lengthened grade spread forms (about Old Indic anlauts jm-, gm- besides kṣm- compare Johansson Xenia Lideniana 1912, S. 116-126)

Comments:

Root / lemma: ġem<sup>bh</sup>-, ġm<sup>bh</sup>- : 'to bite; tooth ' derived from Root / lemma: ġhðem-, ġhðom-, Gen.- ablative ġh(ð)m-és Meaning: 'earth, man, dragon ' because the ancients believed that their ancestors killed the dragon, planted his teeth in the ground and fierce men were born from the ground. snake peeled its skin and was reborn again, that is why warriors venerated the snake as the source of immortality in battle.

Material: compare to anlaut still Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 129, 241, pp. 109, 209by, III 241 ff., Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 326, 631, 10, Benveniste BSL. 38, 139 ff., Specht Dekl. 241.

Old Indic stem kṣam-, Nom. Sg. kṣāḥ (= Avestan zā) f. 'earth, ground; face of the earth, earth's surface' [common Old Indic ġh- > kṣ-], (Akk. kṣām = Avestan zām, Lok. kṣāmi and **kṣām*, if kṣāman from this form with postposition **en* 'in' to define is, compare Old Indic pāri-jman 'all around on the earth'; Instr. jmā, Gen. jmāḥ, secondary gmāḥ, kṣmāḥ); kṣāmya-ḥ 'placed on earth, earthly ';

Avestan zā, Akk. zām, Lok. zāmē, Gen. zāmō 'earth, ground, earth; face of the earth, earth's surface';

Note:

the -m- suffix similar to alb. delme 'sheep ', zjarm 'fire '. Illyrian Nominative is the same as Indo Iranian and in general Indo European Locative.

gr. χθών f. 'ground, earth; face of the earth, earth's surface' (**χθώμ*; thereafter with v also Gen. χθονός, χθόνιος 'subterranean, underground' etc.), χαμαί originally 'on the ground, to earth ', (in addition to the other vowel gradation = Old Prussian semmai 'low' and presumably also = Latin humī 'to bottom'), χαμᾶζε 'to the ground, on the ground ', χαμηλός 'low', χθαμαλός 'near the ground, on the ground, low ' (: Latin humilis), perhaps νεο-χμός 'new, always of things, drastic, egregious, rude, flagrant, discourteous, impolite (*low)';

Phrygian ζεμελω (thrak. Σεμέλη) 'mother earth' (?), also Phrygian ζέμελεν βάρβαρον ἀνδράποδον Hes. (compare russ. čelovek 'person' and 'servant') ; Γδαν Μα 'Χθών Mā' can be genuine Phrygian (Indo Germanic ē > Phrygian ā), gd- : z- as Old Indic kṣāh- : Avestan zā-, common Old Indic ǵh- > kṣ-

alb. dhe 'earth' (= χθών) ;

Note:

Albanian dhe 'earth' : Phrygian ζεμελω */h<sub>1</sub>/ for the non-colouring laryngeal.

[common Old Indic ǵh- > kṣ- : Avestan ǵh- > gz-]

Note:

[common Old Indic ǵh- > kṣ- : Avestan ǵh- > gz-]

Avestan gz- > Greek χθ- > Baltic dz- > Illyrian d- : Baltic dz- > Slavic z-]

compare gr. Δημήτηρ, Doric Δᾱμᾱτήρ, Thessalian Δαμμάτηρ, Aeolic Δωμάτηρ; Illyrian Δω-, Δαμ- (Pisani IF. 53, 30, 38) from Indo Germanic **ǵd̥hō-*, respectively Vokat. **ǵd̥hom-*, about Δαμία, epithet of Demeter, s. WH. I 321;

Note:

Clearly Δημήτηρ 'mother earth' was shaped according to Illyrian and alb. phonetic laws [common alb. ǵh- > d-, dh-] Δημή-τηρ common venetic Illyrian suffix -ter, -tre. Therefore Δημήτηρ is an Illyrian goddess of earth.

Note:

gr. Δημήτηρ 'mother earth' : Old Irish duine, cymr. dyn, corn. bret. den : Illyrian Δημήτηρ, alb. dhe cognates evolved according to Illyrian and alb. phonetic laws [common alb. ǵh- > d-, dh-] suggesting a shared origin of those lang.

Latin humus (from **homos*) 'earth, ground, earth; face of the earth, earth's surface', probably reshaping of an old consonant-stem **ǵd̥hom-*; hence also f. as χθών; humilis 'low' (: χθαμαλός); in Oscan-Umbrian **homi-teros*, -temos as Kompar. Superl. of Lok. **homi* 'under' (: Old Indic kṣāmi) : Oscan hu[η]truis 'below, beneath, underneath, lower', huntrus 'below, beneath, underneath, lower'; Umbrian hutra, hontra 'on the under side, below, underneath', Abl. hondomu 'the lowest'; Umbrian hondu pessumdatō 'from **hon(d)-tōd*, about Latin hūmānus see below;

Old Irish dū, Gen. don 'place' (Pedersen KG. I 89, s. also under to duine; the development from ǵhō to d- similar to t from -kþ- in art 'bear' from arkþos; n instead of -m- as in χθόνοϛ extended from the full grade **dōn* - from **dōm* - from dū);

Note:

Old Irish duine, cymr. dyn, corn. bret. den: Illyrian Δημήτηρ, alb. dhe cognates evolved according to Illyrian and alb. phonetic laws [common alb. ǵh- > d-, dh-] suggesting a shared origin of those lang.

Lithuanian žėmė, Latvian zeme, Old Prussian same, semme 'earth', semai 'base, low' (: χαμαί, see above), Latvian zem 'under' (probably Verkürzung of Lok. zemē); Lithuanian žėmas, Latvian zems 'low';

Old Church Slavic zemlja 'earth'; in addition also Old Church Slavic zmbja 'snake' ('creeping on the earth'), zmbjb 'dragon': gr. χθαμαλός 'near the ground, on the ground, low'.

Maybe alb. (**dhemle*) dhemje 'earth worm' very important see up or below.

In addition words for 'person' as 'earthly, of the earth':

Latin homō, -inis 'person', Old Latin hemō (also in nēmō 'nobody, no person, no one' from **ne-hemō*), Akk. hemōnem, to humus probably hūmānus 'human, of human beings, of people; humane', with unclear vocalism (**hoim-* würde to oí of Old Irish Pl. doíni 'people', whether here lay before an older diphthong, but for Indo Germanic **ǵdhoim-* lacks every probability; s. also under); Oscan-Umbrian **homōn-* (ablaut grade **ǵhom-* as humus, compared with Latin hemōn- or dialectic umlaut from **hemōn-*), Oscan humuns 'a human being, man, person', Umbrian homonus 'a human being, man, person';

Gothic guma, Old Icelandic gumi, Old English guma, Old High German gomo 'person, man, husband', Modern High German in Bräuti-gam (Indo Germanic **ǵhemon-* or **ǵhomon-*);

Lithuanian (old) žmuō (Daukša m. Akk. žmūnī) 'person', nowadays žmogūs, žmōgus (g- forms as in Old Church Slavic mъ-žb) 'person', Old Prussian smoy (leg. smoa?), other formations Old Prussian smunents m. 'person', smonenawins ds., and smūnī f. 'person', Lithuanian žmonà f. 'wife, woman', žmónės Pl. m. 'people' (Akk. Pl. žmónis dial. from Indo Germanic **ǵhmōnēs*).

Pedersen (KG. I 69, 89, 116, 173) places here also Old Irish duine, cymr. dyn, corn. bret. den 'person', Proto Celtic **don̥io-* from **ĝh̥dom̥io-* = χθόνιος, Old Indic kṣamya-ḥ, however, this would be the only evidence for Celtic n̥ from m̥, it could be considered the transference of n from the paradigm **dōn* 'place' (see above). However, then the Pl. Old Irish doíní, nir. daoine 'humans, people' (typical diphthong) would have to be separated from duine; far likely it is connected doíní as **dʰe̯u̯en̥io-* or **dʰo̯u̯en̥io-* and duine etc. as strong grade **dʰun̥io-* with Gothic diwans 'perishable, mortal' connected (see **dʰu̯en-* under dʰeu- 'die'); incredible Borgström NTS. 12, 83 f.;

Note:

common Illyrian-celtic ĝh- > d-

Tocharian A śom 'lad, young boy, youngling', B śaumo, Pl. śāmna 'person' (: Latin hemōnem); s. Pedersen Tochar. 107 f.;

Hittite te-e-kan (tegan), Gen. tagnās 'earth' and Tocharian A tkam, Gen. tkanis, B keṃ ds.

Luvian: tiyamm(i)-

Meaning: 'earth'

Attestations: [NSg] ti-ya-am-mi-iš: 54 ii 41.42.43*.51.iii 28 .35; 56,2*; KBo XXIX 40,5e.

ti-ya-am-me-iš: 107 ii 4*.

[ASg] ti-ya-am-mi-in: 103 iii 13; 139 i 4(?).iv 10e(?).

ti-ya-am-me-in: 107 ii 11.

[D-LSg] ti-ya-am-mi: 94,11e; VII 53 + XII 58 i 59e; KBo XXII 254 Vo 7*.

[ErgSg] ti-ya-am-ma-an-ti-iš: 39 ii 15.

[GenAdj]

[NSgC] ti-ya-am-ma-aš-ši-iš: 45 ii 26; 107 ii 12*.

[NPIC] ti-ya-am-ma-aš-ši-in-zi: KBo XXII 254 Vo 11*.

Commentary: Delocative formation, as per Kimball, Hittite Plene Writing 42720, NOT direct formal match of Hittite tēkan!

Hittite: tekan n., gen. taknas 'earth', dagan, tagan 'down, to the ground'; HLUw takamia 'earth', Luvian tiyammi- id. (Friedrich 204, 220) common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-

Note:

Common Hittite Tocharian gh- > tk-: common Old Indic gh- > kṣ-: Illyrian Albanian gh- > dh-: Celtic gh- > d-.

They derived through metathesis from **ĝ(e)ǵhom-*, **ĝh(e)ǵhom* (Pedersen Group. 41 f.), these explained from Indo Germanic **ǵh(e)ǵhom* (Kretschmer Gl. 20, 66 f.); against it with substantial reasons Beuveniste Mél. Van Ginneken 193 ff.; a root in **ǵhegh-* places also Specht Dekl. 241; I with Benveniste would rather keep away the Hittite and Tocharian forms.

References: WP. I 662 ff., WH. I 654 f., 663 ff., 869, Trautmann 369.

Page(s): 414-416

---

Root / lemma: ghǵiés (zero grade ghǵis?), vereinfacht (?) to ghǵés, ghǵiés, ghés

Meaning: yesterday

Material: Old Indic hyáh 'yesterday' (ghǵiés), hyastana-h 'yesterday';

Latin heri, herē 'yesterday', hesternus 'yesterday' (from **hestrinos* with -tro- as in Germanic **gestra-*); Common Old Indic: Latin gh- > h-.

Avestan zyō, Old pers. diya(ka), pers. dī(g);

alb. dje 'yesterday', dial. 'morning' (**ĝhes*), djethine ds., para-dje 'the day before yesterday, two days ago';

Old Irish in-dē (**gdǵiés*), cymr. doe, acorn. doy, ncorn. dē, Middle Breton dech, nbret. deac'h 'yesterday' (the brit. forms from **gdǵies*); cymr. neithiwr etc. 'yesterday evening' rather from **nokti* + cymr. hwyr 'late' (loanword from Latin sērus);

gr. eleisch σερ-ός χθές Hes. (from **χίε*, Indo Germanic ghǵiés?); gr. χθές (**ghǵés*), ἐχθές (after ἐκεῖνος: κεῖνος, independent particle or suggestion vowel, see above S. 283 and Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 413, Lejeune Traité 182); χθιζός, adverb. χθιζά 'yesterday', after Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 351 from χθές + **ḏiá* to Old Indic a-dyā 'today' (Instrum. from Indo Germanic **ǵios* 'day'; lacks above S. 183), with sound weakening from ε to ι, after Specht

KZ. 68, 205 from **ghōdis* > ghis with adverbial suffix (as in gr. κρύβ-δα); χθесινός `yesterday';

Gothic gistra-dagis `morgen', Old English geostra, wsächs. giestran-dæg, North Umbrian gioster-dæg `yesterday', Old High German kestre, gesteron, gesterên `yesterday'; lengthened grade Old Norse í gærr (**gēz*-), í gjār (Noreen Old Icelandic Gr.<sup>4</sup> p. 72, 263a 1); s. above Specht KZ. 68, 202 f.

References: WP. I 664, WH. I 642 f., 869, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 326, 631, 10, Specht KZ. 68, 201 ff.

Page(s): 416

---

Root / lemma: ghōdū- (or ghīū-?)

Meaning: fish

Material: Armenian jukn `fish' (extension as in mu-kn `mouse');

gr. ιχθῦς, -ύος (**ghōdūs*) `fish' (i- is a vocal development as in ικτῖνος `a number of small predatory birds belonging to the hawk family type of predatory bird, kite': Armenian çin `falcon, kite', Indo Germanic kPīno-);

ghōdu-: Lithuanian žuvis (Gen. Pl. žuvų) f., Latvian zivs, zivs m. ds.; in addition the verbs East Lithuanian žústa, žùvo, žúti `fish, catch fish'; Gutturalsuffix: Old Prussian suckis m. (Akk. Pl. suckans) `fish' (Lithuanian žuk- in žūk-mistras `Fischmeister', žuk-sparnis `Fischaar', žūklỹs `fisherman'); in addition further Latvian zutis m. `eel, snakelike fish'; Lithuanian žvejỹs m. `fisherman', Lithuanian žvejóti, Latvian zvejuôt `fish, catch fish', žvýnas m. `fish scale', Latvian zviņi m. Pl. `fish scales'; Old Prussian sucka-ns besides ιχθῦς, as Latin sucu-la besides sūs, Old Norse askr besides Lithuanian úosis.

To the initial sound question (ghō or ghī?) compare Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 325; it is of the same kind especially χθών : žémé, and a parallel proposed with k- ικτῖνος : çin. No quite sure indication is in **ghī-*, because in its affiliation somewhat dubious, the fish name ält. Swedish gius, New Swedish gös `Perca Lucioperca', Modern High German dial. giesen `Cyprinus cephalus' and ält. Swedish fiska-giusen `a bird of prey, Falco haliaetus', wherein **gjuse* `fisherman'.

References: WP. I 664, Trautmann 373, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 325, 413; to Indo Germanic ō compare lastly Lejeune Traité de Phonétique grecque S. 31 f.

Root / lemma: ghlād-

Meaning: to sound, call

Material: Old Indic hrādatē 'sounds', hrāda- m. 'Getön, noise', Avestan zrāda- m. 'coat of mail, garment made of linked metal rings' ('rattling, clashing, clinking, chinking'), npers. zirih 'armor, coat of mail, garment made of linked metal rings';

gr. κέχλαδα (Pind.) 'swell, of sound, ring out, murmur, rustle, roar, blossom', καχλάζω 'plash or bubble, of the sound of liquids, of the sea, of rain, of boiling water, frothing forth foam';

Old Irish ad-glādur 'I address, speak to; refer'.

The Aryan words can but just as well with Indo Germanic r to Gothic grētan belong; see below gher-1.

References: WP. I 659 f.

Page(s): 451

---

Root / lemma: ghō

Meaning: behind, towards

Grammatical information: preposition and Partikel

Material: Armenian z preposition and preverb 'referring to, applying to, pertaining to' etc. (Meillet Esquisse<sup>2</sup> 166);

Baltic **a-žō* in Lithuanian dial. ažúo, ažu, až 'behind, for' (compare ažúot 'instead, instead of', East Lithuanian ažuomarša 'oblivion'); Latvian az (compare azuots 'bosom' = East Lithuanian ažuñtis ds., to Latvian **uots* = Lithuanian añtis 'bosom'), newer aiz (unexplained) 'behind, after, because of, instead of', also verbal prefix 'behind, from, to, to-';

Slavic za 'behind; for, after, because of, during, at, in, on', also verbal prefix; also in Old Church Slavic zadъ 'the behind, buttocks part', compare na-dъ;

perhaps instrumental a Pronom.-stem gho- to ghe, gho (above S. 417) with anlaut. gh-; s. also under ūd.

References: WP. I 533 f., Trautmann 336, Endzelin Latvian Gr. 485 f.

Page(s): 451-452

---

Root / lemma: ġhuel-

Meaning: to bend, swerve

Material: Old Indic hvarātē `turns from the straight direction, makes crooked way', hvalati `makes on error, stumbles, wanders', juhurāṇā-ḥ `failing', vīhruta-ḥ `defective, faulty, lewd, sick', hruṇāti `go astray, lose one's way', participle hrutá-, it has changed hṽrtá-; hūrchatī `fails, glides, sways, falls'; hvaras- n. `curvature', hvará- m. `snake', vīhrút- f. `kind of snake or worm';

Maybe alb. zvarranik `reptile', zvarris, zvarrit `drag', zvarritem `draggles, creep along, trapes, crawl'.

Avestan zbaramna- `walking in a crooked way', zbaraṣa- n. `foot of a daēvischer being', zbarah- n. `hill', zūrah- n. `wrong; injustice, deception', npers. zūr `incorrect; lie, falsity';

gr. φαλίπτει μωραίνει Hes., φαλός `stammering, deaf, stupid' Hes. and probably φάλος m. `horn of a helmet', presumably φολκός, epithet of Thersites B. 217, perhaps `bowlegged, bandy-legged'; perhaps also ἀποφώλιος `empty, vain, idle, useless, fruitless, deceitful, deceptive' (ō-grade), φῆλος `deceitful', φηλήτης `cheater', φηλώω (Doric φᾱλώω) cheat, deceive, swindle; betray, be disloyal; gull, fool';

Latin fallō, -ere `trip, cause to fall: glacies, deceive, trick, dupe, cheat, elude, fail, disappoint, be misled, lead into error, be deceived, err, mistake, deceive oneself, to mistake, be deceived, violate, break, betray, deceive, disappoint, put on, avoid, confound, deceive in swearing, swear falsely, be perjured, swear falsely by, faith pledged to, lie concealed, be unseen, escape notice, remain undiscovered, elude, arrive secretly, infuse undetected, escape recognition, lighten, appease, silence, beguile' (**walk in a crooked way; veer, swerve, turn about*); **ġhuelnō*, compare Old Indic hruṇāti);

Lithuanian nuožvelnūs `declive, sloping downwards; precipitous, very steep, having a high degree of inclination, sloping, oblique'; žvalūs `skilful; agile, nimble; graceful; sharp, keen' (**slightly bending*); ablaut. įžvilnas `slantwise, slant, skew' (**ġhul-*), pažvil-ti, -au `bend oneself', žvylúoti `swing, waver'; pražūlnas (**ġhul-*) `slantwise, sloping, slant, skew', pažūlnus ds.; atžūlas, -us `brusk, curt, rude; abrupt, sudden, steep, hard, rude, pitiless';

Latvian zvel'u, zvēl'u, zvēlt `roll, move, knock over, knock down, hit', refl. `move slowly, roll, fall down', zvaļstītiēs `stagger, sway', zvaļns `fluctuating';

Old Church Slavic zъ/bъ 'mad, wicked, evil, bad', Serbo-Croatian zǎo (f. zla), russ. zot (f. zla) ds.;

perhaps **ghu-el* from a ghēu- 'slant, skew' extended; compare **ghu-er-* in Lithuanian žurlė 'a tendril plant' (**ghu-lō-*), gr. θέρμος m. 'lupine, lupin, any of a number of leguminous plants which bear tall clusters of flowers in a variety of colors' (**guher-mō-*).

Note:

Greek gh- > θ- common Greek Dorian Illyrian Celtic.

References: WP. I 643 f., WH. I 448, Trautmann 372 f.

Page(s): 489-490

---

Root / lemma: ghuēlg-

Meaning: to glance

Material: Gr. θέλω 'properly, to stroke or touch with magic power, in bad sense, to cheat, cozen, to produce by spells, beguile, enchant, charm, captivate; bewitch, entrance; cast a spell on' (incredible above S. 247);

Note:

Greek gh- > θ- common Greek Dorian Illyrian Celtic.

Lithuanian žvelgiù, žvēlgti 'look, gaze; watch; stare, gaze fixedly with wide open eyes', Iterat. žvalgaũ, žvalgýti and žvilgis m. 'look', žvilgiu, žvilgėti 'look briefly'.

References: WP. I 644, Trautmann 374, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 302.

Page(s): 490

---

Root / lemma: ghuēn-

Meaning: to sound

Note: extension from ghau-, s. Persson Beitr. 191

Material: Armenian jain (ghuon-î), î-stem 'voice' (with î-epenthese); alb. Tosc zē 'voice', Geg zâ (< **ghuono-s*);

Armenian Հայկի dzayn = Albanian Geg zani 'voice' conservative definitive forms versus indefinite forms (alb. phonetic trait)]

Note:

Alb. shows that Root / lemma: ghuēn- : 'to sound' derived from Root / lemma: ghau-, ghauē- : 'to call'

russ.- Church Slavic zvъnju, zvъněti 'ring, sound, clink', russ. zveněť, Old Czech zvnieti, Czech zníti, altpoln. wznieć ds., ablaut. Old Church Slavic zvonъ 'sound, tone', Slavic zvon 'bell', Bulgarian zvънъ 'sound, clangor', zvънecъ 'bell', Serbo-Croatian zvōno, russ. Czech zvon, poln. dzwon 'clangor, bell'.

Balto-Slavic root extension ǵh̥ueng-:

Lithuanian žvéngiu, žvéngti 'neigh', su-žvīngu, -žvīngti 'burst in neighing', žvangùs 'loud, resounding', žvāngu, žvangėti 'rattle, clash, ring, clang, clink', Latvian zviēgt 'neigh';

Old Church Slavic zvēgo 'announce', russ.- Church Slavic zvjagu 'sing, babble', russ. dial. zvjagù, zvjačъ 'bark, bay'.

Slavic root extension ǵh̥uenk-:

Old Church Slavic zvēkъ m. 'sound', zvēknōti 'sound, clink', zvēcati 'call, shout, cry', Serbo-Croatian zvék 'sound', poln. zwięk, dźwięk 'sound, clangor'; with ablaut Old Church Slavic zvpkъ 'sound', russ. zvuk, Czech zvuk 'sound, tone, sound, clangor';

Slavic root extension ǵh̥uent-:

Bulgarian zvъntja 'sound, clink'.

References: WP. I 642, Trautmann 374.

Page(s): 490-491

---

Root / lemma: ǵh̥uēr-

Meaning: wild beast

Material: Gr. θήρ, -ός, m. late f. (θήρες, θηρῶν = East Lithuanian žvéres, žvérĩ, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 424), Lesbian φήρ, hom. Φήρες, Thessalian φείρ (πεφειράκοντες = τεθηρακότες, Φιλόφειρος) 'animal';

Note:

Common Greek Illyrian Celtic ǵh- > d-, θ-.

Latin ferus, -a, -um 'wild, untamed, rude, uncultivated; savage, barbarous, fierce, cruel' (**ǵhuero-s*);

Maybe alb. ferrë 'thorny bush, prick, blackberry, blackthorn' Latin loanword.

with structure in i declination (after Akk. Sg. Pl. -b, -i = m̃, -ns) Lithuanian žvėris m. f., Latvian zvērs m.; Old Prussian Akk. Pl. swīrins;

Old Church Slavic zvěrb 'wild animal', sloven, zvēr, Old Czech zvěř m. f., russ. zvěrb; substantive adjective Lithuanian žvėrienà f., russ. zvěrina 'venison, deer meat', to Latin carō ferīna ds.

References: WP. I 642 f., WH. I 487 f., Trautmann 374 f.

Page(s): 493

---

Root / lemma: ǵh̥uoiǵʷ-

Meaning: to shine; star

Material: Gr. φοῖβος 'pure, clean gleaming', ἀφικτός, ἀφικτρός (**ǵh̥uoiǵʷ-*) 'impure, unclean';

Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

From Root / lemma: ǵh̥uoiǵʷ-: 'to shine; star' derived Root / lemma: bh̥eigʷ-: 'to shine' (sse above) common ǵh̥u- > Greek ph- > Old Indic bh-.

Balto Slavic **žuaigzdā* f. 'shine, star' (Indo Germanic **ǵh̥uoiǵʷ(e)s-dā*) in:

Old Prussian Akk. Sg. swāigstan 'shine', poswāigstinaī 'illuminate' (?) ; Lithuanian žvaigzdė, žvaigždė, dial. žvaizdė, Latvian zvaigzne f. 'star'; in addition further Lithuanian žvygulys 'radiance', žvāinas 'silberfleckig', Latvian zvaigstīties 'gleam', zvaidrīt 'shimmer'; Slavic **gvězda* (from **g̃uaigzdā*, through dissimilation from **žuaigzdā*) in Old Church Slavic dzvězda, Serbo-Croatian zvigèzda, poln. gwiazda, russ. zvězdá f. 'star'.

References: Trautmann 373 f., Pedersen La cinquender décl. Latin 74, Mikkola Urslav. Gr. 166 f. Probably inaccurate about gr. φοῖβος etc. above 118.

Page(s): 495

---

Root / lemma: ǵh̥uōkʷ-, ǵh̥uəkʷ-

Meaning: to shine, shimmer

Material: Gr. διαφάσσειν διαφαίνειν Hes., φῶψ φάος Hes.; παραι-φάσσει τινάσ-σει . . . Hes., reduplicated παιφάσσω 'dart, rush about, quiver, wave violently';

Latin fax (old facēs), facis f. 'torch; agitator, inciter, troublemaker, fomenter', Demin. facula 'torch', facētus 'elegant, witty', facētia and -ae 'a jest, witticism; drollery, piece of humor, a witty or clever thing in action or behavior, Wit, witty sayings';

Lithuanian žvāké 'candle'.

References: WP. I 645, WH. I 438 f., 471, 864, Trautmann 374.

Page(s): 495

---

Root / lemma: ḡlei-

Meaning: to run up to

Note: Only indoiranisch.

Material: Old Indic jráyati 'onrushes, attacks, starts, activates', jráyas- n. 'impetuousness, hastiness, run, flow, river flow', pr̥thu-jráya- 'distant running';

Avestan zrayah-, Old pers. drayah- 'sea', Middle Persian zray, npers. (with metathesis) daryā, pərəu-zrayah 'wide water surface stretching above'.

References: WP. I 660, WH. I 608.

Page(s): 401

---

Root / lemma: ḡuer-, ḡuerə-

Meaning: to burn and be hot

Note:

Root / lemma: ḡuer-, ḡuerə- : to burn and be hot' derived from Root / lemma: ḡher-3 and ḡherə-, ḡhrē- : to shine, shimmer'.

Material: Old Indic jváratī 'has a temperature, is feverish', jvara-h 'fever, pain, distress', jūrvati 'singes, burns', jūrṇí-h 'blaze, glow' (< **jvūr-*, **ḡūr-*); besides jvalati 'flames up, glows, shines', jvalita-h 'flaming, burning, luminous', jvalaná-h 'burning, ignitable', m. 'fire', n. 'the burning, blazing', jvala-h m. 'light, flame, torch', jvālā f. ds.;

mnf. coorts m., Middle Low German korts 'fever'??;

Lithuanian žiūriù, žiūrėti 'see', žiūrà 'view, look', žiūras 'eagle owl'; full grade Latvian zvērs 'scintillant, flickering, sparkling', zvēruot 'glow, flash'.

References: WP. I 643, Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I p. 228.

Page(s): 479

---

Root / lemma: ḡ(ə)lōy-

Meaning: sister-in-law

Material: Gr. *γάλωFος in hom. Dat. Sg. and Nom. Pl. γάλω, Gen. Pl. γάλων, Attic γάλως, Gen. γάλω `a husband's sister or brother's wife, a sister-in-law ';

Latin glōs, glōris `a husband's sister, wife, woman of brothers' (*ǵ/ǵl̥s); spätChurch Slavic zъlva, Old Czech zelva, serb. zǎova, russ. zotónka `a husband's sister '; perhaps also Armenian tal `a husband's sister ' (for **cal* after taigr `husband's brother ').

That Phrygian γέλαρος ἀδελφοῦ γυνή Hes., also γάλλαρος, belongs here, is most doubtful; whether recommended for *γελαFος?

After Jokl EbertsRL. X 142<sup>b</sup> were the non-palatal guttural through influence of ʃ limited, whereupon also poln. żetw, żotwica (**ǵeluyā*) besides zetw, zotwica (**ǵeluyā*) `husband's sister ' should indicate; compare though that under ǵhet it is explained by Balto-Slavic gel `yellow'.

A gr. conservative stem *γάλω[λ]-ς has contravened (only the case oblique) in the σ-Dekl. experienced; in Slavic lies an older ǵ-stem zъly, Gen. zъlve, before which could be compared with Latin glōs.

References: WP. I 631, WH. I 610, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 480.

Page(s): 367-368

---

Root / lemma: ǵʷādh-

Meaning: to sink, submerge

Material: Old Indic gāhatē `dives, permeates, soaks', participle gāḍha-h `deep, dense, tight ', gāhā-h `depth, the interior '; with ā: gāhana-, gāhvara- `deep, dense', n. `depth, abyss, thicket ', dur-gāha-m `wicked place or way';

the participle gāḍhā- is probably analogical form after roots with Old Indic h = Indo Germanic ǵh; gādhā- `shallow, having little depth ', m. n. `shallow, ford' is perhaps from an Old Indic root noun gā (to Indo Germanic ǵʷā- `gait ') + dha as `granting passage ' to define;

Avestan Akk. Pl. vi-gāθō `canyon, gorge, gulch, ravine, abyss, steep narrow valley carved by running water ' (: Old Indic vi-gāhā-) `dipping oneself ', zero grade guḍa- `depth';

gr. βῆσσα, Doric βᾶσσα (*βᾶθια) f. ` wooded combe, glen, mostly in the mountain glens, gorge, ravine, gulch ' ; βάσσοις n. ds. (*βαθσος), zero grade βυθός, βυσσός ` the depth, esp. of the sea ' with β instead of γ after βῆσσα; ἄβυσσος ` with no bottom, bottomless, unfathomed ', βάθος n. `depth'; βένθος `depth' secondary after πένθος : πάθος; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old Irish bā(̃)dim ` go under, dive, submerge; sink, drown', cymr. boddi ` drown, flood ', corn. bedhy, Middle Breton beuziff ` drown ' ; cymr. diffoddi ` extinguish, annihilate, erase ' from **dī-spād-* (**dī-eks-bad-*).

Note:

From Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ā<sup>dh</sup>- : to sink, submerge, derived Root / lemma: b<sup>h</sup>āu-1 : b<sup>h</sup>ū- : to hit.

References: WP. I 665, Schwyzer Rhein. Mus. 81, 193 ff.

Page(s): 465

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ā-, g<sup>w</sup>em-

Meaning: to go, come

Note:

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ā-, g<sup>w</sup>em- : `to go, come' from zero grade of Root / lemma: aġ- (**heġ-*): `to lead, *drive cattle'.

Material: Old Indic jí-gā-ti `goes' (= gr. *βίβησι, compare lak. 3. Sg. βιβαντι, hom. participle βιβᾶς ` walking along with big steps ', in addition also hom. βιβάσθων), Aor. á-gā-m ` I got to, arrived at, reached, got there , left ' (Avestan Injunkt. gāt ` he will get to, arrive at ') = Armenian kam ` stand ', gr. ἔβην, Doric ἔβᾶν ` I undid; (a jacket, package, door, etc.) opened, went ' ; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old Indic gātram `limb, member, body'; gātú-ḥ ` gait, way, room, place', Avestan gātu-š `place, couch, long upholstered seat, folding bed; small spare bed; camp bed, seat, throne', Old pers. gāθu ds.; Old Indic ví-gāman- n. ` footstep ' (prthú-pra-gāman- ` walking further ' ; compare gāmin- `going', further formations an o-stem gāma-ḥ), Avestan gā-man- n. ` footstep ', Old Indic gāya-m ` footstep ' in uru-gāyá- ` walking further, walking far ' (of way), Avestan gāya- (Akk. gāim) ` footstep ' (with formants -ya-);

Armenian kam ` stand ' ( : gr. ἔβην);

gr. *βίβησι, βιβᾶς, ἔβην see above; βηταρμός ` dance ', βητάρμων ` dancer ' (from *βᾶτος or *βᾶτᾱ ` das Fußaufsetzen ' + ἄρμα ` structure, composition '); ἀμφισβητέω, Ionian ἀμφισβᾶτέω ` dispute, argue, fight ' ( ` nach zwei Seiten auseinandergehend '), βῆμα

n. `footstep' changing through ablaut βωμός m. `step, tread; kick, strike or blow delivered by the foot; footprint, track, grade, rack, altar'; infinitive βήμεναι; βηλός m. `doorsill'; βέβηλος, Doric βέβᾱλος, kyren. βάβᾱλος `enterable, unhallowed, not consecrated, not sanctified' (contrast from ἄβατος `immortal, holy'); zero grade βέβαιος `certainly' (*good feasible); βάδην Adv. `in footstep'; βάδος m. `way', βαθμός m. `grade, threshold, footstep', βάθρον `foundation', ἐμβάτης `man's shoe'; Note: common Illyrian  $g^w-$  > b-

alb. ngā `I run, drive' (\**ga-ŋiō*); Actually (\**ga-sŋiō*) nasalized form prevented common alb.  $\hat{g}-$  > d-

Maybe alb. ngathë `slow, lazy (walk)' [common alb. - Old Irish -s > -th]

Maybe zero grade in alb. garë `race' < Rumanian goană `race, battue'.

Lithuanian dial. gōti `go'; Latvian gāju (preterit to iēt) `I walked' (places a present **gāiō* ahead, whose j would be present formant), therefrom further gājums `gait, row'; gāita `gait' (with analogical ai, Endzelin Latvian Gr. S. 678); gātis Pl. `Fluglöcher der Bienen'; Lithuanian prōga `occasion, opportunity, term, deadline' (*end of the road) (prefix **prō* + gā); Lithuanian gātvė `road, livestock pasture', Latvian gatva `way, passage' are Germanic loanword

Perhaps here also Celtic words for `die' (as `leave, depart', ἐκ βροτῶν βῆναι), as Old Irish baīd `dead' (**bā-a-ti* from **g<sup>w</sup>ā-*), at-bath `died' (**g<sup>w</sup>ā-t* . .), bath `death' = cymr. bad `pest, pestilence', bret. bad `anesthetization', corn. bad-us `phrenetical'; Old Irish bās `death' is shaped after gnās `consuetude' etc.. Contrariness of Thurneysen Gr. pp. 547, 728 is a stem bās- not proved; s. more properly Pedersen Litteris 2. 89 f. Note: common Illyrian  $g^w-$  > b-

2. g<sup>w</sup>em-:

Unthematic *(e)-g<sup>w</sup>em-t (> **e-g<sup>w</sup>en-t*), -g<sup>w</sup>m̐-té, -g<sup>w</sup>m-ent in Old Indic Aor. ágan, gan (g for j after forms with original **g<sup>w</sup>m̐-*, **g<sup>w</sup>m-*; 1. Sg. ágamam), ágata (**g<sup>w</sup>m̐-*), ágman, ágmata; Gatha-Avestan 3. Sg. Inj. uz-jēn, 3. Pl. g<sup>m</sup>mən;

Armenian 3. Sg. ekn `he comes' (= Old Indic ágan); about still unclear 1. Sg. eki, 3. Pl. ekin see Meillet Esquisse 134 f.;

gr. βάτην 3. Du., ὑπέρβᾶσαν 3. Pl. probably to root form **g<sup>w</sup>ā-*; Note: common Illyrian  $g^w-$  > b- thematic: zero grade Old Indic gámati, Avestan jamaiti 'goes' (Old Indic gamáyati 'allows to come, brings about, causes, makes happen', Avestan jāmayeiti 'brings to the side, flank'), zero grade Old Indic (Opt. Aor.) gamēt, gaméma, gamemahi, probably also Aor. ágamat, Perf. ja-gāma 'I walked' (compare Gothic 1. Pl. qemum); Avestan frā-yamāt (Gatha-Avestan -g<sup>o</sup>ma<sup>t</sup>) 'he comes over, joins; ensues, follows as a consequence of, happens as a result of', Old pers. a-gmatā;

Konj. **g<sup>w</sup>emeti* in Old Indic gám-at, -anti, Gatha-Avestan jama'ti, jima'ti, Opt. g<sup>w</sup>m̥-jēt in Old Indic gamyāt, Avestan jamyāt, ap. jamjā<sup>h</sup> (j for g from forms with lengthened grade Indo Germanic **g<sup>w</sup>em-*); Old English cyme see below;

Oscan kúmbened 'it agrees, came together', cebnust (from **ce-benust*) '(huc) vēnerit', Umbrian benust, benurent 'venerit, -int'; Latin Konj. advenam (about n for m see below; perhaps with analogical -en- after the forms as Latin veniō, ventum, vēnī);

Gothic qiman (preterit qam, 1. Pl. qemum: Old Indic 1. Sg. Perf. ja-gāma), Old High German queman and (zero grade?) coman = Old English cuman, Old Norse kōma 'come'; Old English Konj. Präter. (older Optat.) cyme (**g<sup>w</sup>em-ī*); Tocharian A kām-, kum-, B kām-, kam-, śem 'come'.

jo-present **g<sup>w</sup>m̥-iō* in gr. βαίω 'go' (Fut. βήσομαι etc.), Latin veniō 'come' with very old alteration from -m̥- to -n̥-; after Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 309 could n also be related to forms as Avestan jantu (**g<sup>w</sup>em-tu-*), Armenian ekn (**e-g<sup>w</sup>em-<sup>t</sup>*); to vēnimus stimmt Gothic qemum;

sko-present **g<sup>w</sup>m̥-skō*: Old Indic gácchatī, Avestan jasaiti 'he goes', gr. βάσκε 'go! come!' Tocharian A kumnäsch 'he comes', Med. kumnästär, B känmasträ.

Verbaladjektiv: Old Indic gatá-h 'gone, departed, left; dead; lost', Avestan gata- ds., gr. βατός 'feasible, able to be carried out' (**g<sup>w</sup>m̥-to-s*), Latin in-ventus.

other nominal formation:

Old Indic gáti-h f. 'gait', Avestan aiwi-gati- 'coming along = entry, beginning', gr. βάσις f. 'footstep; base' (**g<sup>w</sup>m̥-ti-s*), Latin con-venti-ō 'gathering, assembly, meeting, convention', Gothic gaqumþs 'gathering, assembly, meeting, convention' (\-g<sup>w</sup>m̥-tis*), Old Norse samkund f. ds., Old High German cumft, Modern High German Ankunft 'arrival, appearance, approach, incoming'; Old Indic gántu-h m. 'gait, way', Latin adventus, -ūs 'arrival, appearance, approach, incoming'; Gothic qums 'arrival, appearance, approach, incoming' (**g<sup>w</sup>em-is*), Old English cyme, Old High German cumi, Old Indic gamyā- 'where one can go or should go ', Oscan kúmbennieís Gen. 'meeting, rendezvous, coming, together, circuit, congress, assembly, union, session '; Old High German biquāmi 'bequem ' (compare 'digestible '), Old English gecwēme 'pleasant, fitting', Old Norse kvæmr 'capable or allowed to come '; kvāma f. 'coming, visit, dropping by; inspection ', kōma ds.;

Tocharian A kum-, AB kam-, A kām-, B śem- 'come', A kumnəṣ, Med. kumnəṣtar 'comes ', A kakmu, B kekamu 'arrived; resulted '.

With a meaning- development 'come (to the world) ' = 'be born ':

Avestan ni-jāmayeinti 'be born ' (**ni-jāma-* 'birth');

gr. ἐ-βάθη ἐγεννέθη Hes.;

alb. pre-gjim 'feast in the first birth '; (common pronunciation alb. gj- = Slavic dz-)

Lithuanian gemù, gimti 'be born ' = Latvian dzemu, dzimt ds., Lithuanian gimstu (for pronunciation see Schulze KZ. 45, 230) = Latvian dzimstu ds., Lithuanian giminė 'family ', gỹmis 'birth', gāmas 'the innate ', causative gaminti 'generate children, breed cattle ', Latvian dzimts 'congenital, existing from birth, innate, inherited ', dzimša 'birth' = Old Prussian gimsenin Akk. Sg. 'birth', Old Prussian gemton 'to give birth to children ', gemmons participle Perf. 'born '.

References: WP. I 675 ff., Meillet Esquisse<sup>2</sup> 134 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 309, 689, 742<sup>3</sup>, 707<sup>2</sup>, Trautmann 76, Pedersen Tocharian 170 ff., 221, 234.

Page(s): 463-465

---

Root / lemma: gʷədʰ-

Meaning: to push, hit, harm

Material: Old Indic gandh- 'bump, poke, prick, injure, destroy' (by grammarians), gandhá-ḥ m. 'smell, odor, fragrance ', Avestan gantay- 'fetidness ', Middle Persian gand 'fetidness ', Old pers. gasta- 'disgusting, unsavory, distasteful', afgh. ḡandal 'disgust, repulsion, feel loathing ', Baluchi gandag 'evil, bad'. (to meaning development 'bump, poke, prick' > 'smell, odor' compare e.g. Old High German stinkan 'smell, stink' against Gothic stigqan 'clash, bang together, collide, crash ' and gr. κνίση 'steam and odour of fat which exhales from roasting meat, smell or savour of a burnt sacrifice ' compared with Old Icelandic hnīta 'bump, poke, prick'.)

Gr. δέννος `vituperation, shame' (**g<sup>w</sup>end<sup>h</sup>no-*); after Kuiper Nasalpräz. 65 here φθόνος m. `envy' (present *φθένω from **g<sup>w</sup>d<sup>h</sup>-en-*);

Note:

common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > d-; g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

about Middle High German quetsen, quetschen `hit, bump, poke, squeeze' s. Kluge s. v. quetschen, Lithuanian gendū, gėsti `be damaged, spoil, be destroyed, perish; wither, wilt, die', gadinū, gadinti `spoil, damage, disturb, bother', pagadas `ruin', Latvian ģinstu, ģint `be destroyed, perish; wither, wilt, die'.

Maybe alb. godas `hit' a Slavic loanword.

References: WP. I 672 f., Benveniste BSL. 38, 143.

Page(s): 466-467

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>eid(h)-

Meaning: mud

Material: Gr. δῆισα `filth, slime, mud' (**g<sup>w</sup>eid<sup>h</sup>-ja* or -sa, or **g<sup>w</sup>eid-s-a*); perhaps Old Norse kveisa f. `swelling, blister, lump, growth', Middle Low German quēse `blood blister, blood pustule', besides Norwegian kvisa, Swedish kvissla ds.;

Old Church Slavonic židъкъ `succous, succulent, sappy, sapful, juicy, rich, opulent', russ. etc. židkij `fluid, liquid, runny; soft, pliable'.

References: WP. I 671.

Page(s): 469

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ei-1

Meaning: to cry, weep

Note: Beyond the Germanic only unsafe comparisons; probably onomatopoeic.

Material: Gothic qainōn `weep, cry, grieve', Old Norse kveina `lament', Old English cwānian `wail, be sad', Old Norse kveinka `wail, lament' and with other derivative Old Icelandic stem Verb. kvīða `be frightened', kvīða f. `trembling, quaking, shaking, terror, anxiety, fear, dread, alarm', kvīði m. ds.; Old English cwīðan, schw. Verb. `wail, bemoan', Old Saxon quīðian `lament'; here recalled formally Lithuanian giedu and giestu, giedóti `sing, crow ', etc., to the only registered root in Satem languages **gēi-* `sing' (see there); it is not listed because of meaning in question.

References: WP. I 665 f.

Page(s): 467

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ei-2

Meaning: to put together, enclose

Material: Umbrian bio, Paelignian Akk. biam `enclosed district, region, area '; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old Norse kvē f. `pen, fold, narrow enclosed passage ', kvīa `coop, place in a pen or coop, pen '.

References: WP. I 666.

Page(s): 467

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>eiə-

Meaning: to prevail, be mighty

Material: Old Indic jyā, jyā f. `suzerainty, sovereignty, political control ' (= gr. βῖα) = alb. f. (**g<sup>w</sup>eiə*) zija `mourning, grieving, lamentation; act of feeling sorrow for someone's death; period of mourning; clothes worn by mourners; signs of mourning '.

Old Indic jyāna-m, jyāni-ḥ `oppression, depression, exploitation, suppression ', jyāyān `mightier, more prepotent ', jyēṣṭha-, jyeṣṭhā- `most incredible, strongest '; jáyati (Perf. jigāya) `overmatched, overpowered, defeated ' (Avestan Inf. jayāi, full grade I the root, `to defeat, conquer'), jayiṣnu- `victorious ', jētár- `defeating '; jīnāti (Fut. jyāsyati, Pass, jīyáte, participle jītá-) `beaten, overpowered, oppressed'; jígīṣati `will defeat, conquer ' ( : Avestan jijišaiti `tries to attain for himself, cause to be found '), jigyú- `victorious ';

Old Indic jīnāti stands also for `bring about sth ', jyāni-ḥ also `decrease, loss' and is so both the extender of the palatal anlaut. root from Avestan zināt `damages ', Old pers. adināt `bring about, take away, take off, remove ', participle Perf. Pass. dīta-, Avestan zyānā, zyāni- f. `damage, harm ', Inf. zyānāi `to harm', Baluchi zinay `seize, take forcibly; grasp, snatch, take abruptly, seize hastily, take away by force ' (external Aryan correspondences not known);

Maybe alb. Geg me zanë `to gripe, capture ', Geg me u zanë, Tosc zihem `quarrel '.

gr. βιά ` force, might, power ' Note: common Illyrian *g<sup>w</sup>- > b- (= Old Indic jīyā), βιάω, βιάζω ` force, coerce ', βίαιος ` violent, brutal ', Αvτιδιος probably = Αvτιβιος; βῖνεῖν ` futuere ', ζάει βινεῖ Hes. ` rape ' (whereas βῖνεῖν would have derived from a participle *βῖ-vó-ς = Old Indic jī-na-, Gramm.); after Lidén IF. 19, 328 with npers. gāyad ` futuit ', Inf. gādan, gān, from a root **g<sup>w</sup>āi-* or (?) **g<sup>w</sup>ōi-*, which would be compatible only with the latter beginning with g<sup>w</sup>ei- as lengthened grade of the o-gradation at most theoretically; with g<sup>w</sup>eiə- ` suppress, crush; repress ' appear also the following words for ` exhaust, weaken, make feeble ', Intr. Pass. ` go altogether, grow old, dwindle ' originally belonged together:

Maybe alb. (**zyānā*) dhunē ` force, violence, forcing, viciousness, rape ' : Old pers. adināt `bring about, take away, take off, remove ', participle Perf. Pass. dīta-.

Old Indic jīnāti also ` grows old ', jyāni-h ` senility ', ājyāni-h ` immortality ', jīna- ` aged, old', ā-jīta- ` unbroken, unmarred, unscathed, undamaged ', ā-jīti-h ` intactness, completeness, entireness, wholeness ', jīvri- ` old, fragile, easily broken; unstable, dilapidated, helpless ', Avestan jyā-, present jīnāiti ` exhausts, weakens ', ajyamna- ` not decreasing, inexhaustible ', wherefore Middle High German verquīnen, preterit quein ` dwindle away, decrease ', Old English cwīnan, ā-cwīnan, preterit cwān ` dwindle away, decrease, abate, pain, feel ill ', extended Old English cwincan, ācwincan ` disappear, abate ' (Kaus. with ablaut neologism ācwencan, engl. quench ` extinguish, put out '), and with m-forms wfäl. kwīmen ` pain, feel ill ', kwīmelig ` softened, made soft; overindulged '.

From Germanic seem in both meaning of colouring addable:

Old Norse kveita ` dazzle, blind with bright light ' (d-present); s-extensions Middle Low German quisten ` let perish, waste ', quist ` damage, loss', mnl. quisten ` rub, rub away, wear away, bruise, grind, bray triturate, rub against, wear ', Gothic qistjan ` spoil', Old High German quist f. ` annihilation ', archwistan, firquistan ` spoil, destroy', Old English cwīesan ` crush, squeeze hard, squash ', jüt. kwīs ` press, extract, squeeze ', nisl. kveisa ` stomach ache '; Norwegian kveisa ` verkümmertes Geschöpf ', kvisla ` dwindle away, decrease '; g-extension (fragmented reduplication?) Frisian kwīke, kwikken ` pinch, tweak, nip ', in the reduced meaning in Prussian queicheln ` fondle '.

References: WP. I 666 ff., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 300, 694.

Page(s): 469-470

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ei-3 and g<sup>w</sup>eiə- : g<sup>w</sup>(i)jē- : g<sup>w</sup>(i)jō- : g<sup>w</sup>f-, frequent, often with -u- extended

Meaning: to live

Material: A. from **g<sup>w</sup>ejō-*

Old Indic jīvātu-h 'life' (see below), gáya-h 'house, courtyard, Hauswesen' (see below);

Avestan jīyaēsa 'you should live' (2. Sg. present Med., or themat. 2. Sg. Opt. for **jigāyaēša*); jīišanti (originally subjunctive) 'be refreshed, nourished', jaya- m. 'incitation'; gayō m. 'life, lifetime, lifestyle' (= Old Indic gáya-h 'house and courtyard, Hauswesen' = russ. goj 'peace; salvation!'); Avestan gaēθā, Old pers. gaiθā 'entity, house and courtyard';

Armenian keam 'live' (**g<sup>w</sup>iyā-ye-m*); Meillet Esquisse 110, 176.

gr. hom. βέομαι 'I will live' (**βεῖσομαι*; Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 780, 788<sup>1</sup>); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > *b-

Lithuanian gajūs 'slightly healing'; Lithuanian gyjù, gyti (**gīt-*) 'revive, recover, become healthy' (in addition j-gyti- 'attain', actually 'live there'), Latvian dzīt 'heal; become healthy', gydau 'heal', Latvian dziēdēt 'heal, cure' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 559), Old Church Slavic žiti 'live' (present živŭ see below); in addition Old Church Slavic žitb 'life' (**g<sup>w</sup>ītis*), pa-žitb 'pasturage, food, fodder, provender, esp. for cattle, grass, generally, any feeding-ground, any moist, grassy place, meadow';

Slavic **gojь* 'life' (**g<sup>w</sup>ojō-s*) in Old Russian goj 'peace', old Serbo-Croatian gôj ds., Old Czech hoj 'fullness, wealth' (: Old Indic gáya-h), causative Slavic **gojiti* 'make live', Serbo-Croatian gòjiti 'care, fatten, overfeed', etc.;

Tocharian B śai- 'live', Van Windekens Lexique 127.

**g<sup>w</sup>ijō-* in:

Avestan -jyāiti- f. (in compounds) 'life', jyātuš Gen., jyātum Akk. 'life' (in Old Indic if this became **jyā-tu-h* after jīvati to jīvātu-h);

ep. Ionian ζῶω, gort. δῶω 'live' (from **ζω-ιω*, Indo Germanic **g<sup>w</sup>ijō-iō*), Aor. ἐβίωον (**g<sup>w</sup>ijō-m* with vokal. i, which was presumably supported by βίωω), Attic ζῶ, ζῆς, ζῆ (*ζηει, Indo Germanic **g<sup>w</sup>iē-), ζῶός 'living', ζῶη 'life', ζῶον 'animal'; gr. ὑγίης 'fit, healthy' (*su-g<sup>w</sup>ijēs* 'living well');

*gʷf- (except in baltosl. **gīlti-*, see above) in Avestan yavaē-jī- 'perpetually living', Avestan jīti- f. 'life', Old Indic jīrá- 'agile, lively, rash, hasty', Avestan jīra- 'brisk of mind, smart'; Old Prussian geits 'bread', Old Church Slavic žito 'corn, grain'.

Maybe alb. Geg gja 'thing, property' : Old pers. gaiṣā 'entity, house and courtyard' ;

With Indo Germanic g-suffix (gʷīg-): Old High German quēh and quēk, Gen. quēckes 'living', Modern High German keck, Swiss check 'strong, tight, firm' (kk from a form with kw as Middle High German quicken 'refresh'), Old English cwicu, cucu 'living', Old Norse kvikr, kykr (Akk. kykkvan) 'living', also Modern High German Quecke, Old English cwice 'orchard grass, cocksfoot grass, cock's foot' (from the extraordinary vitality and germ strength of the plant);

Latvian dzīga 'life' (as dzīve ds.), dzīguôt 'live' (as dzīvuôt ds.).

Latin vigēre 'be lively' separate from vegēre 'move, excite, quicken, arouse, be lively, active' to, seems unjustified. Wood KZ. 45, 68 puts in a line an nord. kvikr etc. also plenty Germanic words for lively movement of all kind, thus except Old Norse kveikja 'animate, kindle, inflame', with other further formation Old English cwiferlice Adv. 'keen, eager', engl. quiver 'agile, lively, nimble', Frisian kwistern 'wave, wag (tail, etc.), sashay', kwispeln 'sich rasch und unruhig hin und her bewegen', Swedish dial. kvīd 'throw', jüt. kwīðær 'alert, awake, smart'.

B. from *gʷiōu-, *gʷi-u-:

with ī. Old Indic jīvá- 'living, m. life', Old pers. jīva-, Avestan jva- (i.e. jīva-) 'living' = Latin vīvus ds., Oscan bivus Pl. 'vivi', cymr. biw, corn. biw 'horned cattle' ('*living cattle'), Lithuanian gývas, Latvian dzīvs, Old Church Slavic živъ 'living' ; with ī: gr. βίος 'life' (**gʷi-u-os*), Gothic qius 'living' (gaqiunan 'ἀναζήν'), air, biu, beo, cymr. byw, bret. beo, corn. byw, bew 'living' (therefrom Celtic **bivo-tūt-s* in Old Irish bethu, Gen. bethad = cymr. bywyd 'life');

*gʷf- in Celtic **bitu-*, Old Irish bith (Gen. betho), cymr. byd, bret. bed 'world';

Maybe alb. (**gʷ(i)ō-tē*) botë 'world' : βίωτος; 'life, means of living, substance, the world, mankind, etc.' common Celtic - Illyrian gr. gʷ- . b-.

gall. Bitu-rīges, i.e. 'Leute des Weltkönigs' (compare the similar meaning from Avestan gaēṣā); besides zero grades Indo Germanic **gʷeito-* in cymr. bywd 'eat', acorn. buit 'dish', food', abret. boitolion`esciferis`, nbret. boed`nourishment, food`; the disyllabic Old Irish biad, Gen. biid`nourishment, dish, food` (previous **biveto-m*).

with k-suffix: Latin vīvāx`tenacious of life, long-lived, vivacious, lively, vigorous`, similar formation with Lithuanian gyvókas`living`, distant Old Indic jīvaka- ds.;

with t-suffix: 1. with ī: Old Indic jīvita-m`life, living being etc.`, Lithuanian gyvatà`life, livelihood, farm` = Latin vīta`life` (**gʷī̯otā*) and Old Church Slavic životъ m. `life', Old Indic jīvatha-ḥ; common Latin gʷ- > gv- > v-.

Maybe alb. jeta : Bolognese vétta : Bresciano eta : Latin vīta`life`.

Note:

Root / lemma: aiu-, aju- : `vital energy, vitality' derived from reduced Root / lemma: gʷej-3 and gʷejə- : gʷ(i)jē- : gʷ(i)jō- : gʷt-, frequent, often with -u- extended: to live

English	life
Italian	vita
Spanish	vida
French	vie
Aragones	bida
Basque	bizi
Breton	buhez
Bolognese	vétta
Bresciano	eta
Albanian	jetë
Calabrese	vita
Catanese	vita
Corsican	vita
Furlan	vite

Galician	vida
Irish	beatha
Scots Gaelic	beatha
Welsh	bywyd
Manx	bea
Papiamentu	bida
Latin	vita
Leccese	vita
Leonese	vida
Lucchese	vita
Mudnés	vètta
Napulitano	vita
Paduan	vita
Portuguese	vida
Romanian	viață
Sardinian Logudoresu	vida
Sicilian	vita
Triestino	vita
Umbro-Sabino	vita
Wallon	vèye

2. with ῥ: βιοτή, masc. βίος; `life, means of living, substance, the world, mankind, etc.';

Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

with oi: Lithuanian gaivùs `alert, awake, smart, living ';

verbal derivative: Old Indic jīvati, Avestan jvaiti (i.e. jīvaiti) `lives', ap. jīvā `live!' = Latin vivō, Old Church Slavic živŭ `live ' (Inf. žiti see above), extended Lithuanian gyvenù `live '; Old Indic jinvati, prá-jinōṣi `be alive, get excited; stimulate, animate, refresh '.

References: WP. I 668 ff., Meillet Introduction<sup>7</sup> 165, Specht KZ. 62, 111, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 298, 300, 330, 501<sup>4</sup>, 675<sup>6</sup>, Trautmann 75 f.

Page(s): 467-469

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: womb; young of animal

Material: Old Indic gárbha-h, Avestan garəwa- `womb, foetus', garəbuš n. `the young of an animal '; Old Indic sá-garbhya-h `son of the same mother, brother and sister ' (= gr. ἀδελφεός ds.);

gr. δελφύς, -ύος f., Doric δελφύᾱ `womb, uterus' (see below); *δέλφος n. ds. as base from ἀδελφεός (Hom.) `couterinus, brother ' (*ἄ-δελφε[σ]-ός), next to which Attic ἀδελφός ds.; δέλφαξ m. f. `piglet', δελφίς, -ῖνος m. `dolphin', δολφός ἡ μήτρα Hes.; Specht (Indo Germanic Dekl. 268) reconstructs from gr. ἀδελφι-ήρ ἀδελφός. Λάκωνες (Hes.) an originally root **g<sup>w</sup>el-*;

the -us-stem reappears in Old High German kilbur n., chilburra f. `mother lamb', Old English cilforlamb ds. (besides of es-stem Old High German kilbira ds. and - with gradation o after o-stem as δολφός, gárbha-h - Modern High German Kalb, see above S. 359 under **geł*, **geleb<sup>h</sup>-* `clench '), which point to purely velar anlaut (as gall.-Latin galba and Gothic kil-bei `womb' etc.).

Different and mutually influencing but similar in sound families lie before: **g<sup>w</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-*, **g<sup>w</sup>ereb<sup>h</sup>-*, and from geł extended b<sup>h</sup>-forms whose stem formation and specific meaning, however, in Germanic are presumably assumed by absorption from g<sup>w</sup>eb<sup>h</sup>-forms.

References: WP. I 692 f., WH. I 578, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 295.

Page(s): 473

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>el-1

Meaning: to stick; pain, death

Material: 1. Gr. δέλλιθες `wasp, hornet', Hes.; [g<sup>w</sup>- d- Illyrian Albanian].

gr. βελόνη f. 'cusp, peak, needle', ὄξυβελής οἰστός Hom.; but βέλος n. 'projectile' probably rather to βάλλω, s. about the secondary amalgamation with the latter family under 2. g<sup>w</sup>el- 'trickle down, drip; throw'; ὀβελός, ὀβολός, Arcadian Doric ὀδελός 'spit, cusp, peak, pointed square pillar, obelisk, coin' s. Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 295;

Balto Slavic **geljēti* 'it stings, hurts' in:

Lithuanian gėlti 'prick', unpers. 'ache', gilti 'begin to ache', geluõ, geluonis 'sting, prick', Giltinė 'death goddess, death', gėlas m. 'end, death, bottom, stretch, part, slice, lump' and gėlà 'pain' (= Modern High German Qual), Latvian gals 'cusp, peak, end, region', dzēlt 'prick'; Old Prussian Akk. gallan, Vok. golis m. 'death', gallintwei 'slay', ablaut. gulsennin Akk. 'pain';

russ.-Church Slavic želějǫ, želěti 'mourn', Old Czech želeti 'bemoan', Old Church Slavic želja f. 'affliction', ablaut. Old Church Slavic žalb f. 'pain', Old Russian žalb ds., russ. žalb f. 'pity', dial. 'grave, graveyard', etc.;

the pure physical meaning 'pricking, pointed' presumably also in Armenian ciut 'twig, branch, finger' (from e before t), in alb. glisht 'finger' (Pedersen KZ. 39, 393, Jokl IF. 36, 125, whereupon at first from **glen-st-*; Brugmann IF. 11, 286 Anm. had compared βλῖμάζω 'touch, feel, grope'), alb. gr. glimp (gjěmp, gjěmbi) 'thorn' (**gle-mo-*, Jokl aaO. 141);

but Middle English quille, engl. quill 'long feather; weaver's reel, pen made from a feather; hollow spine found on some animals (i.e. porcupines)', Middle High German kil, Modern High German Federkiel (why w dwindled?), westfäl. kwiəle 'quill' have derived because of mrhein. Keil 'keel, wedge' (Middle High German **kīl*) probably an í-root, whether not folk etymology distortions exit through influence of Middle High German Middle Low German kīl 'wedge' and Middle High German kiel 'ship'.

2. With the meaning 'pain - sorrow - death':

Armenian keřem 'afflict' (Meillet Msl. 8, 165);

Old Irish at-baill 'dies' (ess + baln- from **g<sup>w</sup>l-n-* with prefixed object pronoun 'it'; nevertheless barely after Pedersen KG. II 459 as namely 'it throws life away' to ἐκ-βάλλω, because of the meaning 'die' returns also out of Celtic; compare also corn. bal 'a deadly, esp. an infectious or contagious disease, a plague, pest, pestilence', cymr. aballu (**ad-ballu*), ballu 'die' (**g<sup>w</sup>l-n-*), ad-feillio (**ate-bal-* from **g<sup>w</sup>el-*) ds.; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > *b- perhaps Latin vallessit 'perierit' (placed as Celtic verb, a present **gʷal-nō* ahead; different EM² 1129);

Old High German Old Saxon quelan, qual 'endure sorrow', Old English cwelan 'die'; Old Norse kvelia 'afflict', Old Saxon quellian, Old High German quellen ds., Old English cwellan 'slay'; Old Norse kvǫf f. 'torment, pain, agony', Old English civalu 'killing, violent murder'; Old Saxon quāla 'agony, torture', Old High German qualā ds., 'violent death', Modern High German Qual (lengthened grade as Lithuanian gėlà, Old Church Slavic žalb); Old High German, Old Saxon qualm 'death. devastation', Old English cwealm ds., Swedish kvalm 'abrupt indisposition, minor illness, nausea'; Old English cwiæld 'death' (**gʷel-tī-*), cwiældtīd 'eventide (*end of day)', Old High German quiltiwerk 'evening work', Old Norse kveld n. (**gʷel-tó-*) 'evening'.

About 'anlaut variations' (probably at best rhyme meaning) s. Siebs KZ. 37, 315, Lewy KZ. 40, 420.

References: WP. I 689 f., Trautmann 83, Vendryes RC 40, 433 ff.

Page(s): 470-471

---

Root / lemma: **gʷel-2*, **gʷelə-*, **gʷlē-*

Meaning: to drip, flow; to throw, *boil over

Note: though after Wackernagel KZ. 67, 159 belong a) and b) variant verbs.

Material: a) Old Indic gálati 'trickles down, falls down, disappears', galitá-h 'vanishes, retreats, withdraws', Kaus. gālayati 'pours away, makes flow, strains off'; Old Indic galana- 'dribbling, running' (Lex.), n. 'the trickling, gully, trench, ditch, small ravine, runnel' = ga-rana-m (Gramm.);

gr. βαλανεύς 'bath attendant', βαλανεῖον 'spa, bath' (> Latin balneum); βλύω, βλύζω 'gush forth' (formation after φλύω), βλύδιον 'humid, wet' Hes., and from the family of βάλλω in similar meaning ἀμβολάδην 'bubbling up (of water)', Δέλλοι 'bubbling fountain in Eryke', compare also εἰς ἄλλα βάλλειν 'flow'; Note: common Illyrian **gʷ-* > b-.

In e- grade:

Hittite: kweluwana- (kuluwana-) c. 'washbasin, bowl' (Tischler 604)

Old High German quellan (quall) 'spring up, bubble, to swell' (// probably from ln), Old English (ge)collen 'swollen', Old High German quella, Modern High German Quelle, Middle Low German qualm ('the gushing forth' =) 'fume, smoke, vapor, smoke', Old Danish kval 'vapor, haze, mist'; Modern High German Qualle, Dutch kwal, kwalle 'medusae'.

In connecting meaning (perhaps from 'cave in, crumple, collapse inward') Old Indic glā-ti, glāyati 'feels tired, is irritated, dwindles', participle glānā-, glāna-m, glāni-h 'exhaustion, feebleness, decline, reduction', Kaus. glāpāyati 'exhaust, press; allow to decay'?

b) Avestan niyrāire 'they are flung down' (ni-gar-);

gr. βάλλω 'throw, cast, hit, strike' (**g<sup>w</sup><sub>e</sub>/h-ō*), zero grade Arcadian ἐσδέλλοντες = ἐκβάλλοντες, ζέλλειν βάλλειν Hes., Aor. βαλεῖν, Perf. βέ-βλη-κα, Aor. ἔβλην 'received a shot, was offended, hurt', ἔβλητο, βλητός; βλήμα 'throw, cast, of dice, of a missile, shot, wound, coverlet', βολή, βόλος m. ds., βολίς, -ίδος 'missile', βέλος, βέλε-μνον 'projectile', Ὠεκατη-βελέ-της;

Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

From New Testament Greek παρα-βάλλω 'to throw beside or by' > παραβολή 'juxtaposition, comparison, a comparison, illustration, analogy, a parable, i. e. a fictitious narrative by which some religious or moral lesson is conveyed, a by-word, proverb' > Latin parabola 'parable' > Italian parlare: Spanish hablar: French parler: Bergamasco baià: Ladin baié: Bresciano parlà: Calabrese parlà: Catalan parlar: Catanese parari: Furlan sfevelâ: Galician falar: Portuguese falar: Albanian geg me folë 'to speak', Albanian tosk flas 'speak', Aorist folá 'spoke'.

Also Spanish hablar: French parler: Galician falar: Portuguese falar: Albanian tosk flas 'speak', Aorist folá 'talk'.

from Celtic perhaps cymr. blif 'catapult' (**g<sup>w</sup><sub>e</sub>/l̥-mo-*, compare gr. βλή-μα); about Old Irish at-baill 'dies' s. g<sup>w</sup><sub>e</sub>/- 'prick';

Tocharian AB kālā 'fall', Van Windekens Lexique 40.

With a meaning development 'sich im Geiste auf etwas werfen', βάλλεσθαι ἐν θυμῷ, μετὰ φρεοῖ places one to βάλλω also (?) the gr. family of βούλομαι 'will, wish, be willing' (**βολσομαι*, Konj. of s-Aor. to βάλλω); βουλή, Doric βωλά: f. 'resolution, decision, advice, counsel'; but Thessalian βελλόμενος, Doric δηλ- from **g<sup>w</sup><sub>e</sub>/so-*; here also βάλε 'prevail god, O that! Would God!'.

References: WP. I 690 ff., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 284, 693 under Anm. 9.

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>el-3, g<sup>w</sup>el-, g<sup>w</sup>lā-

Meaning: acorn; oak?

Note: only in derivatives with the meaning 'acorn' receive (after Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 60 f. previous noun g<sup>w</sup>el-s, secondary g<sup>w</sup>ī-s, Gen. g<sup>w</sup>el-ós)

Material: Armenian kaṭin, Gen. kaṭnoi 'acorn' (**g<sup>w</sup>el(ə)-eno-*, t from dem Gen.); kaṭni 'oak';

gr. βάλανος m. 'acorn' (g<sup>w</sup>el-eno-); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Proto Baltic **gīls* (**g<sup>w</sup>īl-s*), Gen. **gīlés*, what from **gīliā* in Latvian (d)zīle, Lithuanian gylė, and **gīlija* in Lithuanian gilė 'acorn', Old Prussian gile 'acorn, oak';

extension -n-d- in:

Latin glāns, glandis f. 'acorn';

Maybe alb. Geg landë, tosk (**glandis*) lënde : Galician landra 'acorn' [Italian ghianda, French gland, Albanian geg landë, Catalan gla, Galician landra, Romagnolo, génda, Roman ghianna, Romanian ghindă, Umbro-Sabino ghianna, Venetian gianda, Zeneize gianda, Bolognese gianda, Bresciano gianda.]

Lithuanian giléndra, giléndrė 'rich harvest in fruits (originally acorn)';

russ.-Church Slavic želudь (Slavic **želqđь*) m. 'acorn', Serbo-Croatian žěľud m., russ. žóludь m. ds.

References: WP. I 692, WH. I 604 f., Trautmann 82, Specht KZ. 66, 56, Indog. Dekl. 60 f., 173, 230.

Page(s): 472-473

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>em-

See also: see above g<sup>w</sup>ā-.

Page(s): 473

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>er(ə)-4

Meaning: to raise the voice; praise

Material: Old Indic grṇāti, grṇītē 'sings, praises, praises, announces' (Fut. gariṣyati, Abs. abhiḡūrya), sam-giratē 'promises, pledges', gurātē 'greet', gīr f., Gen. giráh 'laudation, song ', Avestan gar-, aibi-gərānte `praise, lobend einstimmen', garo Gen. f. `laudation, praise, laudation; praise song ' (=Old Indic giráh), garah- n. `laudation, canticle ', aibi-jarəta- `laudation song ', aibi-jarətar- `lauder' = Old Indic jaritār- `caller, singer, bard, glorifier', Avestan **ā-gra-* `approving ' in āgrəmati- `sense of approval '; Old Indic gūrti-ḥ f. `laudation ' = Latin grātēs Pl. f. `gratitude ' (in addition grātia `acceptableness, good favor, grace, gratitude '), Old Indic gūrtá-ḥ `welcome ' = Latin grātus `compliant, praiseworthy, grateful '; Oscan brateis `favor, esteem, regard, liking, love, friendship, partiality; thankfulness, gratitude, acknowledgment ', βρατωμ `a service, office, post, employment, function, duty; burden, tribute; a service, favor, kindness; present, gift ', Paelignian bratom; here gall.-Latin bardus `bard ', Old Irish bard, cymr. bardd ds. ( **g<sup>w</sup>īr-d(h)o-s*);

 Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

alb. gërshás, grish `invite to the wedding ';

Also alb. gërthas `scream'

Maybe alb. Geg gërshanë `scissors', gërshet `braid, tress, plait, queue, tail, plat'

Lithuanian giriù, girti `praise, laud, vaunt ', Latvian dzīrtiēs `boast ', Old Prussian girtwei `praise, laud', pogirrien Akk. Sg. `laudation ', also Lithuanian gėras `good' and Old Church Slavic granъ (**gornos*) `formula, verse' (u likewise, see Berneker 332).

With b- extended: Lithuanian geĩbti `honour', garbẽ `honour', Old Prussian gerbt, gērbt `speak', gīrbīn `number'; Old Norse karp `boastfulness ' does not prove for original g in this b-extension g<sup>w</sup>er-b-, because it would be reshuffled from from the equal meaning garp through hybridization with onomatopoeic words with Germanic k- in anlaut.

With d<sup>h</sup>-extension perhaps here (see above gall. bardus) Armenian kardam `raise the voice ', Lithuanian geĩdas `clamor, message, official notice, communication transmitted through a messenger ', iš-gīrsti `accepted to hear ', girdėti `hear', gaĩsas `clangor ', Old Prussian gerdaut `say', Latvian dzirdēt `hear', Mühlenbach-Endzelin I 552 with Lithuanian maybe alb. (**gaĩsas*) gërthas > thėras `scream' : Lithuanian gaĩsas `clangor '.

gr. δειριᾶν λοιδορεῖσθαι. Λάκωνες; δειρεῖοι λοιδοροί. οἱ αὐτοί; δερῖαι λοιδορίαι Hes. (i.e. probably δηρ- from **g<sup>w</sup>er-s*); Old High German queran `sigh'.

Compared with the similar onomatopoeic words ger-, ġār- a sure separation is not everywhere possible; however, the concept of high utterance is unmistakeable here under gʷer- combined words, not surely to be attached therefore up to d<sup>h</sup>-extension.

References: WP. I 686 f., WH. I 583, 619 f., Trautmann 88 f.

Page(s): 478

---

Root / lemma: gʷer-1, gʷerə-

Meaning: to devour; throat

Material: 1. Old Indic girāti, gilāti, gṛṇāti 'devours' (Fut. gariṣyati, participle gīrṇá- 'devour'; -gír (in compounds) 'devouring', -gara- ds. (aja-gara- 'devouring nanny goats', boa 'gr. δημο-βόρος, Latin carni-vorus, gr. βόρος 'voracious') Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > *b-, gará-h 'drink, beverage, liquid which is swallowed to quench one's thirst, draught, potion', gala-h 'throat' (perhaps to parallel root **gʷel-* 'intertwine, entwine; devour, swallow up, engulf, consume'), tuvi-gri-, -gra- 'devouring a lot';

Avestan jaraiti 'gulp, sip, swallow, send down the throat', -gar (in compounds) 'devouring' (aspō-gar- 'horse v.'), f. Pl. 'throat, neck', npers. gulū 'throat', Avestan garəman- 'throat, neck';

Maybe Latin gula 'throat'.

Armenian ker 'dish, food, food fed to livestock', kur ds. (**gʷur-*), eker 'ate', kokord 'throat' (also krcum 'gnaw'?? Pedersen KZ. 39, 427);

alb. ngranë 'eaten';

Note:

alb. hangra 'I ate': Armenian eker 'ate' (common Avestan Greek Armenian aorist prefix);

From there alb. Geg. hangër 'to eat', ha 'to eat'.

gr. βόρα f. 'food fed to livestock, dish, food' (= Latin **vorā*, whereof vorāre), βόρος (see above), βιβρώσκω 'consume', hom. Opt. Perf. βεβρώθοις; βρώμα, βρώμη, βρώσις 'dish, food', βρωτήρ 'trencherman'; βρω- could have also originated from **gʷr̥-* (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 361); Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > *b-.

Maybe alb. bar 'fodder, grass, food fed to livestock'.

gr. βάραθρον, hom. βέρεθρον, Arcadian ζέρεθρον, δέρεθρον 'gullet';

alb. zorrë 'bowel', Pl. 'intestines, entrails' (*food fed to livestock, bowels') from **g<sup>w</sup>ēr-nā*, in addition zgurdhë (**dz-g<sup>w</sup>orda*) 'intestines, entrails', ánger(r), angúrrë (**a-n-g<sup>w</sup>or-nā*) ds., Jokl Mél. Pedersen 139 ff.;

Note:

Maybe alb. zorrë 'bowel', Pl. 'intestines, entrails' didn't derive from Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>er-1, g<sup>w</sup>erə-: to devour; throat; but from Root / lemma: gher-5, ghor-nā: bowels. [common alb. gh- > z-].

Latin vorō, -āre (see above) 'engorgement', vorāgo 'gullet', carni-vorus;

Maybe alb. uri 'hunger' a Latin loanword.

Maybe alb. Geg (**g<sup>w</sup>er- g<sup>w</sup>ha*) verza '(*throat), gill of fish'.

Old Irish túarae 'dish, food' (**to-g<sup>w</sup>r-jiā?*), mcymr. breuad 'dead worm', breuan 'carrion crow' (proto Celtic **brāvato-*, **brāvanā* after Fick II<sup>4</sup> 181; **brā* = gr. βρω-?);

Old High German querdar 'sugarplum, bait' (**kver-Pra-*), Modern High German 'bait'; Old Icelandic krās f. 'tidbit' (**g<sup>w</sup>rē-so-*);

Balto Slavic **girō* and **gerō* 'gobble' in:

Lithuanian geriù, gérti, Latvian dzeru, dzeĩt 'drink' (Baltic **geriō* reshaped from Balto Slavic **gerō*), ablaut. Lithuanian gēris m. 'drinking, drink' and girà f. 'beverage, drink'; Kaus. Lithuanian girdyti, Latvian dziĩdīt 'water, soak';

Slavic **žbr-q*, žerti in Old Church Slavic požbro, požrěti, sloven. požrēm, požrěti, Old Czech požru požřieti 'entwine; devour, swallow up, engulf, consume, gobble up', besides Slavic **žerq*, žbrati in Czech žeru, žrátí 'devour', compare russ. požrátʹ 'eat up';

Balto Slavic participle Perf. Pass. **gīrta-* in Lithuanian girtas 'drunk, intoxicated': Old Church Slavic požrbtʹ 'devourer' (**gī-to-*, compare Old Indic gīrṇá- 'devour');

Balto Slavic gurtla- n. 'craw, throat' in:

Old Prussian gurcle f. 'gullet', Lithuanian gurklỹs m. 'craw, Adam's apple, projection of cartilage in the front of the throat';

Maybe alb. (**gurk-*) grykë 'throat' a borrowing of Lithuanian gurklỹs m. 'craw, Adam's apple, projection of cartilage in the front of the throat';

Slavic **gъrdlo* n. in russ.-Church Slavic grъlo 'throat', Serbo-Croatian grlo 'neck, gullet', poln. gardło ds., russ. gorło ds., besides Slavic **žъrdlo* in russ.-Church Slavic vozopi žerlom 'crying voice' and klr. žóro 'riverbed'; as well as Slavic **žerdlo* in sloven. žrélo 'jaw, gullet'; Old Russian žereło 'embouchure, estuary';

Maybe alb. grellë 'deep place, abyss' a Slavic borrowing.

Baltic -gara- 'devouring' in Lithuanian pra-garas 'abyss, hell', Latvian pragars 'wolverine' (compare above Old Indic -gara- 'devouring', gr. βopός 'voracious', Latin carni-vorus 'carnivorous').

2. With full or fractured reduplication:

Old Indic gárgara-ḥ 'gullet, whirlpool'; Intens. ni-galgalīti, ni-jalgulīti 'devours', participle járgurāṇa-;

Latin gurguliō (-ur- as in Balto-Slavic) 'gullet, windpipe', gorges '(gullet =) whirlpool, whirl, deep pool', gurgustium (suffix after angustiae) 'a small, mean dwelling, a hovel, hut';

Old High German quer(e)kela, querka 'gullet', Old Norse kverk (**gʷergā*) 'crawl, whereof Old Frisian querka, Old Norse kyrkia 'strangulate';

Lithuanian gargaliúoji 'groan, gurgle'; after Specht KZ. 59, 110<sup>1</sup> here Lithuanian gvĩgšti, gvarždėti 'be hoarse', Latvian gveŗg(z)dēt 'creak, babble, chatter'; s. above WH. I 628;

3. With formants -uā-:

gr. Attic δέρη, Ionian δειρή, Lesbian δερρᾶ:, δέρᾶ, Doric δήρα 'neck, nape' (**gʷer-uā*);

Note: [common Illyrian Albanian g- > d-].

due to an f feminine **gʷ(e)rī. *gʷrīuā* 'neck, throat area' in:

Old Indic grīvā f., Avestan grīvā 'nape', Latvian grīva 'embouchure, estuary; triangular land between rivers', grīvis 'tall grass';

Old Church Slavic grīva 'mane', grīvna 'collar, neckband'.

Maybe alb. krifa 'mane', grifshë 'jay, shrew, lumberjack' Slavic loanwords.

4. As gh-extension presumably here **g<sup>w</sup>rōgh-*:

in gr. ἔβροξε, Aor. `devoured', hom. ἀνα-, κατα-βρόξειε, ἀνα-βροχείς, βρόξαι ροφήσαι Hes., βρόχθος m. `gullet, throat'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Middle High German krage `neck, throat, nape'; Modern High German Kragen `collar', Old Norse kragi `neckwear, collar', Middle English crawe, engl. craw `bird or insect's crop; stomach' (lengthened grade in addition Middle Low German krōch, krūch `hostelry, inn', Modern High German Krug in the meaning `inn' meaning as in Latin gurgustium `a small, mean dwelling, a hovel, hut');

Old Irish brāgae `neck, nape' (**g<sup>w</sup>̥r̥g-nt-*), acymr. abal-brouannou `throat' (actually `Adam's apple'), mcymr. breuant `windpipe' (proto Celtic **brāg-*); acorn. briansen `guttur', abret. Brehant-Dincat gl. `guttur receptaculi pugnae', maybe from **br̥g-*, Pedersen KG. 100. Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

With nasalization in addition perhaps gr. βρόγχος m., Ionian βρογχίη `windpipe', βράγγχα, βαράγγχα `gill of fish; trachea, windpipe' seems in Vok. reshaped after βραγγῶω `be hoarse', βράγγχος `hoarseness', that related to Old Irish brongide `hoarse' (above 103), but it must be separated from βρόγχος to (: ἔβραχε `jangle, crack, shout', Old Indic br̥mhati `barrire' Johansson KZ. 36, 345).

Note:

Gr. βράγγχα, βαράγγχα `gill of fish': alb. Geg (**g<sup>w</sup>er- g<sup>w</sup>ha*) verza `(*throat), gill of fish': Latvian bārda `gill of fish': Latvian: bārda `beard' [f ā]; bārzda (dial.) `beard'.

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>er-1, g<sup>w</sup>erē- : `to devour; throat' > Root / lemma: bh<sup>ar</sup>dhā : `beard'

5. With pure velar: gr. γέργερος βρόγχος Hes., γαργαρέων `uvula in mouth', γαργαρίζω `gurgle' (: Armenian kerkerim `become hoarse'?) perhaps through labialization after forms with γυρ- (γοργύρη `subterraneous, underground jail, water pipe'), yet is previously ger- besides g<sup>w</sup>er- because of ge- besides g<sup>w</sup>el- is safe.

References: WP. I 682 ff., WH. I 627 f., Trautmann 89 f., 98, Specht KZ. 59, 110, 1.

Page(s): 474-476

---

Root / lemma: *g<sup>w</sup>er-2, g<sup>w</sup>erē-, g<sup>w</sup>erāu-, g<sup>w</sup>erī-

Meaning: heavy

Material: Old Indic gurū-h `heavy, important, venerable' (compounds gārīyān, Sup. gārīṣṭha-h), āgru- `available, unoccupied; unmarried', gru-muṣṭī-h `heavy handful', garimā `heaviness' (**g<sup>w</sup>erə-*); Avestan gouru- (in compound) `heavy'; npers. girān `heavy' (**grāna-*; reshuffling after **frāna-* `full');

gr. βαρύς `heavy', βαρύων `beschwere', βάρος n. `heaviness'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Maybe alb. barrë `burden, pregnancy'.

Latin gravis `heavy, weighty' (**g<sup>w</sup>erə-u-is*); Gothic kaúrjōs Nom. Pl. f. `heavy', kaúrjan `grouch';

Middle Irish bair `heavy' (?), baire `distress' (?), bruth `weight, mass' (**g<sup>w</sup>rutu-*), cymr. bryw `strong, strength' (**bruwo-*), Middle Irish bró `bulk, mass'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Lithuanian gūrstu, gūrti `lie down (from the winds)', Latvian guřstu, guřt `tire; lie down (from the winds)', guřds `fatigued, faint, languid' (compare also βαρύς and gravis in the meaning `weighted, pressed down, faint, languid'), whereof with further shifting from `faint, languid, weighted' to `tame, domesticated, mild' (compare Old High German jāmar `sorrowful': gr. ἡμερος `tame, domesticated') perhaps:

Gothic qaírrus `of persons, gentle, kind', qaírrei `gentleness, softness, kindness', Old Norse kyrr, kvirr `still, peaceful', Middle High German kürre, Modern High German kirre `tame, domesticated, trustful' (**g<sup>w</sup>er-ərós* or -erós, -urós);

Latvian grūts `heavy' = Latin brūtus (Oscan-Umbrian loanword) `heavy, clumsy, insensible, unreasonable';

Tocharian A kra-marts `heavy' (?); Van Windekens Lexique 44.

Here further as n- derivatives from g<sup>w</sup>erə- and g<sup>w</sup>erāu-: Gothic (asilu-) qaírnus `(Esels)mühle' (**g<sup>w</sup>erənu-*), Old Norse kvern f. (**g<sup>w</sup>ernā*) `millstone, quern', Old English cweorn ds., Old High German quirn, quirna ds.;

zero grade Balto Slavic ū-stem gīrnū-f. `quern' (**ġ<sup>w</sup>īrnu-*) in:

Old Prussian girnoywis (**girnuwis*), Latvian dziřnus, dziřnavas; besides Latvian dziřnas f. Pl. and Lithuanian gīrnos f. Pl.; in addition Lithuanian gerúkštis, Latvian dzerūkslis m. `dens molaris';

Old Church Slavic žrěny f. Pl. 'mill', in addition žrěnonъ m. 'millstone'; sloven. žrěnov f. 'quern', poln. żarna N. Pl. ds.; russ. žěmon m. 'millstone';

Old Church Slavic žrěny 'mill', and on the other hand Old Indic grāvan- m. 'stone to press the Soma', Armenian erkan 'millstone' (**gʷrānā*), Old Irish bráu, Gen. broon 'millstone, quern', cymr. breuan (from the stem of the oblique case **gʷrāu-*), acorn. brou, bret. breo (nominative case form **gʷrāuō*) 'millstone'.

gʷer-: besides Old Indic gārī-yan (? , see above) here:

gr. βρῖθος n. 'force, weight, load', βρῖθύς 'massive, heavy', βρῖθω 'be heavy, loaded, trans. grouch', probably also βρῖμη ' (massive) attack, rage, fury, abusive word, insult', βρῖμοῦσθαι 'heavy be angry with', ὄβριμος 'vast, grand, strong', βριμός μέγας, χαλεπός Hes.; βριαρός 'tight, firm, strong', next to which the composition form **βρι(ι)-* in βρι-ήπιος 'crying intensely' Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Maybe alb. britmë 'scream', britmë 'autumn month'.

gr. Βρι-άρεως ('wer großen Schaden bringt'), βρι-ηρόν μέγλωος κεχαρισμένον Hes. (βρῖ βριαρόν and βρῖ ἐπὶ τοῦ μεγάλου perhaps previously from den compounds released, liberated), here with prefix gr. ὑ- (**u-*) probably also gr. ὕβρις 'wanton violence, arising from the pride of strength or from passion, insolence, lust, lewdness', ὕβρις ἀνὴρ 'violent man, husband' on grounds of the image 'rush with the whole weight of one's strength towards something'; -vō-present βρινδεῖν θυμοῦσθαι, ἐρεθίζειν Hes.;

Old Irish brīg 'force, power, value, worth', cymr. bri 'stateliness', corn. bry 'value, worth'; Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Modern High German Krieg, Old High German krēg 'stubbornness', Middle High German kriec 'exertion, fight, struggle', md. Middle Low German krīgen 'exert themselves, strive, fight, attain, achieve' (**grīgh-*, respectively Germanic partly grēigh-)??

Latvian grīns 'cruel, savage, angry, irate', grīnums 'hardness, austereness, severeness'?

References: WP. I 684 ff., WH. I 117 f., 621, Trautmann 89.

Page(s): 476-477

---

Root / lemma: gʷer-3, gʷor-

Meaning: mountain

Grammatical information: originally inflection g<sup>w</sup>ores, Gen. g<sup>w</sup>eros

Material: Old Indic gíri-h m. 'mountain', Avestan gairi- ds.;

gr. δειρός (Hes.) 'hill', ὑψίδειρος 'with high cliffs', δειράς, Cretan δηράς f. 'hill, tableland, hill, plateau' (**g<sup>w</sup>erio-*?); in addition βορέας 'northerly wind' (to *βόρειος 'mountain', Schwyzzer Gr. Gr. I 461 and Anm. 2); βαρύες δένδρα Hes.?

Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > d-.

the thrak. VN ὨΥπερ-βορέοι 'living beyond the mountain' contains probably gr. loanword *βορίς; lit nugarà 'back, ridge';

with the meaning development 'mountain - mountain wood - tree': Lithuanian girė, girià 'wood, forest', Latvian dziřē ds., and Old Prussian garian n. (Akk. garrin) 'tree'; further Latvian garš 'wood, forest', gārsas 'swamp, marsh';

Old Church Slavic gora 'mountain', Serbo-Croatian gōra 'mountain, wood, forest', etc.

alb. gur 'rocks, stone' (g<sup>w</sup>eri-) = Armenian քար kar 'stone'

Also alb. (**g<sup>w</sup>eres*) gërxi 'rock'

References: WP. I 682, Trautmann 78, Pedersen La cinquender décl. Latin 37, 66.

Page(s): 477-478

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>eru-

Meaning: pole, pike

Material: Avestan grava- 'stick, cane, rod, reed' (to ablaut compare Latin genu. Gothic kniu);

Latin uerū, -ūs n. 'spit, pike'; Umbrian berva 'uerua', berus 'ueribus';

Old Irish b(ū)r n., later f., 'spear, javelin, spit, pike', cymr. corn. bret. berf., m. ds.; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Gothic qairu n. 'picket, pole, sting, prick'; perhaps as 'twig, branch' to gr. βρύω 'sprout, bud, to be full of, to abound with, to be bursting with, to be bristling', βρύον n. 'moss, catkin, type of flower without petals', ἔμβρυον n. 'the newborn child' and (?) Germanic **krūda-* (Indo Germanic **gʷrū-to-*) in Old High German Middle High German krūt, asächs. krūd 'herb'.

About Latin bruscum 'an excrescence on the maple-tree' s. WH. I 117.

References: WP. I 689.

Page(s): 479

---

Root / lemma: gʷes-, zgʷes-

Meaning: to extinguish

Material: Old Indic jāsate, jāsyati 'is exhausted', jāsāyati 'extinguishes, exhausts';

gr. Attic σβέννυμι 'extinguish' (for *σβείνυμι), Aor. hom. σβέσ-σαι, ἄσβεστος 'inextinguishable', with σβεσ- after σβοσ- (see below) for lautges. σδεσ-, that in ζείναμεν σβέννυμεν (**zdēn-* from **zgʷesn-*) Hes. is present; Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

ἔσβην 'I die, I am extinguished' (from the 2. Sg. é-zgʷēs-s, 1. Pl. é-zgʷēs-me 'from which ἔσβης, ἔσβημεν, whereupon also ἔσβην etc. because of type ἔβλην and weil also in σβέννυμι the root final sound s for the sense of language no longer existed); Ionian κατασβῶσαι 'extinguish, put out', from *σβοάσαι from a present *σβο[σ]άζω, next to which with from the type ζείναμεν carried anlaut ζοᾶς σ[ε]βέσεις, ζοᾶσον σ[ε]βέσον Hes.;

Lithuanian gęstù (old gęsu), gesaũ, gęstì 'die, be extinguished, be exhausted', causative gesaũ, gesýti and gesinũ, gesinti 'extinguish, put out', gesmẽ 'small, still smoldering fire'; Latvian dziēstu (from **genstu*), dzisu, dzist (ablaut derailment), 'die, be extinguished, become cool', dzēšu (dzešu), dzèsu (dzesu), dzèst (džest) 'quench; annihilate', dzesma (dzèsma) 'the cool breath, breeze in the morning', dzèstrs 'cool';

Maybe reduced alb. (**ga-su*) shuaj [extinguish, put out]

Old Bulgarian causative **gašq*, **gasiti* 'die, be extinguished, leave', in Old Church Slavonic ugasiti 'extinguish'; it is insecure, if in addition the changing by ablaut gʷēs- in Old Bulgarian užasъ, russ. úžas 'fright', Old Bulgarian žasiti 'daunt, scare' is present (Pedersen IF. 5, 47; perhaps as **gēd-s-os* to nasalized Lithuanian gañdinu-, -inti 'daunt, scare', išsi-gastù, -gandaũ -gąsti 'frighten, intrans.', išgastis 'fright', Scheftelowitz IF. 33, 155). from here Celtic **bās-* 'die'? (see below gʷem-, gʷā- 'go, come'); doubtful is the kinship from Old High German quist f. 'ruin, annihilation' as **g<sup>w</sup>es-ti-s* 'die, be extinguished', whereof Gothic qistjan, fraqistjan 'spoil, trans.', fraqistnan 'spoil, intrans.', Old High German firquisten 'spoil, trans.'.

References: WP. I 693, Trautmann 86, Feist 388 f.

Page(s): 479-480

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>et-1

Meaning: resin

Material: Old Indic jātu n. 'varnish, rubber';

Latin bitūmen 'bitumen, asphaltum' (Oscan-Umbrian or Celtic loanword); betulla 'birch' (gall. loanword), Middle Irish be(i)the (**betuiā*) 'the pale, evergreen box-tree', cymr. bedw (**betuā*) 'the birch', corn. bedewen 'populus', bret. bezuen 'the birch' (named, because 'bitumen ex ea Galli excoquant', Plinius NH. XVI 75); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old English hwīt cuidu, cweodo, cwudu 'mastic', Old High German cuti 'gluten', Middle High German küte, küt, Modern High German kütt, kitt 'putty'; changing through ablaut Old Norse kvāða f. 'resin', Old Danish kvade, Norwegian dial. kvæde 'birch juice', Norwegian kôda, kvæda 'beestings'.

References: WP. I 672, WH. I 112.

Page(s): 480

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>et-2

Meaning: to speak

Material: Old Indic gadati 'says' (whether through analog. influence from **gátati*)?

sogd. žāyām, žam 'I say', žut 'he says' (Proto-Iranian **jāt-at*);

Armenian kočem (**g<sup>w</sup>ot-i-*) 'shout, name, invite', koč 'invitation' (probably to post verbal nouns); Gothic qipan 'say, speak, name', Old Norse kveða ds. and 'sing, poetize', Old English cweðan 'speak, say, name, order, define', Old Frisian quetha 'say, speak, signify', Old Saxon quedan, Old High German quedan ds.; Old Icelandic kviðr 'saying, gossip', Old Saxon quidi stem m. 'discourse, word'; causative Old Icelandic kveðja 'greet, address, speak to, arrogate, exert', Old Saxon queddian, Old High German chetten 'greet' (that is to say 'bring to the discussion'); Old Norse kvǫp 'demand, subpoena, invitation to court, summoning, commitment' is to kveða retrograde shaped; Gothic un-qēps 'inexpressible' (compare Old Norse sam-kvæðr 'accordant, suitable; harmonious, agreeing, concordant, congruous '), sama-qiss f. 'accord, agreement, settlement' (**g<sup>w</sup>et-ti-*), to Old English ge-cwiss f. 'conspiracy, plot'.

References: WP. I 672, Feist 389, G. Morgenstierne NTS. 7, 116 ff.

Page(s): 480-481

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ēb<sup>h</sup>-1 (or g<sup>w</sup>āb<sup>h</sup>-?), g<sup>w</sup>ēb<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to sink, submerge, plunge

Material: Gr. βάπτω 'dip, dunk', βαφῆναι, βαφή 'diving, coloration' (Aeolic βύπτειν βαπτίζειν Hes. after δύπτω, the same hybridization from βάπτω with δύω; βιπτάζω reconverted with metathesis from βαπτίζω); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > *b- made. βαβρήν 'residuum of oil' Hes.; whether also γυβᾶ 'dives' Hes.?

Old Norse kafa 'dive', kvefja (and kefja after the preterit kōf from **kvōḥ*) trans. 'submerge, choke; suppress, crush', kvafna intrans. 'choke; suppress, crush', kafn. 'depth of the sea', then 'dive, submersion, swimming under water'; Old Swedish kvaf 'depth', Old Norse kvæfa (Indo Germanic ē), kōfa trans. 'choke; suppress, crush', Middle High German erqueben 'choke; suppress, crush' (= Old Norse kvefja).

A possible cognate, but only the meaning 'deep' showing the Aryan root **g<sup>(w)</sup>emb<sup>h</sup>-*, **g<sup>(w)</sup>mēb<sup>h</sup>-* (whereas in Old Indic g of the zero grade or o-grade is carried out, compared with Avestan j of the e-grade): Old Indic gabhīrā-, gambhīrā- 'deep', gambha-, gámbhan-, gambhára- n. 'depth, abyss', gabhá- m. 'vulva', gabhi-śák Avestan Adv. perhaps 'right down at the bottom or inside', Avestan jaiwi-vafra- Adj. 'with deep snow', jafra- 'deep', jafnu-š- 'immersion, sinking in'; compare Frisk nominal formation 30.

Fick places the root **g<sup>w</sup>ēb<sup>h</sup>-* in what squeezes to the acceptance that Old Norse kvæfa ablaut is a new formation.

References: WP. I 674, Wissmann Nom. postverb. 75.

Page(s): 465-466

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ēb(h)-2

Meaning: slimy; toad

Note:

From Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ēb<sup>h</sup>-1 (or g<sup>w</sup>āb<sup>h</sup>-?), g<sup>w</sup>ēb<sup>h</sup>-: to sink, submerge, plunge, derived Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ēb(h)-2: slimy; toad.

Material: Presumably onomatopoeic; yet it is possible to reckon, that an old word for frog was involved previously only in the Germanic sound-coloring family.

Asächs. quappa, quappia, quappo `burbot' (with onomatopoeic words of frequent consonant gemination), out of it Middle High German quappe, quape, kobe, Modern High German Quappe, holl. kwab(be) `tadpole, frog or toad larva, crawl, dewlap', isl kvap, kvapi `jelly or gelatinous things', Swedish dial. (s)kvabb `something fat', (s)kvebba `squabby wife, woman', engl. quab `morass', quaver `tremble, vibrate'. In addition the verb of Norwegian dial. kvapa `emit liquid', Swedish dial. kvabba, nnd. quabbeln `shake from fatness';

Old Prussian gabawo `toad' (**gʷəb(h)-*);

Maybe alb. zhgaba, shkaba, shqiponjë, gabonjë, zhgabonjë `vulture, eagle'.

Slavic **gēbā* `toad': in Old Church Slavic žaba, russ. žába, Serbo-Croatian žäba, etc.

Maybe alb. zhaba `toad' a Slavic loanword.

References: WP. I 674, WH. I 121, Trautmann 8.

Page(s): 466

---

Root / lemma: gʷēi- (or gʷejə-): gʷi-

Meaning: skin

Note: with formants -no-, -lo-

Material: Old Indic jīna- `leather bag', jīla-ḥ `hose'; Middle Irish bīan `skin, fell, fur'; Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

the Irish cognate word could certainly belong also to bʰei- `hit', whose Celtic representative have also the meaning `cut, clip' (compare scortum : scheren) ; see above S. 118.

References: WP. I 666.

Page(s): 469

---

Root / lemma: gʷēnā (**ǵʰʷēnā*)

Meaning: woman, wife, *goddess

Grammatical information: Gen. gʷn-ās and **gʷən-ās*, also Nom. gʷenə-, gʷenī-

Note:

Root / lemma: ǵʰʷēnā `woman, wife, *goddess' could be a truncated Root / lemma: ǵʰau-, ǵʰauə- (**ǵʰauvana*): `to call, *priestess': mnl. godinne, Old English gyden `goddess'

Material: Old Indic gnā (**g<sup>w</sup>na*) f. 'divine woman, goddess' (to partly disyllabic **g<sup>a</sup>na*), Gen. gnās; Avestan ganā, ynā 'wife, woman'; Old Indic jāni-ḥ = Avestan jāni-, npers. zan ds. (Old Indic also jāñ); in compounds Old Indic lengthened grade -jāni- = Avestan jāni- ds.;

Armenian kin (**g<sup>w</sup>ena*) 'woman', Pl. kanai-k (**g<sup>w</sup>en-ai* + Plur.- ending-k) ; Old Phrygian βovok, New Phrygian βανεκος 'woman, wife' is probably loanword from Aeolic Gr.; differently Kleinbans with Pedersen Groupement 48 Anm.

gr. γυνή 'woman' (**g<sup>w</sup>na*), Gen. γυναικός, beside Boeotian βανᾱ (**g<sup>w</sup>na*), Pl. βανῆκες; **g<sup>w</sup>na-*, from it *βνᾱ-, gr. μνᾱ- puts in μνάομαι 'unengaged, free', in addition μνηστήρ 'suitor', μνηστύς 'courtship', μνηστη ἄλοχος 'lawful wife' (with secondary -σ-);

Old Irish ben (**g<sup>w</sup>enā*), Gen. Sg. mná (**g<sup>w</sup>n-ās*), Gen. Pl. ban (**g<sup>w</sup>en-ōm*), ), in the compound ban-(ban-chú 'female dog'); besides bé n. 'woman' (**g<sup>w</sup>en*); cymr. ben-yw 'feminine, female', corn. ben-en 'bride, betrothed woman'; [common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-].

alb. gheg. grue, Tosk grua 'wife, woman' (**g<sup>w</sup>n-ōn*), pl. grā;

Note: alb. grua : Breton gwreg : Welsh gwraig 'wife, woman'.

after Vetter Gl. 23, 204 here Messapic benna 'wife' and (?) lepont. venia (Gl. 15, 12);

Note: corn. ben-en 'bride, betrothed woman' = Messapic benna 'wife'.

Gothic qino (**g<sup>w</sup>en-ōn-*) = Old English cwene, Old High German quena, Middle High German quene 'woman, wife'; besides zero grade Middle High German kone, ds., Old Norse kona (Gen. Pl. kvenna) 'wife, woman' (**g<sup>w</sup>en-on-*); lengthened grade Gothic qēns 'wife' (**g<sup>w</sup>ēni-s* = Avestan jāni-, Old Indic jāni-), Old Norse kvæn, kvān, Old English cwēn, asächs. quān ds.;

Old Prussian genna, Vok. genno 'wife, woman';

Old Church Slavic žena 'wife, woman'; ženinъ 'female' = Gothic qineins ds.;

alb. zonjë 'mistress, wife, woman' (**g<sup>w</sup>eniā*).

Maybe alb. (**g<sup>w</sup>aniā*) zana 'nymph, goddess', (**g<sup>w</sup>oniā*) zot m., Pl. zota f. 'god' [common alb. n > nt > ŋ : npers. zan, Old Church Slavic žena 'wife, woman']

Tocharian A śām (Pl. śnu) = B śana (Obl. śno) 'wife, woman'; Pedersen Tocharian Sprachg. 37 f.

References: WP. I 681 f., WH. I 112 f., Trautmann 84, Meillet Esquisse 84, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. 296, 582 f., Tagliavini L'Albanese di Dalmatia 126.

Page(s): 473-474

---

Root / lemma: gʷhedʰ-

Meaning: to beg, wish for

Material: Avestan jaiḍyemi, Old pers. jadiyāmiy 'I beg for, entreat';

gr. Aor. θέσασθαι (**gʷhedʰ-s-*) 'plead, beg', participle -θεστός in ἀπόθεστος 'curses, disdains', πολύθεστος 'longs very much', Pers.-N. Θεό-θεστος, Boeotian Θιό-φειστος; πόθος m., ποθή f. 'longing, yearning, desire', ποθέω 'long for, miss painfully, ask';

Old Irish guidiu 'beg' (= ποθέω), Perf. 1. Sg. ro-gād, s-Konj. 1. Pl. gessam (etc.); geiss f. 'curse, enchantment, spell, bewitchment, taboo' (**gʷhedʰ-ti-s*); guide 'prayer' (**gʷhodʰiā*); foigde 'begging' (**uo-gediā*); cymr. gweddi 'prayer' (**uo-godīmā*);

Lithuanian gedáu-ju, -ti 'long, seek longingly, ask, want', gedù (and gedžiù), gedėti 'long; be sad, mourn'; nasal present pasigendù, -gedaũ, -gèstí 'long; miss something', ablaut. causative gadinti 'spoil, disturb, bother', hence secondary the ō-vocalism (instead of uo) from gōdas 'greed, lust; burdock', godūs 'avaricious, stingy', godžiúos, godétis 'lust, crave, whereupon crave, wish, eager, be avid';

in Slavic with implemented nasalization: Old Church Slavic žęždq, žędati, Old Czech žádati 'lust, crave, after which covet', žęždq, žęděti 'cupere', žęžda 'thirst', poln. żądza 'lust, greed, lust, longing, yearning, wish'; doubtful because of the anlaut Old Norse geð n. (**gaðja-*) 'sense, mind, character, desire, lust', geðlauss 'characterless' perhaps = Old High German getilōs, Middle High German getlōs 'unrestrained, bratty'; one follows the correspondent grouping θέσασθαι : ποθέω = Irish gess-am (**gʷhedʰ-s-o-mos*) : guidiu (**gʷhodʰ-ejō*).

References: WP. I 673, Trautmann 84 f., Endzelin Latvian Gr. 577.

Page(s): 488

---

Root / lemma: gʷheie- : gʷhī-

Meaning: vein, sinew

Material: Cymr. gŷ-au Pl. ` nerves, tendons ';

Lithuanian gijà ` Faden im Aufzug eines Gewebes ', Latvian dzija ` filament', Pl. threads, strings';

Old Church Slavic žī-ca `sinew', russ. dial. žīca `worsted, knit made from spun wool ', Serbo-Croatian žīca `filament, wire, cord, string '; the Balto Slavic-forms could also belong to gʷijā-.

gʷhīslo-

Armenian jil `sinew, cord';

Latin filum `filament ';

Maybe alb. fill `thread' a Latin loanword.

Lithuanian gysla `vein, sinew, midrib, center vein of a leaf ', Latvian dzīsla, dzīksla `vein' (the nasalization in žemait. gīnsla is secondary), Old Prussian pettegislo `Rückenader '; but Old Church Slavic žila, russ. žīta, Serbo-Croatian žīla etc. `vein, sinew' are neologisms to žī-ca, see above.

References: WP. I 670, 694, WH. I 497 f., Trautmann 87, 90.

Page(s): 489

---

Root / lemma: gʷhel-

Meaning: to wish

Material: Gr. θέλω, ἐ-θέλω (to prefix s. *ē-, ō-*particle) `will, wish, desire ', changing through ablaut φαλίζει θέλει Hes.; ἐπιζάφελος `violent';

Old Norse gildra f.; gildri n. `dragnet ', gilja `allure, entice', Old Swedish giæl-skaper `lubricity ';

Old Church Slavic želěti, želati, iter. russ.-Church Slavic žalati `wish', Old Church Slavic želja `wish, longing, yearning' (also `grieve ' and `mourning, grief' through support in žalb `pain' from **gʷel-* `prick').

References: WP. I 692.

Page(s): 489

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hemb-

Meaning: to spring, hop

Material: Gr. ἀθεμβοῦσα ἀκολασταίνουσα ('exuberant') Hes.;

Middle High German gampen, gumpen 'spring', gampel, gumpel 'amusing wilful jumping, farce play', gümpel, Modern High German Gimpe!, with High German consonant shift Middle High German gampfm. 'the swaying'; Norwegian dial. gimpa 'sway, swing', gamp m. 'big clumsy guy, ungainly horse'.

A short root form g<sup>w</sup>hem- perhaps in Old Icelandic gaman n. 'pleasure, joy, friskiness, playfulness, sensuality, voluptuousness', Old High German gaman n. ds., etc.

References: WP. I 678 f.

Page(s): 490

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hen-1

Meaning: to swell, abound

Material: Old Indic ā-hanā- 'tumescent, plentiful, luscious', ghanā- 'dense, thick', m. 'compact mass'; npers. ā-gandan 'fill', āganiś 'full';

Armenian yogn 'much, great, many, of things' (Prap. i + **o-g<sup>w</sup>hon-* or **o-g<sup>w</sup>hno-*, in prefix o- standing next to Aryan ā-);

gr. εὐθενής 'rich, in fullness, wealth', Hes. εὐθενέω 'flourish', εὐθένεια 'fullness, blossoming state', lengthened grade Ionian εὐθηνής 'rich, in fullness, wealth', Ionian Attic εὐθηνέω 'flourish, be in bloom, blossom and power', εὐθηνία f. 'fullness, wealth'; o-grade Πολυφόντης = Πολυκτήτης, Κλεοφόντης, etc., reduced-grade φανᾶν θέλειν Hes., probably actually 'be horny, lustful';

Lithuanian ganà 'sufficient', ganėti 'suffice', gandėti 'have enough', Latvian gana 'sufficient';

Old Church Slavic gonějetъ, goněti 'suffice', Denomin. from **gona* = Lithuanian ganà, whether here gr. ἄφενος, ἄφνος n. 'plentiful supply, richness', ἀφνειός 'propertied, owning property' (φ and the vowel suggestion from the vowel loss form (α)φν- or **sṃ-g<sup>w</sup>h(e)n-?*), also παρ-θένος 'virgin' (physical fullness, wealth?)?

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hen-2(ə)-

Meaning: to hit

Material: nominal formation: g<sup>w</sup>hóno-s `hit', g<sup>w</sup>hṇ-tó-s `beaten', g<sup>w</sup>hṇ-tí-s and g<sup>w</sup>hṇ-tiā (?) `hit', g<sup>w</sup>hen-tel- `hit', g<sup>w</sup>hen-tuo-s `occidendus'.

Old Indic hán-ti (newer thematic hanatī) `hits, strikes, kills, slays', 3. Pl. ghn-ánti, Imp. ja-hí, Opt. han-yāt, ghn-īta, Perf. jaghána; jaghanvās, Gen. jaghn-ús-aḥ, Pass. hanyáte, participle hatá- `beaten, killed' (= Avestan jata-, gr. -φάτος), hántva-ḥ `to hit, to slay' (: Avestan jaḍwa-, Old Church Slavic žetva), vṛtra-hán-, Gen. -ghn-áh (= Avestan vərəθra-jan-, Gen. -γ-nō) `knocking down the opposition', ghaná- `killing, m. shillelagh, club, mace, joint' (= gr. ἀνδρο-φόνος, Latvian gans), saṃ-há-t `layer, stack, pile', hatí-ḥ `hitting, blow, multiplication' (: gr. διφάσι-ος, Avestan -jaiti-, Old Norse guðr, gunnr), (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), hatyā (late!) `killing' (: Old High German gundea, Lithuanian dial. ginčią), hantár- `one who hits or kills' (= Old Church Slavic žeteljъ); from the heavy basis Old Indic hanitum (late!) and ghāta- `killing', m. `blow, knock, killing, annihilation', ghātayati `slays'; Note: common Old Indic g<sup>w</sup>h- > h-.

Avestan jain-ti (= Old Indic hánti-) `he hits, strikes, kills', Imp. jaiḍi, 1. Sg. Med. ni-yne `I knock down', Opt. paiti-ynīta (= Old Indic ghnīta) `he would like to fight around', participle jata- (= Old Indic hatá-, see above), jaḍwa- `occidendus', participle Perf. Akt. jaḡnvā, npers. ajanam `I killed = defeated', 3. Sg. aja<sup>(n)</sup>; Avestan jana- `punching', jantar- `the hits, knocks, slays', janti- f. `the hitting, the killed', -jaiti- (as 2. compound part) `the hitting' (= Old Indic hatí-); Vərəθrajan- `knocking down the opposition' = Old Indic Vṛtra-han-;

Armenian gan, Gen. gani (**g<sup>w</sup>he-n*) `blow, cudgel', ganem `hit, beat', jin `stick' (**g<sup>w</sup>hen-*), jnem `I hit' (about **jinem* from **g<sup>w</sup>henō* = hánatī, Lithuanian genù, Old Church Slavic ženq), jinjem `destroy, clean' (from **g<sup>w</sup>heniō* = θείνω, Lithuanian geniù);

gr. θείνω (**g<sup>w</sup>hen-iō* = Armenian jinjem `slay, kill', alb. gjanj `hunt, chase', Lithuanian geniù `ästle ab') `hit', θενῶ, ἔθεινα; redupl. ἔπεφνον `slay', πέφεται; -φάτος in hom. ἀρηι-φάτος (= Old Indic hatá-ḥ), also in δίφατον διφάσιον Hes. i.e. `double' (`Mal' = `blow, knock', also:) δι-φάσι-ος (: Old Indic hatí- s. above); φόνος `murder' (= russ. gon), φονή ds., φονεύς `murderer', ἀνδροφόνος `men killing' (see also Boisacq under φοινός); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>h- > d-, b-.

alb. gjanj ` hunt, chase, pursue' (**g<sup>w</sup>henjō*);

Latin dēfendō, -ere ` refuse, defend ', offendere ` stumble, offend ', infensus (participle **infendō*) ` hostile ';

Old Irish gonim ` wound, slay, kill', Perf. 1. Sg. gegon, 3. Sg. geguin; guin ` wound';

Old Norse guðr, gunnr f. (= Old Indic hatī), Old Saxon gūðea, Old English gūþ (**gunþjō* = Old Indic hatyā besides the pronunciation) `fight, struggle, battle', Old High German gund-fano ` war flag '; Old Norse gandr `stick', Swiss gunten `a kind of wedge'; Norwegian dial. gana ` clear out the boughs in trees ' as Lithuanian genėti;

Lithuanian genù (= Old Church Slavic ženq, Old Indic hánatī, Armenian jnem) giñti `drive (cattle on the pasture) ', Latvian dzenu-, dzīt ds., heavy basis: geniù (= θείνω) genē-ti `branch off, ramify, fork, divide' and ginù, ginti `defend, shield ' (giñti: ginti, giñtas: gintas = Old Indic hatá: ghātá); to genù Iterat. ganyíti ` (drive cattle =) protect, graze cattle '; Lithuanian gānas, let. gans `herdsman, shepherd' (= Old Indic ghaná-), gani m. Pl. `pastures ', lengthened grade Lithuanian nakti-gonis m. `night bird, reveller, merryman'; Lithuanian genỹs, Latvian dzenis `woodpecker ', Lithuanian dial. ginčià (= Old Indic hatyā), giñčas `fight', giñklas m. `weapon' (**gintlas*, compare Old Church Slavic želo from **gindla*-), išganūs `salutary, beneficial ' (Lithuanian gáinioti is iterative to giñti; Latvian dzenis `das in der Gabel der Pflugschar eingeklemmte Holz ', dzenulis `sting, prick' (compare to meaning under Old Church Slavic želo `sting, prick'));

Old Church Slavic ženq, gъnati `drive, push' (as Lithuanian genù), Iter. gonjō, goniti `drive, push, hunt, chase', whereof again poganjati `pursue '; russ. etc. gon `drive, impel, drift, propel, push, thrust, hunt' (= φόνος), Czech úhona `injury, damage', serb. prijègon `fight, struggle' (in addition perhaps klr. honóba `annoyance, plague', sloven. gonóba `damage, ruin', ugonóba `annihilation, Untergang ');

Maybe alb. (**ghanas*) gjah `hunt '.

Old Church Slavic žbnjō, žeti (serb. žěti, also heavy basis) `reap', žetva (serb. žětva) f. `harvest' (: Old Indic hántva-); also želo (**žēdlo*) n. `sting, prick', poln. żądło ds., russ. žáto `sting, prick, cutting edge of a knife, an axe'; Slavic **gen-tel-* m. `reaper, mower' in Old Church Slavic žeteljъ (= Old Indic han-tár `one who hits, kills ');

Hittite ku-en-zi `slays ' (= Old Indic hántī), 3. Pl. ku-na-an-zi (kunanzī); compare Old Indic ghnántī (**g<sup>w</sup>hn-entī*).

References: WP. I 679 ff., WH. I 332 f., Trautmann 85 f.

Page(s): 491-493

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>her-

Meaning: hot, warm

Material: Old Indic hāras- n. 'blaze, glow' (= gr. θέρος, Armenian jer), ghṛṇá- m. 'blaze, glow, heat' (= Latin fornus, Old Church Slavic grъnъ), ghṛṇóti 'glows, shines', gharmá- m. 'blaze, glow, heat', Avestan garəma- 'hot', n. 'heat, blaze, glow', Old pers. in garma-pada- name of a month, perhaps '* beginning of the heat' (= Latin formus, German warm 'warm'; Old Prussian gorme); Note: common Old Indic g<sup>w</sup>h- > h-.

Armenian jer 'warmth, good weather; warm', jernum 'warm me', jerm 'warm' (= gr. θερμός; perhaps as **g<sup>w</sup>her-mn-os* derivative of men-stem:) jermn Gen. jerman 'fever' (also gr. θερμα f. 'warmth' originally a neuter?);

thrako-Phrygian germo- 'warm' (in many PN: Jokl Eberts Reallex. 10, 142 f., 13, 285, 292, 294), kappadok. garmia(s) 'Stadtname auf der Peutingerschen Tafel' (a = Indo Germanic o);

Gr. θέρος n. 'summer heat, harvest', θέρομαι 'become hot', θερμός 'warm', θερμασσα 'oven';

also Germ- in Illyrian PN, as also probably in originally North Illyrian VN Germani (Pokorny ZceltPh. 21, 103 ff); alb. Tosc zjarr 'fire, heat' (rr from rm), gheg. zjarm (: θερμός), ngroh 'warm' (**g<sup>w</sup>hrē-* as in Old Church Slavic grěti 'warm', Latvian grēmens 'pyrosis, heartburn'); alb. gatsë 'burning coal' (**g<sup>w</sup>hortiā* ?);

Maybe alb. grij 'freeze' : ngroh 'warm'

Maybe other alb. cognates: zjej 'boil, cook', duplicated zezë adj., f. 'black, burnt'.

Also alb. Tosc zjarr 'fire, glow, heat, fervour' : Rumanian jar 'fire, glow, heat, fervour'.

Latin formus 'warm' (Festus), fornus, furnus (**g<sup>w</sup>horno-s*), fornāx 'oven' (latter being based on a fem. ā-stem), fornix, -icis 'dome' (**fornicos* 'having the figure of a stove');

Note:

The shift ĝ(h)- > d- is of Illyrian alb. origin, hence the common Latin shift d- > f- testifies a loanword from Illyrian

Old Irish fo-geir 'warms up, heats up' etc., bret. gred m. 'warmth, heat; courage' = Middle Irish grith 'sun, heat' (**gʷhrtu-s*), Middle Irish gorim, guirim 'warm up, get warm, burn', nir. gor 'heat; brood; ulcer'; cymr. gori 'brood', gor 'brood, pus', bret. gor 'burning fire, boil'; Old Irish gorn 'fire' (= Latin fornus); against it is Irish gorm 'blue' loanword from cymr. gwrn 'dark-(blue)' and this together with abr. uurm in Uurm-haelon MN 'aux sources bruns' from Old English wurma 'purple color' borrowed (Gwynn Hermathena 20, 63ff.); Old Irish goirt 'bitter' ('the burning taste'), wherefore Old Irish gorte (**gʷhortiā*) 'hunger';

Maybe truncated alb. (**gʷhoria*) uria 'hunger', ura 'burning log'.

Old Norse gǫrr (**garwa-*), gerr, gørr (**garwia-*) 'ready, willing, perfect', Old High German garo 'prepared, ready', Old English gearu, Modern High German gar, Old Norse gørva, Old High German garawen, Middle High German gerwen 'finish, prepare, make ready, tan, convert hide into leather', Old English gierwan 'prepare, concoct, cook', Old Norse gerð (**garwiþō*) 'fermenting the beer' (formal indeed = Old High German garawida 'preparing'), Middle High German gerwe 'yeast, filth', Middle Low German gere 'fermentation, stench, dung pool, dirt', geren 'ferment, seethe' are rather after Holthausen Wb. of old westn. 102 defined from prefix ga- and **-arwa-* > Old Norse ǫrr 'rash, hasty, skilful' (above S. 331);

Old English gyrwe-fenn 'morass', gyre 'manure', mnl. gore, göre 'smoke, smell, odor', Middle Low German göre 'puddle, slop', Norwegian dial. gurm 'yeast, ordure, food mash', Old Norse gorn 'the half-digested stomach contents', gjǫr (**gervā-*) 'residuum, sludge', Old English Middle Low German Old High German gor 'crap, muck, manure'; to meaning compare above cymr. gor 'pus';

here probably Old Norse gersta 'embitter', Middle High German garst, Modern High German garstig 'spoil'; about Gothic warmjan 'warm' etc. see though under uer- 'cook';

Lithuanian gāras 'vapor; intense desire', Latvian gars 'vapor, ghost, soul', Old Prussian goro f. 'stove, hearth', gorme 'heat', Latvian gaīme 'warmth', Old Prussian garewingi Adv. 'rutting, in heat', Latvian grēmens 'pyrosis, heartburn';

Old Church Slavic goritъ, gorěti 'burn', grějo, grěti 'warm', žeravъ 'blazing', požarъ 'blaze', grъnъ 'Kessel' (= Latin fornus), grъnilo 'oven', russ. gorn 'stove, hearth', poln. garniec 'pot, pan'; further Old Church Slavic gorьkъ (**gʷhori-ko-*) 'bitter' ('burning of taste'; compare above Irish goirt, but sloven. górak also 'warm', Czech horký 'warm', against it Old Czech hořký 'bitter'; isolated Serbo-Croatian gr̂k, f. gr̂ka 'bitter', compare Berneker 232; Old Church Slavic gorъbъ compounds 'evil, bad' ('*burning, bitter'), gore 'blow!'

g<sup>w</sup>hrē-ns-o- (due to es-stem g<sup>w</sup>hre-nes-):

Old Indic ghramśá-ḥ m. 'solar glow, sunshine, brightness' = bret. groez, grouez (**g<sup>w</sup>hrenso-*) 'solar heat', cymr. gwres 'heat' (to w s. Pedersen KG. I 108, e through the influence of tes ds.); ī from Old Irish grīs 'fire', grīsaid 'fires, stimulates' probably from **ghrēnso-*, in spite of Thurneysen Gr. 130.

References: WP. I 687 ff., WH. I 532 ff., Trautmann 79, 102.

Page(s): 493-495

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hđei(ə)-

Meaning: to perish, destroy

Material: Old Indic kṣiṇāti, kṣiṇōti (: gr. *φθινF-ω), kṣáyati 'destroys, allows to pass', participle kṣitá-ḥ 'exhausted' (= gr. φθιτός; śráva-ḥ ákṣitam = gr. κλέος ἄφθιτον 'indestructible fame'), kṣīṇá-ḥ ds., kṣīyátē 'schwindet hin, nimmt ein Ende', kṣayá-ḥ 'decline, reduction, ruin' (: gr. φθόν f.), kṣítí-ḥ 'crime, ruin' (= gr. φθίσις and -?- Latin sītis; compare -tu-stem Latin sītus); [common Old Indic ḡ<sup>w</sup>h- > kṣ- : gr. ḡ<sup>w</sup>h- > ph- : Latin kṣ- > s-] prakr. ajjhitah- (= ἄφθιτος), jhīṇa- (= Old Indic kṣīṇa-);

Avestan ayžōnvamnəm 'sich nicht mindernd' (Kuiper Nasalpräes. 65<sup>1</sup>);

gr. ep. φθίνω, Attic φθίνω (*φθινFω, see above) 'destroy', mostly intr. 'decay, wane, perish', φθινύ-θω 'decay, wane, make disappear', Fut. φθείσω (Attic ἀποφθίσω), Aor. ἔφθεισα (Attic ἀπέφθισα), ἐφθίμην, φθίμενος 'destroy', Pass. 'be destroyed, perish', participle Perf. Pass. φθιτός, φθόν 'consumption, tuberculosis', φθίσις ds. (see above); about perhaps old double forms, as ψίνεσθαι, ψινάξειν 'allow to drop, lose flowers or fruits', ψίσις ἀπώλεια Hes., s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 326.

From Latin probably sītus, -ūs 'rust, mould, mustiness, dust, dirt, filthiness of the body, neglect, idleness, absence of use, a rusting, moulding, a wasting away, dulness, inactivity' and sītis 'thirst' (if actually '*decline, languishing').

Maybe alb. et` 'thirst' : Italian sete, Spanish sed, Catalan set, Croatian žed, Czech žízeň, Furlan sêť, Galician sede, Leonese sede, Portuguese sede, Romanian sete, Sardinian Campidanese sidi, Valencian set` 'thirst' < Latin sitis` 'thirst'.

References: WP. I 505 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 326, Benveniste BSL. 38, 139 ff.

Page(s): 487

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hōer-

Meaning: to run, flow

Note: (or better g<sup>w</sup>ōer-??)

Material: Old Indic kṣāratī` 'streams, flows out, melts away, disappears', kṣara-m` 'water', kṣārayati` 'allows to flow', kṣālayati` 'washes away' (compare Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 241); Avestan γžaraiti` 'streams, boils up', γžārayeiti` 'allows to flow', with vī- 'allows to overflow'; further formations in ā-γžrāḍayeiti` 'allows to surge', vī-γžrāḍayeiti` 'leaves apart, flows'; reconverted with metathesis žyar- in avīfra-žyaraiti` 'flows here to'; common

Old Indic gh- > kṣ- : Avestan gh- > gz- > gr. φθ probably Armenian jur, Gen. jroy` 'water' (**g<sup>w</sup>hōōro-*);

Maybe alb. (**g<sup>w</sup>hōōro-*) bdorë, vdorë, dzborë` 'snow'.

gr. Attic φθείρω (**φθερῶ*; Lesbian φθέρρω, Arcadian φθήρω), zero grade Doric φθαίρω (**φθαῖρω*) 'ruin'; in addition also φθείρ 'louse' (ψείρει φθείρει Hes. is result of the later spirant pronunciation of θ), φθορά 'destruction, ruin, of persons, death, esp. by some general visitation, as pestilence, of animals, loss by death, passing out of existence, ceasing to be, deterioration, loss by deterioration, damage, seduction, rape, abortion or miscarriage, gradation of colours in painting, storm-tossings or shipwrecks' also συμφθείρω besides 'ruin at the same time or totally' also 'let colors flow into each other', then also 'melt, mix generally', συμφθείρεσθαι 'flow together'.

Maybe truncated alb. (**bdōr*) morri` 'louse' 'the scratching'? : gr. φθείρ ds.: φθείρω : modern Greek ψείρα 'louse' : Basque zorri` 'louse'.

Note:

It seems that from Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hōer- : to run, flow, derived Root / lemma: mer-5, mere- : to rub, wipe; to pack, rob, common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>h- > b.

References: WP. I 700, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 326, 714, Benveniste BSL. 38, 139 ff.

Page(s): 487-488

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hřen-

Meaning: phrenic; soul, mind

Material: Gr. φρήν `phren' (Pl. `intestines, entrails'), `soul, ghost, reason, heart', φρονέω `think', φρόνησις `thought, reason', φρονίς (: Old Icelandic grundr) `care', ἄφρων `injudicious, crazy', σώφρων `sensible, wise', εὐφρων `the kindly time; of sense, pleasing, favorable', εὐφραίνω `make glad, entertain';

Old Icelandic grunr m. `suspicion', gruna `be suspicious of', grundr m. `contemplation', grunda `think'.

References: WP. I 699.

Page(s): 496

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>hrē-

Meaning: to smell, scent

Material: Old Indic jíghrāti, ghrāti `it smells, it smells in anything, kisses, perceives', participle ghrātá-, ghrāṇa- m. n. `smell, odor, fragrance', ghrāṇā f. and ghrāṇa- n. `nose', ghrāti- `olfaction, smell, odor';

gr. ὀσφραίνομαι `smell, scent, feel' (< **odes* `smell, odor' + **g<sup>w</sup>hr-*), Aor. Attic ὠσφρόμην; ὀσφρησις `olfaction, smell, odor' (: Old Indic ghrāti-);

Tocharian A krām, B kor `nose'.

References: WP. I 697, WH. I 540.

Page(s): 495

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>jiā, g<sup>w</sup>jiós

Meaning: sinew

Material: Old Indic jyā `sinew, tendon, string esp. of the bow', Avestan jyā `bowstring (in compounds also sinew of flesh)';

gr. βίος m. `bowstring'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

about Lithuanian gijà `filament', Old Church Slavic žī-ca `sinew' etc. see below g<sup>w</sup>hei-.

References: WP. I 670, 694, Trautmann 87, 90.

Page(s): 481

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>is-ti-s

Meaning: finger

Material: Cymr. bys, acorn. bis, bes, bret. biz 'finger', Middle Irish biss ega 'icicle'; Celto-Germanic PN Bissula 'little fingers'(?); Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Old Norse kvistr m. 'twig, branch';

Middle Low German twist 'twig, branch' had to be a miscellaneous word from kvistr, what is as doubtful, as Old Norse kvīs/f. 'twig, branch, fork, arm of a river' to be separated from Old High German zwisila 'fork-shaped object, twig, branch'; see above S. 232.

Maybe alb. gisht, glisht 'finger', bisht 'tail' common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Note: alb. proves that Root / lemma: gʷis-ti-s: 'finger' derived from zero grade of Sanskrit: aṅguṣṭhá-

First attestation: ŚB+

Part of speech: [m]

Meaning: 'thumb'

Proto-Indo-Iranian: HanguštHa-

Page in EWAia: 49

See also: aṅgúri-

Avestan: YAv. aṅgušta- [m] 'toe'

Khotanese: haṃguṣṭa- 'finger'

References: WP. I 694.

Page(s): 481

---

Root / lemma: gʷīu-

Meaning: resin

Material: Armenian kiv m., Gen. kvoy 'resin, mastic' (**gʷīu-*), therefrom kveni 'the pitch-pine, larch';

Old Irish bīf. (?) 'tar' (**gʷīu-*); Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

russ. živica, Lower Sorbian žyvica 'resin';

the connection with g(i)eu- 'chew' is dubious, but not impossible.

References: Thurneysen Mél. Pedersen 301 f.

Page(s): 482

---

Root / lemma: gʷltur(os)

Meaning: vulture

Grammatical information: m.

Material: Gr. *βλοσυρός (with Aeolic λο for λα) `vulture', Hom. βλοσυρ-ώπις `grim-looking', hence Adj. βλοσυρός `with terrible eyes, grisly looking, hairy, shaggy, bristling, ', etc.;

Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Latin voltur (vultur), -uris and volturus `vulture'.

References: M. Leumann, Homer. Wörter 141 f.

Page(s): 482

---

Root / lemma: gʷor-gʷ(or)o-

Meaning: dirt, dung

Material: Armenian kork `smut';

gr. βόρβορος `slime, mud, smut, ordure, crap, muck'. Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

References: WP. I 694.

Page(s): 482

---

Root / lemma: gʷou-

Meaning: cattle

Grammatical information: m. f. Nom. Sg. gʷōus, Gen. gʷous (and gʷoḡos?), Akk. gʷōm, Lok. gʷoḡi

Material: Old Indic gáuḥ m. f. `cattle' (= Avestan gāuš ds.), Gen. góḥ (= Avestan gāuš), Dat. gāve (= Avestan gave), Lok. gāvi (= Latin Abl. boue), Akk. gām (also 2silb., as Avestan gaṃ); Pl. Nom. gāvah (= Avestan gāvō), Gen. gāvām (= Avestan gavām), Akk. gāḥ (= Avestan gā, Indo Germanic **gʷōs*, gr. Doric βῶς); therefrom gō-pā-ḥ `herdsman, shepherd', gōpāyāti, gopayati `hütet', etc.;

Armenian kon `cow';

gr. Attic βούς m. f. `cattle, cow', Akk. βούν [both with fake ou in place of old *βούς (with real ou), Akk. *βῶν], Doric βῶς, Akk. βῶν, Gen. βο(F)ός, etc.; also in βου-λῦτός m. `time of unyoking oxen from the plough, evening', βού-τυρον m. `butter' (out of it Latin butyrum, Modern High German `butter'), actually `cow's cheese' (τύρός `cheese'), further in strengthening prefix βου- from βού-λιμος `ravenousness', etc. (Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 434, 6; 577 β); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Latin bōs, bovis m. f. `cattle' (Oscan-Umbrian loanword for Latin **vōs*); derivatives of stem bov- (**g<sup>w</sup>ou-* before vowel) or bū- (**g<sup>w</sup>ou-* before consonance), būb- (redupl. formation): bovīle `cowshed', bubīle ds., bovīnus `of or pertaining to oxen or cows: medulla', būbulus ds. (lautl. identical with gr. βούβαλος `gazelle', that with Old Indic gavala-h `wild Büffel' is not to be immediately equated), Bubona `cattle goddess', etc.; Umbrian bum `bovem' (**g<sup>w</sup>ōm*), bue `bove', Oscan in Búvaianúd, Volscan bim `bovem';

Old Irish bó f. `cow' (from arch. **báu*, Indo Germanic **g<sup>w</sup>ōus*), Gen. arch. bóu, báu, later báo, bó, in Brit. replaced through the derivative acymr. buch, ncymr. buwch, acorn. buch, bret. buc'h `cow' (**boukkā*); here the Proto Irish FIN Boouivḏa (= **Bovovindā*), nowadays engl. Boyne, Old Irish Bó(f)ind `die Kuhweiße'; **g<sup>w</sup>ou-*, Celtic **bou-* in compounds gallorom. bō-tege (**g<sup>w</sup>ou-tegos*) `cowshed' (M.-L. 1229a), cymr. bugail (**g<sup>w</sup>ou-k<sup>w</sup>olios*) `βουκόλος', bret. bugenn `cowhide', (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), next to which **bovo-tegos* in abret. boutig, cymr. beudy `cowshed'; Middle Irish búasach `rich (in cows)' from buas `richness' (**g<sup>w</sup>ouo-uid-to-s* `cow- knowledge');

Old High German chuo, asächs. Old Swedish kō (from dem Akk. **kōn*, Indo Germanic **g<sup>w</sup>ōm*), Old English Old Frisian cú, Old Icelandic kýr `cow' (**kūz* from **g<sup>w</sup>ōus*; Old English cū could also be = Old High German kuo);

Latvian gūovs `cow', Demin. guōtiņa;

Slavic **govędo* `cattle', Old Church Slavic gu-mъno `threshing floor', i.e. `place where steers out the grain';

Tocharian A ko `cow', Pl. kowi, B kau, Pl. Obliq. kewän; A kayurs, B kaurše `bull' < **g<sup>w</sup>ou-urso-*, to Old Indic vṛṣaṇ- `bull'.

Maybe alb. (**k<sup>w</sup>o-*) kau `ox': Rumanian (**g<sup>w</sup>o-*) bou `ox' common Illyrian - Celtic g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

compare still io-derivative Old Indic gávya-, gavyá-, Avestan gavya- bovinus, hom. τεσσαράβοιος `worth four steers', Armenian kogi `butter' (**g<sup>w</sup>ouio-*), and the zero grade Old Indic śata-gu- `owning hundred cows' = Old pers. šatagu- `name of a country' (originally people, actually `owning hundred cows'), Old Indic náva-gva, dása-gva-, Avestan *aēta(*g)va-* EN, i.e. `one who has gleaming steers'; gr. ἐκατόμ-βη (**g<sup>w</sup>u-ā*) `an offering of a hundred oxen; sacrifice'; against it is Latin bū-bulcus `one who ploughs with oxen, a ploughman, a herdsman' after sū-bulcus `a swine-herd' shortened from **būbulcus*; after Specht Indog. Dekl. 234 here Old Norse kvīgr 'bull calf', kvīge 'young cow' (after Holthausen Wb. of old westn. in addition westfäl. quīne, nld. kween ds.) and kussi, kursi 'calf', etc.

To cattle name one places the gr. family of βόσκω 'graze, feed', βοσκή, βόσις 'feed, pasture', βοτόν 'cattle', βοτάνη 'pasture herb, feed', βοτήρ, βώτωρ 'herdsman, shepherd', βωτιάνειρα 'man-feeding, nurse of heroes, epith. of fruitful countries'; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Maybe alb. (*βώτωρ) bari 'herdsman, shepherd'.

as well as Lithuanian gaujà 'herd', gujū, gūiti 'drive, push', gúotas 'herd'; the oldest parts of these rows may have possibly been **g<sup>w</sup>ō[u]-to-m* 'herd of cattle' and **g<sup>w</sup>ou̯iō* 'be cattle shepherd'? About gr. πρέσβυς 'old' see below per-3.

numerous would become borrowings from sumer. gu (older **gud*) 'bull, cattle'. Against it Specht Indog. Dekl. 33.

References: WP. 1696 f., WH. I 112, 118, Trautmann 94, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 577, 708.

Page(s): 482-483

---

Root / lemma: g<sup>w</sup>ōu-, g<sup>w</sup>ū-

Meaning: dung, dirt

Note: in Germanic and esp. in Balto-Slavic with meaning -development from 'repugnance, disgust, repulsion, loathing' to 'small, disgusting animal, reptile' and from 'pollute, soil, defile, mutilate, deform' to 'vilify, revile, rebuke'.

Material: Old Indic gū-tha-ḥ, -m 'excrement', Avestan gū-ṭa n. 'smut, ordure' (only by Gramm. also guvāti 'cacat', gūnam 'cacatum');

Armenian ku and koy 'crap, muck' (**g<sup>w</sup>ōu-sō*; ? see below);

Latin būbināre 'soil with the menstruations' could be transfigured from old **bovinō* (with Oscan-Umbrian b for g<sup>w</sup>), as bovīle to bubīle; Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

maked. γοτάν (leg. γοῦταν) ὕν Hes. (?);

Slavic **gonъno* 'ordure' in russ.-Church Slavic govno etc., in ablaut Slavic **gavjō*, **gaviti* in russ.-Church Slavic ogaviti 'vexare', serb. gaviti se 'be disgusted' (and changing through ablaut gŭvī mi se 'disgusts me, I must throw up', gŭviti se), Czech o-haviti 'mutilate, deform', ohavný 'hideous', russ. dial. gávedʲ f., 'horror', klr. hávedňa 'plebs', Czech havěd' `fowl, plebs ', poln. gawiedź `small children and domestic animals; fowl, lice; rabble, mob '.

d<sup>h</sup>-extension g<sup>w</sup>ē[u] d<sup>h</sup>-, g<sup>w</sup>ō[u] d<sup>h</sup>-, g<sup>w</sup>ūd d<sup>h</sup>-.

Lithuanian géda f. `shame, disgracefulness', gédingas `schandbar ', gédinti `humiliate, revile ', Old Prussian gīdan Akk. `shame';

Old Church Slavic gadъ m. `reptile (*disgusting animal); harmful animal' (**g<sup>w</sup>ād* d<sup>h</sup>-), Church Slavic gaždu, gaditi `abhor, detest, rebuke', russ. gáditi `smudge, befoul, spoil', serb. găd `disgust, repulsion, loathing; snake, worms ', Czech haditi `vilify, rebuke' (etc., s. Berneker 289); poln. żadać się `abominari ', żadny, żadliwy `ugly, nasty ' (**g<sup>w</sup>ēd* d<sup>h</sup>-); russ. dial. gídkij `disgusting', klr. hyd `disgust, repulsion, loathing '; with formants -d(h)a in Czech o-hyzda (**gyz-dā*) `disgust, repulsion, loathing, repugnance', hyzditi `rebuke, vilify, reject', poln. Dialectal gizd `disgust, repulsion, loathing, smut, impure person' (with other meaning change serb. gízda `pride, elegance, jewellery, pleasantness, agreeableness ', s. Berneker 374);

Middle Low German quād `dung, excrements, ordure, manure ', Old High German quāt, Middle High German quāt, kōt, kāt, Modern High German Kot, Tirol kōt `disgusting animal', Pl. kōter `all kinds of vermin ', Middle Low German quād, Middle Dutch qwaet, holl. kwaad `mad, wicked, evil, ugly, spoiled', md. quād `mad, wicked, evil, disgust, weak'; with Indo Germanic -əu-:

cymr. budr `dirty, filthy', budro `smudge', Middle Irish buadraim `cloudy, bewilder' (compare Pedersen KG. I 112); Note: common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-.

Old English cwēad `ordure', Old Frisian quād `evil, bad'; with u from \-əu-* slovak. ohuda `monster', klr. ohúda `reprimand', Old Russian guditi `slander, blaspheme, accuse, blame '; with -ə- as zero grade from -ā[u] or Germanic ablaut neologism ndd. quadder `dirty dampness, mucus' = Middle Low German koder `mucus', Modern High German dial. koder, Köder `glutinous mucus, catarrh';

also ndd. quassen (**kwadsōn*) `dribble (in humidity) ', quasken, quatsken, Modern High German quatschen, engl. quask, squash and perhaps the people's name Quadi;

alb. zī (**gʷedʰjio-*), fem. zeze (**gʷedʰjā*) 'black, unlucky, bad', zīf. 'mourning, grief, famine'.

References: WP. I 694 ff., WH. I 118f., Trautmann 81.

Page(s): 483-485

---

Root / lemma: gʷrēbʰ-

Meaning: embryon, young

Material: Gr. βρέφος n. 'foetus, youngling', Middle Irish brommach (**gʷrombʰākos*); Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Old Church Slavic žrěbъ 'plenitude'.

References: WP. I 689.

Page(s): 485

---

Root / lemma: gʷreigʰ-

Meaning: to sleep, dream

Material: Gr. βρίζω (*βριγίω) ἔβριξα 'sleep, be inactive', ἄβριξ ἐγρηγόρως Hes.; Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

russ. grézitʹ 'talk in sleep, fantasize' (barely **grez-*, rather **grʷz-*), grěza 'dream, maundering, silly discourse'. very doubtful; s. also Berneker 351.

References: WP. I 698.

Page(s): 485

---

Root / lemma: gʷrēndʰ-

Meaning: to swell; breast

Material: Gr. βρένθος 'pride', βρενθύομαι 'bear oneself haughtily, hold one's head high, swagger, plume oneself on'; Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Latin grandis 'Of things, full-grown, large, great, full, abundant: tumulus, Of persons, grown up, large, big, tall: Of style, great, lofty, dignified, noble' (a = e or o);

Old Church Slavic grъdbъ 'breast', slovak. hrud 'elevation', poln. old grędzi 'breast', grąd 'erhöhte Stelle im Sumpf, alt 'Insel, Werder' (etc.).

References: WP. I 699, WH. I 617 f.

Page(s): 485

---

Root / lemma: gʷretso-

Meaning: thick, big

Material: Latin grossus 'thick' one maintains to bring together with Middle Irish cymr. corn. bret. bras 'big, large, thick', Middle Irish also 'strong'. However, it makes the Celtic vocalism a problem, and Middle Irish bres 'already' is barely an additional obstruction.

Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Whether bras rather as **gʷrə-sto-* to Latin gravis, above S. 476?

References: WP. I 698, WH. I 623.

Page(s): 485

---

Root / lemma: gʷrēuġh-, gʷrūġh-

Meaning: to gnash the teeth; to bite

Material: a) gr. βρῦχω 'crunch with the teeth, to eat with much noise, to eat greedily' (besides through derailment from βρύξω, ἔβρυξά βρῦκω) 'bite', βρύγδην 'biting', βρυγμός 'bruxism', βρῦχετός 'cold fever' ('chattering of teeth').

b) Old Irish brōn 'distress', cymr. brwyn 'piercing, biting pain' (proto Celtic **brūgnos*);

Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > b-.

Lithuanian gráužiu, gráužti 'gnaw', sugrūžinti 'destroy';

Old Church Slavic gryzq, grysti 'gnaw' (in other Slavic languages also from gnawing grief; here probably also sloven. grúže Pl. f. 'scabies').

To gryzq probably russ. grustʹ 'distress', sloven. grúst 'disgust, repulsion, loathing'.

References: WP. I 697 f., Trautmann 100.

Page(s): 485-486

---

Root / lemma: ha ha!

Meaning: interjection of laughter

Material: Old Indic ha ha, gr. ἄ ἄ (ngr. χαχα inscribed), Latin (ha)hahae, Modern High German ha ha, serb. ha ha, russ. cha cha.

Maybe alb. ha ha

References: Hirt Indo Germanic Gr. I 284 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 303, WH. I 630, 632; Schwentner Interjektionen 18.

Page(s): 497

---

Root / lemma: hã

Meaning: ha! oh! (surprise)

Material: In certain interjections is probably to be accepted the anlaut h- or a kind of guttural spirant; s. also above S. 293 and under kha kha.

Old Indic ha, gr. ἤ, Latin hā, Modern High German ha.

Page(s): 497

---

Root / lemma: iēlo- : iəlo-

Meaning: unripe, raw

Note: only Celtic and Balto-Slavic

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^w o-$  >  $h u-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $h a-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Gall. -ialo- `clearing', often in PN, as Nanto-ialo-, French Nanteuil `valley- clearing', etc.; cymr. ial/f. `clearing', PN ial (J. Loth Mabinogion<sup>2</sup> II 356); an-ial `waste land, wilderness';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- > ia- Celtic

Latvian jēls `unripe, uncultivated, raw, sore (from the skin)';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > ye- > je- Baltic

Slavic **jalъ* and **jalovъ* in russ. játyj and játovyj `infertile, uncultivated (of land)', serb. jälov `infertile', Czech jalový ds., poln. jałowizna `empty, waste place'.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- > ja- Slavic

References: Trautmann 107, Dottin Langue Gauloise 262.

Page(s): 504-505

---

Root / lemma: iē-ro-

Meaning: ` year, summer '

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $Øe-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $Øu-$ ,  $Øü-$ ,  $Øy-$ ,  $Øi-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 296 f. (ei-).

Page(s): 506

Root / lemma: jagh-

Meaning: to chase, wish for

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $Øe-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $Øu-$ ,  $Øü-$ ,  $Øy-$ ,  $Øi-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yahú-, yahvá- `restless, rash, hasty shooting ahead', yahvī ds. (from Flüßen), but sáhasō yahúh `son of the powerful', whereas the concept `kid, child, son' has probably evolved from `the cheerful, movable'; in any case, it corresponds to the latter usage of Avestan yazuš puθrō `the youngest son', yezivī dugədrəm `the youngest one of the daughters' (Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 1280); Old Indic (pra-)yakṣati `penetrates, hurries, strives', yakṣin- perhaps `keen, eager, vivid' (after Graßmann `pursuing, avenging'), yakṣya- `active, quick, lambently fast' (previous to s-formations).

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ya-$  Old Indic

Old High German jagōn, holl. Modern High German jagen, Middle High German jaget (**jagōp*), Modern High German Jagd, Middle Low German holl. jacht `hunt', perhaps after Graßmann Wb. 1001 to Old Indic.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic > ja- Germanic

References: WP. I 195 f.

Page(s): 502

---

Root / lemma: jag-

Meaning: to worship

Comments:

Root / lemma: jag- : to worship : Root / lemma: aġ- : to lead.

see Latin agō, -ōnis 'of the priests killing the sacrificial animal', agōnium 'a victim, beast for sacrifice'.

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > ĥu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ĥa- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>-

Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yājati 'venerates with prayer and sacrifice, oblation' (Perf. ījē, participle iṣṭá-) = Avestan yazaitē ds. (participle yasta- with lengthened grade after the present), Old Indic satya-yáj- 'really adoring, veritable', with zero grade ṛtv-ij- 'sacrificing regularly according to regulation' = 'sacrificial priest', ijya- 'to worship, revere, m. teacher', ijyā 'sacrifice, oblation';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic

Old Indic yajas- n. 'worship, veneration' = gr. ἄγος n. 'blame, maculation, sacrifice, oblation', *παναγής 'totally holy';

Old Indic yajñá-ḥ, Avestan yasna- m. 'worship (of God), sacrifice, oblation' (yajñíya-, Avestan yesnya- 'honorable offering, belonging to the sacrifice'), gr. ἁγνός 'holy, pure, candid';

Tocharian A yäks- 'hug, embrace, hold tight' (Van Windekens Lexique 167f.)?

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Tocharian

gr. ἄζομαι (*ἄζιομαι) `shy', ἅγιος `holy, consecrated' (identical with it Old Indic yájya- `to worship' has been used in Vopadeva as a gerund. Debrunner GGA. 1910, 9), ἀγίζω `consecrate, sanctify, bless; ordain';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  >  $h a-$  = Greek Øǎ-

Meillet (BSL. 21, 126ff., EM<sup>2</sup> 845) will connect the gr. words rather with Latin sacer `holy';

References: WP. I 195, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 303.

Page(s): 501-502

---

Root / lemma: jāi

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  >  $h u-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $h a-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 285 (e-3)

Page(s): 502

---

Root / lemma: jām-

Meaning: to dig

Comment:

Root / lemma: jām- (**jā-mor-*): to dig, derived from a prefixed Root / lemma: mori, mōri: sea.

see Old Saxon meri m. `ditch, pond'.

Note: (or jem- : jēm- : jōm-)

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  >  $h u-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $h a-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Church Slavic jama 'pit, pothole' (originally anlaut j- verified through Old Bulgarian and through that dial. russ. ńama, grown from **νλn-jamě*, **jamq*).

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya-, ja- Old Indic = ja- Slavic

Gr. ἄμῃ f. 'shovel, hack, mattock, hoe', δι-αμάω 'dig up, excavate, dig out', ἐξαμάω, -ομαι 'dig out'; ἀμάρπᾱ 'ditch, trench, channel, canal, furrow', ἀμαρεύω 'irrigate';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ḡa- = Greek Øǣ-

References: WP. I 198 f., Berneker 444.

Page(s): 502

---

Root / lemma: jām

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > ḡu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ḡa- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 285 (e-ǵ)

Page(s): 502

---

Root / lemma: jā- : jō-

Meaning: to be angry; to be punish

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > ḡu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ḡa- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic ved. yā-van- 'attacker, persecutor, pursuer', yā-tár- 'avenger', ṛṇa-yā-, -yā-van-, -yāt- 'avenging the guilt', Old Indic yā-tú- m. 'witchery, ghost, magic demon';

Avestan yā-tu- m. 'sorcery, magician', yā-sā 'wish';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic

Armenian janam 'I exert myself' (Meillet Esquisse<sup>2</sup> 52);

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic > ja- Armenian Slavic **jōra-* 'violent' in Old Church Slavic jarъ 'strict, harsh', jarostъ 'rage, fury, vehemency', russ. járyj 'irascible, irritable, gamy, violent, fiery, fast, rapid, hurried', etc.; in addition nsloven. jâl 'envy' (: gr. ζήλος)? Different above Berneker 28.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic > ja- Slavic

In -m- formant:

Maybe alb. jerm 'rage, fury, vehemency';

gr. ζήλος, Doric ζᾱλος m. 'eagerness, jealousy, envy' (: nsloven. jâl), ζητρός 'tormenter', ζημία, Doric ζᾱμία 'punishment, penance, atonement, loss'; ζωρός 'fiery, strong, not mixed (of wine), pure, sheer, prop. of wine without water' (: Old Church Slavic jarъ); ablaut. ἐπι-ζαρέω; 'onrush, attack, press'?

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Proto Greek ye- > ge- > Old Greek ze-,  $h_3^w o-$  > Proto Greek yo- > go- > Old Greek zo-,  $h_2^w a-$  > Proto Greek ya- > ga- > Old Greek za-

Old Irish á(i)lid 'wishes eagerly, requests, craves', cymr. iawl 'command, laudation', iolaf 'I praise, laud', eiriolaf (**are-jāl-*) 'I beg urgently', abret. 3. Pl. Konj. iolent 'precentur';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Proto Celtic ye-, Old Celtic ie-,  $h_3^w o-$  > Proto Celtic yo-, Old Celtic io-,  $h_2^w a-$  > Proto Celtic ya-, Old Celtic ia-

References: WP. I 197, 775, WH. I 718, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 330, Trautmann 108, J. Morris-Jones, Welsh Gr. 383.

Page(s): 501

---

Root / lemma: ǵā-

Meaning: 'go'

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $g^h-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 296 (ei-).

Page(s): 501

---

Root / lemma: ǵeb<sup>h</sup>-

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $g^h-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 298 (eb<sup>h</sup>-)

Page(s): 503

---

Root / lemma: ǵeg-

Meaning: ice

Note: only Germanic and Celtic

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $g^h-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

Old Norse jaki m. (**ekan-* < **jekan-*) 'ice piece', compare Swiss jäch, gicht (= gejicht) 'hoarfrost, frozen dew on trees'; demin. formation Old Norse jǫkull m. 'hanging down icicle, glacier'; Old English gicel(a) m. 'icicle, floe, floating mass of ice', engl. icicle = Old English īses gicel, Old Norse ichilla 'a frozen drop; an ice-drop, ice-drop, icicle', nnd. īshekel, jäkel 'icicle' (Middle Low German jokele ds. might derive from Nord.); Old High German ihilla (= **jichilla*) 'a frozen drop; an ice-drop, ice-drop, icicle';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > Proto Germanic ye-, Old Germanic je-, ie-,  $h_3^wo-$  > Proto Germanic yo-, Old Germanic jo-, io-,  $h_2^wa-$  > Proto Germanic ya-, Old Germanic ja-, ia-

Maybe alb. akulli 'ice', abbreviated (**ihella*) helli 'icicle': Old Norse jǫkull m. 'hanging down icicle, glacier'.

Middle Irish aig f. (Gen. ega) 'ice' (**jegī-s*), cymr. iā m. ds., iaen (**jeginā*) 'glacicula', acorn. iey gl. 'glaties', iein gl. 'cold, coldness, coolness', mcor. yeyn, yen 'cold', br. ien 'cold'.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > Proto Celtic ye-, Old Celtic ie-,  $h_2^wa-$  > Proto Celtic ya-, Old Celtic ia- about Hittite e-ku-na-š 'cold' compare Pedersen Hittite 171.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$  Hittite.

References: WP. I 206; Swiss Idiotikon II 112 f., 1120, III 5, IV 1010.

Page(s): 503

---

Root / lemma: **jek-*

Meaning: to speak

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w$ - > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yācati `begs, demands', yācñā `request'; yācitá-, yācitum-, yācitar-, etc.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w$ a- > ya- Old Indic

Tocharian A B yask- `long, want, beg' (Van Windekens Lexique 165 f.), A yāṣṣuce, B yāṣṣūca `beggar'.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w$ a- > ya- Tocharian

Old High German jehan-, gehan `say, speak, avow', asächs-. gehan ds., Old High German *jih*t (**jex*tī-) `declaration, confession, admission', *bijih*t = Modern High German Beichte `confession, admission', in addition illness name Gicht `gout, disease characterized by the inflammation of the joints' (`caused by discussing');

Lithuanian juōkas-, Latvian juōks `joke' is perhaps Latin loanword, as well as Modern High German Jux `joke'; against it Trautmann 108;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w$ e- > Proto Germanic ye-, Old Germanic je-, ie-,  $h_3^w$ o- > Proto Germanic yo-, Old Germanic jo-, io-,  $h_2^w$ a- > Proto Germanic ya-, Old Germanic ja-, ia-

Latin iocus `funny speech, joke'; Umbrian iuka-, iuku Akk. Pl. n. `prayers', Oscan iúklei `inconsecration'; mcymr. ieith-, cymr. iaith-, bret. iezh `language' (**jek*tī-);

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w$ e- > Proto Celtic ye-, Old Celtic ie-,  $h_3^w$ o- > Proto Celtic yo-, Old Celtic io-,  $h_2^w$ a- > Proto Celtic ya-, Old Celtic ia-

References: WP. I 204 f., WH. I 715 f.; Sommer WuS. 7, 104 ff. will also put here jæk- `heal, cure', but because of Old Irish hīcc (Indo Germanic ē) it is not credible.

Page(s): 503-504

---

Root / lemma: jem-

Meaning: to hold

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^w o-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $g^h-$

Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosk.

Old Indic yámati `reins, steers; stretches, presents', yácchatī ds., yatá-ḥ `kept, held', yáma-ḥ m. `rein', yántra-n. `rope, band, strap'; Avestan yam-, yasaitē, Old pers. Imperf.

ayasatā, participle Avestan yata- `hold, stop', yāta- `assigned allotment, possession' (to ā compare the heavy root form Old Indic yámitavai, Bartholomae IF. 11, 141 f.); Old Indic

yamá-ḥ m., Avestan yēma-m. `twin'; Old Indic GN Yamá-ḥ `twin, hermaphrodite' =

Avestan Yimō;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $y e i-$ ,  $y i-$  Avestan,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $y a-$  Old Indic

Latin geminus `born at the same time, twin-born, twin' probably g- is attributed to the root gem- `grasp, press together' (above S. 368 f.);

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $j e-$  Proto Illyrian >  $g e-$  Latin, Illyrian (an Illyrian substrate because Latin would have produced  $j e-$  >  $i e-$ )

Middle Irish emon m., emuin f. (**emno-*, **emnā*) `pair of twins', emnaid `double';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $\emptyset e-$  Celtic =  $h_1^w e-$  >  $\emptyset e-$  Hittite

perhaps here Germanic **ibna-* `even, equable, uniform', whether from **imná-* <

**jemnó-*, in Gothic ibns `even', Old Norse jafn, jamn, Old English efn, engl. even, asächs.

eðan, Old High German eban `flat, even'; after Güntert (Weltkönig 337 ff.) here the Old Norse GN Ymir as `hermaphrodite' from Germanic **jumjiaz*, Indo Germanic **iem(i)jós?*

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we$  > Proto Germanic ye-, Old Germanic e-, i-, y-,  $h_3^wo$  > Proto Germanic yo-, Old Germanic jo-, io-,  $h_2^wa$  > Proto Germanic ya-, Old Germanic ja-, ia-it is not certain, whether it also belongs here gr. ἥμερος `tame, domesticated, mild', ἡμερίς, -ίδος `the cultivated vine', ἡμερώω `tame, make tame' (with lengthened grade  $\bar{e}$ ), and as zero grade Latin redimiō `to bind round, wreath round, encircle, gird, wind, deck, crown', as well as infula `a white and red fillet or band of woollen stuff, worn upon the forehead, as a sign of religious consecration and of inviolability, a sacred fillet; so a priest's fillet' (\**im-d<sup>h</sup>lā*??).

That with gr. ἥμερος identical Old High German asächs. jāmar, Old English gēomor `sad', Subst. Old High German jāmar `sorrowful, sad, regretful, full of pain, grieving, mourning, lamenting' (originally supposedly `sad, gloomy') might belong though because of Old Norse amra `lament', that to emja, ymja `howl', has rather originated from an interjection. Cymr. afar `affliction, lament' (Middle Irish amar ds.) could not have lost j and therefore it must have already been absent.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we$  > Proto Germanic ye- > Øe- Celtic, Greek labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wo$  > Proto Germanic yo- > Øo- Celtic, Greek labialized laryngeal  $h_2^wa$  > Proto Germanic ya- > Øa- Celtic, Greek

References: WP. I 572, WH. I 587, Marstrander Ériu 5, 160.

Page(s): 505

---

Root / lemma: jéneter-, reduced case janetr- (jñtr-)

Meaning: husband's brother's wife

Comments:

Root / lemma: jéneter-, reduced case janetr- (jñtr-): husband's brother's wife = Root / lemma: ġen-1, ġenə-, ġnē-, ġnō-: `to bear' suffixed in -ter formant.

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we$  > Øe-,  $h_3^wo$  > ħu-,  $h_2^wa$  > ħa- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yātar- ds. (pronunciation the strong case + vocalism of the weak case);

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic

Phrygian Akk. ιανατερα;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > Øya- Proto Phrygian > ia Phrygian

gr. ἐνάτηρ `husband's brother's wife' (Ionian Psilose), Hom. εἰνατέρες, -έρων (ει- verbalized metr. lengthening for ἐν-), inschr. (klein Old Saxon-gr.) ἐνατρί;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe- Greek =  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe- Hittite

Truncated ( **ianiter*) Armenian ner, more properly nēr, Gen. niri `the wives of brothers or the wives of the same husband' (to the basic form supposition by Hübschmann Arm. Gr. I 478; Bugge IF. 1, 445, 449, Meillet BSL. 30, CR. 90, in the end Cuny Recherches 66 f.);

Latin janitrīcēs (extension from **ianiter* after Fem. of noun agents in -īc-) `the wives of brothers' (i derives from **ianiter*);

Old Lithuanian **jéntė*, -ers ds. (gentė, žentė through hybridization with gentis `kinsman, relative', žentas `son-in-law'), Latvian ieterē, iētal'a and Curonian jentere ds.;

Old Church Slavic **jetry* (ending after svekry), russ.-Church Slavic jatry ds., serb. jětrva ds.

References: WP. I 207 f., WH. I 668, Trautmann 107 f., Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 568.

Page(s): 505-506

---

Root / lemma: ies-

Meaning: to foam, boil

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $\text{h}_1^w\text{e-}$  >  $\text{Øe-}$ ,  $\text{h}_3^w\text{o-}$  >  $\text{hu-}$ ,  $\text{h}_2^w\text{a-}$  >  $\text{ha-}$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $\text{h}^w\text{-}$  >  $\text{Øu-}$ ,  $\text{Øü-}$ ,  $\text{Øy-}$ ,  $\text{Øi-}$  West Germanic =  $\text{y-}$ ,  $\text{j-}$  Old Indic =  $\text{j-}$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $\text{w-}$ ,  $\text{f-}$  Old Celtic =  $\text{v-}$  Old Slavic =  $\text{gh-}$

Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $\text{z-}$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $\text{gj-}$  Albanian Geg,  $\text{gl-}$  Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic **yásati*, yásyati `bubbles, boils; struggles ', yayastu `shall scald '; with ā- `exert oneself ' (ā-yas-ta- `arouses, instigates, strains, exhausts, grows tired, languishes ', ā-yās-ayati `strains, fatigues, afflicts'), prá-yasta- `boiling, bubbling ', Intens. i-yas-yatē `grows tired, dies away, disappears ', redupl. yeṣati (**je-is-*) `flows, bubbles ', Avestan yaēšyeiti `boils (intr.)';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $\text{h}_1^w\text{e-}$  >  $\text{yei-}$ ,  $\text{ye-}$  Avestan,  $\text{h}_2^w\text{a-}$  >  $\text{ya-}$  Old Indic

gr. ζέω (= yásati) `cook, boil, simmer, seethe, boil (intr.)', ζέσσε, ζεστός, ζέσμα and ζέμα ` decoction, extract acquired by boiling', ζόη τὸ ἐπάνω τοῦ μέλιτος (`scum, froth, foam') Hes.;

Maybe alb. (**je-*) ziej, zjej `cook, boil, simmer, seethe ', in -m- formant like (**ζέσμα*) ζέμα ` decoction ': alb. (**zesh-*) zemëroj `make angry', zemërim `anger', zemër `heart '.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $\text{h}_1^w\text{e-}$  > Proto Greek  $\text{ye-}$  >  $\text{ge-}$  > Old Greek  $\text{ze-}$ ,  $\text{h}_3^w\text{o-}$  > Proto Greek  $\text{yo-}$  >  $\text{go-}$  > Old Greek  $\text{zo-}$ ,  $\text{h}_2^w\text{a-}$  > Proto Greek  $\text{ya-}$  >  $\text{ga-}$  > Old Greek  $\text{za-}$

gallo-rom. **iestā* `scum, froth, foam' (v. Wartburg), cymr. ias f., Pl. iasau `boiling, foam, bubbles, cooking '; Old Irish ess m. (older n., from **iestu*) `waterfall'; bret. gòl `ferment, seethe' perhaps abstracted from gòell `yeast' (**upo-ies-lo-*); (common Celtic Illyrian -sl- > -ll-)

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $\text{h}_1^w\text{e-}$  > Proto Celtic  $\text{ye-}$ , Old Celtic ie-,  $\text{h}_3^w\text{o-}$  > Proto Celtic  $\text{yo-}$ , Old Celtic io-,  $\text{h}_2^w\text{a-}$  > Proto Celtic  $\text{ya-}$ , Old Celtic ia-

Old High German jesan `ferment, seethe, foam ' = Swedish Dialectal esa (as) `ferment, seethe', Norwegian æse, Swedish Dialectal äsa (**jēsian*) ds., Norwegian Dialectal asa (**jasàn*, preterit ōs) `flare up, foam, ferment, seethe, roar, storm, dash', esja (**jasjan*) `ferment, seethe', Old Norse ōsa (**jōsjan*) `stir in violent movement ', compare Norwegian Dialectal `the roaring, restlessness in animals and people ', Old Norse jōstr, Gen. jastar m.

(at first from **estuz*, **estauz*, older jes-) and jastr n. (at first from **estra*) 'yeast', Old English giest (engl. yeast) 'scum, froth, foam, slobber, yeast', Middle Low German gest 'yeast', Middle High German jest, gest m. 'scum, froth, foam', Modern High German Gest and Gischt 'scum, froth, foam, yeast';

Tocharian A yäs- 'simmer, seethe, boil'.

References: WP. I 208. O'Rahilly Ériu 13, 144 f.

Page(s): 506

---

Root / lemma: jet-

Meaning: to set out for; to strive

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^w o-$  >  $h u-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $h a-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset ü-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $g^h-$

Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yátati, -te after Pet. Wb. 'connects, joins together; set out for; to strive', after Geldner Ved. stem 3, 11 ff. (doubt by Sommer Gr. Lautst. 157) 'amounts, is equal with, agitates after, competes; it is jealous, envies, argues; pushes to the front, attacks, stirs oneself, hurries, marches', Kaus. yātáyati 'forms an alliance, combines; lays the responsibility, prosecutes, avenges', yátī- m. 'ascetic' ('*striver'), yatúna- 'keen', yatná- m. 'aspiration, endeavor, exertion, toil', Avestan yateiti, yatayeiti 'sets into movement (Perf. be in motion), stirs, is industrious, strains eagerly', with frā- 'approaches; it concerns somebody about something', Kaus. yātayeiti 'brings to the use, pursues, worries, takes pains'; perhaps here Tocharian A yat- 'reach, attain', present Med. yatatär, B yototär, Schulze-Sieg Tocharian Gr. 487, Van Windekens Lexique 167, Pedersen Tocharian 221; also AB yāt- 'be able, command' (Van Windekens aaO.)?

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  >  $ya-$  Old Indic, Avestan, Tocharian cymr. add-iad 'longing, yearning', gall. Ad-ietu-mārus, Ad-iatunnus, (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Ad-ietuanus (: Old Indic yatú-na-), nasalized (compare with nasal suffix Old Indic yat-ná-) cymr. add-iant `longing, yearning', Irish ḗt (nir. éad) `eagerness, jealousy', gall. lantu-māros, lentu-māros (= Irish ḗtmar `jealous'); Old Irish ītu, Akk. īlith, nir. íota `thirst' maybe from lengthened grade **jētu-tut-s*;

Maybe alb. etja `thirst'.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > Proto Celtic ye-, Old Celtic ie-,  $h_3^wo-$  > Proto Celtic yo-, Old Celtic io-,  $h_2^wa-$  > Proto Celtic ya-, Old Celtic ia-

References: WP. I 197.

Page(s): 506-507

---

Root / lemma: jeu-d<sup>h</sup>-

Meaning: to move swiftly, to fight

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic ud-yōdhati `boils up (from the water); make someone angry', Kaus. yōdháyati `involves in fight', yúdhyati, yōdhati `fights', yúdh- m. `combatant', f. `fight, struggle, battle', yudhmá-ḥ `warlike', m. `combatant', yódhīyas- `more pugnacious, combative, better fighting'; Pali yūhati `fights';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wo-$  > yo-, yu- Old Indic =  $h_3^wo-$  > yui- Avestan =  $h_3^wo-$  > yu- Tocharian

Avestan yūīdyeinti `sie kämpfen', yūīdišta- `he fights best of all';

Tocharian A yutk- `worry about'.

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_3^woh_1^we-$  > Avestan (**you-ei-*) yui- changing through ablaut Lithuanian jaudà f. 'enticement, seduction', whereof jáudinti 'wake somebody's passion, entice somebody', refl. 'be agitated, get excited', Latvian jaūda 'fortune, power', jaūdāt 'have the necessary strength';

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_3^w o-$  > Baltic (**ya-ou-*) yau-

Latin jubeō, -ēre 'order, give an order, bid, tell, command' (= Lithuanian judėti), jussī (alt. iousī), jussum actually '*set in movement, rouse', hence; juba f. 'the flowing hair on the neck of an animal, the mane' ('*the shuddering, flowing ones'); (about jubar, -āris 'the radiance of the heavenly bodies, light, splendor, brightness, sunshine' see WH. I 724);

acymr. acorn. abret. Jud- 'fight, struggle' (**ioud<sup>h</sup>o-*), 'combatant' (**ioud<sup>h</sup>ios*), in MN as acymr. Jud-gual, abret. iud-uual 'tremendous fight'; this Jud- (= iud-) became later in anlaut polysyllabic names of mcymr. to ld- (= lō-), in all other positions to ud (= ūd), so acymr. Mor-iud 'sea fighter' to mcymr. Mor-ud, independent cymr. udd 'master, mister' (**ioud<sup>h</sup>ios*);

Lithuanian judù, -ėti 'be shaking, trembling, move, quarrel, squabble', jundù jùsti 'in zitternde Bewegung, in Aufruhr geraten', Old Lithuanian judùs 'quarrelsome', judra 'whirlwind';

poln. judzić 'stir, tease, irritate, incite, argue about something bad' (: Old Indic yōdháyati); perhaps Old Church Slavic ojьminъ, Pl. ojьmi 'warrior' (= Old Indic yudhmá-h with prefix o-); (common Occidental Romance = Slavic prefix) also Bulgarian juda 'nymph';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > yēi-, yī- Avestan,  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic

gr. hom. ύσμινι Dat., ύσμινη 'fight, battle, combat' (**iud<sup>h</sup>-s-mīn-*, derivative from a **iud<sup>h</sup>-s-mó-s*, compare Old Indic yudhmá-h); (Illyrian substrate abbreviation)

References: WP. I 203 f., WH. I 724 f., Trautmann 109.

Page(s): 511-512

---

Root / lemma: jeuĝ-

Meaning: to wave, unsteady

Material:*Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $g^h-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosk. Avestan yaozaiti 'be moved, be excited, sprunt up (from the water, from restless lands)', yaōšti- 'activity, wakefulness, agility, liveliness';

Armenian yuzem 'enrage' is iran. loanword;

Tocharian A yok-, A B yuk- 'defeat, conquer'.

Note:

Reduplicated labialized laryngeal in  $h_2^wah_3^wo-$  > Avestan yao- > Armenian yu-, Tocharian A yo-, B yū-

Gothic jiuka 'rage, fury, fight', jiukan 'fight', Middle High German jouchen, jöuchen 'drive, push, hunt, chase' and Old English gēocor 'full of hardship', gēocre Adv. 'stern';

Note:

Reduplicated labialized laryngeal in  $h_1^weh_3^wo-$  > Germanic ( $*yiu-$ ) jiu-, jeo- > Old English jeo- > geo-

References: WP. I 203, Feist 301 b.

Page(s): 512

Root / lemma: jeu-1

Meaning: to mix (of meal preparation)

Note: ( $:\dot{j}ēu-$ ,  $\dot{j}ō[u]-$ ;  $\dot{j}u-$ ,  $\dot{j}ū-$ ; latter due to the lengthened grade or from a heavy basis  $*jēuə-$ ), originally probably 'set in motion'; s. jeu-d<sup>h</sup>-.

Material:*Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc. Old Indic yāuti, yuvāti `mixed', ud-ā-yāuti `agitates, stirs up', pra-yāuti `stirs, mixes', yūti-f. `mixture', ā-yávana-n. `mixing spoon';

Lithuanian jaunù, joviaũ, jaũti `pour hot water about', Latvian jaut `stir in, mix dough', javs `mixture of cattle feed', Lithuanian jõvalas `pig's food; waste, pigswill, grape marc';

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_3^w o-$  > Old Indic yau- > Baltic jau- =  $h_3^w o h_3^w o-$  > Baltic jou-

gr. ζῦθος, ζύθος `Egyptian barley beer'??; (Illyrian substrate g- > z-)

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o-$  > Proto Greek jou- > gou- > Greek zu- alb.-Tosc gjär `soup' ( $*iō-no-$ ), Geg gjanë `smut, pond, pool, watering-place';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > Proto Albanian ja- > Albanian gja-

Maybe alb. ( $*jes/a$ ) gjella `soup, dish' (common Celtic Illyrian -sl- > -ll-) ablauteud gallorom. iutta from gall.  $*ju-tā$ , Middle Latin iotta `broth', mcymr. iwt, ncymr. uwd, iwd m., acorn. abret. iot, nbret. ioud, iod `porridge, mash'; Old Irish íth `porridge, mash, broth' í probably is attributed to íth `fat' (Thurneysen Gr. 39).

Note:

Reduplicated labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o h_3^w o-$  > Celtic iou- s-stem  $*iō(u)s-$ ,  $*iūs-$  `broth':

Old Indic yūṣ (only Nom.), yūṣá-, yuṣa- m. n. `broth', Latin iūs, iūris `broth, soup', Lithuanian júšė ( $*iūsjiā$ ) `bad soup from sour dough mixed with water thoroughly', Old Prussian juse `broth, meat broth', Old Church Slavic jucha ( $*iousā$ ) `broth, soup' (Modern High German Jauche from West Slavic); in addition to- derivative of New Swedish ōst

(**jūsto*), Old Norse ostr (secondary ō) 'cheese' and Finnish-Proto Norse juusto, New Swedish dial. ūst ds.;

Note:

Reduplicated labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o h_3^w o-$  > Germanic juu- perhaps in addition gr. ζῆμη 'sourdough' (**jūsmā* or jūmā) and ζυμός 'broth, soup' (**jō[u]smos* or jō[u]mos).

References: WP. I 199, WH. I 734, Trautmann 110.

Page(s): 507

---

Root / lemma: jēu-2, jēuə-, jēu-g-

Meaning: to tie together, yoke

Note: probably as 1. jēu- 'mix' evolved from 'set in motion'; s. also jēu-dh- and jēu-ni-.

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > hu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = gh- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yáuti, yuváti 'bands, joins together, harnesses, places a harness on a draft animal' (also 'mixed'), participle yutá-, yūti- f. 'connection' (and 'mixture'), ni-yút- f. 'row, yoke, pair of harnessed oxen', yūthá- m. 'association, troop, multitude, crowd', yōtra- n. 'rope, band', yūna- n. 'band, strap, cord', avayava- m. 'limb, member, part'; Avestan yav- 'occupy oneself with sth.' (present yavayeiti, Inf. yūtō, yūta), yaona- n. 'occupation', yav- (yu-) Adj. 'holding, standing by somebody' = Old Indic yú- 'journeyman, fellow' (see Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 1264 f., where also about yáv- 'duration');

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Old Indic =  $h_3^w o-$  > yo-

Latvian Pl. jūtīs 'joint' (*'connection), crossroads', Lithuanian jáutis m. 'ox' (*'strained before wagon, a beast used for drawing or carrying, draught-cattle' = Latin jumentum; Baltic heavy root); here also Latvian jumis 'Doppelfrucht, Felddämon', jūmt '(roof) cover' (Mühlenbach-Endzelin II 177ff.). doubtably Armenian yaud 'connection' because of vocalism (iran. loanword?).

Perhaps here Latin juvāre 'support, help; delight'; probably compatible with Old Indic yu-yō-ti 'cuts off, protects from, separates, severs, defends, keeps away, it is separated', vī-yavanta 'tending to repel, driving away' merge to a particular family.

Note:

Reduplicated initial laryngeal in  $h_3^w o h_2^w a-$  > Latin juvā- =  $h_3^w o h_3^w o-$  > yu-yō- with as g-derivative also Old English (**jeoc*) géoc 'help, consolation, certainty', géocian 'preserve, protect, rescue'; see below jeu-4. (common Occidental Romance j- > g-)

Specht (KZ. 65, 207 f., 68, 52 ff.) places juvāre to Old Indic ávati, whereat above S. 77; against it M. Leumann Gl. 29, 173 f.

ju-go-m 'yoke':

Old Indic yugá- n. 'yoke; pair' (also 'gender, sex, generation') =

gr. ζυγόν 'yoke' =

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w eu-$  > Proto Greek yeu- > geu- > Greek zu-

Latin jugum ds. (see also WH. I 728 f. about Umbrian Iguvium) =

Gothic asächs. juk n., Old English geoc, Old Norse ok 'yoke', Old High German juch, joch yoke; also so much land when one can plow with an ox's pair during one day';

Lithuanian (with n after jūngiu) jūngas 'yoke';

Old Church Slavic igo (Gen. iga) 'yoke' (es-stem), Czech jho ds. (Slavic **j̥bgo* from **j̥bgo*, see also Berneker 421 f.; in addition Old Russian obžā 'a land size; so much that a man plows with a horse' from **ob-j̥bgjā*, nowadays obža and obga- d. j. **ob-j̥bga* 'Deichselarme des Hakenpflugs'; Church Slavic Pl. ižesa, sloven. Gen. ižêsa with results of Indo Germanic stem **jeugos-*, see below);

cymr. iau f., acymr. iou, acorn. ieu, bret. ieo, geo 'yoke', kazelyé, kazelgé 'bondage, slavery' = mcymr. kesseyl-yeu 'axillary yoke' (Loth RC 40, 153 f.); gall. PN Ver-iugo- dumnus; see also Pedersen KG. I 98; Thurneysen IA. 26, 26 doubts the affiliation of Irish and proto relationship of brit. words; doubtful is also the assessment from Irish cuing 'yoke'; after Hessen ZceltPh. 9, 39 maybe from **uing* (**iungis*) through influence of the preposition com-; furthermore mcymr. kyn-iwng 'association' (Loth RC 38, 160);

Armenian luc 'yoke' created not originally for anlaut li- root; influence of lucanem 'unhitch, unharness'; (common Celtic Armenian j- > l- see acymr. Jud-gual, abret. lud-uual 'tremendous fight')

Hittite i-ú-ga-an (yugan) 'yoke';

Note:

labialized laryngeal h<sub>3</sub><sup>w</sup>ou- > hyu- > iu- Hittite

Tocharian A yokām f. 'door, gate' (Old Indic loanword?).

without historical connection between them are Old Indic yugalá- n. 'pair', Latin jugulum (Demin.) 'cheekbone, collarbone', jugulae 'the three stars which form Orion's belt; also, the whole constellation'

Maybe alb. Slavic jugu 'south, southern night sky'

Gr. ζεύγλη 'loop attached to the yoke, through which the beasts' heads were put, cross-bar of the double rudder'; with Hittite yugas 'annual', dāyugas 'biennial' compare Lithuanian dveigys 'biennial' (treigys 'triennial', etc.), above S. 229, 230.

**ieu-gos-* es-stem:

Maybe alb. Geg zgjedhë, -a 'yoke', gjedhë (harnessed) oxen', zgidh, zgjidh, Tosc zglidh 'untie', Geg zgjedh 'select' (common alb. -g > -dh).

gr. τὸ ζεύγος 'yoke, pair of harnessed oxen', Pl. ζεύγεα = Latin jūgera (**iougesa*), wherefore a new Sg. jūgerum 'an acre, or rather measurement of land, measuring 28,800 square feet, or 240 feet in length by 120 in breadth' = Middle High German jiuch n. 'measurement of land', compare also above Church Slavic īžesa, further perhaps (that certainly late) ἄζυγός 'not joined, unmarried', as well as Latin iouxmenta, iūmentum (see S. 510); zero grade (as ἄζυγός, but from ζυγόν could be a neologism from) probably Gothic jukuzif. 'yoke, bondage, slavery', compared with Old English gycer 'yoke' (**jukizī*), with u the 2. syllable through assimilation? (common Occidental Romance Old English j- > g-) verb stem jēu-g-:

Old Indic yunákti (3. Pl. yuñjánti = Latin jungunt), yuñjati ` harnesses, tightens, connects', compare full grade yōjayati (**jeugejēti*) ` joins'; Avestan yaoj-, yuj- ` harness an animal, yoke up; accustom';

gr. ζεύγνυμι `harness, bandage', ζεύξαι ζυγῆναι;

Latin jungō, -ere, -nxi, -nctus ` connect';

full grade Old High German untar-jauhta ` subjugavi';

Lithuanian jūngiu, jūngti ` connect, tighten in the yoke'; participle Old Indic yuktá-, Avestan yuxta-, with präs. -n- Latin junctus, Old English geoht, iukt n. ` yoke', Lithuanian jūngtas, with the (as in present deriving from ζεύξαι, ζευκτήρ etc.) lengthened grade ζευκτός;

root nouns jug- in:

Old Indic yúj- ` Gefährte, Genosse; geschirrt, bespannt mit', ayúj- ` without comrades, not in pairs' = gr. ἄζυξ `unyoked, unpaired, unmarried, isolated', σύζυξ `of a wedded pair, united', Latin conjux ` husband, wife'; Superl. **jugistos* in Latin juxtā ` of several objects, near together, in close proximity, near at hand, near, near by, hard by, close to, by the side of, next to, immediately after, beside, on a par with' (**jugistā*, scil. viā ` via, by way of, by means of'); in the strong Kas. analogical Old Indic yúñj-, Latin conjunx.

Additional derivatives in:

Old Indic yōga- m. ` harnessing, connection'; yōgya- m. ` draft animal', compare Old Norse eykr ` draft animal, horse' (Germanic **jaukiz*, compare also Kaus. **jaukian* ` harness' assumed through Old Norse eykt f. ` working hours between the meals' from **jaukiþō*) = Latin jūgis `perpetual; beständig flowing' (besides iūges, -ētis `angespannt'); Old Indic yōjana- n. ` a road measure', Avestan yujasti- f. ds.; Old Indic yukti- f. ` harnessing', gr. ζεύξις `harnessing, bandage', Latin juncti-m, juncti-ō, compare of es-stem Avestan yaōxšti- `ability, capacity, skill, adroitness'; Old Indic yōktár- `harnesser', yōktra- n. `rope, belt', Avestan yaōxəδra- n. `warlike strain, undertaking, attack', gr. ζευκτηρες `yoke straps', Latin junctor, junctūra, Old Indic yugmán- `paired, coupled', gr. ζεύγμα `that which is used for joining, a band, bond, yoke, a bridge of boats', Latin jug(u)mentum `jamb, crossbar, crossbeam', due to es-stem in addition Old Latin iouxmenta, Classical iūmentum `yoke, pair of harnessed oxen'.

Perhaps with jeu- are also related the families jeu(e)s- 'statute' as 'obligation, commitment, liability, bond' and jōs- 'gird' as **jō[u]s-*.

References: WP. I 201 f., WH. I 261, 726 ff., Trautmann 109 f., Kuiper Nasalpräz. 70 ff., 109, Renou BSL. 41, 18 ff.

Page(s): 508-510

---

Root / lemma: jeu-3

Meaning: young

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset ü-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosk.

Old Indic yúvan- (yúvā, Gen. yūnah) 'young; youngling', f. yūnī, compounds Sup. yávīyas-, yáviṣṭa-h; Avestan yvan-, yavan- (both written for yuvan-), Gen. yūnō 'youngling';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wou-$  > Old Indic yu- =  $h_2^wa-$  > Old Indic ya-

Latin juvenis 'young; youngling, virgin' (to -ven- instead of -vin- compare EM<sup>2</sup> 509) instead of **juuō* due to the old conservative case Gen. juven-is, Dat. -ī, Akk. -em etc.; jūnī- 'young cow' Latin -c- extension besides Old Indic yūnī, against it compounds jūnior with new jūn- (through Latin development from **juvenios*); Umbrian iouies 'juvenibus, militibus', Akk. Pl. jovie (one of the back formation compounds **joviē-s* 'troop, multitude, crowd of juniors?');

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wou-$  > Proto Latin you- > Latin ju-, Umbrian iou-

Lithuanian jáunas, Latvian jaûns; Old Bulgarian junъ 'young' (-no- stem instead of -n- stem after **seno-s* 'old'; juuēno- after Kompar. reconverted with metathesis to **jeuēno-*, Balto Slavic **jōuno-*).

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wou-$  > Proto Latin you- > Latin ju-, Umbrian iou-

Old Irish (*ho-ia) ōa ` younger ', ōam ` youngest', mcymr. ieu (ncymr. iau) ` younger ', ieuaf (so also ncymr.) ` youngest', bret. iaou ` younger ', next to which the Positive Old Irish ōac (arch. oēc), Middle Irish ōc, cymr. ieuanc, bret. iaouank, acorn. iouenc, mcor. yowynk ` young ', gall. Jovinc-illus, -a (Indo Germanic **iuuṇkós*, see below), unvocalized after compounds-Sup. to Celtic **ieu-*, **iouṇko-*;

Note:

labialized laryngeal h<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Proto Celtic ye-, Old Celtic ie-, h<sub>3</sub><sup>w</sup>o- > Proto Celtic yo-, Old Celtic io-, h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>a- > Proto Celtic ya-, Old Celtic ia- derivatives of stem **iuuṇ-*:

**iuuṇkó-s-*: Old Indic yuvaśá-h, yuvaká-h ` juvenile ', Latin juvencus, -a ` young bull, young cow, youngling ', Umbrian iveka, iuenga ` young cow| heifer; girl ', Gothic juggs, Old Icelandic ungr, Old High German jung, Old English geong ` young ' (Proto German **jūngaz* from **juwungáz*, in addition a new compound **jūnhizan-* in:) Gothic jūhiza, Old Icelandic ōre ` younger ' (compare also Old Icelandic ōska ` youth ' from **jū[n]hiskōn-*).

**iuuṇt-*, **iuuṇt-*: Old Indic yúvant-, f. yuvatí-h ` young; virgin'; Old High German jugund, Old Saxon juguð, Old English geoguð (g instead of w after **duzunbi-* ` virtue, uprightness, integrity, skillfulness '), Gothic junda ` youth ' (**iuuṇtā*); Latin juventūs, -tūtis ` youth ' (jūventa = Gothic junda?) = Old Irish ōetiu, ōitiu, Gen. -ted ` youth ' (**iouṇtūt-s*, reshaped from **iuuṇtūt-*, see above to ōac).

A s-extension probably in Old Indic yóṣā, Gen. **yōṣṇáh*, N. Pl. yóṣūḥ, yóṣaṇaḥ ` young woman, wife '; for Latin Jūnō ` Juno, goddess of marriage and wife of the god Jupiter ', if the goddess actually stands for ` youth, young persons ', it has derived from jūnīx, jūnior present stem **iūn-*; different Leumann-Stolz<sup>5</sup> 239.

References: WP. I 200 f., WH. I 735 f.

Page(s): 510-511

Root / lemma: **ieu-4*

Meaning: to separate; to hold off

Note:

labialized laryngeal h<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Øe-, h<sub>3</sub><sup>w</sup>o- > hu-, h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>a- > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Note: see above S. 508; after Renou (mündl.) is the Old Indic root yu- 'separate' with yu- 'connect' identical and meaning included in the compounds with ápa- and ví-.

Page(s): 511

---

Root / lemma: jeu-ni- or iou-ni-

Meaning: the right way

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^wo-$  > hu-,  $h_2^wa-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yóni- m. 'residence', f. 'womb', Avestan Akk. Sg. yaonəm 'way' (probably from yaonim, see Wackernagel KZ. 46, 266); in addition Old Indic syoná- 'comfortable' from **su-yoná-*, Wackernagel KZ. 61, 203f.;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wo-$  > yo- Old Indic

Old Irish úain f. 'possibility, opportunity (i.e. the more proper place = the right time), leisure, time'.

References: WP. I 204;

See also: probably to jeu-1 'set in motion'.

Page(s): 512

---

Root / lemma: jeuo-

Meaning: corn; barley

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^wo-$  > hu-,  $h_2^wa-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w$ - > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc. Old Indic yáva- m. 'corn, grain; barley, millet, sorghum' = Avestan yava- m. 'corn, grain', npers. jav 'barley' (= Lithuanian javaĩ); Old Indic yavya- m. 'fruit supply' (: Lithuanian jáuja 'barn'); yavasá- n. 'grass, food', Avestan yavanha- n. 'willow'; Avestan yavīn- m. 'grainfield';

Lithuanian jāvas m. 'species of grain', javaĩ Pl. 'corn, grain', jáuja 'barn'.

Note:

Reduplicated laryngeal in  $h_2^w a h_2^w a$ - > Old Indic yava- > Baltic java- hom. Attic ζεῖαι f. Pl. 'spelt', hom. ζείδωρος 'grain-giving, as epith. of the earth, producing grain' (for *ζεφεδωρος), φυσί-ζοος (αῖα) 'grain-giving, producing grain' (: jeuo-s = εὖ-φρων : φρήν);

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e$ - > Proto Greek ye- > ge- > Old Greek ze-, de-,  $h_3^w o$ - > Proto Greek yo- > go- > Old Greek zo-, do-

References: WP. I 202 f., Trautmann 107.

Page(s): 512

---

Root / lemma: jeuos-

Meaning: norm, right

Note: perhaps as 'obligation, commitment, liability' to **jeu-2* 'connect'

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e$ - > Øe-,  $h_3^w o$ - > hu-,  $h_2^w a$ - > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w$ - > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Indic yōh n. 'salvation!' (only in connection with śáṃ, to form s. Bartholomae Airan. Wb. 1234); Avestan yaožda-ōāiti 'makes bright, purifies, cleans ritually';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o-$  > yo- Old Indic

Latin iūs `statute, enactment, right' (Old Latin ious from  $*i\acute{o}yos$ , compare:) iūstus (Old Latin iovestōd) `justified, legitimate'; jūrō, -āre `swear, vow' (Old Latin probably in iovesat Duenos-Inschr.), about jūrgō, iniūria, pe(r)ierāre, ējerāre, dēierāre (zero grade  $iūsā-$ ) s. WH. I 732 ff., EM<sup>2</sup> 506 ff.; about jūdex `judge' see above S. 188, WH. I 726;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o-$  > you- > iu-, ju- Latin

Old Irish huisse `justified, legitimate' ( $*i\acute{u}s-tios$ ).

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o-$  > Celtic hu-

References: WP. I 203, WH. I 733 f., 870.

Page(s): 512

---

Root / lemma:  $jēg^wā$

Meaning: force

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > hu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosk.

Lithuanian nuo-, pa-jėgà `power, ability', jėgiù, jėgti `be capable, be strong', Latvian jēga `reason', jēgt `catch, understand, comprehend'; whether here the isolated russ. dial. jáglyj `violent; keen, eager; fast, rapid'? (see Berneker 443).

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > ye > je- Baltic =  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- > ja- Slavic

Gr. ἡβη 'youth strength, pubescence', ἡβάω 'be nubile, marriageable', ἡβάσκω 'become m.', ἔφ-ηβος 'youngling' (compare ἐπ-άργυρος); (common Illyrian g<sup>w</sup>- > b-)

Doubtful is the interpretation from gr. ἀβρός 'tender, fine, luscious' from **jēg<sup>w</sup>-rós* 'being full of strength in youth'.

Note:

Root / lemma: ab<sup>h</sup>ro- (**h<sub>2</sub>ab<sup>h</sup>ro-*): 'strong, mighty' derived from Root / lemma: jēg<sup>w</sup>ā: force extended in -r formant.

Note:

labialized laryngeal h<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Øe-, h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>a- > Øa- Greek

gr. ἀβρός 'tender, fine, luscious' = also, whether Latin legius, Oscan leíis (with ē?) belong here.

Note:

labialized laryngeal h<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > ye- > je- > le- Latin (common Celtic Armenian j- > l-)

References: WP. I 206 f., Trautmann 107.

Page(s): 503

---

Root / lemma: jēk- : jək-

Meaning: to heal

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal h<sub>1</sub><sup>w</sup>e- > Øe-, h<sub>3</sub><sup>w</sup>o- > hu-, h<sub>2</sub><sup>w</sup>a- > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE h<sup>w</sup>- > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = g<sup>h</sup>- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Old Irish hīcc (**jēkko-*) 'healing, payment', cymr. iach 'fit, healthy', corn. yagh, bret. iac'h ds. (**jəkko-*), with unclear consonant doubling.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $hye-$  >  $hi$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $ya-$ ,  $ia-$  Celtic

Gr. ἄκος n. 'remedy', ἀκέομαι 'heal', delph. ἐφακῆσθαι, ἀκέστωρ (as epithet of Apollo, 'physician, medicine man, savior, redeemer', ἀκεστήρ 'healer, physician, medicine man', Epic -ionische Psilose), in Attic prose seldom used words;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $Øe-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $Øa-$  Greek

References: WP. I 195, WH. I 716, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 303;

See also: see above  $jek-$  'speak'.

Page(s): 504

---

Root / lemma:  $jēk^w-r(t-)$ , Gen.  $jēk^w-n-és$

Meaning: liver

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $Øe-$ ,  $h_3^w o-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^w a-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $Øu-$ ,  $Øü-$ ,  $Øy-$ ,  $Øi-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosk.

Old Indic  $yákṛt$ , Gen.  $yaknáḥ$  'liver'; pers.  $jigar$  (* $yakar-$ ), afghan.  $yīna$  (obl. * $yaxna-$ ); lengthened grade (?) Avestan  $yākarə$  (after W. Krause KZ. 56, 304 ff. perhaps also Avestan * $ha-yākana-$ , compare Old Norse  $lifre$  m. 'belonging to the same liver, brother',  $lifra$  f. 'sister') =

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  >  $ya-$  Old Indic

gr. ἥπαρ, -ατος (* $h-tos$ );

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  >  $Øe-$  Greek Latin  $jecur$ ,  $-oris$  and  $-inoris$  (proves previously * $jecinis$ ; amalgamation of  $r$ - and  $n$ -stems);

Baltic **jeknā* f. in Lithuanian jāknos, old jeknos, jekanas, Latvian aknas, aknis f. Pl. Old Prussian iagno (Hs. lagno) f.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > ye- > je- Latin, Baltic =  $h_2^wa-$  > ya- > ja- Baltic

After Pedersen KG. I 129 here Middle Irish i(u)chair (**ikuri-*) f., Gen. i(u)chrach 'roe, eggs of a fish, eggs of various crustaceans' and Church Slavic ikra, russ. ikra, Upper Sorbian jikro, jikno ds., that is further identical with Slavic ikra 'plaice' and ikra 'calf' (and of that Baltic correspondences or rather leaning forms, Old Prussian yceroy, Latvian ikrs, Old Lithuanian Gen. ikrū) under a basic meaning 'clump, intumescence'. Also Indo Germanic **iek<sup>w</sup>rt* could be based on the same view.

It is difficult perhaps distorted taboo Armenian leard, Gen. lerdi 'liver' (compare finally Cuny Recherches 68 ff.). Whereas belong Old Norse lifr f. 'liver', Old English lifer, engl. liver, Old High German libera, lebara to gr. λιπαρός 'fat' (see Root / lemma: leip-1: to smear, stick), so that the original epithet of the (fattened) liver also the old word for liver was displaced, like Latin jecur ficātum has lead to Italian fegato etc..

A proto Indo Germanic basic form **iek<sup>w</sup>rt* appears to be risky.

References: WP. I 205 f., WH. I 673, Trautmann 103, 106, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I 518, Benveniste Origines I 8f.

Page(s): 504

---

Root / lemma: **iē-* : **iə-*, with -k- extended **iēk-*, **iək-*

Meaning: to throw; to do

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^wo-$  > hu-,  $h_2^wa-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = gh- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

Tocharian A ya- 'make', supplied through y-pa-, in preterit through yām-, in B has been carried out in the whole paradigm; after Van Windekens (Lexique 167) here also A B yāk- 'neglect'?

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- Tocharian

Latin iaciō, iēcī, iactum, iacere 'to throw, cast, fling, hurl, catapult; spread';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- > ia- Latin

Hittite i-ja-mi 'I make', pí-ja-mi 'send to', u-i-ja-mi 'send here'; here Luvian a-i-ja-ru (from **i-ja-ru?*) 'it should be done';

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- > ja- Hittite

Gr. ἵημι (Inf. ἰέναι, Fut. ἵσω, Aor. ἔ-ηκα, ἦκα) 'set in motion, throw, cast, send' (**i-ē-mi*); ἦμα n. 'throw, shot'; (common Avestan, Greek aor. prefix)

Pedersen places also here gr. ἰάπτω 'send, dispatch'.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > ye- > ie-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ya- > ia- Greek Against derivation from gr. ἵημι from **sī-sē-mi* with good reasons WH. I 667, EM 468. doubting Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 686, 741. Frisk (Eranos 41, 49 f.) decides because of Armenian himn 'foundation' ('the thrown?' = Latin sēmen 'of plants, seed, of men or animals, seed, race, a shoot, graft, scion, set, slip, cutting') for **sī-sē-mi*.

References: WP. I 199, II 460, WH. I 667, Pedersen Hittite 129, 198, Tocharian 166, 191, Lykisch under Hittite 30.

Page(s): 502

---

Root / lemma: joi-ni-

Meaning: bulrush

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosk.

Latin iuncus `bulrush' (**joini-ko-s*) belongs to Middle Irish aín `bulrush' (**joiní*), Gen. aíne; about Latin iūniperus `the juniper-tree' s. WH. I 731, 870 and Leumann Gl. 27, 74;

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^wou-$  > you- > iu- Latin

Old Icelandic einir, Swedish en `juniper', ndd. ēn(e)ke ds. whether from **jainia-*, by which the meaning change of bulrush : juniper (see above) would be assured as old. However, it is then with Middle Low German eynholz and Modern High German Einbeerbaum (from Old Icelandic eini-ber `juniper berry') to be influenced by ein `one'.

References: WP. I 208f., Kluge<sup>11</sup> 126.

Page(s): 513

---

Root / lemma: jork-

Meaning: a kind of roebuck

Note:

Root / lemma: jork- : a kind of roebuck : Root / lemma: ghers-, gher- : rigid : alb. derk `pig' (< **ghōr-n-k*);

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^we-$  >  $\emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^wo-$  >  $hu-$ ,  $h_2^wa-$  >  $ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  >  $\emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset \ddot{u}-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Tosk.

gallo-rom. **jorkos* `roe deer', cymr. iwrch `male roe deer', corn. yorch, bret. iourc'h `roe deer' (presumably from Celtic come the later isolated forms ἰορκος, ἰορκες, ἰυρκες by Opp. and Hes.); gall. FN Jurca.

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_3^w o-$  > Celtic yo-, io-, ju-, iu-

Gr. ζόρξ, ζορκάς, with folk etymology connection in δέρκομαι mostly δόρξ, δορκός; δορκάς f., δόρκος m. 'roe deer, gazelle'; (Illyrian substrate)

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Proto Greek ye- > ge- > Old Greek ze-, de-,  $h_3^w o-$  > Proto Greek yo- > go- > Old Greek zo-, do-

References: WP. I 209; M.-L. 9678.

Page(s): 513

---

Root / lemma: jou, ju

Meaning: 'already; before, ever; just'

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > hu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = gh- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 285 (e-3, etc..)

Page(s): 513

---

Root / lemma: jo-

Meaning: relative stem

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e-$  > Øe-,  $h_3^w o-$  > hu-,  $h_2^w a-$  > ha- Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w-$  > Øu-, Øü-, Øy-, Øi- West Germanic = y-, j- Old Indic = j- East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian = w-, f- Old Celtic = v- Old Slavic = gh- Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian = z- Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic = gj- Albanian Geg, gl- Albanian Tosc.

See also: see above S. 283 (e-3, etc..)

Page(s): 513

---

Root / lemma: jō[u]s- : jūs-

Meaning: belt; to begird

Note: (presumably to jēu-2)

Material:

Note:

labialized laryngeal  $h_1^w e- > \emptyset e-$ ,  $h_3^w o- > hu-$ ,  $h_2^w a- > ha-$  Hittite

labialized laryngeal PIE  $h^w- > \emptyset u-$ ,  $\emptyset ü-$ ,  $\emptyset y-$ ,  $\emptyset i-$  West Germanic =  $y-$ ,  $j-$  Old Indic =  $j-$  East Germanic, Slavic, Old Latin, Old Albanian =  $w-$ ,  $f-$  Old Celtic =  $v-$  Old Slavic =  $gh-$  Armenian, Celtic, Illyrian =  $z-$  Old Greek, Baltic, Slavic =  $gj-$  Albanian Geg,  $gl-$  Albanian Toscan.

Avestan yānhayeiti (mostly with aiwi-) `girds', participle yāsta- `girded', yāh n. `belt string';

gr. ζώννυμι `gird', ζωστός (= Avestan yāsta-, Lithuanian júostas) `girded', ζωστήρ `belt, girdle', ζῶμα ds. (*ζωσ-μα compare Lithuanian juosmuō `belt'), ζώνη ds. (*ζωσ-vā, compare russ.-Church Slavic pojasnъ ds.); ζούσθω ζωννύσθω Hes. perhaps thessal. = *ζώσθω?

alb. n-gjehs, ngjesh `gird, put on a belt';

Lithuanian júosiu, júosti `gird', júostas `girded', júosta `belt, girdle' besides pa-jūsėti `gird' (ablaut  $\bar{o}u : \bar{u}$ );

Old Church Slavic pojasъ, -jasati `gird', pojasъ `belt, girdle' (etc., see Berner 449).

References: WP. I 209, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 330, Trautmann 108 f.

Page(s): 513

Root / lemma: ju-1

Meaning: you (pl.)

Grammatical information: originally only Nom.; case oblique of stem yēs-, yōs- (from **jues*, **juos*?)

Material: 1. Old Indic yuvám `you' Du., yūyám Pl., Avestan yūžəm, gathav. yūš;

Armenian having a lasting effect in those with jē- anlaut. case e.g. Dat. jez (e after mez `nobis', k'ez `tibi');

Gothic jūs ` you ' Pl. otherwise reshaped after ` we ' (see ye-) Old Icelandic ér, Old English gē, Old Saxon gī, ge, Old High German ir, Du. Gothic **ju-t* (: Lithuanian jù-du), otherwise reshaped after ` we ' Old Icelandic it, Old English Old Saxon git, Lithuanian jūs, Latvian jūs, Prussian ioūs, iaūs ` you ' Pl., Lithuanian jù-du ` you both'; Old Prussian iouson, Lithuanian jūsų, Latvian jūsu ` your '.

alb. ju ` you ' from **u* = Old Indic vaḥ with hiatus erasing j;

Also alb. juve `you', jush `from you'.

uēs-, uōs-: Old Indic vaḥ, Avestan vā enkl. for Akk. Gen. Dat. Pl., Dual. Old Indic vām, of Akk. **us-sme* (= Lesbian ὤμμε) from with takeover of nominative j Old Indic yusmān Akk. (etc.), Avestan Abl. yūšmañ, gr. Lesbian ὤμμε (**us-sm-*), Doric ὤμέ Akk., out of it nom. Lesbian ὤμμες, Doric ὤμές, as well as Attic ὤμεις etc.;

Latin vōs (= Avestan Akk. Pl. vā?), Paelignian vus ` vos ' and ` vobis ', Latin vester, Umbrian uestra ` vestrā ';

Old Prussian wans Akk.; Old Church Slavic Nom. Akk. Pl. vy, Gen. Pl. vasъ, Dat. Pl. vamъ, Instr. Pl. vami;

Hittite šū-(um-)me-es (sumes) from **usme* (compare Pedersen Hittite 75 f);

Tocharian A yas, B yes (y from the 1. Pl.).

Besides with anlaut sū: Old Irish sī, sissi ` you ' (uai-b `from you ' from **ō-sūī*), cymr. etc. chwi ` you ' (-ī < -oi of Nom. Pl. the o-stem?); Irish farn. ` your ', indala-sār ` one of you both ', sethar ` your ' (compare Thurneysen Gr. p. 449), and with anlaut esū- Gothic izwis ` you ', izwara ` your ', Old Icelandic yðr, *yðuard*s., West Germanic without s (i.e. probably with s-reduction) Old High German iuwih ` you ' (Akk.), iuwēr ` your ' etc.; perhaps it is also gr. σφώ ` you both' after the reflexive, where **σFε-* through σφε- it was replaced the older **σFω*.

References: WP. I 209 f., Trautmann 110, 364, Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 600 f.

Page(s): 513-514

---

Root / lemma: jū 2

Meaning: exclamatory interjection

Material: Gr. ἰαυοῖ `exclamation of sorrow!' (ἰαῦ, ἰύ:), ἰύ: `interjection of amazement'; with silbischem, to partly long í (ĩu-) ranks ἰυγή `howling, shrieking, as of men in pain, but also of the shout of heralds, the hissing of snakes ', ἰυγμός ds., ἰύζω (Fut. ἰύξω) `cry' (Lithuanian by Bezzenberger BB. 27, 164 f., the also auf Lithuanian ývas `a night-owl, an owl ', Old Prussian ywo-garge `owl's tree' and in n-present refers ἰνύεται κλαίει, ὀδύρεται Hes.); not here, but to au1 (above S. 71) there belongs ἀυτή `scream ', older inschr. ἄFυτά;

Latin jūbilō `rejoice, shout, to raise a shout of joy, call out to a person ' (perhaps **iūd-dʰə-lō*) ; in addition iugō, -ere `to utter the note of the red kite ';

Middle Irish ilach (**iuluko-*) `victory cheering';

Middle High German jū, jūch `exclamation of pleasure, joy' (similarly jō with the exclamation and shout), therefrom Middle High German jūwen, jūwezen `shout, jubilate ', jūchezen, Modern High German jauchzen `whoop ', Middle High German jōlen, jodeln, Modern High German johlen, jodeln, also Old Norse ýla, engl. yowl `howl' from **jūljan*;

serb. jū, íjū, ijuju `hurray, hoorah!, hurrah!!!';

Lithuanian ývas `a night-owl, an owl ' see above.

References: WP. I 210, WH. I 725 ff.

Page(s): 514

Root / lemma: īi-

Meaning: groin, intestines

Material: Gr. ἴλια μόρια γυναικεῖα; ἴλιον τὸ τῆς γυναικὸς ἐφήβαιον δηλοῖ. καὶ κόσμιον γυναικεῖον παρὰ Κῶοις Hes. (presumably i-, compare:)

Latin īlia, -um `intestines, guts; loin, flank; the lower abdomen' (Sg. īlium Gl., īle `the genitals' constructed by Catull); or ἴλια Latin loanword?

whether here cymr. il `ebullition ' (*swelling?), gall. PN Illo-mārus `with big groin ' and Scots Gaelic island Old Irish īle, Gaelic íle, engl. Islay (Watson, Celtic Place-Names 87)?

Perhaps here Slavic **jelito* (from **jilito*?) etc. `groin, intestines, testicles' (l-forms as in lanita `cheek', isto `kidney', lysto `calf', usta `mouth') in wruss. jality `testicles', serb. old jelito `a sausage, a small sausage ', čak. olito `intestine, a sausage ', poln. jelito `intestine ', dial. `sausage ', Pl. `intestines, entrails ', russ. litónʹja `manyplies of ruminants, psalterium ' (Old Prussian laítian n. `sausage ' probably from apoln. **lito*?).

References: WP. I 163 f., WH. I 673 f.

Page(s): 499

---

Root / lemma: īl-, īlu-

Meaning: dirt; black

Material: Gr. ἰλῦς, -ύος f. 'slime, mud, ordure; dregs, sediment (of wine); impurity', εἰλύ (i.e. ἰλύ) μέλαν Hes.;

Latvian īls 'very dark' (**īlus*);

Old Church Slavic ilъ 'mud, mire, dirt; clay; bog', russ. it, Gen. íta 'slime, mud', Czech jíl 'slime, mud, loam, clay', poln. it, jeť 'clay, natural dampness of earth', wherefore maybe the name of the whitefish living in the mud (Squalius vulgaris), russ. jeléc, Gen. jelcá, Czech jelec, jilec, poln. jelec, Lower Sorbian jalice (to anlaut alteration compare under īli- 'groin, intestines').

References: WP. I 163, Trautmann 103.

Page(s): 499

---

Root / lemma: **atī-, ateli-, -o-*

Meaning: a kind of fish

Material: Gr. ἔτελις 'a kind of fish' (could be assimilated from *ἄτελις), Latin attilus 'a kind of large fish found in the Po' (probably gall. or Ligurian: Holder Altcelt. Sprachsch. s. v., M.-L. 766; different Hirt IF. 37, 222); Old Lithuanian atis, Lithuanian ōtas, Latvian āte 'turbot, type of flatfish eaten as food'.

References: WP. I 44, WH. I 78.

Page(s): 70

---

Root / lemma: **dēgh-mó-*

Meaning: slant

Material: Old Indic jihmá- 'slantwise, slant, skew' (Proto Aryan **žīžhmá-* assim. from **dižhmá-*), gr. δοχμός, δόχμιος 'slant, skew' (assim. from *δοχμός?).

References: WP. I 769, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. I, 302 g, 327.

Page(s): 181

---

Root / lemma: (**gʷhēi-*) gʷhēi-, gʷhēid-: gʷhīd-

Meaning: bright, shining

Material: Gr. φαῖδρός 'clear, bright, luminous; cheerful' (= Lithuanian giēdras), next to which φαῖδι- in φαίδιμος 'gleaming, stately'; φαῖός 'dim, dark, hazy, brownish, gray' (basic form *φαι-Φός or -σός); φαῖκός λαμπρός Hes.; Note: common Illyrian gʷ- > *b-

Lithuanian giēdras, gaidrūs 'cheerful, clear, bright' (therefrom giedrà, gaidrà f. 'nice weather'), Latvian dziedrs 'azure, sky-blue color', changing through ablaut dzīdrums 'brightness'; Lithuanian gaĩsas (**gʷhəid-so-s*), gaisa 'gleam in the sky, heaven', Latvian gāiss m. 'air, weather', gaišs (**gaisus*) 'clear, bright', gāisma f. 'light', Lithuanian gaĩsras m. 'gleam in the sky, heaven, conflagration; rage, fury', gaĩzdras m. 'gleam in the sky, heaven'; probably also Old Prussian gaylis 'white'.

References: WP. I 665, Trautmann 75.

Page(s): 488-489

---

Root / lemma: **ōs*, ōs-i-s, ōs-en-, os-k- (**hwōks-*, hwōsk- in centum languages)

Meaning: ash tree

Material: Latin ornus 'the wild mountain-ash' (**os-en-os*); cymr. acorn. onn-en, bret. ounn-enn 'ash tree', cymr. Pl. onn, ynn (proto Celtic **onnā* < **osnā*); (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Old Irish (h)uinnius, Dat. uinnisinn (**onn-is-ō*) ds.; Lithuanian úosis f., m., Latvian uōsis m., Old Prussian woasis (**ōsi-s*; in addition Illyrian-Pannonian VN Osi, PN Osones); Slavic **jasenъ* (**jasenъ*) m. in serb. jāsên, russ. jásenъ; with k-extension: Armenian haçi 'ash tree'; alb. ah 'beech' (**oskā*);

Note:

Maybe wrong etymology as alb. (**phau*) ahu 'beech': Spanish haya, French hêtre, fayard, foya, fau, fagette, faye, Fayette, Italian faggio, Aragones fau, Bresciano fò, Breton favenn, Calabrese fagu, Catalan faig, Furlan fajâr, Galician faia, Irish feá, Manx faih, Piemontese fò, Portuguese faia, Romagnolo fàz, Sardinian Campidanese fau, Valencian faig, Venetian fagaro, fagher, Welsh ffawydd 'beech'.

gr. ὀξύη 'beech, spear shaft' (**ōsk[ε]σ-*?); Ligurian PN 'Οσκέλα 'ash-tree forest' (?); Old Icelandic askr m. 'ash tree, spear, javelin, ship', Old English æsc (Germanic **askiz*), Old High German asc 'ash tree'; compare tscherem. oško 'ash tree'.

References: WP. I 183 f., WH. II 223, Trautmann 203, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 59.

Page(s): 782

---

Root / lemma: (\(s)pen-2*), ((s)pon-), ((s)pond<sup>h</sup>o-)

Meaning: a kind of wooden vessel (pail)

Note: related to sphē-, sphə- 'long, flat piece of wood' (compare -no- derivative Modern High German Span).

Material: Armenian p<sup>h</sup>and<sup>h</sup> 'vessel' (**phond<sup>h</sup>o-*); Latin sponda 'the frame of a bedstead, sofa, bed, couch, bier'; Middle Irish sonn m. 'jamb, pillar', (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), sonnaid 'bumps, presses', cymr. ffon f. 'stick' (**spond<sup>h</sup>ā*); Old Icelandic spann n. 'bucket, pail' (Danish spand 'bucket, pail'), Middle Low German span, -nes 'wooden bucket', fat-span 'wooden vessel handle' (Germanic **spanna-*, perhaps o- Ableit. an en- stem **spanan-*, or from **spond<sup>h</sup>-no-* or **spon-uo-*); Old Church Slavic spqđъ 'a corn-measure, measure, peck';

e-forms missing; Dutch spinde 'larder, pantry, warehouse for storing food', Modern High German Spind 'cupboard' derive from Middle Latin \(dis)penda* (Frings, Germania Romana 146).

References: WP. II 662, WH. II 578.

Page(s): 989

---

Root / lemma: \(s)p(h)ereg-, ((s)p(h)erēg-), ((s)p(h)rēg-*) (nasalized spreng-)

Meaning: to rush, hurry; to scatter, sprinkle

Note: g-extension to sp(h)er-

Material: A. With onomatopoeic word formation:

Old Indic sphūrjati, sphūrjāyati ('bursts out, appears' and) 'beats, rattles, roars'; sphūrja-, sphūrjaka- m. 'a certain plant'; onomatopoeic word formation also gr. σφαραγέομαι 'be abundant, bristle, hiss, be full to bursting (from full udder' and) 'beat, hiss, burst with loud bang';

Lithuanian sprāga, -ėti 'crackle, crack, creak', causative sprāginti 'make crackle, roast'; ablaut. sprógti 'burst'; Latvian sprāgt and sprēgt 'break, crack', spruogt 'bud', Lithuanian spūrga f. 'Hopfenblüte', Latvian spurdzes f. Pl. ds.; spurgt 'spray'; proto Slavic **pragnō*, **pragnōti* in Czech prahnouti 'dry up, wilt, wither, languish' PN Praha 'clear place'; causative slov. prážiti 'braise', ablaut. serb. přžiti 'roast' (proto Slavic **prǣžiti*); maybe alb. (**prážiti*) përzhit 'burn' a Slavic loanword.

B. alb., Germanic and Celtic of speech: alb. shpreh 'I speak' (**spreg-sk-*); but cymr. ffraeth (**spreġh-to-*) 'quick, fast, willing, ready', bret. fraez, fraz 'distinct', corn. freth 'agile, lively' belong to spereġh- S. 998; cymr. ffreg 'gossip' has unclear -g (from \-k*); Old English sprecan, Old Saxon sprekan, Old High German sprehhan 'speak', Old English spræc, Old Saxon sprāca, Old High German sprāhha 'language' (besides forms without r unclear occurrence: Old High German spehhan, Old English specan 'speak', spæc 'discourse', engl. to speak, speech, Middle High German spaht 'gossip, loud song', spehhen 'babble'); in more general onomatopoeic word formation Old Icelandic spraka 'crackle, patter' (spraki 'rumor'), Danish sprage 'crack, creak, rustle'.

C. In other meaning:

Old Indic sphūrjati 'bursts out, appear, come into view' (see above); parāgas 'pollen';

Maybe alb. shpërthej 'blow, blossom, appear, come into view' common alb. -k > -th.

Avestan sparəga- 'scion, shoot' ('from the barbs below the head of the arrow'), frasparəya- 'sprout, twig, branch';

gr. σφαραγέομαι 'burst with a noise, crackle, sputter, as liquids when thrown upon the fire, groan with fulness, to be full to bursting', σπαργάω 'to be full to bursting, swell, be ripe, of nursing mothers, swell with milk', σπαργαί ὀργαί ὀρμαί Hes., σποργαί ἐρεθισμοί εἰς τὸ τεκεῖν Hes., ἀσπάραγος, ἀσφάραγος 'stone sperage, Asparagus acutifolius, the edible shoots thereof, the shoots of other plants';

Latin spargō, -ere 'strew, distribute, scatter, sprinkle, spray';

Middle Low German sparken 'spark, produce sparks, sparkle, glitter', Old English spearcian ds. (engl. sparkle), spircan 'spark, produce sparks, spray', Middle Low German spärke, Old English spearca (engl. spark) 'spark', nasalized Middle Low German spranken 'sparkle, glitter', mnl. spranke 'spark, the spraying, small stain';

Old Icelandic sparkr 'agile, lively, strenuous', Old Icelandic sprækkr, Norwegian spræk, Swedish dial. spräker 'agile, lively', also 'radiating, gleaming', Danish dial. spræg 'haughty, boasting' (**sprēgi-*); engl. sprinkle 'sprinkle, spray', Swedish dial. spräckel 'stain' ('*splash, dash'), spräckla 'measles, morbilli, contagious virus occurring mostly in children that is characterized by red spots on the skin', Norwegian and nisl. sprekka, Middle High German spreckel 'chloasma, skin spot, brown spot on the skin', nasal. Middle High German sprinkel, spreken 'speckle, stain'; r-lose forms are Middle Low German spinkel = sprinkel, mnl. spekelen 'sprinkle', nl. spikkel 'stain, speckle', Old English specca ds.,

Lithuanian spúogas 'stain, dot, speck'; - without anl. s, and concomitant as variant besides **perk-*, **prek-* 'dappled' (see 820 f.): Old Icelandic freknōttr 'freckly, freckled', Norwegian and nisl. frekna 'freckle', engl. freak 'make striped';

Old English spræc n. 'scion, shoot, twig, branch', spranca m. ds. (sprincel 'basket-snare'); in the meaning 'crackle, rustle, break, crack' based on Norwegian sprek 'dry deadwood', Old Icelandic sprek 'rotten, decayed, decomposed; brittle wood', Old High German sprahhula 'splinter, chaff', Middle Low German sprok, sprokkel 'deadwood'; holl. sprokkig 'brittle', sprokkeln 'break, crack', Norwegian dial. sproka, sprokka 'crack, spring, cleft, fissure', Old English forspiercan 'dry, dehydrate, desiccate'; mnl. sporkel 'february' (probably of bud sprout, compare engl. spring 'spring'), Low German sprickel 'deadwood, dry twig, branch'; compare also Old English spracen 'alder', Norwegian sprake 'juniper', Old High German sporah, spurcha ds., also ('twitching, shooting up, elastic') Old High German houue-spranca 'locusta (grasshopper)', Old Saxon sprinco ds., Middle Low German spranke, sprinke, sprekenel ds.; Middle High German sprinke 'bird trap', Low German Modern High German Sprenkel 'speckle' ds.; Low German sprekenel 'clamp wood';

Old High German springa 'shackle, fetter, or chain for the feet, a springe, gin, snare', older Modern High German Sprenkel 'bird trap', engl. springe, springle 'bird's loop' are influenced by springen,

Latvian spīrgt 'become fresh, strengthen', spīrg(t)s 'fresh, alert, awake, smart, fit, healthy'; spīrgsti (pirgsti) 'glowing coals under the ash'; spīrgulis 'splinter' ('*Weggespritztes'); spridzināt 'spray around, spring', spridzīgs 'rash, hasty, alert, awake, smart'; spuīrguls 'small, munteres child', spērgans 'brittle, alert, awake, smart'; Lithuanian sprōgis, Latvian spradzis 'Erdflöh';

D. without anlaut s- compare still: Old Indic parjanya- 'rain cloud (squirting, spraying); the rain God and thunderstorm God' (see above S. 819, 823); Old Irish arg 'drip', mcymr. eiry, cymr. eira 'snow', acorn. irch, ncorn. er, bret. erc'h ds. (**pargo-*, **pargio-*); common p- > zero Celtic Armenian.

probably also Old Church Slavic prъga 'neuer Kornansatz des Weizens', russ. pergá 'pollen'; Old Church Slavic is-prъgnqti 'spring out', poln. pierzgnąć 'break, crack (skin)'; nasalized Old Bulgarian въs-pręgnqti 'sprout', pręgъ 'locust, grasshopper'; as 'shooting up' Old Church Slavic pręglo 'a little snare, noose, a little stretcher', russ. prúga, pružina 'jumping feather', u-prúgij 'shooting up flexibly, bulging', also the family proto Slavic **pręǵǵ* `tighten, hitch, harness an animal; tense, pull taught, stretch tight ', pręǵǵ `yoke ', poln. poprąg `belt' etc.

Maybe alb. pranga `cuffs ' : Slavic pręǵǵ `yoke '.

References: WP. II 672 ff., WH. II 566 f., Trautmann 276 f., 278 f., Vasmer 2, 337, 450.

Page(s): 996-998

---

Root / lemma: **uēp-1* : uōp- : up-

Meaning: water

Material: Old Indic vāp̄ f. `deep pond, pool'; the above S. 52 mentioned pre-Celtic FIN with -up- in Celtic bottom, wherefore still Uxantia (**upsantiā*) `Ousance' (Orléans), the Ligurian PN Vappincum `Gap'; Lithuanian ùpė `river' (barely to ap-); Old Prussian wupyan `cloud'; Old Church Slavic vapa `sea' (**uōpa*; barely after W. Schulze, Kl. Schr. 115<sup>2</sup> to Old Russian vapъ `paint, color' etc.); Hittite uappu- `riverbank, wadi, dry river valley '.

References: Trautmann 11, 342, Vasmer 1, 168 f., Krahe BzNF 5, 98 ff.

Page(s): 1149

---

Root / lemma: ka<sup>dh-</sup>

Meaning: to guard; to cover

Material: Latin cassis, -idis `helmet' (if first Latin, s. WH. I 177, then from **ka<sup>dh-</sup>tis*); perhaps Middle Irish cais `love', mis-cuis `hate' (**ka<sup>dh-</sup>tī-s*); Old English hædre `thoughtful, anxious '; Old High German huota f. `the hat, guarding, wardership', Old English hōd, Old Frisian hōde `guarding', whereof Old High German huoten, Old English hēdan `look after, watch over, keep, guard, watch'; Old High German huot m. `the hat, bonnet, helmet', Old English hōd m. `cap'; Old Icelandic hǫttr and hattr, Old English hætt, engl. hat `the hat' (**had-tu-*), Old Icelandic hetta `covering; shelter' (**hattjōn-*); Kluge under Hut, Zupitza gutturals 206 f.; Old English heden `dress' = Old Icelandic heðinn `fur skirt' (**haðina-*). (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

References: WP. I 341 f., WH. I 177.

Page(s): 516

---

Root / lemma: kaghlo-

Meaning: small round stone

Material: Gr. κάχληξ, -ηκος `stone, pebble ', Abl. from **κάχλος* =

Old High German hagal, Old English hagol, hægel m. Old Norse hag/n. 'hail'.

References: WP. I 338.

Page(s): 518

---

Root / lemma: kagh- : kogh-

Meaning: to sew, plait, etc..

Material: Latin caulae (**caholae*) 'sheepfold, enclosure around temple and altars', wherefore (dial. development) cōlum 'A vessel for straining, a strainer, colander, a bow-net, a net of wicker-work for catching fish, a wear, fish snaring net' (all from wickerwork), cōlō, -āre 'strain, filter with a sieve or strainer, purify'; ablaut. Latin cohūm, after Paul. Diac. 'the strap by which the plough-beam was fastened to the yoke' as 'holder, encirclement', in addition incohō, -āre 'to lay the foundation of a thing, to begin, commence', actually 'harness' (word of farmers); here Oscan κα, ας 'incipias', kahad 'capiat': Umbrian 3. Pl. Konj. Perf. kukēhē(n)s 'occupaverint' = Latin capere: cēpi (see below S. 527 f.); Umbrian cehefi 'captus sit' is Konj. Pass. of f-Perfekts (E. Fraenkel, Fil. Biedr. Rāksti 1940, 8 f.); gall. (5. Jh., Zimmer KZ. 32, 237 f.) caili 'cancelli' Gl., caio 'breialo sive bigardio' Nom. Gall. (out of it French quai, Old French chai 'river dam'); abret. caiou Pl. 'munimenta', cymr. cae 'paddock' and 'collar, neckband', corn. kē 'paddock', Middle Breton kae 'thorn hedge, fence'; derived cymr. caŷ 'make a hedge, fence', bret. kea 'make a hedge'; perhaps cymr. caen f. 'covering, operculum, skin' (**kagh-nā*) Vendryes WuS. 12, 242; out of it borrowed Middle Irish caín 'surface'; cymr. cael 'das Erlangen' (**kagh-lā*), see above S. 408; ablaut. in bret. mor-go (**mon-go*, to **mon-* 'neck') 'Halsring der Pferde', whether -go from **kogho-* (after V. Henry, Lexique, though to cymr. caw 'band, strap'), and cymr. myn-cids, whether from **-cei*, Indo Germanic **koghio-*; out of it Middle Irish muince 'collar, neckband';

Old High German hag 'hedge, paddock', Old English haga m. 'hedge, garden', engl. haw, asächs. hago, Old Icelandic hagi 'meadowland'; Old English hæg n. 'paddock, small area of land', engl. hay, Old English hecg f. 'hedge', engl. hedge, Old High German heckia, heggia 'hedge', to Old Icelandic hegg-r 'Ahlkirsche' (**hagiō*; out of it French haie ds.); derivatives: Old English hagu-rūn 'charm, spell', hegi-tisse, Old High German hagazussa 'witch'; Old Icelandic hegna 'make a hedge, fence, shield', to Old High German hagan 'briar', PN Hagano, Old Norse Hogni, etc.

References: WP. I 337 f., WH. I 187 f., 243 f., 631, Loth RC 45, 198 f.

---

Root / lemma: kaĝo- or koĝo-, -ā-

Meaning: goat

Note: only Slavic and Germanic

In Albanian the old laryngeal gave h- > k-.

Note:

From the older root Root / lemma: aiĝ- (**h<sub>2</sub>eviĝ-*): 'goat', derived Root / lemma: ag<sup>w</sup>h-no-s (**heg<sup>w</sup>h-no-s*): 'lamb' and Root / lemma: āĝ-: 'goat': Root / lemma: kaĝo- or koĝo-, -ā-: 'goat'.

Material: Old Bulgarian koza 'goat', kozъ/ъ 'he-goat' (Latvian kaza 'goat' from Russ.), therefrom abgel. koža 'skin' (**kozjā*, originally '* goatskin ', as Church Slavic (j)azno 'skin, leather': Lithuanian ožys 'he-goat'); from the meaning ' (nanny goat fur as of covering, mantle ' goes probably also Gothic hakuls 'mantle', Old Icelandic hǫkoll ds. (fem. hekla ' mantle with hood, cowl '), Old English hacele, Old Frisian hezil (**hakil*), Old High German hachul m. ds. back; with lengthened grade probably Old English hēcen, Middle Low German hōken, Middle Dutch hoekijn 'young goat, kid' (**hōkīna*).

Meillet Ét. 246 reminds an **aĝos* 'goat(nbock)' (above S. 6 f.) as ' rhyme word ', what would speak for kaĝo- with a. The low spreading of the word can be explained from the extent of the standing contest among nanny goat names, s. in addition Lidén Arm. stem 13 f.

Maybe alb. kedhi 'young goat, kid' but not keci 'young goat, kid' from Turkish keçi ' goat '.

References: WP. I 336 f., Feist 238 f.

Page(s): 517-518

---

Root / lemma: kai-ko-

Meaning: one-eyed

Material: Old Indic kēkara- 'squinting ';

Latin caecus 'blind, dark', Old Irish caech ' one-eyed, squinting, blind', cymr. coeg 'vacuus, deficiens ', coegddall 'one-eyed', acorn. cuic 'luscus vel monophthalmus ', Gothic haihs 'one-eyed'; Middle Irish leth-chaech 'squinting';

perhaps here gr. κακίας `northeasterly wind' as `*the dark ' (Güntert, Kalypso 67<sup>6</sup>, compare aquilo : aquilus above S. 23; against it Fick GGA. 1894, 238: Κάικος, a river the Äolis);

Lithuanian kėikti `curse ', actually `lay an evil eye ' ( **kēikmi* : **kaikmés* ).

Because of the basic meaning `one-eyed' compare **kai-* `alone '.

References: WP. I 328, WH. I 129.

Page(s): 519-520

---

Root / lemma: kaiṛ- or koīṛ-

Meaning: to scratch, itch, comb, *dress (the hair), cut the hair

Material: Old Indic kéśa- m. `hair of the head ', kēśín- mähnig ' (as Old Church Slavic kosa `hair' : česati `comb' from **kes-* `scratch, scrape, comb');

Maybe alb. ( **cēs-* ) qeth `to cut hair of the head' common alb. -s > -th.

Lithuanian kaišti `scrape, rub, smooth', iškašti `glass, wood make smooth inside ', kaištuvos `plane instrument of the cooper ', Old Prussian coysnis `comb', coestue `comb, bristle brush';

Old Bulgarian cěsta `way, road' as `smooth way'.

References: WP. I 328, Trautmann 113.

Page(s): 520

---

Root / lemma: kai-1, kai-uo-, kai-uelo-

Meaning: alone, whole

Material: Old Indic kévala-h `belonging exclusively to somebody ', hence `alone ' and `whole, complete ';

Latin caelebs, -ibis `unmarried, single (whether of a bachelor or a widower) ', probably from **kaiuelo-lib(h)-s* `living alone ', to Gothic liban `live ' etc.; compare Latvian kaiļs `single, childless '.

References: WP. I 326, WH. I 130, 455;

See also: compare also kai-ko-, kai-lo-.

Page(s): 519

---

Root / lemma: kai-lo- (kai-lu-)

Meaning: bright; safe, healthy

Note:

Root / lemma: kai-lo- (kai-lu-) : bright; safe, healthy, derived from Root / lemma: kai-1, kai-uo-, kai-uelo- : alone, whole.

Material: Cymr. coel/f. 'omen, sign', acymr. Pl. coilou 'auspiciis', abret. coel '(h)aruspicem', leg. ' (h)aruspicium', acymr. coiliaucc, acorn. chuillioc 'augur' (Old Irish cēl 'augurium' brit. loanword);

Gothic hails, Old Icelandic heill, Old High German heil 'fit, healthy, whole', Old English hāl, engl. whole 'whole', Old High German heil n. 'salvation, luck', Old English hæil 'auspicious omen, sign, luck, haleness, healthiness', Old Icelandic heil (**heilz*, s-stem) n. f. 'good omen, luck', Old High German heilisōn 'emblem, landmark, mark observe', Old English hālsian '(mad, wicked, evil ghost) adjure', Old Icelandic heilsa 'greet' (compare also Gothic hails!, Old English wes hāl! as greeting), Old English hālettan, Old High German heilazzen 'greet', Old High German (etc.) heilag 'holy'; Old English hālan Pl. 'placenta, afterbirth' = Norwegian heile ds.;

Old Prussian kailūstiskan Akk. Sg. 'haleness, healthiness' (derivative from **kailūsta-s* Adj., this from **kailu-s*), kails! - pats kails! 'Heil! - selbst Heil!', 'Trinkgruß';

Old Bulgarian цѣль 'heil, fit, healthy; whole, unbroken, unmarred, unscathed, undamaged', цѣлѣ, цѣлѣти 'heal, cure', цѣлѣти, цѣловати 'greet', then also 'kiss'.

References: WH. I 130, Trautmann 112, Lidén KZ. 61, 25 f.

See also: Perhaps to kai- 'alone', above S. 519.

Page(s): 520

Root / lemma: kais-

Meaning: hair

Note:

Root / lemma: kais- : hair, derived from Root / lemma: kaiṛ- or koṛ- : to scratch, itch, comb, *dress (the hair), cut the hair.

Material: Old Indic kēsara- m. n. hair, mane' (s instead of ṣ from a form **kēsra-*, e.g. Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 232); compare above késa- under kaiṛ-;

Latin caesariēs 'hair of the head' about Tocharian A śísāk, B ṣecake `Leo (constellation)' s. Van Windekens Lexique 120 f., E. Schwentner IF. 57, 59, Pedersen Tocharian 247.

References: WP. I 329 f., WH. I 133.

Page(s): 520

---

Root / lemma: kaito-

Meaning: forest

Note: (Celtic and Germanic)

Material: Acymr. coit, ncymr. coed `wood, forest', acorn. cuít, mcor. coys, cos ds., bret. coet, coat `wood, forest, spinney', gall. PN Καϊτό-βριξ, Cēto-briga, Eto-cētum (die spätere rom. pronunciation -zētum lies den Modern High German place names auf -scheid am linken Rheinufer the basic);

Gothic haiþi f., Old Icelandic heiðr, Old English hæð, engl. heath, Old High German heida f. `heath', Middle High German heide f. `moor, heath, moorland'; besides Old English **hāð*, engl. dial. hoath; proto Germanic **haiþanas* `steppe inhabiting, wild', probably similar to Latin pāgānus (: pāgus `land'), in addition Gothic haiþnō f. `pagan, heathen', Old Icelandic heiðinn, Old English hæðen, engl. heathen, asächs. hēthin, Old High German heidan, heidin, heidanisk `heathenish, of or pertaining to heathens, pagan'; different W. Schulze Kl. Schriften 521 ff.

about Latin būcētum `a pasture for cattle, cow-pasture' s. WH. I 120, Vendryes RC 48, 398.

References: WP. I 328 f., Feist 237 f.

Page(s): 521

---

Root / lemma: kaiur-t, kaiur-t

Meaning: hole, ravine

Material: Old Indic kévaṭa- m. `pit, pothole';

gr. καίατα ὀρύγματα Hes., hom. καιατόεσσα (Λακεδαιμῶν; so far expressed κητώεσσα originate) `klüftereich', καιάδας Erdschlund in Sparta (ð as in δεκάδ- : Lithuanian dėšimt-).

References: WP. I 327, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 25.

Page(s): 521

---

Root / lemma: kai2

Meaning: and

Material: The equation gr. καὶ 'and, also' : Old Church Slavic cě in a cě, cě i` καίτοι, καίπερ, εἴπερ ' (compare the still unclear forms Arcadian Cypriot κας, Cypriot κα) is very doubtful; for cě is probably as '*as = as also, as probably' at first with Lithuanian kaĩ, Latvian kā, kaĩ, Old Prussian kai` like, as' of Pron. stem kʷo-, to connect, during καὶ could have barely evolved from kʷ- (infolge proclitic position?); not to Latin ceu` as' (**kai uē* barely with ē from ai as prehendō after Wackernagel and Niedermann IA. 18, 76).

References: WP. I 327, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. II 567<sup>2</sup>, Trautmann 112, Endzelin Latvian Gr. p. 474, WH. I 209.

Page(s): 519

Root / lemma: kakka-

Meaning: to defecate

Note: babble-word the Kindersprache

Material: Armenian k`akor` 'crap, muck', gr. κακκάω` cacō`, κάκκη` 'human excrement', Latin cacō, -āre, Middle Irish caccaim` caco`, cacc` 'ordure', cymr. cach, bret. cac`h, corn. caugh ds., russ. etc. kákaty` 'defecate', Modern High German kacken, Maybe alb. kaka` 'ordure'.

in addition perhaps as baby talk - compare Modern High German gegga` 'fie, shame on you! for shame!' - also gr. κακός` 'evil, bad'; New Phrygian κακouv` 'evil, harm', after Friedrich (Eberts Reallexikon I 139) gr. loanword; barely here Κακασβος, klein Old Saxon horseman's God (in Lycian), compare above S. 309.

References: WP. I 336.

Page(s): 521

Root / lemma: kal-1

Meaning: hard; blister

Material: Old Indic kíṇa- m. 'weal, callus' (Middle Indic from **kṛṇa-s*); about Old Indic kāthina-, kāthora- see below kar-3,

Latin callum n., callus m. 'hardened thick skin, weal, callus' (in addition calleō, -ere` to be callous, to be thickskinned, To be hardened, insensible, unfeeling, To be practised, to be wise by experience, to be skilful, versed in; in a pun on the literal sense, to know by experience or practice, to know, have the knowledge of, understand', callidus` 'sly, cunning');

alb. a-kul, akull 'ice';

Note:

Wrong etymology. alb. akull 'ice' derived from Old Norse jǫkull m. 'hanging down icicle, glacier' see Root / lemma: jeg- : 'ice'

Old Irish Middle Irish calath, calad 'hard', cymr. caled ds., gall. VN Caleti, Caletes; in addition gallo-rom. **calio-*, **caliauo-* 'stone' (M.-L. 1519a), as well as gall.-Latin callio-marcus 'coltsfoot, herb (Tussilago Farfara), whose leaves and root are employed in medicine to treat coughs' (for **callio marci* 'testiculus equi'), epo-calium (leg. -callium), ebul-calium (for **epālo-callium*, to mcymr. ebawl, bret. ebol 'plenitude') ds., to cymr. caill, bret. kell f. 'testicle' (Dual **kalnai*);

Church Slavic kaliti 'temper, harden (glowing iron)', serb. prikala 'hoarfrost'.

Maybe alb. kalit 'temper' a Slavic loanword.

References: WP. I 357, WH. I 139 ff.; 388.

See also: Zusammenhang with kel- 'hit' would be possible.

Page(s): 523-524

---

Root / lemma: kal-2, kali-, kalu-

Meaning: handsome; healthy

Material: Old Indic kalyá- 'fit, healthy, lively', kalyāṇa- 'beautiful, healthful' (-āṇa- = **ālno-* to gr. ὠλένη, ὠλλόν, above S. 308 f.); gr. **καλλο-* = Old Indic kalya- (?) as base from καλλίων, κάλλιστος 'schöner, schönst', κάλλος n. 'beauty'. καλλῦνω 'make beautiful', Ionian καλλονή 'beauty', καλλι- as 1.composition part; besides with formants -u- Boeotian καλFός = hom. κᾱλός, Attic etc. κᾱλός 'beautiful'; in addition as Spottname καλλιᾱς 'ape' and perhaps κάλλαιον n. (mostly Pl.) 'cockscorn, crest on head of cock, rooster's comb'.

i-stem Old Norse halr (**hali-*) 'man, husband, master, mister' (poet.), Old English hæle(ð) 'man, husband', asächs. helið, Old High German helid 'man, husband, combatant, hero', Old Swedish hǣlith, besides u-stem Old Norse hǫldr 'free farmer, man, husband' (**haluþ*).

References: WP. I 356, 443, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 128, 195; Seiler, The primären gr. Steigerungsformen 68 ff.

Page(s): 524

---

Root / lemma: kalni-

Meaning: narrow passage

Material: Latin callis `lane, trod, path, footpath, forest path, pathway, sideway, trackway, mountain-track, forest pastures '; bulgar. klánik `room between stove, hearth and wall', serb. klánac, Gen. klánca `defile, narrow passage between mountains ', sloven. klánec `defile, narrow passage between mountains, mountain path, rivlet of a brook, village lane ', Czech klanec `saddle, pass, narrow road between mountains '.

References: WP. I 356 f., WH. I 140 f.

Page(s): 524

---

Root / lemma: kamb-

Meaning: `bend, curve, crook '

See also: see below (s)kamb-

Page(s): 525

---

Root / lemma: kam-er-

Meaning: to bend, curve, vaulted

Material: Old Indic kmáratī (only Dhātup.) `is crooked';

Avestan kamarā f. `belt, girdle' (and `*dome ');

gr. κμέλεθρον `beam, ceiling, roof, house' (probably dissim. from *κμερεθρον), καμάρα `dome, four-poster bed; covered cart ' (to Solmsens BPhW. 1906, 852 f. assumption Carian origin, κάμαρα λέγεται τὰ ἀσφαλῆ, s. Boisacq 402 Anm.; Latin loanword camera, camara `a vault, an arched roof, an arch'); at most κάμῖνος `oven' (certainly this could have derived from a culture word);

Latin camur(us), -a, -um `arched, writhed, crooked, humped ' (dial.), genuine Latin camerus.

References: WP. I 349 f., WH. I 146 f., 149 f., 306, Feist 6, 256;

See also: s. also kam-p-

Page(s): 524-525

---

Root / lemma: kam-p-

Meaning: to bend

Material: Old Indic kaṇā 'worm, caterpillar, inchworm' (**kṛp<sub>e</sub>nā*), kampate 'trembles', if originally 'writhes, curves' (doubtful); ablaut. kumpa- (uncovered) 'lahm an der Hand'; doubtful Old Indic kaṇā- n. 'deceit, insidiousness' (would be **kṛp-*).

gr. καμπή 'bend', κάμπτω 'curve, bend', καμπύλος, καμψός 'writhed, crooked, humped'; κάμπη 'caterpillar, inchworm'; Pannonian PN Campona;

Maybe alb. Geg kama, Tosc kēmba 'leg, bent leg' : engl. jamb n. Also jambe. ME. [(O)Fr. jambe leg, vertical support, f. Proto-Romance (whence late L gamba hoof) f. gr. καμπή.] The characteristic alb. m > mb shift.

Latin campus 'field' (originally 'bend, indentation, lowland, depression', as Lithuanian lankà 'valley, meadow' to leĩkti 'bend');

Gothic hamfs 'mutilated', Old English hōf 'paralyzed hands', asächs. hāf, Old High German hamf 'mutilated, lamed';

Lithuanian kaĩpas 'point, edge, angle', Latvian kampis 'Krummholz'; reduced grade (with Indo Germanic u = e in dark environment) Lithuanian kumĩpti 'crook oneself', kumĩpas 'crooked', Latvian kũmpt 'become hunchbacked, crooked', Old Prussian etkũmps Adv. 'against'; in addition probably Lithuanian kũmstė 'fist' as **kũmp-stė* 'the fingers bending together';

perhaps poln. kępa 'river island covered with bush, shrubbery', Old Church Slavic kaṇina 'thorn - bushes, thorns, rubus, bush, shrub', russ. kupiná 'shrubbery, bush, mound, knoll; bunch, fascicle, sheaf';

Indo Germanic kamp- is possibly an extension from **kam-* 'bend, curve' (see also the similar root (s)kamb- from gr. σκαμβός, gall. Cambio-dūnum etc.); yet compare also the nasalized equal meaning family of Old Indic cāpa- m. n. 'bow', capalá- 'restless, fluctuating', npers. čap 'left', i.e. '*crooked'; Endzelin KZ. 44, 63 reminds of **capala-* also in Latvian kaparuõtiēs 'wriggle', k'eparât 'wriggle, move with difficulty', Lithuanian kāpanotis 'liegend sich aufzuhelfen suchen' or 'go laboringly'.

References: WP. I 346, 350 f., WH. I 148 f., Trautmann 116.

Page(s): 525

---

Root / lemma: kand-, skand- and (Old Indic) (s)kend-

Meaning: to glow; bright, **moon*

Note:

Root / lemma: kand-, skand- and (Old Indic) (s)kend-: 'to glow; bright, *moon' derived from Root / lemma: sen(o)- (**heno*): 'old, *old moon'

Material: Old Indic candati 'shines', Intens. participle cáni-ścadat 'exceedingly gleaming' (**skṇd-*), candrá- (ścandrá-, EN Hári-ścandra-) 'luminous, gleaming, burning; m. moon', candana- m. n. 'sandalwood (incense)';

gr. κάνθαρος ἄνθραξ Hes.;

alb. Geg hânë, Tosc hënë 'moon' (**skandnā*) : Urdu chand 'moon'

PN Candavia : Maybe Illyrian PN Sca(n)din-avia

(Κανθαοῦια), Candavii Montes. The mountains separating Illyricum from Macedonia, across which the Via Egnatia ran.

Latin candeō, -ēre 'gleam, shimmer, bright glow', transitive **candō*, -ere in accendō, incendō 'set on fire, ignite, inflame', candidus 'blinding, dazzling white, gleaming', candor 'A dazzling, glossy whiteness, a clear lustre, clearness, radiance, brightness, brilliancy, splendor, glitter', candēla, candēlābrum 'candlestick, flambeaux' (out of it cymr. etc. cannwyll ds. {common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-}), cicindēla 'little luminous beetle, oil lamp', cicendula 'lamps' (redupl. **ce-cand-*); cymr. cann 'white, bright', Middle Breton cann 'full moon', abret. cant 'canus'; borrowing from candidus takes Pedersen KG. I 190 (compare Latin splendidus > bret. splann), but cymr. cannaid 'luminous; sun, moon' and numerous derivatives leave perhaps a genuine Celtic **kando-* seem possible, whereas the FIN Kander (Baden, Switzerland) does not belong to Indo Germanic gand- 'waste, desolate reclining land', Bertoldi BSL 30, 111 and Anm. 2.

References: WP. I 352, WH. I 151 f.

Page(s): 526

---

Root / lemma: kan-tho-

Meaning: angle, curve

Note: probably from kam-tho- to kam-p- 'bend'

Material: Gr. κανθός 'corner of the eye'; in the meaning 'wheel rim' meaning-loanword from Latin cantus;

Latin cantus 'iron wheel rim' is again loanword from:

gall. (also gallo-rom.) **cantos* 'iron ring, edge, point, edge', cymr. cant (hence ceiniog 'penny, coin') ds., bret. kant 'circle', Old Irish cétad '(round) seat' from **kanto-sedo*, Middle Irish cét 'round stone pillar'; derivatives: gall. cantalon, probably 'pillar', cantena, καντενα dss.?.; also gall. cando-soccus 'Rebsenker', lies canto-soccus (to gall. succo 'pig's snout, plowshare'; compare Jud Arch. Rom. VI 210 f.);

abret. int coucant 'complete'; mcymr. yn geugant ds. (actually 'very skillful' from **koyo-kantos*, Latin caveō); to kant 'circle' > 'perfect' compare acymr. lloergant 'full moon';

cymr. cant 'troop, multitude, crowd', in addition Middle Irish céte (**kantīā*) 'congregation, meeting', probably as * a division of 100' identical with cymr. cant '100' above S. 92;

Slavic **kŏtъ* m. 'angle' in russ.-Church Slavic kutъ etc.

Maybe alb. kënd 'angle' a Slavic loanword?.

References: WP. I 351 f., WH. I 155 f., Loth RC 42, 353 f., 47, 170 ff., Vendryes RC 45, 331 ff.

Page(s): 526-527

---

Root / lemma: kan-

Meaning: to sing, sound

Material: Gr. κανά(σσω), Aor. κανάξαι 'pour with a gurgling sound', καναχή 'shrilling, noise', καναχέω, καναχίζω 'sound, ring out' (compare στενάχω, στοναχή: στένω), ήικανός 'rooster, cock' ('cackling in the early morning'); κόναβος 'noise'?

Maybe alb. këndes 'rooster' a Greek loanword.

Latin canō, -ere 'to utter melodious notes, make music, sing, sound, play', canōrus 'of or pertaining to melody, melodious, harmonious, euphonious' (compare sonōrus), carmen 'song' (**canmen*), Umbrian kanetu 'canito', procanurent 'praececinerint', ař-kani '*accinium, cantus flaminis'; perhaps also Latin cicōnia 'stork' (out of it probably syncopated praen. cōnea; compare to vowel gradation Old High German huon, russ. kánja); maybe alb. Geg kanga 'song'.

Old Irish canim 'I sing', cymr. canu, bret. cana 'sing', Middle Irish cēta n., cymr. cath f. 'song', bret. kentel f. 'leçon' (**kan-tlo-m*, previously brit. has changed to Fem., s. Pedersen KG. II 66); lengthened grade mcymr. g(w)o-gawn 'illustrious', cymr. go-goniant 'fame';

Gothic hana, Old High German etc. hano 'rooster, cock', fem. Old High German henīn, Gen. -nna (**hanen-i*, -iās), henna (**han[e]n-i*, -iās) and Old Norse hōna 'hen' (**hōnjōn*), Pl. hōnsn (hōns, hōsn) 'chicken', Old High German huon 'chicken' (Germanic s-stem **hōniz*); perhaps (Berneker 483 between) russ. (etc.) kánja, kanjúk 'kite, type of predatory bird, Weihe, durch sein Geschrei lästiger Raubvogel' (: cicōnia);

Tocharian A kan 'melody, rhythm'.

References: WP. I 351, WH. I 154 f., 212 f.

Page(s): 525-526

---

Root / lemma: kapro-

Meaning: goat

Material: Old Indic káprth- m., kaprthá- m. 'penis';

gr. κάπρος 'boar', also σῦς κάπρος;

Latin caper, caprī 'he-goat, billy goat' (in addition a new formation Fem. capra 'goat' as well as due to of Adj. **capreus* 'of a goat': caprea 'roe deer', capreolus 'roebuck'), Umbrian kabru, kaprum 'caprum', cabriner 'caprīnī';

Maybe alb. kaproll 'roebuck' a Latin loanword.

gall. **cabros* 'he-goat; billy goat' reconstructs Bertoldi (RC 47, 184 ff.) from gallo-rom. **cabrostos* 'honeysuckle, privet';

Old Norse hafr 'he-goat', Old English hæfer ds. (figurative 'crab', as French chevrette), Modern High German Habergeiß (from the grumbling estrous sound of the bird); proto Celtic **gabros* 'he-goat; billy goat', **gabrā* 'goat', gall. PN Gabro-magos (Noricum) 'goat's field', Γαβρητα ὕλη 'Böhmerwald' (Illyrian?), Old Irish gabor, cymr. gafr m. 'he-goat; billy goat', f. 'goat', Old Irish also 'mare', etc., g- is perhaps attributed to an equivalent from Indo Germanic ghaido- (above S. 409).

To Germanic hafra- 'he-goat; billy goat' seems to belong as 'goat's grain' the word Hafer, because this was built originally only as cattle feed: Old Norse hafri m., Old Saxon haþoro, Old High German habaro, Modern High German Haber, Hafer.

A miscellaneous word is agutn. hagre, Swedish Norwegian dial. hagre, Finnish loanword kakra `oat`; it belongs to after Falk-Torp aaO. as the hairy, i.e. begranntes grass to Norwegian dial. hagr n. `coarse horsehair', perhaps concomitant to Middle Irish coirce, cymr. ceirch, bret. kerch `oat', if this through dissimilation from **korkrio-*.

References: WP. I 347 f., WH. I 157 f.

Page(s): 529

---

Root / lemma: kap-ut, -(ē)lo-

Meaning: head; pan, etc..

Note: originally perhaps ` Schalenförmiges ', see below

Material: Old Indic kapúcchala- n. (from **kaput-*) `hair on the back of the head, tuft, bowl';

Latin caput, -itis `head'; bi-caps `bicipital';

Maybe truncated Albanian (**conca*) kokë : Bergamasco (**capoccia*) có : Bolognese : (**capoccia*) zócc : Bresciano (**capoccia*) có : Calabrese capa; capu : Catalan cap : Griko Salentino (**capoccia*) cóccalo (contaminated by Greek κεφάλι) : Greek κεφαλή : Lombardo Occidentale coo : Marchigiano (**capoccia*) zocca : Napulitano (**capoccia*) capa; chiocca; coccia : Occitan cap : Reggiano (**capoccia*) sòca : Romagnolo zòca : Romansh chau : Sardinian (Limba Sarda Unificada) (**capoccia*) conca : Sardinian Campidanese (**capoccia*) conca; corroça; carroça Umbro-Sabino capoccia : Valencian cap : Venetian capocia : Viestano : chep' : Welsh copa `head'.

Maybe Galician caluga, cocote : Romagnolo còppa : Sicilian cozzu : Venetian copa : Romanian ceafă : Albanian qafa `nape; nape of the neck' : Furlan cjâf : Turkish kafa `head'.

Old Norse hǫfuð n. `head'; in Germanic besides Gothic haubiþ `head', Old Norse haufuð, Old English hēafod, Old High German houbit, Modern High German Haupt through amalgamation with one to Old Indic kakúbh- f. `cusp, peak, acme, apex'.

Maybe alb. kaçube `bush'.

Old High German hūba `bonnet' etc. (compare keu-2) respective words; Cretan κύπερον ἢ κυφὴν κεφαλὴν Hes.

With l-suffixes: Old Indic kapāla- n. `bowl, cranium, Pfanne am Schenkel, schalenförmiger oder scherbenförmiger Knochen', Pahlavi kapārak (Scheftelowitz BB. 28, 144) `vessel', kapōlī `kneecap', kapōla- m. `cheek'; doubtably is affiliation from Latin capillus 'hair, esp. hair of the head ', see WH. I 158.

Old English hafola 'head'.

References: WP. I 346 f., WH. I 158, 163 f.

Page(s): 529-530

---

Root / lemma: kap-

Meaning: to grab

Note: (Varianten s. am Schlusse); various in words for Gefäße

Material: Old Indic kapaṭi 'two handful ' (ṭ Middle Indic for ṭ), Old pers. ἡ καπίθη ` δύο χοίνικες '; with Indo Germanic e npers. časpīdan, čapsīdan, cafsīdan 'grasp, capture, catch ';

gr. καπέτις 'a measure of capacity ', κάπη 'crib, manger ', καπάνη ds., Thessalian 'the cross-piece in a chariot seat, the side-pieces ', κάπτω 'snap, swallow ', κώπη 'handle, grasp';

alb. kap 'gripe, seize, catch', kapasë 'oil vessel ', kam 'have' (**kapmi* or **kab(h)mi*- to root form **kab<sup>h</sup>*- to Modern High German haben);

Latin capiō, -ere, cēpī, captus 'take', au-ceps, -cupāre 'a bird-catcher, fowler ', particeps 'sharing, partaking, participant ', capāx 'that can contain or hold much, wide, large, spacious, roomy, capacious, susceptible, capable of, good, able, apt, fit for, suitable ', capēdo, -inis 'a bowl or cup used in sacrifices; drinking vessel', capulus 'barrow, bier, later coffin' and 'handle, grasp, that by which any thing is seized or held ', capula 'a small bowl with handles ' (capulāre 'von einem Gefäß ins andere schöpfen '), caputrum 'loop for catching a thing; esp. halter ' (but capis, -idis 'a bowl with one handle, used in sacrifices ', Umbrian kapiře 'a bowl with one handle, used in sacrifices ', Oscan καπιδιτομ 'a pot, jar ' maybe from gr. σκαφίς with s-drop in all three Italian languages; certainly is capisterium loanword from σκαφιστήριον); capsa 'a repository, box, esp. for books, bookcase, satchel ', capsus 'the carriage body; cage for wild animal' (out of it gr. κάψα, κάμψα);

Maybe alb. (**capsa*) kafsha '(*captive) animal ' from 'cage for wild animal ' common alb. -ps- > -fsh- similar to npers. časpīdan, čapsīdan, cafsīdan 'grasp, capture, catch '; also from Latin capesso 'seize ' > alb. kafshoj '(*seize with the teeth) bite '.

Latin captus, -a = Old Irish cacht `maid, female servant, slave', cymr. caeth `slave', acorn. caid `taken prisoner, captive', nbret. keaz `unlucky, arm', gall. Moeni-captus `slave of Main (river in Germany)', Middle Irish cachtaim `to take somebody prisoner' = Latin captāre `try to seize' (coincidental also = asächs. haftōn `stick'); Irish cúan (**kapno-*) `(sea-) harbor, seaport';

Gothic *-haft*s (= Latin captus, Irish cacht) `to be marked with something', Old Norse haptr `a prisoner, captive', hapt n. `manacle', Old English hæft m. `captive, slave, band, strap, manacle', n. `haft, handle, grasp', Old Saxon haft `a binding', Old High German haft `bound, attached, engaged, caught, afflicted with', m. n. `custody, manacle', whereof Old Norse hefti n. `haft, hold, grasp', Old High German hefti n. `haft, handle, grasp' and Gothic haftjan `fasten, clip, bind', Old Norse hefta `bind, hinder', Old English hæftan, Old Saxon heftan, Old High German heften `bind, arrest, detain'; Modern High German haschen (**hafskōn*) = Swedish dial. haska `run after to catch up';

Gothic hafjan (= Latin capiō) `heave', Old Norse hefja (hafða), Old Saxon hebbian, Old English hebban, Old High German heffen, heven, Middle High German Modern High German heben (Swiss only `hold, stop'); in addition (compare to form Latin habēre) Gothic haban, -aida `hold, stop, have', Old Norse hafa (hafða), Old Saxon hebbian, Old English habban, Old High German habēn `have';

Old Norse -haf n. `lifting', Old English hæf n., Middle Low German haf `sea' (nnd. Haff), Middle High German hap, -bes `sea, harbor'; Old Norse hǫfn f. `harbor', Old English hæfen(e) f., Middle Low German havene, Middle High German habene f. ds. (Modern High German Hafen from Ndd.; compare Irish cuan); Old High German havan m. `pot, pan, kitchenware', Modern High German Hafen, Old Norse hǫfugr, Old English hefig, Old Saxon hebig, Old High German hebīc, -g `heavy' (actually `holding something'); Old English hefe, hæfe m., Old High German heve, hepfo, Modern High German Hefe (`what lifts the dough'); isl. Norwegian dial. havalð n. `band, strap', Old English hefeld, Middle Low German hevelte (**hafaðla*); Old High German haba, Modern High German Handhabe `hold, grasp';

Old Norse hāfr m. `creel, basket for holding fish after they have been caught' (ē as in Latin cēpī);

Old Norse hōf n. `the right measure or relation', hōfa `aim, fit, send', Gothic gahōbains `abstemiousness, austereness', Old English behōfian `have need of, need', Old High German bihuobida praesumptio, Middle High German behuof m. `business, purpose, benefit, advantage', Modern High German Behuf `end, purpose, aim, goal';

[Old Norse haukr (**hǫðukr*), Old English heafoc 'hawk' (out of it mcymr. hebawc, and from this Old Irish sebocc 'falcon'), Old Saxon haþuk- in EN, Old High German habuh 'hawk' from Germanic **haþuka*- (Finnish loanword havukka), are to be compared probably better with russ. (etc.) kóbec, poln. kobuz 'names of falcon's kinds']

Maybe alb. (**gabokna*) gabonja, zhgabonja, shqiponja 'eagle' (common alb. -kn- > -nj-). Albanian has preserved allophones shift k- : g- guttutals (typical in Celtic Baltic languages).

with the meaning from gr. κάπτω and Germanic pp as intens. consonant-Gemination (due to the root form in p or b<sup>h</sup> or b) Modern High German (actually ndd.) happen, hapsen 'devour'. holl. happen 'snatch' ;

Lithuanian kúopa 1. 'troop, multitude, crowd, dividing off, partitioning off', 2. 'ransom for distrained livestock' (= gr. κόπη); Latvian kàmpju, kàmpť 'gripe, catch'; about Trojan name Κάπρυς, Latin capys, capus 'falcon' (Illyrian?) s. Bonfante REtIE 2, 113.

The vocalism is absolutely almost a, also in Old Indic kapāṭī (that as an isolated word could not have been a as derailment for i = ə); besides occasional ē (cēpi, hāṭī) and ō (κώνη, Lithuanian kúopa, presumably also Germanic hōf), the barely placed as normal grades (ē: ō: ə) (vocalization by Reichelt KZ. 46, 339). The same vocal relation between Oscan hāfiest: hipid, Lithuanian gabėnti: preterit atgėbau, Gothic gabei: Old Norse gæfr, considering of vocalization appears in the root anlaut and auslaut (final sound) sway between Tenuis (*A tenuis consonant is one which is unvoiced and unaspirated. That is, it has a voice onset time close to zero), voiced-nonaspirated, voiced-aspirated, which can be explained from the imitation of short snapping sounds (kap, ghap, ghabh etc.) and imitation of quick snaps through this sound ('catch, grasp, snap').

About that in detail Collitz preterit 85 ff., K. H. Meyer IF. 35, 224-237; s. also above S. 407ff.; different EM<sup>3</sup> 173.

Altaic etymology :

Protoform: **kăp`è*

Meaning: to squeeze, press together

Turkic protoform: **Kıp-*

Mongolian protoform: **kajiči*

Tungus protoform: **kap-*

Comments: KW 180, Владимирцов 270, Poppe 48. A Western isogloss. Despite Doerfer's doubts (TMN 1, 450), the Turk. and Mong. forms cannot be separated from each other. It is interesting also to mention the forms meaning 'to wink' (< *'press eyelids together') among the reflexes of PT *Kip- (usually confused with *Kip- 'spark') and the TM derivative *kapta- (usually confused with *kapta- 'flat'). Cf. also *k`ap`V.

References: WP. I 342 ff., WH. I 159 f., 169.

Page(s): 527-528

---

Root / lemma: kar-1

Meaning: to scold, punish

Material: Gr. κάρνη ζημία, αὐτόκαρνος αὐτοζήμιος Hes.;

Latin carinō, -āre `scoff, mock' (probably ǣ);

Old Irish caire f. `reprimand', acymr. cared `wickedness; idleness', cymr. caredd `fault, error', corn. cara `rebuke', Middle Breton carez `reprimand' (**kriā*);

Old High German harawēn, Middle High German herwen `deride', Old English hierwan `deride', Old Norse herfilligr `contemptible, degrading', Middle High German here, herwer `sharp, tangy', Finnish loanword karvas `bitter| brackish| pungent; harsh| shrill; sad| calamitous; ill-natured| caustic'; zero grade Old English gehornian `affront, offend';

Latvian karināt `banter, stir, tease, irritate'; ablaut. East Lithuanian kirinti ds.;

Old Church Slavic korъ, u-korъ `indignity| affront| abuse/insult', u-koriti `vilify, scold', po-koriti `subject, subdue', Czech po-kora `humility', po-korný `humble, humiliated', ablaut. serb.-Church Slavic kara f. `fight', Czech kára `reproach, accusation, punishment', etc.;

Maybe alb. korit `make ashamed' a Slavic loanword.

perhaps here Tocharian A kärn-, B karn- `torment, smite'.

References: WP. I 353, WH. I 168 f.; Trautmann 118 places Balto Slavic words to Indo Germanic korjo-, see there.

Page(s): 530

---

Root / lemma: kar-2, karə-

Meaning: to praise, glorify

Note: also (still) more in general onomatopoeic words as many other, the connection from k and r included roots

Material: Old Indic carkartī `erwähnt rühmend' (Aor. ákārīt), carkṛtī- `fame, praise, laudation', karkarī-, karkarī `a kind of sound', kīrtī- f. `fame, knowledge' (thereafter with ī also kīrī-, kīrīn- `singer'); kārū- `singer, bard' (: κήρυξ);

gr. κακκαίρω `thunder out, roar, rumble', κήρυξ, Doric κᾱρῦξ `herald';

Old Norse herma (**harmjan*) `apprise, notify', hrōðr m. `fame, laudation', Old English hrōðor m. `pleasure, joy', hrēð (**hrōþi*) `fame', Old High German (h)rōd-, (h)ruod- ds. (in EN), Gothic hrōþeigs `glorious', Old Norse hrōsa `vaunt' (**hrōþ-s-ōn*); Old High German (h)ruom, Old Saxon hrōm `fame, laudation, honour', in addition Old English brēme `illustrious' (**bihrōmi*);

Maybe alb. mbrëmbje `evening, dark' common alb. b > mb.

perhaps as b-extension: Gothic hrōps `clamor', Old High German ruof `shout, call', Old Saxon Old English hrōpan, Old High German (h)ruofan `call, shout, cry', Old High German (h)ruoft, Middle High German gerüefte, geruofte n. `shout, call, scream', Middle Low German ruchte, rochte n. `shout, call, scream, rumor', Modern High German (from Ndd.) Gerücht. `rumbling, rumor, hearsay'; Lithuanian kařdas `echo', Old Lithuanian ap-kerdžiu `I announce', Old Prussian kirdīt `hear'.

References: WP. I 353 f.

Page(s): 530-531

---

Root / lemma: kar-3, redupl. karkar-

Meaning: hard

Material: Old Indic karkara- `rough, hard' = gr. κάρκαροι τραχεῖς Hes., Old Indic karkaśa- `rough, hard' (also karaka- m., `hail?'); presumably gr. κρᾱνα[F]ός `hard, rough, rocky'.

In addition probably the words for `Cancer, 4th sign of the zodiac': Old Indic karkaṭa- m. `Cancer, 4th sign of the zodiac' (karkin- `Cancer, 4th sign of the zodiac as constellation', loanword from gr. καρκίνοϛ), karka-h m. `crab';

gr. καρκίνοϛ ds., Latin cancer, -crī ds. (dissim. from **carcro*-, perhaps already Indo Germanic, compare Old Indic kaṇkaṭa- m. `armor, coat of mail, garment made of linked metal rings' from **kaṇkṛta*-);

Old Church Slavic rakъ 'Cancer, 4th sign of the zodiac' from **krakъ* dissim. sei, is possible; die Ähnlichkeit with Norwegian (etc.) ræke 'cancer squilla, prawn, shrimp' places borrowing of Norwegian words ahead;

further words for hard shell, nut, dry fruit contained in a shell: gr. κάρυον 'nut, dry fruit contained in a shell', κάρυα f. 'walnut'; Latin carīna f. 'nutshell, the keel of a ship, ship' (maybe from Gr. after Keller Volkset. 279, in which case καρύινος is the origin); cymr. ceri (**carīso-*) 'kernel'.

With t-suffixes: Gothic hardus 'hard, stern', Old Norse harðr 'hard', Old English heard 'hard, strong, valiant', Old Saxon hard, Old High German hart, herti 'hard, tight, firm, heavy', Adv. Old Norse harða, Old English hearde, Old High German harto, Middle Low German harde 'very, particularly, specially, especially, particular: in particular, peculiarly, separately, extra, notably' (compare gr. κάρτα), proto Germanic **harðū-* from Indo Germanic **kar-tū-*; due to an Indo Germanic extension **kre-t-*, **krt-* Aeolic (Gramm.) κρέτος, next to which with the vocalism of Adj. Attic κράτος, ep. Ionian κάρτος 'strength, power', hom. κρατύς 'strong' Komparat. Ionian κρέσσων, Attic κρείππων, Superl. κράτιστος, ep. κάρτιστος, Adv. κάρτα 'strong', κρατερός, καρτερός 'strong, tight, firm, violent' (etc.); remains far off Old Indic krātu-, Avestan xratuš 'spiritual power'.

Old Indic kaṭhiná-, káthora- 'hard, tight, firm, stiff' could also belong to Indo Germanic / to cymr. caled, Middle Irish calad 'hard', gall. -caletos (see ka- 'hard').

Because of the existence of a widespread iber.-mediterr. **carra* 'stone, cairn, pile of stones set up as a memorial or mark of some kind' (v. Wartburg FEW. s. v.) the affiliation of the following words is dubious, they could partly belong here or to (s)ker- 'cut, clip':

Old Irish carrac f. (nir. carraig) 'rocks, cliff' and crec f. ds., Gen. craice, creice, Middle Irish also Nom. craic (nir. craig) f. ds., Gen. creca, derive all from Brit., also Middle Irish crach 'rough' (= scabbed); to acymr. carrecc, cymr. carreg f. 'stone, rocks' (**karrikā*), bret. karreg, corn. carrek ds., compare cymr. carrog 'stream, brook' (**karrākā*), actually 'rock brook' = Middle Irish carrach 'scabbed' and gallo-rom. **cracos* 'stone' (v. Wartburg FEW. s. v), acymr. creik, cymr. craig f. (**krakī*) 'rocks', bret. krag 'sandstone', cymr. crach 'scurf' = bret. (Vannes) krah 'small hill, cusp, peak' (**krak-*, **krakk-*, perhaps through metathesis from **kar-k-*) etc. basic forms are Proto Indo Germanic **karr-* or Indo Germanic *(s)kṛ-s- (ergäbe Celtic carr-), respectively **kar-k-*; also zweidentig Italian-venezian. (Venetic) scaranto, caranto 'stony mountain brook' and Venetic PN Scarantia > Scharnitz (Tirol), Carantania 'Carinthia, region in southern Austria', etc.;

likewise Germanic **har(u)gaz`* cairn, pile of stones set up as a memorial or mark of some kind, sacrificial altar ' in Old Norse hǫrg `cairn, pile of stones set up as a memorial or mark of some kind ', Old English hearg m. `heathenish temple', Old High German harg `grove, temple' (Finnish loanword karko `woodpile, pile, stack ', harkko `clump, heap'), perhaps also to Old Irish cymr. bret. corn `stone hill, stone grave ', and Old High German hart `mountain forest ', Old English harað, -eð ds.; barely here as `woodlander, forest-dweller ' the Old Germanic VN Χαροῦδες, Harudes, Old English Hæreðas, Old Icelandic Hǫrdar, rather to Old Irish caur, cur `hero ' (**karut-s*).

References: WP. I 30f., 345f., WH. I 8, 151, 166, 168, Loth RC 43, 401 f., Thurneysen KZ. 48, 71; 59, 7 Anm., Much Hoops Reallex. s. v. Harudes.

Page(s): 531-532

---

Root / lemma: kars-

Meaning: to scratch, rub

Material: Old Indic kaṣati` rubs, scrapes, scratches ' (Middle Indic from **kṛṣati*), unclear kaṣāya- `tangy, bitter, sharp' etc. (also kuṣṭha- n. `leprosy ', Middle Indic from **kṛṣṭha-*?);

Latin carrō, ere` (wool) krämpeln, carduus` thistle' (due to from **carridus`* grating, scraping, coarse ');

Maybe alb. (**koro*) kore : russ. korósta` scab'.

Lithuanian karšiù, kaĩšti` comb, curry, krämpeln, Latvian kāŗšũ, kāŗst` wool comb';

Old Bulgarian krasta (**kor-stā*), russ. korósta f., Serbo-Croatian krāsta` scabies, crust, scab, eschar ';

Middle Low German harst` rake ', probably also Middle Low German Modern High German harsch` hard, rough', Modern High German verharschen` form hard crust over a wound ', Dialectal harsch` snowy crust ', Middle High German harsten, verharsten` become rough, hard '; with Germanic ablaut neologism and anlaut. s- from the root sker- here also andd. ofskerran intense Verb `scrub, scrape ', Old High German scerran, Middle High German scherren intense Verb `scratch, scrape', intensive formation **skarzōn* in Norwegian skarra` produce a scratching sound ', Middle Low German Middle High German scharren` scrape, scratch', Swedish skorra, Middle Low German schurren` give a scratching sound '.

Maybe alb. (**schurren*) shkurre` thorny bush'

The root vowel is a; the the intonation difference between Lithuanian and Slavic still remains to be explained.

References: WP. I 355 f., WH. I 173 f., Trautmann 118 f.

Page(s): 532-533

---

Root / lemma: kat-1

Meaning: to link or weave together; chain, net

Material: Latin catēna `chain' ( **cates-nā*), cassis, -is `a hunting-net, snare, net' (because of catēna rather = **kat-s-is* as **kat-ti-s*; perhaps also casa `primitive cottage' (originally from easy netting; probably dial. from **catjā*, as Oscan Bansae from Bantiae);

perhaps here caterva f. `heap, troop, multitude, crowd' ( **kates-ouā*), Umbrian kateramu, caterahamo ` catervamini, congregamini ', yet see below under ket-1.

cymr. cader `fortress' (only in PN), Old Irish cathir `town, city'; perhaps Old Icelandic hadda f. `ring, handle, part of an object designed to be gripped by the hand, hanger' ( **habipōn*: catēna; rightly doubtful), probably Old English heador n. `confinement, jail ';

Church Slavic koťць `cella, nest', russ. koť Pl. `fish weir ', Serbo-Croatian kôť, (dial.) kòtac `small stall'; dial. `kind of fishing' etc. and Bulgarian kótara, kótora, kótor `hurdle ', Serbo-Croatian kōtar `fence', kōtār `region, area, limit, boundary' ( **from fence* '), sloven. kotár `district, region, area ' (see Berneker 386, 588);

Maybe alb. kotec `cell, nest' a Slavic loanword.

References: WP. I 338, WH. I 175 ff., 181 f.

Page(s): 534

---

Root / lemma: kat-2

Meaning: to bear young; animal cub

Material: Latin catulus `a young of an animal, esp. a whelp, puppy [animal-young, esp. young dog or cat]', Umbrian kateł, Gen. katles ` catulus ';

Maybe alb. kotele `young cat' .

Old Icelandic haðna f. `young goat', Middle High German hatele, Modern High German-Swiss hatle `goat';

Slavic koŭiti se (russ. koŭit'sja etc.) 'kitten, give birth to kittens', dial. kóťka 'lamb', Serbo-Croatian koŭ 'brood', poln. wy-koŭ 'young goat, kid' etc. (see Berneker 589 f.).

References: WT. I 338 f., WH. I 183.

Page(s): 534

---

Root / lemma: kau-l-, ku-l-

Meaning: hollow; bone

Material: Gr. καυλός m. 'stalk; quill, shaft'; Latin caulis (cōlis, caulus) 'the stalk or stem of a plant'; Middle Irish cuaille 'picket, pole' (**kaulīnio-*); Lithuanian káulas m. 'bone' (glottal stop secondary), Latvian kaŭls 'stalk, bone', Old Prussian caulan n. 'bone, leg'.

zero grade: Old Indic kúlyam n. 'bone', kulyā f. 'stream, brook, ditch, trench, channel, canal'; Old Norse holr 'hollow', Old High German Old English hol ds., Gothic ushulōn 'hollow out'.

References: WP. I 332, WH. I 188 f., Trautmann 122; compare under 2. keu-.

Page(s): 537

---

Root / lemma: kaus-

Meaning: to draw lots

Material: Gr. καῦνος 'lot, fate' (**καυσ-voς*); Church Slavic кѡшб m. 'lot, fate'; кѡшѣти se 'draw lots for', prěkѡšiti 'gain in dice game'.

References: WP. I 332, Berneker 672.

Page(s): 537

---

Root / lemma: kau-

Meaning: to put down, discourage

Material: Gr. καυνός κακός (σκληρός, in latter meaning to καίω, Schulze KZ. 29 270 Anm. 1) Hes. and καυρός (or καῦρος) κακός, also καυαρόν κακόν Hes.;

Gothic hauns 'low, humble' (haunjan 'abase, degrade'), Old High German hōni 'despised, woeful, wretched, miserable, low' (hōnen 'vilify, scold, scoff'), Old English hēan 'low, woeful, wretched, miserable, pitiful' (hȳnan 'vilify, scold'), Old High German hōnida, Old Saxon hōnđa 'shame', Old Frisian hānethe 'accusation', Old High German hōna 'derision, ridicule';

Old Norse hāð (**hawipa-*) n. 'derision', Middle High German hūren 'cower, cringe';

Latvian kàuns m. 'disgrace, shame, shame, the genitals', kàunētiēs 'be ashamed, be stupid', kàunīgs 'shamefaced, shy, bashful, stupid';

Lithuanian kūnīuos, kūvētis 'be ashamed'.

References: WP. I 330, Feist 249 f., Trautmann 122.

Page(s): 535

---

Root / lemma: kād-

Meaning: to harm, rob, chase

Material: Old Indic kadana- n. 'annihilation', cakāda (doubtful, if not cakāra?) kadanam 'have arranged destruction';

gr. hom. κεκαδών 'causing deprivation', Fut. κεκαθήσει 'will rob', κεκαθήσαι βλάψαι, κακῶσαι, στερῆσαι Hes., in medial-pass. meaning hom. κεκάδοντο 'caused to retire', ἐκεκήδει (Konjektur) ὑπε(κε)χωρήκει Hes., ἀποκαδέω ἀσθενέω Hes.; κάδυρος κάπρος ἄνορχις Hes.

References: WP. I 341, WH. I 128; compare under kād-.

Page(s): 516

---

Root / lemma: kāi-d-4, kāi-t-

Meaning: 'bright, radiant'

See also: see below (s)kāi-d-, (s)kāi-t-.

Page(s): 519

---

Root / lemma: kāi-3, kī-

Meaning: heat

Material: Old High German hei 'arid', gihei n. 'heat, aridity', arheigētun 'withered, wilted', Gothic Dat. Pl. haizam 'the torches' (es-stem **hąi-iz-*).

With -d-extension: Old High German heiz, Old Saxon hēt, Old English hāt, Old Icelandic heitr 'hot' (whereof Old High German Modern High German heizen, Old English hætan, Old Icelandic heita ds.); Gothic heito f. 'fever'; Old High German hizza 'heat', (**hitjō*) Old Saxon hittia, Old English hitt f., Old Icelandic hiti m. ds.

With -t-extension: Lithuanian kaistù, kaitaũ, kaĩsti 'become hot', kaitrà 'fire glow, fire heat', kaitrùs 'giving heat', prākaitas m. 'Schweiß', Latvian kàistu, kàitu, kàist 'become hot, burn', figurative Latvian kaĩtināt 'anger, stir, tease, irritate' (kaĩte 'damage, affliction, disability, plague', compare Mühlenbach-Endzelin II 135), Old Prussian ankaitītai 'Angefochtene';

Old Icelandic hāss (**hairsa-* from **hais-ra-*), Old English hās (**haisa-*), engl. hoarse (from Middle English hōs + coarse), Old Saxon hēs, Old High German heisi 'hoarse' (unclear is, whether here from **kirsem* alb. kirrem 'become hoarse').

References: WP. I 326 f., Trautmann 113.

Page(s): 519

---

Root / lemma: kāi-t-

Meaning: 'light, illuminated, pale, bright'

See also: see below under skāi-t-

Page(s): 521

---

Root / lemma: kāk-

Meaning: to croak

Material: Old Indic kāka- m. 'crow', kākāla-, kākola- m. raven'; Latvian kāk'is 'jackdaw' (also Old Prussian koce ds., if so to change after kote); to Latvian FIN Kak'upe, Lithuanian FIN Kakupis (compare Κακούπρις, FIN in Sicily?)? Different about the Baltic words Mühlenbach-Endzelin II 190.

References: WP. I 335.

Page(s): 521

---

Root / lemma: kāl-3 (kōl-?)

Meaning: prison

Material: Old Indic kārā 'jail'; Lithuanian kaliù, kalėti 'sit in jail', kalinė, kalėjimas 'jail', kalinỹs 'captive'.

References: WP. I 356.

Page(s): 524

---

Root / lemma: kām-

Meaning: 'lust, desire, crave; seek after, look for'

See also: see above S. 515 kā-.

Page(s): 525

---

Root / lemma: kāpho- or kōpho-

Meaning: hoof, *claw, nail

Note:

Root / lemma: kāpho- or ṛōpho-: hoof, *claw, nail' derived from Root / lemma: ṛeub-: thorn'

Material: Old Indic śaphá- m. 'hoof, claw, nail', Avestan safa- m. 'hoof of the horse';

Old Icelandic hōfr, Old English hōf, Old High German huof 'hoof'.

References: WP. I 346, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 253.

Page(s): 530

---

Root / lemma: kāpo-

Meaning: things that float in water

Material: Old Indic śāpa- m. 'was fließendes Wasser mit sich führt, Trift, Geflößtes', śāpēṭa- m. 'washed ashore reed'; Lithuanian šāpai 'scattered stalks, remains which an inundation on the fields leaves behind', šāpas 'stem, straw, bough'.

References: WP. I 345, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 27.

Page(s): 529

---

Root / lemma: kāp-, kəp-

Meaning: a piece of land

Material: Gr. κῆπος, Doric κᾰπος 'garden', Hes. κάπυς κῆπος (Cretan 'uncultivated small area of land', s. Gl. 3, 303); Old High German huoba, Old Saxon hōba 'a piece of land', Modern High German Hufe, Hube; alb. kopshtë 'garden'.

References: WP. I 345, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 27, places here Old High German habaro etc. 'oat'.

See also: S. under under kapro-.

Page(s): 529

---

Root / lemma: kār-

Meaning: wax

Material: Gr. κηρός 'wax', κηρίον 'honeycomb, a cutaneous disease', although Doric κᾰρός can be secure enough, out of Ion.-Attic are loanwords from this dialect group, Latin cēra as gr. loanword;

Lithuanian korỹs 'honeycomb, honeycomb of the bees'.

In -dh- extention:

Maybe (**kro-dhē*) krodhē 'beehive'.

Latvian kāres Nom. Pl. ds.;

poln. skarżyk 'the thrust in the beehive'.

References: WP. I 355, WH. I 202, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 52.

Page(s): 532

---

Root / lemma: kāu(ə)lā : kūlā

Meaning: abscess, boil

Material: Gr. Ionian κήλη, Attic κᾱλη 'swelling, lump, growth, esp. a tumor', βουβωνοκήλη 'hernia'; καλάζει ὀγκοῦται. 'Αχαιοί Hes., κάλαμα ὄγκος Hes. (Ionian κήλη from *kāF-ελ-ᾱ, Attic ach. κᾱλ-η, -ᾱ from kǎF-ελ-ᾱ?);

Old Norse haull, Old English hēala, Old High German hōla f. 'hernia' (**kāu[ə]lā*, at most **kəu[ə]lā*); zero grade Church Slavic kyla 'ds.'; russ. kilá 'ds.'; knag in a tree', serb. kīla ds.; Lithuanian dial. kúle f. 'hunch, outgrowth, knag'.

References: WP. I 333, Trautmann 144.

Page(s): 536-537

---

Root / lemma: kāu-, kəu-

Meaning: to hit, cut

Material: Latin (with present formation d) cūdō, -ere 'hit, knock, stomp, stamp' (probably for **caudō* after many frequent compounds; compare) caudex, cōdex 'The trunk of a tree, the stock, stem, The block of wood to which one was bound for punishment, A block of wood split or sawn into planks, leaves or tablets and fastened together, (Since the ancients orig. wrote upon tablets of wood smeared with wax.) A book, a writing (its leaves were not, like the volumina, rolled within one another, but, like those of our books, lay over one another, A code of laws', cōdicillus 'logwood', caudica 'barge made from a tree truck', incūs, -ūdis f. 'anvil'; Tocharian A koṭ, B kaut 'split';

Maybe Italian incudine : Basque ingude : Calabrese 'ncudina : Polish kowadło : Sicilian 'ncunia : alb. (**incūdis*) kudhër 'anvil', nasalized thundër 'hoof (which the smith shoes, fits a horse with horseshoes)', thua 'nail'?

Old High German houwan (hīō), Old English hēawan (hēow), Old Icelandic hoggua (hiō) 'hew, hit (blow)' (in addition as 'the hitting' Gothic etc. hawī 'hay');

Lithuanian káuju, kóviau, káuti (**kāujiō*) 'hit, forge; fight', kovà 'fight, struggle', Latvian nuò-kaût 'slay, kill', kava 'blow, knock, layer' (**kəu-*), Lithuanian kújis 'hammer' = Old Prussian cugis ds. (Old Bulgarian kyjъ ds.; Lithuanian kúgis is reshaped from kújis after kúgis 'haycock, haystack');

Old Bulgarian kovъ (later Church Slavic kujъ) kovati 'forge' (= Old High German houwu), serb. kŭjēm (dial. kòvēm) kòvati 'forge, stamp; shoe, fit a horse with horseshoes', Church Slavic kyjъ 'hammer' (**kŭjō-*), russ. kuznъ 'smith's work', zero grade Old Bulgarian kbznъ 'shrewdness' ('forge a conspiracy') etc.; Tocharian A ko-, B kau- 'slay'.

Maybe alb. (**pod* 'under' -kova) patkua, Czech podkova, Hungarian patkó, Polish podkowa, Romanian potcoavă 'horseshoe', alb. kovaç 'smith' Slavic loanwords.

References: WP. I 330 f., WH. I 186, 300 f., Trautmann 123.

Page(s): 535

---

Root / lemma: kāu-, kēu-, kū-

Meaning: to howl

Note: onomatopoeic words, partly with anlaut. k, partly with k̃.

Material: Old Indic kāuti 'shouts, howls', Intens. kōkūyate 'shouts, sounds, sighs' (Gramm.), kōka- m. 'owl, dog?' ('shouting; howling'); kokila- 'cuckoo';

Armenian k'uk' 'sighing, groaning' (: Lithuanian kaũkti, Meillet Msl. 12, 214; the non-conversion of 2. k to s after u is not an objection in onomatopoeic words);

gr. κω-κῦ-ω 'cry, lament' (dissim. from **kū-κῦ-ω*), κῶκῦμα 'lamentation'; καύᾱξ, -ᾱκος, Ionian -ηξ, hom. κήξ, -κός f., κῆυξ, -ῦκος 'a kind of gull'; with fractured reduplication (as Old Indic kōka-, Lithuanian kaũkti, šaukti, Slavic kukati etc.) καυκαλίας, καυκίαλος, καυκιάλης bird name (Hes.);

but mcymr. cuan, cymr. cwan, abret. couann, nbret. kaouan, dial. cavan, kohan, kouhen ds. (Ernault RC 36, 206<sup>3</sup>) are probably onomatopoeic neologisms;

Latin (gall.) cavannus 'a night-owl, an owl' (Anthol. Latin); (under the influence of common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-).

Old High German hūwo 'owl', hūwila, hiuwula 'a night-owl, an owl', Old High German hiuwilōn 'jubilate', Middle High German hiuweln, hiulen 'howl, cry', Middle Low German hūlen, Middle English hūlen, engl. howl;

Lithuanian (see above) kaukiù, kaũkti, Latvian kàukt 'howl, of dogs or wolves ', Lithuanian sukũkti 'ds., start howling', kaukalė 'a kind of water bird ', Latvian kaũka 'whirlwind';

Lithuanian kóvas m. 'jackdaw', kóva f. ' rook, black European bird of the crow family ' (**k̑aũā* = poln. kawa);

russ. kávka 'frog', dial. 'jackdaw', kávaty ' cough intensely ', klr. (etc.) kávka 'jackdaw', kavčáty ' screech, shriek, scream, squawk, cackle, croak, yell '; ablaut. (**kēu-*) Bulgarian čávka, serb. čâvka, Czech čavka 'jackdaw';

Maybe alb. çafka 'heron' a Slavic loanword.

Old Church Slavic kuja-jq, -ti 'murmur'; russ. kúkatʹ 'murmur, mutter, mumble ', serb. kũkati 'lament' etc.

Maybe alb. kuja 'lamentation ' a Slavic loanword.

With -b-, -b(h)o-: Old Indic kúkkubha- m. 'wild rooster, cock, pheasant', gr. κουκούφας 'hoopoe' (late, barely genuine gr.); onomatopoeic words are: kíkubos probably ' a night-owl, an owl ' (besides κικκάβη, κίκυμος (out of it Latin cicuma), κικυμῖς ds., κικκαβαῦ ' cry in imitation of the screech-owl's note '), Latin cucubiō, -īre 'of scream of an owl' (Thomas Stud. 39 takes the filling hiatus b); also b(h)- suffix ' of the aforementioned ones could have arisen like that.

With -g-: Old Indic kũjati ' growls, hums, murmurs'; Norwegian hauke ' howl, call, shout, cry'.

Maybe alb. kujit ' growl', kuja f. 'lament'.

With -p-: Gothic hiufan 'lament', Old Norse hjūfra ds., Old English hēofan ds., Old Saxon hiovan, Old High German hiofan, hioban ds.

With -r-: Old Indic cákōra- m. 'a kind of partridge, game bird '; Latin caurīre 'cry, of panther in heat '; Old Church Slavic kurъ 'rooster, cock', Church Slavic kurica 'hen';

With anlaut. palatal:

Old Indic śúka- m. 'parrot'; Armenian sag 'goose ' (**kaũā*) = Old Church Slavic sova 'owl ' (: Celtic cavannus); (common Celtic -ns-, -nt- > -nn-), Lithuanian šaukiù, šaũkti 'cry, loud call, shout, cry, name'; russ. syčb` 'midget owl, sparrow owl', Czech sýc` 'owl' (**kūk-ti-*); doubtful Old Church Slavic šumъ` 'noise' (**kēu-mo-s?* Brugmann II<sup>2</sup> 1, 247).

Maybe alb. zhurmë` 'noise' a Slavic loanword.

compare Suolahti Dt. bird name 185 (here about the neologism Old High German kaha` 'jackdaw' etc.; compare Lithuanian kóvas etc. ds.).

References: WP. I 331 f., WH. I 184, 190, 298, Trautmann 122.

Page(s): 535-536

---

Root / lemma: kā-

Meaning: to like, wish

Material: Old Indic kāyamāna- 'having with pleasure' (ā-kāyíya- 'desirable' with from this jo-present carried-y-), Perf. caké` 'take pleasure in, love, long for', -kātí- (in compound) 'demanding, requiring'; Avestan kā- 'long, want' (kayā 1. Sg., kāta-; čakuše);

-mo-stem Old Indic kāma- m. 'lust, wish, love', Avestan Old pers. kāma- m. 'desire, wish';

Note:

-m- stem is of Greek Illyrian origin.

kām- in Old Indic kāmáyati, particle Perf. Med. cakamāná-; kamra- 'charming, beautiful', kamana- 'eager, avid, lascivious'; Lithuanian kamaros 'lust, desire' and Latvian kāmēt` 'starve'.

ro-stem: Latin cārus` 'dear, worth, precious (also of price)'; Gothic hors (**hōra-*) 'adulterer, Hurer', Old Icelandic hōrr ds., hōrn. 'wooing, lubricity', Old English hōrn ds., Old High German huor n. ds., Old High German huora (and huorra from **hōriōn-*) 'whore', Old English hōre, Old Icelandic hōra- (**hōrōn-*) ds.; Latvian kārs` 'lascivious, covetous' (kāruôt` 'lust, crave, long, want'); reduced grade gall. Carant-us, -illus etc., abrit. Carant-īnus, -orius, Old Irish caraim` 'love', carae` 'friend'; cymr. corn. bret. car` 'friend' (**kə-rānt-s*), cymr. caraf` 'I love'; about (gall.?) caris(s)a s. WH. I 169; Tocharian Akk. Sg. A krant, B krent` 'good' (= Celtic carant-).

Based on Aryan kan- (Old Indic Perf. cākana, Aor. akāniṣam, Avestan čakana), can- (Old Indic caniṣṭām, Old Indic cānas- n. 'pleasure, satisfaction', Avestan čanah-, činah- `desire, demand') `be given satisfaction, find pleasure', Avestan čīnman- n. `lust, strive' in a Indo Germanic -(e)nes- stem k-e-nes-? The forms cani-, kan- can also be secondary as kami-šyate, -tar- besides kāma- (if Stokes KZ. 40, 246 has rightly compared Middle Irish cín, Gen. cena `love, affection' as **kenu-*, would be assessed k-en- : kā- as ks-en- : kes-).

Old Indic cāru- `pleasant, welcome, mellifluous', cāyamāna- `covetous', nicāyya- ds., cāyú- `yearning', with previously Indic replacement from k through c after the concurrent from kan- and can- (see above).

References: WP. I 325 f., WH. I 169, 175, 885, 886, Pedersen Tocharian 109, 234.

Page(s): 515

---

Root / lemma: kā, ke, kom

Meaning: a kind of particle (all right?)

Material: Old Indic kām behind dative from Personen (as Dat. commodi; so also once Avestan kām) and from abstract (as final dative), also in Imper., after the particles nú, sú, hí, and in indic. main clause;

Old Church Slavic кѣ(n) with Dat. `to'.

Nasallos gr. κᾱ, κε (κεν could have ν ἐφελκυστικόν) perhaps `probably', modal particle, Slavic -ka (-ko, -ku, -ki, -kъ, -če, -čĭ, -čŭ), affixture particle esp. by Pron., through Imper. and through Adv., also probably ko- as preposition in Verbal- and nominal compound (e.g. russ. kó-vorotъ `cervical vertebra, nape');

Lithuanian -ki (perhaps originally ke), -k in Imper. (e.g. dúo-ki, -k `give !').

References: WP. I 326, Schwyzer Gr. Gr. II 568, Trautmann 111f.

Page(s): 515-516

---

Root / lemma: ked-

Meaning: to smoke, fume

Material: Old Indic kadrú- `brown', perhaps also kadamba- m. `Nauclea cadamba, a tree with orange flowers' and kādamba- m. `a kind of goose with dark grey wings';

Old Church Slavic kadilo `incense', kaditi `fume', russ. čad `haze, mist', serb. čad `be dark, gloomy, misty', čaditi `become sooty' (etc., s. Berneker 133, 467), perhaps Old Prussian accodis (**at-codis*) `Rauchloch, durch das der Rauch herauszieht';

These are placed as ' Räucherhölzer ' (?):

gr. κέδρος `juniper; later: Pinus cedrus', κεδρίς `juniper berry; fruit of cedar'; Lithuanian kadagys, Old Prussian kadegis `juniper' (borrowed from Estonian kadakas?).

Maybe alb. kedër `cedar' a Greek loanword?.

References: WP. I 384 f., Trautmann 112, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 147.

Page(s): 537

---

Root / lemma: keg-, keng- and kek-, kenk-

Meaning: hook, grappling hook, handle

Note: compare also similar Rak-, Rank-; and Renk-, Ronk-

Material: Npers. čang `claw, nail, fist' (**kengo-*);

Middle Irish ail-cheng f. `rake, weapon rack' (: Lithuanian kėngė, see below);

Germanic **hakan-*, **hōka-*, **hēkan-* m. `hook' in: Old Icelandic PN Haki m. `hook', haka f. `chin', Old English haca m. `bar, bolt', hæcce f. `crosier, crozier, bishop's staff'; Old Icelandic hākr m. `Frechling', Old High German hāko, hāggo `hook', Old English hōc m. `hook', Middle Low German hok, huk m. `angle, point, edge, foreland, promontory', Old Icelandic høkja f. (**hōkiōn-*) `crutch', høkill m. `Hinterbug'; with intensive Geminatio: Old English haccian `hacken', Middle Low German, Middle High German hacken ds., and the j-verbs: Old English ofhæccan `cut off', Old High German hecchen `bite, prick', Middle High German hecken `hew, hit, prick'; nasalized Middle Low German hank `handle, part of an object designed to be gripped by the hand' (out of it Old Icelandic hōnk m., hanki f. `handle, part of an object designed to be gripped by the hand'), Dutch honk, East Frisian hunk `picket, pole, jamb';

Germanic **hakilō* f. `hackle, heckle' (from crooked iron teeth) in: asächs. hekilon `hecheln?', engl. hatchel, Middle High German hechel `hackle, heckle', Norwegian hekla `hackle, heckle, stubble, bristle';

Germanic **hakuda-* m. `pike' (after den spitzen teeth) in Old English hacod, **hakida* in Old English hacid m., Old High German hachit, hechit, Middle Low German heket `pike';

Lithuanian kėngė f. `hook, handle';

Slavic **kogъtъ* m. in russ. kógotъ `claw, nail, crooked iron point', Upper Sorbian kocht `thorn, sting, prick' (: Germanic **hakuda-*);

Maybe alb. (**kógotь*) kthetra `claw, nail', kthej `bend, make crooked' common alb. -g- > -th-, -dh-.

perhaps here, `hang on a hook, scratch, irritate as with a hook': Bulgarian káčъ, káč(u)vam `elevate, raise, hang', za-káčъ, -káčam `hang, catch, banter', serb. zàkačiti `hook, hang', sloven. káčiti `banter, anger' (Berneker 465 f.).

Maybe alb. kacavirrem `clamber, scramble, climb up, cling' a Bulgarian loanword.

References: WP. I 382 f., WH. I 307, Trautmann 112, Wissmann Nom. postverb. 182 f., Petersson, Heterokl. 91 f.; Stokes BB. 25, 252.

Page(s): 537-538

---

Root / lemma: keid-

Meaning: to fall

Note: only Celtic and Germanic

Material: Cymr. cwyddo, di-gwyddo `fall, happen, occur', cwydd `fall', bret. koezaff `fall', di-gouezout `happen, occur';

Old Icelandic hitta á `hit, strike, hurt, meet, encounter', hitta'i `get involved into, get into', dan. hitte paa `auf etwas verfallen', Swedish hitta `find', Middle English (from Nord.) hittan `hit on something, find', engl. hit (originally `fall on something, go down, deteriorate'?).

References: WP. I 364.

Page(s): 542

---

Root / lemma: keis-

Meaning: arm; thigh

Material: Old Indic kiṣku- `forearm';

Dutch hijse, hijse f. `muscle, fillet, slice of boneless meat or fish, joint', limb. hies `popliteus, muscle located in the back of the knee';

Lithuanian kiš-kà `popliteus'; Latvian cis-ka `thigh, hip, haunch'.

References: WP. I 365, E. Lewy PBrB. 32, 140.

Page(s): 543

---

Root / lemma: keku-

Meaning: a kind of stick or cudgel

Material: Avestan čakuš- n. 'throw hammer, throw ax', npers. čakuš 'hammer';

Old Prussian queke 'stick', i.e. 'firs or spruces branch as a fence stick', Latvian čaka 'cudgel, club with knag as handle, grasp'; compare but Mühlenbach-Endzelin Latvian-D. Wb. I 401.

References: WP. I 381.

Page(s): 543

---

Root / lemma: keḷ-

Meaning: weasel

Material: Old Indic kaśa- m. kaśīkā f. 'a kind of rodent animal, weasel'; but with anlaut.

Pal. Lithuanian šėškas 'polecat', Latvian sesks ds.

Different about Lithuanian šėškaš W. Schulze Kl. Schr. 630.

References: WP. I 381.

Page(s): 543

---

Root / lemma: keḷg-

Meaning: to wind; windings, intrigue

Material: Middle Irish ce/g f. 'artifice, betrayal' (out of it cymr. ce/g 'hiding place, cover');

Armenian keṭck 'hypocrisy'; changing through ablaut Old English hylc 'curvature, convolution' and Slavic **čьlgati* in poln. czołgać się 'grovel, truckle, creep, glide, slide, drag oneself on'.

References: WP. I 447.

Page(s): 554

---

Root / lemma: kel-1, kele-

Meaning: to tower, be high; hill; *projection, protrusion

Material: Gr. κολωνός, κολώνη 'hill', κολοφών m. 'acme, apex, cusp, peak' instead of *κολαφών due to an **kolḥ-b<sup>h</sup>o-s*);

Latin ante-, ex-, prae-cellō, -ere 'jut, project, protrude, stick out' (**cel-d-ō* with present formation -d-), participle celsus 'high'; collis 'hill' (**k<sub>l</sub>ln-is* or **koln-is*); columen, culmen 'the top, summit, roof, gable' (**kelomḥ* 'elevation'), columna 'a column, pillar, post' (**kelomnā* 'the rising');

Maybe alb. (**culmen*) kulm `ridge, peak' a Latin loanword.

Maybe Italian collina : French colline `hill' > alb. kodrina `small hill', kodra `hill' common Calabrese Albanian -ll-> -dd- similar to changes in Latin axilla; ala; ascilla; ascella : Italian ascella : Spanish axial : French aisselle : Calabrese ma-scidda; sciddra; titiddra; titilla : Albanian Geg sqetlla, Tosc sqetull `armpit', common Calabrese -ll-> -dd- : Sardinian -ll-> -dd-. [see aĝes-, aks ` (fulcrum, pivot:) axis - shoulder ': from Root / lemma: aĝ- (**h<sub>2</sub>eĝ-*): `to lead '].

Middle Irish coll `head, guide, leader' (**kolnos*); gall. celicnon `tower' (out of it Gothic kelikn `tower, upper room, upper chamber, loft, upstairs room');

gallorom. calma `desolate land' is probably pre-Celtic;

Old English hyll m. f., engl. hill `hill' (**hulnis*, Indo Germanic **k<sub>1</sub>nis*); Old Saxon holm `hill', Modern High German Holm, Old English holm `island, sea wave, (high) sea', Old Icelandic holmr, holmi `small island' (**k<sub>1</sub>mo-*);

Maybe alb. kolmë `fat, big'.

Lithuanian keliù, kélti (heavy basis) `lift, raise, heave, weigh up, advance, further, aggrandize, arouse, wake, awake, rouse, open, shut, ferry, arrange, make up, excite, create, stir', Latvian ceļt `heave, life', Lithuanian iškéltas `convex, elevated'.

Note:

adjective prefix k-, e- common alb. Lithuanian.

Lithuanian kálnas, Latvian kaĩns `mountain', compare Lithuanian kalvà f. `small hill', Latvian kalva `hill, river island'; in addition Lithuanian kilti `rise, ascend, climb', iškilùs `high'.

Note:

adjective prefix k-, e- common alb. Lithuanian.

Lithuanian kilmė f. `lineage, gender, sex', kiltis and kiltis f., Latvian cīlts f. `gender, sex'; Latvian kala f. `lever'; Lithuanian kélnas m. `ferry, barge', Lithuanian kélta f., kéltas m. = kéltuvas m. `ferry'; Latvian ceļtava f. `small ferry';

Slavic **sьlnъ* m. in Serbo-Croatian čûn (Gen. čûna), 'barge', Czech člun, russ. čotn 'boat, Weberschifflein';

Old Bulgarian čelo 'forehead', russ. čeló 'forehead, head, cusp, peak' etc., russ.-Church Slavonic čelesьnъ 'that is taken before other things, particular, peculiar, especial, special, chief, principal, excellent' (originally -es-stem).

References: WP. I 433 ff., WH. I 197, 245, 249 f., 855, Trautmann 125 f.

Page(s): 544

---

Root / lemma: kel-2

Meaning: to stick; sting

Material: Old Indic kaṭambá- m. 'arrow' (**kol-to-*);

Middle Irish cuilenn, cymr. celyn, corn. kelin, m. bret. quelenn 'holly, mouse thorn, forest thistle' (Celtic **kolino-*);

Maybe alb. Geg kallini, Tosc kalliri 'ear of corn' = (Celtic **kolino-*).

Old High German hulis, huls ds., Modern High German Hulst, Middle Dutch Middle Low German huls ds. (Dutch hulst), Old English hole(g)n, engl. holly and holm-oak, Middle English also hulvir, Old Norse hulfr ds.;

Old Church Slavonic klasъ 'ear of corn' ('the piercing'), russ. kólos = alb. kall ds., kashtë (**kallshtë*), Jokl IF. 36, 124, 'straw, chaff' (-s-forms then as in huls);

alb. (Jokl IF. 37, 95) rë-kuall 'thistle' (**për-kēl* 'incision, wound, sting, prick').

g(h)-extension in Middle Irish colg 'sword, awn the barley, sting, prick', acymr. colginn 'the top of an ear, beard of corn', ncymr. cola 'awn', col 'cusp, peak, awn', colyn 'sting, prick', cal, cala, caly 'penis', bret. kalc'h ds.

Maybe alb. (**kali*) kari: Kurdish (Kurmançî): kîr m, xîr m, Kurdish (Sorani): kêr 'penis'.

On grounds of Celtic forms take Meillet MSL. 14, 374, Kretschmer KZ. 38, 100f. also an equal meaning root **kel-* 'stick, dig' an: cymr. palu 'dig', pal, corn. bret. pal 'spade' (from Latin pāla? certainly doubtful because of Ligurian pala 'grave', cymr. paladr 'spear shaft; spear; cane', also 'balk, beam, ray').

kol-no-s in Old Indic kāṇá-h durchstochen, being pierced, being poked full of holes, being perforated, being punctured, like a sieve, like a strainer, one-eyed' (**kolno-*; to ā compare Wackernagel Old Indic Gr. I 168) = Old Irish (acymr.?) coll ` with closed eye, with one eye closed, one-eyed', Middle Irish (with secondary voiced-nonaspirated) goll `blind'; changing through ablaut gr. κελλάς μονόφθαλμος Hes.

Alb. qorr `blind' : Kurdish: kor `blind' from Turkish kör `blind'.

References: WP. I 435.

See also: s. kel-3 and skel- `cut, clip'

Page(s): 545

---

Root / lemma: kel-3, kele-, klā- extended klād-

Meaning: to hit, cut down

Note: separation from kel- `prick' and from skel- `cut, clip' is barely feasible; observed esp. Slavic **kólti* `prick' = Baltic kalti `hit'.

Material: Gr. κελεός (*κελεFός) `green woodpecker' (as δρυκολάπτης); κελείς άξίνη Hes.; κελοί `ξύλα' after Hesees below κελέοντας; δίκελλα `two-pronged fork, hack, mattock, hoe'; compare σκαλίσ `hack, mattock, hoe' under skel- `cut, clip'; κόλος `mutilated, unhorned', κόλ-ουρος `with trimmed tail', κολάζω `mutilate, hinder; castigate, punish', κολουύω `mutilate; hamper'; κολετρᾶν `tread, trample on';

with formants -bo-: κολοβός `mutilate' (compare also the root form **k(e)lemb-*);

with formants -b<sup>h</sup>o-: κόλαφος `slap in the face, box on the ear, slap in the face', therefrom derived κολάπτω `hew, strike, hoe', from the heavy basis κλᾶω `break' (κλᾶσω, ἔκλᾶσα, ἀποκλάς, κλαστός), κλάσις `breaking, fracture, bending of the knee joint, modulation of the voice', κλάσμα `piece, fragment', κλήμα n. `twig, branch; a vine-twig, vine-branch, a cutting, slip', Demin. κληματίς esp. Pl. `deadwood'; κλήρος, Doric κλᾶρος m. `lot, casting of lots, drawing of lots, that which is assigned by lot, allotment of land, piece of land, farm, estate, legacy, inheritance, heritable estate, collect., body of inheritors, Astrol., certain degrees in the zodiac connected with planets and important in a nativity, province, sphere' (= Old Irish clār, cymr. clawr `board, slab', bret. kleur `Gabelbaum am Wagen');

Note:

The inanimate suffix -ur-: bret. kleur `Gabelbaum am Wagen') : Ἰλλυριοί, οἱ, Illyrians, Ἰλλυρία, ἡ, Illyria, also Ἰλλυρίς, ἡ, Adj. Ἰλλυρικός, ἡ, ὄν, Illyrian: -κή, the region or province of Illyria, Ἰλλυρίζω, speak the Illyrian language, Ἰλλυρία:--hence Adv. Ἰλλυριστί.

gr. κλών, κλωνός m. 'sprout, shoot, rod', κλώνακα ῥάβδον Hes., κλώναξ κλάδος Hes.
(close kinship to: Old Icelandic hlunnr 'rolling rollers for vehicles', hlu(m)mr 'the upper thick part of the oar' from **hlunma-*?) - κῶμαξ, -ακος m. 'cairn, pile of stones set up as a memorial or mark of some kind, rocks';

Latin calamitas 'damage' (from **calamo-* from **calimo-*, Indo Germanic **kele-mo-* 'beaten'), in addition incolumis 'unbroken, unmarred, unscathed, undamaged'; further from **kel-nō*: percellō, -culi 'to beat down, throw down, overturn, upset', se procellere 'throw oneself down', procella f. 'a violent wind, storm, hurricane, tempest', recellō 'to spring back, fly back, recoil'; not **kel-dō* because of gall. GN Su-cellus 'good stick';

Old Irish clār etc. see above S. 545;

Lithuanian kalù, kálti, Latvian kalu, kalu, kālt 'hit, forge', Lithuanian pākalas 'scythe wedge', prīe-, prei-kālas 'anvil, incus', Old Prussian kalo-peilis 'chopping knife, mincer', Lithuanian káltas 'chisel', Old Prussian calte 'unit of currency (coin)', i.e. 'beaten, struck, hit = the stamped currency', Lithuanian kálvis 'smith', causative Lithuanian káldinti 'allow to forge', Latvian kāldīt ds.; Lithuanian kuliù, kùlti 'thrash', Latvian kul'u, kūlu, kūlt 'hit, thrash'; Lithuanian kélmās 'stump', could also be 'cut, carved, split';

Maybe alb. kalit 'forge' a Slavic loanword.

Old Bulgarian etc. koljō klati 'prick, slaughter' (Old Bulgarian also 'sacrifice'), russ. kolótʹ 'prick, slaughter; split, hack'; Old Bulgarian kolъ 'peg, plug', russ. koť, Gen. koťá 'shaft, picket, pole', ablaut. **kъъ* in klr. koť (Gen. kľa) 'canine tooth, sharp tooth, fang', sloven. kěl (Gen. klā); Czech klanice 'shaft, pole', poln. kłonica 'Seitenholz am Wagen' (in participle **kolno-* being based on klati); serb. kláto 'kind of neck yoke for swine', Czech klát 'stump, clot, chunk, club, cudgel' (= Lithuanian káltas see above); Church Slavic pro-kléju, -klěti 'germinate', russ. (etc.) klin 'wedge' (formation as mlinъ to meljō); doubtful Slavic **kolt-jō*, -iti in Old Bulgarian klaštō, klatiti 'move, shake, bump, poke', russ. koločú, kolotít 'hit, knock; chatter' etc.; whether in addition zero grade r. koltátʹsja 'move, wobble, sway'?

Maybe alb. kolovit 'shake, swing' a Slavic loanword.

d-extension keləd-, klād-:

Gr. κλαδρός (**kləd<sub>e</sub>ros*) 'frail, breakable; decrepit, antiquated', κλαδάσαι σεῖσαι Hes., ablaut. καλαδία ῥυκάνη Hes., κλάδος m. 'twig, branch', conservative d-stem *κλάς, κλάδεσι etc. ds., κλαδών, -ονος Hes. ds., κλαστάζω 'dress vines, cut grapevine';

Latin clādēs f. `injury; damage, mischief, beating ';

Middle Irish claidim `ditch, grub' (with ad- `pursue, hunt, chase, fish, catch fish ' etc.), cymr. claddu, bret. claza `dig', Middle Irish clad, cymr. cladd `ditch, trench, channel'; lengthened grade cymr. clawdd, corn. claud `ditch, trench, channel', bret. kleuz `ditch, trench, channel, hedge ' (**klādo-*); cymr. cleddyf `sword', bret. klézé `sword, blade' (cleddyf diss. from **cleđyō*, Celtic **kladjos*), Irish claideb is loanword from Cymr., Latin gladius `sword' from Celtic;

Middle Irish caill (Gen. caille) `wood, forest', cymr. celli `wood, forest', corn. kelli `a tract of woodland, forest pasture, meadow with shade, grove ' (Celtic **kaldī*);

Old Irish cymr. coll, bret. koll `ruin, damage'; Middle Irish cellach `war, fight' and those related to it Old Icelandic hildrf. `fight, struggle, fight goddess ', Old Saxon Old English hild `struggle, war, fight', Old High German hiltia, hilta `fight, struggle' have Indo Germanic -dh- and probably as basic meaning `hit, lash out ';

Gothic halts, Old Icelandic haltr, Old English healt, Old High German halz `lame' (= Old Irish coll, basic meaning `broken '), perhaps at first from fragmented limbs;

Old Icelandic Old English holt, Old High German holz `wood, forest' (= κλάδος), in addition Old Icelandic hjalt n. `the hilt of a sword ', Old English hilt f. ds., Old High German helza `the hilt of a sword, haft ', Old Saxon helta `handle in the oar ';

Old Bulgarian klada `balk, beam, block ', russ. kolóda `chunk of wood, clot, chunk, tree block, from a chopped piece trunk ' etc.; Church Slavic kladivo `hammer' (proto Slavic **klād-*: Latin clādēs).

Labial extension:

klomb(h)o- in: gr. κλαμβός `mutilated', Old English laempi-halt, lamp-healt `lame ' (Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 262); compare Lithuanian klumbas `lame'.

References: WP. I 436 ff., WH. I 135 f., 225 f., 691, Specht Indo Germanic Dekl. 130 f., 262, 322, Trautmann 114 f.

Page(s): 545-547

---

Root / lemma: kel-4 and kāl-

Meaning: a kind of dark/light spot

Note: compare also ker-3 and kers-1.

Material: I. Old Indic kalaṅka- m. `stain, Rost', kalana- n. `stain, smut', káluṣa- `dirty, filthy, black', kalmaṣa- m. `stain, smut', kalmāṣa- `varicolored, dappled'; with formants -ko-: karka- `white', m. `mildew', karkī vaśā `white cow', karkā `white mare' (Persson Beitr. 169), kalkā- m. `ordure, filth', cāṣa- m. `the blaue Holzhäher' (**kel-so-*);

npers. čarma `mildew', Kurdish čerme `white' (: Swiss helm);

gr. κελαινός `black', κιλλός `gray', κίλλος `donkey' and `cicada' (vowel as in πιλνός besides πελιός; -λλ- from -λν-?); very probably κόλυμβος (**kolu-mb<sup>h</sup>os*) `diver (bird's kind)', whereof κολυμβάω `dive', called from the dark color; here also κίλλουρος `wagtail' Hes.;

Latin columba f., -us m. `a dove, pigeon' from **kol-on-b<sup>h</sup>o-* or **kolu-mb<sup>h</sup>o-*, then identical with κόλυμβος; to -mb- from -mb<sup>h</sup>- s. Schwyzler Gr. Gr. I 333;

Modern High German Swiss helm `weißer stain beim Vieh auf the forehead', helme `name of a cow with white-mottled head', Swedish dial. hjälm `white ox or white horse' (compare to *m-*forms Old Indic kalmaṣa-); probably Middle High German hilwe f. `fine fog', Bavarian gehilb `fog, Herdrauch' (-w- in relationship to u from Old Indic káluṣa-h), wherefore Old High German huliwa `moisture, dampness, swamp, marsh, bog, mud', Middle High German hülwe `puddle, slop, pool, swamp' stands in ablaut; here (from the black berries) also Old High German holuntar, holantar `elder', Old Swedish hulle ds.; s. Berneker 473 m. Lithuanian, the also for russ. kalína `Viburnum opulus, common snowball' considers affiliation to kaľ (see below).

II. root form kāl- : kəl- (with unclear relationship to kel-):

Gr. κηλῖς, -ῖδος (Doric kālῖς) `stain', κηλιδῶω `sully, dirty, soil', κηλήνη μέλαινα Hes., κηλάς νεφέλη ἄνυδρος καὶ χειμερινή ἡμέρα καὶ αἶξ, ἥτις κατὰ τὸ μέτωπον σημεῖον ἔχει πυλοειδές Hes.;

Latin cālidus, callidus (Gl.) `warm, hot, fiery, rash, eager, spirited, fierce, impassioned, vehement, hasty, rash, practised, shrewd, experienced, adroit, dexterous' \(from horses) =* Umbrian kaleřuf (buř) `adroit, (oxen)'; Latin cālīgo f. `fog, darkness';

Old Irish caile, Middle Irish gaile `stain';

Lithuanian kalýbas, kalývas `weißhalsig';

Old Church Slavic ka/b `dark-coloured, ordure' with the meaning `swamp, marsh, morass, smudge with ordure'; in addition (after the paint, color) russ. kalína `Viburnum opulus, common snowball', as also sloven. kalina `puddle, slop' and russ. kalú-ga `morass', kalú-ža `puddle'.

Maybe alb. kaush `cup' a Slavic loanword.

